"Are you?" she asked doubtfully, and with a mental reservation against Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph for outraging the traditions of childhood by sending a Father Christmas in this dapper form. "Won't you sit down?" she added politely.

Mr. Milyuns hung poised for a second longer, and then advanced on the couch decisively, sat down on one end of it, and waved his hand at the other. Tomlinson slipped in and out, bearing the breakfast-tray away. Pamela accepted Mr. Milyuns' silent invitation and seated herself, but tentatively, as though she could only stay for a minute.

"Make yourself comfortable, my dear," said Mr. Milyuns; "I'm going to talk to you for some time."

"You can't," said Pam; "not here. I only have the flat for six minutes longer. That is, I only pro-promised to stay here until ten." Her eyes wandered half expectantly, half wistfully to the door.

The bird-man smiled.

"We'll see about that," he said. "I'm sorry you don't remember me. If you are indeed Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton, I used to take you on my knee often, many years ago."

Pamela could no longer be startled by such announcements.

"That's what Tomlinson said this morning," she remarked. "Ever since last night, everybody I meet seems to—to know my real name. I don't understand it."

"Please trust me," said Mr. Milyuns, "and you'll soon understand a lot more than that." He drew a slip from his pocket. "Now, do answer me carefully. Tell me the addresses of the first four places you and Maggie lived in after your father died."

"I can't remember the first," said Pam, but, after a second's thought, rattled off the names of three streets, and located addresses approximately by describing nearby corners prominent to a child's mind for one reason or another. "Those are the next three," she said. "After that, we went—"

But Mr. Milyuns was satisfied.

"That's enough for formalities, my dear. I'm convinced that you are the person for whom the firm of Milyuns, Branch & Milyuns has been searching for years. Do you remember your great-uncle, Asa Thornton?"

"Yes," said Pamela, a vague wonder and terror in her eyes; "but I didn't know he was real."

"'Didn't know he was real!'" exclaimed Mr. Milyuns. "What do you mean?"

"Maggie used to say," explained Pamela, "'If you're not good, your great-uncle, Asa Thornton, will catch you, and he hasn't cut his finger nails since your poor father married your dear mother.'" Pamela shuddered.

"You'll have to forget all that," said Mr. Milyuns soberly. "Before your great-uncle died, he repented very effectively of the way he treated your father, and left you an income of ten thousand dollars a year."

Pamela sat up very straight, and then sank slowly into the pillows at her back.

"'Ten — thousand — dollars — a — year'!" she repeated slowly.

Mr. Milyuns nodded.

"Beginning with today. There is no accumulation waiting for you, because, by the terms of the will, Mr. Randolph was allowed the entire income up to such time as you should be discovered. That provision was quite natural, if you will remember that Mr. Asa Thornton had been searching for you unsuccessfully for some months before he died."

Pamela sat up straight again.

"I want to understand you," she said with a sudden dignity that increased Mr. Milyuns' admiration, already decidedly on the upgrade. "You mean that, with my appearance, Mr. Randolph's entire income completely disappears?"

Mr. Milyuns nodded.

"You have guessed it in one," he said flippantly.

"I don't need ten thousand dollars a year," said Pamela promptly. "You will please tell Mr. Randolph that I shall only take half."

Mr. Milyuns smiled.

"I'll try to carry out your orders," he said blandly, "but I'll have to find Mr. Randolph first. Let me add that you apparently don't know the young gentleman very well."

"What do you mean by that?" asked Pam.

(Continued next week)

St. Olaf Concert Band

J. ARNDT BERGH, Director

FROM

St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota

THIRTIETH CONSECUTIVE SEASON

For the past sixteen years this organization has made annual tours through the Middle Western States. Besides the annual tours several extended tours have also been undertaken, one through the eastern part of the country and thence on to Norway. The Old World was given an opportunity to learn something of the attainments of our college young men. Thirty-five concerts were given abroad on this tour, and the band returned with innumerable tokens of a most successful tour, not the least prized of which were the very flattering press comments.

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL TOUR

High School Auditorium---BELMOND, Iowa

Seats 50c On Sale at State Bank, C. G. Johnson's Store, O. T. Jacobson's Store

Under Auspices of Trinity Church Choir

MONDAY 8:15 P. M. MAY 9

The Belmond Independent Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

Belmond Local News

Cho-Cho the health clown will be at the school house this week Friday evening, in his lecture to the children.

—I—

This vicinity has been experiencing some queer weather the past few days. Sunday it rained all day and part of the night, then the weather turned cold and the first of the week it froze hard. Some of the gardens which had been planted early were a sorry looking spectacle in places.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Thayne Bailey were callers at Klemme one day last week.

—I—

Miss Loretta Hood was a visitor with friends at Klemme one day last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chamberlain are the proud and happy parents of twin boys, born on Thursday night of last week. Both mother and babes are doing nicely. The Independent extends its congratulations to friend bert and wife in their good fortune.

—I—

Louis Tokman went to Chicago Monday evening, to drive back a new Ford car.

—I—

Mrs. Floyd Lewis from Minnesota has been a guest at the home of her mother, Mrs. Val Griesy, for the past week or so.

—I—

Mrs. George Chamberlain was a visitor at Klemme last week one day.

—I—

Johnson & Wright finished moving to their new building last week Saturday, and are now located ready for business in their splendid new store.

—I—

Mrs. Wilson of Clarion was a recent guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Holden Nelson, of this place.

—I—

F. W. Trowbridge has removed his family and household goods to another location, moving last week. He was engaged in the plumbing business here.

—I—

Floyd Case has moved from this place back to Clarion, where he will make his future home.

Among the items which the Independent was forced to leave out last week was the illness of Gene Kinney. Mr. Kinney has been on the sick list for several weeks, suffering from bronchial trouble, but is reported as being somewhat better at this writing. He was pretty sick for a time.

—I—

Henry Schulte and family accompanied by Mrs. Murphy and son Charles, and Miss Alice Sunkten, all of Alexander, drove over to this city last week Thursday to visit Miss Henrietta Pastour, who underwent an operation last week at the hospital here for acute appendicitis.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Healey left last week on their return trip to their home at Long Beach, California, after attending the funeral of G. H. Richardson, and visiting a few days with friends here. They stopped for a few days with friends and relatives in Des Moines before going on to California. Mr. Healey stated that they would probably return to this place sometime during the summer on another trip.

—I—

WE APPOLOGIZE

The Independent was sort of balled up last week on its layout and news. The linotype went on the bum and in the resulting trouble there was much left undone, and several news items had to be cut to the shortest possible amount in order to get them into type. A linotype is like an automobile in some respects: they are a fine thing as long as they are working right, but something else again when they aren't.

—I—

Want to borrow $100 for one year. Will pay 8 per cent interest. Address B6, care of Independent.

—I—

I have opened a shop again and solicit a part of your repair work.—Nordschow Motor company.

—I—

The personal property of D. B. Harris, consisting of cattle, horses and machinery, will be sold at public sale at the Rowan Sales Pavillion on Saturday, May 7. Sale will start at 2:00 o'clock p. m. Usual terms.

—I—

The St. Olaf Concert band which will be here on next week Monday, May 9, is reputed one of the best organizations of the kind in the country. They have very good press references, and especially on the expression which they put into their playing. The band comes here under the auspices of the Trinity choir and the Independent doesn ot hesitate to endorse them to the people of Belmond and vicinity.

Board and Room

$9.00 a Week

Single Meals 35c, all Good Home Cooking
Rooms by the Week from $2.00 to $4.00
Rooms by the Night 50c, 75c, $1.00

We also have 3 rooms to rent for Light Housekeeping. Our rooms have been Re-painted and are Clean and Sanitary.

Home Hotel

Mrs. Anna B. Foster, Prop.

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 | BELMOND, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 11th 1921 | NO. 25

CONTRACT IS LET FOR NEW COUNTRY CLUB

First Ball Game Goes To Mason City By 4 To 2

First Game Of Season Proves Hot One And Keeps Immense Crowd On Their Toes.

NEW PITCHER HAS THE GOODS

The first ball game of the season went to Mason City, Sunday, by a score of 4 to 2, after one of the finest pitching battles ever held on the local diamond.

The game was red hot from start to finish, and was not finished until the last man was out in the 10th inning. In the first inning, Mason City secured two good hard swats at the ball, and one of them being a homer forced in a run ahead of it, making the score 2 to 0, where it remained until the lucky seventh, when Belmond combined some solid clean hits with a long fly and some errors and tied the score. Not another run was made on either side until the game went into the extra inning.

It was a pitchers thruout, and Belmond's heaver, Pillmer, had none the worst of the deal. After the first inning, he held the hard-hitting Independents down, and while they secured several more hits, they never could get them close enough together to make them count.

Pillmer demonstrated that he has the goods when it comes to pitching; he fielded like a big leaguer, and at the bat he was number one. It is understood that the local team will employ him for the season, and those who saw him work in the first game will say it is a wise choice.

There was an immense crowd present, and everything was orderly and clean thruout.

LOCAL MAN TO GRAND JURY ON INCEST CHARGE

One of the most revolting, brutal and beastly crimes that has ever been brought to public attention came up for trial last Saturday in the city court, when Tom Ersland of this city was arrested on the charge of incest, his victim being his 14-year-old girl. When the facts became known, the city and county authorities took immediate measures to bring the inhuman fiend to justice. He has been working in Minnesota, and a fake letter was sent him which brought him home on the midnight train last Friday night, when Nightwatchman Rierson met him with handcuffs and lodged him in jail. He was given a trial the next morning, bound over to the grand jury on $2,000 bonds, and the sheriff took him to the jail at Clarion, none too soon, from the reports, for violence of an extreme naure was brewing. The maximum sentence which can be given Ersland is 25 years, which it would seem was about 975 years too short. It is alleged that the crime has been committed for the past three years, and that he forced his daughter to obey him, threatening her life if she ever told, and it was only upon the most emphatic promise of future protection from her father that the girl gave the authorities information.

SAMPSON SELLS MOVIE

Joe Sampson was in town one day last week meeting old friends, and while here informed them that he had just recently disposed of his moving picture theatre at Ackley, possession being given the new proprietor immediately. Joe also stated that his parents have sold their Variety Store at Ackley. Joe says the future plans of both he and his parents are yet to be decided. We hope that both families decide to come back to Belmond, their former home.

The Independent wishes to correct an item in the Community club notes as printed last week, where it was stated that $10 had been spent for shrubrey at the city hall. It should have been $80.

OBITUARY

ILENE GERTRUDE CAMPBELL

Ilene Gertrude Campbell, youngest daughter of John D. and Gertrude Campbell, was born June 4, 1908, and died May 4, 1921, at the age of 12 years anl 11 months. She underwent an operation for appendicitis at the local hospital April 19, and was apparantly recovering nicely when she developed scarlet fever April 25, since when she made a brave struggle for life, but death came Wednesday night.

Ilene was a bright and cheerful girl and altho but 12 years of age in many ways seemed to have the judgement and wisdom of one at least five or six years older. She had finished the eighth grade work and was ready to enter high school next fall. The number of letters she received from the girls and older women and the callers she had while in the hospital together with the many beautiful flowers sent her, all indicate that everyone who knew her counted her as a very dear friend. She was never afraid of what might come to her but was always considerate of others. Just a short time before death came she told her mother how much she loved her and that she was going to die. Then she twice beautifully repeated the Lord's prayer, which was almost her last words.

"Will they meet us, cheer and greet us,
Those we've loved, who've gone before?
Shall we find them at the portals,
Find our beautiful immortals,
When we reach that radiant shore?

"Hearts are broken for some token,
That they live and love us yet;
And we ask, 'Can those who've left us
Of love's look and tone bereft us,
Tho in Heaven, can they forget?"

Besides her father and mother, Ilene leaves to mourn her departure one sister, Rhea, grandfather and grandmother Campbell of Clarion, grandmother Dice of Cedar Rapids, an a number of other relatives and many friends.

Interment was made in Franklin Grove cemetery and funeral services conducted by Rev. J. H. Edge at the grave.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us in every way possible, for the kindness and sympathy shown to us, and for the many beautiful flowers given to Ilene during her illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Campbell.
Rhea Campbell.

RICHARD TEMBY

Richard Temby was born December 12, 1849, in Linden township, Iowa county, Wisconsin, and died May 5, 1921, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. N. Davenport, at Belmond, Iowa, at the age of 71 years, 4 months and 23 days. On February 2, 1870 Mr. Temby was united in marriage tc Miss Viola H. Sherman. To this union were born four children, two daughters, Mrs. Hannah A. Davenport of Belmond, Iowa, Mrs. Maude E. Rosenau of Ventura, Iowa, and two sons, Archie J. of Butte Creek, Montana, and Richard B. of Belmond, Iowa. Mr. Temby was preceeded in death by his wife May 3, 1914.

Mr Temby came to Iowa about 39 years ago and located at Belmond, which has been his residence ever since, living part of the time on the farm south of town and the last few years in town. His death marks the going of another of the old time residents of the community. He was a man that was never afraid of hard work and doing well what he put his hand to.

His last sickness has lasted thru several months, during which time he has suffered a great deal. Besides the children above mentioned Mr. Temby leaves to mourn his death seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren and other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. H. Edge, pastor of the Methodist church, at the church, on Sunday afternoon and interment was made in Franklin Grove cemetery, the I. O. O. F. lodge having charge of the service at the grave.

No Race Suicide Is Advocated By This Cow

Bossy At Ralph Christie Farm Gives Birth To Four Perfectly Sound And Hungry Calves.

MANY VISITORS COME TO SEE

One of the most unusual and unnatural "freaks of nature" that has happened for some time, occurred at the farm of Ralph Christie last week, when on Tuesday, May 3, a cow owned by Christie gave birth to quadruplet calves.

The four calves are all perfectly formed, and are all healthy, busy youngsters. Each individual calf is as sound and frisky as any ordinary calf, and makes just as much out of life. Three of them are white, and the other a dark roan in color.

The cow is a high grade Short Horn and while not eligible to registry is nevertheless a very fine animal.

MYSTERIOUS FIRES HAVE CLARION FOLKS GUESSING

The farm home of Geo. Sheffield, east of the fair grounds, was the scene of a series of six separate fires within three day's time last week. The first occurred in an unused room of the second floor and was discovered before any material damage had been done. This was on Wednesday afternoon. That evening about six o'clock a small blaze was found among the kindlings in the basement. Thursday morning about 10 o'clock the hired man's bed was found on fire, only the mattress and some clothing being destroyed. About two hours later the hay loft of the barn was ablaze. This happened while neighbors were in the yard yet discussing the first fire of the day. They were only about one hundred feet from the building when smoke was seen coming from the roof. It was all ablaze in a minute and soon destroyed. The little daughter had taken a smaller brother to the barn a few minutes before to see a new calf. Mr. Sheffield is of the opinion that some one with a grudge against him set the fires. Others have different opinions and it is probably the whole matter will be explained in the near future as the state fire marshal has been sent for. Mr. Sheffield's loss foots up fully $10,000 with only a trifle over $3,000 insurance. In addition to the barn, hog house, corn crib, he lost several hundred bushels of corn and oats, also three horses, a cow and calf, and some pigs.—Monitor.

STATE DEMONSTRATION AGENT GIVES LECTURE

Pleasant Township Leads In Point Of Numbers In Attendance At Demonstration.

Miss Bertha Holden, state leader of Home Demonstration Agents for Iowa, spent two days last week in conducting lectures and demonstrations on the subjects "Household Accounts" and "Home Equipment."

Pleasant township seems to have lead in point of attendance at these demonstrations, there being about 25 ladies present at the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. J. F. Henn, Tuesday afternoon, May 3. After Miss Holden's lecture the ladies of Pleasant township turned the meeting into an informal social and a very delightful afternoon was enjoyed by all. A short business session was held for the purpose of outlining the social activities of the township for the summer season after which ice cream and cake were served by the entertainment committee.

Among those ladies present at the meeting were: Mesdames E. Traeger, H. Loats, Ed. Murphy, M. Aigley, W. Eiler, W. Braner, M. Frohling, J. Dorenkamp, M. Halfwassen, Herman Meinders, C. Groen, F. Gartz, J. Walzing, A. C. Myers, H. Pals, and the Misses Grace Gartz, Allie Pals, Muriel Gartz, Velma Braner, and Dorothy Gartz.

Court House News

Monitor: Court adjourned Friday until Tuesday. It is thought the work of the term will be concluded today.

Marriage licenses for the past week: Stanley Anderson and Beulah Lester, Edward Hood and Agnes Julia Finn.

A land case from Troy township occupied the attention of the court and attorneys yesterday. Tierney and Monaghan vs. Oberhelman were the parties concerned.

The man and woman who stole the Middleton truck at Eagle Grove are still in the county jail. Unless they change their minds and plead guilty to a county attorney's indictment they must remain in jail until next October.

At their regular session on Monday the board of supervisors appointed a new set of appraisers on the two drainage projects at Dows, known as the Severe and Cole drains. The matter will come up for a rehearing in July.

Judge Thompson fined Geo. Ruhl $100 and costs for selling intoxicating liquors contrary to law. Nearly fifty bottles of whiskey and home made beer were captured. Harry Jackson, also charged with booze selling and John Ruhl, held on a nuisance charge have been bound over to the grand jury. They also hail from Belmond.

Safely hidden away somewhere in Clarion are two gallon jugs containing corn whiskey. A couple of strangers were passing thru town the other night when Sheriff Lang and Marshal Leonard were attracted by their actions. They followed the fellows and came upon them unannounced. It so startled them that they left their suitcase and ran and the officers are wondering if they will return to claim their property.

Another booze case comes from Eagle Grove. A stranger who drove his car into town without lights, which resulted in his undoing, is being held to the grand jury. He is out on a $500 bond furnished by relatives at Clare. Mayor Baker fined him $5.00 for not having his lights lit. The fellow paid it and started to go. His Honor said "wait a minute." Then he fined him $25.00 for resisting an officer, said officer had started to search the car after hearing some bottles rattle when the machine was taken to the garage. The fellow had to be clubbed into submission. Then the mayor again set him back $25.00 for having forty or more bottles of booze in his possession and finally held him to the grand jury. The end is not yet.

The suit of John Orr, a minor, who alleged injuries from an automobile accident in Eagle Grove, was dismissed at plaintiff's costs.

In the matter of the assignment of Johnson & Knutson, restaurant men of Clarion, court awarded D. H. Eyler assignee, compensation at the rate of 10 per cent of proceeds of sales of personal property of $318.79 and G. R. Hill attorney for assignee $200 in full of all services rendered. W. E. Jamison suing Harm Menke was given verdict for $215 and interests and costs of attorney's fee fixed at $25.

Lillian Nelson was divorced from Roy Nelson and awarded the two minor children, Rosella and Donald Nelson; also alimony of $25 per month and an additional $25 per month for the support of the children. Court found her allegations that Nelson had so conducted himself as to endanger her health and render it unsafe for her to live with him were correct. Defendant is also to pay costs of the suit. —Clipper.

WRIGHT COUNTY DOCTORS MAKE REDUCTION IN FEES

The doctors of the county in attendance at the tubercular clinic held at the court house Friday closed the day with an informal session of their own at Hotel Moore that evening. The main business considered was the reduction of fees, and hereafter it will be somewhat cheaper to be indisposed as the following schedule of prices will show.

The fee for a day call has been reduced from $3.00 to $2.50; night calls from $5.00 to $4.00; mileage on account of bad roads from $2.00 to $1.50; fraternal insurance fees from $5.00 to $3.00.—Monitor.

CONTRACT FOR BUILDING GOES TO CLARION MAN

New Country Club House Contract Now Let And Structure Expected To Be Completed By July.

HOUSE TO COST ABOUT $8,000

Original Plans Changed Somewhat—Grounds Now In Fine Shape, Especially Golf Course.

The contract for the Country Club at Cornelia was let a week or so ago to John Mayer Co. of Clarion.

The contract price was about eight thousand dollars. Construction of the club house is to begin immediately and it is expected that the club house will be ready for occupancy about the 4th of July.

The house will be constructed of brick and hollow tile, and the plans for the structure have been somewhat changed from the original plan first considered. The building as now contracted will be about 40 x 22 in the main part, with a south wing containing the dinging room, also 40 x 22 in size. There will be a porch 40 x 16. The showers, lockers, etc., for both men and women, will be located in the basement, in the ends.

The grounds are now in good shape, especially the golf links, where the members are now enjoying the sport. To date there are about 70 members in the club, but more are to be taken in later, it is understood. When the house is completed and everything fixed up in the shape planned, the club will be one of the best in the state and the source of much rest and recreation to the members.

COUTNY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTINON AT ROWAN

The County Sunday School Association will hold its 46th annual convention at Rowan, in the M. E. church on Tuesday the 17th, and it is desired that a large delegation from Belmond attend. The program is as follows:

1:30—Registration and social hour.

2:00—Devotional period, led by Rev. J. H. Edge.

Address—Religion and the Rising Generation, by Rev. W. L. Breaw.

3:30—Round Table.

Sectional conferences at 4:00. Adult led by Walter Hutton of Des Moines, and discussion led by Rev. Dr. E. O. Elliot of Dows, Mrs. Wm. Tyrrell, Jr., Belmond, and Ida Campbell, Clarion.

Elementary under the leadership of Mrs. R. M. Smallpage, Eagle Grove, and discussion led by Mrs. L. W. Breaw, Dows, Mrs. Hattie Simpson Galt, and Mrs. Fern Perry, Clarion.

4:30 address: Our Source of Power, Rev. J. B. Walker, Clarion. 5:00 free social hour and basket picnic. 7:30 devotional period, Rev,. S. U. Leinbach.

8:00, Address, Religious Efficiency of the Church and Sunday School, Rev. A. H. Waalkes, Belmond.

8:30, Worship in the Church School, Walter Hutton, Des Moines.

Special music will be provided and a general good helpful time is assured. Let all who possibly can attend this convention.

RECENT CHANGES IN PROPERTY

Among the recent changes in property in this vicinity have been listed the following:

E. L. Madsen and wife to G. H. Klemme, n 1-2 lots 3-4 blk 3, Belmond, $1,400.

J. W. Azeltine and wife to Etta R. Meyer, sw 1-4, pt N1-2 se 1-4 sec 24 91 23 s and w of Iowa river, $1.00.

George F. Meyers and wife to J. W. Azeltine, sw 1-4 sec 20, s 1-2 se 1-4 sec 20-90-23, $1.00.

L. L. Putnam and wife to Iowa Valley Sugar Co., lot 6 blk 23, Belmond, $4,800.

Effie M. Klemme and H. J. Klemme to Chas. Cramer, lot 20 blk 2 Barry add to Belmond, $200.

Ona Locke and husband to S. D. Luick, lot 5 blk 6, 1st add to Belmond, $1.00.

FREE AIR!

There have been some good names suggested for Spruce street, one of which of course will be chosen, and cost this sheet five bucks. Worth it, however.

Fellow gave us a handle the other day which, altho a good one, and very appropriate—in a way—we are a bit afraid won't win the prize.

He says call it Moonshine Avenue. Not so bad, what?

At that, he came pretty near hitting the target. Which has been, at times, very aptly applied.

The suggestion ought to be worthy of a prize of some sort, something in keeping with the idea.

So we are going to give the donor thereof a bottle of pop.

Name yer pizen, Frank.

And the council, you will notice by reading the paper this week, has gone and helped old Noah Webster out of a hole. In Noah's time—not the ark days, we don't mean, just the dark ones—there wa'n't no sich animal as a bootlegger; every man made and kept his own private stock and brand. Them were the happy days, especially for the family.

Consequently when Noah built the dictionary he failed to include therein the definition of a bootlegger.

Said bootlegger being a latter-day addition to science, the council goes to work and defines his breed, family tree and conduct.

It's all right; some of us didn't know just what a bootlegger was. We knew he was some relation of a skunk, and almost as decent as a pole cat, but we never felt like insulting either of those varmits by comparing a bootlegger to 'em. The city dads have relieved a lot of us from an embarrassing position.

Which shows that city councils are worth something after all.

That reminds us, a certain merchant in this town, who shall be nameless for the sake of safety, recently shipped a box of matches, which was clothing, to Minnesota.

He said they were matches. Then he said they were clothing. And it turned out that they were neither. They were 135 pounds of simon pure guaranteed under the pure food and drugs act, raisins.

Somebody in Minnesota must be going to have a lot of pies, or headaches.

It's almost shameful the way they are treating those poor fish who hunt a wet spot to wet their gills.

Take it at Eagle Grove last week. Fellow over there, driving thru, got pulled for running without lights. The mayor soaked him $25. While he was relieving the guy's bank roll, the cop goes to snooping 'round and uncovers 40 quarts of knock-'em-stiff hootch in the fellow's car. Then the mayor soaks him another 25 and gives him an invitation to call on the grand jury.

And at Clarion the cops scart a couple of fellows so badly that they went off and left two quarts of real honest-to-goodness bottled in bond genuine corn likker.

And they say this is a free country. What has become of our personal liberty?

Lost—One set of individual personal liberty. Finder please return to the first man he meets with a dry look.

And he ought to find plenty of folks to answer the description.

We notice by the Congregational church notes this week that the Reverend thinks we need glasses. Or maybe its glass eyes, or somethin'. Mebbe.

Personally, we never fell sorry if a man doesn't see things exactly as we do; we admit his right to see 'em his way. Difference in vision, or in distinguishing, if you prefer, is what makes life worth living.

Ho, hum; guess we'll go fishin'.

We haven't received the name to that letter we spoke of, yet.

Owing to the power being off all Tuesday afternoon The Independent was unable to get out on time. The paper was therefor held over until Wednesday, in order that the news might come to our readers while it was "fresh laid" and not a week old.

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

STATE DEMONSTRATION AGENT HERE

Miss Holden, state leader of the home demonstration agents, lectured to the ladies of Vernon township at the home of Mrs. Glen Knox, Wednesday forenoon, May 4, and altho the forenoon is a poor time to attempt holding of a demonstration there were about 15 ladies present. The ladies of Vernon brought up a number of interesting subjects for discussion and those who had an opportunity to hear Miss Holden feel that her lecture was very practical and very interesting.

The ladies of Blaine township enjoyed Miss Holden's lecture at the home of Mrs. Ray Cramer, Wednesday afternoon, May 4. Miss Holden's familiarity with her subjects and the intense interest shown by the ladies present are both responsible for the success of this meeting. A number of questions of vital interest to the ladies of this community arose and those who had the pleasure of hearing Miss Holden expressed the thought that they would like to have had Miss Holden with them for twice the length of time it was possible for her to spare.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU PICNIC

At the last regular meeting of the board of directors of the Whight County Farm Bureau, which was held at the county agent's office on Saturday, April 30, it was decided unanimously that instead of having a farm bureau banquet they would hold a county wide picnic some time during the month of June, probably about the 10th.

Harry Sumners, president of the local farm bureau, appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. Anna Overbaugh, Mrs. E. E. Evens and Mrs. M. L. Clark to take charge of and be responsible for putting on a successful picnic. The executive committee has appointed the following persons as chairmen of the various sub-committees, it being understood that they will be allowed to select as many assistants as they deem necessary. Music committee: Dwight Ketchum; vocal: N. L. Vanderlip; instrumental: athletic committee: J. H. Abernathy; grounds committee: Harry Sumners. No definite arrangements have been made as yet for securing a speaker for the occasion but the following speakers named in the order of their preference as expressed by the executive committee are being considered for this occasion: Ex-Secretary of Agriculture E. T. Meredith, E. H. Cunningham, secretary Iowa Farm Bureau federation, J. F. Coupe, assistant secretary Iowa Farm Bureau federation, Eugene Schaffter, senator from this district. Everyone is urged to bring a basket lunch and come prepared to have a riproaring good time. The date and place for holding this picnic have not been definitely arranged, but will be announced probably in next week's papers.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUB WORK

The directors of our local farm bureau have decided to organize the boys and girls' club work in the county. It has been suggested that in order that the farm bureau organization function properly and most effecient-ly it should consider the developement of the boys and girls along the agricultural lines.

Miss Hazel Spencer of Grant township has volunteered her services to the farm bureau to give what assistance she can in starting out the girls' club work. Arrangements have been made to have Miss Josephine Arnquist, state leader of girls' club work, come to the county to assist Miss Spencer and the county agent in establishing the girls' club work in this county. Definite announcement regarding the kinds of clubs which will be organized cannot be made at this time, but there will probably be canning clubs, sewing clubs and many other kinds of girls' clubs formed when the final plans are made.

The boys' club work of the county is to be expanded during the coming season also. Beginning this year boys are urged to begin preparing for an acre of corn contest next year. Every boy who wishes to enter this contest should begin this year preparing his acre of ground by fertilizing and preparing the soil properly for next year's crop. There will probably be three prizes given in the acre corn contest next year.

Any boy or girl in Wright county between the ages of 10 and 18 years is eligible to membership in the different club organizations. Any girl or boy between the ages indicated above, who is interested in the club work and would like to become a member, is urged to write or see the county agent at once.

TO ENTER RAT KILLING CRUSADE

Here is your chance to win $100. Any person in Wright county, man or woman, boy or girl, killing the highest number of rats between now and June 15th may win the $100 prize which is being offered by the Des Moines Register.

This rat killing crusade which was started by the Des Moines daily is being taken up by the farm bureaus, banks, and civic bodies of the state and the $100 prize which was offered originally by the Register is being added to by these various organizations until at present the amount of prize money has been increased to over $500

Let's go, boys, by making a special effort to see how many hats you can kill between now and June 15th and bring the $100 prize to Wright county. Those who enter this contest are asked to save the rat's tails and on or before June 15th bring them to the county agent's office for the final checking up. We will, no doubt, have some interesting tales of how the boys secured the tails.

FARMER WANTS FAIR CHANCE

The average intelligent, patriotic farmer is not asking for special privileges. If proper regulatory laws insure him a free and open field for the exercise of his ability he will establish a place in the commercial world which will be not only a source of credit and profit to himself, but also to the country at large. All the American farmer wants, and has a right to have, is an equal chance with other business men, a fair and just reward for labor performed Every man, in every business is entitled to a profit for the contribution he makes to the sum of human happiness, as happiness is represented in better living.

PRODUCERS UNITED IN CONDEMNING SPECULATORS

At the convention of the National Farmers' Union, held at Washington, D. C., during the week ending April 23, committees were appointed to drive speculators out of the cotton and grain markets. This move is in direct line with what other farm organizations are doing and have done and is another step toward the goal of more efficient marketing machinery for the distribution of farm products.

That the fruit growers also regard he speculator with much disdain is voiced in and expression from George A. Cullen, vice president of the North American Fruit Growers' Exchange, which appeared in April 15 issue of The Dairy Farmer, and reads as follows:

"So long as the farmer permits someone else, who has no interest in the farmer's welfare, to handle the marketing of his products, the farmer is absolutely at the mercy of that someone else—a situation that is not only highly unprofitable to the farmer, but decidedly detrimental to his self-respect. It is not as tho he were submitting to the law of supply and demand—that might have some show of reason for his lossess. It is primarily because he has allowed a wholly artificial and unnecessary element to entrench itself between him and the consumer, namely, the speculator."

There is already a strong movement on foot, sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation, which, thru a live stock marketing committee of 15, is now studying and investigating present methods of co-operative marketing of live stock at the principal terminal markets, with a view of formulating an adequate plan by which all live stock going into those markets may be more efficiently handled. One of its members says, "Farmers have already demonstrated that they can operate their own marketing machinery successfully on the terminal markets, and when most of them market only thru their own handling organizations, then will they be able to have something to say with regard to the market value of their live stock and be in a position to bring about more orderly marketing in order to avoid large fluctuations in market prices due to irregular receipts at the yards."

In the marketing of live stock the speculator has demonstrated that he is an unnecessary evil, and it is evident that with 519 speculators and speculative firms operating on the market of one big stock center, that they, as a whole, are doing a thriving business, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. He not only diverts most of the producer's profit into his own pockets, but likewise is the big factor in boosting the price to the consumer.

Belmond Local News

Mrs. Church and Mrs. Burkitt of Goodell were among the out of town shoppers here last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Nourse and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jennings were visitors a Mason City on Friday of last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beard were callers at Klemme one day last week, on matters of business.

—I—

Roy French was a Sunday guest of friends at the county seat.

—I—

Wm. Nelson was transacting business at Kanawha one day last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Starnes of Klemme came down last week to visit at the home of his father, who has been on the sick list for some time past.

—I—

Olive Butts was a recent guest of friends and relatives at Klemme.

—I—

Miss Cecilia Barry attended the state music teachers' convention held in Fort Dodge, Thursday and Friday of last week.

—I—

Miss Marian Luick was a recent guest with friends and relatives at Klemme.

—I—

The Eagle Grove American Legion post has organized a base ball team and are planning on games with the Legion teams in the towns around. When it comes to the real article in ball teams, we believe the Belmond post can show the rest of them a real scrap, for the team here is to be composed of old experienced men who have had many years of the game both in school and on the town team.

—I—

The Wilson Highway is being treated to a coat of good gravel between the towns of Garner and Klemme.

—I—

T. D. Rankins was a business caller at Dows and Clarion several days lat week, where he was buying feeding cattle for W. C. Tyrrell. He purchased a number of head at both places.

—I—

Meservey has established a rock pile for the amusement of those automobile drivers who take no heed of that town's ordinances regarding the speed and parking rules. So far the pile hasn't diminished very much by being worked.

—I—

The dance pavilion at Cornelia, which has been leased to the Goslin orchestra of Clarion, had its formal opening of the season last night. (Tuesday.) A good crowd was reported in attendance at the opening number.

IOWA LAND VALUES LOWERED

The average price of plow land in Iowa has decreased from $219 per acre last year to $200 this year, or about 7 per cent, according to statistics just reported by the United States department of agriculture.

For the United States the average price of plow land March 1 of this year was $83.78, as compared to $90.01 in 1920 and $74.31 in 1919. The department attributes the decline to the reduction in the price of crops.

The heaviest drop in prices of land is in the southern states, where average land is now $50 per acre. In some instances the decline is 30 per cent. In Georgia last year the average land is now $50, the decline amounts to 15 per cent.

The greatest drop in any state was in Kentucky, due to the decline in the price of tobacco. The average price has dropped from $79 to $53 per acre.

Illinois ranks second to Iowa in the value of plow land, the price per acre being $157. In Alabama and Mississippi the average price is $26 The western states show the least decline in price of land and in the case of California, Oregon and Colorado there is a slight increase over last year. In California land is valued at $135, an increase of $5 over last year.

The report shows there was a rapid increase from 1917 to 1920, but the decline last year is not as great as the increase from 1919 to 1920.

FROST KILLS FRUIT TREES

Klemme Times: The fruit blossoms were all killed here by a couple of heavy freezes the fore part of the week. The nights have been very cold and it was cold enough several nights to freeze a quarter inch of on the water. The fruit trees were very heavy with blossoms this year and the prospects were good for a bumper crop here as fruit was not damaged earlier in the spring as was fruit in other states. Gardens are, however, in fine shape and no damage was done to them.

BELMOND, IOWA, MAY 9th, 1921

To the Public:

Having taken over the Peter Stacy Blacksmith Shop, I am now ready to do all kinds of Blacksmith and General Repair Work.

I have a first-class blacksmith, therefore expect to give you first-class work in return.

I am also in position to overhaul Tractors. What I mean by this, is, when the work is finished the Tractor shall be as good as new, which is a fine guarantee to you.

Closing out at a real bargain, Singletrees, Neck Yokes, Wagon Evener, 3 Horse Evener, Plow Set, Cultivator Shovels, Plow Shares, 5 and 6 foot Sickles, Lawn Mowers. These are all new, will pay you to come in and look at them.

25 per cent Discount for Cash.

Yours for business,

W. A. DITTMER

It's Rubber and It's Porous

In your storage battery are certain metallic plates used in producing the electricity. They have to be kept apart or "insulated" from each other. Why, then, has not the universal insulating material—rubber— been generally used between the plates of automobile starting and lighting batteries? Because rubber insulators as used in these batteries (unlike the insulation in other electrical products) must be porous.

The only known form of porous rubber suitable for this purpose is Willard Threaded Rubber. It lasts the life of the plates, and reinsulation is therefore unnecessary, saving you time and money. Knowing this, the manufacturers below use only Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries as original equipment. Can you do better, when you need a battery, than to follow their judgment and insist on Threaded Rubber Insulation?

These Cars and Trucks are Equipped by their Makers with Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries

Acason, Acme, Ahrens-Fox, All-American, Allis-Chalmers, American, American-LaFrance, American-LaFrance of Canada, Apex, Armleder, Atco, Atterbury, Auburn, Austin, Avery, Bacon, Bell, Bessemer, Bethlehem, Betz, Bollstrom, Buffalo, Canadian Briscoe, Cannonball, Capitol, Carroll, Case, Champion, Chevrolet, Citroen, Clydesdale, Cole, Collier, Colonial, Comet, Commerce, Commodore, Consolidated, Corliss, Crawford, Cunningham, Daniels, Dart, Davis, Day Elder, Denby, Dependable, Diamond T, Dixie Flyer, Dodge, Dorris, Elcar, Elgin, F W D, Fergus, Ferris, Franklin, Friend, Fulton, G M C, Garford, Giant, Glide, Great Western, H C S, Hahn, Hatfield, Hawkeye, Haynes, Henney, Highway, Holmes, Holt, Hupmobile, Hurlburt, Independent, Indiana, Jordan, Kissel, Koehler, Lancia, Landa, Lewis-Hall, Lexington, Luverne, M H C, Madison, Marmon, Master, Maxim, McFarlan, McLaughlin, Menges, Menominee, Mercedes, Merit, Meteor (Piqua), Metz, Miller, Mitchell, Moore, Napoleon, Nash, Nelson, Nelson & LeMoon, Noma, Northway, Norwalk, Ogren, Old Hickory, Oldsmobile, Oneida, Oshkosh, Packard, Paige, Pan-American, Parker, Parrett, Patterson, Peerless, Peugeot, Phianna, Pierce-Arrow, Premier, R & V Knight, Rainier, Renault, Reo, ReVere, Riddle, Robinson, Rock Falls, Rowe, Samson (Canada), Sayers, Seagrave, Shelby, Signal, Southern, Standard, Standard 8, Stanley, Stanwood, Stewart, Stewart Y. P., Studebaker, Stutz, Sunbeam, Tarkington, Thomart, Tiffin, Titan, Towmotor, Transport, Traylor, Twin City, Ultimate, United, Ursus, Velie, Vim, Vogue, Vulcan, Ward LaFrance, Ware, Werner, Westcott, White, Wills Sainte Claire, Wilson, Winther, Winton, Wolverine

Try this Experiment with a Lump of Sugar

Touch one corner to the coffee in your cup. You'll see the liquid drawn up until the lump is soaked—a simple example of capillary attraction, on which the action of Threaded Rubber Insulation depends. 196,000 tiny threads and every one a wick—doing its part to make the rubber porous.

Belmond Battery Station

Phone 75

Batteries Called for and Delivered

Willard THREADED RUBBER BATTERY

ROWAN NEWS

Help make your home news interesting. Phone your news items to 62.

D. E. Harris was a Clarion and Belmond caller Monday.

Frank Snyder was a Clarion caller Tuesday.

Mrs. Lizzie Brooks returned Tuesday from Waterloo, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. U. B. Kepford, and from Waverly where she visited her son Will Brooks.

Miss Vinnie Whitten and little Ivan Williams were Dows callers between trains Tuesday.

J. F. Howell was a Dows caller on Tuesday.

Mrs. J. H. Streveler of Waterloo visited at the home of her son, Tice Streveler, this week.

Mrs. Morris Sullivan of Fort Dodge came Tuesday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher.

Mrs. Jennie Rowen was at Goldfield several days visiting her sister, Mrs. Pierce, and her brother Sam Farmer who has broken a limb. She return ed home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks and two daughters, Thelma and Marjorie, were Clarion callers Wednesday.

Mrs. M. Snyder went to Clarion on Wednesday of last week to spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Smith.

Wednesday forenoon a Salvation Army band was in town giving a concert on the street. They got a collection of about eight dollars.

Mrs. J. S. Farren and son Bobby were Dows callers between trains Wednesday, where Bobby had some dental work done.

Cecil Harris, Miss Lottie Williams and Mrs. Ray Williams spent Wednesday at the Peter Schreck home at Hayfield.

Wednesday afternoon an airplane was in town taking up passengers. It came from Webster City. The price was five dollars a ride. Quite a number went up.

D. W. Whitten and wife, Wm. Whitten and wife and Lem Rowen and wife attended the show "Sowing the Wind at Belmond on Tuesday.

John Larson of DeSmet, S. D. who has been visiting at the Carmon home returned to his home Tuesday. Geo. Carmon accompanied him as far as Des Moines.

Harry Cain was a Clarion caller Wednesday.

F. B. Sheldon was an Austin, Minn. caller on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Haydon of Detroit, Mich., have been visiting at the home of her cousins, Bert Payne and Herb Ketchum. Mrs. Haydon went to Clarion, Thursday, to visit her brother. Mr. Haydon remained at the Bert Payne home for a while.

The Home Missionary society of the M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. Will Bingham, Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Hannah Whitten as leader. The subject for the lesson was "The Far North and Far East." There were about 25 present and a very interesting lesson was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Missionary society of the Congregational church met with Mrs. N. B. Olsen, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. O. E. Ballou was leader. The subject of the lesson was "The Mountain Whites." There was a good crowd present. At the roll call each member answered with a news item concerning the lesson. There was a playette given by Mrs. Frank Kercheval and Mrs. H. J. C Box which was thoroly enjoyed

Remember the Young Ladies Mission Study club of the Cong. church which meets with Mrs. D. W. Whitten, Monday evening, May 16.

Mrs. Elsie Allen is having the interior of her home redecorated.

Gay Fletcher and Dean Fitz made a trip to Thornton, Friday, to take a load of saw dust to Bert Harris.

Donald Farren was a Belmond caller Friday, where he had some dental work done.

Thursday afternoon seven little playmates of Charles Kercheval met with him at the home of his grandma, Mrs. E. Bingham, in honor of his fifth birthday. Those present were Ivan Williams, Bobby Farren, Edgar Brooks, Loretta Maude Bingham, Billie Virginia Whitten and Clara Jane and John Howell.

The post office has installed a new table and boxes for the rural mail. This makes a fine addition to the post offices fixtures.

Morris Sullivan of Fort Dodge came Thursday to spend the week end with his wife at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher.

Mrs. Gay Fletcher visited in Clarion at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz, Friday.

Thursday "Uncle" George Whitten caught the first fish of the season—for him. He says it weighed five pounds.

Little Burnetta Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jennings, hurt her arm quite badly by falling and turning it under her. Altho no bones are broken it is very lame.

Frank Kercheval and son Fred motored to Des Moines, Friday, to spend a few days. Mrs Frank Kercheval is staying with Mrs. Fred Kercheval during their absence.

Mrs. Roy Fitz of Clarion visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gay Fletcher, Friday.

Mrs. Etta Carr spent several days visiting at Latimer this week.

Mrs. Will Steffens had a pleasant surprise Thursday, when her brother, Harry DeWald, of Holly, Colorado, whom she had not seen for 40 years, came to make her a visit.

Mr and Mrs Oscar Myers of Solsburg called at the Fred Kercheval home Thursday.

The M. E. Aid society me Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elmer Burt. This was a social meeting. The house was decorated with the May Day idea. One stunt of the afternoon was to follow written directions from one place to another until they were directed to the clothes line where each lady received a May Basket as a souvenir. The following ladies served a 25c supper which netted the society between twelve and thirteen dollars: Mesdames Elmer Burt, Guy Stumph, Will Whitten, Fred Kercheval, Herb Hadley, Toyne,Will Peddle, Geo. Lineweaver.

Miss Allie Kent of Dows was changing trains here Thursday on her way to Fort Dodge to attend a Red Cross meeting. The Rowan chapter did not receive a notice of this meeting so could not send a delegate. They were entertained at the Country club and had a very nice time. They talked over the plans for the work for the coming year. Miss Kent returned on the evening train and spent Thursday night and Friday at the home of her cousin, LaVonne Ballou.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Cong. church held a business meeting and social evening at the A. H. Emerson home Thursday. About 30 members were present. Plans were made for the C. E. convention which is to be held in Rowan, June 7.The following chairmen were elected for planning the work of the convention: Entertainment—LaVonne Ballou; Decoration—Thelma Brooks; Meeting Trains—Blanch Box; Lunch at Noon —Gladys Whitten; Picnic Supper—Nellie Hyde. The social part of the evening was spent in games which were greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served which were also enjoyed.

Mrs. A. D. Hiams, who fell from a chair Saturday of last week, is improving nicely. It is a miracle no bones were broken for it was a bad fall for one of her age.

Reuben Cupp was a Clarion caller Friday.

Mrs. R. L. Robinson and Mrs. Blanch Jennings were Clarion callers Friday.

The directors of the sales pavilion held a business meeting Thursday evening.

Mrs. Will Azeltine of Galt visited relatives in Rowan the latter part of the week.

The Andrew Whitten post of the American Legion held their regular meeting Monday night. They completed their plans for Memorial Day. They elected a committee composed of O. F. Branden, Jim Rowen and J. F Howell, to meet with a community committee to finish the plans for observing the day. They also purchased uniforms for the Legion ball team.

The south section of the Iowa Township Community club will entertain at the G. R. Stumph home, Friday night May 13. Everybody invited.

Mrs. J. S. Farren, Frances and Bobby went to Chicago, Friday, to spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Stapley.

Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder of Clarion, Miss Fern Schroeder of Des Moines, and Mrs. W H. Knowles of Chicago spent Friday at the Guy Sheldon home and attended the Epworth League supper and sale.

Ed. Jones went to Klemme, Saturday, to visit at the home of his son Earl.

Mr. Ray Johnson of Newark, New Jersey, came Saturday for a visit with his sister, Mrs. Henry Azeltine, and also to see his mother, Mrs. A. E Johnson, who has been spending the winter with her daughter. Mrs. Johnson broke her hip in November and has been bed fast most of the winter but has improved so wonderfully that she is able to get around and expects to return to her home with her son.

Charles Boyington was a Clarion shopper Saturday.

Marshal Myers was a passenger to Clarion, Saturday.

Mrs Ed. Riley and daughter Dolly were Fort Dodge shoppers Saturday.

Mrs. Will Whitten is nursing a lame arm, caused by a fall one day this week.

Miss Minnie Aldiner closed her year of school work at the Hiatt school Friday with a picnic in the school yard. About 40 were present. They had a lovely dinner and everyone enjoyed the day.

Mrs. Harm Brinkman and children of Coulter visited at the Will Whitten home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob Halsey and children motored from Allison, Saturday, Mr. Halsey was one of the auctioneers at he D. B. Harris sale. They visited at the home of Mr and Mrs. D. A. French.

Mrs. Clifford Snow spent the week end with her husband at Rienbeck and Traer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hawe and baby went to Eagle Grove, Wednesday.

Mrs. Ray Williams visited at Belmond, Thursday.

The following people attended the funeral of Ilene Campbell of Belmond. Thursday: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Thelma and Marjorie, Lizzie Brooks, Mrs. Fred Aldrich and Frank Kercheval.

Word received from Theo. Hansen who is in the Presbyterian hospital at Chicago, states that he was able to sit up Saturday for the first time.

Mr. and Mrs J. D. Pritchett Mrs. O. F. Branden and Mrs. Ray Williams and children motored to Iowa Falls, Saturday, to visit at the L. D. Bingham home.

Mrs. W. R. McCallum and Mrs Roy Ryder motored to Clarion, Saturday. where the former had some dental work done.

Bernice Hansen spent the week end at Coulter.

Miss Fannie Reed, Mrs. Fred Brooks, Thelma and Marjorie and Edgar, Blanche Box and Edgar Mantle motored to Clarion, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Box and family of Clarion spent Sunday at the H. J. C. Box home.

Mr. and Mrs Walt Carmon, Miss Wilda Whitten and George Carmon were Clarion callers Saturday.

Mrs. Cady Templet of Clarion was a Sunday guest at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jennie Rowen.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Bingham of Iowa Falls visited at the A. C. Rietz home Sunday, and called on other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clowes and family of Renwick visited at the R. H. Keith home Sunday. Mrs. Clowes will be remembered as Miss Edna Provan.

Mrs. J. Denio and daughter and Mrs. Sanders of Galt spent Sunday at the O. E. Ballou home.

Mr. and Mrs Clint Kercheval and boys were entertained at the Fred Kercheval home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peddle spent Sunday at the parental home.

The eighth grade play "Sally Finds Herself," which was given Wednesday night at the school house was very well produced. It was well attended. The primary part of the program was fine also. They took in about $30.

The Boy Scouts met Thursday eve. They were training for Memorial Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harris and son Leland of Thornton spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L W. Stevenson.

ROWAN M. E. CHURCH NOTES

The Epworth League sale and supper last Friday was a splendid success, netting a little over $90. Over 200 people were present to enjoy this social occasion.

Mother's Day services in the M. E. church were largely attended. A special feature of the morning service was the singing of the Sunday school choir, who rendered suitable songs. The pastor spoke on "The New Chivalry for Women," and urged a more practical appreciation of the character and worth of womanhood. Mrs. A. O. Pelley sang "Mother O' Mine" at the evening hour.

The Rev Dr. E. Elliott of Dows, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will speak in the Methodist church next Sunday morning. Do not miss the doctor's message. At the evening service the pastor, Rev. Harold Tomkinson, will speak on the subject of "Fools." Even if you don't believe in "Fools" come and hear what the Methodist pastor has to say—it might be quite illuminative and informing to those who think we are wise.

Will the people of Rowan and vicinity kindly keep in mind the Wright County Sunday School convention to be held in the M. E. church Tuesday, May 17? There will be an afternoon and an evening session and a galaxy of star speakers. Put this date down and keep it open for this work.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

Rev. F. H Anderson of Rockwell will fill the Cong. pulpit next Sunday. His wife, Rev. Ada Anderson, who has been supplying the pulpit at this place will preach her farewell sermon to the Rockwell people.

The Mother's Day service at the Cong. church was well attended, the church being full. The choir furnished special music for the service. The Rev. Ada Anderson gave a fine sermon on the subject "The Mother's Part,' which was very helpful to mothers.

The Ladies Aid society will meet with Mrs. A. H. Emerson on Thursday afternoon. There will be work for all. Lunch will be served.

A committee from the Congregational church Sunday school composed of Mrs. R Virden, L. A. McCallum and Miss Frances Farren was chosen to work with a committee from the M. E. Sunday school to provide entertainment for the guests who attend the County Sunday School convention, May 17.

Belmond Local News

Somebody sent the Meservey Register ten dollars, to be awarded in the fall to the best, or most careful, auto driver during the summer.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Ennen of Britt came down one day last week to make the acquaintance of their new grandson, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinlicht.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Neuhring are the proud parens of a baby boy, born on Saturday morning of last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinlicht are the happy parents of a fine new baby boy, born last week Wednesday. The Independent gave Henry a boy last winter, thru an error, but this time has Henry's word that he is here. And as Henry has been acting strangely, we believe it. Both mother and babe are doing nicely.

—I—

Miss Hazel Thomas was a visitor at the county seat town on Saturday of last week.

—I—

Lee Stacy drove to Hampton on Saturday evening, to spend the week end with his wife and family who are visiting relatives and friends at that place for a few days.

—I—

The grade program given at the school audiorium last week Wednesday evening was very good, and attended by a fair-sibze crowd which thoroly enjoyed the efforts of the youngsters. Much credit is due Miss Rowland for the training and handling of so many children, which was no easy task. The same program and operetta is to be given in the park sometime towards the end of this month, under the auspices of the Community Club.

—I—

Some interesting news will be found in the council proceedings for this month, printed in another column of the Independent. The council has passed a resolution calling for the construction of a number of perm anent side walks about town, and in an ordinance passed at the recent meeting defines a "bootlegger." If you have any idea of becoming one read the regulations on what constitutes said animal.

—I—

Clarence Slining and Elmer Larsen recently shot an eagle near the lakes west of town. The bird measured some five feet from wing tip to wing tip.

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

Back from the City

Will the farm help that has been jazzing away the last few years under the white lights of the city come back to be fed on the farm? Will farm labor be plentiful this year? Will it be competent? Will wages be unreasonably high? To know, you should read

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Its continuous national survey of farm conditions enables it to forecast the labor market. There are two particularly timely stories coming in next week's issue.

One deals with the puzzling immigration problem. Will the loosening up of immigration requirements give the farmer more competent labor at a usable price? Or will it merely result in the further crowding of city slums for the farmer to feed? This answer is based on an actual study of incoming shiploads at Ellis Island. The other tells how the grain farmers of the Middle West keep their help after they get it—it offers some mighty keen suggestions. With other farm problems THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is just as helpful. Yet 52 big weekly issues cost but $1.00. Sure I'll take your check!

Hire a year of C. G. farm help for one dollar

R. A. RANKINS

Phone 115 or 196 Belmond, Iowa

An authorized subscription representative of
The Country Gentleman 52 issues—$1.00 The Ladies' Home Journal 12 issues—$2.00 The Saturday Evening Post 52 issues—$2.50

Special Cash Sale!

May 4th to May 18th

80c Buys $1.00 Worth of Merchandise

At the New Store, for a period of 2 weeks, to reduce the stock. Our entire stock is now moved and our new building is jam full from top to bottom. A big lot of new goods just arrived and we find we are over stocked. OUR LOSS IS YOUR GAIN.

Remember the Date and Place

Next door to First National Bank Building. All are welcome---old customers and new ones.

Yours for service,

Johnson & Wright

New Building, Next Door to the First National Bank Bldg.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

WM. NELSON
General Agent of the
Royal Union Mutual Life Insurance
Co. of Des Mo[illegible].
Phones: Residence 39; [illegible]ce [illegible].
Belmond, Iowa.

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

E. L. MADSEN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Telephone 302½
BELMOND, IOWA.

KENEFICK & PURDY
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Phones 46 and 148
Belmond, Iowa

TONSORIAL

W. H. GALLIGER
FIRST CLASS BARBERING
First door west First Nat'l Bank
Belmond, Iowa

VETERINARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

CHIROPRACTIC

DR. ROBERT McCLELLAN
CHIROPRACTOR
Phone 25
Office Over Belmond Furniture
Company Store
Belmond, Iowa

ORDINANCE NO. 121

AN ORDINANCE DEFINING A "BOOT-LEGGER" AND PRESCRIBING PENALTY FOR ITS VIOLATION.

Be it ordained by the Town Council of the Town of Belmond, Iowa.

Sec. 1—That any person who shall, within the incorporated limits of the Town of Belmond, Iowa, by himself or his employee, servant or agent, for himself or for any person, company or corporation, keep or carry around on his person or in aeroplane, automobile, motor-truck, or in any other vehicle, or leave in a place for others to secure, any intoxicating liquor, with intent to sell or dispose of the same by gift or otherwise, or who shall within said Town in any manner, directly or indirectly, solicit, take, or accept any order for the shipment or delivery of intoxicating liquor, in violation of law, is a "boot-legger."

Sec. 2—Any person violating Section 1 of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a misdomeanor.

M. C. BARRY, Mayor.
Attest: GUY BYERS, Clerk.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.

Preaching services at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Epworth League devotional meeting at 7:00 p. m.

The King's Heralds will meet with Ronald Purcell on Saturday afternoon.

To fold one's hands and patiently wait for the last trump to sound is not in our day a mark of Christian virtue—at least for the able-bodied. Such a policy is as un-Christian as to give up in despair and accept the creed of the fatalist. The Christian church sets before men today a program that implies, not merely a devotion that prays:

"Me and my wife,
And my son John and his wife";

but rather implies the necessity of a strong, courageous, determined effort to serve God in this our day and generation and to leave the world better for those that come after. The pastor will speak next Sunday morning on "The Strategy of Methodism in America." Every member and friend of the church ought to hear this sermon and is urgently requested to be present.

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

Last Sunday was a banner day with the largest attendance by ten at Sunday school of any day this year. All the services were well attended even tho it did rain in the evening which kept many away who would have been there otherwise. The program given by Miss Sydow and the young people was very greatly appreciated by all who heard it.

Now for next Sunday, let us all boost and well have the quarter up to its mark and we hope a little over. Let every one boost for the work is worth while and the lessons which we are now studying are helpful in every day life.

There will be he regular services at 11:00 in the morning but no service at night on account of the Sunday school convention at the M. E. church.

Mrs. Ralph Christie was elected to attend the state convention of Congregaional churches which convenes in Sioux City next Tuesday and will be in session. This will give Mrs. Christie an opportunity of visiting her brother, Harry Webb, who is attending Morningside college.

We are sorry that the writer of our Free Air is not able to distinguish between things which are necessary and things which are merely for sport and financial gain.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTOR

State of Iowa,
Wright County, ss. No. 1319

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned have been duly appointed and qualified as Executors of the estate of David L. Cuppett, deceased, late of Wright County. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment; and those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned for allowance, and file in he office of the Clerk of the District Court.

A. L. LUICK
ARTHUR B. CUPPETT
W. E. Bullard, Attorney.
Dated April 27, 1921.
R. V. GOSLIN, Clerk District Court

SENATOR SCHAFFTER WILL ASK FOR RE-ELECTION

According to he Eagle Grove Eagle Senator Schanffter will request the voters of this district to return him to the state senate next year, a year from next month. The senator appears to have had a pretty fair record for his first term and will doubtless be given serious consideration when the time comes.

SCHOOL NOTES

B. H. S. defeated Dows in a fast ball game on the local diamond last Friday afternoon by a score of 8 to 4. It was a close game until the end of the 7th inning, when Belmond forged ahead. The Belmond boys played a good game and with Madsen in the box supported as he was last Friday we need not hesitate meeting any of the surrounding towns.

The first dual track meet for the local boys was held at Clarion, Saturday afternoon with the score resulting 64 to 48 in favor of Clarion. There were only 15 men on our team consequently each man was entered in several events instead of only two or three. However we succeeded in winning half the first placings and but for a little bad luck due to lack of experience the meet would have been much closer. E. Parsons was the individual star of the meet, winning 15 points, Chapman 11, Wm. Vestweber 9, Donald Thiltgen 5, Morey Nelson 4, and Kernan 4.

The track team have invitations to the following meets:

Garner, May 10, Clear Lake, Belmond and Garner.

Ames, May 14, State invitation meet.

Clarion, May 27, Webster City, Humboldt, Eagle Grove, Iowa Falls, Belmond and Clarion.

The annual will be completed this week. The printing is all finished now and we expect to distribute them by next week.

Plan to attend the Senior class play May 20. "Nothing But the Truth" is built upon the simple idea of its hero speaking nothing but the absolute truth for a stated period. He bets his friend ten thousand dollars that he can do it and boldly tackles truth, to win the money. For a very short time the task is easy, but Truth routs out old man Trouble and then things begin to happen. Situations that are absurb and complications almost knotted pile up, all credited to Truth.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Robert Bennet — "Bob"—a young stockbroker who says he will tell the truth for 24 hours —Donald Thiltgen.
E. M. Ralston—The head of the firm who bets it cannot be done.—Wm. Chase.
Richard Donnelly—"Dick"—another young stockbroker who is in on the bet.—David Luick.
Clarence Van Dusen—"Van"—a sarcastic young stockbroker.—Lyle Jenison.
Bishop Doran—Archie Rierson.
Gwendoline Ralston—"Gwen"— in love with Bob.—Ennis Allen.
Mrs. E. M. Ralston—the bewildered wife of E. M.—Agnes Dillon.
Ethel Clark—A friend of Gwen's.—Inez Boughton.
Mable Jackson, Sable Jackson—Vaudeville girls.—Marvyl Robinson, Alma Ruka.
Martha—A maid.—Olive Butts.

The high school base ball team met the Dows team on Friday of last week and trimmed them to the tune of 8 to 4. The pitching of Madsen featured the game, that star whirler having the nenmy eating from his hand. The team plays their next game on Friday of this week on the local diamond, when they tackle the aggregation from Corwith.

It's a satisfaction to know when you bring your Suit, Ladies' or Mens,' you are going to get Quality Work and Service done the Modern Way. The Hoffman Sanitary Steam Machine that does it, does not scorce or gloss, leaves your garment with the nap raised up and with all the body odor gone, all the dirt and spots out. Looks like new and feels like new, costs no more than the old way. All work leaving our shop is carefully inspected. As times are good and some people are liberal givers, we are going to give

A $75 SUIT
Tailored to your measure
ABSOLUTELY FREE!!

to every man or woman who brings in their suit and gets a ticket on this suit, the lucky person wins. Work at our regular low prices. Hats of all kinds, cleaned and re-blocked.

SAVE MONEY

Get your suit Tailored by the Expert Tailors, M. BORN & CO. Costs no more than a ready-made. Satisfaction guaranteed. We give the best or none.

REDUCTION ON SUITS

We are giving you a reduction of from $5 to $10 on all Tailored-to-Measure Suits!

STAR CLEANER
The Hoffman Shop

BOOTLEGGER WITH 15 PINTS CAUGHT AT EAGLE GROVE

Eagle: Marshal John Reynolds arrested Clarence Martin of Clare, Friday evening, for running his car without the tail light burning. While Martin was interviewing Mayor Baker, Reynolds, searched his car and found a suitcase containing 15 pints of corn liquor. As he was carrying the grip into the city hall, he met Martin coming out and there was a great scramble for possession of the precious suitcase. The fellow was so ambitious to regain possession of the "corn" that Guy Fisher joined in the mix-up and massaged the stranger's head with something heavier than a toy balloon, and then he submitted to being arrested on a more serious charge. When searched he was found to be carrying a .38 calibre revolver, loaded.

Mayor Baker bound Martin over to the grand jury on the charge of trans porting liquor contrary to law. He put up bonds and was realeased.

NO BUICK PRICE REVISION

Flint, April 29—The current number of the Buick Bulletin contains a page editorial written by E. T Strong, general sales manager, which asserts that no revision in the prices of 1921 Buick models is warranted and that no possibility is seen of a price revision during the life of the present selling agreements with the trade. This announcement it is said, is based entirely on manufacturing conditions as they exist today and are likely to continue to exist during the current season. It is asserted that there has been practically no reduction in the cost of manufacturing the Buick cars and that no reduction could be made without danger of jeopardizing quality and service. 1t

LAST CALL FOR AUTO LICENSES

County Treasurer Allen is this week reminding auto owners whose licenses have become delinquent that "now is the time to dig up for the aid of the good roads fund." He is forwarding notices of delinquency to all, owners of cars believed to be in line for license tags. Of course, some of the cars have been scrapped, perhaps, and a few sold or disposed of, but the law requires that any car that has changed hands during 1920 and not properly transferred on the books of the treasurer, must be registered in owner's name last year and transfer made on 1921 certificate. If a car has been kept in storage this year, and will continue to be so kept, it does not require a license tag. But if you use it a single day, then the license fee and penalty both apply.

All cars not licensed before May first will be advertised in the official papers the first week in May. Then the delinquent owners must pay the extra cost of the advertising. May 15 all owners delinquent will have an opportunity to settle with the sheriff, for a list goes to him, with orders to collect. He can seize the car for the license. The county and state authorities are pretty unanimous in a decision to collect every dollar of auto revenue that is due and state agents will co-operate with the local officials.—Clipper.

Bread

All Bread is not the same. Our Butter Milk Bread is gaining in Popularity all the time

Try It

ROBINSON

Your Money Will Now Go Farther on High Grade Merchandise at this Store

MEN'S SUITS
The famous Embey line can be had here in all the latest styles and colors at only $27.50, $32.50 and $37.50
Other well made and high grade lines of Men's Suits at $15.00, $19,50 and $22.00

BOY'S SUITS
In a large and well selected assortment of styles and colors in all wool at only $7.00 to $12.00

Men's Blue Overalls; 95c — Men's Blue Work Shirts, 59c

MEN'S SHOES
Dress Shoes in Black or Tan, wonderful values at $3.50, $4.00 $5.00 and $8.00

BOY'S SHOES
A big line of Boy's Shoes, built to give the best kind of service.

Harry Marks
The Clothier
17 South Federal
Mason City, Iowa
We do not Sell Sample or Brokerage Lines
Money Refunded on Any Unsatisfactory Purchase

The Shop of Individual Style
Northern Iowa "Style Shop."
J. K. Lundberg & Co.
A "Style Shop" of State Wide Reputation
Sport Hats $2.95 to $10

Big Talk
It is not Big Type and Big Talk in the newspapers—but the Quality, Fashion and Fair Prices of the goods in the store which makes value and gives lasting satisfaction.

NEW ARRIVALS
IN Organdies & Gingham Frocks
$10 $18.75 $25 $29.75

Our New Wash Frocks are now in stock—right from New York! And there is a regular panorama of Fashions, Fabrics and Colors. There is a dress for every occasion and a big selection to choose from. There are Ginghams, Dotted Swiss, Linens, and combinations. These are all so dainty and pretty that you will have a hard time to make a selection.

NEW TAILORED SUITS
$29.75 $39.75 49.75

Regardless of our low prices these suits express in every way the High Quality, Style and Character you always expect from this store.

This desirable collection offers Women and Misses an unusual selection of smart new models. Tailored and Box Styles, beautiful, silk lined and hand finished. The most critical shopper will be enthusiastic over these exceptional values.

NOW OPEN FOR TRADE

In the Charles N. Reese Building

We will carry a full line of Hardware, Sporting Goods and Paints and Varnishes.

We have all new goods just unpacked. Come and see them.

Townsan Hardware

Belmond Local News

Miss Midred Gealow came home to spend the week end with relatives and friends here. She is employed as stenographer in the bank at Meservey.

—I—

Cho-Cho the Health clown gave his exhibion on Friday of last week as scheduled, and created a very favorable impression. He took like wild fire with the children, who could talk of nothing else the next day. An immense crowd was present at his lecture and exhibition, many people coming from the various towns in the neighborhood.

If the party who borrowed the roll of woven wire from the pump station, will return same at once it will save sending the marshal after him.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore were callers at Litterdale, Iowa, one day last week.

Mother's Day was very appropriately observed in all the churches on Sunday, special programs and music being given.

The St. Olaf concert band, which was here on Monday night of this week, met with the universal approval of all who heard the concert. They were very good and the audience was more than pleased.

After the supper Manley Hall of Eagle Grove, a lay man, gave a very interesting talk.

Conrad Nissen has moved into the Jenison house in east Belmond.

Cleone Stebbleton of Britt was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ramsay.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Benson were callers last week at the home of friends in Alexander.

E. F. Courtney has been reported on the sick list the past week.

Dr. Gowdy was in attendance at the state convention of dentists held at Des Moines last week.

Miss Helen Haiberts spent the week end at the home of relatives at Goodell.

Mr. and Mrs. Duran Nagle and family from Clarion were over Sunday guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kinney.

E. F. Bailey was a business caller at Eagle Grove on Friday, driving over.

The third of the suppers of the Methodist ladies was held last week Thursday, covers being laid for 90.

Joe Scott and Stanley Nelson drove to Forest City, Sunday, with some friends.

Beet cultivators and corn plows will soon be needed. Look my line over before you buy.—Christ Rise.

The F. C. Aldrich home caught on fire about noon Monday, from a defective chimney it is thought. The fire company was on the job in record time with the chemical engine and their new hose cart, and within three to five minutes from te alarm had the hose connected and ready to go. The damage to the house was slight.

LUVERNE PLAYS HERE SUNDAY

The next ball game on the list will be played here on next Sunday May 15, when the team from LuVerne runs up against the Belmond team. Pillmer will be on the mound again for the home team, and the LuVerne bunch will doubtless find him a pretty tough problem to solve. The team from LuVerne cleaned up on pretty nearly everything last year, and the team this year is reported to be as good as last year, so that the game here ought to prove a good one. It will start at the usual time.

READ THE WANT ADS

SPECIAL LOCALS

We clean all kinds of Sailor and Panama Hats in our own shop. Quick service. Belmond Tailor Shop. Phone 28.—F. J. Tuffree.

The Dows Independent has changed hands, the new publisher taking over the paper on May 1.

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

The Clarion base ball team seems to be somewhat slow in getting organized and in shape for games but expects to be ready for the season within a week or two.

We are making as good chick feed as there is on the market. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tf

Middle-aged lady wishes position as gentral housekeeper for widower or bachelor, farmer preferred. Would take cooking for gang or any kind of restaurant work. Write Mrs. Isabelle Harder, Corwith, Iowa. Box 122.

Wm. Nuehring hauls gravel. For orders phone 2213. Those who owe for gravel pay at Belmond Lumber Co. 16tf

Chester Cullinan has been spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cullinan.

Geo. Coburn of Cornelia was a caller here on Saturday of last week, looking after some business matters.

Would you like a new suit FREE? If so bring your work to the Belmond Tailor Shop and get a number free on a $63.00 tailored suit or overcoat. Your purchase governs your number of chances. Phone 28. "Who's Your Tailor?"—F. J. Tuffree. 231c

Frank Finn was operated on at the local hospital Monday night for a ruptured appendix. He is reported as getting along nicely.

H. D. Johnson is spending a few days visiting old friends at Northwood.

The Progress club held their last meeting of the year last week at the home of Mrs. F. O. Fitts.

Have you a free chance on the new suit? Ask us. New Belmond Tailor Shop. South of Hotel. 1tc

For sale—60 gallon gasolene barrel with faucet.—T. D. Rankins

Andrew Norem suffered a very severe and painful accident last week, when he was run over by one of the four-ton gravel trucks. He was attempting to step from one truck to another while the trucks were moving and he fell between, one of the big trucks passing over his foot and badly bruising it. He was rolled around on the ground by the truck several times and his back was badly bruised. As the trucks weigh close to four and a half tons, it is remarkable that he escaped alive.

If you intend to buy a separator or threshing machine, I can sell you anything you need and at the right price.—Christ Rise. 25tfc

For Sale—Household furniture.—F. E. Christie, Phone 283. 1t*

For Sale—One new tailored suit with extra pants, large size; also one slightly worn suit, large size.—W. L. Wilson Star Cleaner.

Housekeeping rooms for rent, four modern rooms.—Mrs. John Lieuwen.

Mrs. E. V. Spencer of Omaha, Nebraska, has spent the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Packard.

For Sale—75 brown Leghorn hens, all laying.—Mrs. J. P. Courtney.

Will have 400 to 500 day-old chicks for sale about June 10, single comb White Leghorns and White Plymouth Rocks, at $11 per hundred, or 12 1-2 cents apiece in small lots. One-half cash with order.—Mrs. J. P. Courtney Belmond, Iowa.

FOR SALE—Good Waterloo Boy tractor, at a bargain. Phone 310. 23tf

W. H. Adams and wife are enjoying an auto trip thru points in Minnesota.

For Sale—Some mixed hay. Phone 1812. Ed. Jenison. 20tfc

PAINTING AND PAPER HANGING L. W. Nelson will do your interior painting and paper hanging at reasonable prices. Call 205. 13tf

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Rosecrans have returned from Buffalo Center, where they have been spending the past few weeks during the illness and death of Mrs. Pritchard.

Would like to buy 75 or 80 head of stock steers weighing from 600 pound up. Would buy some short feed warmed up cattle if they can be bought worth the money. Will pay good prices for them. If you have any write or phone T. D. Rankins, Belmond, Iowa.

A nice lot of Gingham Coverall Aprons. Price $2.50, at the Woman's Exchange.—Miss Mary Gealow.

WANTED—Cattle to Pasture. Phone 2203.—Wm. Gealow. 24tt

Our guarantee stands behind every sack of Peacock Flour. $2.45 a sack. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

C. C. McGuire, Cyril and Zola, and Mrs. Sharon and daughter went to Buffalo Center last week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Pritchard.

Turn your old beds, cupboards and the like into fine new china closets or buffets, for a few dollars. Ask O. W. Colby, Belmond, Iowa. 242*

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

My prices on all work in the mason line are about 25 percent lower than a year ago. See me if you have any work to be done.—W. A. Bullis. 9tf

NOTICE!

Having secured an experienced man, I have opened a

Vulcanizing Shop

and am now ready to Repair your Tires and Tubes. Prices very reasonable and all work guaranteed.

Christ Rise

Remember; I carry a full line of Farm Implements and Repairs. If you have not bought your Twine yet; I have it to sell.

Cbildren's Low Shoes and Oxfords

Remember how hard it has always been to find the right style and size to fit the little folks?

This season we have made a special effort to take care of the needs of the kiddies. We have a bigger stock of children's wear than ever before.

All the new and better styles can be had in all sizes and widths.

Whether it is for dress or for every day wear you will be able to find it here.

Mary Janes Ankle Straps
Oxfords
Barefoot Sandal
Play Oxfords

Woodruff's

115 N. Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa

We have opened our Filling Station at the

Nordschow Motor Company

Deep Rock Gasoline, Grease and Lubricating Oils may be had at any time

Schaffer Oil & Refining Co.

Wood, Kindling and Nut Coal

FOR SALE

At the Sugar Factory

Also Dried Beet Pulp for Dairy Cows

Inquire at the Company's Office

Bargains!

36 oz. easy seal jar of good peanut butter	50c
Large can of Tomatoes	15c
4 lb extra fancy head rice	15c
1 2 lb can of either corn, wax beans, tomato	10c
Blackberries, loganberries, red or black raspberries or strawberries in syrup, a 2 lb can	25c
2 1-2 lb can of either apricot, peaches or pears	25c
High grade broom	55c
40 in. Voilles per yd	50c
Scrim per yd	25c
36 in percale	15c
Men's work shirts	90c
Men 220 overalls	1.50

Our low prices in groceries are moving them fast.

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30

We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

Lyric

WEDNESDAY, MAY 11
"THE SINS OF ST. ANTHONY"
A Paramount-Artcraft picture featuring
BRYANT WASHBURN

Anthony Osgood's congress gaiters always squealed sedately. Till he lost his girl because he had no pep. Now his shiny pumps trip round with the "queen" of the jazziest show in town. And every cop on the Primrose Path knows "Tony." A love and laughter romance with a rosebud garden of girls.

Also a two-reel comedy, "FATTY AT CONEY ISLAND"

11c and 25c

THURSDAY, MAY 12
"TWO MOONS"
A Fox picture featuring
BUCK JONES

She tried to shoot him because she thought she hated him—but she loved him all the time. A riot of thrills and love interest.

Also a two-reel Sunshine comedy.

11c and 25c

FRIDAY, MAY 13
"HANDS OFF"
A Fox picture featuring
TOM MIX

New scenes, new action, new faces in a drama with dynamic action and Tom Mix.

Also a one-reel comedy.

11c and 25c

SATURDAY, MAY 14
"SICK ABED"
A Paramount-Artcraft picture featuring
WALLACE REID

He takes to his bed so the law can't take him to court. Love sets in! The patient develops alarming symptoms, calls for his nurse, sinks faster and faster until—! A romance that starts with old lovers "in wrong" and ends with new lovers "in right."

Also a two-reel comedy featuring The APE.

11c and 30c

MONDAY and TUESDAY
MAY16 & 17
"DINTY"
A First National picture featuring
WESLEY BARRY

The door slammed suddenly and the girl was spirited away to the Chinese dens whence white women never return. Whirl in the chase with Dinty! But you'll have to go some to keep up with him.

11c and 30c

o o o o o o o o o o o o o o

CORNELIA ITEMS

o o o o o o o o o o o o o

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lathrop were shopping in Mason City last week.

Mrs. Ralph Tomlinson and son Harley were passengers to Belmond on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lagge were week end callers at the Bart Michal home.

Martin Skov was a business caller at Belmond, Saturday.

Mr. Schmeltz and Mr. Withers of Belmond were callers here Tuesday.

A. M. Axen was a business caller in Clarion last week.

Miss Ruby Shahan closed her school Saturday with a picnic. Everybody reported a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Coburn attended lodge at Belmond, Wednesday.

Tony Hood of Goodell called in our city Saturday.

The Cornelia store has been treated to a new coat of paint inside.

Miss Grace Reed spent the week end at the parental home.

Miss Foster will have a box social on Thursday evening.

Miss Shahan spent Friday night with Miss Ollie Whipple.

Mrs. Clarir McDermett spent Friday at the L. L. Lathrop home.

The Misses Grace and Agnes Reed were Mason City shoppers on Saturday.

Miss Nell Kastler returned home Tuesday after spending the past few weeks with relatives in Dakota.

Harry Renicker of Eagle Grove has been visiting at the Reuben Reed home.

T. K. Whipple of Clarion was a business caller here on Saturday.

R. S. Wilson and family were Belmond visitors on Saturday.

Miss Esther Brooks is reported on the sick list.

D. Eley of Clarion has been spending the past few days in Cornelia.

The Anderson Brothers shelled corn on Tuesday.

Louis and Pete Kastler were Sunday callers in Belmond.

o o o o o o o o o

MESERVEY NEWS ITEMS

o o o o o o o o o

A. J. Nissen motored to Mason Ciy, Sunday, to visit his wife and new daughter at the Park hospital.

Meservey hiigh school baseball team played Ventura last Friday. The score was 17 to 9 in favor of Meservey.

Marvin Nissen accompanied Miss Sadie Frohling to Belmond, Friday night, to attend the Cho-Cho clown show.

Two of the large tile machines have completed laying the tile and are now filling the ditches.

Henry Luebke of Fort Dodge was in town several days last week looking after his farm interests.

A large crowd attended the mother's day program at the Evangelical church Sunday evening.

L. B. Hulsebus is at Deerwood, Minnesota, this week on business.

o o o o o o o o o

ALEXANDER NEWS NOTES

o o o o o o o o o

M. D. Latham was transacting business at Hampton last Saturday.

Prof. Fred Murphy was a caller at Hampton, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm, Aldinger and two sons were callers at Mason City last Saturday.

The Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen next Wednesday afternoon, May 18. The ladies will hold a plant sale at this time.

Miss Florence Nordmeir of Rowan former domestic science teacher of this place, visited at the Fred Greenfield home the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and baby visited with relatives at Webster City last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell and children visited at the Vernon Finkle at Hampton last Sunday.

Miss Ose Lidderdale has been spending the past week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Peters.

Miss Clara Oshel of Corwith visited at the home of Edd Richards the last of the week.

The Misses Alice Peters and Velma Larsen were among the Hampton visitors last Saturday.

Several of our young people attended the danc eat Thornton last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Modderman and daughter Esther were Hampton callers Wednesday.

Miss Alce Peters was at Hampton one day last week.

Dr. Steele of Belmond was a professional caller here last week.

Mrs. Carence Murphy and son Raymond, Mrs. John Murphy and baby and Mrs. Wm. Aldinger and sons visited with Hampton friends Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Larsen and sons visited relatives at Hampton friends and relatives Sunday.

Harry Scales and Mrs. Annabel Overman of Hampton were Sunday callers with Mrs. Mary Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peters and Art Peters were Goodell callers last Sunday.

Mrs Alta Barker visited with relatives at Alexander, Sunday.

Miss Grace Gartz of Belmond visited with friends here last week.

Geo. S. Yaw of Iowa Falls was a business caller in this vicinity the last of the week.

Mrs. Oscar Hensel was a shopper a Hampton last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell and Erma and Eldon and Miss Joyce Seegar were Latimer callers last Wednesday.

Mr. asd Mrs. J. C. Arends and family were Hampton callers Saturday.

A baby girl of standard weight was born to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Peck last Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Winwood, Mrs. Clarence Winwood and Miss Mary Winwood were shopping at Hampton, Saturday.

Mr. ond Mrs. Joe Veeder were Sunday visitors at Belmond.

While at play last Saturday, little Esther Modderman had the misfortune to fall and break her shoulder blade. The child suffered severe pain for a while but is getting along nicely at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Peters and two children visited with relatives at Dows, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yaw of Iowa Falls were Sunday guests at the Fred Rodemeyer home.

Mrs. Henry Bohman was taken to the hospital at Rochester last week where she will receive medical ai

o o o o o o o o o

NORWAY TOWNSHIP NEWS

o o o o o o o o o

(Too late for last week.)

The revival meetings were held at the T. H. Asbe home on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Asbe and family called on the Henry Asbe family Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Enge's children are down with the chicken pox this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elie Olson and family and Miss Elma Wicks took dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fatland.

Henry Fritz was a business caller at the T. H. Asbe home on Thursday.

Alvald Stole is helping J. E. Kalvig with his plowing this week.

T. H. Asbe took a load of hogs to Clarion on Friday.

The farm bureau met at the Else Evens home on Tuesday.

The Ladies Aid met at the home of Mrs. Elvin Enge on Wednesday afternoon.

Milfred Mehl was a business caller at Renwick on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kalvig were having some dental work done at Kanawha last week.

Mrs. J. S. Stole and sons and Mrs. T. A. Asbe drove to Clarion on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maage and family drove to the county seat on Saturday.

o o o o o o o o o o o o o o o o o

GOODELL NEWS ITEMS

o o o o o o o o o o o o o o o o o

J. D. Bachman was a Garner visitor Tuesday.

L. B. Hulsebus of Meservey was a business caller here Tuesday.

Mrs. A. N. Ahrenkeil was a Klemme caller Wednesday.

Earnest Nolte of Clear Lake was visiting relatives here last week.

T. H. Tompkins of Garner was calling on friends here Wednesday.

A very pretty wedding took place here Wednesday when Albert Hood son of Mrs. E. H. Hood, and Miss Agnes Finn of Traer, were united in marriage, Father Eardley of Belmond officiating. They will make their home west of Goodell.

"Mid Summer Eve" presented by the grades of the school was attended by a packed house. About $80 being the ticket sale. The different parts were handled in first class shape, and everybody present expressed it as being good. The teachers of the grades are to be congratulated for the success of the operetta as it took considerable time and constant patience and practice to drill the youngsters.

We are glad to report that Miss Dalphna Houghton is gaining each day.

Some of the streets of Goodell are being graded up and improving the roads considerablly. The council has ordered in two new crossings across from the U. B. church. J. D. Bachman is doing he work.

Mr. and Mrs. John Surballe of Garner were callers here on Thursday evening.

The weather of the past week has been ideal for corn planting. There are a few around here that have their corn in, while the majority are starting to plant.

Goodell high and Klemme high ball teams crossed bats on the Klemme diamond Friday. The game was air tight up to the 4th inning when the Klemme players sarted bombarding and the final score was 15 to 1 in favor of Klemme. The boys report the Klemme team as being good sports

Miss Mary Kernan was a Belmond caller Saturday.

Quite a number from here went to Belmond, Sunday, to witness the ball game between Mason City Independents and Belmond. Mason City won 4 to 2.

The Carl Engeseth family and Leslie Johnson spent Sunday at Rake with relatives.

Mother's Day was observed in a very appropriate manner atthe U. B. church. Special sermon was delivered by Rev. Miller, the choir furnishing appropriate songs and anthems. Miss Jenkins sang a solo.

A number from here attended the barn dance last Saturday evening at the Frank Brandt farm. Everybody reported a good time.

The American Legion of this place will give a dance May 13. Music will be furnished by the Church orchestra of Clear Lake.

Mrs. M. Cline is reported as having scarlet fever.

Goodell witnessed a fire Sunday at the Dan Miller residence. They were smoking meat, when the smoke house caught fire. The wind blowing at a good rate caused the cobs they were burning to blaze, consequently the meat rack, being of wood, caught fire. The meat was slightly damaged.

Relatives from Belmond were visiting at the W. D. Lester home on Monday.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cline s reported as getting along nicely.

HAMPTON TO HAVE BAND

If Hampton is to have a band this year, says the Chronicle, it will be necessary for the business men and citizens to donate liberally, and a committee will make a canvass for funds this coming week.

Hampton now has a good band and every business man knows that a band is more generally appreciated than any other one thing in the amuse ment line that a town can have.

Some people will wonder why the need of funds for a band now when we recently voted a tax for that purpose. This tax will not be available until next year so it will be necessary to provide funds for the support of the band this season.

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

OUR GLASSES
Relieve Headaches

Thousands of people drug themselves for headache, while EYE-STRAIN is really the trouble.

Our examination will disclose the trouble, and our glasses will relieve the strain.

F. C. Bras, Optometrist
WITH
L. A. Cederquist, Jeweler
Fort Dodge, Iowa
WILL BE AT
H. SCHULTZ, Jeweler
MAY 11, 1921

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS
—when you are business trained.

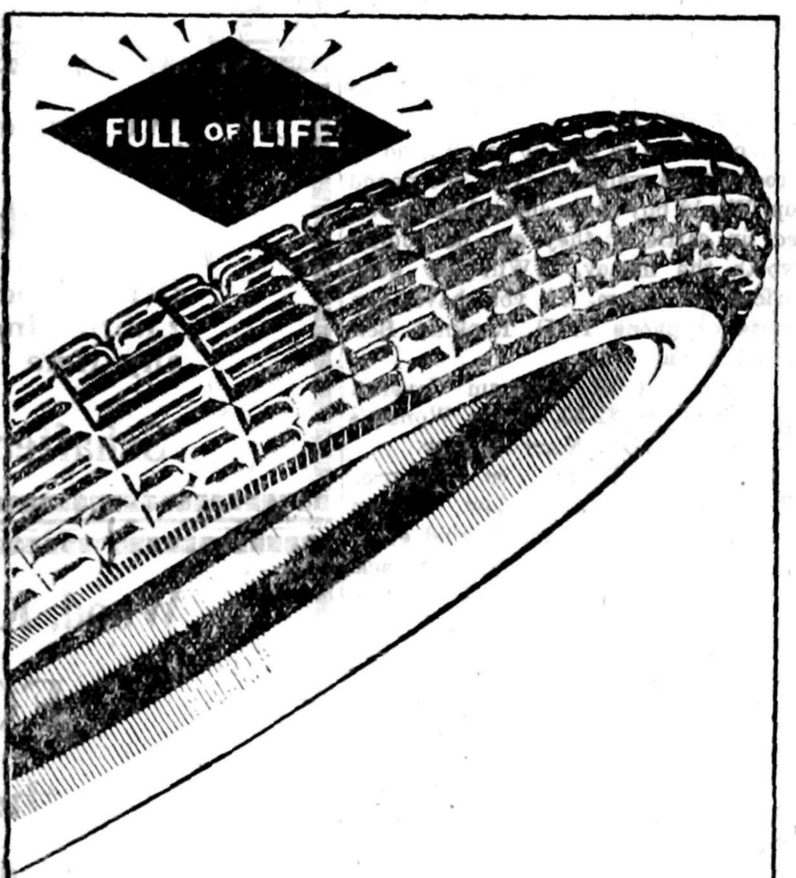
A course in our school is a real business experience. Sign the coupon and mail to us today for free catalog of information

I am interested in the courses marked:
( ) Secretarial
( ) Stenographic
( ) Bookkeeping
( ) Accounting
( ) Banking
( ) Commercial Teacher
( ) Civil Service

ENROLL any Monday in May or June for the SUMMER TERM
Fall Term begins Sept. 6

Name
Address

Fort Dodge Business College
W. F. McDaniel, Principal Fort Dodge, Iowa.



Diamond
TIRES

20 Per Cent Drop

We have received notice that all Diamond Tires are to be 20 Per Cent Lower

Present Your Car With a DIAMOND
"Full of Life" and the best and cheapest in the long run.

ASK US WHY

MOTOR INN
Phone 97
Ray P. Morris Alfred Swenson

Womans' Exchange

Second House East of Klemme Office

Bring in Your Needle Work.

Rates will be 20 per cent

A Nice Lot of
GINGHAM COVER-ALL APRONS
At $2.50

Orders for Home Baking Taken any Day in the Week.

Miss Mary Gealow

SYNOPSIS.

PART I.—Robert Hervey Randolph, young New York man-about-town, leaves the home of his sweetheart, Madge Van Tellier, chagrined because of her refusal of his proposal of marriage. His income, $10,000 a year, which he must surrender if a certain Miss Imogen Pamela Thornton (whom he has seen only as a small girl ten years before) is found, is not considered by the girl of his heart adequate to modern needs. In a "don't care" mood Randol~h enters a taxi, unseen by the driver, and is driven to the stage door of a theater. A man he knows, Duke Beamer, induces a girl to enter the cab. Beamer, attempting to follow, is pushed back by Randolph and the cab moves on. His new acquaintance tells Randolph she is a chorus girl, and has lost her position. She is in distress, even hungry, and he takes her to his apartment. There, after lunch, a chance remark convinces him the girl is the missing Pamela Thornton. He does not tell her of her good fortune, but secures her promise to stay in the flat until the morning, and leaves her. In a whimsical mood, also realizing that the girl's reappearance has left him practically penniless, he bribes the taxi driver to let him take his job, and leaving word with the legal representative of the Thornton estate where he can find Pamela, takes up his new duties under the name of "Slim Hervey." He loves the girl, but his pride forbids him approaching her under their changed conditions.

PART II.—One evening he is engaged by Beacher Tremont, notorious profligate, to drive him and Madge Van Tellier to a hostelry known as "Greenwood." Aware of the evil nature of the place, Randolph drives the pair to Greenwood cemetery. Infuriated, Beacher gets out of the cab and Randolph leaves him there, taking the girl (who has awakened to a realization of her folly) to her home. Madge recognizes him.

PART III.—In Randolph's apartment Pamela, pondering over the strangeness of the night's adventure, realizes she is very much more than interested in the young man. Next morning Mr. Borden Milyuns, her family's legal representative, informs her of her inheritance. Learning that her acceptance of the money will leave Randolph penniless, even the furniture of the apartment belonging to her, she proposes to divide the inheritance with him. Mr. Milyuns tells her Randolph is unlikely to agree to such an arrangement, even if found. He, however, agrees to do his utmost to find the young man. Wide advertising and the employment of detective agencies fail to accomplish this. Madge Van Tellier tells Mr. Milyuns of her encounter with Randolph. Knowing only that he is driving a taxicab, Pamela sets out to find him. The search naturally is a long one, but finally she comes upon Randolph in front of a hotel. Unseen by him she enters his cab, but when giving the starter her address Randolph recognizes her voice. The streets are slippery with snow, and in his excitement he smashes the cab against the curb, throwing the girl out.

"Well," said Mr. Milyuns, taking another scrap of paper from his pocket and handing it to her, "read that. It was left at my house this morning by a taxi-cabman, who didn't wait for an answer. You see that Mr. Randolph has handed over to you in perpetuity this apartment, Tomlinson, and all the other fixings. It doesn't look very much as though he intended to come back in the near future."

"But I want him to!" cried Pam. "I—I've been expecting him. I didn't half—half thank him for—for—" Tears of disappointment clogged her throat.

"There, there!" said Mr. Milyuns, leaning over and patting her hand. "I understand just how you feel, because Bob is one of the straightest, openest, most lovable young devils that ever went his own way through a delighted world."

Pamela nodded her head up and down in silent confirmation of all those kind words. She began to like Mr. Milyuns. She raised pleading eyes to his face.

"Won't you please find him for me?"

"My dear," said Mr. Milyuns, so promptly that if she had asked for the house and lot on the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, he would have promised it to her before he could stop himself. "I will. I haven't proved myself much good at the game, but I'll find Bob for you if I have to start a detective agency of my own. In the meantime, what are you going to do? I suggest that you accept these premises until the truant turns up—only, of course, we must get you a companion."

"'A companion?'" asked Miss Thornton. "But I have that already. Tomlinson is a dear."

"Tomlinson is splendid in his way," admitted Mr. Milyuns, "but he isn't quite a woman. You can't live here chaperoned by a mere male."

"Can't I?" said Miss Thornton, with a new edge to her voice and something in her eyes that made them look as though they were passing in review all the unchaperoned years since first she made her debut as an independent scullery-maid at Mrs. Blunkum's feed-house. "I shall change nothing here," she concluded. "When Randy—Mr. Randolph comes back, he shan't find his place cluttered with females."

Mr. Milyuns turned on her a gaze that was complex with admiration and a realization that he was on the way to biting off more than he could chew. He decided to sidestep.

"Can you be in this afternoon?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," said Pamela, involuntarily glancing at the door and betraying a half-formed intention to watch that portal night and day until death or Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph arrived; "I'll be in. Why?"

"Mrs. Milyuns and my daughter Eileen will call on you at about five," explained Mr. Milyuns. "Just one more matter and I must go," he continued. "Your income amounts to something over eight hundred dollars a month. I shall pay it in advance until you get settled and have a chance to catch up."

"Please send me only half," said Pamela, as she rose to say good-by.

Mr. Milyuns took her hand, dropped it, and started toward the door; but before he got there, he stopped and turned.

"My dear," he said, losing for the moment his birdlike, chirpy pose, "I don't want you to think of me as just your banker. I knew your father and your mother, and their fathers and mothers before them. I am fond, by old usage, of every drop of blood that runs in your veins. You won't forget that, will you?"

Pamela stared at him, swept toward him, threw her arms round his neck, hugged him, dropped her face on his shoulder and wept. Mr. Borden Milyuns stood very erect, his bald head held high, his pink cheeks puffed out, and his eyelids blinking at the rate of fifteen to the dozen in a vain effort to fan back an amazing lachrymatory inundation.

"There, there!" he said, patting Pamela on the back. "Who would have thought it, you adorable, lonely little girl?"

Pamela threw up her head and smiled through the sudden summer shower.

"I know it was ridiculous," she said, "But I couldn't help it. You made me like you all of a sudden, and I just had to, because you've had a bath and you look so clean inside and out." She kissed him as she broke away.

"I see; I see," said the astounded Mr. Milyuns, and beat it.

At two minutes after five the door-bell rang again. In spite of the fact that it was almost exactly the hour which Mr. Milyuns had set for the arrival of his wife and daughter, Pamela couldn't help hoping—but in vain. It was with a slightly resigned air that she received Mrs. and Miss Milyuns instead of Mr. Robert Randolph.

Mrs. Milyuns flew to her, set hands on her shoulders, searched her face with eager shrewd eyes, and said:

"Borden indeed told me the truth about you, my dear. May I kiss you?"

Pamela extended one cheek to the salute while her eyes wandered off to size up the tall, blonde, cool young person that she surmised must answer to the name of Eileen Milyuns. Being the product of two shorts, how on earth had she managed to grow so long? Her face was regularly beautiful, as though it had been carefully made to order like her clothes. She appeared as passive as a Palmer snowscape.

After a little skirmishing for position, the three ladies seated themselves in a triangle, into the center of which the well-trained Tomlinson ran a tea-wagon.

"Now," said Mrs. Milyuns, having emptied and put down her cup, "let's forget the sheer romance of the situation, my dear, and get down to practical problems. The first of all things, as you must realize, is the necessity of getting you a companion. Would you care to be our guest in Madison avenue until you can pick one out?"

"I would put clothes ahead of a housecat," murmured Eileen.

Her mother ignored the remark and kept her eyes fixed on Miss Thornton's perplexed face. That young lady seemed in no lack of something to say but rather in search of words and the plunging courage necessary to the saying. She drew a long breath and delivered herself of the following:

"Really, it's most awfully kind of you, but, as I told Mr. Milyuns, Tomlinson is such a dear that I am going to continue him as my companion."

"'Tomlinson!'" exclaimed Mrs. Milyuns, and then smiled indulgently for the first time during the interview, being under the impression that at last she had run into something appropriately naive in the bearing of her new charge. "Of course you can keep him on, but you must realize that you can't live here without a woman in the house."

"Oh, yes, I can," said Miss Thornton, a little breathlessly. "I have a feeling—I can't explain it exactly—that this apartment is a one-woman setting. As I said to Mr. Milyuns, I don't want to clutter it with females."

A silent laugh crept into the eyes of the marblesque Eileen; something inside of her sat up and took notice. She glanced round the room and murmured:

"Mother, she's absolutely right. I'm for her."

"'Right!' Eileen!" exclaimed Mrs. Milyuns, flushing in her indignation at finding a traitor in the home camp. "I don't know what your generation is coming to. The impossible is never right."

Having taken up her suave cudgel, Eileen was in no haste to lay it down, and may it be pointed out right here that Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton had the rare faculty of enlisting the nearest bystander to assume her battles for her, thenceforth becoming a charmingly interested onlooker, ready to watch the tide of her own fortune from the vantage-point of an entirely impersonal detachment.

"That's where you slipped, mother," continued the quite unruffled Eileen. "There's nothing impossible to our generation. Impossibilities are our food, drink and raiment. We're like those surprising orchid things that defy the usual laws and live on air."

"Yes," remarked Mrs. Milyuns; "any new air. But I didn't bring you here, Eileen, to be a stumbling-block to—to Pamela, who is suddenly faced with problems in the solution of which she deserves our sympathetic assistance."

"You've hit the nail on the head again, mother," parried Eileen. "You're not in sympathy with her, and I am; so you'd better hand over her check, and tomorrow morning at ten I'll be here to help her cash and spend it—if necessary." She turned to Pamela with a twinkle of anticipation in her eyes. "How about it?"

Pamela smiled back her bubbling smile, and then suddenly grew grave.

"Do you think I could order by measure?" she asked, and, remarking the hurt astonishment on Eileen's face, continued in rapid but nevertheless halting explanation: "You see, it's Mr. Randolph. This is really his apartment, and he may be back almost any —any day. I—I don't want to miss him. I—I wouldn't be out when he comes, for anything."

"H'm," interjected Mrs. Milyuns, but before she could make any further progress along that line, Eileen was on her feet and saying good-by among these other things:

"That's all nonsense. If Bobby found you here just as he left you, the first time he decided to turn up, he might never appear again. But if he finds you after two or three unsuccessful calls and just one day's shopping, he will never leave. Tomlinson will have to throw him out."

"Tomlinson couldn't," said Pamela, with calm complacency.

Gradually the sure shot made by Miss Milyuns began to take effect. The thought of new clothes—new smart suits, airy evening nothings, filmy undergarments, and solid-silk hosiery—stole Pamela from her intention of eternal vigilance and led her to say:

"After all, I will go with you, if it really isn't asking too much of you."

Thus was Mrs. Milyuns side-tracked for keeps, and on the following morning the two young ladies were wafted down-town in Mr. Milyuns' best limousine and proceeded to open a chain of credit-accounts, on the bare say-so of Eileen and in the name of Miss I. P. Thornton, that spoke volumes for the former's exclusive taste in fashionable purveyors and financial ability to humor it. Possibly the two would have shopped up to the moment of the present writing had it not been for the fact that Pamela knew all about money from the short end.

"I have finished," she suddenly announced.

"Finished what?" asked Eileen.

"Finished shopping," said Pamela. "I've been keeping account, and I've spent almost the whole check."

"'The whole check?'" exclaimed Eileen. "Why, you haven't touched it. That's the beauty of charge accounts. You can keep your checks to look at. I've got some that father gave me three years ago."

Pamela smiled a smile of much wisdom and made for the nearest exit. As a matter of polite formality, when they reached Fifty-ninth street, she asked Eileen to come up for lunch from the bachelor's buffet in the basement, and she could not help a slight feeling of relief at the news that Miss Milyuns had promised herself elsewhere.

"But I'll break away and come for tea at five, if you'll let me," said Eileen. "I simply must help you try them all on."

"All right; do," said Pamela, inwardly pleased that she would have some one beside Tomlinson upon whom to flash the first dazzling vision of her metamorphosis.

The first thing she did when she reached the apartment was to ask if Mr. Randolph had called; the next was to summon the office of Milyuns, Branch & Milyuns on the telephone to know what steps had been taken in the new search. She was somewhat surprised to learn that the entire firm had gone out to lunch in a body, and still more startled at the information, obtained three hours later from the same supercilious voice at the other end of the wire, to the effect that none of them had come back. She was young; she believed it.

(Continued next week)

Sport is Essential

But it is not enough for the well rounded man. Man HAS a body, but he IS a living soul. Of which are you more considerate, what you have, or what you are?

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Have You Seen Them?

If not, we want you to come in as soon as you can and see our line of

Those Good Old

Clothcraft Serges

Four famous numbers of fine all wool guaranteed serges in sizes and models to suit all, and at prices you can't beat.

No. 7130 All wool Gary serge $30

No. 7132 All wool brown serge $30

No. 5130 All wool blue serge $33.50

No. 4130 All wool blue serge $38.50

Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits

$27.50 $37.50 $47.50 $57.50

These are some of the reasons why our business is good every day. You see hundreds of other reasons when you call.

SPECIAL

Gildner's Jumbo Cut Work Shirts	95c
Oshkosh Overalls	$2.00
Rockford Sox	2 for 25c

Get to Know

Gildner Bros.

Iowa's Largest Clothier

Mason City, Iowa

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Belmond, Iowa,
May 2, 1921.

Regular meeting of Town Council, held in Town Hall, Mayor Barry presiding.

Members present: Greenlander, Johnson, Thompson, Wright.

Members Absent: Gfeller.

Petition of L. O. Skovlin et al regarding side walk on Vine street, was received and council order same be put in.

Petition of F. L. Mortimer et al asking for street lights on the hill received and referred to the light committee.

Councilman Ole Thompson presented Ordinance No. 121, An Ordinance Defining a Bootlegger and Prescribing Penalty for its Violation.

On motion Ordinance No. 121 was read the first time.

Moved by Greenlander, seconded by Johnson, that the rules be suspended and that Ordinance No. 121 be passed by one reading.

Ayes:Greenlander, Johnson, Thompson, Wright.

Nays: None.

Absent: Gfeller.

Moved by Wright, seconded by Thompson, that Ordinance No. 121 be placed upon its passage.

Ayes: Greenlander, Johnson, Thompson, Wright.

Nays: None.

Absent: Gfeller.

Moved by Johnson, seconded by Greenlander, that Ordinance No. 121 do now pass.

Ayes: Greenlander, Johnson, Thompson, Wright.

Nays: None.

Absent: Gfeller.

Mayor Barry declared Ordinance No. 121 duly passed.

RESOLUTION NO. 50.

Be it resolved by the Town Council of the Town of Belmond, Iowa, that it is deemed advisable and necessary to improve the streets, avenues and alleys within the Town of Belmond, Iowa, to wit: by constructing and laying permanent side walks along the streets of said Town abutting the hereinafter described real estate situated and located in said town of Belmond, Iowa, as follows:

Lot One (1) and E 1-3 of Two (2) in Block Twenty-three (23) of the Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. M. J. Thoe owner thereof.

The East One-third (E1-3) of Lot six (6) in Block Twenty-One (21) of the Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. A. W. Hill, owner thereof.

Lot Four (4) in Cutlers Addition of the Town of Belmond, Iowa. Trustees of Belmond Township, owner thereof.

West 49 feet of Lot Four (4) in Block Twenty-five (25) of the Original Town of Belmond, Iowa, or that portion of said lot on the west side of the present State Bank Building from the end of the State Bank Building to the alley south thereof. Said State Bank of Belmond being the owner thereof.

Lot Four (4) in Block Twenty-Three (23) of the Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. Standard Oil Company being the owner thereof.

The South 100 feet of the West One-third of Lot Eight (8) in Block Twenty-two (22) Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. E. A. Pierce, owner.

The South 100 feet of the West One-third of Lot six (6) in Block Twenty-two (22) of the Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. E. A. Pierce, owner.

The South 100 feet of Center One-third of Lot six (6) in Block Twenty-two (22) of the Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. Mrs. Anita Hake, owner.

The South 100 feet of East One-third of Lot six (6) in Block Twenty-two (22) of the Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. E. A. Pierce, owner.

The South 100 feet of West One-third of Lot Seven (7) in Block Twenty-two (22) Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. Rose Luick, owner.

The south 100 feet of Center One-third of Lot Seven (7) in Block Twenty-two (22) Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. Rose Luick, owner.

The South 100 feet of the East One-third of Lot Seven (7) in Block Twenty-two (22) Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. E. A. Pierce, owner.

The South 100 feet of East One-third of Lot five (5) in Block Twenty-two (22) Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. E. A. Pierce, owner.

The South 100 feet of West Two-thirds of Lot five (5) in Block Twenty-two (22) Original Town of Belmond, Iowa. Community Service Station, owner thereof.

Lots Two (2) and Three (3) in Cutlers Addition of the Town of Belmond, Iowa. W. E. McAlpine, owner thereof.

That said permanent side walks be constructed and laid in accordance with the established grade of said street abutting said property and that said permanent side walk be constructed of concrete material and of the same uniform width and thickness as the other side walks located and constructe along said streets.

That the property abutting said improvement shall be assesed as by law provided to pay the expenses of said improvement. And that the City Clerk of said Town of Belmond, Iowa, shall serve the above named property owners with copy of this resolution of necessity and unless said property owners construct and lay said permanent side walk along the street abutting their property within 30 days from the service of this resolution upon them, then the Town of Belmond, Iowa, shall lay and construct said permanent side walk abutting said property and assess the expense of said improvement against the property of said owners as by law provided.

Passed this 2nd day of May A. D. 1921.

M. C. BARRY, Mayor.

Attest: GUY BYERS, Clerk.

On passage of the foregoing Resolution, the following councilmen voted aye:

Greenlander, Johnson, Thompson, Wright.

Nays: None.

Absent: Gfeller.

Mayor Barry declared Resolution No. 50 duly passed.

Moved by Johnson, seconded by Greenlander, that H. H. Rierson be allowed the sum of $100.00 per month to act as Marshal, Street Commissioner and Pumper. Motion carried.

Mayor Barry appointed said H. H. Rierson as Marshal.

Bond of H. H. Rierson was received and approved.

The following bills were audited and allowed:

Bock Lumber Co., Mdse.	(R)	$ 51.85
Bock Lumber Co.	(C)	588.08
R. Thompson, Blacksmith work	(R)	15.50
Joe McClernon, dragging road	(D)	40.00
H. C. Clausen, shoveling gravel	(R)	5.60
C. O. Fitts, Clerk, 1 plow	(?)	5.50
J. D. Walton, labor in park	(P)	10.00
R. Thompson, labor and material on fire truck	(I)	170.20
C. J. Papousek, labor and material on siren	(I)	71.38
Belmond Independent, prtg.	(C)	3.98
Joe M. McClernon, dragging road	(D)	12.00
W. A. Thompson, meals for prisoners	(C)	2.35
S. S. Packard, killing two dogs	(C)	2.00
United States Rubber Co., fire hose and nozzle	(I)	193.36
Bohning & Co., mdse.	(C)	8.88
F. P. Dibble, draying	(S)	28.70
Belmond Prtg. & Pub. Co. prtg.	(I)	12.05
Roy Rowe to Wm. Voiles, labor at Town Hall	(C)	3.62
N. C. Packard, labor and material painting fire truck	(I)	28.70
J. H. Nourse, killing 1 dog	(I)	1.00
R .Thompson blacksmithing	(D)	6.75
Earnest Stadtlander, labor on street	(G)	1.00
I. H. Benson, labor on streets	(G)	6.70
John Demsey, labor and mdse. on street	(G)	3.45
Stanley Hill, labor at Town Hall	(I)	1.50
Lyle Sands, labor at Town Hall	(C)	2.50

On motion and second council adjourned.

GUY BYERS, Clerk.

FARMERS PUSH BILL TO ABOLISH GRAIN GAMBLING

The Capper-Tincher bill to abolish sepeculation in grain was indorsed on April 27 by representatives of farmers' organizations and by congressmen from the grain growing states.

L. E. Potter, representing Minnesota farm organizations, told the committee that "dissatisfaction over market conditions was producing bolshevism among farmers of the Northwest,' and declared that they wanted "the principles of gambling in farm products put out of business.". Representative Strong of Kansas declared that "gamblng in foodstuffs is a national crime." Representative Dickinson of Iowa urged the committee to confine the scope of the bill to the prohibition of hedging.

EGGS MUST BE CANDLED NOW

Since Monday of last week, the dairy and food commissioner of Iowa has required the candling of all eggs offered for sale to local dealers, and from now on until real cool weather sets in, this item of care and expense will be a charge against the egg business. Certificates must be placed in every case of eggs sold or shipped.

Announcing

The Formal Opening of the New

State Bank of Belmond

In its New Quarters

MAY 14

The Public is Cordially Invited.
Attractive Souvenirs for All.

YOU are most cordially invited to the new State Bank of Belmond on Saturday, May 14th, when our new building will be formally opened for business.

Whether or not you are a patron of this bank, you are interested in the progress of Belmond's business institutions, and the interest which you will manifest by a visit to our new banking home next Saturday will be credited, not alone to the State Bank of Belmond, but to the Greater Belmond to which we all look forward.

You, your neighbors, your friends, your family, are sincerely and cordially invited to attend the opening on May 14, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 10 p. m. The officers and directors will be here to make you genuinely welcome.

In the consolidation of the First National Bank and the State Bank of Belmond into the new State Bank of Belmond, with capital and surplus of $100,000.00 and total deposits of more than $500,000.00 Belmond will have a banking institution of which every resident may well be proud.

In addition to greater resources than ever before, there will now be at your disposal the combined experience of two institutions that have served Belmond faithfully and well for more than thirty years.

Souvenirs have been provided for all---flowers for the ladies, cigars for the men and candy for the children.

Remember the date, Saturday, May 14, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 10 p. m. And Come!

State Bank of Belmond

OFFICERS & DIRECTORS

Ole Thompson, Vice President
O. L. Varland, Asst. Cashier
Joseph Bohning
Joseph Pletch
Simon Simmerson
H. O. Stockseth

A. L. Luick, President
C. M. Morse, Asst. Cashier
G. F. Elder
R. H. Klemme
A.O. Hauge
Henry Groen

W. T. Gfeller, Cashier
W. C. Tyrrell, Jr.
M. C. Barry
M. F. Christie
T. A. Davenport

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 — BELMOND, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 18th 1921 — NO. 26

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH" AT AUDITORIUM

Belmond Walks Away With Second Game

Belmond Trims LuVerne To Frazzle Outplaying Them From Start To Finish Of Fine Game.

SCORE IS 9 TO 1 FOR BELMOND

Belmond's ball team walked off with second game of the season on Sunday, when they trimmed the fast LuVerne bunch to the satisfying tune of 9 to 1.

It was a fine game thruout, altho featured somewhat thickly with errors on both sides. It was mainly a duel beween the apposing pitchers, and Pillmer of Belmond came out on the top of the heap. But three hits were secured off his slants, one of them being a scratch, while the local bunch of sluggers gathered in a total of five safeties. LuVerne never got the ball out of the diamond for six solid innings, and not until the seventh did they get a hit. Up to that time the score was repersented on their side by a large, fresh-laid goose egg, and not until the eighth did they hatch the egg, when they put over one run, a homer, and one of the longest drives that has ever been made on the local diamond. The ball went high up, and the wind got behind it until the runner had crossed the plate before the ball was recovered. It was some drive, but Pillmer put on the brakes and from that on the LuVerne team was simply out of any kind of luck.

Dillon started the hitting for Belmond, and the rest of the boys put the wood to it thruout the game, not always for safe hits, but it was noticeable that Belmond was hitting the ball oftener than the LuVerne team.

The base running of Belmond was another feature of the game, the boys taking all kinds of chances and getting away with them. Packard especially ran wild on the bases. The Belmond team completely outclassed the LuVerne team in every branch of the game, stealing more bases, getting more hits, making fewer errors and running bases far ahead. The LuVerne heaver was no slouch at the business, and the fact that the home boys secured more hits from him than LuVerne did from Pillmer shows that the Belmond heaver was on the job. Pillmer pitches best when he gets in a hole, and on those occasions, when the hopes of the enemy are highest, they find the "pill" in Pillmer is the worst of all.

A large crowd was at the game, with everything orderly and no rag-chewing to mar the occasion.

On next Sunday, May 23, the team will take on the aggregation from Fort Dodge, on the Belmond field, the game starting at the usual hour. The Fort Dodge bunch are reported fast players, and things ought to be worth while.

KANAWHA ORGANIZES BAND

Reporter: Kanawha has organized a band and the boys held their first rehearsal Tuesday evening.

There were 18 present and several more who no doubt will be in later and we can see no reason why we cannot have a band in shape to give street concerts within a very short time.

Mr. Green, who recently located here, is in charge of the band and feels confident that he can make it a success if the members will do their part.

Kanawha has good material for a band and the business men of the town are eager to support such an organization, so if the members will just work together we can see no reason why the band boys' efforts should not be crowned with success this season.

The town of Clarion has decided to grade, drain and gravel the streets of the town on the roads running east and west from the main street. This will be good news to the autoists, for the roads in that town have been the bane of all drivers.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

Clipper: Mrs. Bertha Faulhaber is suing Jos. Faulhaber for divorce for the second time. They were married in Story county in 1903, and in 1910 were divorced in Hancock county. In 1912 they were remarried in the same county, and in May, 1920, again separated. There are two children, a son and a daughter.

In her petition for divorce Mrs. Faulhaber alleges that her husband had made improper advances to her daughter by a previous marriage, and also to an invalid sister. She further alleges he had frequently remarked that she, the plaintiff, should be saughtered, and had often used vile and profane language. She asks for $300 temporary alimony, $150 for attorney fees, $150 with which to secure witnesses, and on final hearing $1,500 and permanent custody of the children.

She is a resident of Pleasant township.

TELEPHONE OPERATORS TO HOLD SCHOOL HERE

The telephone operators of Belmond and neighboring towns will have a three-day school of instruction in Belmond on May 24, 25, and 26. The Belmond Telephone company in co-operation with the Engineering Extension Department of Iowa State College at Ames is planning this intensive short course to give the local central girls insruction in the most up-to-date methods of switchboard operation.

Miss T. Anne Barnes, Traveling Chief Operator of the Iowa Independent Telephone Association will be in charge of the instruction which will consist of talks, demonstrations and swichboard practice covering both local and long distance operating. Demonstration switchboards and subscriber's stations of most improved design will be provided to make the work thoroly practical.

All operators who care to avail themselves of the opportunity are invited to attend this school. While the three days will be crammed with demonstrations and instruction there will be time for the operators from neighboring stations to get acquainted and renew old friendships. Mr. T. A. Davenport, manager of the Belmond Telephone company, is in charge of the local arrangements for the school.

SUCH IS LIFE

In the lobby of a movie palace the manager put up a sign: "No smoking here; remember the Iroquois fire." The next morning he came down to the theatre and found, scrawled beneath his sign: "Don't expectorate here; remember the Galveston flood."

KEEPS A COMIN' 'ROUND

Every time you go down town
An' start to throw your money 'round,
Say 'Iowa-made-goods are the stuff for me'
Because they spell pros-per-ity.

The dollar you send to the Eastern shore
Says: "Good-bye Bill," for evermore:
But the dollar you spend in an Iowa town
Keeps a comin' and a comin' and a comin' 'round.

COMMUNITY CLUB TO STAGE OPERETTA

The grade operetta "On Mid-Summer Day", recently given by the grades at school, will be given at the park on this week Thursday evening, starting at 7:00 o'clock. The operetta is being given under the auspices of the Community Club.

Mrs. E. F. Bailey entertained some twelve of the ladies last week Tuesday at her home, in honor of her aunt, Mrs. Bergsma of Huron, South Dakota, who has been here the past few weeks visiting. Refreshments were served, and a very enjoyable time is reported. The out of town guest present at the affair was Mrs. Harris from Rowan.

When Is A Shimmy Like Stubbing Your Toe?

Clarion Dancer Says He Stubbed A Toe—Cops Say He Shimmied—Where's The False Teeth?

"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING"

On with the dance, let joy be unrefined. Such, evidently, is the way they look at it at Clarion, judging from the reports circulating and from the Clipper last week.

Said the Clipper: "It is said that at a Belmond dance a few days ago two young lady dancers shook such a wicked shimmy that the Belmond nightwatch almost swallowed his false teeth while staring at them in open-mouthed wonder." In another item the Clipper excuses some Clarion boys who were spoken to regarding their dancing, by saying one of them "stubbed his toe."

They should watch their step a little closer. The how-come of the affair, as we get it, ran something like this: They were supposed to be waltzing when Rierson one-steps in, after being informed by one of dancers present what was going on, and the Clarion guys changes the tune to a hesitation. Rierson takes the one step and the fellows start a two-step, out. Right away they sort of modified the dance, so to speak. Which showed wisdom, for Holver was right in the notion to give a few scalls—even at the loss of a nice set of "false teeth." Of course, Holver might have had to apologize after, but its doubtful, because Holver's a queer fellow that way, and seldom makes any apoligies to folks he takes in tow.

Anyway, he hadn't been among those present very long before the citified toe-dancers just sort of evaporated, oozed away, you might say, what for, who knows?

And after they had departed hence, not even an empty bottle remained to tell the tale. Some of them were feeling fine, and why not? They come from a good corn-belt district, like around Clarion. And they say, that if some of the citizens continue to increase what is known around here as the New Process of Concumption for the next ten years, it will mean salvation for the farmers, because the price of corn will advance with the demand. And, too, the grocers, for what about the raisins and prunes?

The problem, however, says Holver, is not the price of prunes of the future of corn, but whether the Clarion dancers mentioned tell how much of the moonshine it takes to tell whether a man has false teeth or not, and how much he has to soak in before he can tell the difference.

The best way, it would seem, would be to stick to the old familar hoedown or Virginny reel, instead of trying to shiver the shimmy, hump the Camel Walk, teeter the Turkey Trot, or invent something new like, for instance, the Toe-Stub Tumble.

But in the end, don't you know, it all depends.

ERLING LARSON ELECTED TO HONORARY FRATERNITY

Erling Larson, well known in Belmond and vicinity, was elected to Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary fraternity, at the University of Iowa.

For an undergraduate to receive this recognition at an institution of the standing of the University of Iowa, where competition is keen among several thousands of students, is an honor of which any new member should be proud.

Membership to Beta Gamma Sigma, a national fraternity, is based on scholarship, the eight seniors having maintained the highest grades in all subjects for the four years, being elected.

The Wright County Federation of Womens' clubs will meet at the Presbyterian church in Clarion on Tuesday of next week, May 24. The meetings will open at ten in the morning.

OBITUARY

DEVERE EDWARDS ANDERSON

It is with sorrow and heartfelt sympathy that we chronicle the death of Devere Edwards Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Anderson of Roscoe, S. D., on April 20, after seven weeks of severe illness with pneumonina

Devere was born at Belmond, Iowa, in 1905 and was aged 16 years, one month and 11 days.

For about 11 years he resided with his parents at Colville, Wash., and for two years they have resided on the farm two miles north of Roscoe, S. D. A large assemblage of mourning friends and school companions paid their last tribute of affection at the Presbyterian church on Saturday the 23rd. The service was conducted by the pastor, and the teachers and high school pupils very kindly offered their services in song.

Besides the parents, there were present at the funeral, Mrs. Anna K. Anderson, Albert, Ephraem and Oscar Anderson of Clark, S. D., August Anderson of Holinquist, S. D., Mr. and Mrs. E. Lindland and Mrs. Ed. Lundquist of Clark, S. D., mother, brothers and sisters of Mr. Anderson and Chas. Edwards of Dows, Ia, brother of Mrs. Anderson. The interment took place at Roscoe.

We can but pay our tribute to the life so soon eclipsed. Devere by his quiet, modest good will, by his faithfulness to duty, had endeaver himself to his teachers and schoolfellows. In his home he was kindness and consideration personified, and his courage and cheerful endurance and his constant efforts to cheer and comfort those who cared for him shall remain in the hearts of his loved ones, a memory full of comfort.

The tears fall fast—that nevermore
Shalt thou return to me.
But may the angels keep their watch
Ever "twixt" me and thee.
Farewell, oh, boy beloved, until
Earth's shadows roll apart,
Then, in that radiant light, again,
I'll clasp thee to my heart. ***

DELINQUENT AUTO LIST TOTALS CLOSE TO 200

Around One Hundred Ninety Delinquents On The List With Thirty Or More From Belmond.

The official list of the delinquent auto owners of the county was published last week, and the number of owners who have not yet paid their 1921 license totals around one hundred and ninety. Of these, over thirty are listed as being from or in the immediate vicinity of Belmond. A number of those listed from here are former residents who have moved to other towns. The Wright county delinquent list while of pretty fair size is smaller thas that of many counties of the state, the list going as high as four hundred or more cars in some counties smaller than Wright. In the cities it is reported the lists are being printed by installments, like a serial story. Those owners who formerly had their cars in use and who have since disposed of them to other parties or who have sold hem for junk, should put the facts before the county treasurer at once before they receive a visit from Sheriff Lang or the agents of the state. A determined effort is being made to round up every auto owner who should have taken out a license, but who to date for some reason or other has failed to do so.

ROUTE ONE ITEMS

Miss Vida Jenison and Miss Edna Guest were over Sunday visitors at the E. D. Jenison home.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Frislie of Dows spent Sunday at the S. A. Anderson home.

Mr. Frislie is a brother of Mrs. Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton S. Jenison and daughter of Albia, Iowa, and the Misses Nora and Marie Jenison took supper with the E. D. Jenison family Sunday.

A number of boys from this vicinity were fishing at Morse Lake, Sunday.

They report "no luck", three fish being the total catch.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY

Senior Class Play To Be Feature Of The Week At High School Auditorium On Friday.

BALL TEAM WINS AND TIES

Many Other Interesting Items Of The Closing Days Of School—Names Of Graduates This Year.

The following are elegible for graduation up to the end of the second semester. Just one six-weeks grades to make good on:

Ennis Allen	Magdelene Johnson
Grace Allen	Beatrice Leavy
Inez Boughton	David Luick
Olive Butts	Zola McGuire
William Chase	Mac McNamara
Mable Cramer	Glenn Morris
Agnes Dillon	Nellie Murphy
Helen Enger	Dortha Okrueg
Viola Hood	Archie Rierson
Leona Jacobs	Marvyl Robinson
Lyle Jenison	Alma Ruka
Wava Jenison	Donald Thiltgen

The Senior class play, "Nothing But the Truth," at the high school auditorium Friday evening, May 20, 8:15. Tickets will be on sale at Schultz's drug store. 50 cents. All seats reserved. No reserved seats will be held after 8:45 Friday evening.

A matinee will be given to school children Friday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. For children in the 6th grade and below 25 cents. Above the 6th grade 35 cents. Pupils not attending the matinee will have study periods supervised by a teacher.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"
Cast of Characters.

Robert Bennet, "Bob," a young stockbroker who says that he will tell the truth for 24 hours—Donald Thiltgen.
E. M. Ralston, the head of the firm who bets it cannot be done.—Wm. Chase.
Richard Donnelly, "Dick," another young stockbroker who is in on the bet.—David Luick.
Clarence Van Dusen, "Van," a sarcastic young stockbroker.—Lyle Jenison.
Bishop Doran.—Archie Rierson.
Gwendoline Ralston, "Gwen," in love with Bob.—Ennis Allen.
Mrs. E. M. Ralston, the bewildered wife of E. M.—Agnes Dillon.
Ethel Clark, a friend of Gwen's.—Inez Boughton.
Vaudeville Girls: Sable Jackson, Mable Jackson.—Alma Ruka, Marvyl Robinson.
Martha, A Maid.—Olive Butts.

The annual staff have found it impossible to give their advertisers free copies of the Annual, but the copies are only $1.00 apiece. This is a very small amount for such a book, and we feel sure that everyone will understand why free copies can not be given. The Annual Staff wishes to thank the people who have so kindly advertised and helped to make the Annual possible.

The long looked for day at last arrived! Monday the first Annuals in the history of Belmond High School were put on sale. Excitement ran high when the pupils knew that at last the Annuals were out. Judging from the comments. every one seemed very well satisfied. The Class of 1921 are very proud that they were the first class to put out a Belmond high school annual.

The Independent did some very good work on the Annual and the Annual Staff thank them for their interest and co-operation.

We have very few copies left. Anyone wanting one, see or phone Grace Allen, No. 315.

Do you want a lecture course in Belmond next winter? If you do, we must secure signatures for 250 season tickets at $1.50 per ticket. At present we have signers for only 96 season tickets. We must have 150 more signers at once. You need not pay for tickets until they are delivered next November.

(Continued on page four.)

FREE AIR!

The school play this week ought to prove mighty good, if it lives up to its title, "Nothing But the Truth."

Powerful lot of opportunity to be found in that. Just, for instance, suppose this little Sunday school paper was to come out next week and print nothing but the truth?

Of course, we aim to print the truth, the whole truth and "nothing but the truth," but suppose we gave it just as it really was, without any trimmings or smoothing over.

We'd tell the exact truth about things, and not gloss 'em over a bit, no salve or taffy or lasses; "nothing but the truth."

The next morning, 27 minutes after the papers went into the mails, a dark streak would be seen headed for the Franklin Grove, which would be us, and several rods behind would be a still darker cloud, which would be a flock of bullets.

And in the far background would be a cloud of dust, violently agitated, which would be the general public and its followers.

Can no do.

There lives no man so hopeless and woebegone, so pessimistic and tired of life, that he dare tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. It ain't human, to say nothing of being possible.

Some of you married men, who get home late at night occasionally, instead of telling friend wife that you were at the lodge, or talking business with Jones, or that you worked late at the office, or any of the rest of the trite and moth-eaten excuses, try telling her the truth. If you get away with it, and come thru alive and sound, then we'll admit your wife is a bigger fool than you are, which is saying something.

It can't be done. Especially when its a newspaper. There was once a newspaper man who started out to print "nothing but the truth," but he had to stop before he got started: he was dead.

The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Yessir, that play ought to be worth seeing, just to see how impossible it is. Such things have to be fiction, because otherwise it wouldn't be truth. Think it over.

And still the names come in for Spruce street. The latest suggestion follows the same line as the name given last week: "Speedway."

Very appropriate, and one which should be carefully considered by the council in reaching their decision.

The law is now out on fish and lies. We had one we were going to spring, but since hearing some of the others we have concluded we are in the piker class and should not speak in the presence of our betters.

STATE BANK OPENING DRAWS BIG CROWD

The formal opening of the new State Bank was attended by a record crowd, there being close to seventeen hundred who registered at the bank last Saturday.

The bank was very beautifully decorated, with a phonograph playing, and favors on hand for the visitors: flowers for the ladies, cigars for the men, and candy for the children.

The new bank building is of one of the best and most convenient of its kind in northern Iowa. Besides two check counters, just inside the door, there are four general business windows, a savings window, seperate customer's safe deposit vault, coupon room, telephone booth, two private rooms for customers, a separate room for the ladies all complete, a writing room and a large community room situated over the bank's vaults.

Howard Wolle was spending the first of the week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolle. He has been working at Sioux City the past winter for the telephone company at that place, but recently resigned his position there to take one with the Dyer company, doing electrical work on the roads for a sugar factory they are erecting a sugar factory. He leaves this week Thursday, and expects to remain in Honduras until the factory is completed.

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

FARM BUREAU PICNIC A SURE GO

Plans are still in the process of making for the Wright County Farm Bureau picnic which is to be held next month. The county agent and the executive committee have been working hard to secure either Ex-Secretary E. T. Meredith or E. H. Cunningham, secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation for the principal speaker of the occasion but have been unsuccessful in securing either one of these gentlemen for the occasion.

Mr. J. F. Coupe, assistant secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation has been secured to give the principal address of the picnic and June 9th is the date that has been set when all farmers, their wives and children of Wright county will be asked to lay aside their work, forget their troubles on the farm and enjoy a full day of speech making and fun making which has been arranged to take place at the fair grounds south of Clarion.

Mr. P. C. Taff, assistant state club leader, has also been secured for the program at the picnic. Mr. Taff will explain in detail how the club work can be organized in Wright county, wh-' the advantages of such a club are to the parents and to the community in genera. 'Ve feel that the club work has been neglected in our local farm bureau and it is hoped that by getting the state club leader to speak to us we will get suggestions which will enable us to carry on this most important project to all farm bureau activities.

The various sub-committees have not reported as yet what their plans are for the different departments of the picnic, but we presume that they have great surprises in store for us when the day finally arrives.

Announcement of the complete program for the picnic will probably be made in the next week's issue of the county papers.

GIRLS' CLUB LEADER COMING

Miss Josephine Arnquist, state leader for girls' club work, is coming to Wright county Saturday, May 21st, to meet with the officers, cooperators and all members who are interested in girls' club work.

All mothers, in fact all women, who are interested are urged to attend the meeting at the county agent's office May 21st, at 2:00 p. m., at which time Miss Arnquist will present the club work and give plans for organizing and carrying forward the work in our local farm bureau.

[illegible]AY RING ACTIVE

Troy township has the distinction of being the first township in Wright county to organize a community spray ring. About 15 farmers living in Troy conceived the idea that considerable time and an enormous amount of money could be saved by pooling their interests in the purchase of a power spraying outfit.

With this in mind this group of Troy township farmers have purchased and are now operating a three-horse power gasoline sprayer in spraying the orchards in their territory. One man has been employed and will give his full time to operating are spraying outfit until every farmer who is a member of the spraying ring has been served. Let those who doubt the value of organization look at this organization for a moment and ask if it is worth while.

CEDAR FALLS CONFERENCE

The Iowa Farm Bureau conference of the Third congressional district which was held at Cedar Falls, Wednesday, May 11 was attended by about 150 farmers, federation officers, county agents and the state county agent leader.

A. L. Middleton of Eagle Grove, who is a member of the executive committee of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation from the Third congressional district, presided at the meeting and gave a most interesting discussion of the plans of the marketing committee of seventeen. Mr. Middleton handed out facts and figures which were of such vital interest to his listeners that everyone seemed disappointed that he was not allowed more time on the program for the discussion of this great marketing problem.

County Agent Leader Murl McDonald gave a short snappy talk on the important problems which are facing the farm bureaus at present. Mr. McDonald made special mention of the great responsibility which rests upon the officers of the Farm Bureau in giving their hearty support to the employed agent in accomplishing the projects which have been laid out for the year's work. He enlarged upon the thought that the farm bureau organization will be just what its officers make it and that the success of farm bureau work in any one township will be measured in a large degree by the support and co-operation given to the county agent by the township chairman and his co-workers in that particular township.

Each county in the Third district was represented by its county agent and officers and members of its organization. Wright county was represented by A. L. Middleton of Eagle Grove, from Troy township, and by R. M. Edwards, county agent. Certain resolutions pertaining to membership collections and to taking new membership were passed at this conference and will be read at the next board of directors meeting.

CHEESE MAKING EXPERT IS COMING

A. W. Rudnick, secretary of the Iowa Buttermakers association, will be in Wright county in the vicinity of Clarion to demonstrate the method of making commercial cheese on Tuesday, May 31 all day. Lake and Grant townships have asked for this demonstration and take this method of extending an invitation to all farmers wives who are interested in seeing his demonstration on cheese making.

Since the two townships have asked for this demonstration and since Mr. Rudnick can only give us one day for the demonstration it becomes necessary to have a joint meeting and this will be held at the home of Mrs. James Bell, four miles north of Clarion.

OLD FASHIONED GATHERING

The regular monthly meeting of the Iowa township farm bureau which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph in Rowan on Friday evening, May 13, was attended by about 125 enthusiastic farmers, their wives and children. The social good time which was enjoyed by all who attended this program would seem to indicate that the farmers have not forgotten how to get together for a good time community meeting and best of all to furnish their own entertainment.

The county agent, who acted as chairman of the evening, opened the program with a few short remarks which was followed by the main address of the evening by C. L. Hall, chairman of Grant township farm bureau. Mr. Hall entertained his listeners for half an hour or more by telling them of the activities of the farm bureau of the past and present. Mr. Hall, who has been one of the most active officers in our local farm bureau, has had an intimate association with the inside workings of our local farm bureau and for that reason his talk was of vital interest to everyone present. He started his speech by apologizing for not being a more polished speaker, but before he completed his talk he convinced his listeners that he was well versed in his subject and had a pleasing way of presenting it. Mr. Hall is a man of conviction, and is a loyal farm bureau booster from the word go.

After the main address of the evening the meeting was thrown into a rather informal affair and the exciting part of the program began. Old fashioned games were played and before the evening was over each person seemed to feel that he or she was well acquainted with everyone else at the social. If no other good should come from this evening's entertainment we are sure that the fact that these good farmers have gained something by meeting with one another and talking over one another's problems. Indeed such social entertainments are going a long ways towards bringing the farmers closer together in a better understanding of the great problems before us today.

WOOLSTOCK MUSICAL PROGRAM

The Woolstock township farm bureau is planning a musical entertainment to be given at the Head Grove school Friday evening, May 20, at 8:00 o'clock.

A. S. Chapman and Miss Gertrude Schutt township chairmen for Woolstock, are very anxious to have all farmers, their wives and children make a special effort to attend this program which the committee has spent so much time in preparing. The following is the program:

Piano solo ---------- Gladys Long
Reading ---------- Arleen Smith
Piano solo -------- Genevieve Rohrer
Piano and violin duet
-------- Mr. and Mrs. Echelberger
Reading -------- Vera Schumacher
Piano solo ---------Mrs. Geo. Bernard
Piano solo ------ Gertrude Schutt
Vocal duet ----------------------
------Irene Larson, Helen Nelson
Reading ------------ Gladys Schutt
Piano solo ---------- Vera Bernard
Vocal duet ----------------------
------Donald and Eleanor Rohrer
Pantomine -------- --Viola Nelson
Vocal solo ---------- Vera Crovisier
Vocal duet ----------------------
Mrs. Ted Frakes, Mrs. Geo. Croviser
"Clubs Are Trumps" ------------
---------A play by seven children Maude and Elva Shillington, John Rink, Robert Crovisier, Cecil Bernard, Viola Nelson, Virginia Kirstein.

HORSES CUT TO SHREDS RUNNING WITH DISC

Hampton Chronicle: Emerson Davis, who works for James C. Hannah, who operates the Charles Harrison farm north of Hansell, made a lucky escape one day last week, when he barely got away from in front of a four-horse team as they started out on a brisk runaway.

Mr. Davis had just hitched the horses to the disc for the afternoon work when the runaway took place. One of the horses, a colt, was bitten on the neck by another animal which was hitched at his side, and the colt made a quick move and stepped one of his legs over the tug. The rubbing of the tug on his leg frightened him and he gave the signal for a race, and in a moment all four horses were ready for a speed tryout. Mr. Davis was in front of the horses at the time, but soon found that if he did not get out of the way he was liable to be ground up into sausage—so he moved and made his escape. By the time the four horses were imitating a merry-go-round, and before going very far one of the horses fell down and the disc was pulled over him.

Everything was getting badly mixed up, lines, horses and harness, and they made another turn and ran the disc over the same horse again, and then the whole batch of horses went down in a heap, and were so tangled up that they could not move another foot.

After a whole survey of the transaction was made it was decided to kill the injured horse in order to relieve its suffering. He looked like he had been thru a meat slicer.

CLOVER FIELDS BEING RUINED

Two species of leaf-feeding cater pillars are seriously injuring red clover fields in southern counties of Iowa. In many cases, according to F. A. Fenton of the entomology department of Iowa State college who has been investigating the outbreak, fields are killed to the extend of 75 percent. From a distance they look as tho they were burned over but on closer examination it is found that they are literally alive with these worms and that the sprouting clover has in many cases been completely eaten out at the crown, and the plants killed.

One species is the larvel stage of the clover leaf weevil, a close relative of the alfalfa weevil. This is the smaller of the two, is light green in color with a white stripe down the middle of the back. The other species is much larger and brown in color with a series of markings down the back, diamond shapped, and an indistinct stripe along the side. The principle damage is being done by this species which in many fields is the more abundant of the two.

When the fields are mostly killed over the only remedy is to burn them over, if there is chaff enough to give a hot blaze. Then they may be plowed under and planted to some other crop. This treatment will kill the majority of the worms and prevent them from giving rise to future broods this summer.

If the clover is not killed and there are large numbers of the worms in the field they may be killed by scattering the poison bran mash among the worms. This will kill the cut worms but will not control the leaf weevil. The latter is the less injurious of the two and if very abundant is often killed off by an epidemic fungus disease which almost invariably developes. Owing to the large numbers of these weevil larvae in the field and probably that they will be killed by this disease it is inadvisable to turn stock into the fields, as the diseased larvae often causes symptoms of poisoning in animals that have eaten large numbers of them

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, coedine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

HAMPTON TELEGRAPH OFFICE MOVES UP TOWN

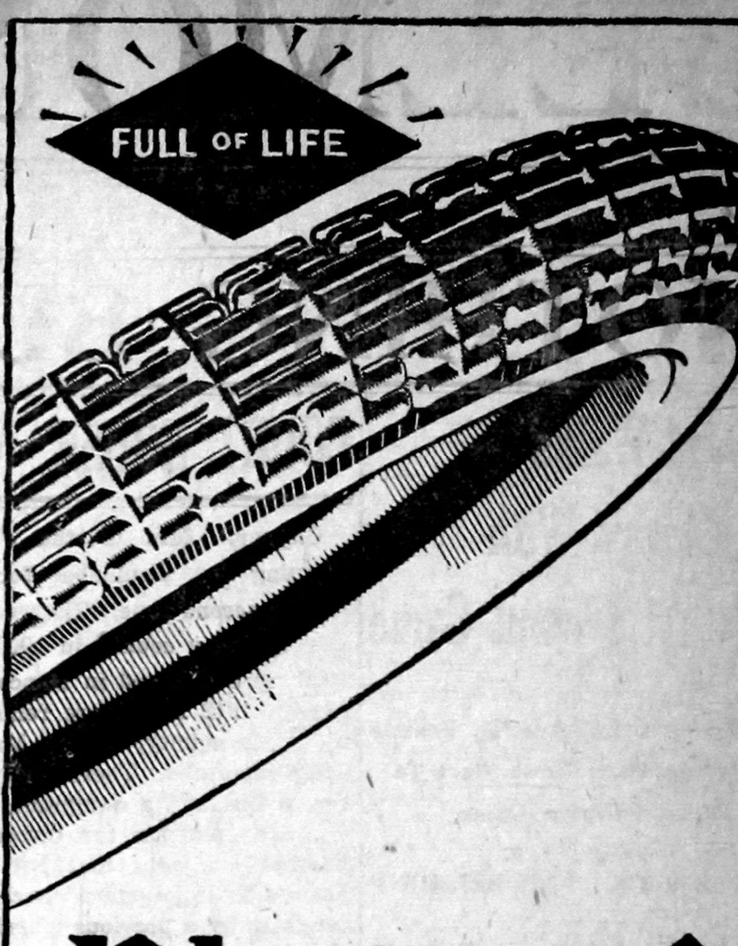
Chronicle: The Western Union Telegraph company has finally been prevailed upon to move their headquarters from the M. & St. L. depot to an uptown office, ands quarter in the Hotel Coonley have been leased for that purpose. The rooms which have been used as a ladies' waiting room on the first floor have been leased by the telegraph company, and it is expected that they will have the necessary changes made so they can occupy the new quarters by the first of June, or not later than the first of July. E. Mezro, manager of the Coonley hotel received a dispatch from the division superintendent of the Western Union last Monday morning accepting the lease on the quarters in the hotel building.

The new arrangement will be received with much delight by the people of this city and transient public who use the telegraphic service quite extensively. An effort has been made to secure an uptown telegraph office in Hampton for many years and the Hampton Commercial Club had just about completed arrangements with the company to give the town this service when the war came along and blew the plans to the four winds The new quarters in the hotel building will give the company a desirable location and it will be convenient with the public, with an outside entrance from the lobby of the hotel.

Why not make the telegraph service in Belmond into a similar office? Belmond surely needs it; the business men and public want it; a little investigation and agitation in the matter could accomplish wonders.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.



Diamond TIRES

NEW PRICES:

Size	Smooth Case	Squeegee Case	Grey Tube	Red Tube
30x3	$12.50	$14.00	$2.25	$2.75
30x3 1-2	15.35	16.60	2.65	3.20
31x4	21.45	23.25	3.55	3.90
32x3 1-2	18.90	21.00	3.00	3.40
32x4	25.15	27.95	3.65	4.10
33x4	26.40	29.40	3.85	4.25
34x4	27.00	30.00	4.05	4.45

War Tax Extra

MOTOR INN

Phone 97

Ray P. Morris Alfred Swenson

The Belmond Independent Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

ROWAN NEWS

Help make your home news interesting. Phone your news items to 62.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz of Clarion spent Sunday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher.

Edgar Mantle visited Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs, at Goodell.

Mrs. Fred Brooks decorated the invitations and place cards for the graduating class at Miles, Iowa, this week

Miss Izetta Fletcher started a six weeks term of school, Monday, at the school two miles north of Maple Grove church. They have been repairing the school house so it made the term late in starting.

Mrs. Lizzie Brooks and Mrs. Etta Carr were entertained to dinner on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tresidder.

Mrs. W. R. McCallum was a dental caller at Clarion, Tuesday.

Frank Snyder was a county seat visitor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval and Mrs. D. K. Stout spent a pleasant afternoon Monday at Elm Lake fishing.

Will Brooks and son John of Waverly visited at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks, several [illegible] this week and called on other re[illegible]tives in town.

Monday night Gay Fletcher, Guy Sheldon, Will Whitten, Dean Fitz, and Leonard McCallum went to Elm Lake to fish. They caught a good many.

Mrs. Theo. Hansen returned Tuesday from Chicago where she has been for the past three weeks with Mr. Hansen, who has been at the Presbyterian hospital. She stopped at Coulter to get their son, Raymond, who has been staying with relatives at that place during his father's absence. Mr. Hansen came home Wednesday morning.

Earl Bailey was a Fort Dodge caller Wednesday.

Eugene Harson returned Wednesday from Pocahantus, where he has been for a short time.

Elmer Spears was a Belmond caller Wednesday.

Mrs. Ed. Bailey and Mrs. Fuller Bailey spent Tuesday night at Iowa Falls visiting Dolly Riley who is attending school at Ellsworth college.

Mr. McCormick of Dumont, the new foreman on the C. G. W. section, came Sunday and began his work Monday morning. He is boarding at the A. A. Williamshome.

Monday night the committee from the two churches met with the committee from the American Legion and some of the civilians to plan for Memorial Day. The following committees were selected: Mrs. G. R. Stumph and Mrs. Fred Brooks on flower committee to secure and prepare flowers and wreaths and boquets Mrs. Bert Pelly, chairman, music committee, LaVonne Ballou, assistant Rev. Tomkinson chairman committee on speaker James Rowan, assistant; F. H. Brooks chairman committee on transportation, R. H. Virden assistant; Geo. Pritchett appointed marshall; S. B. Heath chairman outside commitee, Bert Pelly, Clarence Lindsey, Dan Fletcher and L. A. McCallum assistants; Mrs. Geo. Pritchett chairman committee to arrange school children for parade, Mrs. C. M. Myers and Mrs. Snow assistants.

Mr. and Mrs. Tice Streveler and children motored to Popejoy Sunday of last week to visit relatives for the day.

Mrs. Fred Knuths and her two children visited at the Irvin Knuths home Wednesday.

Susan Duffy went to Cedar Falls, Wednesday, to visit her sister Mildred, who is attending school at the state teachers' college, and also to be present at the May Day fete which is held each year. Miss Bertha Olsen of Coulter accompanied her.

Mr. and Mrs. George Whitten and daughter Vinnie and little Ivan Williams visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peddle near Coulter, Thursday.

Mrs. J. H. Streveler, who has been visiting her son Tice, returned to her home at Waterloo on Tuesday.

Mrs. John Taylor of Galt spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Knuths.

Russell Bailey was a Belmond caller Friday.

Mrs. Frank Kercheval was on the sick list several days the past week.

Alfred Fletcher went to Fort Dodge on Friday to visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lew Vennum and family.

The Boy Scouts met Thursday night James Rowen assisted Scout Master Fred Brooks to drill the boys for Memorial Day.

The hotel building is being repainted and papered inside.

Frank Kercheval is painting the outside of his residence this week.

Miss LaVonne Ballou was entertained at the Fred Kercheval home Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher and Mrs. Morris Sullivan motored to Ft. Dodge on Thursday. Mrs. Sullivan reurned to her home at that place.

Bernice Bailey went to Dows, Friday to spend a short time at the home of Mrs. Ole Erickson.

The Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. Etta Carr with Mrs. Guy Sheldon as leader. About 25 were present. Mrs. Tomkinson gave the report of Bishop Stuntz address which he gave at Algona. An interesting feature of the program was a mystery box in which Mrs. Tomkinson acted as Dr. giving out medicine in the form of questions on the lesson and any one not knowing the answer had to go before the nurses where they were given the answer and then gave it to the company. They say they remember the answers much better for having learned them in this way.

Mrs. Edith Harsen was very sick the first of the week but is better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kercheval were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsey on Friday evening.

Mrs. Wm. Steffens and her brother, Henry DeWald of Holly, Colorado, spent Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsey and Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alt Hackley.

Mr. and Mrs. Truesdale of Popejoy and Mr. and Mrs. Pascoe of Galt spent Sunday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley.

Friday night the south section of the Community Club of the Iowa farm bureau, Iowa township, entertained at the G. R. Stumph home. About 75 were present. There were two speakers for the evening, Mr. Hall from Grant township and Mr. Avery of Mason City, who is an insurance agent but very much interested in farm bureau work. They both gave very good talks. Mr. Edwards, the county agent, also gave a little talk. Dainty refreshments were served and the guests departed at a late hour voting a very pleasant evening.

The Freshmen of the high school entertained the entire high school on Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Ketchum. They report a fine time and lovely refreshments.

Mrs. F. D. McLeod of Dows was a passenger Saturday for Manilla, Ia., to attend the funeral of her father.

Miss Esther Fowler was a Clarion caller on Saturday.

Mrs. Charles Berger was a Clarion visitor Saturday.

The Doraldina Musical company transferred here Saturday morning enroute to Dows.

Mrs. F. H. Fowler went to Sioux Falls, S. D., Saturday, to visit her daughter, Mrs. L. N. Johnson.

Mrs. Roscoe Robinson and son Malcolm spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Parkensen of Dows.

George Wessels was in town between trains Saturday.

Miss Nordmeir and Miss Newman were Hampton callers shoppers on Saturday.

Miss Blanche Box closed her year of school work at the school south of the old mill site, Friday afternoon with a picnic in the woods. The pupils and their friends were present and report a fine time in spite of the cool day.

Mrs. Fred Brooks went to Clarion, Friday, to visit her mother, Mrs. M. Snyder, at the Fred Smith home. Mrs. Snyder's many friends will be glad to learn that she is beginning to improve in health.

Miss Wilda Whitten returned to her home Friday after a very successful term of school near Blairsburg. She had a program Friday afternoon and served light refreshments to pupils and guests. She is offered the school for next year at an increase in salary.

Mrs. Alfred Davis is very sick. She has been threatened with pneumonia.

Miss Evelyn Heathershaw and a girl friend from Clarion are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver.

The Cong. Ladies Aid society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. H. Emerson. A large crowd was present. The work was quilting. The society has been divided into five sections for serving. The following ladies served a 25 cent supper which brought the society about nine dollars:

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aldrich and daughters were Belmond callers on Saturday, where the girls had dental work done.

O. F. Braden is nursing a lame arm this week. He had an abcess on it lanced Thursday. It is very lame.

Mrs. Jack Henley, nee Edna Ball, and her little sister, from Clarion, transferred here Saturday enroute to Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs of Goodell spent Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph.

Mr. and Mrs. Halbrook spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCallum.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Stumph and children, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gates Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller and Mrs. Blanche Jennings were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Hill, Sunday.

The speakers have been secured for Memorial Day. Rev. Walker of Clarion will speak Sunday morning, May 29, and Chaplin Wolcott of Goldfield will speak Monday afternoon, May 30. Both services will be held at the Congregational church.

The M. E. Ladies Aid society will meet with Mrs .Roy Ryder Thursday afternoon, May 19. This will be a work meeting and all members are urged to be present if possible.

The Congregational Ladies Aid society will meet at the home of Mrs. A. H. Emerson ,Thursday afternoon, May 19. There are two quilts to work on so as many as can come try to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Townsan of Belmond spent Sunday at the Harris home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks and Mrs. W. R. McCallum were Belmond callers Saturday evening.

The regular meeting of the W C. T. U. will be at the home of Mrs. Frank Kercheval, Wednesday afternon. Mrs. Hannah Whitten will be leader .The topic will be "What Shall I render to God?" It is hoped that there will be a good attendance as it is sure to be an interesting lesson.

The annual convention of the Wright County W. C. T U. will convene at Rowan, June 2 and 3. The M. E. Ladies Aid society will serve meals to the delegates for one day and they will be entertained at the homes th[illegible] other day. It is hoped Mrs. Patterson of Sioux City will be the speaker for the convention but if she is unable to be here another state speaker will be secured so it will be well worth ones while to attend the meetings. The program will be printed later.

Tuesday evening the following people from Rowan were entertained to supper at the Will Azeltine home in Galt: Mr. Moulle, Mr. Morrison, Miss Mullins, Miss Nordmeir, Miss Newman, Lillian, Amy, Wesley and Ray Azeltine.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Azeltine of Galt visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peddle of Coulter were Sunday guests at the Geo. Whitten home

Friday night about 40 young people from the neighborhood gathered at the Irvin Knuths home and spent a very pleasant evening with Miss Vera Knuths as hostess. They were served with very nice refreshments and departed at a late hour hoping to enjoy many more such pleas[illegible] evenings.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bailey children, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Carr and children and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weber and family spent Sunday at the Mossman home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snow were guests of honor at a post nuptial shower given at the John Taylor home in Galt, Saturday evening with Mrs. Tayor and Mrs. Geo. Paterson as hostesses. About 30 young people were present. The evening was spent in games and music. Miss Inez Parsons of Clarion gave a reading which was enjoyed very much. Mr. and Mrs. Snow were the recipients of many lovely gifts. A very lovely luncheon was served and the guests all enjoyed the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snow motored to Rowan, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Snow returned to the Will Whitten home.

Saturday afternoon Ruth and Irene Weber were joined by about 13 of their playmates and neighbors for a picnic in the home yard. Then enjoyed the afternoon very much. They had a picnic supper out doors which was thoroly enjoyed.

Sunday the following guests were entertained at the J. E. Thomas home: Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bell and family, of Williams, Jim Thomas and lady, friend of Alden, John and Jake Thomas of Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen of Coulter visited at the home of their son Theo. and family, Sunday. Other guests at the Hansen home were Mrs. Newlin of Coulter, sister of Mr. Hansen, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheldon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eaton of Clarion visited at the Fred Williams home Sunday.

Fred Williams went to Dillman City, Mo., Sunday night.

The local Red Cross chapter is in need of more memberships in order to keep a local chapter in this community and also to be able to keep what funds we have on hand for emergency cases in this community. If you wish to keep your membership in the American Red Cross please leave your dues at the bank or with the local committee this week. Ch[illegible] man, LaVonne Ballou, vice chai[illegible] Mrs. J. F. Howell, secretary, Mrs. C. L. Lindsey, treasurer, Mrs. F. B. Sheldon.

The Rev. Washington of Gaza, Ia. occupied the pulpit at the Congregational church both morning and evening. He delivered two very fine sermons. Rev. Washington is a sincere and spiritual man. He comes to us as a candidate for thispastora te.

The list of teachers for the school for the coming year is as follows: High School—Mr. and Mrs. Holiday and Miss Maude Cowley; Grades—Mrs. Della Matsom 7 and 8, Miss Drahiem, 5 and 6, Miss McCutcheon 3 and 4, Mrs. Agnew 1 and 2. Th[illegible] a fine bunch of teachers and [illegible] hoped they will have the co-oper[illegible] tion of the parents and community to make this a good year of school

ROWAN M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Rev. Dr. E. Elliot, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Dows, occupied the pulpit of the M. E. church last Sunday morning while the Rev. H. Tomkinson spoke at the Sunday school rally at Dows.

The speakers for the Memorial Day and Memorial Sunday in Rowan are Lieut. Wolcott of Goldfield and Rev. J. Walker of Clarion. Arrengements are being made by the local post of the American Legion for the ceremonies, and everything points to a helpful time. All members of the Legion are asked to wear their military or naval uniforms. The Sunday service will be in the morning, and the Decoration Day meetings will [illegible] 2:00 p. m.

Union services will be held next Sunday at the Methodist church in the morning and Congregational church in the evening. At the evening service the Rev. H. Tomkinson will deliver the baccalaureate sermon. Special seats will be reserved for the high school graduatets and high school staff. The Commencement exercises will be held in the high school on Wednesday, May 25.

The Rev. H. Tomkinson has been asked by the local post of the American Legion at Thornton to deliver the patriotic oration in the park on Decoration Day.

The local committee of the W. C. T. U. are making plans for the coming convention at Rowan, which is to be held in the Congregational church.

Wood, Kindling and Nut Coal

FOR SALE

At the Sugar Factory

Also Dried Beet Pulp for Dairy Cows

Inquire at the Company's Office

Your Money Will Now Go Farther on High Grade Merchandise at this Store

MEN'S SUITS

The famous Embey line can be had here in all the latest styles and colors at only $27.50, $32.50 and $37.50

Other well made and high grade lines of Men's Suits at $15.00, $19.50 and $22.00

BOY'S SUITS

In a large and well selected assortment of styles and colors in all wool at only $7.00 to $12.00

Men's Blue Overalls, 95c

Men's Blue Work Shirts, 59c

MEN'S SHOES

Dress Shoes in Black or Tan, wonderful values at $3.50, $4.00, $5.00 and $8.00

BOY'S SHOES

A big line of Boy's Shoes; built to give the best kind of service.

Harry Marks

THE CLOTHIER

17 South Federal
Mason City, Iowa

Money Refunded on Any Unsatisfactory Purchase

We do not Sell Sample or Brokerage Lines

It's Rubber and It's Porous

In your storage battery are certain metallic plates used in producing the electricity. They have to be kept apart or "insulated" from each other. Why, then, has not the universal insulating material—rubber— been generally used between the plates of automobile starting and lighting batteries? Because rubber insulators as used in these batteries (unlike the insulation in other electrical products) must be porous.

The only known form of porous rubber suitable for this purpose is Willard Threaded Rubber. It lasts the life of the plates, and reinsulation is therefore unnecessary, saving you time and money. Knowing this, the manufacturers below use only Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries as original equipment. Can you do better, when you need a battery, than to follow their judgment and insist on Threaded Rubber Insulation?

These Cars and Trucks are Equipped by their Makers with Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries

Acason
Acme
Ahrens-Fox
All-American
Allis-Chalmers
American
American-LaFrance
American-LaFrance of Canada
Apex
Armleder
Atco
Atterbury
Auburn
Austin
Avery

Bacon
Bell
Bessemer
Bethlehem
Betz
Bollstrom
Buffalo

Canadian Briscoe
Cannonball
Capitol
Carroll
Case
Champion
Chevrolet
Citroen
Clydesdale
Cole
Collier
Colenial
Comet
Commerce
Commodore
Consolidated
Corliss
Crawford
Cunningham

Daniels
Dart
Davis
Day Elder
Denby
Dependable
Diamond T
Dixie Flyer
Dodge
Dorris

Elcar
Elgin

F W D
Fergus
Ferris
Franklin
Friend
Fulton

G M C
Garford
Giant Glide
Great Western

H C S
Hahn
Hatfield
Hawkeye
Haynes
Henney
Highway
Holmes
Holt
Hupmobile
Hurlburt

Independent
Indiana

Jordan

Kissel
Koehler

Lancia
Landa
Lewis-Hall
Lexington
Luverne

M H C
Madison
Marmon
Master
Maxim
McFarlan
McLaughlin
Menges
Menominee
Mercedes
Merit
Meteor (Piqua)
Metz
Miller
Mitchell
Moore

Napoleon
Nash
Nelson
Nelson & LeMoon
Noma
Northway
Norwalk
Ogren
Old Hickory
Oldsmobile
Oneida Oshkosh

Packard
Paige
Pan-American
Parker
Parrett
Patterson
Peerless
Peugeot
Phianna
Pierce-Arrow
Premier

R & V Knight
Rainier
Renault
Reo
ReVere
Riddle
Robinson
Rock Falls
Rowe

Samson (Canada)
Sayers
Seagrave
Shelby
Signal
Southern Standard
Standard 8
Stanley
Stanwood
Stewart
Stewart Y. F.
Studebaker
Stutz
Sunbeam

Tarkington
Thomart
Tiffin
Titan
Towmotor
Transport
Traylor
Twin City

Ultimate United Ursus

Velie
Vim
Vogue
Vulcan

Ward LaFrance
Ware
Werner
Westcott
White
Wills Sainte Claire
Wilson
Winther
Winton
Wolverine

Try this Experiment with a Lump of Sugar

Touch one corner to the coffee in your cup. You'll see the liquid drawn up until the lump is soaked—a simple example of capillary attraction, on which the action of Threaded Rubber Insulation depends. 196,000 tiny threads and every one a wick—doing its part to make the rubber porous.

Belmond Storage Battery Company

Phone 85

Batteries Called for and Delivered

RENTAL BATTERIES

Willard
THREADED RUBBER BATTERY

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

WM. NELSON
General Agent of the
Royal Union Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Des Moines.
Phones: Residence 39; Office 26.
Belmond, Iowa.

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

E. L. MADSEN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Telephone 302½
BELMOND, IOWA.

KENEFICK & PURDY
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Phones 46 and 148
Belmond, Iowa

TONSORIAL

W. H. GALLIGER
FIRST CLASS BARBERING
First door west First Nat'l Bank
Belmond, Iowa

VETERINARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

CHIROPRACTIC

DR. ROBERT McCLELLAN
CHIROPRACTOR
Phone 25
Office Over Belmond Furniture Company Store
Belmond, Iowa

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy. Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

NOW IS THE TIME

The stockholders of the Iowa Valley Sugar company have doubtless received or will receive this week a letter from the company, regarding the future of that concern.

That the company is in straitened circumstances is well known to all stockholders, and that the officials of the company have worked day and night to pull the company thru the present crisis is equally well known.

Now is the time for every stockholder of the Iowa Valley Sugar Company to come to its aid. The various measures suggested have been tried and discarded, and the appeal sent out this week is what might be termed a last-ditch call. The company, Belmond's Company, must have financial assistance NOW; later may be too late.

Two hundred thousand dollars of Belmond money has been placed in the Iowa Valley Sugar company. Without going into the facts which have placed the company in its present financial condition—every stockholder knows the reasons—the question before the holders of that two hundred thousand dollars is this:

Can you afford to lose it?

If you cannot, then, NOW IS THE TIME to save it!

The writer, personally, holds several hundred dollars in shares in the company, and personally does not feel that he can afford to lose what he has already put in by not doing his little part to save it. But what one can or will do, amounts to but little; the action of the whole is what will count. And the writer feels free to say, both as a stockholder and publisher, more or less familiar with the condition of the company, that NOW IS THE TIME to come to the front and fight.

There is no question of hanging back; either come to the front and back up your company and your money, or lose them both.

That, spoken bluntly, is the situation, gentlemen. You know and we know that the Iowa Valley Sugar company has made Belmond what Belmond is today. Without it, what would we have? Any business man of the town has noticed what a difference the mere closing of the factory has made in business. The operation of the plant has meant hundreds of thousands of dollars placed in circulation here; has meant thousands of increased business to the merchants of Belmond and to the county and surrounding territory; over five hundred thousand dollars was paid around here for beets alone last year. Can we afford to lose it? That too is the question. Can we afford to throw away this increased business because we will not risk a few more dollars to save it, and the money we have already placed in the company?

There have been all kinds of reports circulated regarding the company, the great majority of them the merest fabrications, utterly without any foundation of fact. There have been and still are, outside interests at work endeavoring to disrupt and disorganize the company, and too many have swallowed whole the tales these interests have spread.

Whether or not you as a stockholder can come in on the present appeal with 35 per cent of your holdings, you should come in with whatever per cent you can. You and the next man, all of us together, MUST come in for as much as we can. It is the call for definite and emphatic action: NOW IS THE TIME—NOW, or NEVER!

Which shall it be? Let each one of the Iowa Valley Sugar Company stockholders answer that question for themselves, and then act as they so decide. It is up to them whether their company shall live or die.

CHURCH NOTES

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

We reached the top again last Sunday in attendance which brings our average for the quarter thus far above the mark. Let us beware of a rainy day and put forth a double effort when it comes that we will not fall below for the quarter.

The district Sunday School convention last Sunday was well attended and was very helpful. We hope to profit by the suggestions.

There will be the usual services on next Sunday. Bible school at 10:00 a. m. The morning worship at 11:00 and the evening service at 8:00.

"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching services at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Epworth League devotional meeting at 7:00 p. m.

The sermon theme Sunday a. m. will be "The Method of Methodism Abroad," or some illustrations of the kind of work being done by our Foreign Mission Board. Some folks were happily surprised last Sunday in the nature and extent of the work done by our Home Mission Board. The message next Sunday will be still more illuminating. Whether a member of the church or not, if you have any interest in the progress of the Kingdom of God in this world, you ought to know something about the work it is actually doing. More and more people are coming to feel that the problems of today are not material and financial either in Church or State, but that our real problems are spiritual and intellectual. If America or civilization loses out in these days in any degree, it will be in the minds and souls of us. This is no time for the Church of Jesus Christ to be financially, socially or spiritualy timid and looking for the easy and soft road. We should be ready to march, not according to the speed of the lame and the timid, but of the courageous and conquering. It is a time when the Church, and we of the church, are looking not for the course that is easy, but the course that is best, regardless of how exacting it may be.

Go to Church Next Sunday! A welcome awaits you.

Our bi-weekly supper and "Get-together" Thursday evening. Supper served at 6:00 o'clock. Mr. Wm. E. G. Sanders of Emmetsburg will give an address after supper.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY

(Continued from page one.)

Ticket pledges may be signed either at the banks or phone to the school house. We have selected four good numbers for the course. All tickets are transferrable.

List of talent may be seen on the bulletin board in the post office.

Last Wednesday afternoon the B. H. S. ball team played the Meservey Giants on the fastest diamond in this part of the state. The game, thru the aid of the umpire, ended in a tie, 9 to 9. Meservey is to play the return game on the Belmond diamond on May 24. Plan to attend the game, as it will be the last high school game of the season.

Friday the Corwith boys crossed bat with Belmond and won 7 to 4. At times both teams played real ball, but the weather would favor foot ball more than base ball. The return game will be played at Corwith, May 21.

May 10 the B. H. S. track team went to Garner, where they competed with Clear Lake and Garner. The boys did well for yearlings, and will make other teams step some next year.

The Seniors ordered their commencement invitations last week.

Father Eardley was chosen by the Seniors to give the Baccalaureate sermon.

Misses Grace Gartz and Viola Menenga visited the 4th grade Wednesday.

Ursuline McGuire re-entered the 4th grade Monday after a long absence, due to illness.

Mrs. A. W. Russell visited the kindergarten Friday morning.

The greatest social event of the year took place Friday evening, May 13, 1921. The Juniors entertained the Seniors at the annual banquet, given in the school gymnasium.

Everyone came dressed in their best, and fitted with their most delightful manners. The beautiful decorations of lavender and old gold made a very appropriate background for these, besides making the gymnasium seem like a banquet hall. Everything went smoothly, not even a fork was dropped by the waiters, and the four-course dinner was a delight to all. But best of all, the feeling of good fellowship which prevailed thruout the evening relieved the formality of the occasion. A toast program was given, followed by the singing of the high school song.

The Junior class and Mrs. Peterson, the class teacher, deserves a great deal of praise for the planning and serving of the banquet. The Seniors wish to thank the Juniors for the courtesy shown them. It will long be remembered as one of the happiest times in their Senior year.

It's a satisfaction to know when you bring your Suit, Ladies' or Mens,' you are going to get Quality Work and Service done the Modern Way. The Hoffman Sanitary Steam Machine that does it, does not scorce or gloss, leaves your garment with the nap raised up and with all the body odor gone, all the dirt and spots out. Looks like new and feels like new, costs no more than the old way. All work leaving our shop is carefully inspected. As times are good and some people are liberal givers, we are going to give

A $75 SUIT
Tailored to your measure
ABSOLUTELY FREE!!
to every man or woman who brings in their suit and gets a ticket on this suit, the lucky person wins. Work at our regular low prices. Hats of all kinds, cleaned and re-blocked.

REDUCTION ON SUITS
We are giving you a reduction of from $5 to $10 on all Tailored-to-Measure Suits!

STAR CLEANER
The Hoffman Shop

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

Footwear for Graduation

There is nothing that will make or mar the graduation costume like a pair of Shoes.

We have made a special effort this year to carry a complete line of Pumps, Strap Slippers and Oxfords suitable for this occasion.

Satins, Suedes, Kids, Patent Leather

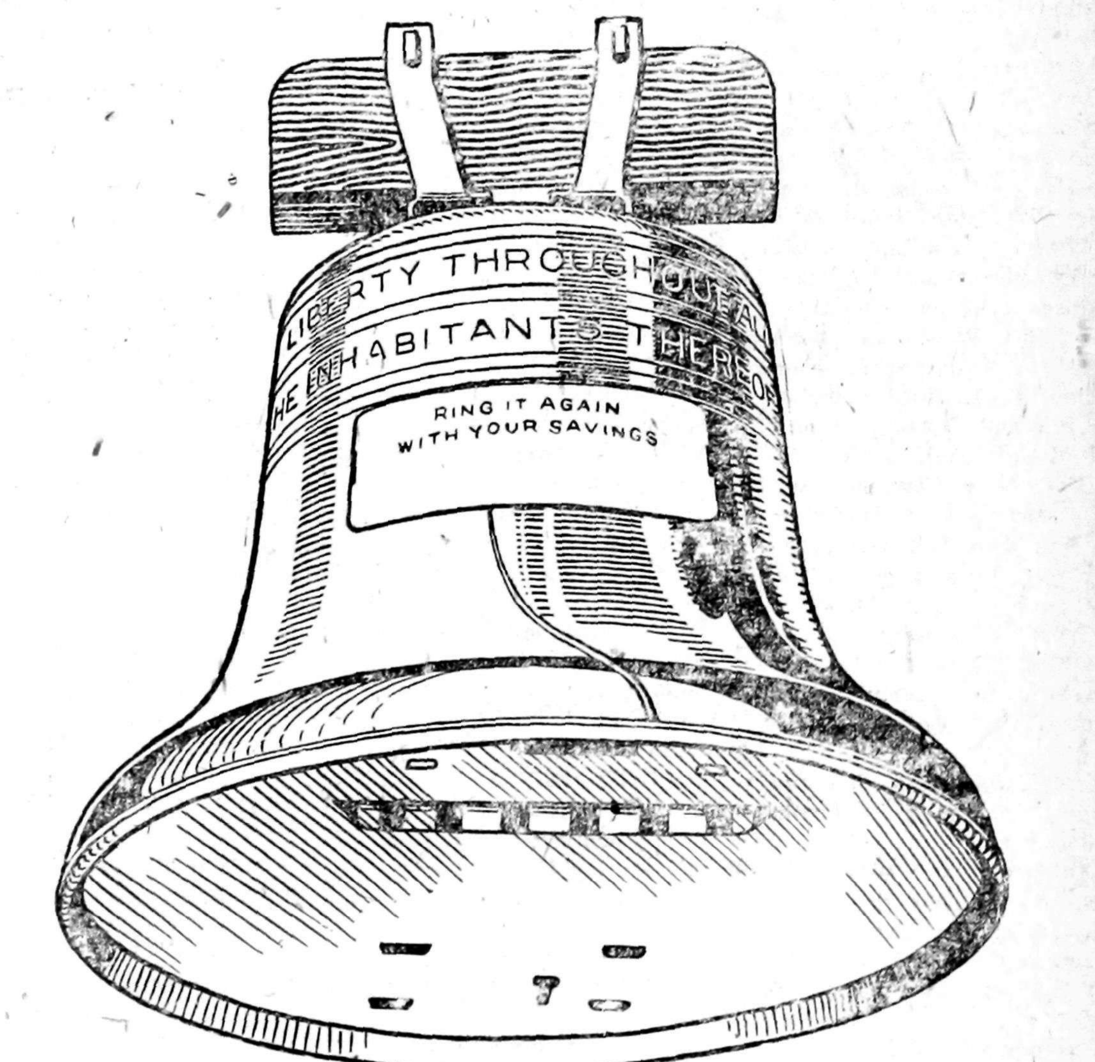
in all the new styles with either high or low heels. You will be sure to find some style that will please you. The prices are the lowest that we have quoted for several seasons

$6.00 to $13.50

Come in. Look them over. Try them on. We will be glad to demonstrate the superior fitting quality of these Shoes.

Woodruff Shoe Co.

115 N. Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa



We Put the Bell in Belmond

Did you know the Liberty Bell is in Belmond? Well, it is, right down at the State Bank---and lots of them.

There's one here for you too, if you will call for it. They are just the thing for your savings when you don't want to come to the bank with small amounts.

"Ring It Again"

is the slogan on each of them. Come in and get one and hear the good old Bell ring again when you drop your coins into it.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Belmond Local News

Says the Clarion Clipper last week: It was another joyous night in Belmond, Monday night, at the public dance. One of the Clarion dancers is said to have stubbed his toe, and the Belmond cops figgured he was doing the shimmy and asked him to leave the floor. He did. So did most of the other boys from Clarion. Then the Belmond boys tried to square things. But the Clarion dancers were pretty "sore" and say it'll be a cold day before they go back to Belmond for a dance. The authorities in Belmond say only safe and sane and sensible dancing goes there any more. Such is life in this jazz era we are living in.

—I—

The Senior Class will present "Nothing But The Truth" at the high school auditorium, Friday evening, May 20. See the school notes for cast of characters.

—I—

Charley Peterson and family drove over from Hampton on Sunday to spend the day with relatives and old friends here, and to attend the ball game. Charley reports business as being good, considering the times. He has charge of the movie theatre at Hampton.

—I—

A sporting goods store at Eagle Grove was entered and robbed one day last week of goods, mostly revolvers, to a value of about five hundred dollars.

—I—

Bert Trumbell came down from Klemme on Sunday of this week to visit frieds and relatives for the day.

—I—

Mrs. Ed. Jenison and two daughters were recent guests of friends at Klemme.

—I—

Wayne Pond came over from Hampton the first of the week to visit friends and to be present at some of the doings of his old high school class.

—I—

The fourth supper of the Methodist church will be on this week Thursday evening.

—I—

Mrs. Fostor was a recent visitor at the county seat town, on matters of business and visiting with friends.

—I—

Miss Viva Rourk went to Kanawha last Friday to spend the week end at the home of her parents there.

—I—

Miss Maude Newgard was a guest over the week end at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Barth at Garner.

—I—

Miss Mae Wallace, who is employed at Minneapolis, has been spending the past two weeks at the home of her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Wallace. Miss Wallace was seriously injured in a street car accident this spring, but is recovering nicely.

—I—

Miss Alberta Pierce was at Greene last Thursday evening, where she gave a number of readings at an entertainment. She came home to spend Sunday, but owing to an attack of the measles will be forced to remain several days before returning to her college work at Clinton.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Townsan were guests last week one day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris at Rowan.

HIGH WAGES BLAMED FOR DEPRESSION

New York, May 2.—Germany, thru the economy and sarifice of her working people, has settled down to real production and is outstripping the United States and allied nation. in the fight toward normalcy, Charles M. Schwab declared here Saturday in an address before the chamber of Commerce of the state of New York.

Mr. Schwab was the guest of the chamber at a reception given in recognition of his service to the country during the war.

Mr. Schwab was the guest of the chamber at a reception given in recognition of his service to the country during the war.

"Germany today can put a ton of steel in England at a price of $20 a ton cheaper than England can make it," he said, "and is selling pneumatic tools in Detroit where formerly we shipped such machinery to Germany and sold it cheaper than she could make it."

"The difference is solely a matter of labor costs.

"It is estimated that 5,000,000 men are out of work in this country. It is accordingly of supreme importance to the working man as well as to the capitalist to restore our prosperity.

Sight is Nature's Greatest Gift. . . .

If lost, money cannot replace it; a pricsless gift is gone!

Now---this very moment your eyes may need the help of rightly fitted glasses.

By careful examination, we can tell you their exact condition.

F. A. Bras, Optometrist
with
L. A. Cederquist, Jeweler
Ft. Dodge, Iowa

- WILL BE AT -
H. SCHULTZ, Jewelry
May 25, 1921

SPECIAL LOCALS

The town of Hampton has joined the procession and is starting out to organize a ball team that will trim the surrounding burgs. The fever seems to be taking rapidly, and there should be plenty of victims for the local team to pick on this summer.

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

We are making as good chick feed as there is on the market. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tf

—I—

"Nothing But The Truth" at the high school auditorium, Friday evening, May 20.

—I—

Middle-aged lady wishes position as gentral housekeeper for widower or bachelor, farmer preferred. Would take cooking for gang or any kind of restaurant work. Write Mrs. Isabelle Harder, Corwith, Iowa. Box 122.

—I—

Ole Holm suffered the loss of a finger or two the first of the week when he got his hand caught in a buzz saw. Prompt attention was given, and the injured member is coming along as well as can be expected.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. John Mehus are the happy parents of a fine baby boy, born May 9.

—I—

The Chain of Ten met on this week Monday at the home of Mrs.H. G. Nordschow.

—I—

Mrs. A. L. Bergsma, who has been visiting at the E. F. Bailey and F. E. Snyder homes for the past few weeks, returned on Saturday to her home at Huron, South Dakota.

—I—

The Sunday school rally at the M. E. church Sunday was very well attended and a highly successful meeting is reported.

—I—

If you intend to buy a separator or threshing machine, I can sell you anything you need and at the right price.—Christ Rise. 25tfc

—I—

Bernard Mennenga came down from Mason City one day last week on some business matters, and was greeting old friends about town. He formerly resided here.

—I—

Oscar Hensel of Alexander was a visitor here one day last week, attending to some interests connected with his land business.

For sale—60 gallon gasolene barrel with faucet.—T. D. Rankins

—I—

Wm. Nuehring hauls gravel. For orders phone 2213. Those who owe for gravel pay at Belmond Lumber Co. 16tf

—I—

A. R. Hersman was in town one day last week on matters connected with the credit association.

—I—

For Sale—One new tailored suit with extra pants, large size; also one slightly worn suit, large size.—W. L. Wilson Star Cleaner.

—I—

This vicinity experienced one of the ... days this spring on Friday of last week, altho Saturday gave it a close second. The sky stayed cloudy Friday night, which saved a lot of gardens from being ruined. On Saturday the weather cleared up and by Sunday it was fairly decent once more. As one man was heard to remark Saturday morning, "It was a short summer we had.'

—I—

Housekeeping rooms for rent, four modern rooms.—Mrs. John Lieuwen

—I—

FOR SALE—Good Waterloo Boy tractor, at a bargain. Phone 310. 23tf

For Sale—Some mixed hay. Phone 1812. Ed. Jenison. 20tfc

Attorney Jensen was a business caller at Mason City one day last week.

—I—

PAINTING AND PAPER HANGING

L. W. Nelson will do your interior painting and paper hanging at reasonable prices. Call 205. 13tf

—I—

"Nothing But The Truth" has a novel plot and so well has it been worked out that an audience is kept in throes of laughter at the seemingly impossible task to untangle snarls into which our hero has involved all those with whom he comes in contact. It is a clean bright farce and was built for laughing purposes only. Be sure to see it at the high school auditorium, May 20.

—I—

A nice lot of Gingham Coverall Aprons. Price $2.50, at the Woman's Exchange.—Miss Mary Gealow.

—I—

A reception was held last week Sunday night by some friends neighbors for Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Furuseth at the farm southwest of town. A large crowd was present, and the evening spent in games and a good social time. Mr. and Mrs. Furuseth are newly weds, the bride formerly being Miss Neva Coburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harve Coburn, now residing on a farm near Rowan.

—I—

Our guarantee stands behind every sack of Peacock Flour. $2.45 a sack. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

THE CHURCH

A great many have been helped and none have been injured by attending Divine Worship. Try it.

Sands Memorial Congregational Church

William Collier played "Nothing But The Truth" for a year at Longacre Theatre, New York. It is one of the cleverest plays on the stage today. See it at the H. S. Auditorium, Friday, May 20, at 8:15.

—I—

Regarding the item from the Clipper, when a member of the orchestra requests the mayor to come up front and take a look, and the mayor does and sees a Clarion boys with a girl doing the rankest kind of a shimmy, and adding some variations and improvements thereto, which are so fierce that they can't be overlooked, then Belmond can manage to get along without the foreign patronage at its future dances. The Clarion boys should watch their step somewhat closer, and no stub their toes.

—I—

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

—I—

Clarence Obrecht came down from Thornton to spend the week end with friends and relatives here, his former home town.

—I—

My prices on all work in the mason line are about 25 percent lower than a year ago. See me if you have any work to be done.—W. A. Bullis. 9tf

—I—

Attend the Senior Class Play, Friday evening, May 20.

—I—

The Chronicle of Goldfield states in its issue of last week that from that time on, the news of the city court will be published.

—I—

Brng your work to the Belmond Tailor Shop and get a number free on a $63.00 tailored suit.—Belmond Tailor Shop, Phone, 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

Ed. Jenkins brought to this office last week a "Saturday Blade" for June 29, 1889, quite an old newspaper, which he discovered in the bottom of an old trunk. The sheet was yellow with age, appropriately, and featured a derby race and the hanging of a Mrs. Whiteling at Philadelphia, the first woman hung in the state of Pennsylvania, who murdered her husband two children for the paltry sum of $360. The paper was all reading, no advertisements and was certainly an odd looking affair.

—I—

Now is the time to get your lawnmowers sharpened.—W. A. Dittmer.

—I—

A free pair of pants with every order for a new suit.—Belmond Tailor Shop. South of Hotel.

—I—

Is it possible to tell the absolute truth—even for twenty-four hours? It is—at least Bob Bennet, the hero of "Nothing But The Truth," accomplished the feat The bet he made with his business partners, and the trouble he got into—with his partners, his friends, and his fiancee—this is the subject of the Senior Class Play. "Nothing But The Truth" can be whole-heartedly recommended as one of the most sprightly, amusing and popular comedies that this country can boast. High School Auditorium, Friday evening, May 20th.

—I—

Be photographed this year on your birthday—Thoe Studio.

—I—

Pure bred Buff Orpington eggs and baby chicks.—Mrs. Myrle Peck, Clarion, Iowa. 262c

—I—

The D. S. C. girls with some other young ladies will stage the play, "The Japenese Girl" at the opera house, May 26-27, for the benefit of the American Legion. Details later.

—I—

Plan on attending "The Japanese Girl" at the opera house next week. Given by the D. S. C. for the benefit of the American Legion.

The Independent delivered the finished job on the high school annual this week. It was some job, and it is a question of which was the most relieved at the completion of the annual, the Seniors or the Independent force.

—I—

Mrs. Geo. Jenison was a caller at Klemme one day last week visiting at the home of friends.

—I—

"The Japanese Girl" will take your attention at the opera house on next week Wednesday. A benefit for the American Legion, staged by the D. S. C. girls. Plan on it.

—I—

Found—Bicycle tire. Owner can have same by calling at this office and paying costs.

Suggestions
FOR Commencement
Gifts

Eastman Kodak
Kodak Albums
Waterman Fountain Pens
Parker Fountain Pens
Eversharp Pencil
Manicure Sets
Copyright Books
Vanity Bags
Electric Curlers
Fancy Box Stationery
Fancy Bottled Perfume
Bottle Toilet Water

We have a complete line of White Ivory Goods

Schultz
Drug Company

Ray Morris of the Motor Inn was a recent visitor at Kanawha on matters of business, and greeting some old friends.

—I—

Found—Auto license plate. Owner can have same by proving property and paying costs. Call at the Independent.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—Belmond Tailor Shop, Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

Bread

All Bread is not the same. Our Butter Milk Bread is gaining in Popularity all the time

Try It

ROBINSON

Lyric

WEDNESDAY, MAY 18
"LADDER OF LIES"
A Paramount-Artcraft picture featuring
ETHEL CLAYTON
Also a two-reel comedy.
11c and 25c

THURSDAY, MAY 19
"THE LAMP LIGHTER"
A Fox picture featuring
SHIRLEY MASON
The story of a girl waif whose path was illuminated by an old lamp lighter. A tale of infinite tenderness and pathos. One in which loyalty and love rescue a child of wealth from rags and a hovel.
Also a two-reel LARRY SEMAN comedy.
11c and 25c

FRIDAY, MAY 20
"KNOW YOUR MAN"
A Fox picture featuring
PEARL WHITE
Also a one-reel comedy.
11c and 25c

SATURDAY, MAY 21
"AWAY GOES PRUDENCE"
A Paramount-Artcraft picture featuring
BILLIE BURKE
Pretty Prudence longed to go
Flying in her aeroplane;
Father gruffly told her "No!"
Tried to stop her—all in vain.
So did Hewlett, a mere man,
But she gave them both the slip,
'Til he conjured up a plan
Prue's ambitious wings to clip.
Also a two-reel Educational comedy.
11c and 25c

MONDAY and TUESDAY MAY 23 & 24
"MY LADY'S LATCH KEY"
A First National picture featuring
KATHERINE MacDONALD
The key to the heart of a woman who married in haste but didn't repent.
Also a two-reel comedy featuring BUSTER KETON.
11c and 30c

Bargains!

36 oz. easy seal jar of good peanut butter	50c
Large can of Tomatoes	15c
4 lb extra fancy head rice	15c
1 2 lb can of either corn, wax beans, tomato	10c
Blackberries, loganberries, red or black raspberries or strawberries in syrup, a 2 lb can	25c
2 1-2 lb can of either apricot, peaches or pears	25c
High grade broom	55c
40 in. Voilles per yd	50c
Scrim per yd	25c
36 in percale	15c
Men's work shirts	90c
Men 220 overalls	1.50

Our low prices in groceries are moving them fast.

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30
We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

BELMOND TOWNSHIP

(Too late for last week.)

Miss Bertha Springer is visiting at the H. Green home for a few days.

Mrs. Slining has been out to the farm several days the past week.

The young people had a house warming for Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Furuseth, Sunday eve.

E. A. Horton and family and Miss Jennie Stella spent Sunday at the M. R. Pierce home.

Lee Shahan has been sick with a bad cold for several days.

Stan Morse is helping with the work during the illness of Lee Shahan.

Miss Ruby Shahan goes to Marshalltown on Monday for a visit with relatives.

Miss Agnes Reed, who is teaching the east school, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Harry Slining.

Quite a number from this neighborhood attended the performance given by Cho-Cho.

The co-operators and officers of the Belmond Township Farm Bureau will have a meeting at Mrs. George Elder's on Tuesday afternoon.

Corn planting is the main business of the farmers of this vicinity at the present time.

Floyd Doctor and family visited at the Ray Green home Sunday. They are from Clarion.

Frank Hake and father were fishing at the lake Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Lucksinger from Renwick was a recent visitor at the lake.

J. W. Pierce has been in the Marine hospital at Mare Island for a month with acute bronchial trouble and whooping cough.

Blanche Allstead visited at the Amos Larson home on Sunday.

OLAF NEWS ITEMS

(Too late for last week.)

Miss Alma Ericson went to Belmond, Friday, to practice for the operetta to be given by the D. S. C. girls for the benefit of the American Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Torkelson of Thornton were visitors with friends at Olaf, Sunday.

Geo. Baxter and family spent Sunday at the Andrew Lieuwen home near Alexander.

Mrs. Clarence Scott has been enjoying a visit from her aunt, who has been spending the winter in California and is on her way home to South Dakota.

Mrs. Julius Johnson returned from Eagle Grove, Thursday, having spent several days there visiting relatives.

A number of Belgians came from East Moline, Friday, to work the beet fields in this community.

Orpha Anderson, wife and baby drove to Belmond, Saturday evening, and spent the night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Morse, and on Sunday they drove to Clarion, to spend the day at the Cutler home. Mr. and Mrs. Morse accompanied them.

KANAWHA NEWS ITEMS

(Too late for last week.)

Rev. Trelstad returned Wednesday from Bricelyn, Minn., where he went to conduct a funeral.

Messrs. Bush and Knudsen were Garner callers Saturday.

Mesdames J. R. Howlett and Art Deibler were Fort Dodge callers on Thursday.

Miss Alpha Bamford returned to Mason City, Monday, after a very pleasant visit with relatives and friends at this place.

Louis Harriman returned on Monday to Gourie, after spending several days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harriman.

V. E. Cleveland of Belmond was a visitor with reatives and friends here this week.

Miss Lyona Baldridge was at Corwith the first of the week where she acted as stenographer for Mr. Mitchell, who is connected with the Business Mens' Credit Association.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Howlett and daughter Iola were Sunday visitors at Britt.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Summers and family were callers with friends at Belmond on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Sanderberg of Clarion were visitors with relatives and friends over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mons Skouge and little son were over Sunday visitors at Jewell.

Miss Cecil was an over Sunday visitor with relatives and friends at Britt.

Mrs. Fred Knuteson and little son Lewis left Saturday for a visit with relatives at Iowa Falls.

Messrs. James Shaw and Knute Larson were Humboldt visitors on Tuesday of this week.

Miss Viva Rourk came up from Belmond, Friday, for a short visit at the home of her parents.

Miss Marguerite Wailand of New Hampton is a guest at the Ole Peterson home.

L. B. Miller was a Fort Dodge caller one day this week.

J. C. Johnson returned home Friday from Prairie du Chein, Wisconsin, where he went to attend the funeral of Mrs. Johnson's father, Mr. Collins.

Messrs. Hank Van Oosting and Curley Lewis were business callers at Fort Dodge, Tuesday.

Ed. Hanson, Sr., left Saturday for a visit with relatives and friends at Eagle Grove.

Mrs. Sutherland of Winnett, Montana, came Friday for a firief visit at the home her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McCarty.

NORWAY TOWNSHIP NEWS

The Misses Ellen and Beaulah Anfinson and Mrs. Pete Enge were callers on Mrs. John Stole, Thursday

Mrs. John Stole and sons autoed to Clarion on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Asbe, Mr. and Mrs. John Kalvig and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Asbe and family autoed to Kanawha, Sunday, and ate dinner at the Elmer Kalvig home.

The Sunday school in the St. Johns' church will commence next Sunday, May 15.

Avald Stole is helping T. A. Asbe a couple of days with the field work.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Asbewere business callers at Kanawha on Friday.

The farmers in this neighborhood are getting along nicely with their corn planting.

MESERVEY ITEMS

Mrs. A. J. issen returned home on Sunday from the hospital at Mason City.

The high school will hold their play "The Professor," on Tuesday night at the Raecher garage.

The Meservey base ball team played Clear Lake, the score being 12 to 11 in favor of Meservey.

K. Clarence Ruigh motored to Belmond, Saturday evening, to attend the opening of the State Bank.

G. E. Raecker returned home last week from Waverly where he had been at the hospital for an operation for the removal of his tonsils.

A. J. Nsssen went to Mason City, Saturday, returning Sunday with his wife.

Quite a few young people from here motored to Belmond, Saturday evening.

The American Legion boys of Meservey will play a game of base ball with the fat men (all over 200 pounds in weight of Meservey on Memorial Day.

Henry Koenen of Latimer visited at the John Ruiter home Sunday.

ALEXANDER NFWS NOTES

Archie McCallum of Thornton was transacting business here on Thursday and Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ammerman were callers at Hampton, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Class Symers and family were Meservey callers last Friday afternoon.

Mrs. John Arends and son Ben were Hampton callers last Friday.

Miss Wilkens of Latimer visited with friends and relatives here last week.

Mrs. Younglin of Latimer visited her friend, Mrs. Theo. Beenen, here several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Aldinger and two sons visited with relatives at Hampton, Sunday.

Arthur Winwood was a business visitor at Hampton last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schulte and daughter Miss Hannetta were visitors at Belmond, Saturday.

The Belmond forestry was greatly enjoyed by a group of the young people of Alexander Thursday evening, a picnic supper being chief form of entertainment.

Herman Pals and family dined with the Casper Peil family Sunday.

Fred Greenfield was transacting business at Hampton, Monday.

Alice Peters was a caller at Hampton one day last week.

Miss Alvena Johnson visited at the home of friends in Latimer last week.

Bert Kieslich, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kieslich and children Blanche and Elmer, attended church at Geneva last Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Kausian of Ackley is a guest at the Peter and John Bohlen homes this week.

George Latch of Luverne visited relatives at Alexander, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen spent the last of the week with relatives at Ackley.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clay of Mason City were calling on friends here on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder were Sunday visitors with relatives at Belmond.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP NEWS

The Immanuel church was well represented at the Sunday school convention held in the M. E. church both afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hauge were Sunday visiors at the Geo. Thompson home.

Frank Finn underwent an operation ffor appendicitis at the local hospital last week Monday. He is getting along nicely at this writing.

Gail Thompson returned home last Wednesday from Alexander, where she was visiting her aunt, Mrs. Andrew Lieuwen.

Mr. Dziewanowski is greatly improving his home with a new coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Halfpop of near Meservey were Sunday visitors at the W. A. Gartz home.

The catechism class of the Immanuel church enjoyed a picnic at the church last Saturday afternoon.

CAUGHT SALAMANDER

Upper Algona Republican: Wilam Funk, with another of our local fisherman has been catching a few messes of bullheads in the river. The other day Mr. Funk was fishing near the ice house when he felt something tugging at his line. He finally landed what he thought was a whale and when he saw his catch he jumped away. He had caught a water dog about a foot in length. He did not know what he had so he placed it in a pail of water and brought it to this office where some of us old "river rats" took a look and told him it was a salamander. Some claim it is venomous but this is not true. They are plentiful in the muddy sloughs of the Mississippi and in the south some people use them for food. They are amphibious and like the frog can live in or out of the water. Anyhow, "Bill" thought he had a gila monster or some other awful beast. It resembles a lizard, has four legs and the gills used for breathing while in the water, resemble a large collar.

GOODBYE, BILL

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—William H. Frank, millionaire brewer, has announced his intention of going to Switzerland to escape prohibition.—Press Dispatch.

To which "Sample Case," a magazine for commercial travelers, replies:

All right, Bill, if that's the way you feel about it, here's your hat, and if you never come back, that will be soon enough. But, Bill, seeing that you made your millions here and that your fellowtownsmen bestowed upon you the highest honors that were theirs to give, we feel that you ought to be willing to do the country a little favor before you shake that dust of our bonedry soil from your feet forever. We are wondering if you couldn't take along with you the rest of the gang that seems to forget this is a republic and that the majority have a right to rule.

Now, Bill, we are not asking nor even suggesting that you take them all to Switzerland, for we have no special grudge against that struggling little country. But you might just kinda scatter them around in the few wet spots that are left, sort of divide them up you know, and as we presume that the wetter it is the better they will like it, we don't care (unless the fish and game warden kicks) if you drop a bunch of them off in the middle of the Atlantic.

Well, so long, Bill; we'd be glad to shed a few tears at the parting but we can't do it for laughing, and we certainly hope that you will get all the enjoyment you can out of your booze while you stick around this world, for we have a sort of hunch that a drink of good old Poughkeepsie hydrant water would taste awfully good to you (if you could get it) in the next world.

GOVERNMENT PREPARING FOR POST OFFICE ROBBERS

Postmasters in the more important towns of the nation are being advised by the post office department that plans are under headway whereby every post office of such towns will be equipped with a sufficient supply of firearms as to make the offices safe against daylight robbery.

Already shipments are going out to one of the post offices in this section of the state, and Belmond will likely have its supply in a few weeks. Sawed off shotguns and heavy 45-calibre revolvers will be forwarded. These are to be kept close at hand. Carriers of mail from station to post office will likely be armed, especially if it is known that valuable mail is being transported. Even rural carriers, when making valuable mail deliveries, will be allowed to carry a small arsenal ready for service. Permit to carry such arms come direct from Washington, and no local permits are necessary.

Mail robberies have become so frequent of late months that one of the first acts of Postmaster General Hitch cock was the posting of a $5,000 reward to any postal employee who captures a mail robber, dead or alive. An attempt to rob the mails is counted the same as an actual robbery.

The government is not the heavy loser on many of these robberies. Registered mail protection by the government is limited, but insurance companies carry the extra risk for a very small premium. It is said that hardly one registered package in a thousand goes thru theft or carelessness. Many insured packages are lost, but they are generally of small value.

IT PAYS TO READ THE BIBLE

The fact that the Standard Oil company has discovered oil and is operating wells in Egypt is generally known, but the reason for it's going to that ancient land to look for oil is probably not so well known. It is asserted that one of the directors of the company happened to read the second chapter of Exodus. The 3rd verse immediately caught his attention. It is stated that the ark of bulrushes which the mother of Moses made for her child was "daubed with slime and with pitch." This acute gentleman reasoned that where there was pitch there must be oil, and if there was oil in Moses' time it is probably still there. So the company sent Charles Whitshott, its geologist and oil expert, to make investigations, with the result that oil was discovered. Three wells are now in operation and others are to be opened.—Exchange.

TRICKS IN ALL TRADES

This little deal is said to have been pulled off recently in Fairmont. A resident had an old car. He took the old car to agarage and said he would buy a high priced new one if they would take the old one in for a certain sum. about $200 too high. "Well, I'll leave it and if you can sell it for that price, I'll take the new car," the owner said. In a day or two a man came in and looked at the old car. The price was satisfactory. "I'll pay you $25 down to bind the bargain and in a few days come in with the rest of the money." Then he went away. The first man came in, got his car, and paid for it, giving the old one at his own price. The garage is still waiting for the "other fellow" to come in with the balance of the money. Now they say the man who got the new car gave a stranger $25 to go in and buy the old car. There are tricks in every trade.—Fairmont Sentinel.

FORD STOLEN AT HAMPTON

Chronicle : Some person or persons stole the Ford sedan owned by O. F. Myers from the Myers garage last Saturday night, and after running the car probably 40 or 50 miles, judging from the amount of gas used, the culprits abandoned the car and left it alongside of the curb in front of the residence of Judge W. D. Evans. Local officials are on the trail of the thieves and they hope to be able to round them up.

BELMOND GIRL'S PUPILS IN RECITAL AT GARNER

Garner Leader: At M. N. Zeiger's Hall, Thursday evening of last week, a musical event of importance took place. On that evening the pupils of Miss Nellie Sullivan, musical instructor from Belmond, who has a large class here, performed. For many of them it was their first public appearance but let us hope that they continue to gather knowledge of music under the careful direction of Miss Sullivan and develope to the fullest the natural ability that a great many of them appear to be blessed with.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

—when you are business trained.

A course in our school is a real business experience. Sign the coupon and mail to us today for free catalog of information.

I am interested in the courses marked:
( ) Secretarial
( ) Stenographic
( ) Bookkeeping
( ) Accounting
( ) Banking
( ) Commercial Teacher
( ) Civil Service

Name________________
Address________________

ENROLL any Monday in May or June for the SUMMER TERM Fall Term begins Sept. 6

Fort Dodge Business College

W. F. McDaniel, Principal Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Does Adverting Pay?
Ask the Merchants Who Advertise.

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

Womans' Exchange

Second House East of Klemme Office

Bring in Your Needle Work.

Rates will be 20 per cent

A Nice Lot of

GINGHAM COVER-ALL APRONS

At

$2.50

Orders for Home Baking Taken any Day in the Week.

Miss Mary Gealow

TAXI

An Adventure Romance

By

GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

COPYRIGHT THE • BOBBS-MERRILL • COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

PART I.—Robert Hervey Randolph, young New York man-about-town, leaves the home of his sweetheart, Madge Van Tellier, chagrined because of her refusal of his proposal of marriage. His income, $10,000 a year, which he must surrender if a certain Miss Imogen Pamela Thornton (whom he has seen only as a small girl ten years before) is found, is not considered by the girl of his heart adequate to modern needs. In a "don't care" mood Randolph enters a taxi, unseen by the driver, and is driven to the stage door of a theater. A man he knows, Duke Beamer, induces a girl to enter the cab. Beamer, attempting to follow, is pushed back by Randolph and the cab moves on. His new acquaintance tells Randolph she is a chorus girl, and has lost her position. She is in distress, even hungry, and he takes her to his apartment. There, after lunch, a chance remark convinces him the girl is the missing Pamela Thornton. He does not tell her of her good fortune, but secures her promise to stay in the flat until the morning, and leaves her. In a whimsical mood, also realizing that the girl's reappearance has left him practically penniless, he bribes the taxi driver to let him take his job, and leaving word with the legal representative of the Thornton estate where he can find Pamela, takes up his new duties under the name of "Slim Hervey." He loves the girl, but his pride forbids him approaching her under their changed conditions.

PART II.—One evening he is engaged by Beacher Tremont, notorious profligate, to drive him and Madge Van Tellier to a hostelry known as "Greenwood." Aware of the evil nature of the place, Randolph drives the pair to Greenwood cemetery. Infuriated, Beacher gets out of the cab and Randolph leaves him there, taking the girl (who has awakened to a realization of her folly) to her home. Madge recognizes him.

PART III.—In Randolph's apartment Pamela, pondering over the strangeness of the night's adventure, realizes she is very much more than interested in the young man. Next morning Mr. Borden Milyuns, her family's legal representative, informs her of her inheritance. Learning that her acceptance of the money will leave Randolph penniless, even the furniture of the apartment belonging to her, she proposes to divide the inheritance with him. Mr. Milyuns tells her Randolph is unlikely to agree to such an arrangement, even if found. He, however, agrees to do his utmost to find the young man. Wide advertising and the employment of detective agencies fail to accomplish this. Madge Van Tellier tells Mr. Milyuns of her encounter with Randolph. Knowing only that he is driving a taxicab, Pamela sets out to find him. The search naturally is a long one, but finally she comes upon Randolph in front of a hotel. Unseen by him she enters his cab, but when giving the starter her address Randolph recognizes her voice. The streets are slippery with snow, and in his excitement he smashes the cab against the curb, throwing the girl out.

There is no doubt that in five minutes more Mr. Gloom would have assumed full sway in the late apartment of Mr. Robert H. Randolph had not a long procession of parcels begun to arrive in the nick of time. Tomlinson brought them into the bedroom, one, two, three at a haul, and Pamela herself cut the knots with Mr. Randolph's best nail-scissors and laid out the goods, filmy fold upon filmy fold.

By the time Eileen turned up the apartment looked like the stateroom de lux of a millionaire young lady returning from Paris with nothing to wear and preparing to swear to it before all the customs officials in Gotham. Tomlinson was ordered to fill the cellar with wrapping-paper, tissue-paper, cardboard boxes and string, burning what was left over in the back yard.

As soon as sufficient space had been cleared for action, the two girls set to work, and were soon involved in such an orgy of "trying on" as only the healthiest stamina of youth could have endured without falling over in a dead faint from exhaustion. Even Eileen divested her person of everything but, and experimented with such dear garments as it seemed impossible Miss Thornton could get round to in the allotted time.

Having tried to show the public how charming was Pamela in and without her cheap clothes, no puerile and gasping effort will be made in these pages to measure the effect upon her of the latest creations of the raiment dream-gods of Fifth avenue. Suffice it to say that, in one hour's twinkling of the eye, she became such a radiant vision as chokes mere words down into the pit of a man's stomach, makes his jaw work like that of a fish on a hot sidewalk, fills his eyes with the pleading light of calf-love and inspires his hands with an overmastering desire to reach for it.

For two, four, six days, a week, two weeks, Pamela lived in breathless anticipation of the moment when she could burst upon the eyesight of one Robert Hervey Randolph, and when all these days—and weeks—passed without any news of him, her lips that were made to smile, to kiss, and to bless the air with words softly spoken and carried on the fragrance of clean young breath began to droop pitifully.

Mr. Milyuns' efforts in several directions had so far proved in vain. He had advertised in every paper in Gotham, from the New York Epoch to the pink Police Gazette; he had offered rewards; he had set traps and was now supporting a large corps of rapidly fattening individuals who called themselves "plain-clothes" men—a name that would have fitted them admirably had the last syllable been omitted. His net results were the information that Mr. Randolph, in a reprehensible state of intoxication and at seven o'clock of the morning of which he had disappeared, had exchanged his swell evening garments at a second-hand emporium on Sixth avenue for a suit of thicks and eighteen dollars in cash, stating, as he left the place, that he was thinking of going South for the rest of the winter.

After a minute and leisurely study of all the exits from Manhattan, the plain-clothes men had given it as their united opinion that Mr. Randolph had been speaking facetiously in his last-known remark and had probably not voyaged farther south than Canal street. They said if he would only try to leave New York they could find him at once, and settled down on a policy of watchful waiting for that event.

The efforts made by Mr. Milyuns in the direction of springing Miss Thornton on society went equally awry, but were not quite so fruitless. His natural love of a smooth-running establishment on the slippery crust of Gotham's social plane would have been saved a severe bump if American parents were as careful to look up their guests' moral records as they are to study their ratings in Bradstreetum's.

Unfortunately for Mr. Milyuns, it happened that a certain young scion of a once gentlemanly house was included in the first large dinner-box-party given to meet Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton. In the natural course of such events, the pasty youth stepped up for presentation, registering in his protuberant eyes a gleam of dubious surprise. What if he should say, "Hello, Vivienne!" Would it create a sensation?

Something else did; namely, Miss Thornton's modulated but terribly clear voice.

"I met Mr. Beamer," said Pamela, drawing back quickly her half-extended hand, "when I was a chorus-girl." She turned with a winning smile to her recently beaming hostess. "I don't care to know him in pleasanter surroundings."

For one breathless second there threatened one of those silences that spell social disaster. Eileen took it upon herself to mash it in its extreme youth with a soft tap of her efficient hammer.

"Oh, must you really go?" she remarked to Mr. Beamer.

Did this spectacular debut strike the name of Imogene Pamela from the lists of the matronly elite of Manhattan? It did not. Invitations rained on her and found her unresponsive. Her would-be hostesses would have gone the length of submitting rostrums of proposed guests as though to royalty, except for the fact that each and every one of them wished to put her own nearest and dearest to the test of a sudden meeting with the most exclusive of New York's latest crop of buds.

Pamela refused and accepted these bids for the latest thing in sensations in the most erratic manner. No one could fathom just why she said, "No," and much less why she occasionally said, "Yes." The mystery only added to the demands for her company and the Nays soon began to show an overwhelming preponderance over the Ayes. Why? Simply because it was not in the power of any of the hostesses to call up the moody girl and say: "My dear, we are going to have just pork and beans for dinner tonight. Won't you join us? Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph said he would drop in for pot-luck."

Yes; every time Pamela had accepted an invitation, it was in the rapidly waning hope that Mr. Randolph, beloved and once at the beck and call of these very people, would appear and come into his own. Could she have surmised that on two separate occasions the knight errant of her thoughts had actually seen her in her most ravishing bibless evening tucker, had driven her to two familiar doors, taken her money with averted face and without inspecting the "clock," and had passed on to some quiet stand to dream over her new glory and read the latest batch of ads crying for news of the whereabouts and welfare of self—could she have known these apparently insignificant items in the daily life of the great city, she would have wept her lovely eyes out twice over.

Such being her state of heart, imagine her excitement when Mr. Milyuns called by appointment and retailed word for word the following conversation which he had participated in that very morning with Miss Madge Van Tellier of East Ninth street:

"Oh, Mr. Milyuns, are you doing all that advertising for Bobby Randolph?"

"Yes, Madge; I certainly am, and if it doesn't bear fruit pretty soon I'll have to give up tobacco."

"Are you advertising for his own good? I mean is it important to him—not to you—for you to find him? Would he be really and truly glad to be found even against his will?"

"Er—yes—er—it is—er—he would—er—if he isn't sixteen kinds of a fool. I think I caught them all, my dear, but if I left any out, please repeat."

"Yes," admitted the lady question-mark; "your legal mind answered them all. Now tell me just your human self—if you were in Bobby's place, would you want to be found by you for the purpose that you want to find him for?"

Mr. Milyuns did not pretend for one second that he did not understand the preposterously worded query.

"You bet I would!" he answered promptly and emphatically. "Now tell me what you've got up your sleeve. Please, Madge; that's a dear girl! If you only knew how I'm worried seven times a day—"

"I'm trying to tell you," broke in Miss Van Tellier, "but you talk so much I can't get in anywhere. Last night, a taxi brought me home from—er—from a drive, and the cabman was Bobby, looking simply stunning in one of those awfully high-collared, khaki, waist-effect woolly coats, chauffeur's cap, tan puttees, boots, and all—"

"Yes, yes," interrupted Mr. Milyuns; "I know now just how he looked. What was the license-number of the car, and to which company did it belong?"

A long pause.

"Why, I didn't notice."

"Thanks awfully, my dear."

Sound of hanging up the receiver.

"So there you are," said Mr. Milyuns to the very much excited Pamela. "We've got this far and, by a fluke entirely unconnected with the twenty-two sleuths I have been pensioning in advance of their lifelong service, Robert is driving one of the sixty-three thousand taxicabs that infest the streets of New York."

"Poor dear!" said Pamela, tears rising to her adorable eyes. Then she dismissed Mr. Milyuns, who would gladly have lingered. "I have to go out now. I'm so sorry, but thank you very, very much."

"Can't I drop you wherever you're going?" asked the very human mind of the leading legal authority on corporation hedge-rows and byways.

"Oh, no," said Pamela, translucent as love itself; "I shall go in taxis."

How many vulgar vehicles for hire were blessed by the transient presence of Miss Thornton during the next seven hours is a matter of gross mathematics and consequently beneath the ken of an intelligence that can chat along about nice things like Pamela and Robert Randolph for pure pleasure and subsequently sell the remarks for cold cash. Five minutes to spot a lively cab, five minutes to ticket the driver and pile him on the discard, two more to find her purse, three more to look innocent; then start all over again. Divide seven times sixty minutes by all that, and you've got her number.

Let us leave the statistical fiend and pass on to seven o'clock of the near-Christmas evening when Miss Thornton was momentarily out of a cab and strolling down the slope of the hump in West Fifty-seventh street. A mushy snow-rain had just begun to fall, giving anyone with the price a splendid excuse for taking a cab anywhere for anywhere. Before the portal of the Great Northern Lights squatted four taxis in a line. In the driver's seat of the rearmost of these, and consequently the last on the rank, a lank human being was buried in an enormous turned-up collar roofed by a chauffeur's cap set at an angle of slumber.

Pamela, the very moment her eyes fell on the recumbent figure, felt that short quick leap of the blood in her veins which is ordinarily termed a "hunch." She longed to step forward and raise the veiling headgear, but she dared not, for not only was the hotel-starter on the job but also the window-shades of the Poppy club next door were still elevated by special request, owing to the slippery state of the sidewalk in conjunction with the homeward-bound stream of dress-models.

As a consequence, she was necessarily content with opening the car door for herself and stepping in. The starter politely begged her to pass to the taxi at the head of the rank and just as politely she informed him that her feet were wet enough as it was. In the meantime, even her light weight on the running-board had startled the driver into wakefulness and, without going through any motions, he had heard the unforgettable tones of her voice.

The starter shrugged his shoulders, barked out an address in Fifty-ninth street and kindly offered to "turn her over for him." The driver laid trembling hands on the wheel and cautiously drew himself up to a sitting position without disturbing the shielding angle of his cap. Far from his troubled mind were thoughts of snow, the slush and skidding. He threw in his clutch, started her with a jerk, rounded the cab in front successfully, skidded mightily thereafter, straightened her out, skidded again, and crashed, with a great splintering of spokes, broadside front on the curb directly before the delighted windows of the Poppy club.

Nothing would have happened to Miss Thornton had she been sitting back in a ladylike manner, but at the moment of the cab's collision with the imperturbable curb, she was otherwise occupied; in short, the glass being a bit frosted, she was standing up and trying to peek through the speaking-slot. As a consequence, when the door flew open with the shock, she also flew and volplaned to a landing on hands and knees in the very middle of the very wide sidewalk.

With a cry of, "Oh, miss!" the driver sprang toward her, but when, still on hands and knees, she looked up and gasped, "Oh, Randy—Mr. Randolph!" he turned and fled down the hill.

"Hi! You Slim Hervey!" yelled the starter. "Come back here an' sign up for the junk!"

In the meantime, which wasn't much more than the twinkling of an eye, three perennial near-youths dashed down the steps of the Poppy club to the assistance of the loveliest trouble that had ever sent out an S. O. S. signal in the face of ready help to the falling. Individually and collectively, they raised the curly-haired vision to its feet.

"It was Mr. Randolph," gasped the maiden, in evident distress, "and I've been looking for him for weeks."

"Not Bobby!" exclaimed Mr. Nearton.

"Not Herv!" ejaculated Mr. Verries.

"Not Randy!" interjected Mr. Berry.

Pamela nodded three times, but her eyes failed to show wonder. Nowadays everybody she ran into seemed to know everybody she knew by his first name.

"Excuse me," said Mr. Nearton, intent on getting there first with a remark—any remark; "does he owe you money, too?"

The effect was electrical. Miss Thornton assumed a freezing dignity. She fixed Mr. Nearton with steady eyes.

"How much does Mr. Randolph owe you?" she asked.

"Only tw-twenty," babbled Mr. Nearton.

"Well, here it is," said Pamela, drawing a yellowback from her chatelaine and thrusting it into Mr. Nearton's nerveless hand. "I happen to owe Mr. Randolph a great deal more than that." Wherewith she turned and made for the corner and the nearest telephone booth.

Pamela was short of breath when she reached the telephone, but she managed to get Mr. Milyuns' residence on the wire and learned that he was detained at the office. She called up that safe den of the wo'-'d-be undisturbed and connected with a new and strange drawl.

"You've got the wrong number, lady. This Mr. Milyuns went home early to celebrate his silver wedding."

"Will you put me through to Mr. Borden Milyuns," asked Paméla, in a sugar-sweet voice, "or do you really want to start looking for another job?"

"How do I know you know him—Miss Hurry, did you say? The office-boy ain't here, so I can't ask him. Leave me your number, an' I'll have him call you."

"Know him!" gulped Pamela, in a rage. "Why, I've k-kissed him!"

"Kissed Mr. Milyuns!" responded the voice, taking sudden notice. "Well, dearie, why didn't you say so? I thought you was one of them high-brow dames. If it's a matter of kissin' the boss over the wire, why just you go to it. I won't listen—oh, no!"

And a moment later, Pamela, in a streamline body:

"Oh, Mr. Milyuns, this is Pamela and I've found him! . . . Yes; Randy—Mr. Randolph. . . . No; he got away! . . . Yes. He's going under the name of Slim Hervey and he was driving the Village Cab company's No. 1898, and he smashed it on the curb just in front of that horrid Poppy club, and when he saw me, he ran. . . . Oh, you will get him, won't you? Please hurry. And now, if you'll hang up, I have a few words to say to that new telephone girl of yours. . . . Oh, no! you needn't tell her; I can feel her sagging on the wire. . . . Oh, will you? Oh, thank you! It isn't as if she didn't deserve it."

PART IV.

The Ascent to Mars.

When Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph, alias Slim Hervey, chauffeur, vice Patrick O'Reilly, ex-driver of the Village Cab company's No. 1898, skidded that vehicle disastrously to the curb in front of the Poppy club and, as a result of his criminal negligence, in conjunction with Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton's reprehensible peeking occupation, hurled that young lady to the middle of the sidewalk on her hands and knees, he leaped from his seat on a spontaneous impulse to help her to her feet and administer every kind of first comfort that the occasion seemed to demand.

Two considerations, however, shot from the double-barreled blunderbuss of Ridicule and Honor, caught him on the wing, as it were, and deflected his flight from west to east with a sharp turn due south at the corner of Fifty-seventh street and Sixth avenue. In the first place, out of the corner of his eye he had seen his one-time friends, Mr. Nearton, Mr. Verries and Mr. Berry descending the shallow club front steps in an avalanche; in the second place, he suddenly recollected that Miss Thornton was an heiress, high above his present station and intent, as he had gathered from between the lines in various advertisements in the local press referring to the location of his person, on thanking and otherwise recompensing him for turning to the right in a matter of ten thousand dollars a year, unearned increment.

As he gazed for one too brief second down into the pleading eyes and adorably eager face of this lovable vision on her hands and knees, which it seemed unbelievable he had once held in his arms, only the oft-repeated favorite poem of his nurse:

I could not love thee, dear, so much
Loved I not honor more, kept him from facing the avalanche of ridicule and giving the eternally searching Diogenes with his lantern a run for his money. As previously stated, it was not to be. Mr. Randolph turned from the waiting arms of the sweetest temptation ever reniged by man and made his swift way to the sanctum of Mr. Tourke O'Shaughnessy, foreman-manager of the Village Cab company.

"Tourke," said Mr. Randolph, "I'm through. Smashed up the two off

"Tourke," Said Mr. Randolph, "I'm Through."

wheels of my wagon on the curb in front of the Poppy club. Dock me thirty, please, and make out my pay check."

"Through, Slim? Whadda ya mean?" said Mr. O'Shaughnessy. "Think I'm goin' to sack you for a skid on a day like this? Pay for your fun, kid, but take another wagon."

Robert Randolph, alias Slim Hervey, shook his head.

"You don't understand," he said. "I—I've lost my nerve."

"Lost your nerve!" gasped Mr. O'Shaughnessy. "Whadda ya mean by tellin' me a lie like that? Come on, now; draw a map! Did ye kill the inside?"

"Oh, no," said Slim; "that's just it. I mean, the young lady is very much all right."

"I begin to get you," murmured Tourke. "Skirt on your track, eh?" A look of pity followed by one of loyalty crept into his eyes. "Look here, Slim," he continued: "I know that tryin' to trick a female is like playin' hockey with a stick o' dynamite, but we got a lot o' high cards to draw to. First shot out o' the box, all the boys here is for you. Then there's your frien's, the Force. I want to tell you, Slim, you're the first driver I ever had that could flatten out a cop on a busy day an' make him think it was a joke."

"Thanks," said Mr. Randolph, but shook his head sadly.

"Now, listen," resumed Mr. O'Shaughnessy: "I'm goin' to have the boys up here as they come in an' put 'em on. In the enteract, you slip out for a makeup. Get Sally Painter round the corner to tone your face down to the color of your freckles, do a little job on yer eyebrows, an' fix a deep scar in the upper lip of yer speakin' tube. Get me?"

Mr. Randolph's widely placed blue eyes narrowed in an effort to examine the proposition shrewdly from all angles, and the light of hope was just beginning to dawn across the trouble in his honest face when there came a sharp knock on the door, followed promptly by the rattle of the loose knob and the unceremonious entry of one birdlike, bald-headed, dapper corporation lawyer and two corpulent gum-shoe plain-clothes men.

"Yere! Wot the—" exclaimed the outraged Mr. O'Shaughnessy.

The legal light paid him no heed and advanced on the fast-wilting Slim Hervey with outstretched hand.

"Robert!" he cried beamingly. "My dear boy, I'm glad to see you!"

"Don't take the glad hand, Slim," warned Mr. O'Shaughnessy. "The little runt may be tryin' to serve papers on yer. Now, gents, show yer warrant er I'll call the boys an' you take the consequenees."

"I guess it's all right, Tourke," said Slim weakly. "They aren't going to pull me, exactly."

"I don't care whether they think they're goin' to pinch you er not," remarked Mr. O'Shaughnessy, fixing malignant eyes on the two heavy flanking forces of the small lawyer. "I never did like the smell of fat." Suddenly he roared: "Hey! Boys!"

The two bulls, strayed into inhospitable pastures, turned, stepped catfooted to the door, and took the flight of steps in three. They cannot be blamed, for they had recognized in Mr. O'Shaughnessy the man who had once been arrested for pushing over with one hand a Ford that had crowded him.

"Now, Robert," said the legal personage, apparently quite oblivious of the desertion of his supports, "I just want to talk with you. May I sit down?"

"Certainly, Mr. Milyuns," said Robert, apathetically.

"Excuse me," murmured Mr. O'Shaughnessy. "Did I, or didn't I get the name correct?"

"I beg your pardon, Tourke," said Robert, "Mr. Borden Milyuns; Mr. Tourke O'Shaughnessy." He pronounced it "O'Shockenssy," to the delight of the owner's ears, long unaccustomed to the correct intonation of the exotic patronymic.

"I did hear correct," said Mr. O'Shaughnessy, as he rose and tiptoed from the room. "I leave you gents to your family affairs," he added from the door, his eyes drinking a last view of the brain king he had dared to call a runt.

During the next half-hour, Mr. Milyuns delivered himself of an assorted lot of special pleading that he could have sold on the market almost any day for fifty thousand dollars, but the sole judge and object of his efforts still sat swinging one putteed leg in midair, as though fanning aside the valuable streams of golden words, and continued puffing at one cigarette after another, each lighted from the butt of its predecessor.

"It's no use, Mr. Milyuns," said Robert, at last. "The truth is, and you know it, that a meeting between myself and Pam—Miss Thornton, at the present time and under the exceptional conditions, could only bring about complications beyond the capability of any one of us to handle. Her proposal that she divide her income with me is so absurd that I am amazed at your imper—at your hardihood in even mentioning it."

Mr. Milyuns wiped his brow for the first time in many years.

"I don't mind you calling me 'impertinent,' Robert," he said meekly. "Call me anything you please. Only"—and his voice rose gradually to a surprising volume—"don't forget that I promised one of the dearest, most unspoiled, lovable, and wholly adorable young persons that it's ever been my privilege to assure of the impossible that I would bring you to her, and, by the holy mackerel, I will—if I have to hold you by one ear with my teeth."

Mr. Randolph took his latest cigarette from his mouth during this strictly illegal peroration, and allowed his lips to spread into a broad smile.

"Mr. Milyuns," he said, "I always did like you; now I've got a deeper feeling. They call it love. I admit to the human end of you that the only thing that keeps me from rushing straight away to call on the lady you have so accurately described is the fact that I haven't money and she has."

"But what about the job I offered you?" interjected Mr. Milyuns.

"I was coming to that," said Mr. Randolph. "I'm not keen on charity from you any more than from Miss Thornton, but—more than that—I wouldn't bury myself in your stuffy old skyscraper at any cash price known to man. In the first place, you belong to the most unoriginal of all professions, and, in the second, you make money too slowly."

"'Make money too slowly!'" gasped Mr. Milyuns, forgetting Bobby and Pamela and their affairs for the first time in three weeks, and remembering, for a change, and with a twinge of his hardened conscience, the size of his last retainer. "Ha!"

But Mr. Randolph allowed him no time for indulgence in vocal mirth.

"That's what I said," he continued, unmoved. "To meet Miss Thornton face to face and unashamed, I feel that I must have a capital of at least a hundred thousand."

He sank his head in thought for a moment. When he raised it again, the widely placed blue eyes were there. So was the saddle of faint freckles across his nose; so was the guarantee of honesty across his open face, but superimposed over all was a new look of sudden resolution.

"You will please tell Miss Thornton," he resumed, "that I shall do myself the honor of calling on her one week from the day after tomorrow at four in the afternoon. There is a condition, however, and it is that I be left alone without any mental reservation by her and you and your agents during the intervening time."

"One hundred thousand in nine days," murmured Mr. Milyuns skeptically. His great brain hung poised in thought for some time, but finally he nodded his acceptance of Robert's terms of capitulation and promptly left the room.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy presently returned and found his favorite driver sunk in strenuous reverie.

"Well, Mr.—er—Robert, are you goin' back to the folks?"

Mr. Randolph raised his head and smiled.

"Call me 'Slim,' please, Tourke—'Slim Hervey,' for awhile yet. I've decided to accept your offer of another wagon for a week or two—that is, if you realize you'll be doing me just a plain, unornamental favor."

"Sure, kid!" said Mr. O'Shaughnessy, flushing, as does all his kind on the verge of gratitude. "That's all right."

"Thanks a lot!" said Mr. Randolph. "And do you mind if I take the Wall street beat for a while? I need money."

"Why, Slim, what's got ye? Ye know that's the rottenest short-run stand in town. Now, ef it's money you want—" Mr. O'Shaughnessy reached slowly down into his capacious trousers pocket, his eyes, meanwhile, studying Mr. Randolph's physiognomy with a shrewd glint that had forestalled many a clever attempt at a touch in years gone by.

"Yes, money," said Mr. Randolph pensively; "a hundred thousand dollars' worth."

(Continued next week)

THE STRATEGY OF METHODISM IN AMERICA

By Rev. J. H. Edge.
(By Request.)

The essence of Christianity is service. One cannot know Christ as his own and keep Him unto himself. If we would be Christians we must be a Christianizing influence. Christians are as a leaven put in the meal and leavening the whole lump.

John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, said, "The world is my parish." Jesus said to His desciples, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Methodism is endeavoring to fulfill that mission and commission. To build the kingdom of God in the hearts of men and claim the kingdoms of this world for our Lord and Christ is a task so stupendous as to necessitate its being attacked with a program something like commensurate with the task. A program implies some knowledge both of the task and of the resources available to meet the task. That the Methodist church has such a program is the verdict of religious leaders, business men and statesmen. As a part of Methodism, we members of this church, are glad to be a part of that worthy program. The foundation of that program have been well laid. It remains for us to build upon them the structure of a Christianized world. It is my conviction that one of the reasons why the Church has not accomplished its task in a larger measure in the past is because it has played at its job. Its task has been so tremendously large and its program so pitifully small that it hasn't commanded the respect of live, energetic, wide-awake men and women. Furthermore: the average person has not been sufficiently informed as to the task that faces the Church and what the Church is trying to do and actually doing. I submit to you that the program of our Church is worthy and deserving of our knowledge of it and of our largest possible co-operation in it. If I did not think so I would immedately try to find a church that had that kind of program. We can, this morning, note but a few illustrations of what that task is and what our Church is doing. May we say that the work being done is strategic work and at strategic points?

1—Hospitals. It is generally conceded that one of the most fruitful pieces of work done by the Roman Catholic Church is the work it does thru its hospitals, of which they have many more than do all of the Protestant churches of the land. May God's blessing be upon them in their ministry of healing, for where would we be today were it not for these hospitals? And still there are not enough hospitals, for hundreds and thousands of men and women, boys an girls are dying needlessly for lack of hospitals. It is with a full realization of the need and value of this work that, according to the daily press of a week ago, Mother Dominica of St. Francis convent of Dubuque made the offer to a committee of citizens of LeMars that heir order would give a dollar for every dollar the committee gave, not to exceed $150,000. "That after the hospital is built no further assistance would be asked from the community to keep the hospital running; that any surplus earned in excess of current expenses would be expended here in the upkeep and betterment of the service, and that no worthy case would ever be turned away because of the lack of means." Like a group of wise citizens, of course those men accepted the offer. But that is strategic work from the standpoint of the Church as well. Was there not something of the same strategy in Mr. George I. Seney's offer to our church when he wrote to Dr. Buckley: "I offer you 16 eligible lots, valued at $40,000 as a site, and $100,000 in cash toward the erection of a Methodist Episcopal hospital, which shall be open to Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic, heathen and infidel, on the same terms"? Realizing the need, the responsibility and the opportunity what could our Church do but accept the offer, and give itself, thru that institution, in service to humanity? Some months ago Dr. Jepson of Sioux City made a similar offer to our Church in this Northwest Iowa Conference, giving to the Church a hospital building valued at $40,000 and a 280 acre farm valued at a minimum of $60,000. The offer was held open for some months until finally it must be accepted or lost for ever. It is an opportunity to do strategic work in a strategic place and therefore the Church dare not let that opportunity slip by without accepting it. This is work to be done and being done by the church in the name of our Christ.

11. City Missions. Here is afforded the Church another place for strategic work. Two years ago the Union Methodist Episcopal Church an W. 48th and Broadway was on the market and about to be sold. All efforts to operate the church had failed. Our Board of Home Missions took over the property and paid its debts. A year ago Dr. John G. Benson was appointed pastor. Now there are an average of 800 people every day in Union Church and it is one of the livest centers Methodism has in New York City. The urvey made by our Church in Greater New York two years ago showed that there were 175,000 colored people there. The Methodist Episcopal Church then had seven congregations of them but only one church building for them. By the help of the Mission Board they have now acquired two more church buildings. How did the Mission Board help them? Not by giving them the buildings. Rather by givig them a sum of money as an inducement for them to raise what was needed to finish the project. For instance, the Board put in $5,000 if the colored folk would raise $27,000, which they did and purchased a very suitable building for one group of colored folk. That was good business. It was strategy in Kingdom building.

111 Mining towns, lumber camps, etc. In Colorado there is a coal mining and coke town of 18,000 population, of whom 11,000 were born in Europe. After coming to this land they were left to drift and settle where they would, until the moral and social conditions of the town became postively vicious. There was no other facility for welfare or social work in the town. What is it but a challenge to the Church? The entrance of the Church there means strategic work at a strategic place.

IV Mountaineers. Here too is a tremendous challenge to the Church of Christ. The Rev. Russell T. Pynes went down into Louisiana in 1919 and moved out nine miles from the railroad. He found there two small churches with 15 members. With some outside assistance from the Mission Board he has already built up an active membership of 178 and has organized two thriving Epworth Leagues among the young people. He has interested the people in a high school and has gotten them to vote a tax to build one. He says he preaches to more people every Sunday now than he did when he was pastor in a town of 20,000, which he left when he went down there. This is a phase of Kingdom building in which our Church believes and is engaged. It is strategic work.

V. Mormanism. No church, unless it be with one exception, has grown so rapidly in recent years as has the Morman Church. In their last yearly report a Morman elder boasted that of their new converts for the past year 83,000 of them had been taken from the Christian churches. The power of the Morman Church lies in its great wealth, for it not only has great possessions but gets 10 per cent of the annual income of all its members. Utah has great natural resources and these are controlled by the Mormans. The following we quote from one who lives in Salt Lake City: "The Morman Church controlls the salt industry of the United States. The Great Salt Lake is 100 miles long, 50 miles wide and 24 per cent salt. It costs 65 cents to manufacture the salt, which is sold for $12 to $15 a ton. In the same way it controlls the sugar industry, and it was the head of the Morman Church who, by a stroke of his pen, raised the price of sugar from 16 to 28 cents in a single night. It owns as much land as is embraced by France, Spain and Portugal, including the best sugar lands in Panama and the Hawaiian Isles, and the best wheat lands of Western Canada. The president of the church is the president of 22 banks, 65 per cent of the railroad stock is in its hands and it has a controlling interest in the steel and other industries. People do not realize the stranglehold the Morman Church is getting on this country thru its great wealth. Its elders boast that it is the greatest autocracy in the world—A man who lives in polygamy is told that he will become the ruler of a planet. Plural marriages are customary and for the last three years 'wife sacrifice' has been practiced. When Joseph F. Smith, the last president of the Church, died, it took 50 limousines to convey his wives and immediate descendents to the funeral. This is suggestive to us of the program of Mormanism. What are we to do to meet it? Methodism has attacked the problem in the most strategic way, namely, thru education, and is making it possible for the Morman youth to get a Christian education. This phase of work is strategic inasmuch as higher education is not given a conspicious place in the Morman program.

VI Wesley Foundation. This work that our Church is doing at the state universities is one of the most strategical pieces of work being done in the Home Field. There are 1,200 Methodist students at Ames, with no place of worship except an old hall. Most certainly the church ought to provide for the religious nurture and care of its boys and girls while they are in these institutions of higher learning. Probably no field in America offers a larger opportunity for constructive work than do these great student bodies. Practically every life touched by the Church here becomes a postive force or leader in the interests of the Church thruout after life. Our Home Mission Board is leading in the building of a community house at Ames for these Iowa boys and girls and putting a live man there to pastor them. A similar thing is being done in all our great state student centers. And results are already in evidence. Iowa State University sent six graduates to the Foreign Field in 1920. At the present time 20 Methodist boys and girls at the same University are lined up for definite Christian service. The University of Kansas has multiplied her number of recruits for Christian service by seven. At the University of California ten students were recently licensed to preach. This is most certainly strategic work for the Church and is worthy of the best assistance we can give it. It reminds us of the words of Roger W. Babson in one of his recent statistical bulletins: "We are willing to give our property and even our lives when our country calls in time of war. Yet the call of Christian education is today of even greater importance than was ever the call of the army or navy. We insure our houses and factories, our automobiles and our business thru mutual and stock insurance companies, but the same amount of money invested in Christian education would give far greater results. Besides, Christian education can insure what no corporation can insure—namely, prospesity."

It is well for us to get it grounded into our systems that the work of the Christian Church in America has but begun. With Oriential religious spreading thruout this country from New York to Hawaii; with 74 Buddhist temples in the United States today; and as many or more of other heathen temples in our Christian land; with an immense immigration population, millions of them without any idea of the principles of Americanism or Christianity, the Church of Jesus Christ faces a stupendous task. It is time that we recognize Jesus Christ as not a mere convenience either for individual or nation but as the supreme need of both; that we treat His gospel and His salvation not with indifference and hesitancy, but see Him and His gospel and His salvation as the world's first and greatest necessity.

LEGION CHECKING UP NEEDS OF WAR BOYS

The American Legion, mindful of the needs and conditions of many of its members, have planned a campaign to secure information concerning the condition of every one of its members in Iowa, and a regular "cencus" of the service men will be taken. Dr. Earl Tomkins of Clarion has been appointed chairman of the third Iowa district, and he will have supervision of the drive in the nine counties which comprise the district. Chairman will be appointed for each county, and these chairmen will appoint as many sub-chaimen as is necessary to complete the work in the shortest possible time.

Conditions as regards ex-service men in Iowa are not as grave as in some other states, Legion officials say but it is estimated that there are no fewer than 5,000 Iowa boys who served in he world war who are in immediate need. Hundreds of men are not receiving compensation due them. Others are out of iobs. Still others are suffering from old wounds gas and diseases incedent to easy living after inensive training in war days. Many of the veterans have dependents who are suffering because of the suffering of the father, husband and son. and it is the Legion's purpose to rectify these conditions also in so far as possible.

Organizion for the drive, which was suggested by State Commander MacNider, and which is under the personal supervision of himself and State Adjutant James F. Barton, includes a chairman in each of Iowa's 99 counties. the chairman to appoint lieutenants who are instructed to determine the condition of each of the veterans found. The county chairman were appointed by the state executive committeemen in each of the 11 congressional districts in this state and district meetings will be held at which the state officials will speak and outine all details of the campaign.

America's Favorite

ZANE GREY! There's a name that you folks know and love. I've talked with a good many of you about him—you're just as anxious as I am to get hold of his newest story. So here's good news: We won't have to wait until it comes out as a book; it starts next week in

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

I wouldn't miss the next fifteen issues of this national farm weekly for many times their cost; this story alone is worth double the price of a whole year's subscription.

To the Last Man is more than a rattling-good story—Zane Grey spent a lot of money and months of study to make it an accurate picture of one of the most dramatic conflicts in our history, the protracted struggle between sheepmen and cattlemen for the ranges of the West. Against this stirring background, full of breathless action and gigantic adventure, he has painted one of the tenderest and most pleasing love stories he has ever portrayed.

You won't want to miss a word of it, so you had better rush me your dollar for 52 big issues of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN, including this great story.

Weekly—Not Monthly—for $1.00 a Year

R. A. RANKINS
Phone 115 or 196 Belmond, Iowa

An authorized subscription representative of
The Country Gentleman 52 issues—$1.00 The Ladies' Home Journal 12 issues—$2.00 The Saturday Evening Post 52 issues—$2.50

Start With $1

THIS BANK DESIRES ABOVE ALL ELSE, THE SAVINGS ACCOUNTS OF THE CHILDREN. IT OFFERS EVERY OPPORTUNITY TO THE YOUNGSTERS TO ACQUIRE THE SAVINGS HABIT.

ONE DOLLAR WILL START AN ACCOUNT. REGARDLESS OF THE SIZE OF YOUR ACCOUNT, BIG OR LITTLE, THIS BANK WELCOMES YOU.

WE ARE AT YOUR SERVICE IN ANY WAY. FEEL FREE TO CALL ON US AT ANY TIME.

BELMOND SAVINGS BANK

Auto Repair Shop

First class work done on any make of car at a reasonable price, by expert mechanics.

Repairing done on any make or size Tractor, or Gas Engine.

Will be open for business May 23rd Give us a trial and we will prove satisfactory

Located across the street from the Belmond Independent.

E. G. Miller

Phone 39 Belmond, Ia

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 — BELMOND, IOWA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 25th 1921 — NO. 27

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM GIVEN ON MONDAY

Belmond Keeps On With Its Winning Streak

Take Third Game Of Year And Second Straight Win From Fort Dodge Sunday.

SCORE IS FIVE TO TWO FOR US

Belmond took the third game of the season, and their second straight victory, Sunday afternoon from the Fort Dodge team by an easy score of five to two.

It was a good game altho slow, and there was little doing in the excitement line. The Fort Dodge team was outclassed from every angle, and their two runs came partly from the errors of the home team.

Belmond outplayed them all around. In the batting line the hits were about equally distributed, but those made by Belmond were longer and counted for more. Fulton featured the batting with a three-bagger, and "Heinie" also drove one to the far woods for three bases, being caught by about ten feet trying to stretch it into a homer. Dillon started the batting spree, and Parsons secured two clean hits, while the whole team had their batting togs on.

On base running the locals had it all over the Fort Dodge aggregation, stealing more bases, taking more chances and getting away with them. Pillmer had them feeding out of his good right hand, and kept the runners so close to the bases that they thought they were glued, while Fort Dodge used threeheavers in the vain attempt to stop the local sluggers from getting overheated on the circuit of the bases. Belmond outplayed them, but at that they played a slow game, flashing out into real classy ball at times however when it was needed. Three or four times the locals had the sacks loaded, and were able to force in but one run, the needed hit not being forthcoming at the proper occasion.

Several beautiful plays were put over by the Belmond boys, among which was a double play, and a fast, clean pick-up and put-out by Baldridge, at short. Pillmer pulled a neat litte stunt when he caught a Fort Dodge runner off second, the runner taking too long a lead off and when Pillmer suddenly whirled and shot the ball to second the runner was about six feet too slow in getting back. When it comes to holding men on the bases Pillmer gets the gold medal, for he has the quickest and neatest turn and throw that has been seen around this neck of the woods for some time.

The Belmond team is playing some good ball this year, putting some real snap into it and working together as a unit in a way that was sorrowfully lacking last year. If they keep up the pace that they have been going their record this year should be a good one.

There was a large crowd in attendance at the game, and the best of order prevailed thruout. That is the way to have it, and the manager of the team is to be congratulated on the success so far attained.

On next Sunday, May 29, the home team will play Thornton here. The Thornton team has been going pretty strong this year, so a good game is the prospect.

COMMUNITY WELFARE CLUB

The Community Welfare club meets this week Friday, May 27, at the library basement. The meeting opens at 2:30.

The program will be on American Humorists.

Leader ---------------- Mrs. Edge
Life and Work of Mark Twain ----
----------- Mrs. W. R. Ramsay
Characterization of Geo. Ade --------
----------------- Mrs. Parsons
Vocal Solo -------- Mrs. C. O. Fitts
Walt Mason ---------- Mrs. Gowdy
Uncle Remus Stories ------------
------------ Mrs. E. W. Luick
Reading ---------- Loretta McGuire

Serving Committee: Mrs. Lud Johnson, Mrs. John Lieuwen, Mrs. Earhart, Mrs. I. H. Benson, Mrs. Martin Hanson, Mrs. T. A. Thompson, Mrs. E. S. Fyler, Mrs. Gus Johnson, Mrs. W. O. Eaton.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

Clipper: W. V. Johnson of Sanborn, Iowa, jailed Saturday for giving alleged worthless checks at Eagle Grove was held to the October term of the grand jury by Justice Yearous at Eagle Grove. Bond for appearance was fixed at $500, and the young man's father, a banker of Sanborn, came to Clarion, Wednesday, and secured his son's release.

Johnson came to Eagle Grove from Algona. He scattered several checks around town before he was caught. One of them for $75 was given to Noonan & Winslow, where he bought a watch and ring. He left the watch to have it engraved and in the meantime the jewelers called up Algona and asked if the check drawn by "J. A. Brown" the name the young man has signed to the check was good. They advised that there was no J. A. Brown there, altho A. J. Brown was a customer at the bank. Johnson then claimed that he was A. J. Brown's son, but further advice from Algona stated Brown had no son. Then Johnson returned the change and the jewelry, promising that it was his first offense and if they would let him go he would never turn such a rick again. Reluctant to prosecute, the jewelers promised him they would make no complaint.

But Johnson went over to the hotel and gave another bogus check for $5. In the meantime the marshal had heard of the deed and went out to see if the man was cashing more checks. When he learned of the hotel check he nabbed Johnson.

The father stated he had recently advanced money to the young man for a busniness enterprise in Cedar Rapids. But he did not make good, and had cashed several checks drawn on the father. Then the father advised him to stop the practice.

Leslie E. Bernard, the Woolstock man who cashed a number of bogus checks in that vicinity, according to allegations filed in a suit in district court, has been arrested at Webster City and held for the grand jury. While the Webser City people are proseuting the young man there the sums advanced on the checks are being sued for in Wright county.

On Thursday last the board of supervisors awarded the contracts for the construction of 55 bridges and culverts. The contract price in the aggregate was a trifle over $37.600. The lot consists of six I beam bridges, one 64-foot truss and 48 culverts, which range in size from 10x8 feet down to 2 x 2 feet. The contractors are Swanson & Co., Webster City, Christensen Construction Co of Iowa Falls, and Iowa Bridge company.

N. H. Murphy of Eagle Grove manager of the Community sore in that city, who was indicted by the last grand jury, was arrested at Omaha last week. Sheriff Lang went after him Sunday, but Murphy was able to put up a $2,000 band and was released on bail. He is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses while in charge of the above store. Murphy says the note he gave is not due for four months and that he intends to pay it when due. Since he was indicted he is said to have married a rich Spencer girl. Another chapter was added yesterday when this paper received notice of his bankruptcy,

Tony Tonisky was taken to Cherokee, Sunday, the Commissioners having decided he was a fit subject for the state asylum at that place. He was arrested by Eagle Grove authorities and brought to Clarion. Tonisky had been employed by F. W. Klein, whose farm is near Eagle Grove. On Monday night of last week the Klein barn was destroyed by fire and 13 head of horses and mules burned to death. The peculiar actions of the farm hand at once placed him under suspicion.

Marriage licenses for the past week except one bashful young fellow from a neighboring county, are as follows: Herbert Eike and Dora Coe, Ralph Peterson and Nora Olson.

Primary road project No. 10 will come up for letting today. Bids will be received for draining and grading nine miles, which completes the main road east and west across the county. Two bridges are included in this letting.

In Flander's Fields the poppies grow,
Between the crosses, row on row,
Which mark our place,
While in the sky the larks,
Still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' Fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you, from falling hands, we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, tho poppies grow
In Flanders' Fields.

High School Graduation Next Week

Last Saturday the B. H. S. ball team journeyed to Corwith to play the return game there. A jinx was with the boys from the start. Car trouble prevented them reaching there until after 4:00 o'clock and as the game had been set for 2:30 the Corwith fans insisted that they play ball at once. Belmond forged ahead after the second inning and held the lead until the 6th, when Corwith put several hits in left field, where the fielder had to wait for the ball to roll from off the building and thus took the lead and won 6 to 8. In a clear field there is no doubt but what the score would have been 5 to 6 in favor of B. H. S. Madsen and Tyrell were the local battery

Monday our base ball team drove to Dows, where they defeated Dows for the second time by the score of 6 to 8. This game was the fastest played this year, as well as one of the most exciting. It was to be a seven-inning game, but because the score stood 6 to 6 another inning was played. Madsen and Luick were on the mound for Belmond and did excellent work, assisted by Tyrrell behind the bat,

Thursday our boys go to Hampton to pay the return game. A good game is expected.

Friday the B. H. S. track team will attend the invitation meet at Clarion, where they compete with Eagle Grove, Hampton and Clarion.

Baccalaureate exercises will be held Sunday evening, May 29th., at 8:00 o'lcock in the high school auditorium.

March ---------------- Senior Class
Invocation ---------- Rev. Leinbach
Reading of Scriptures ---- Rev. Edge
Music ------------ Girls Glee Club
Sermon --------------------------
----The Reverend Father Eardley.
Piano Solo ------------ Carol Tyrell
Benediction ---------- Rev. Leinbach

The High School Commencement Exercises will be held Thursday evening, June 2, at 8:00 o'clock in the auditorium. Prof. Louer of the State University of Iowa has been secured to give the Commencement address.

The Senior Play cast wish to thank all people who so kindly aided them by lending things for the play. They wish to thank especially the Belmond Furniture Co. who loaned the furniture for the last acts.

The Senior Class are greatly relieved now that the Annuals are out and the play is over. They will take their final exams the last of the week.

EIGHTH GRADE PROGRAM

Part I

Opening Chorus—
At the Village Post Office

Cast of Characters

Hosea Howe, the village postmaster
Samuel Leinbach.
Sophia Titterington, his assistant—
Cecilia Houltzbauer.
Bill Bluster, rural carrier, and
Seth Swallow, the village scamp—
Marshall Nourse.
Benjamin Bullet, a relic of the war,
Bob Worthington, the bright boy—
Elmer Peterson.
Obediah Wayback, the oldest citizen

(Continued on page eight)

Change of Publication Date

To the Independent Subscribers and Advertisers:

Beginning with the next issue, the Independent will change its publication date from Wednesday of each week to Thursday, the papers going into the mail on Thursday morning. The next issue, therefore, will be on June 2nd.

This change is made for several reasons. It will enable the Independent to give its readers more and fresher news; its advertisers better service; and enables the publisher to put more time on the paper.

The publisher believes that this move will meet with the approval of the subscribers and advertisers, and asks their co-operation that better service may be given to both.

LEGION, G. A. R. W. R. C. AND CITY OFFICIALS

Complete Program For Observance Of Memorial Sunday And Memorial Day In Belmond.

ADDRESS BY DR. A. A. BROOKS.

Speaker From Fort Dodge Secured To Deliver Principal Address Of The Day.

Memorial Sunday, May 29th., 1921
11:00 a. m.—Union services at school auditorium.
Address by Rev. J. M. Jensen.
Memorial Day, Monday, May 30, 1921
By G. A. R., W. R.C., and American Legion. All ex-service men are requested to be present in uniform
Officer of the Day—Leo R. Kenefick.
9:00 a. m.—Music by Chamber of Commerce band.
9:30 a. m.—Formation in front of Belmond Savings Bank. March to Cemetery: Color Guard, American Legion, G. A. R., W. R. C., Boy Scouts, City Officials, and other civic organizations who wish to join.

At Cemetery

Music by Band.
Logan's Oorder—C. O. Fitts.
Chaplain's Prayer—Cato C. Griesy.
Strewing of flowers and Exercises by G. A. R., W. R. C., and American Legion.
Taps.
National Anthem by Band.

NOON

2:00 p. m.—Formation in front of Belmond Savings Bank.
March to high school.
Music by Band.
Opening Prayer—Rev. Leinbach.
Song—American Legion Quartette: A. H. Skovlin, Cato C. Griesy, Frank Baldridge, F. A. Bailey.
Lincoln's Gettysburg Address—A. H. Skovlin.
Roll of Honor—C. R. Townsan.
Solo—Miss Helen Sidow.
Introduction of Speakers—G. H. Klemme.
Address: Dr. A. A. Brooks, of Fort Dodge, Iowa.
Song—America.
Benediction.

Committee: C. O. Fitts, Cato C. Griesy.

Auto Committee: W. A. Parker, Geo. F. Heginger.

Flower Committee: C. M. Morse, F. S. Baldridge.

Music Committee: C. C. Benson.

Firing Squad: Ray P. Morris.

Anyone wishing to donate flowers kindly leave them at residence of Mrs. J. B. Robins, or notify Flower Committee who will call for them.

Cars will call for members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. upon request to Auto Committee.

RECENT REAL ESTATE CHANGES

Among the recent changes of property here listed as changing hands are the following:

Edward Kiplinger and wife to Sophia Halfpap, lot 2 block 14, Morse addition to Belmond, no consideration.

Edward Kiplinger and wife to Mayme Wolfe, lot 7 block 14, Morse addition to Belmond, no consideration.

Edward Kiplinger and wife to Julia Lowenberg, lot 8 block 14, Morse addition to Belmond, no consideration.

The Independent was the scene of a little excitement Saturday afternoon when an alarm of fire was turned in. The blaze, which did not amount to anything, was caused by a pipe leading up from the linotype thru the ceiling, used to carry off the fumes of metal the pipe becoming heated and starting a small blaze in the ceiling. The alarm was turned in but the blaze had been extinguished with a hand chemical tank, thru the assistance of J. S. White before the fire company arrived. The company was on the scene in remarkably short order, and certainly demonstrated to ye ed that they are on the job.

FREE AIR!

That this is the age of many wonderful things, you have got to admit. Inventions extraordinary, marvels of science, impossible to do and to believe.

The wireless telegraph, the airship woman suffrage and prohibtion all make you pause and consider, but it is announced that one of the greatest wonders is about to be given to the gaze of mankind.

Henry Ford is going to build an iron bossy.

He's going to invent a cow that you won't have to feed hay. A steel-ribbed moo-cow that will switch an iorn tail and bawl by electricity, and give milk.

Better milk than a real cow that kicks.

That might be all right under some circumstances. But we wonder—to make the Ford bovine deliver the goods, will you have to crank her, or is she to have a self-commencer? Suppose, so long as she won't be able to kick, that she back-fiires?

And if bossy doesn't eat hay, will she consume gasoline? If she does, then the old reliable will be by far the cheapest to keep.

And another thing, how about the calves? Will Ford's steel cow have quadruplets like Christie's famous cow?

This is the age of wonderful inventions, and you can't most always sometimes tell what to least expect the most you're gonna get, but there be some things that passeth the belief.

What has become of all the exciting court news lately? Must be that the town has reformed, or become scared out, or something.

Maybe Hizzoner is having his summer vacation.

How did you get thru Friday the 13th week before last? We never thought what day it was, or we never would have written Free Air on that day.

The foreman, he got terrible excited when we had the fire the other day. He hears us holler that the roof is on fire, so he beats it to the phone and calls central.

Says he: "This is the fire department, quick, the Chronicle office is on fire!"

If this was the fire department, then they sure done some fast work.

One thing that a fire demonstrates in this town, perhaps you've noticed it, and that is, that there's a heap of folks in this burg when you get 'em out.

The Clipper must have thought that he who fights and runs away will have a chance to go to the movies that night, for after having both Belmond papers call his attention to the fact that he was somewhat off his right ideas, he thought maybe there might be something to it.

CLARION TO HAVE CHILDRENS' PLAYGROUND SOON

An announcement of more than ordinary interest to the young girls and small children of Clarion will be the fact that a playground station has been purchased by the park commissioners and will be installed on the west side of the park. It consists of two slides, two see-saws and four swings, having an all metal frame. The post will be set in cement and the station complete will cost about $450.—Monitor.

This is somewhat along the same order as the playground apparatus which the Community Club has had for the children of Belmond for the past year.

FALSE FIRE ALARM THURSDAY

An alarm of fire was turned in on Thursday of last week, about half past six in the evening and brought out the fire company in jig time. After chasing around several minutes hunting the blaze, it was found that the alarm was false. Some little boy in his curiosity had punched the button, and created a lot of excitement. In getting out of the fire station in the hurry the door was caught and somewhat damaged.

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

WOOLSTOCK HOLDS RECORD BREAKER MEETING

Woolstock township Farm Bureau held its regular monthly meeting at the Head Grove school Friday evening, May 20. About 160 people were packed into the school building to enjoy the splendid program which had been so carefully worked out by the program committee, of which Mrs. Ed. Kirstein was chairman.

A. S. Chapman, township chairman for Woolstock, made a few remarks after which a most delightful musical program was enjoyed by all. The feature of the program was the dialogue, "Clubs Are Trumps," which was given by boys and girls of the local school. This dialogue illustrated most forcibly the great possibility of boys and girls club work in the community. The boys and girls of Woolstock township seem very much interested in the club work and will no doubt take an active part in the work after it is organized. The county agent gave a short talk on boys and girls club work and farm bureau work in general.

This meeting of 160 farmers or more is a sure sign that the farmers are going back to the good old time community gatherings. They realize that by meeting together in this way they are going to get more out of life. They are going to know of life. They are going to know one another's problems and in this way be in a better position to co-operate with one another in the problems which concern everyone in the entire community. The program committee announces a lawn social for the next regular meeting which will be held on the third Friday of June. It is planned to secure a speaker from some other section of the county for this next meeting.

LAKE HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of Lake township farm bureau which was postponed from May 10 to May 19 on account of rain was held at the Center school Thursday evening. Some where in the neighborhood of 60 people were present at this meeting and entered into the discussion of the community problems.

It seemed unfortunate that Lake township was unable to secure an outside speaker for this occasion but, thru some misunderstanding the meeting was called for the same evening that the Grant township meeting was held at a home not more than four miles from their meeting place. However, those who attended this meeting report a very interesting time under the leadership of Mrs. M. L. Clark, lady chairman for Lake township.

An interesting program of recitations, songs and a dialogue "The Arrival of Billy,' was put on by the three school districts from the east side of the township. The way in which these pupils put on this part of the program indicated a thorough preparation for the occasion and showed that the teacher who made arrangements for the program spent considerable time in preparation. One point which was brought up for discussion was that of arranging for more seats at the Center school building, because of the fact that the seating capacity is insufficient for the various meetings of the community. Plans for the next regular monthly meeting were talked over and the following ladies were added to the program committee: Mrs. Anton Anderson, Mrs. Alan Robinson and Mrs. Pete Duitscher.

VETERINARY SPECIALIST VISITS WRIGHT

Dr. K. W. Stouder, extension specialist, of the Extension Department was in Wright county Friday, May 20, to attend a call from J. F. Hoffman, who lives near Dows, and who has been having considerable trouble with his hogs during the past few months. Mr. Hoffman had a peculiar condition in his herd and one which his local veterinarians seemed to be unable to solve entirely. The fact that this was an unusual condition among Mr. Hoffman's hogs was the reason for calling the veterinarian specialist from the extension department at Ames.

Dr. J. R. McDonald, veterinarian from Clarion accompanied Dr. Stouder and County Agent Edwards to Mr. Hoffman's farm and found Dr. Pierce and Dr. Olson, veterinarians from Dows, and 15 or 20 farmer neighbors of Mr. Hoffman waiting for Dr. Stouder to arrive to make a diagnosis of the case and recomend treatment.

Dr. Stouder found Mr. Hoffman's hogs to be infected with what is known as posterior paralysis, a condition which causes the animal to lose control of its rear limbs. He explained in detail the various things which bring about this condition in the animal. This is an instance where an individual farmer received service thru the farm bureau and the service which was rendered proved to be valuable to the entire community.

FARM BUREAU SOCIAL IN GRANT

The regular monthly meeting of the Grant township Farm Bureau was held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Bell, four miles north of Clarion, Thursday evening, May 19. Farmers, wives and children came from far and near to attend this regular monthly social affair and by the time the program began about 125 people had congregated to enjoy the evening's entertainment.

E. W. Campbell, chairman for Lake township farm bureau, gave an interesting talk on the workings of our local live stock shipping associations. It will be remembered that Mr. Campbell is manager of the shipping association. Mr. Campbell talked for a short time also on the activities of the farm bureau and urged a closer co-operation between the members and officers of this organization.

The principal address of the evening was given by O. P. Moron of Lincoln township, who for many years was connected with the farm bureau as secretary. Indeed, Mr. Morton and his connections with the farm bureau will not soon be forgotten by those who remember the early history of this organization. Mr. Morton was a loyal supporter of the farm bureau from the time of its inception to the fall of 1912 and has always had the interests of the farm bureau at heart. Mr. Morton began by telling a bit of early history of Wright county conditions and by giving a brief history of some of the other farmers' organizations. He told about the Grange which was organized in the early seventies which was replaced along in the nineties by the Farmers Alliance. He then drew a comparison of the activities of the old organizations with our present farm bureau organization and went on to say what an improvement our present organization has over the old form of farmers associations. Mr. Morton touched upon all problems that are of interest to the farm bureau at the present time and seems to have had first hand information regarding the present day conditions. He closed his remarks by saying "We should aim to make the farm a more attractive place and one in which we will want to live instead of one which we will want to get away from just as soon as conditions make it possible.

C. L. Hall, chairman of Grant township Farm Bureau gave a short talk which was interesting and to the point. The one thing which was emphasized by all speakers of the evening was that we must have closer co-operation among the members them selves and between the members and officers of the organization. A neat dialogue "Clubs Are Trumps" was put on by the school children of the township. This dialogue brought out most forcibly the things that are possible to work out in club work with the boys and girls. Ice cream and cake were served after which everyone went home rejoicing.

ITERESTING CLUB MEETING SATURDAY

A most interesting and instructive meeting was held at the county agents office Saturday afternoon, May 21, for the purpose of organizing girls club work in Wright county. Miss Josephine Arnquist, state leader of girls' club work, was the principal speaker at this meeting and gave many valuable suggestions for planning and organizing the girls of the county in the club work.

Miss Arnquist suggested that the girls' club work in Wright county be conducted by an executive committee of five members distributed over the county. Miss Hazel Spencer of Grant township was elected chairman of the executive committee to co-operate with the county agent in club work. The various kinds of clubs which were discussed at this meeting were canning clubs, food study clubs, garment clubs and "Own your own room" clubs. The concensus of opinion of those present seemed to be that the garment club would be the most interesting and most practical for Wright county girls.

Any girl between the ages of 10 to 18 inclusive, who is interested in becoming a member of the club should write or call either the county agent or Miss Hazel Spencer at once, and your name will be added to the list and insructions and suggestions sent out.

TIMELY REMINDERS OF THINGS TO BE DONE

Vaccinate the spring pigs to prevent hog cholera. The pigs will now weigh about 40 pounds and are the ideal size for immunization. At this age the pigs are easily handled. If a pig dies as result of vaccination the loss is not as great. The cost of vaccination of 40-pound pigs is less than for older hogs.

Plan a fly campaign. Swat the flies!

Don't let the weeds take your summer garden.

Poison the grasshoppers. Examine the alfalfa fields and the edge of the grain field for the presence of young grasshoppers. If they are are discovered in numbers, plan to poison them with poison bait. Your county agent can arrange to have the control of this pest demonstrated.

Get Rid of the Rooster. Infertile eggs keep best and market best, especially during the warm summer months. Fertile eggs will start to incubate at living room temperature and soon become tainted and unfit for food. It is not advisable to hatch chicks later than May or June, hence, for the extra value of infertile eggs the male birds should be penned off by themselves or turned into meat. Contrary to a common notion the cock bird has no influence on the number of eggs laid by the hens. June is the best time to get rid of the rooster.

Look after the machinery. Get the mower ready for business. Grind the sickles, tighten bolts, oil the bearings. The binder might be carefully examined to see if repairs must be made or new parts ordered. Get a pail of hard oil or axel grease and smear it over the disk after all the dry soil is scraped off. Smear the moldboards and shares of the plows. It will pay to put some on the corn plow shovel when corn plowing ceases for a day or two. If possible put machinery which will not be used for some time into the shed. Wet summer weather is worse on machinery than the dry weather season. Keep machinery away from stock when not in use Injured stock and broken machinery are poor investments.

Destroy Barberry sprouts. The spring stage of the black stem rust which is found on the common barberry has already started to develope. Mature rust spots from which spores were blowing have been found this spring. This means that the fields are even now in danger of infection from this disease. Delay in destroying the common barberries allows the rust to mature and spread

STABILIZING THE FARMER

The economists are agreed that one of the most serious of our afterwar problems is how to make agriculture safe for the agriculturist.

It is becoming plainer every day that when we have solved this problem, we shall have gone a long ways toward making the world safe for everybody.

Altho the basis of our prosperity is the soil, the government has uniformly exhibited the most pronounced partiality for the manufacturing interests, many of which it has fostered at the expense of the agriculture.

It is time the farmer received some "first aid" consideration. His present plight is worse than it has been for many years, Despite the fact that a drastic process of deflation has forced down he prices of his products to prewar levels, and even lower, he is still facing the highest costs of farm supplies, of rail transportation, and of local, state and national government in the history of the modern world.

Speaking in Washington the other day, Herbert Hoover called attention to the fact that the present rate on grain from Missouri river points to New York is 30 cents a bushel, as against 10 for grain from Argentine to New York, which he said created a situation that "would change the granary base from the central states of the west to foreign nations." He also offered statistics to show that there had been a 50 percent greater decline in crop prices than in the prices of manufactured products. "Certainly these levels," he declared, "must come into step or the agricultural industry and its standards of living will be undermined."

It is beyond dispute that the farmer's boasted annual surplus has become either negligible or a minus quantity. In hundreds of cases the returns from his labor are barely sufficient to pay his interest and taxes. At best, thay are constantly fluctuating between a small profit and a loss too big to be borne for long.

Until the farming business is stabilized it will be impossible to stabilize any business. And to stabilize the farming business it will be necessary to do something more than to restore a "normalcy" which represents merely pre-war crop values plus post-war costs and taxes. That sort of normalcy will not revive the buying power of the farmer. Only fair prices for his products can do that.

In his connection we cannot refrain from pointing out that it is the great and distinctive achievement of the beet sugar industry that it has given the farmer he inestimable assurance of a fair return on his labor and capital. No matter how the prices of his other crops may slump, the price of his sugar beets remains a fixed and irreducible quantity. His contract with the beet sugar factory puts him on a cost-plus basis—the safest basis on which any business can be conducted.

A particularly striking illustration of the "edge" which the beet growing farmer has on his non-beet growing neighbor occured last year when the price of so many farm products fell below the cost of production—when it took a 60-pound steer hide to pay for a $9 pair of shoes and 40 acres of average oats or corn to pay for the services of the hired man for the season—for at this very time the beet grower was getting not only his regular contract prices but a small bonus besides. Compared to the lot of the average farmer, it could be truly said of him, as Mr. Gump so proudly said of himself, that he was "settin' " os Old Luck's back.

The importance of the sugar beet crop as a reliable money-maker is enthusiastically attested by the country bankers, than whom there are no shrewer observers or appraisers of agricultural conditions. Almost without exception they bear testimony to the year-in-and-year-out profitableness of the sugar beet crop. One of them in Michigan last fall put his testimony in concrete style when he said: "It is noticeable that the man who grows beets is not coming in to borrow money to pay his taxes." which tallies exactly with the remark of a country merchant in the same state that "the farmer who is paying his bill this year is the man who had the sense to raise beets."

It is the certainty and permanence of the reward of human effort that make for genera progress and contentment. It is because the beet sugar industry gives the farmer just this sort of an assurance that it has become one of the greatest agricultural assets of the mid-west and Rocky mountain states.

We Agree

"Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, Religion and Morality are indispensable supports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of Patriotism who should labor to subvert these great pillars of human happiness, these firmest props of the duties of Men and Citizens."

George Washington.

Methodist Episcopal Church

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING BILL PASSES HOUSE

The House of Representatives passed the Capper-Volstead bill to give farmers the right to form co-operative marketing associations without being penalized by the anti-trust laws. The vote was 284 to 49.

Gentle in Effect.

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, coedine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

The Belmond Independent Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

ROWAN NEWS

S. B. Heath has painted the exterior of his house this week.

Mr. Morrison spent the week end with friends at Hampton last week.

Wilford Carmon went to DeSmet, S. D. Saturday of last week for a few days visit.

J. A. Whitten and daughter Wilda were Dows callers Monday.

Mrs. Alfred Davis is recovering from an attack of near pneumonia.

Frank Snyder was at Clarion on Tuesday to visit his mother, Mrs. M. Snyder, at the Fred Smith home.

Harold Steffens was a Dows caller Tuesday between trains.

The Misses Wilda and Freida Whitten were Fort Dodge shoppers Wednesday.

George Pritchett was a Clarion caller Wednesday.

Jens Kjar was a passenger to Clarion, Wednesday.

Mrs. Harold Tomkinson attended the Sunday school convention at Eagle Grove, Wednesday, where she gave an address on "The Child in the Midst."

Mission Study Club Meets

The Young Ladies Mission Study club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. D. W. Whitten with Miss LaVonne Ballou as leader. The lesson was very interesting. The mothers were invited to this meeting and several attended. A committee was selected to secure new members. Also mit boxes were given out. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, The next meeting will be a picnic. It is hoped that all the young people will be able to attend this meeting as a fine time is planned.

The Andrew Whitten post of the American Legion of Rowan met at their regular meeting Monday evening. A good crowd attended. One new member was added to the roster.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howell and daughter Clara Jane spent several of days at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Howell, and family.

Mrs. H. Burt of Clarion, who has been visiting at the home of her son, Elmer Burt, for a week returned to her home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs of Goodell spent Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph.

Mrs. J. S. Farren had the bad luck to fall Friday and sprain her arm at the shoulder joint. It is very painful and will incapacitate her for some time.

Mrs. R. L. Robinson was a Clarion caller Thursday.

Mrs. Wm. Steffens and brother, Henry DeWald of Holly, Colo., visited at at the Jesse Steffens home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph went to Clarion, Saturday. Guy went for medical aid for blood poisoning in one of his fingers caused from a scratch received while he was opening a box of meat.

Isiah Brittien of Iowa Falls visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Whitten, Thursday.

Miss Evelyn Heathershaw is assisting with the housework at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen.

Mrs. Roy Fitz of Clarion has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gay Fletcher, this week. Mrs. Flecther has been sick with the summer flu.

Miss Grace Meinders of Belmond is helping at the Charley Huntington home.

Monday night five cars from Rowan went to Goodell to spend the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs in honor of Mrs. Jacobs' birthday. They gave her a cut glass water set in remembrance of the day. They enjoyed a very pleasant evening. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheldon and children, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Thelma and Marjorie, Blanche Box, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph and children, Mrs. R. L. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller, Mrs. Blanche Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Harland Hill, Miss Pearl Mickelson, Mr. and Mrs. Sim Stout, George Aldrich, Chester Moellering. Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley and Edgar Mantle.

Friday evening this same crowd with the addition of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval and boys, Rev. and Mrs. Harold Tomkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Mirian Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Woodin met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller in honor of the birthday of Harland Hill. He was presented with an appropriate gift. A very nice lunch was served and the guests report a very nice time.

Clint Kercheval and son Charles and Mrs. E. Bingham were Dows shoppers Saturday.

Mrs. Ole Erickson of Dows visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey, Monday.

A fine baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McAlpine on Monday. This young man has been named Donald Laurence. Mother and baby are doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carmon, the Misses Wilda and Freida Whitten, Geo. Carmon and Alfred Larson were Belmond callers Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Myers of Paxton, Neb., are the proud parents of a baby boy born Monday. Mrs. Myers is at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Myers. The baby has been named Howard Wesley.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Munson and Mr. and Mrs. Will Bailey motored to Dows, Saturday.

Messrs. Frank and Fred Kercheval and Master Charles were Clarion shoppers Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Langdon were Dows callers Saturday.

A baby girl named Dorothy May arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Niggs Friday of last week.

Mrs. Esther Andrews entertained entertained the following guests at dinner Sunday of last week: her sister, Mrs. Geo. Seney, her nephew, Glen Seney, and wife, her niece, Mrs. Frank Sridgens and children, all from near Sheffield, also Will Bailey Jr and wife and children. Her sister returned Friday to stay a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bingham, Mrs. Georgia Rowen and Mrs. Fred Weber were Hampton shoppers Saturday.

Mrs. Earl Jacobs went to Dows on Saturday to have some dental work done.

Mrs. Will Azeltine of Galt spent the week end with relatives at that place.

Miss Nellie Hackley has been visiting at the homes of her sisters, Mrs. Gaulke and Mrs. Bachman of Dows the past week.

Mr. and Mrs Sim Stout and Mrs. D. K. Stout were Belmond callers on Saturday.

Earl Jacobs and Edgar Mantle were Hampton dental visitors on Saturday.

Geo. Miller of Hampton spent the week end at the home of his brother Ed. Miller and family.

Mrs. Clarence Johnson was a Dows shopper Friday.

Bernice Bailey went to Conger, Minn., Thursday to spend a short time with her sister, Mrs. Casper Reasoner.

A number of the friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Friday, for a social time. They report a very enjoyable evening.

Frank Snyder was a Clarion visitor Saturday.

Little Constance Tomkinson caught her finger in a wringer one day this week and mashed it so the nail came off.

Wright County Sunday School Convention Convenes

The Wright County Sunday School association met in the M. E. church at Rowan, Tuesday afternoon and evening. 103 enrolled for these meetings. There were some very good speakers for the day. A count was taken at the afternoon session and it was found 37 were attending their first Sunday school convention. There were six Sunday school superintendents and 4 assistant superintendents and four ministers present. The motto given for the Sunday schools was "The needs of the pupil should be the law of the school." There were five towns and 10 schools represented at this convention. Following is a list of the schools an the number of elegates: Dows: Presbyterian 3, M. E. 11; Cornelia: Union 2; Belmond, Cong. 4; Clarion: United Pres. 1, Cong. 1, M. E. 1; Eagle Grove: Cong. 1; Rowan: M. E. 43, Cong. 35. Walter Hutton, the general secretary of the state, gave two very interesting talks. At the afternoon session Mrs. Breaw of Dows gave a pleasing talk on the use of hand work in the primary classes of the Sunday school. Her suggestions were very helpful. At the evening session the following names were nominated as officers for the coming year and were elected at Eagle Grove, Wednesday: Pres. Rev. J. F. Jamieson, Clarion; secretary-treasurer, Lucy Umbreit, Clarion; departmental superihtendent, Elementary division, Mrs R. M. Smallpage, Eagle Grove; Young Peoples, Miss Jennie Bethel, Clarion; Ault, Mrs. George Kabele; Administrative, Rev. W. L. Breaw, Dows; Educational, Mrs. J. F. Jamieson, Clarion; District Presidents: C. L. Hall, Clarion; Mrs. Bertha Loobey, Goldfield; Rev. W. G. Muhleman, Eagle Grove; Rev. A. H. Waalkes, Belmond; Rev. Harold Tomkinson, Rowan.

Miss LaVonne Ballou sang a pleasing solo at the evening session. A picnic supper was served in the basement of the church. The rain stopped a great number from attending who would have been there had they been able to drive. This was a very helpful meeting and should entuse the Sunday schools to a greater work. Following is a list of out of town delegates: Clarion: C. L. Hall, Rev. J. F. Jamieson, Lucy Umbriet; Belmond: Mrs. J. E. Wallace, T. A. Davenport, Mrs. C. A. Thiltgen, Mrs. T. A. Davenport, Mrs. H. J. Traeger, Mrs. L. L. Lathrop; Dows: Rev. W. L. Breaw, Rev. Elliot, Carl Danielson, Mrs. A. Granan, E. C. Burrows, Mrs. Ellott, Mrs. W. L. Breaw, F. J. King, Mrs. C. C. Danielson, Mrs. E. C. Burrows; Eagle Grove, Mrs. Smallpaige.

The W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Frank Kercheval, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Hannah Whitten was leader. The subject was "What shall I render to God?" A good crowd was present considering the day.

The Cong. Ladies Aid society met at the home of Mrs. A. H. Emerson, Thursday afternoon. There was a very small crowd present so not much was accomplished on the quilts. They are very anxious to get these two quilts completed so ladies try to be present at the next meeting so that it will be possible to get them out of the way. Mrs. Emerson served refreshments.

The lot on Main street owned by A. C. Rietz is being smoothed off and put in shape for a tennis court. We suppose some hotly contested games will be played there this summer as the tennis players of the town have increased since the school got their court.

Fred Williams returned from Gillman City, Mo., Sunday.

Elm Lake has had quite an attraction for the Rowan people the past week. Some of those who enjoyed the sport from here are: Bill Bailey, Perle LaGue, John Riker, Jim Rowen, C. W. Fowler, Mr. Thomas, Joe Rowen, Carl Steffens, Wm. Steffens, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Braden, Mr and Mrs. Leonard McCallum, Mrs. A. A. Williams, Lottie Williams and Cecil Harris.

Friday night the 6th grade was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten, in honor of their son Lyden's birthday. About 30 were present and they spent a very pleasant evening. The feature of the refreshments was a birthday cake with 11 candles on it.

Word was received Sunday morning by Geo. Whitten of the death of his brother, Norman, of Winnepeg Canada. This brother and wife visited the relatives here two years ago.

Geo. Aldrich went to Rochester on Saturday to consult the physicians at the hospital ond possibly have an operation.

F. H. Fowler received word announcing the arrival of a granddaughter named Arline at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. N. Johnson of Sioux Falls, S. D. Mrs. Fowler is there helping care for them. Mother and baby are reported doing nicely.

Sunday night part of Miss Charter's class in music assisted in a musical at Coulter. Anna and Nina Rietz gave a piano duet, Kenneh Keith a cornet solo, Russell Bailey, LeRoy Nigg and Margaret Keith violin solos and four of the Moellering boys played in the orchestra. Those who accompanied them were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Keith, Mrs. Moellering and Walter Nigg. The recital was a very great success and much credit is due to Miss Charter for her instruction.

The Boy Scouts met Monday and Thursday nights of this week They are a lively organization, being wide awake boys, and it is a fine thing to have something of this kind in the community to keep the boys interested. Citizens give the boys your support and help them to truer, greater manhood.

The Rowan Legion ball team played the Galt town team on the Legion diamond north of town. The score stood 14 to 4 in favor of Rowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Thelma, Marjorie, George and Edgar, Miss Fan Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheldon, Maxfield and Maxine, Mr. and Mrs. Sim Stout, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller, Chester Moellering and Edgar Mantle were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs at Goodell, Sunday.

The M. E. Aid society met at the home of Mrs. Roy Ryder, Thursday afternoon. A very small crowd was present.

"Buddy" Williams, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams, had the misfortune Sunday to fall on a broken glass and cut his arm thru two arteries. They rushed him to Dr. Steele as soon as possible. Six stitches were taken in the muscles of the arm.

Mr. Morrison spent Saturday in Hampton.

Mr. Moule went to Mason City on Saturday to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Conn and children spent Sunday at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval visited at the E. Bingham home on Sunday.

Memorial Day Services at Rowan

The exercises for the observance of Memorial Day will be as follows:

At 1:30 Andrew Whitten post with the school children and Boy Scouts will form at the M. E. church and proceed to the Cnog. church where the Legion will escort the colors. During this ceremony spectators are requested to pay the simple tribute to the flag of our country, which regulations prescribe for civilians on such occasions. If you believe with the ideas of a certain American that "the flag is the last refuge of scoundrels," pay no attention to the colors, but if you believe with the lads that sleep along the Marne that your flag is the symbol of Freedom, of Justice and Honor, then show your belief by rising and uncovering when the colors approach and while the bugler sounds "to the colors."

Immediately after this ceremony, the following program will be given on the church lawn if the weather is favorable and inside if otherwise:

Prelude—Ruth Emerson.
Invocation—Rev. Walker.
Star Spangled Banner.
Quartette—We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall.
Reading—Mrs. Roy Ryder.
Solo—The Deathless Army—LaVonne Ballou.
Address—Rev. Walker.
America.

At the conclusion of the services at the church we will repair to the cemetery where the Legion will decorate the graves of soldiers buried there and honor our unknown dead. The order of march to the cemetery will be as follows: Legion with colors at head of column, Boy Scouts marching and school children in conveyances and others. You are earnestly requested to observe this order of march

After the ceremony at the cemetery we will go to the river at the old mill dam and place wreaths upon the water in honor of our sailor dead.

Rowen Congregational Church Notes

Rev. Ada Anderson, who supplied the Cong. pulpit at Rowan this winter was a passenger thru Rowan on Saturday morning, enroute to Omaha to begin her work in her new field Sunday, May 22. A few of her friends went to the train to bid her goodbye e present and wish her success in her new work.

Rev. W. H. Nye of Waterloo came Sunday as a candidate at the Cong. church. The members and officers gave him a call. He comes highly recommended and we hope everyone will do their part to help the man to do his best.

Sunday night there were union services at the Cong. church. Rev. H. Tomkinson gave the Baccalaureate sermon for he graduates. The church was full. The choir furnished special music. Howard Box sang a solo

(Continued on page six.)

You have but one life to live; are you making the most of it? Come let us help you . . . . . .

Sands Memorial Congregational Church

STRENGTH SERVICE

Save at home—this Liberty Bell Home Bank is an incentive to save for Independence. Come in and let us explain.

We Need Your Savings Account

Big or little, this bank wants your account, because we know that once started the little accounts will grow to our mutuat advantage.

We pay 5 per cent interest compounded semi-annually and your principal is secure and the interest a certainty. Why not start today? A Dollar opens a Savings Account here.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Auto Repair Shop

First class work done on any make of car at a reasonable price, by expert mechanics.

Repairing done on any make or size Tractor, or Gas Engine.

Will be open for business May 23rd Give us a trial and we will prove satisfactory

Located across the street from the Belmond Independent.

E. G. Miller

Phone 39 Belmond, Ia

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

WM. NELSON
General Agent of the
Royal Union Mutual Life Insurance
Co. of Des Mo[illegible].
Phones: Residence 39; Office 2[illegible].
Belmond, Iowa.

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

E. L. MADSEN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Telephone 302½
BELMOND, IOWA.

KENEFICK & PURDY
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Phones 46 and 148
Belmond, Iowa

TONSORIAL

W. H. GALLIGER
FIRST CLASS BARBERING
First door west First Nat'l Bank
Belmond, Iowa

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, .Iowa.

CHIROPRACTIC

DR. ROBERT McCLELLAN
CHIROPRACTOR
Phone 25
Office Over Belmond Furniture Company Store
Belmond, Iowa

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.
Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER
IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

MEMORIAL DAY, 1921

To America this year is given a day of memories which fills the heart with joy and with sorrow: Joy that the nation has had such brave men and sorrow that they could not live to see the fruits of their bravery.

This Memorial Day in which a nation pauses to revere the memory of its dead, sees the veterans of two great wars, the two greatest of our history, and the two bloodiest, not only of ours but of the world, and therefore this day means more to America than ever before.

The veterans of the one, a civil war between father and son, brother and brother, are now old and gray, the toil of years showing in their furrowed brows and stooped shoulders; those men of the other great war, the greatest of the world's history, young and fresh, with smiling face and cheerful mein.

The old veterans, too, were once as they; they, too, in their youth had fought the good fight and won. To one belongs as much honor as to the other. To each is due the nation's reverence and tender memories. But to those who went and who never came back; to the thousands who today are at rest under the green sod of America and the blooming poppies of France, America holds the sweetest, dearest memories. In both of these great wars there went from this city men who never returned. Men who were mere boys, tender of years, and men who left families, wives and children, who see each day at the family table an empty chair. To them the sorrows of war will ever be present, long after the roar of the guns has ceased.

It seems so futile, so useless, to endeavor to express in words the deep, solemn gratitude and reverence that lies in the American heart for these men. To them is this day set aside, a measure of honor in which a grateful nation pays its respect to the living and its honor to the dead. In all years to come, so long as this country shall exist a free nation, will this day be observed. From the peak of Lookout Mountain to the field in Flanders where poppies grow, there will be the heart of an hundred million people, mourning their dead and rejoicing over their returned and living sons.

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.

At 11:00 a. m. there will be Union Memorial services at the school Auditorium, the Rev. Jensen delivering the address. Special music will be given.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Ladies Aid society will be held at the church on Thursday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

A welcome awaits you at this church at any and all of the services. If you have no other church home, you are cordially invited to make this church your place of worship.

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The Ladies Missionary society will meet in the church parlors on Thursday afternoon at two thirty. All the members and friends are urged to be present.

Last Sunday was a banner day for attendance at Sunday school. We just lacked eight of being a hundred per cent above what we had a year ago. We hope next Sunday to set another high mark and if all will push it can easily be accomplished.

There will be no preaching services in the church next Sunday on account of the union memorial services at the M. E. church at 11:00 and the baccalauareate sermon at the high school in the evening.

The ladies of the W. R. C. and friend will meet next afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robins to make bouquets for Decoration Day. The ladies will be very grateful for any flowers sent at this time.

"Cover them over with beautiful flowers,
Deck them with garlands, those heros of ours."

The ice man has now become a familiar sight on the streets, and a welcome one to most folks the past week, for with the hot weather that has visited this community the need of ice has come with a rusn.

The fishing season has opened, and seekers of the finny tribe have been numerous the past week or two. The reports of luck seem to vary considerably, some reporting good results and others saying there is nothing doing. Morse Lake has been the Mecca of local anglers, and they say that the fishing there is good, some good catches being reported. Clear Lake opened the official season last week Sunday, and with the usual large crowd. The fish are said to be hungry at that place.

The Clarion Clipper is no more, but in its place the Wright County News. The name of the paper was changed by Editor King with the issue of last week.

Changing of names of newspapers seems to be the rule around this part of the country lately for the Hancock County Recorder published at Garner has been changed to the Leader. The editor states that he never was a Democrat, and the title was just left on the paper when he took it over about three years ago. He says he is Republican, and the word Democrat has been misleading.

Clear Lake will celebrate the glorious Fourth this year, as usual, and are making the usual plans for the big time and big crowd. Hampton is to observe the day this year also, for the first time in five years, asd are making some large plans for the day. Clarion will have a big time on the Fourth too, so that Belmond folks who get the celebration fever will have plenty of places to choose from to spend the day.

Howard Wolle left last week for his trip to Honduras, where he has accepted a position with the Dyer Construction company as electrical engineer on the new sugar factory the company is constructing at that place. goes to New Orleans, taking a boat from there. The trip will occupy about eight days. Howard stopped a day or two at Nevada, Iowa, to visit his brother Carl, and family, before going on to New Orleans.

STORAGE BATTERY
Willard
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Have Your Battery Tested and Filled FREE!

DO THIS EVERY TWO WEEKS

We do Repairing and Re-Charging on any make of Battery.

We have rental batteries to fit your car while your battery is being repaired and recharged.

Full line of new batteries for any make of cars. Complete line of genuine Willard parts---also parts for any other make of battery.

Ask us about Thread Rubber Insulation.
Batteries called for and delivered.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

THREAD-RUBBER Willard INSULATION

A Big Week in Mason City

Plan on spending Thursday, Friday and Saturday here, or at least part of the time.

Thursday

Mason City will entertain the Shriners. It will be a Big Day.

Friday

Mason City will entertain the Twin City Boosters. A train load of fun will be let loose.

Saturday

Mason City will open its big annual automobile Show.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday

The merchants of Mason City will co-operate with the various committees by offering special inducements for the time.

For Instance

The Sterling Dry Goods Company will offer its entire Stock of elegant Suits and Coats at greatly reduced prices. It will also feature special lots of merchandise in other departments.

Come to Mason City This Week

Mason City Auto Show
May 28th

"KNOWN AS NORTHERN IOWA'S STYLE CENTER"

WELCOME
Make This Store Your Headquarters

D. K. Lundberg & Co.

27 E State Street, Mason City, Iowa

Be sure to come to Mason City May 26th, 27th and 28th. If you cannot come every day be sure and come to the AUTO SHOW SATURDAY, MAY 28th

Daintiest of Summer Frocks

$5.95 $10.00 $18.75

'Tis time to talk of summer frocks and when one thinks of summer frocks one thinks instinctively of Lundberg's. No such styles and values elsewhere. Fluffy, beautiful, artistic models, in Ginghams, Fancy Voilles, Dotted Swiss and Organdies

Fine Tailored Suits

$29.75 $39.75 $49.75

Shop around as carefully as you can. Compare them with any you can find. Set your own estimate of values and you will agree you'll save money by purchasing here at our low prices.

The Water's Fine!

The water's fine for a number of things—but it's especially fine for transporting farm produce. Since the invention of the steam locomotive water routes haven't been of much use except for swimming. But they are coming back into style, says

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

The freight-rate increases did it. They made it necessary for many farm areas to find new markets or else cheaper rates to the old. Next week's issue tells the story.

Not only are water highways being opened up, not only is ocean shipping supplanting a great deal of the transcontinental hauling, but the agricultural map of the whole country is being changed. A lot of the produce that used to be brought into this very town from distant centers of production will now have to be grown right here or nearer home.

There's only one farm weekly that can tell you about this situation, because there's only one farm weekly national in its vision. THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN will keep you in touch with every national farm happening that affects us locally, and it will do it for a whole year — 52 issues — for One Dollar. Of course I'll accept your check!

You'll Agree It's a Real Dollar Bargain

R. A. RANKINS

Phone 115 or 196 Belmond, Iowa

An authorized subscription representative of
The Country Gentleman 52 issues—$1.00 The Ladies' Home Journal 12 issues—$2.00 The Saturday Evening Post 52 issues—$2.50

SPECIAL LOCALS

Found—Bicycle tire. Owner can have same by calling at this office and paying costs.

—I—

Miss Kathleen Berry, trimmer at the Tyrrell millinery store, was a visitor with friends at the county seat town a day or so the past week.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—Belmond Tailor Shop, Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

Wanted—Work on the farm by 15 year old boy, plowing corn or doing any kind of farm work. Has had four years on the farm. Inquire at this office.

—I—

Found—Auto license plate. Owner can have same by proving property and paying costs. Call at the Independent.

—I—

Wayne Pond, who has been working at Hampton with the Kughn road grading gang, has been spending a few days in Belmond visiting old friends and assisting in the arrangements for a class reunion.

—I—

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

—I—

The grade operetta, which was to have been given in the park on Thursday evening of last week, was postponed until Tuesday evening of this week on account of the weather.

—I—

My prices on all work in the mason line are about 25 percent lower than a year ago. See me if you have any work to be done.—W. A. Bullis. 9tf

—I—

The D. S. C. girls, assisted by a number of other girls, will stage an operetta, "The Japanese Girl," at the opera house this week for the benefit of the local post of the American Legion.

—I—

Brng your work to the Belmond Tailor Shop and get a number free on a $63.00 tailored suit.—Belmond Tailor Shop, Phone, 28. F. J. Tuffree.

Now is the time to get your lawnmowers sharpened.—W. A. Dittmer.

—I—

The corn planting in this vicinity is practically finished, but very few farmers not having their corn all in. The steady rains of last week held the corn back considerably, but the recent hot weather has brought it along in fine shape.

—I—

A free pair of pants with every order for a new suit.—Belmond Tailor Shop. South of Hotel.

—I—

Rev. Edge and J. S. White went to Alexander on last week Wednesday evening, where Rev. Edge preached the sermon to the graduating class of the Alexander school. They went over on Jim Leavy's "Nicodemus" gas car, and Nick baulked on the return trip so that the two gentlemen were forced to hoof it home in the middle of the night.

—I—

Henry Pals, Jr., of Alexander, was among the callers here one day the past week, looking after some business affairs.

—I—

Pure bred Buff Orpington eggs and baby chicks.—Mrs. Myrle Peck, Clarion, Iowa. 262c

—I—

One of the local business men filled up his car, put on his glad rags, and started out last week one afternoon to collect some six hundred odd dollars due him. He spent an enjoyable afternoon riding around, and returned at night with a total collected of $2.40. Which was better than some others have done.

—I—

For sale—60 gallon gasolene barrel with faucet.—T. D. Rankins

—I—

W. Weigands returned with his famly from California last week to make his future home in good old Belmond. Mr. Weigands moved from this place to California last summer, buying a ranch there, but he and his family liked good old Iowa better and decided they would come back here to live. They will locate in town for the summer.

—I—

This vicinity has certianly been having its share and more of rain the past week, especially last week, when it rained practically every day more or less.

—I—

Wanted—Washing and ironing to do. Inquire at this office. 1t*

C. Stroback of Rutland, Illinois, is the new tire repairman and vulcanizer at Christ Rise implement shop. He has had a wide experience in the tire business in Chicago and Cincinnati.

For Sale—One new tailored suit with extra pants, large size; also one slightly worn suit, large size.—W. L. Wilson Star Cleaner.

—I—

Wm. Nuehring hauls gravel. For orders phone 2213. Those who owe for gravel pay at Belmond Lumber Co. 16tf

—I—

FOR SALE—Good Waterloo Boy tractor, at a bargain. Phone 310. 23tf

For Sale—Some mixed hay. Phone 1812. Ed. Jenison. 20tfc

—I—

The Keemp garage had a new sidewalk installed in front of their place of business last week.

—I—

PAINTING AND PAPER HANGING

L. W. Nelson will do your interior painting and paper hanging at reasonable prices. Call 205. 13tf

—I—

School closes this week Friday, and the week will be more or less taken up with the various school exercises incidental to graduation. The program for the school activities may be found in another column of the Independent.

—I—

A nice lot of Gingham Coverall Aprons. Price $2.50, at the Woman's Exchange.—Miss Mary Gealow.

—I—

An auto accident of minor consequenses occured at the town bridge on Saturday, when a buggy was run into.

—I—

Our guarantee stands behind every sack of Peacock Flour. $2.45 a sack. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Adams have returned from their auto trip to various poinst in Minnesota.

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

William Chase, one of the graduating Seniors, was reported as being on the sick list a few days the past week.

—I—

If you intend to buy a separator or threshing machine, I can sell you anything you need and at the right price.—Christ Rise. 25tfc

—I—

Ed. Carlstos of Kanawha was in town one day last week looking after some business matters.

—I—

We are making as good chick feed as there is on the market. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tf

—I—

For the Spring Frys—just arrived a new lot of panacea and louse killer at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Try our high test kerosene in your oil stove.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

For Sale—One pair Tailor Made pants, second hand. Also one suit.—Star Cleaner, W. L. Wilson.

—I—

First Class Blacksmithing.—W. A. Dittmer. Located in the Peter Stacy shop.

We have all the latest Victor Records. We can supply a great many of the records you have been unable to get for the past year. Victor Records play on all phonographs. Come in and hear them.—Schultz Drug Co.

—I—

Lundberg & Co. of Mason City are located at 28 E. State street, which address was left off their advertisement recently.

—I—

6 room house for rent, with barn and 6 lots. Inquire of J. W. Sheriff or W. H. Purdy.

—I—

NOTICE!

From and after this date we will do only a cash business, and will expect all work to be settled for before removed. We are compelled to do this in order to cut down the cost of collections and keep our prices down. C. J. Johnson Garage.

—I—

Home made lard for sale.—Mrs. A. W. Martin.

—I—

Young man wants room and board in modern home with private family. Inquire at this office.

—I—

"The Japanese Girl" at the opera house May 26 and 27, under the auspices and by the D. S. S. girls and for the benefit of the American Legion.

—I—

Don't forget "The Japanese Girl" at the opera house this week Thursday and Friday. Given by the D. S. S. girls for the benefit of the American Legion.

—I—

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Headquarters for Fishing Tackle and the American Kampkook Stove at Townsan Hardware.

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

—I—

Henry Crist left for Illinois last week Saturday where he will spend a few weeks visiting friends. He made the trip by auto.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Morse have the sympathy of their many friends in the death of their first child, which died on Friday of last week, shortly after birth.

—I—

Mrs. A. W. Martin was a visitor a part of last week at Mason City.

—I—

Roy Crabtree of Clarion was a visitor here Saturday.

—I—

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

We now have the high test kerosene and gasoline for sale.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

As will be noticed on another page of this issue of the Independent, the publication date of the Independent is to be changed with the next issue to Thursday of the week, instead of on Wednesday as heretofore.

Enjoy Your Porch

Porch Shades Porch Chairs Porch Swings

Wright County Furniture Co.

C. I. Williams, Manager

Day Phone 128 Night Phone 154 Belmond, Iowa

Bread

All Bread is not the same. Our Butter Milk Bread is gaining in Popularity all the time

Try It

ROBINSON

Have You Got Your Free Ticket on the

$75.00 SUIT

To be Given Away at the Star Cleaners?

Every person who brings in their suit to have it cleaned and pressed gets a Free Ticket on the $75.00 Suit. Are you going to be the lucky one? Remember this suit is to be given away Absolutely Free.

Hats Cleaned and Blocked

Star Cleaner

The Hoffman Shop

Matthew Style Shop

101 North Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa

Successor to Sax Ladies Shop

Are you coming to the Shriners Convention on May 26th, or the Automotive Carnival on May 28th? If so, we cordially invite you to inspect our new stock of Ladies Ready-to-Wear. We are located at 101 North Federal Ave., formerly the Sax Ladies' Shop, Mason City, Iowa. We have purchased the stock and fixtures of this firm and we intend continuing it as an up-to-date store where you will be able to find the very latest styles at reasonable prices. Our connections are such that we are in a position to offer values that are not far from pre-war prices. We solicit your patronage.

Matthew Style Shop

F. C. Whitney, Mgr.

East State Street Mason City, Iowa

MANLEY'S

In the Middle of the Auto Show---May 28th

A Special Attraction

Seasonable Garments at Prices that Will Appeal

We are showing a large group of handsome Summer Dresses of such materials as printed Georgette Silk, Foulards, Voiles, Dotted Swiss and Organdy.

The dotted Swiss and Organdy appeal as never before to the Miss. Colors are new and different---and styles are particularly youthful.

PRICED AT $15.75 and Up

Printed Georgette Silk is the biggest seller we ever had. Requires no washing and to the Miss or Woman who wants a summer dress it is irresistable.

A Large Group Priced at $18.75

To the woman who wants an inexpensive dress she can find nothing else that compares with the Silk Foulard.

Very Special $10.75

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF POSTMASTER EXAMS

President Harding has just issued an executive order requiring that all vacancies for Postmasters of the first, second and third class be filled from competitive examinations. This order means that all post offices for which examination have not already been held, will become vacant as soon as the present terms of the postmasters expire, and no one will be appointed unless he has passed the Civil Service examination. Examinations will be announced as soon as the terms of postmasters expire. Both men and women are eligible.

These examinations will be strictly non-political, and both Democrats and Republicans will be eligible to take the examinations. The appointment will be given to one of the three making the highest marks in the examinations. The Civil Service Commission will grade the papers of candidates without knowing whether they are Democrats of Republicans and without any knowledge whatever of their political beliefs. This will give Democrats the same chance as Republicans to make the highest marks in the examinations.

Lyric

WEDNESDAY, MAY 25
"GUILTY OF LOVE"
A Paramount-Artcraft picture featuring
DOROTHY DALTON
Also a two-reel Sennet comedy.
11c and 25c

THURSDAY, MAY 26
"THE LITTLE GRAY MOUSE"
A Fox picture featuring
LOUISE LOVELY
Also a two-reel Sunshine comedy.
11c and 25c

FRIDAY, MAY 27
"KNOW YOUR MAN"
A Fox picture featuring
PEARL WHITE
Also a one-reel comedy,
11c and 25c

SATURDAY, MAY 28
"HOMER COMES HOME"
A Paramount-Artcraft picture featuring
Jest a poor, dern fool! He was chuck full of hifalutin' plans but couldn't hold a job a week. Neighbors all lowed he'd never amount to a hill of beans. All but one—a girl. For her sake he went away. Then one day Homer came home! Stylish as all git-out! And money—gosh! Got the folks to thinkin' he was doin' great things in Wall street. Got 'em all het up to a big investin' scheme and then—
A picture filled with fun and love and heart-tug. A glorious story of plain folks.
Also two-reel Educational comedy.
11c and 25c

MONDAY and TUESDAY
MAY 30 & 31
"MARRIED LIFE"
A five-reel Mack Sennet comedy.
There's a moral in "Married Life" if the beholder can stop laughing long enough to discover it. Full of mirthful episodes. The hospital scene where Jimmy Finleyson is taken after his 8-story drop from a building makes one want to get sick just to go there and be nursed by those beauties. A picture that will drive away the blues, and highly recommended to all grouches.
11c and 25c

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page three.)

which was greatly enjoyed.

Next Sunday morning will be the Memorial Sermon at the Cong. church Lieut. Wolcott delivering the address. Sunday evening the Missionary society will give a program as follows:

Prelude—Ruth Emerson.
Songs—The Whole Wide World, Tell It Today.
Scripture—Mrs. O. E. Ballou.
Prayer—Mrs. R. Virden.
Vocal Duet—Frances Farren and Marjorie Brooks.
Playette—America That Is To Be.
Spirit of Congregationalist—Mrs. Mary Rowen.
Womans' Home Missionary Federation—Bertha Whitten.
American Missionary Association—Maude Kercheval.
Negro Nurse—Thelma Brooks.
Indian Nurse—Laura McCallum.
Mountaineer—Florence Lent.
Chinese—Laura Aldinger.
Home Missionary Society—Ethel Box.
Frontier—Esther Emerson.
City—Blanch Combs.
Rural—Ruby LaGue.
Immigrant—Cleo Duffy.
Church Buildinig Secretary—Mrs. Farren.
Board of Ministerial Relief—Vera Knuths.
Educational Society—Letha Gunderson.
Students—Frances Farren, Stella Emerson, Joe McKinley, James Burt.
Sunday School Extension Society—Mable Emerson.
Spirit of Amer'ca—Grace Fletcher.
Instrumental Solo—Mrs. Clint Kercheval.
Playlet—America's Welcome
Polish Girl—Margaret Keith.
Syrian Boy—George Brooks.
Bohemian Girl—Dolly Duffy.
Greek Boy—Carl Emerson.
Swedish Girl—Doris Gunderson.
German Girl—Evelyn Whitten.
Hungaarian Boy—Dyrl Farren.
Italian Girl—Thelma Streveler.
Russian Jewish Boy—Linden Whitten.
French Girl—Elsie Holbrook.
American Children—Kenneth Keith, Alta Allen, Arthur Emerson, May Hyde, Fern Streveler, Frances Virden, Bernice Williams, Ray Holbrook, Duane Holbrook, Pearl Hiams and Doris Hiams.
Offertory—Ruth Emerson.
Song—America.
Benedicion—Rev. W. H. Nye.

KANAWHA NEWS ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Olson and family of Britt were calling on relatives and friends here Sunday.

Miss Agnes Heggen left Wednesday for a visit with relatives and friends at Hardy.

Mrs. Fred Knudsen and little son Louis returned home Friday from a very pleasant visit relatives at Iowa Falls.

Miss Cecil Benzler was an over Sunday visitor at Britt.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shaw and family and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Hefte were guests at the Oliver Fosen home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Summers and family were Fort Dodge callers on Saturday.

MESERVEY ITEMS

A. A. Sifert and wife arrived here Monday. He is the new school supertendent.

K. C. Ruigh motored to Alexander Sunday.

Rev. Schelesseman delivered the Baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of '21 Sunday evening at the Evangelical churcn.

The high school enjoyed a picnic at the Iowa river Monday.

Merle Brogan caught a 10-pound pickeral at Clear Lake, Sunday, which has caused the fishing fever to run high in Meservey.

Miss Rose Nicolet and Thornton friends motored to Aldin, Sunday, to visit Miss Nicolet's sister and other friends.

"The Alligator" (which is only his nick name) visited the north part of town, Sunday night. While there he stepped in a flower bed but not much damage was done.

Meservey high school base ball team played Ventura, Friday, the score being 34 to 15 in favor of Meservey.

OLAF NEWS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Wicks of Roland, in Story county, spent last week with their daughter, Mrs. G. Holverson.

The Ladies Aid society, on account of rain, was postponed until Thursday. It was quite well attended. It will meet with Mrs. Ole Hanson in three weeks.

Philip Erdman lost about 12 acres of beets by the freeze a week ago. It was one of the finest fields of beets around here and means quite a loss to him.

G. Holverson went to Minneapolis last week to consult a physician. They decided that his teeth were causing a good deal of his poor health.

Mrs. Clarence Scott entertained a cousin, wife and baby, last week.

Geo. C. Johnson and Martin Hanson went to Chicago last week with a load of stock, cattle and hogs.

Geo. Baxter shipped two carloads of hogs for the farmers, Tuesday.

Andrew Stockseth, an old settler of this community, passed away on Saturday evening at the home of Henry Stockseth. An obituary will be printed next week.

Walter Nelson of Mason City has been visiting during the past week at the Ralph Nelson home.

Miss Marion Emerson entertained a number of her little friends last Friday afternoon, the occasion being her 10th birthday. A delightful time was had.

STATE FAIR TO PAY OUT BIG SUM

Announcement of the full list of premiums to be offered at the 1921 Iowa State fair have just been received. They show a total of over $143,500 offered in the various departments. This is the largest sum ever offered by the Iowa state fair or any other exposition of its kind in the country, officials state. Following are some of the main classifications:

Horses $29,010, speed events $23,000, cattle $40,975, swine $7,600, sheep $5,103, poultry $2,419, agriculture, $13,593, horticulture $3,109, boys and girls contests $8,351.

In the statement issued in connection with the premium list, the fair management declares that they will endeavor to make the 1921 exposition a real contribution to the advancement of the prosperity of the state. It will be the most mammoth exposition Iowa has ever staged, they say, and will tax the capacity of the fair grounds to the limit.

HAS THE COST OF LIVING COME DOWN ANY?

From time to time the claim is made that the cost of living has not been reduced in any appreciable manner. It is easy to generalize and theorize, but for the benefit of those who still adhere to the claim that there has been no material slump in the cost of living we desire to submit a concrete example of what has happened in a year.

A year ago a sack of sugar cost $28 and in some places in Iowa $30. Today for the $28 it would have cost to buy that sack of sugar, you can buy the following: First, your sack of sugar—same quality—and in addition these items which find ready use in every kitchen: One sack of flour, a bushel of potatoes, 10 cans of peas, 10 cans of corn, 10 cans of tomatoes, 16 pounds of rice, 10 pounds of beans, 10 pounds of prunes, 10 pounds of coffee, 10 pounds of oatmeal, 10 pounds of crackers, 10 pounds of syrup, 10 pounds of lard.

It is said that figures sometimes lie. Not so in this case. We have a proposition in black and white from reputable people to make good on this list. The cost of living has come down in Iowa and it has dropped a long distance, and everybody who is sincere, knows it.—Waterloo Courier.

Regarding the foregoing, how many pounds of cow hide does the farmer have to haul to market to pay for a pair of boots?

How many eggs, at 13 cents a dozen, does it take for the farm wife to pay for a dress?

How many bushels of corn does the farmer have to give to pay for a suit of clothes or a pair of overalls?

Living has come down, true; but it needs to come down quite a bit more on some things to equalize the prices now being received for farm producst.

Subscribe for the Independent

FIRST WOMAN SHERIFF IN STATE OF IOWA

Iowa in general and Allemakee county in particular has become prominent thru the recent appointment of Mrs. Gunda Martindale as sheriff. Mrs Martindale is the only woman sheriff in the state and one of the few in the entire country.

Mrs. Martindale's appointment by the board of supervisors followed the death of her husband, Ben Martindale who formerly held that office and who died May 1. Her application was chosen out of 30 and the board considers her worthy and capable of filling this important office.

BIG FAILURE AT ACKLEY

The business which has been conducted under the title of the Community Merchantile company, quit business Friday night, after having continued on in a spasmodic sort of way during the past six or eight weeks.

The Community Merchantile Co., had as heads of the organization men at Davenport. The method of conducting the organization was to interest as many persons in the community in which the firm was established as possible. In Ackley the number of persons who are interested in a financial way, by reason of having purchased stock, is stated to be forty-seven, and the amount that each individual invested ranges variously from $100 to as high as $1,000, and in a few cases as high as $1,200 and $1,400.—Ackley World-Journal.

Townsan Hardware

Paints and Varnishes for all Purposes. We handle the well known brand of house paints, Kalsomine, No-Lustre Wall Finish, Varnish, Auto Finish and the wonderful Great Lakes Spar.

Acme Quality

The Quality of our

Barn Paints

cannot be equaled. We secure our Barn Paint direct from the manufacturers and guarantee it to give absolute satisfaction

PHONE 34---Just say "three-four" please

Townsan Hardware

"Merchandise of Quality"

123 North Federal

Kersey's

Mason City, Iowa

Summertime Frocks Take the Ruffled Way

And its a colortul, flowery path to follow---with wondrons Organdies, Dotted Swiss, Bright Hued Cinghams, Voilles, etc., all blooming 'long the way. They're remarkable values at

$6.75 to $27.50

Hundreds of Waists

In all their newness and freshness, including Crepe de Chien, Organdies, Voilles, and Georgettes. If they were priced at double you'd say they were wonderful values.

$1.75 to $18.00

White Wash Skirts

No lady ever has too many---they're so nice these warm days. At Kersey's the styles are always the very latest and the selling price the lowest---See them soon at

$2.75 and Up

The May Wind-Up Sale of Coats and Suits

Very Special Prices for the Remaining Days of May

Suits

We're determined to dispose of them and they go at cost and less. Not a suit in our store over $19.50 and as low as

$16.75

Coats

There are many days and evening all summer that you can wear a coat or a suit with comfort. This is your opportnnity to buy at cost.

$10.75 to $19.50

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

—when you are business trained.

A course in our school is a real business experience. Sign the coupon and mail to us today for free catalog of information.

I am interested in the courses marked:
( ) Secretarial
( ) Stenographic
( ) Bookkeeping
( ) Accounting
( ) Banking
( ) Commercial Teacher
( ) Civil Service

Name____________________
Address____________________

ENROLL any Monday in May or June for the SUMMER TERM
Fall Term begins Sept. 6

Fort Dodge Business College

W. F. McDaniel, Principal Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Does Adverting Pay?
Ask the Merchants Who Advertise

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

Womans' Exchange

Second House East of Klemme Office

Bring in Your Needle Work.

Rates will be 20 per cent

A Nice Lot of

GINGHAM COVER-ALL APRONS

At

$2.50

Orders for Home Baking Taken any Day in the Week.

Miss Mary Gealow

TAXI

An Adventure Romance

By

GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

COPYRIGHT THE • BOBBS-MERRILL • COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

PART I.—Robert Hervey Randolph, young New York man-about-town, leaves the home of his sweetheart, Madge Van Tellier, chagrined because of her refusal of his proposal of marriage. His income, $10,000 a year, which he must surrender if a certain Miss Imogen Pamela Thornton (whom he has seen only as a small girl ten years before) is found, is not considered by the girl of his heart adequate to modern needs. In a "don't care" mood Randolph enters a taxi, unseen by the driver, and is driven to the stage door of a theater. A man he knows, Duke Beamer, induces a girl to enter the cab. Beamer, attempting to follow, is pushed back by Randolph and the cab moves on. His new acquaintance tells Randolph she is a chorus girl, and has lost her position. She is in distress, even hungry, and he takes her to his apartment. There, after lunch, a chance remark convinces him the girl is the missing Pamela Thornton. He does not tell her of her good fortune, but secures her promise to stay in the flat until the morning, and leaves her. In a whimsical mood, also realizing that the girl's reappearance has left him practically penniless, he bribes the taxi driver to let him take his job, and leaving word with the legal representative of the Thornton estate where he can find Pamela, takes up his new duties under the name of "Slim Hervey." He loves the girl, but his pride forbids him approaching her under their changed conditions.

PART II.—One evening he is engaged by Beacher Tremont, notorious profligate, to drive him and Madge Van Tellier to a hostelry known as "Greenwood." Aware of the evil nature of the place, Randolph drives the pair to Greenwood cemetery. Infuriated, Beacher gets out of the cab and Randolph leaves him there, taking the girl (who has awakened to a realization of her folly) to her home. Madge recognizes him.

PART III.—In Randolph's apartment Pamela, pondering over the strangeness of the night's adventure, realizes she is very much more than interested in the young man. Next morning Mr. Borden Milyuns, her family's legal representative, informs her of her inheritance. Learning that her acceptance of the money will leave Randolph penniless, even the furniture of the apartment belonging to her, she proposes to divide the inheritance with him. Mr. Milyuns tells her Randolph is unlikely to agree to such an arrangement, even if found. He, however, agrees to do his utmost to find the young man. Wide advertising and the employment of detective agencies fail to accomplish this. Madge Van Tellier tells Mr. Milyuns of her encounter with Randolph. Knowing only that he is driving a taxicab, Pamela sets out to find him. The search naturally is a long one, but finally she comes upon Randolph in front of a hotel. Unseen by him she enters his cab, but when giving the starter her address Randolph recognizes her voice. The streets are slippery with snow, and in his excitement he smashes the cab against the curb, throwing the girl out.

PART IV.—Stopping only to see that Pamela is unhurt, Randolph flees from the scene. While he is explaining his mishap at the office of the cab company Mr. Milyuns appears. After much persuasion Randolph agrees to call on Pamela nine days after that time. He also announces his intention of accumulating $100,000 in the interval, and arranges to drive a cab on the Wall Street beat. There, as he had hoped, he picks up a "tip" on the market. His entire capital being in the neighborhood of $70 he goes to one of his clubs and sits in a poker game, trusting to chance to secure a stake that will enable him to play the "tip" he has secured. He is lucky and runs his capital up to an amount sufficient for his needs. His inside information on the market proves correct and he closes the deal with the sum he had decided it was necessary to have in order to meet Pamela on a footing of equality. Punctual to the minute he calls on the young lady, who had awaited his coming with impatience, and at the close of the interview there is no question of the division of the inheritance—or the apartment.

Tourke's face underwent a startling change, as though it had tumbled down a whole ladder of emotions until it landed with a jolt on a solid platform of infinite pity.

"Take any beat ye like, boy, while ye c'n hold the wheel," he said, at the same time jambing the brakes down on his too generous hand. "An' be sure your ol' frien' Tourke ain't goin' to forget to come to the hospital to see you"—he finished almost with a sob—"often."

For five restless, heart-breaking days, Mr. Randolph and his cab were at the beck and call of every short-horn curb-broker that wanted his friends and customers to see him start away from the scene of others' labors in a taxi. The vast assurance that had graced him when he allowed Mr. Milyuns to infer that nine days was plenty in which to pick up a hundred thousand dollars and that had also tinged a remark made some weeks before to a Miss Madge Van Tellier to the effect that the great thing nowadays was to avoid having too much money had been gradually worn to a ragged frazzle.

Mr. Randolph was on the point of trying to persuade himself that he was giving way to the too constant strain rather than to any defect in his philosophy of the easiness of wealth when an excited and hatless elevator boy rushed up and said:

"Here, youse! Mr. Embonpoint Morgum's car has froze. Ring your ol' fire alarm."

Mr. Randolph almost knocked over a fare that was attempting to get aside.

"Engaged!" he growled, as he stooped to "turn her over."

Five minutes later, his cab was carrying, in the persons of Mr. Morgum, above mentioned, and another, the potential pivots of very tight-vested interests to the tune of twelve billion dollars. It may be thought that it was Slim Hervey's intention to waft this precious pair to some bosky retreat, cover them with leaves, and hold them for ransom, but such was not the case. He desired nothing from these two potentates among a race of lucre giants beyond what might come to him through his ever-open speaking slot.

"Good Idea! Friday It Is."

This is all he heard:

"Lewisfader is getting kind of fresh."

"That's what I been thinkin'."

"When?"

"What about Friday, when the Bunkers-Bollweevil report comes out?"

"Good idea! Friday it is."

Not another word, but, as it happed, it was enough to start Mr. Randolph honking uptown the moment he had dropped his laconic fares at their next board meeting. No one had to tell him who Lewisfader was; he had been to college with that financier's son, and if there was one thing above all others that said offspring was good at, it was blowing his father's horn. Lewisfader was this and Lewisfader was that, but principally and especially he was the central rock in the money maelstrom known to the stock market as "Amal. I. S. & C.," which had only lately dared to swell its portentous belly in the company of the most developed and vicious saurians of the financial world.

All the way uptown, Mr. Randolph's face was concentrated in the nearest approach to a frown of which it was capable. He was not, however, weighing the substance of what he had heard this way and that, for the simple reason that the moment the one word, "Lewisfader," had reached his ears, he had seen the great light, and grasped his hunch beyond any thought of looking back. That part of it was settled; what worried him now was the amount of ways and means in his pocket. By thinking very hard, he added up his capital without bringing it forth to the light of day. The exact sum was sixty-eight dollars and fifty cents.

No sooner had he passed the test in mental arithmetic than he drew up a little beyond the front door of the Rocket club. He started to leave his cab, paused, considered, and then deliberately lowered the flag. As he entered the lobby of the club, four scandalized fronts leaped to bar his way. They asked him a variety of biting questions: Did he think it was a night lunchwagon? Which chambermaid was he calling on? Was he looking for Mills hotel?

"Herbert!" roared Mr. Randolph.

The functionary named, head doorman for the Rocket club since first it started on its appropriately meteoric career, leaped from his dignified seat on the somnolent side lines and stared wide eyed at the servile apparition that had dared shout the open sesame to that inviolate portal.

"Mr. Randolph!" he gasped at last, and the stunned fronts started to slink away.

"Hold on, there!" said Mr. Randolph, and divested himself of cap to one, overcoat to another, gloves to the third, and asked the fourth for a light. "Herbert," he continued, in modulated tones, "the cab outside is waiting for Mr. R. H. Randolph. It may be there for some time. Have an eye kept on it."

"Yes, Mr. Randolph. I'll see to it, Mr. Randolph. George, Mr. Randolph's letters."

"Never mind the letters," countermanded the oft-named one, and proceeded to thread his way to a certain small room strategically placed well within the depths of the edifice and far from the maddening tumult of the streets. The said apartment at the moment of his arrival contained five occupants seated round a circular table of convenient height and clothed in pale green, kindest of all shades to the eye of man. There were no mirrors on the walls.

Mr. Randolph's entry was greeted first with consternation and then with shouts.

"Bobby, you old scout!"

"Herv, by great balls of sweat."

"Randy, from where the devil?"

The speakers arose and pump handled Mr. Randolph's arm.

"Ye gods, man, where you been? Strayed in from a fancy dress?"

"Never mind the glad rags, fellows," said Mr. Randolph. "I was just feeling lonely for the sound of chips. Room for another?"

"The surest thing! You don't know these two chaps, do you? Mr. Seegar, passed on to us from 'Frisco, and Mr. Bowling-True, our latest new member. Gentlemen, this is Mr. Randy Randolph of New Haven and New York, in disguise but still the best ever."

"Table stakes?" murmured Mr. Randolph, as he took his place, apparently at random, but at the left of the two comparative strangers.

"Of course! Same old ante. Same old game. You talk as though you'd been away for a month."

For a moment, but for a moment only, Mr. Randolph was dazed. Was it possible that the last three weeks hadn't been a year? He drew out his sixty-eight dollars and fifty cents nonchalantly, as though they were merely the loose change he had on his person, bought fifty in chips, and laid the small heap of what was left of his cash on the board. The strain on his nerves during the next half-hour put that of the five days' wait for a hunch on the Street to the blush. There came a moment when all his chips were gone, and he was forced to see with a full house for his small pile of change only.

"Serves you right, Randy," said Mr. Mein. "For forgetting to pile up the ready in a table-stake game; there are two and a half million walking the streets—"

"Oh; stow it!" murmured Mr. Randolph, as he counted out his share, amounting to ninety-two dollars and fifty cents, and pushed across the rest of the fat pot to the next best hand. He looked up and smiled. "Boys," he remarked frankly, "I'm riding a hunch with four legs. Watch me."

Five spectators did, but got little excitement of their pains. Mr. Randolph was playing that most difficult and uninteresting of poker corollaries—a tight game. Mr. Seegar turned impatient as the conviction grew upon him that he had run up against the original hard-shell who never drew to less than a pair of tens, never bluffed, and could surrender three kings without a sigh to a low straight unseen. He began to make facetious remarks in connection with the safety-first campaign which was then at its height.

Mr. Randolph nursed his pile through five long hours up to eighteen hundred dollars. Then it was that he suddenly met a raise of two hundred on the part of Mr. Seegar, tacked on three hundred more, waited for that individual to throw in his very good hand, face up, with the resigned smile of a wise one, and then carelessly displayed in the same manner, his own three-flush, so bobtailed that the attention of the S. P. C. A. should have been called to the case.

The roar of laughter that went up from all but Mr. Seegar was more full and free than even such occasions usually produce. Mr. Mein pounded Mr. Randolph on the back.

"Bobby, old boy," he said, "that was the eternalest, patientest, and deepest-laid trap I've ever witnessed in a life-long pursuit of the only national pastime!"

The light merely flickered in Mr. Randolph's blue eyes, and he returned to his old job of sawing wood. Not for nothing had he made that grand-stand flourish, and his object had been gained. A new seriousness, masked in cold-edged, classic poker smiles, settled upon the table as a whole. The idea that they were gathered together merely to while away an idle evening faded into the background, and, one by one, like stars coming out at evening time, supper trays began to make their appearance. All but Randolph, they had been toying with poker; now they began to play it.

That gentleman continued for the nonce the even tenor of his stride except for a Lenten concession to his insides. He ordered placed on a stand at his elbow a large jug of ice water and a platter containing four dozen sandwiches. No added touch could have done more toward persuading his friendly antagonists that he, Randolph, was out for thick blood. If any one of the five had joyed in the knowledge that two slices, thin, of buttered bread embracing a sliver of meat had been named eternally after the earl of Sandwich on just such an epochal occasion as this, he would probably have seen the high sign and beat it for home and bed.

Night was fast joining the discard when the weary Herbert dared to interrupt.

"Please, Mr. Randolph, the officer on the beat says the grass is lifting your cab, sir, and he thought he ought to report anything like that."

"Tell him to undo the check and let it feed itself down again," growled Mr. Randolph.

The day passed; night fell. Now one and then another of the six devotees of a science which even in the youth of this nation had forestalled all the wonders of the submarine, the flight of man, and wireless telegraphy withdrew just long enough to connect with the Daily Night bank round the corner or some other convenient base of supplies and returned to set new money to catch old. But Mr. Randolph had no occasion to do this. His heap of chips and cash of the realm rested on too solid a base of its own.

There may be recorded an amusing diversion from the serious business in hand. It was ushered in by the crestfallen Herbert, who confessed that actual physical exhaustion had driven him to forty winks, during which time a professional purloiner of motor-car accessories had stopped, spellbound by the gigantic sum registered on Mr. Randolph's taximeter, had promptly stolen the preposterous clock, and was now on the club steps offering to settle with whoever was the interested gent on a fifty-fifty basis.

Great was the consternation of the enterprising speculator in theft when he was confronted by two persons in one; namely, Mr. R. H. Randolph, lessee of Car No. 1898, and Mr. R. H. Randolph, alias Slim Hervey, the irate driver of said cab. His glib tongue, loaded to the gills with arguments as to how much the fare would save through the sudden exit of the clock from the ken of man, tripped hopelessly on this vision of wrath in the shape of a driver in whose interests the ticker had been faithfully slaving.

It took Mr. Randolph just thirty-two precious minutes to force the crestfallen one to replace and readjust the busy bee of meter readings. When he returned to the fray upstairs, he noticed a strange phenomenon of poker-age, unmistakable age, had settled on the faces of the five youths. He put his fingers to his own countenance; he could feel the added years.

The game ended, as do all titanic battles, in absolute silence. Mr. Randolph sorted, stacked, tabulated his winnings, and stuffed them into all the pockets on his person. He then noted the hour—eleven o'clock of a bright Thursday morning—and, proceeding to the nearest telephone booth, called up Mr. William Verries of Verries & Cat, stock brokers.

"That you, William? This is Bob Randolph. William, I've got sixteen thousand dollars in my jeans at the moment of speaking. What's the lowest margin you'll give me to sell Amal. I. S. & C. short for delivery at tomorrow's closing?"

"Sell Amal. I. S. & C. short!" gasped Mr. Verries. "Why, you're crazy! Buy, and I'll talk to you."

"I don't want to buy," said Mr. Randolph patiently. "You're right, in a way, about my being crazy. You see, since you saw me the other day, I've come into some easy long stuff, and it's just ruining my experiment in the philosophy of a moneyless life. I want to lose my wad just like I told you, and if you don't promise to start selling for me inside of the next five minutes, I'll let friendship slide and call up some real brokers."

"Well, if you put it in that way, you escaped loon, I'll assist your sap-headed philosophy to your exact cash limit. When will you pony up?"

"In twenty minutes by the clock," said Mr. Randolph cheerfully, and rang off.

The historic pounding drive on Amal. I. S. & C. that started with the opening of the market on the following day was of such Homeric proportions that the advance sale made by Messrs. Verries & Cat on behalf of Mr. R. H. Randolph during the Thursday afternoon next preceding was a mere drop in the bucket of oblivion to the public at large—a mere flea-bite lost in the shuffling of epidermises to the monster saurians involved in the combat; but to Mr. Randolph, it was a matter of transcendent importance.

With a feeling of great relief over an order that he had placed with his tailor nine days previously for complete new afternoon and evening outfits, the successful hunchbuster collected one hundred and thirty-two thousand, thirty-eight and no hundredths dollars and proceeded to turn in his wagon to the Village Cab company, together with the highest clock reading ever known in the history of Manhattan. He then chartered one of the vehicles for hire of that concern and directed it to carry him to his new clothes.

At ten minutes to four, he emerged from his tailor's, garbed in the very latest thing in slim-line morning coats, a top hat, pearly-striped trousers, spats, a mottled, platinum-handled, snakewood stick, and a gardenia in his buttonhole. Ignoring the wise and friendly-sneering look on the face of the cab driver, who was none other than our old friend of saturnine visage, Patrick O'Reilly by name, fallen on evil times, and re-engaged that very day on Mr. Randolph's recommendation, he gave a certain address in Fifty-ninth street.

Let us now break one of the cardinal rules of narrative for cash by ruthlessly switching the objective point of view. Behold Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton dressed in a ravishing, modestly modern tea-gown effect that would have cost her great-great-grandmother a ducking in the pond off Bleecker street if she had dared to wear it in her day at a fancy-dress ball, pacing up and down Mr. Randolph's recent sitting room and counting off nine on her fingers for the hundred and eighty-sixth time.

And then, at last, the bell! Tomlinson, his jaw set grimly, advanced upon the door. For an agonizing small moment, Pamela held her breath, and then let it go with a rush as she heard the old valet's sonorous voice tinged, nay, reeking, with the joy of welcome.

"Glad to see you back, Master Robert. Miss Thornton will receive you in the sitting room." Followed jingling sounds as Tomlinson disconnected the doorbell.

He was right in surmising that his former employer did not require a guide, but, as it turned out, there was no reason why he should not have witnessed the very proper meeting which took place between the two outwardly cool young members of society who were inwardly, nevertheless, seething with more emotions than there are fumes in a lime-kiln.

"Miss Thornton!" exclaimed Mr. Randolph, as, from force of long habit, he laid hat, stick and gloves on a side table and then advanced with a tentatively outstretched hand.

"Oh, how do you do?" asked Pamela, rising and offering her hand. "Wo—won't you sit down?"

"Thank you; I will."

He took the other end of the couch, crossed his legs in an effort to appear thoroughly at home, and gazed almost furtively at the apparition before him. Ye gods and heaps of daffodils! What a vision of loveliness, of charm, grace, breeding, carriage and nurtured beauty! What a bubbling well of mirth; what a source of the light of youth that never fails; what an armful of divine delight!

"Er—I—er—told Mr. Milyuns I'd call," said Mr. Randolph.

"Yes?" eagerly countered Miss Thornton.

"Er—I—said I'd be here at four," supplemented Mr. Randolph.

"Yes; he told me," murmured Miss Thornton, not quite so ardently.

"Er—it's just four now," stated Mr. Randolph.

"So it is," agreed Miss Thornton quite coolly, glancing at the clock and registering surprise—tone quite calm and dignified.

A long silence intervenes. The lady could easily break it, but won't. She has gathered somewhere that silence is often a club. Mr. Randolph evidently shares the intuition; he must say something and does.

"I've been very busy since I saw you last."

"How interesting!"

"Yes; it has been—in spots. I've—er—been studying the under side of the upper world through a hole in the front glass of a taxi. It has given me a great idea."

"Really?"

"Yes; I'm going to start the Manhattan Chaperoned Cab company."

"The what?" asked Miss Thornton, forced to show interest in the preposterous project in spite of the fact that her eyes were growing more and more wounded and the corners of her tremulous mouth were drooping farther and farther south.

"Chaperoned Cab company," repeated Mr. Randolph, his broad brows puckering in serious thought over his wide blue eyes. "It doesn't sound like much of an idea until you follow it out. Would you like to have me explain it to you?"

"Oh, ce—certainly."

"Well, it all hangs on an invention of my own—an attachment to the ordinary taximeter of a miniature map of New York and vicinity and a sort of seismic-needle affair. You set the needle on the point in the map corresponding to where the cab starts from in—er—real life. Wherever the cab goes, the needle shows the route in red ink on the map, with a time signal of how long it stopped at any given house, park, store—er—et cetera. Do you begin to get the idea?"

"N—no," said Miss Thornton.

"Just think a minute. Tired old couple of conventional ideas and actually beyond the age of dancing are in horror of sitting up all night watching daughter have a good time. Send her in one of my cabs; the ink-route will show just how straight she went to the party, how long she stayed, and how she came back. I forgot to mention the dictograph attachment in every vehicle. Take another case: Man married to a pretty and very young wife. Can't you hear him say, 'Yes, my d-d-dear; you can go anywhere if you'll take a Chaperoned Cab?'"

"No, I can't," said Miss Thornton decisively, and stared meaningly at the clock, as though she were worrying over her next engagement.

Mr. Randolph flushed, rose hastily, and possessed himself of hat, stick and gloves.

"I mustn't keep you," he said, "I've got an appointment in about five minutes myself."

She rose, an absent-minded look in her eyes, and accompanied him to the door of the room. He opened it and took his hand from the knob to shake good-by. Her hand reached out toward his listlessly, as though it had become infected with the selfsame droop that had assailed the corners of her lips.

"May I—er—call again?"

"No!" cried Pamela, snatched back her hand, threw both arms up against the doorjamb, dropped her curly head upon them, and burst into tears.

Mr. Randolph's platinum-headed cane fell with a clatter; his gloves fluttered to the floor, and his new top hat, emitting a clucking, mirthful sound, hurtled across the room. In less time than it has taken to describe these simultaneous events, he had seized the sobbing girl in his arms and was babbling as follows:

"Miss Tho—Pamela—Pam, you dearest and sweetest of all the little women in the world! Oh, darling, don't cry; but if you must, then cry on me—so! That's right, my precious; put your arms round my neck and hold me close. S—strangle me, b—but never, never let me go."

He stooped gradually, picked her up, and made for the couch. Just before he got there, he reached a small prayer rug of Persian design and of great value, one of many such oases in the large expanse of beautifully waxed flooring. The specified rug seemed to take sudden offense at Mr. Randolph's rude footfall. It took to itself wings and flew from under him. The crash of two of the choicest bits of Manhattan's humanity was terrific. Above the din of scattering furniture could be heard the peal of a girl's clear laughter, and presently a voice ringing merrily through half-swallowed sobs:

"M—my—what a b—bump!"

They sat on the floor, face to face, and matched a treble: "Ha! Ha! Ha!" with a heavy male: "Haw! Haw! Haw!"

The terrified Tomlinson burst in upon the scene and there are twenty-six adjectives that would have fitted the look on his countenance, the first five being "astounded," "scandalized," "amazed," "deprecating," "appalled."

"M—Master Robert! M—Miss Imogene!"

Pamela pointed one finger at him weakly, and was off again to tumble down another cascade of laughter. Tomlinson shook his solemn head from side to side in a grieved and palsied motion.

"Such doings! I never—no—I never!"

"Tomlinson is right," said Mr. Randolph solemnly, as he rose and helped Pamela to her feet. "I consider this the most astonishing sample of deportment that has come to my immediate attention for—for ten years." He turned to the unmollified servitor, "Tomlinson," he continued, still supporting the laughter-weakened Pamela with one arm, "I think it is due you to explain that Miss Thornton and I were merely rehearsing, or, rather reviving the occasion of our first meeting. It was sitting just as you found us that we first made each other's acquaintance a decade ago, except that the encounter took place on the western sidewalk of Fifth avenue at about the corner of Forty-eighth street. I trust that this information will clear up all doubts in your mind as to our sanity, and that you will now leave us to the settlement of certain personal affairs of great moment."

Tomlinson withdrew, still shaking his old head from side to side, and mumbling his opinion that the explanation, far from condoning an affront to what had once been an orderly establishment, was in the nature of a plant on his credulity. No sooner had he closed the door softly but firmly on the scene of wreckage than Mr. Randolph turned all his attention to the lady in his arms.

After a few moments, he laid his hands on her shoulders, held her at arm's length, and forced her eyes to a long and breathlessly solemn meeting with his own. "My dear girl," he continued, "when I came here this afternoon, the sudden bloom of your beauty swept me off my usually confident mental bearings. I saw how completely desirable you are and my courage sank and left me, as though some one had said, 'You can have her if you'll just step up to Mars.' When I was running away, so that I might live to fight for you in many other days, the flame of you swept down and seized my coward heart. It's yours, darling, forever—if you'll only take it!"

And then they kissed each other—one of those long, unhurried marriages of the lips in which eye meets wondering eye so closely that the barriers of flesh and space and time are pushed aside, and all the whole wide world together with seven heavens are crowded into the tiny sphere of a single lucent orb. Look at them, oh, you growing public; watch them do it! For while it is customary to draw the veil on these intimate first contacts of the soul, let it be said that such conventional literary hypocrisy is herein abjured on the grounds that the real thing in youth in love doesn't give a whoop who sees.

Even such a kiss as is under review has an end as well as a beginning, and just as this one finished its too brief but crowded span of life came the honk three times repeated of a motor horn, as though the world at large had availed itself of that means to cap the shameless osculation with three exclamation points.

"Why, Bobby," cried Pamela, "you've never kept your cab waiting?"

"Sometime tonight," said Mr. Randolph dreamily, sadly, wistfully, "I'll have to go somewhere away from here. Let him wait."

[THE END.]

Beginning Next Week

"The Man of the Age"

THE Story of Lincoln

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION NEXT WEEK

(Continued from page one)

—Ernie Gunderson.
Deacon Skinner, the town president—Paul Johnson.
Prof. Willow, the schoolmaster—Claude Johnson.
George Washington Jones, a colored individual—Cyril Jenison.
E. Z. Marks, who answers advertisements—Leo McNamara.
C. D. Dooless, the town shirk—Harland Rierson.
Artie Wiseboy, from the city,
U. R. Wright, the drummer,
Prof. Sleeper, the hypnotist—Donald Pech.
A Young American—Robert Fetrow, (Third grade.)
Dick Quill, the country editor—Carl Whittaker.
Marjie Ketchum, the village cut-up—Esther Amblie.
Rose Highcrown, the town milliner—Loretto Barry.
Arabelle Tittletattle, the gossip—Helen Elder.
Aunt Mirandy, the good old soul—Maurine Hake.
Dorthea Dimple, the village Belle—Veron Hanson.
Susan Snip, a blue law advocate—Della Bayliss.
Mary, the school teacher—Elma Stapley.
Cleopatra Jones, a would-be novelist—Emma Luick.
Mrs. Dooless, the victim of C. D.—Reaka Buschmann.

School Girls:
Cora ---------------------- Esther
Dora ---------------- Olinda Lutz
Flora -------------- Marian McNulty
Nora ---------------- Loretto Barry
Nell --------------- Kathleen Barry
Belle -------------------- Helen Elder
Stell ----------------- Leona Johnson
Dell ------------ --Gladys Gunderson

Part II
Musical Reading ---- Kathleen Barry
High School Welcome ---------------- Arthur Christie
Response ------------- Paul Johnson
Presentation of Diplomas ------------ Miss Bock

We hope that all Eighth Grade graduates who receive the invitation to attend the Commencement will be present, even tho they have already received their diplomas.

Remember the date, June 1, at 8:15.

Belmond Local News

Harley Potter and Arval Frost of Fort Dodge were business visitors in town on Friday.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay and son of Clarion were guests Sunday afternoon at the Wallace Ramsay home here.

—I—

Little Duran Hill had the misfortune to fall from the slide on the playground at school Sunday evening, spraining his arm qujte badly and cutting his face somewhat.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Eaton and family drove to Eagle Grove last Sunday to spend the day with relatives.

—I—

Miss Jane Ramsay went to Clarion on Saturday to visit relatives.

—I—

Clarence Craven of Mason City was a caller with Belmond friends on the first of this week.

—I—

Mrs. Max Robinson of Storm Lake has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Maitland, the past week.

—I—

The A. W. Hill and Wm. Luick families autoed to Mason City one day last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. George Beard and Mrs. H. J. Holt left last week for Green Bay, Wisconsin, where Mr. Beard has accepted a position with the beet sugar people at that place.

—I—

Jas. C. Blocker, who moved to Mason City a few years ago has returned to Belmond to live.

—I—

Mrs. Anna Case, Belmond's popular librarian, was in attendance at the district librarians meeting held at the county seat last week.

—I—

Miss Nora Nelson has been visiting friends at Fort Dodge and Dayton the past week.

—I—

Andrew Norem, who was run over by one of the big gravel trucks recently, is reported as recovering nicely.

—I—

Chris Jacobs, wife and daughter of Garner were recent visitors at the Chas. Papousek home. Mrs. Papousek was formely Miss Jacobs.

—I—

Mrs. Clare Clark from Weldona, Colorado, who has been visiting at the home of friends and relatives here for the past few weeks, returned on Saturday to her home.

—I—

Mrs. J. J. Flynn and daughter, Marjorie, who have been spending the past several months in California, returned home on Saturday of last week.

—I—

N. M. Wolcott came up from Des Moines the first of this week to be present at the Memorial Day exercises and to spend a few days visiting old friends.

—I—

M. C. Barry was at Iowa City the first of the wetk, where he was called by the serious illness of his wife's mother, who is not expected to live.

THERE'S TWO SIDES

There has always been an objection on the part of Allison merchants to having city merchants enter this field. More than once they have openly stated to the editor of this paper that he s not "loyal to the town and the community if he encourages or accepts advertising from the merchants in larger towns," and they have preached whole sermons about "standing up for the home town first."

We haven't needed any of these sermons, for we've never stood for anything else but the home town first. last and all the time. But it's a poor rule that won't work both ways. So, if the home town paper is going to throw into the waste basket advertising that comes from the outside then it has a right to expect the home town merchant to make up that loss. Two can play at this game of "loyalty" and if the editor is going to be loyal and turn down city advertising then the home merchant must be loyal enough to see that the paper does not suffer. It takes money to run a paper, the same as any other business, and we can't pay bills with sentiment.

Yes, there's two sides to the home town loyalty question. If you want the home trade and want to keep the city merchant from getting it, then do what he is willing and anxious to do—advertise for it. So long as you don't loyalty counts for nothing with you. We're for the home town first, and we always will be, and we are just as strong for the merchant who is fair enough to advertise his goods in the home town paper if he expects to keep his city competitor out of it.—Allison Tribune.

Glasses

For Every Purpose

Whether for temporary use or permanent use, as a protection against the wind; the sun, or strong artificial light---

Our glasses---both clear and tinted---are the latest products of optical science.

We invite your inspection

F. A. BRAS, Optometrist

with

L. A. Cederquist, Jeweler

Ft. Dodge, Iowa

- WILL BE AT -

H. SCHULTZ, Jewelry

May 25, 1921

You've Got to Do What You Say You'll Do

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes

Some people---and among them are some merchants---who only think that a guarantee is only "advertising." They think advertising is something to get people into a store---then they can do as they wish.

It's all wrong, a successful store has to live up to it's advertising; people won't come back again and again unless that store does what it says it will do.

We say, "Money back if you aren't satisfied and you are the one who decides what your satisfaction should be."

We live up to the letter of that statement; it means that you can't make a mistake here in Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes or anything else that we sell. It means that we have taken the gamble out of clothes buying for you.

Get to Know

Gildner Bros.

Iowa's Largest Clothiers

Home of Hart Schaffner and Marx Clothes

Mason City, Iowa

Special Bargains

40 in. Voiles, 75c value, now	50c
36 in. Percales, 25c value,	19c
42 in. Pillow Tubing	45c
Scrim and Curtains,	25c per yd. and up
30 per cent discount on Blouses
$1.00 Brooms, now	55c
3 pkg of Corn Flakes	25c
5 lb. Bulk Oatmeal	25c

We have a good line of canned goods from 10c up.

Our low prices in groceries are moving them fast.

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30

We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

Men's Oxfords

Brogues Semi-Brogues Ball-Straps

English or Broad Toe Models

$7.50 to $13.00

It's merely a case of picking your particular shoe. It makes no difference what your need may be you will be able to find it here.

They come in Black and Brown kid or calf leather with good weight soles. Built to give comfort and the maximum amount of wear.

WOODRUFF'S

OF COURSE

115 N. Federal Mason City, Iowa

Come to Mason City Auto Day, May 28th

REMEMBER---
We Handle no Samples or Brokerage Lines---
All High Class Merchandise

Now is the Time to Buy

Prices Back to 1916 Basis on Men's and Boys' Clothing Shoes and Furnishings at

HARRY MARK'S

We positively guarantee Satisfaction or Your Money will be Refunded

Men' Shirts

Men' blue Chambray work Shirts, full cut, all sizes, 14 to 17, at 59c

Embey Suits

They are guaranteed all wool, hand tailored, latest styles and sizes, for men and young men, pin stripes, mixtures, browns, blues and other shades at $22.50, $27.50, $32.00 and $37.00

Men's Overalls

Blue denim overalls, sizes 32 to 42, good grade and well made at 95c

HATS

Men's felt hats, big selection at from $1.95 to 3.50
A big line of men's and boys' straw hats. Priced very reasonable.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT

Boys' striped overalls, sizes 2 to 8	.65
Children's wash suits, grey and brown, fine grade chambray	.98
Boys' shirts, only	.45
Children slipovers, khaki and stripes	.85
Boys' khaki pants, sizes 6 to 16	.65
These are just the thing for summer wear.
Boys' striped or checked wash pants	.85

Furnishings

Men's poris knit underwear, special at	.98
Men's black or tan hose	.09
Men's neckties, $1.00 grade	.48
Men's knit ties, sold for $1.50, now	.85
Men's rockford socks	.11
Men's canvass gloves	.10
Men's overalls, best grade	1.45
Men's dress or work pants	2.45
Men's better grade pants	3.50
Men's khaki pants, only	2.00
Men's extra heavy Government Khaki pants	2.45
Men's fine dress shirts, collars attached	$1.25
Men's dress shirts, big values	.98
"Uncle Sam" very best grade mens work shirts, blue, gray, tan, recently sold as high as $2.00	.89
Men's fine dress shirts, recently sold for $2.00, to-day's price	1.25
"North Star brand" men's athletic underwear, all sizes, ful cut	.98
Men's balbrigan union suits	.75
Men's 2-piece light weight underwear	.48
Men's better grade balbrigan union suits at	1.25

SHOES! SHOES!

A big value in dark brown Russian calf	3.50
Ask for No. A502
Other grades, $5.00, $5.50, $6.00 and	6.85
A combination last in brown calfskin or kid at	7.50
O lot of men's black shoes, odd sizes, $7.00 values to close out at only	3.25
Men's outing shoes, $2.45, $3.25 and	4.00
Men's Thorogood brand work shoes, $3.75, $4.25 and	3.75
A large assortment of men's rubber boots, $3.50 $4.75 and	6.00
Boys' first quality at	2.50

17 South Federal Ave. Mason City, Ia.
Across from 5 and 10c Store

HARRY MARK

The Clothier

Lowest Prices our chief attraction on High Grade Merchandise

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE NO. 28

FIRST BAND CONCERT THIS WEEK SATURDAY

Sugar Company Stockholders Held Meeting Friday

Stockholders Discuss Plan To Finance Company Until Campaign Opens For Next Year.

PLAN IS THOROLY EXPLAINED

The meeting of the stockholders of the Iowa Valley Sugar company was held at the city hall on Friday evening of last week, and was attended by a fair sized crowd.

Messrs. Tyrrell, Luick and Fenton of the company officials were present and placed the condition of the company fairly before the stockholders, together with the only remedy that they could see to put the company back on its feet. This plan as at present outlined, calls for each stockholder to put up in cash 35 per cent of his original holding of stock, each stockholder to be secured for this money by five year notes of other similar security at eight per cent interest.

Of this 35 per cent, it is asked that 15 per cent be put up by the fi,rst of July, the remainder to be called for as needed during the rest of the time between then and the opening of the campaign in 1922. The sentiment of the stockholders seemed to be favorable to the idea as expressed, and a committee composed of Ole Thompson, J. D. Baker, M. C. Barry, W. J. Morse, E. F. Bailey and T. A. Davenport was selected to place the idea before the stockholders in and around Belmond. It is understood that action along this line has been started and the next few weeks will show the results.

Michigan stockholders, who have stock to the amount of about half a million dollars, are said to favor this plan of refinancing the company and are working for it there. Every holder of stock in the company realizes the condition of the company, and none care to lose the money they have placed in the company. United effort along the lines suggested seems to be the logical measure to take under the circumstances, if the company is to be placed on a firm foundation and the investment saved.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP TO ENJOY LAWN SOCIAL

Members of the Pleasant township Farm Bureau are planning to hold a lawn social at the home of J. F. Henn on the evening of Friday, June 3.

J. H. Abernathy, chairman of the Boone township Farm Bureau, will be the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Abernathy is a practical farmer who is operating a quarter section of land about five miles northeast of Renwick. Mr. Abernathy has had a number of years of experience in Y. M. C. A. work previous to the time of his coming to Boone township. He is a fluent and interesting speaker, a man who believes in the Farm Bureau and can talk Farm Bureau. The County Agent will also be present to give a short talk and assist with the meeting.

Every farmer in Pleasant township both young and old members and non-members are earnestly urged to attend this community social and get acquainted with your neighbors and friends and with the County Agent.

TEACHERS ELECTED FOR NEXT SCHOOL YEAR

The following are the teachers for next year who have been elected and have accepted:

E. S. Fyler, Supt.
Hazel V. Thomas, Principal.
Amy C. Peterson, Asst. Principal.
Ruth Dodd, History.
Adeline Sharon, Math. and Latin.
Edna Stedman, H. E.
Oralee Brooks, 6th. grade.
Marie Leavy, 5th. grade.
Bessie Quigley, 4h. grade.
Viva Rourk, 3rd. grade.
Rena Purdy, 2nd. grade.
Maud Newgord, Sub-primary.

Some others have been elected but have not as yet signed contracts, and one or two vacancies are yet to be filled.

BIG FIGHT ON FOR LOWER RATES

Conditions now existing in the United States will not return to normalcy until our basic industry, agriculture, assumes a prosperous condition, says E. H. Cunningham, secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation in a statement issued the other day.

"Every day some economist asseits that conditions are approaching a normal state," Mr. Cunningham said, "and these statements undoubtedly carry encouragement to many. But I would suggest to the public that it keep its eyes on agriculture and when it observes agriculture assuming prosperous conditions, then and not until then, can it safely say that the whole country is on the way to prosperity.

"Agriculture is our basic industry and it must be on a paying masis before business conditions throughout the United States can possibly return to normal.

"The federation is bringing pressure to bear on the interstate commerce commission and the railroads to affect a reduction in freight rates. A general reduction in rates amounting to at least thirty-three per cent would be the greatest aid for immediate relief. With freight rates so high that shipping is almost prohibitive and with no European credit, the prospects for selling surplus farm products are not very bright.

"The present emergency tariff on corn and wheat was absorbed by the last raise in rates, leaving the farmer in exactly the same status so far as foreign competition is concerned, as before the heavy increase in rates was put in force. A reduction would not only bring relief to the farmer, but would reduce a large additional revenue to the roads.

"Our methods of distribution must be corrected. There are too many turnovers between the producer and the consumer. It is this method of distribution that makes cheap produce expensive to the consumer. Every one knows there is a big difference between the price the farmer gets for his produce and the cost to the consumer, and it is our method of distribution that is wrong.

"Corn today is below the twenty-six year average. If we had proper methods of distribution, then the farmer could get the cost, at least, out of his products and at the same time living expenses for the consumer would not be increased.

"Notwithstanding the large surplus of crops, the farmer is fulfilling his obligations in producing. Every acre of land available is being utilized by the Iowa farmers. In the face of the large surplus he is continuing to utilize his land to the limit. Now it's up to the people of the country to realize the conditions that conf ont er at least the cost of his crop. Certainly present condtiions can not long exist. There is no immediate relief in sight and the outlook for an immediate rise in prices not encouraging.

"Summer feeding is heavier now than in former years. owing to the large surplus of corn and the inability of the country to absorb this surplus.

"Foreign buying of grains—especially wheat—has been uncontrolled through central buying agencies for many months. There has been no competitive buying from us owing to this central buying agency which represents nearly all foreign countries. There were large quantities of wheat owned by European countries held in storage in the United States for months to depress other markets.

"Europe has been out-dealing this country for many months in the purchase of her necessary food stuffs and apparantly no one in this country is in a position or is disposed to block their scheme. The farmer must take the question of better marketing of his products in his own hands to a large extent. It is the farmer's right to do this.

"This is fast becoming the conviction of our bankers, and in the near future the financing of a better marketing plan will be perfected through the co-operation of the farm bureau and the banks."

A referendum covering fifteen questions of agricultural nature now

Continued on page eight

Farm Bureau Picnic June 9th, at Fair Grounds

Assistant Secretary J. F. Coupe of Iowa Farm Bureau Federation to be the Speaker of the Day

Wright County Farmers will meet at the County Fair Grounds at Clarion for a big day of jollification on Thursday, June 9th. Music tor the occasion will be furnished by the Tri-Star Quintette of Dows. The Day will be filled with Baseball, Track Meet, Cood Eats, Good Speakers and a general good time for all.

Forenoon Program

10:00—Short Talk by President Harry Sumners.
10:10—Music by Tri-Star Quintette.
10:20—Remarks by County Agent Edwards.
10:30—Music by Lincoln Quartette.
10:40—Music by Tri-Star Quintette.
10:50—Farm Bureau Song by All Members.
11:00—Address: "Boys' and Girls' Club Work"—Paul C. Taff, State Club Leader.

12:00 Dinner Hot Coffee

Afternoon Program

1:00—Music by Tri-Star Quintette.
1:10—Farm Bureau Song, by All Members.
1:20—Music by Tri-Star Quintette.
1:30—Address: "The Farm Bureau Of Today"—Asst. Sec. J. F. Coupe, of Iowa Farm Bureau Federation.

Athletics 2:30 Athletics

TRACK MEET
100 Yard Dash—
Boys 15 years and under.
Girls 15 years and under
50 Yard Dash—
Fat Men 200 pounds or over
Fat Women, no limit.
Three Legged Race—
Boys 15 years and over
Boys under 15 years
Sack Race—
Boys 15 years and over
Boys under 15 years
Base Ball—
Lake Township vs. Boone Valley
Pres. Harry Sumners, Umpire

Forget your Troubles---Bring your Smile--Enjoy Yourself.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES GO THRU AS PLANNED

Memorial Day was observed in Belmond in the usual customary fashion and according to the program as printed in the Independent last week. In the morning the procession was formed on Spruce street, headed by the colors, the Legion, G. A. R. and other societies and city officials, and marched to the cemetery where the program as announced was successfully carried thru. A large crowd attended the exercises at the cemetery.

After dinner the exercises were held at the school auditorium. A change had to be made here, however, as the speaker, Dr. Brooks from Fort Dodge failed to arrive and Rev. Edge of the Methodist church gave a short talk in his place. A small audience was present at the afternoon exercises.

COMMUNITY WELFARE CLUB

The Community Welfare Club held a very interesting meeting last Friday afternoon. Mrs. Edge was leader of the program which was on American Humorists. The program was well planned and everyone said it was the most interesting the club has had for some time. Mrs. W. R. Ramsay told about the life and work of Mark Twain. Mrs. Parsons about Geo. Ade and his works, Mrs. Gowdy about Walt Mason and Mrs. E. W. Luick about the Uncle Remus stories. Each one of the talks were enjoyed by all. A very enjoyable vocal solo was given by Mrs. C. O. Fitts.

TELEPHONE SCHOOL IS HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

The telephone operators school held in Belmond last week was a decided success, and was attended by many of the operators from the surrounding towns. The manager of the local compony, T. A. Dovenport, had the local end of the school under his didirection and is to be congratulated upon the successful conclusion of the school.

STORM THURSDAY DOES SOME DAMAGE

This vicinity had the tail end or the edge of a storm thot caused more or less damage thruout this port of the country. In this immediate vicinity the storm did not do any considerable amount of damage, other than blowing down a few sheds and similar buildings on some of the farms west of town, but furher north in the vicinity of Manly and Clear Lake considerable damage was done and severol lives were lost. Two Garner men were caught on the lake at Clar Lake and drowned before they could get to shore. At Manly and thereabouts considerable property damage was caused. The storm was a black looker here and oltho the wind did not blow very hard it was hard enough to satisfy folks in this vicinity.

Miss Alberta Pierce has returned to her school duties at Clinton, after a couple of weeks spent at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Pierce, where she had been sick.

Commencement Exercises At Auditorium

Annual Commencement Exercises Of Belmond High School Feature Of Week's Activities.

ALUMNI BALL GAME FRIDAY

Yearly Dispute Between Once-Wasers And Isers To Be Settled For Another Year.

Thursday night of this week the annual High School Commencement exercises will be held in the auditorium at 8:00 o'clock.

The Baccalaureate sermon was given Sunday evening to a large audience Father Eardley's address was a very inspiring message to the graduating class, and was appreciated by all present.

Semester examinations are scheduled for this week. Friday morning at ten o'clock school will convene for the last time this year. Every pupil is to be present at that time to receive report cards.

The Literary society will hold election of officers Friday morning and athletic letters will be awarded.

The Junior ciass are planning on a picnic Thursday evening.

The Sophomore class have a breakfast planned for Friday morning.

The Eight grade commencement program was given Wednesday night. Twenty-six Eighth grade graduates received their diplomas.

The last game of the season has been scheduled for the high school next Friday afternoon at 3:00 ó'clock.

This time the high school team will cross bats with the former graduates of B. H. S.

The boys have been playing good ball this year, and expect to show the alumnus a good game.

Be a booster! Come to the game.

Tuesday of this week the B. H. S. track team went to Clarion to take part in the Invitation Meet which was postponed from May 27. The results of the meet cannot be given at this time, but will appear next week.

COUNTY FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS MEFTS

Regular Meeting Of Federation Is Held At County Seat Tuesday Of Last Week.

The Wright County Federation of Women's Clubs held a very interesting meeting at Clarion on Tuesday of last week, with a morning and afternoon session, Mrs. J. W. Holman of Eagle Grove, president of the county federation, presiding.

The morning session was aken up by the reports from the various clubs of the county, the session in the afternoon being given over to papers, discussions and entertainment. Reports of the state convention held at Clinton recently were given. The conclusion of the program was a very entertaining and pleasing playlet given by some of the Clarion high school girls.

CROPS COMING SLOW BUT SURE

The condition of the crops about Belmond is apparently pretty good, and coming slowly but surely to a better stage. Small grain is in very good shape, a good stand and with a thriving look to it. Corn is also in good shape, a nice stand and to a good growth for this time of year, but owing to the constant rains it is very weedy. Farmers have been unable to get into the corn to cultivate on account of the wet ground, and consequently the weeds with all the rain have obtained a big start. If the weather stays warm and dry the rest of this week the farmers will manage to get thru their corn in good shape.

Sugar beets are in nice shape with all the rain, but are in much the same shape as the corn, very weedy owing to lack of cultivation.

OBITUARY

MRS. HENRY KRUSE

Sophia Festing was born at Hunover, Germany, July 12, 1841, and died at her late home northwest of Belmond, Iowa, May 22, 1921, at the age of 79 years, 10 months and 10 days.

She was married to Mr. Kluseman, to which union were born three children, and was married to Mr. Henry Kruse in 1873.

When a young girl Mrs. Kruse was confirmed in the German Lutheran church. She came to America in 1881 coming directly to Iowa and locating in Butler county. She with her husband and family remained there for several years, moving in 1888 to Wright county where she has since made her home.

Some two years ago Mrs. Kruse sucered an attack of apoplexy. A second attack coming about two weeks and the third, which came on Friday, claimed her life.

She leaves to mourn her decease her husband and five children: Mrs. John Rynn of Freeport, Illinois, Mrs. Peter Hirtz of Rockford, Illinois, Mrs. John Kelly of Fort Dodge, Earnest Kluseman of Ventura, and Wm. Kruse who lives with his parents.

Thirteen grandchildren also mourn her loss.

Funeral servces were conducted by Rev. J. H. Edge, from the Methodist Episcopal church at 2:00 p. m. Thursday and interment was made in Franklin Grove cemetery.

BELMOND WINS THIRD STRAIGHT GAME SUNDAY

The Belmond ball team maintained its stride Sunday and took the team from Thorston into camp by the easy score of 5 to 2. The Thornton team put up a good game, altho they were outclassed in every branch. Clarence Obrecht, formerly of Belmond, pitched the game for Thornton, Thomas being in the box for the locals.. Two Thornton players, the catcher being one, did not arrive in time to start the game, and Court Morse done the catching for Thornton until the other men arrived. Obrecht and Morse for Thornton seemed like a Belmond outfit. Henisch caught for Belmond. Thomas pitched a very good game for the locals, and had fine support. The game was interesting thruout and the big crowd enjoyed it thoroly. The line-up for Belmond was as follows:

Heinisch—Catcher.
Thomas—Pitcher
Packard—1st.
Jones—2nd.
Pillmer—3rd.
Baldridge—Short stop.
Nelson—Left field.
Dillon—Center field.
Fulton—Right field.

EXAMINATION TO BE HELD FOR NEW POST OFFICE CLERK

On July 1st the post office at this place is to be made second class which means another clerk in the office. An examination to fill this place is to be held here on the 18th of June. Anyone interested in the office may secure full information regarding the duties and examination may be secured from Lois Morse at the post office. The place of examination will be given next week thru the columns of the Independent.

ROCK ISLAND PASSENGER JUMPS THE TRACK

The Rock Island broke its good record Saturday when Train No. 1069 due here at 2:32 p. m. jumped the track with its tender a mile and a half south of Rowan. In starting out of Dows, it was about two hours late, and in their attempt to make up time the tender jumped the track and rode on the ties for about 500 feet before the train could be stopped. When it was stopped the front trucks under the tender looked as tho they were trying to make a high dive under the rail. Quite a few Belmond people were on the train and did not get home until Sunday afternoon about 1:00 o'clock. This derailment held up the evening passenger train quite a few hours, and the numerous stock trains usually run by the Rock Island on Saturday nights.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. Announcement of plans and committees for Children's Day will be made next Sunday. We plan to make Children's Day a great day this year. Be there next Sunday.

Preaching services at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m. Dr. A. E. Buriff of Klemme will preach at both of these services next Sunday. The pastor will preach in Klemme for Dr. Buriff. Dr. Buriff is a forceful speaker and will have two fine messages. Hear him morning and evening.

Epworth League devotional meeting at 7:00 p. m.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will meet Thursday of this week at the home of Mrs. H. F. Luick. Mrs. W. R. Ramsay is the leader of the lesson. A very interesting lesson is planned.

CHARLES CITY YOUNG MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

The first death on the North Iowa Pike since it has been paved, occured Sunday when Oliver Sigler, aged 20 years, of near Floyd Crossing, sustained a broken neck, dying instantly. The others in the car the fatner, Mr. Sigler who was driving, his daughter, Estha, and two small sons, were not seriously injured but were scratched and bruised and badly shaken up. Estha, who was injured the worst of those who survived, is recovering nicely. The accident occurred about ten o'clock in the morning. The Sigler family was returning home from Charles City and passed a car driven by a neighbor at a good rate of speed. After passing, Mr. Sigler attempted to pull his car back into the center of the road when one of the rear wheels of his Cadillac skidded off the pavement into the dirt. He then attempted to cut his car back and in so doing it turned over and about face, alighting on its wheels and turned upward.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

RESTRICTING IMMIGRATON

There has been the past month or two more or less talk on restricting immigration, and it is understood that here will be introduced in congress a bill for this purpose.

It should pass. America is at a stage in its affairs when the question of immigration becomes one of the most serious that the country has ever had to answer. Europe is over flowing with people who are clamoring to come to this country to escape the back-breaking task of rebuilding the old countries, of meeting the heavy taxes and at the same time managing to scrape together enough money and food to live.

Our foreign representatives are simply swamped with the flood of applications for passports. Unless we take some measures immediately our country is going to be overrun by hundreds of thousands of immigrants who do not live as we do or work for what we consider a living wage. There are today in America hundreds of thousands of men who are out of work; production has shut down; 60 per cent of our shipping is idle; 50 per cent of our railroads inactive; wages are coming down and there is not work enough to go around. If we do not shut down on the flood of cheap labor which is threatening us, we shall we in worse condition to bring the country back to normal than we are now.

One of the greatest troubles with America today is the fact that we have so many foreign-born population who have not will not or do want to assimilate the American standard of living, morals and patriotism. It would seem that the better thing for us to do under the present conditions would be to digest what we have already eaten rather than to eat a lot more before we assimilate what we have.

To shut off the flow of immigrants may appeal to some people as being unAmerican, against our established customs and the name we have for being the haven of the oppressed. But it is a time now when what is going to be best for America should occupy the minds and thoughts of Americans and not what will please the people across the seas. America for Americans right now is a pretty safe and sane slogan to go by, and the closer we go by it the better our country will be for it.

S. D. BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS RAPIDLY INCREASING

South Dakota boys and girls are becoming more and more interested in agricultural club work, judging from the increased interest shown in the club projects and the ever increasing enrollment, say the state club leaders of the extension department of the South Dakota State college. The fact that there are three times as many corn and potatoe clubs in 1921 as were listed in 1920 and more than double the number of poultry clubs gives some idea as to the rapid membership increase.

The boys and girls of the poultry clubs are starting with purebred stock and they are given suggestions and instructions as to its proper care.

Many of the potatoe club members are starting out with certified seed and every member is at present learning proper methods of treating this seed to keep it from disease.

The corn club members are starting with purebred varieties and have recently been learning the proper methods of testing for germination.

This is where the leadership and organizing ability of Paul J. Scarbro, well known in Belmond where he was for nine years superintendent of the schoos here and where he had several such clubs, comes in. Mr. Scarbro has made a phenominal success of the work in South Dakota.

Belmond Local News

Morse Lake has been a popular place with Belmond folks the past two or three weeks, both for the fishing and bathing facilities. Some good [illegible] been reported from the La[illegible] recently.

—I—

Cornelia Lake has had some pretty fair fishing reports recently, altho the catches do not seem to be as large and fishing as good as has usually been the case. A few new cottages are going up there and as the summer comes on doubtless the attendance will be larger. The club house grounds have been staked out and it is understood that the active buiding operations on the club house are to start at once. The grounds are located on the top of a hill on the east side of the lake, and the grounds when completed are going to be a very pretty place.

—I—

Mrs. Harbinson underwent an operation on her throat at the local hospital last week, and is recovering nicely. She returned home the next day after the operation.

—I—

Sheriff Lang was in town on Saturday on business matters. He was able to get around after his scrap with Ersland on Thursday night, but was not looking very brisk. His head was bandaged up where Ersland had hit him with the iron bar.

—I—

It is reported that there is to be a home talent play given in Belmond in the near future, some of the old timers in the acting line staging the play.

—I—

Mrs. Henry Groen, Jr., of Ackley, gave birth to a fine ten-pound baby girl on May 24th., at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Kalvig. Both mother and baby are doing nicely. The child's father was killed at the sugar factory last summer, when he was electrocuted by coming in contact with a live wire.

—I—

Ole Shaw has been doing some carpenter work at a home in Holmes, for a woman who is suffering from tuberculosis. Ole has been constructing a fresh air porch for the patient.

—I—

L. W. Wendell of Nora Springs was a recent visitor here looking after some business affairs. He and his wife moved to Nora Springs this spring from Belmond, shortly after their return from California, where they spent the winter.

—I—

Mrs. Leslie Reed of Alexander was a recent guest at the home of of her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flynn. Mrs. Flynn and daughter Marjorie recently returned from their trip to California, where they had been spending the past two or three months.

—I—

The high school annuals are now a thing of history. The class ordered three hundred of the books printed, and sold the entire lot within a few days after they were delivered. The Independent happened to have a few extra copies, which the class secured to fill extra orders.

—I—

A. J. Lester, who has been spending the past month or two at Belmond and some of the neighboring towns visiting old friends and relatives, has returned to his home at San Diego, California. He was formerly a resident of this city, moving from Belmond to California about two years ago.

—I—

Lee Stacy and family drove to their former home at Hampton, Sunday, to spend Memorial Day at that place, returning to Belmond Monday evening.

—I—

Claire White, who has been connected with [illegible] erruban c[illegible] at Fort Dodge, has just been promoted to chief ticket agent for the Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern, with entire charge of the ticket office. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White of Belmond.

—I—

A card from Howard Wolle received by the Independent last week, states that he arrived all O. K. at New Orleans and expected to sail for Honduras on the 25th of the month, May. He goes to that country to work for the Dyer cmpany on a sugar factory which they are constructing at that place.

—I—

The operetta, "The Japanese Girl," given at the opera house on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week was fairly well attended, the house the first night amounting to about fifty dollars and the second night to about forty. The play was very well spoken of, the crowd seeming to be well pleased. It was for the benfit of the American Legion.

CLIPPINGS

Miss Jane Ramsay of Belmond was a week end visitor with the J. H. Ramsay family.—Monitor.

The committee on speaker for July 4th has been successful in securing Mike Healy, the blind orator of Fort Dodge. He is considered one of the best platform orators in this section of the state. In this connection it will be good news to know that the Clarion band will furnish the music on that day.—Monitor.

Curtiss Luick of Belmond was a Klemme visitor Wednesday.—Times.

Thieves broke into the office of the Farmers Elevator Company last Monday night, but all they could find that seemed to suit them was the typewriter, which they carried away. They also entered the Kratz milk and icre cream plant, at the rear of the Kratz market and grocery, by prying loose a large window over the back door. Nothing of value was missing, except a few bottles of milk, and some butter and cream.—Hampton Chronicle.

Mr. Herman Priebe was a business visitor at Belmond, Saturday.—Klemme Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Croner were at Belmond, Thusday. Mrs. Croner had dental work done.—Times

J. F. Barry of Belmond was a county seat business caller Saturday and incidently took advantage of some of the clothing bargains being offered by our merchants.—Monitor.

A party of ladies enjoyed a day of fishing at Morse Lake, Monday—Times.

A. J. Lester departed Monday on his return to San Diego, California, after a two months' visit with his daughter, Mrs. Leo Littlefield, and other relatives.—Monitor.

Miss Leone Sullivan spent the week end with relatives and friends at Belmond.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Knisley of Belmond spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Rachel Wilkens.—Times.

Word was received last Thursday of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pritchard, at their home in Tulsa, Oklahoma, on that day. This accounts for the grandfatherly smile Walt Pritchard has been wearing since that time.—Garner Signal.

If you want all the news all the time, read the Independent.

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

HAMPTON GIVEN SEVEN ACRE TRACT FOR PARK

Recorder: People interested in the general prosperity and future welfare of Hampton will rejoice to learn that Mrs. George Beed of Epworth, a former resident of this city and widow of George Beed, who older citizens of our town remember most kindly as a pioneer merchant and banker, a man who was always ready to aid in every good cause, last week donated to the city of Hampton, for park purposes, seven acres of land north of East Fourth street and adjoining Mott Field on the east. This gift was made known in a letter from Mrs. Beed to W. L. Robinson with a deed enclosed. The only stipulation made in the document is that Mrs. Beed shall receive an annual rental of $75 during her lifetime and that the tract be named "George Beed Memorial Park" in honor of her husband.

The land is admirably located for a public park and with improvements that can annually be made to the ground by the city, it will not be many years before it will be pointed out as one of Hampton's beauty spots.

The Recorder voices the sentiment of our people in extending to Mrs. George Beed our sincere and heartfelt thanks for her generous gift to this city.

11-YEAR-OLD GARNER BOY KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Garner Signal: A very sad accident occured just southeast of town Monday when the car in which Mrs. Henry Brede and two of her little boys were riding turned turtle and the older, Harold, a boy of 11 years, was injured so that he died a few minutes later.

Mrs. Brede and Harold and the baby, 16 months old, had been to Garner to do some shopping. About two o'clock they started home, and as they were leaving a storm was approaching. Mrs. Brede was driving fast in an effort to reach home before the storm struck. When just east of the cemetery she pulled to the side of the road to let another car pass, and in some way lost control of the car, and it turned over. Harold was struck by some part of the car and his skull was fractured.

Archie Bowers was near the scene and picked up Mrs. Brede and the children and brought them to town. They were taken to a doctor's office and Harold lived but a few minutes. Mrs. Brede and the boy were bruised and scratched, but no serious injuries were received.

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

The Belmond Independent
Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent
R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor
Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

ROWAN NEWS

Help make your home news interesting. Phone your news to 62.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller and Mrs. Blanche Jennings, and Edgar Mantle were Dows visitors Monday, where Mrs. Jennings had some dental work done.

Mrs. G. R. Stumph, Mrs. R. L. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howell and daughter Clara Jane were Clarion callers Monday.

The Congregregational ladies met and cleaned the parsonage Tuesday, ready for Rev. Nye and his family to move into. They arrived Wednesday night and were entertained at the L. A. McCallum home. Their goods arrived Thursday night. The community wishes to welcome Rev. Nye and his family.

Mrs. Kate Conn returned Tuesday from California, where she has been spending the winter. She is visiting at the homes of her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Whitten and her son, Chester, Her many friends are glad to welcome her back to this community.

The school children planted trees on the school campus, Monday.

The high school boys say the water is fine these days. They have enjoyed some fine swimming lately.

Mrs. Henry Rietz and Mrs. Bert Pelly were Hampton visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ross were Clarion shoppers Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks and Miss Fannie Reed were at Clarion, Tuesday, to see Mrs. M. Snyder at the Fred Smith home.

Miss Lottie Williams, Henry Williams and Cecil Harris went to Blythedale, Mo., Thursday.

Mrs. J. S. Farren and son Bobby and Mrs. Mary Williams and son Ivan were Fort Dodge shoppers Thursday.

Mrs. George Whitten and daughter Vinnie were Hampton callers Thursday. Mrs. Whitten had dental work done.

Frank Snyder was a Clarion caller Thursday.

Miss Florence Gordon of Galt was operating the switch board at the telephone office Wednesday while Miss Angie Baines, the regular operator, was attending the instruction school for operators at Belmond. She returned to her home Thursday.

Mrs. J. F. Howell and daughter, Clara Jane, were Dows callers between trains Thursday.

Fred Clark, uncle of Mrs. Dan Fletcher came from Los Angeles, Calif., Wednesday, to visit for a while.

S. A. Ferguson was a Hampton visitor Wednesday.

E. Bingham was a business caller at Coulter, Wednesday.

Mrs. Sarah Moon was a Dows caller Thursday and Friday.

Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gates entertained at a social evening. Refreshments were served, of ice cream and cake, and the following people report a very pleasant time: Mr. and Mrs. Cuy Stumph, and children; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McCallum; Helen Sellers; Mrs. R. L. Robinson and son, Malcolm; Miss Marjorie Brooks and Edgar Mantle.

Miss Alma Ramsey has been visiting relatives here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sullivan of Fort Dodge are visiting at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher.

Clifford Snow spent Thursday night at the Will Whitten home.

Mrs. George Whitten went to Clarion, Friday, to have dental work done.

Mrs. Fred Sheldon went to Iowa Falls, Saturday, to visit relatives and to spend Memorial Day. Her father, Mr. Caulter, who was an old soldier, is buried at that place. Her mother, Mrs. Coulter, went to Iowa Falls a week ago Wednesday to visit and spend Memorial Day also.

Mrs. F. M. Myers and granddaughter Dorothy were both sick with the summer flu but are some better. Dr. George was called to prescribe for them.

The high school had a picnic on Thursday night at Abraham's Heights There were four car loads started about 1:00 o'clock. They report a fine time with a good supper. The rain hurried them in the eating of their suppers and caused them to hurry home.

Friday the 7th and 8th grades had one at the same place. They went out in the school buses. The high school teachers went along. They report a fine time too.

Wednesday the other six grades had their picnic in the Aldinger woods. These picnics always finish the year right for the pupils and leave a pleasant memory for them to carry thru the vacation time.

The graduating Exercises were held Wednesday night at the school auditorium. The following program was carried out:

Piano Solo—Miss Newman.
Invocation—Rev. Tomkinson.
Lecture—The Vision Splendid—Dr. Starbuck of University of Iowa.
Piano Solo—Miss Newman.
Presentation of Diplomas—Ed. Miller, president of school board.
Benediction—Rev. Tomkinson.

The graduating class consisted of four members only: Marshall Myers, Donald McCallum, Letha Gunderson and James Burt. These young folks have the congratulations and best wishes of their freinds as they finish this preparatory work ready to begin their serious work of life. Their motto was "Just A Commencement", which is a very good one for them as they are all industrious young people and will not be willing to let this be their finish.

Their colors were purple and gold. The auditorium was decorated in the colors and also in green and white which are the Junior colors. School work was finished Friday for the year and the teachers departed Saturday for their respective homes, Mr. Moule to Mason City, Miss Mullins to Monroe, Iowa, Miss Nordmeir to Mororistown, Minn., Mr. Morrison to West Union, Miss Newman to Martelle, and Miss Draheim to Clarion.

O. F. Braden has put a new side walk in front of his property in the north part of town. This adds greatly to the appearance of the place.

Mrs. Hansen of Coulter, sister of Mrs. Theo. Hansen and Miss Peterson also of Coulter, cousin of Theo. Hansen, visited them Thursday.

Mrs. Ray Williams, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pritchett, and other relatives, for the past three weeks, returned with her two children to her home in Washington, D. C., Wednesday. Her father accompanied her as far as Chicago, returning home Friday.

Miss Wilda Whitten spent several days this week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Clint Kercheval.

The hail which we had Tuesday did quite a lot of damage especially south of town where it cut up gardens and broke windows at several places.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pritchett and Mr. and Mrs. George Pritchett were entertained at the O. F. Braden home Friday evening at a six o'clock dinner.

Mrs. Clifford Snow went to Fort Dodge, Saturday, and spent Sunday at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Lew Venum. Her husband met her there returning with her Sunday night to spend Memorial Day at Rowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Doctor and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Farmer of Clarion spent Sunday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Ferguson.

Frank Snyder was called to Clarion, Friday, to see his mother who was not feeling so well. Mrs. Fred Brooks spent Sunday with her and reported her a little better when she came home Saturday night.

Ed. Brooks and two daughters, Maxine and Charline of Cornelia visited at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks, and other relatives on Saturday.

Harry Cain and wife have moved to their new summer bungalow south of town and are very nicely settled.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey have rented the hotel and opened to the public Saturday. They serve short orders as well as meals and also have home baking. We wish them success in their undertaking. See their ad in this paper.

Henry DeWald of Holly, Colorado, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Wm. Steffens for the past three weeks returned to his home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Azeltine of Galt spent Sunday and Monday with their daughter, Mrs. Martel Myers.

Mr. and Mrs. Cady Templeton of Clarion came Saturday night to spend Sunday and Memorial Day with the latter's mother, Mrs. Jennie Rowen.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bingham and children Duane and Loretta and Mrs. Georgia Rowen spent Sunday at the Lee Aldrich home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval Sunday.

Miss Mildred Duffy and Miss Nina Burt retuned home from Cedar Falls Saturday where they have been attending school for the past year. They report a fine school year but are glad to be back again and their many friends are glad to have them home thru the summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan of Mason City came Saturday to spend Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Fred Aldrich and family.

Miss Charter, the music teacher, is putting on a summer course to begin June 6 and close Aug. 30. She will be here each Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Will Fuller of Klemme visited at the Chester Bailey home Saturday.

Monday night Guy Toyne, O. F. Braden, James Rowen, Harold Virden and J. F. Howell attended an American Legion meeting at Belmond.

Friday several of the Rowan people attended a school picnic at Vernon township. The Legion ball team played the Galt team, the score standing 14-11 in favor of Rowan. Those who attended besides the ball team were: Alt Hackley, John Riker, Jim Rowen, Harry Cain, John Rowen, Wes Azeltine, Walt Carmon, Joe Rowen, Harvey Lineweaver, August Rietz, Guy Sheldon, J. F. Howell, Edgar Mantle, Thelma and Marjorie Brooks. Mrs. Will Ferguson and Miss Nordmeir They report a good game and a nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. Holiday and family have moved their household goods into the house lately occupied by the Will Azeltine family. Mr. Holiday is the superintendent of school for the next year. They expect to spend the summer at Cedar Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan McBurney of Popejoy visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tice Streveler Sunday.

The Rowan American Legion ball team played the Goodell town team on the home diamond north of town Sunday. The score was 14-13 in favor of Goodell.

Mrs. R. L. Robinson and son Malcolm have gone to Dows to spend some time at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Parkenson. Her husband has been working there for some time past.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Braden and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheldon and children spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McCallum.

D. W. Whitten went to Spirit Lake on Saturday to spend about five days at the Ricestir Traveling Men's annual fishing party.

Fred McCormick of Eagle Grove spent Sunday at the Ed. Miller home.

Alfred Fletcher spent Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Oscar J. Johnson of Dows, returning to Rowan Monday morning.

Russell Olsen returned to the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Nels Olsen the middle of the week from Miller, S. D. He went up there with Dr. Gorden when they moved there in the spring.

Saturday afternoon the mixed train on the Rock Island going north was wrecked two and one-half miles south of town. Several Rowan people were on this train. Fred Hackley drove down with his car and brought his wife, Mrs. Esther Andrews and Mrs. Jennie Rowen back with him to town. Donald Farren was on the train also. Several people were transferring in town for Forest City. Guy Sheldon took a car load up there Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsey were waiting to go to Buffalo Center to attend the funeral of the former's nephew who had an operation for gland trouble following pneu monia. The train got thru about 11:30 Sunday morning so they got to go in time for the funeral. There was quite a long strip of track torn up.

Grandma Ryder passed to her rest in the Great Beyond. The funeral of the late Mrs. Jane Ryder took place from the old home Saturday afternoon, the Rev. Harold Tomkinson, pastor of the M. E. church, conducting the ceremonies. Prayer was offered at the house, and afterwards a short service at the cemetery. A large number or people turned out to pay their last respects to this fine old lady, who was well loved by all who knew her. Her life had passed over a period of five wars which she could remember. Mrs. Ryder tho being unable to get out among people much the last few years kept herself well posted on the world's doings as she was a good reader remembering what she read. She had a paralytic stroke Wednesday night. She suffered very much before the last. Those attending the funeral from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ryder and baby, Mrs. Perle Fuller and baby, Lyman Steinblock and lady friend from Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Duffy are the proud parents of a baby girl, born Sunday, May 29. This young miss weighed six and one-half pounds. She is named Betty Jean. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Frizel and wife of Estherville came Saturday to visit at the Dan Fletcher and Herb Ketchum homes. They spent Memorial Day in Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher went to Fort Dodge, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Bingham of Iowa Falls spent Memorial Day at Rowan.

Mrs. Fred Brooks and Mrs. G. R. Stumph who had charge of the wreath and bouquets for Memorial Day desire to thank the girls who came on Monday morning to help prepare them.

Marshall Myers went to Des Moines Saturday to work in an insurance office for his uncle, George Dalmage. His father accompanied him.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Truesdale and wife of Popejoy and Mrs. Ed. Drury spent Sunday at the Herb Hadley home.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

The Congregational services are as follows:

Morning service	11:00 a. m.
Sunday school	12:00 m.
Christian Endeavor	7:00 p. m.
Evening service	8:00 p. m.

We invite you to come and bring your friends.

The pastor, Rev. W. H. Nye, of the Rowan Cong. church, will preach at the church morning and evening.

At the morning service the subject will be "The Beauty of the Sanctuary and the evening service "How Can We Fulfil the Laws?" Mid-week prayer meeting at the church Wednesday evening at 8:00 p. m. Come, YOU and YOUR FRIENDS.

The 14th District Christian Endeavor will meet at Rowan, opening on Tuesday at 9:00 a. m. June 7 for the day and evening only. Come on, let's go; Christian Endeavors.

The W. C. T. U. convention will meet in Rowan, Thursday and Friday of this week, June 2 and 3. This is expected to be a fine meeting as some very good speakers have been secured. On Thursday evening Anna Hebdon Reade will give an address. On Friday Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, who is the head of the Research Station for Welfare of Normal Children at the University of Iowa, will give a lecture illustrated with lantern slides. Now all you parents try to be present. Dr. Baldwin brings with him a lady helper, Dr. Stecher, who will give the mental tests. Now all this work is free so here is a chance to beat the H. C. L. and hear some good lectures free of charge. Everybody boost and help make this convention a success and help put Rowan on the map as a good convention town.

The union services at the Congregational church Sunday morning were well attended. The speaker, Lieut. Wolcott of Goldfield gave a fine address. The union choir furnished special music. The Legion attended in a body about twenty of the members being present.

In the evening the Home Missionary society program was a decided success. The two playlets were very much enjoyed and emphasized the the Home Missionary societies are doing. An offering was taken for the work. A little over $12 was given and the promise of more to come in.

MRS. JANE RYDER

Jane Cordelia Benedict was born August 28, 1834, at Stissing, Duchess county, New York, and died May 27, 1921, at her home south of Rowan Iowa at the age of 86 years and 8 months. On December 27, 1859 she was united in marriage to Ethan G. Ryder. To this union were born five children. Two boys died in infancy. In 1903 her husband passed beyond. In April, 1871, they came to Fryburg, Iowa, which now Rowan. It was 50 years ago they built and moved into the house where she has since lived. When Mrs. Ryder was yet a girl in her teens she joined the Methodist church and remained a faithful Christ ian until the day of er death. She leaves to mourn her death one son, Leonard T., and one daughter, Mrs. Will Steenblock, six grand children and many other relatives and friends

ROWAN M. E. CHURCH NOTES

A arge audience was present at the Memorial Day erercises in the Congregational church last Sunday, when Lieut. Wolcott of Goldfield delivered a masterly talk on "Patriotism." Those present will not soon forget his address. At the evening service he spoke in the M. E. church.

Miss Daisy Kraup, Deaconess of the Algona District of the M. E. church will give an address in the M. E. church next Wednesday. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting, and games will be indulged in. An invitation is extended to all the friends of the church to be present.

The local tennis club will cross bats with the LuVerne club next Friday at LuVerne.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and daughter LaVonne of Thompson came Saturday to spend Memorial Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sim Stout.

The S. Christiansan family motored to Fort Dodge Monday to fix the grave of their son, Charley.

F. B. Sheldon motored to Iowa Fals Monday to spend Memorial Day.

George Aldrich who went to the hospital at Rochester a week ago Saturday night was operated on Friday. His parents received a telegram saying he was doing fine. Miss Blanch Box went to Rochester Saturday to visit him for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyarence Johnson and family went to Bristow, Saturday, to spend Memorial Day.

Peter Schreck and son William of Hayfield were at Rowan, Monday. His daughter Lillian accompanied them this far on her way to Cedar Falls where she will attend summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Bailey of Belmond visited relatives in town on Sunday.

Miss Dolly Riley has returned to her school work at Iowa Falls, Monday. She has a little over a week of work eft.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jennings of Clar ion were attending the Memorial exercises in Rowan, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Munson visited in Belmond, Sunday.

The Memorial Day exercises were

(Continued on page 8)

Announcement

We have opened a hotel in Rowan and will serve meals, also short orders at all hours and furnish beds. Also have home baking for sale. Prices reasonable.

Rowan Hotel

MR. AND MRS. CHESTER BAILEY

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

—when you are business trained.

A course in our school is a real business experience. Sign the coupon and mail to us today for free catalog of information.

I am interested in the courses marked:
( ) Secretarial
( ) Stenographic
( ) Bookkeeping
( ) Accounting
( ) Banking
( ) Commercial Teacher
( ) Civil Service

Name____________
Address____________

ENROLL any Monday in May or June for the SUMMER TERM
Fall Term begins Sept. 6

Fort Dodge Business College

W. F. McDaniel, Principal Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Have Your Battery Tested and Filled FREE!

DO THIS EVERY TWO WEEKS

We do Repairing and Re-Charging on any make of Battery.

We have rental batteries to fit your car while your battery is being repaired and recharged.

Full line of new batteries for any make of cars. Complete line of genuine Willard parts—also parts for any other make of battery.

Ask us about Thread Rubber Insulation.
Batteries called for and delivered.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

THREAD-RUBBER Willard INSULATION

MESERVEY NEWS NOTES

Miss Viola Thomas who has been attending the Iowa State Teachers College at Cedar Falls is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Thomas.

The ball game between the fat men of Meservey and the American Legion resulted in a victory for the Legion bmoys, the score being 5 to 6.

Harry Sondergard of Thornton was in town Sunday.

Miss Alma Ralston, who is attending Ellsworth College is visiting at the home of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Abkes and sons of Austinville were visiting relatives here.

The Memorial Day exercises were given by the American Legion boys. A good crowd was present. Four graves were decorated, two soldiers of the civil war and two of the world war.

The school here closed Friday of last week. A good crowd enjoyed the picnic held at the school house Friday

Miss Viva Schroedermeir returned to her home at Waverly, Sunday.

Miss Rose Nicolet spent the week end with relatives at Thornton.

ALEXANDER NEWS ITEMS

Peter Bohlen was a caller at Hampton last Thursday.

Jerry Blau was a business caller at Belmond on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlley Bell and Robert Weber of Waterloo visited at Alexander with relatives several days last week.

Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Arends and daughter Annette of LeSeuer, Minn., have spent the past week with relatives here.

Mrs. Will Tinkey and daughter of Ostendock are visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity.

John Christenson and son LuVerne of Iowa Falls were visitors in town one day last week.

Wm. Winwood was a business caller at the county seat last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son Frederick visited with relatives at Belmond, Thursday afternoon.

Miss Mary Kausian returned to her home at Ackley after a two weeks visit with relatives at this place.

Miss Charity Hansen, real estate agent at Hampton, was a visitor at Alexander the last of the week.

A large crowd attended the Memorial services at Alexander last Sunday.

Miss Alice Peters was a caller at Hampton, Saturday.

John F. Bell was transacting business at Hampton, Thursday.

Mrs. Thompson and daughter of near Palsville visited with her sister, Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, last week.

Albin Johnson of Hampton was calling on friends in town the first of the week.

Miss Nettie Benson visited at the Will Foughty home a few days the past week.

Arthur Winwood was a caller at Belmond last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Waddington of Geneva were Sunday visiors at the Otto Kieslich home.

Rev. and Mrs. Mohr were Belmond visitors last Saturday.

Edd. Miles and family of Ventura were Sunday visitors at the Albert Larson home.

The cemetery society will meet at the home of Mrs. Otto Kieslich next Thursday afternoon, June 2.

J. C. Arends was a business caller at Belmond, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kieslich of Hazelton, Wis., visited at the home of his brother, Otto Kieslich and family a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Blau were Belmond visitors Saturday.

Clifford Hansen visited with friends at Thornton, Sunday.

John Modderman was a business caller at Hampton Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Meno Frohling of Belmond spent Sunday at the Peter Pals home.

NORWAY ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Asbe were business callers at Sheffield on Monday.

The Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Alvin Enge Wednesday afternoon.

T. A. Wicks was a business caller at the T. H. Asbe home Thursday.

Mrs. Stole, Miss Tillie Asbe and Mrs. T. A. Wicks autoed to Clarion on Friday.

Miss Lila Wicks autoed to Clarion on Thursday to do some sehopping.

The farm bureau picnic held at the Robert Lucas home was well attended.

T. A. Wicks and Mrs. Hans Wicks transacted business at Clarion Thursday.

KANAWHA ITEMS

The Misses Leona Garton and Alma Olson returned home Saturday from Cedar Falls where they have been attending school the past year.

Helbert Severson of Albert Lea, Minn., was greeting relatives and friends here last week, also transacting business.

Miss Esther Africa and brother Henry left Saturday for an over Sunday visit with relatives in Algona.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Welch of Dows came Thursday for a visit with relatives and friends here.

Miss Gertrude Johnson and uncle Jurgen Johnson returned home from the Twin Cities the latter part of the week where they spent a few days visiting and shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rankins came up from Gourie, Sunday, and will visit here until Wednesday when they expect to leave for a trip to California.

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, coedine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

BIG FIGHT ON FOR LOWER RATES

Continued from page one

pending consideration in congress will be voted upon by approximately two million farmers of he farm bureau federation, was recently announced.

The call for the national referendum was issued by the American Farm Bureau federation on May 19 and marks its first attempt in this country to give individual farmers an opportunity to express themselves on questions under consideration in congress.

The principal questions upon which the vote is to be cast includes:

"Do you favor legislation making short selling of farm products illegal?"

industry under government regulation?"

"Are you in favor of continuing the excess profit tax?"

The call for the poll of farmers thruout the nation also involves an attempt to bring about voluntary reductions in freight rates on the part of railroads by demonstrating that lowering of rates would result in traffic increase so large that it would more than make up for reduced charges.

One of the questions upon which the farmers will be asked to submit their opinions is whether the average farmer "will be able to move a materially larger amount of agriculture products if th American Farm Bureau federation obtains an adequate reductions in freight rates."

If you want all the news all the time, read the Independent.

gram was nicely carried which were appointed for the interest took in their work and in helping to make the program a success.

SHERIFF'S SALE

STATE OF IOWA,
Wright County ss.
To P. J. Lieuwen, W. L. Kent and J. Lieuwen:

You are hereby notified that by virtue of a general execution, to me directed, and issued out of the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the State of Iowa, within and for Wright County, upon a judgement rendered in said Court in favor of First National Bank, Belmond, Iowa, and against P. J. Lieuwen, W. L. Kent, J. Lieuwen, for the sum of Sixteen Hundred Eight & 98|100 ($1608.98) Dollars debt, and Sixty-Two & 25|100 ($62.25) dollars costs, and attorney's fees, I have levied upon the following Real Estate, to-wit: The Northeast Quarter (1-4) of Section Thirty One (31) Township Ninety-Two (92), Range Twenty-Three (23), and the Forty Eight acres (48), in Southeast of Southeast of Section Thirty (30), Township Ninety Two (92), Range Twenty Three (23) West of the 5th P. M. Wright County, Iowa.

And that on the 14th day of June, 1921 at 10:00 o'clock a. m. at the front door of the Court House, in Clarion, Iowa, I will proceed to sell the same in satisfaction of said execution, together with all legal costs accruing.

Dated at the Sheriff's office in Clarion, on this 13th day of May,1921.

HENRY LANG
Sheriff Wright County, Iowa.
J. M. Jensen, Attorney. 2t

Wm. Voiles has been improving his residence property the past week by giving it a coat of paint, and in otherwise fixing it up.

Enjoy Your Porch

Porch Shades Porch Chairs Porch Swings

Wright County Furniture Co.

C. I. Williams, Manager

Day Phone 128 Night Phone 154 Belmond, Iowa

Make it Known that you believe in God and Righteousness by showing a positive and active interest in His Church and human welfare.

Methodist Episcopal Church

The Killian Store

Mason City's Shopping Center

Advance Information of Our

June Sale of Silks

Beginning Monday, June 6th

Below are a few of the prices---just an example of the lowered prices that will be in effect on hundreds of yards of Silks next week. And every yard sold will be of the same quality which has gained for this store the name of being the Silk Store of Northern Iowa.

Black Satin Messaline	$1.44 yd.
Fancy Messaline and Taffetta	.99 yd.
Crepe Mohair, 32 inch	1.29 yd.
Black and Navy Taffeta	1.44 yd.
All Silk Georgette, 40 in.	1.59 yd.
All Silk Tricollettes	1.88 yd.
All Silk Satins	1.99 yd.

MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED.

If you didn't get your Suit for Decoration Day--you'll want one before the 4th. Come and look over our line of

Embey Clothes

They're all wool, hand tailored and shown in a variety of styles and colors. The biggest values ever offered at

$22.50 $27.50 $32.00 and $37.00

Other well known makes at $12.50 $17.00 $19.50

SHOES! SHOES!

A big value in dark brown Russian Calf	$3.50
Other grades; $5.00, $5.50, $6.00 and	6.85
A combination last in brown calf skin or kid at	7.50
One lot of Men's black shoes, odd sides, $7.00 values to close out only	3.25
Men's outing shoes.	$3.25, $2.45 and $4.00
Men's Thorogood brand work shoes	$3.75. $4.35 and $3.75

Hats from $1.95 to $3.50

HARRY MARK

We handle no brokerage samples or auction lines, only high grade merchandise

17 South Federal
Mason City, Iowa
Across from 5 and 10c Store

Lowest Prices Our Chief Attraction on High Grade Merchandise

Northwest Iowa's Greatest Furniture Event

A Pre-Market Sale

Bringing prices on all high grade, dependable Furniture down to a level not known for several years. This entire mammoth stock---six big floors---more than one acre---all filled with marvelous bargains. An opportunity that you cannot afford to miss.

This Sale Positively Closes Saturday, June 4th

---and all Sale Prices will be withdrawn and regular prices restored. Your time is limited---act promptly for it means many dollars saved in procuring furnishings for your home.

Most Decisive, Genuine Price Cutting, Everything Goes

8 PIECE DINING ROOM SET $236.25
Handsome Walnut Set in Period Design. 60 inch buffet. 54 inch 6 foot round table, 6 blue leather covered, slip seat chairs, also a server. A wonderful value.

7 PIECE DINING ROOM SET $128.25
William and Mary Style in Walnut. 54 inch by 6 foot round table, 6 leather covered slip seat chairs. Originally sold at $185.00.

$58.00 OAK LIBRARY TABLE $39.75
A famous "Stickley" make with a 60 inch top, finished in waxed golden oak. A beauty.

3 PIECE PORCH FURNITURE SET $110.00
Handsomely finished in old ivory. Chair, rocker and settee. Made of heavy fibre and upholstered in imported cretonne. Regular $164.00 value.

12 ft. LINOLEUM, sq. yd. 98c
The well known "Blabon" Art Linoleums, famous for good patterns and long wearing qualities.

6 ft. LINOLEUMS sq. yd. 68c
"Feltex" Linoleums are most reliable and are now offered in a great variety of the better patterns.

GRASS RUGS PRINTED BORDERS
Extra Heavy, Good Values
$12.50 6x9 Rugs $ 7.95
18.50 8x10 Rugs 11.90
21.00 9x12 Rugs 12.75

3 PIECE PARLOR SUITE $198.50
Queen Anne style in luxurious upholstering. Embossed valour cushions, solid mahogany construction with cane panels. Regular $375.00 set. A beauty.

QUEEN ANNE DAVENPORT $79.00
Blue striped velour upholstered Davenport, an extra special, Queen Anne style, loose cushions; Sold at $147.00. A big bargain.

$50 SET DINING ROOM CHAIRS $33.75
Solid Oak, heavy and durable, golden oak finish, waxed, Box seat style, splendid value.

$45 SOLID OAK ROCKER $24.75
High back with leather covered cushion. Spring seat with leather covering. A real $45 value.

$55 BRUSSELS RUGS ONLY $32.75
Bigelow Hartfort Seamless Brussels Rugs. Well known and thoroughly reliable, size 9x12.

$95 SEAMLESS VELVET RUGS $59.50
Another Bigelow-Hartfort Rug that will please you in pattern and quality, size 9x12.

$49.50 TAPESTRY BRUSSELS RUGS $29.50
Choice of patterns in Alexander Smiths' Seamless Velvet Rugs. Some real beauties at about half price.

Delivery will be made to your home promptly. When impossible to deliver by truck, we will ship by freight, prepaid. Our regular guarantee goes with every sale and you are fully protected in every way. REMEMBER this is the last week of this great sale.

A. D. McQuilken
Fort Dodge, Iowa

SPECIAL LOCALS

For sale—60 gallon gasolene barrel with faucet.—T. D. Rankins

—I—

The W. F. M. S. of the Methodist church will meet this week Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. F. Luick.

—I—

A free pair of pants with every order for a new suit.—Belmond Tailor Shop. South of Hotel.

—I—

A number of delegates from this city who had planned on attending the meeting of the federated clubs of the county, held at the county seat recently, were forced to stay at home on account of the roads.

—I—

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson of Huxley were recent guests at the C. B. Johnson home here.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—Belmond Tailor Shop, Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

The Chain of Ten will meet on next week Monday at the home of Mrs. R. C. Morse.

—I—

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Will Rathburn and mother attended the Memorial exercises at Goodell on Monday.

—I—

Headquarters for Fishing Tackle and the American Kampkook Stove at Townsan Hardware.

Home made lard for sale.—Mrs. A. W. Martin.

—I—

Miss Maud Newgard, Miss Viva Rourk and Miss Ermalee Rowland were visitors at Mason City on Saturday.

—I—

Try our high test kerosene in your oil stove.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Friends here have received word of the birth of a daughter on May 24 to Dr. and Mrs. Barth at Garner. Mrs. Bath was fomerly Miss Gay Newgard of this city.

—I—

We are making as good chick feed as there is on the market. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tf

—I—

Four-room house for rent. One block north of oil station. Inquire of F. T. Meacham. 284c

—I—

For the Spring Frys—just arrived a new lot of panacea and louse killer at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Lost: Ford tire. Finder please leave at this office. Lost between Goodell and Belmond. 1t*

—I—

If you intend to buy a separator or threshing machine, I can sell you anything you need and at the right price.—Christ Rise. 25tfc

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Harris from Rowan spent Sunday at the home of relatives and friends here, driving up in their car.

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

Mrs. Renicker of Eagle Grove was a visitor with relatives and friends here on Tuesday of this week.

—I—

Our guarantee stands behind every sack of Peacock Flour. $2.45 a sack. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Peterson, who reside on Water street, are leaving on Saturday of this week for Lincoln, Nebraska, where they will make their future home.

—I—

A nice lot of Gingham Coverall Aprons. Price $2.50, at the Woman's Exchange.—Miss Mary Gealow.

—I—

Harry Wolcott came up from Des Moines to spend Memorial Day here with his father, N. M. Wolcott, who came last week.

—I—

Wm. Nuehring hauls gravel. For orders phone 2213. Those who owe for gravel pay at Belmond Lumber Co. 16tf

—I—

Miss Mildred Gealow, who is employed at the bank in Meservey, was the week end guest of relatives and friends here.

—I—

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

—I—

If any farmer wants a boy to plow corn, the Independent will be glad to use its best efforts to find one for him or to put him in touch with boys who desire to work on the farm. There is now a young man on the list who wishes such a job, and the Independent will be glad to put any farmer in touch with him. Call 115.

—I—

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

We now have the high test kerosene and gasoline for sale.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

NOTICE!

Parties that have been breaking into the cottage at Morse Lake, owned by Martin Hanson and Henry Anderson, are warned to stop, or these parties will be notified further.

—I—

FOR SALE CHEAP

As I am moving away, I will sell the following household goods at my house on Water street, just south of the Wolle residence, at private sale:

—I—

3-burner oil stove with over; 1 kitchen range; 1 sideboard, oak; 1 dresser, oak; 1 soft coal heater; 1 kitchen table; 1 clothes wringer; 1 iron bed; 1 sanitary cot, 2 tiling spades, some fruit jars, and several other items including about 75 chickens, old hens and spring chickens. This property must be sold before Saturday.—Mrs. J. P. Peterson.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dempsey are the happy parents of a fine baby son, of 11 1-2 pounds weight, who arrived at their home on Monday of this week.

—I—

Henry Johnson returned last week Friday from Crystal Springs, North Dakota, where he has been the past month or two at the home of his son assisting with the farm work. He reports the crops there as being fine and a good yield in sight. Mr. Johnson says that we have not had any where near the rain that they have had in Minnesota, where he reports seeing fields that were almost covered with water, water standing over the roads and tracks in places. He says that many fields will have to be replanted as the seed has been washed away by the heavy rains.

—I—

Guess! How many Red Seal Hair Nets displayed in our window? Person guessing nearest will receive a Green Gold plated mesh bag. Second nearest receives very stylish Green Gold plated Vanity Box. Guess every time you make a purchase. Contest closes June 11.

SCHULTZ DRUG CO.

—I—

V. K. Mikesell and wife have been entertaining Mr. Mikesell's father and mother from Lawrence, Kansas, the past week. The old people drove to Belmond in their car.

The D. S. S. club wishes to thank all who loaned furniture and material for the operetta, also those who took part in the same, and the American Legion boys for their assistance.

—I—

Joie Jenison, who has been visiting relatives here the past week or so, has returned to his home at Sanborn. He was accompanied home by Mrs. C. A. Schmalle who will remain there for a few days visit.

—I—

Mildred House and Esther Kiplinger were visitors the past week at the county seat and at Holms with friends.

—I—

Mrs. Herman Schultz entertained some 25 ladies recently in honor of Mrs Howard Moore, at her residence on north Filbert. A two-course delicous luncheon was served, and the guests report a very pleasant time.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL!

Given by the Luther League of St. John's Lutheran church, on the church lawn, Saturday evening, June 4th.

Miss Marie Jenison is spending a few days at Albia, Iowa, visiting at the home of relatives and friends at that place.

—I—

The operetta given by the grades of the school last week Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Community Welfare Club, was held in the school auditorium instead of in the park, as had been originally planned. The change was made on account of the wet weather. A fair sized crowd attended, the opinions all being very favorable.

—I—

Harry Heuerman and wife came down from Fairibault, Minnesota, to spend he week end at the home of his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. John Heuerman, and to greet his old friends. He is looking fine and says that his business is picking up. He is employed at a railroad depot in Fairibault, and was formerly a resident of Belmond.

—I—

Fred Leinbach came up from Ames to spend the week nd at the home of his parests, Rev. and Mrs. S. U. Leinbach.

—I—

Wilma Foughty of Alexander was a recent visitor at the home of her aunt, Mrs. I. H. Benson.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Voiles returned Wednesday from Des Moines, where Mrs. Voiles underwent an operation on her eye by an eye specialist at that place. She is improving nicely bu may have to return to Des Moines in a couple of weeks.

—I—

For Sale—Two sows and pigs, one sow registered Duroc. Inquire at this office. 28tfc

—I—

The Misses Virginia Hunt and Ermalee Rowland were week end visitors at Fort Dodge with friends at that place.

—I—

The Misses Jane and Marian Pech have returned from Algona, where they spent a few days visiting at the home of friends and relatives.

—I—

Mrs. Schanck and daughter Elizabeth were callers at Klemme one day recently.

—I—

T. O. Tomson has been on the sick lis the past week or two, being a sufferer from a liver complaint with which he has been bothere for some time. He is getting somewhat better however, and is able to be out and around again.

Take Home
A Pie

We have them---good juicy, satisfying ones and cakes, cookies, bread and pastries of all kinds.

They Satisfy
Try Them

Belmond Bakery
P. Barban, Prop.

Special Bargains for One Week Only

49 lb. Sack Blain Certified Flour $2.75
One can each of Delmonte Apricots, Pine Apple and Plum for 1.00
3 pkg. of 10c corn flakes for 25c

Call and see our bargain counter of remnants in voiles and other goods.

Our low prices in groceries are moving them fast.

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30
We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

STRENGTH SERVICE

L Liberty Bell Bank filled with change proclaims as much independence as did the ringing of its original by our forefathers. We have one for you.

Save for a Purpose

Save for a home, your insurance, a trip on your vacation, or a protection in times of sickness.

It is a common practice of many of our patrons to maintain individual accounts for such purposes---to provide sufficiently to meet payments or needs when necessary. Think it over, you need this service---everyone does. Come in and start an account today; $1.00 will do it

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

White Shoes

The White Oxfords, Pumps and Strap Slippers are daintier and smarter than ever before.

The plain white for dress wear or the new sport models for street or semi-dress are all the rage.

These Shoes may be had in white canvas, reignskin, buck or kid. Some of them plain white, others trimmed with dull black kid or brown calf leather.

All indications point to the biggest white season in the history of the shoe business and we would suggest that you make an early selection while our stock is still complete as these models will be hard to get later on.

$3.50 to $12.50

Woodruff Shoe Co.

115 North Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa

Far and Near Sight

IN ONE PAIR OF GLASSES

Modern Bifocal Glasses show no cemented segments; the lower, reading part of the lenses, are invisible. They are especially adapted to the requirements of middle aged and elderly people.

Let us Show Them to You

F. A. BRAS, Optometrist
with
L. A. Cederquist, Jeweler
Ft. Dodge, Iowa

- WILL BE AT -
H. SCHULTZ, Jewelry
June 8th, 1921

This will be my last visit until
July 6th, 1921

Dance Program
AT Lake Cornelia

Tuesday Evening, June 7th
Friday Evening, June 10th

A Six Piece Orchestra furnishes the music for both evenings

E. G. Miller, who has been running the welding shop, has opened an auto repair shop in connection, and has secured a mechanic to take charge of the repair shop. Miller will continue to do welding.

Lyric

THURSDAY, JUNE 2
"NUMBER 17"
A Fox picture featuring
GEO. WALSH

An intense and absorbing drama of love, intrigue and mystery.

Also a two-reel LARRY SEMAN comedy.
11c and 25c

FRIDAY, JUNE 3
"HIS GREATEST SACRIFICE"
A Fox picture featuring
WM. FARNUM

This is an intensely interesting story of the lives of a husband and wife, one hoping to become a great writer and bring luxury to his beloved wife and child, the other sacrficing h me, husband and child, to become a prima donna. Who, do you suppose, achieves real happiness in the end?

Also a one-reel comedy.
11c and 30c

SATURDAY, JUNE 4
"THE MISFIT WIFE"
A Metro picture featuring
ALICE LAKE

A story of one of the most powerful dramatic situations ever devised. She did not belong among Refined people, They sneered and they even doubted her virtue until, in the crisis of another woman's life she proved to be a thoroughbred.

Also a two-reel Educational comedy.
11c and 25c

MONDAY and TUESDAY
PUNE 6 & 7
"HUMORESQUE"
A Paramount-Artcraft picture featuring
ALMA RUBENS

Fannie Hurst's beutiful story of a boy's genius and a mother's love. Beginning in the clamor of New York's Ghetto, and rising to the heights. A story that cries to hide its laughter and laughs to hide its tears.

SPECIAL MUSIC
15c and 35c

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

NORWAY PICNIC IS GREAT SUCCESS

In spite of the rain and muddy roads nearly 400 Norway township farmers turned out to the picnic which was held at the Lucas farm one-half mile east of the Center school. This picnic had been planned for months and judging from the attendance it seems that the farmers were determined to get together for a social good time even tho the weather conditions seemed very unfavorable. This picnic was planned and put over by the program committee of which Mrs. L. E. Evans was chairman. The committee should be congratulated upon the interesting program which they arranged and above all the orderly manner in which the program went off. Everyone seemed pleased with the arrangement of events and the way in which the entire program was conducted.

The first part of the program consisted of two numbers by each of the schools in the township. A number of musical selections, recitations and dialogues were given by the pupils of the township. Short talks were given by Miss Kate Liddle, county health nurse, and by Miss Blanche Bock, county superintendent. The school program closed with the presentation of diplomas by the county superintendent.

The school program was followed by the picnic dinner which was served cafeteria style. The unusual feature of the picnic dinner was the fact that sweet milk was served free to all. We are wondering if Miss Imlay's campaign had anything to do with the serving of milk at this community gathering.

After the sumptuous picnic dinner everyone enjoyed the athletic program which consisted of boys' and girls' foot races, sack race, ladies' potatoe race, three-legged race, fat men's race and many other athletic events which furnished amusement for the picnicers.

I. W. Van Nice, assistant county agent leader, the principal speaker of the day, and County Agent Edwards, arrived just as the athletic program was completed and both looked as tho they had enjoyed a mud bath along the road somewhere, but at any rate they reached the meeting in time to fill their part of the program. The county agent gave a short talk on farm bureau work which was followed by Mr. Van Nice's most interesting address. Mr. Van Nice spent considerable time in enumerating the great problems which are confronting the farm bureau organization at the present time and urged upon the farmers the closest co-operation in their township unit so as to furnish the right kind of support to the county farm bureau and in turn to the state and national farm bureau federations.

The feature of the whole day's program was the ball game between Boone Valley and Norway township, which followed the address of Mr. Van Nice. Judging from the brand of base ball exhibited by both these teams and by the enthusiasm which was manifested at this game Wright county has plenty of base ball material and a lot of base ball fans in the northwest section of the county. Boone Valley team won the $10 prize and Norway township team the $5 prize. The final score showed 14 to 11 in favor of Boone Valley. Lake township boys say that Boone Valley will meet their Waterloo June 9 when they will cross bats with the Lake township boys.

FRIENDLY VISITS IMPOSSIBLE

Complaints have come indirectly to the office from farm bureau members, who say that the county agent has not visited their farms. It seems that these particular farmers expect the county agent to make individual calls just for a friendly chat with no particluar purpose in mind.

We must all realize that the farm bureau has grown to such a size that it is almost impossible for the agent to give individual service. The county agent does not attempt to call on each individual member because it would be useless to attempt this sort of a campaign and expect to accomplish the larger things of the farm bureau.

The farm bureau has become such a large organization that the work must be done in group meetings and the aim is not to give individual service but rather to give community service. Those who would know what the farm bureau is doing and what your neighbor is doing are urged to attend the community or township meetings.

POOL WOOL EARLY

Plans are being made by the farm bureau for pooling the wool early this year. All wool growers and shippers are being asked to sign a pooling contract beginning this year. The pooling of grain and other products has been highly recommended by those who have made a thoro study of the marketing system and the pooling of wool should give good results also.

The National Wool Warehouse and Storage Co., has experienced considerable difficulty in selling the 1920 crop and are being criticised quite severely by some of the wool growers. Those who would criticise from this standpoint must realize that there must be a demand for different products before they can be sold on the world market.

The same general plan as was followed last year in shipping the wool will be used this year in pooling the wool for shipment, except that the shipment will be made during the early summer, probably in July.

COUNTY LEADER VISITS WRIGHT

I. W. Van Nice, assistant county agent leader for Iowa, was in Clarion, Wednesday, May 25, to fill two important missions. His visit to Wright county was for the purpose of checking the financial records of our local farm bureau and to give an address at the Norway township farm bureau picnic. Mr. Van Nice found the finances of the farm bureau in good shape and succeeded in meeting his appointment at the Norway township picnic consequently he left Clarion feeling that he had filled both his missions successfully.

Geo. A. Miller, treasurer of the Wright county farm bureau, spent all day May 25 in checking over the financial records with the county agent and Mr. Van Nice. The financial records of the farm bureau were found to be in first class condition, altho a number of members dues have not been collected for 1921.

FARMER-BANKER MEET AT DES MOINES

President James R. Howard of the National Farm Bureau Federation will be the principal speaker at a farmer-banker round table at Des Moines for Tuesday, June 7th. This conference will be very similar to the one which was held at Fort Dodge last year. Those who attended the farmer-banker conference last year remember that a good deal of good came from this meeting of farmers and bankers to thresh out their problems together.

Surely if the bankers and farmers are both to succeed they must understand one anthers' problems; they must realize that one is dependent upon the other and that they will rise and fall together. They must co-operate with one another in every possible way in order that both may be carried successfully thru the 1921 season when prices seem to be so low and money seems to be in such great demand.

All farm bureau officers, co-operators and members are earnestly urged to attend this farmer-banker conference which will be held at the Berchel theatre beginning at 9:00 a. m., Tuesday, June 7.

President Hunt and Secretary Cunningham of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation will also be on the program.

START CULLING EARLY

The culling of farm flock should start right after the young chicks are hatched, says H. A. Bittenbender in charge of poultry work at Iowa State College. At this time all crippled chicks, those suffering from disease and the weak ones should either be killed or separated from the rest of the flock. It is better to kill a few of the poorest chicks than to take a chance of losing all by allowing the defectives to run with the healthy ones. Weak chicks invariably contract disease and will soon spread this to healthier ones.

After the chicks reach the broiler stage, again pick out those which show signs of backwardness and fatten them at once. Also pick out those which are defective in the breed type or are small. These will bring a greater price at that time than any other since they soon reach the stage where they consume more feed than they are worth.

But this season it will start earlier due to the early laying season and the early molts. Many of them the hens will be worth more when sold at this time than later and they will lay fewer eggs during the summer than any other time. It is a good plan when hens begin to molt to pick out those which are old and have not proven that they are good layers and market them. This also gives room for the younger stock which is coming into the flock and saves on the feed bill.

HERE'S HOW TO CATCH RATS

Use the automobile to attack them is the latest manner. If you are out to catch all the rats on your farm and want a simple method, try the "gas attack" say extension experts at Iowa State College. Back the automobile up near where rat holes are found, hitch a piece of hose onto the exhaust pipe, start the engine to running and force the poisonous gas from the burned fuel into the rat burrows. This gas either kills the rats or dazes them as they try to escape so that they can be easily killed.

Strychnine sulphate or barium carbonate are good poisons to put out for rats, but this often allows the rats to die under buildings where their bodies are hard to get at. To use poison make a dough of four parts of flour or oatmeal to one part of barium carbonate and place in the rat runs where they can get it. Where strychnine is used place a few of the crystals in some meat and place where only rats can get it. Guard against other animals picking up the poisoned bait.

Ferrets and dogs are useful in campaigns since the ferrets can drive the rats out and the dogs do the killing. Cats are not considered efficient rat catchers.

After ridding a farm of rats it is a good plan to build concrete foundations so that the pests cannot get under barns. Screens over windows and around drain pipes will prevent their re-entry into buildings. Keep rats hungry by not leaving garbage cans open or leaving unburned rubbish around. Hungry rats do not stay long.

Rats multiply rapidly so that one pair will produce six or ten litters per year consisting of ten rats per litter, so that in three years one pair will produce in 18 generations about 360 millions of rats, barring death and interruptions.

Rats not only destroy grain, poultry, eat holes in buildings and household property, but they carry diseases which cause many deaths in humans. Among these are bubonic plague and trichina and they have recently been suspected of carrying infantile paralysis germs.

SLACKER HENS MUST GO

The Wright County Farm Bureau is planning to held a poultry culling demonstration in each school district or each four square miles of territory in the entire county. This will make a total of 144 demonstrations in the county which will mean that the county agent will be a very busy man during the culling season.

It will be impossible to cull every flock in the entire county but it is thought that by holding one demonstration in each school district it will be possible for every person interested in the culling work to see the work done and apply the methods to their own flock. The points in culling are simple and can be learned in 30 minutes by any interested person.

The culling will begin some time time during the middle of July and will probably continue thruout the month of August. The plan is to hold the demonstration as near the center as possible in each school district so as to give everyone who is interested an opportunity to attend and get the points in culling. The schedule for holding the culling demonstration will be printed in the July number of the exchange.

STEMMING THE TIDE

A farmer is said to have replied to the question whether he would not like to live in the city: "Yes, if they would move it out in the country." In the light of recent developements in country life, this answer is by no means absurb. The city is moving out into the country, not only in the obvious ways by which the crudity and isolation of farm life are being lessened; by improved roads, free mail deliveries, automobiles, sanitary plumbing, electric lighting, and labor saving machinery, but in less tangible ways as well. Easy transportation and increased wealth and leisure are making possible a more varied and significant social life, and in not a few neighborhoods are fostering community activities that have genuine intellectual and cultural value.

The same causes are revolutionizing rural education. The little red schoolhouse is disappearing. In the state of Iowa, before 1912 but seventeen consolidated schools had been organized. In the nine subsequent years more than four hundred such schools came into existance, two hundred of them in 1920.

Large scale methods of doing business are invading the trural districts. There are between 15,000 and 20,000 co-operative societies in the United States, organized by farmers to warehouse grain, to sell farm products, to manufacture butter and cheese, and to sell food products. The farmers own hundreds of telephone lines, elevators, packing plants and wholesale and retail stores.

The farmer is emerging in politics. His vote can no longer be captured by playing upon local and traditional prejudices. He is demanding and is beginning to receive immediate representation of his interests in the councils of the nation. Farmers are organizing in local and national group to further this end.

If "God made the country and man made the town," man is very seriously meddling with God's part of the job. What is taking place before our eyes in these and many other directions is nohing short of a revolution in the lives of the majority of our population. It does not seem impossible that a few years of further progress will automatically turn the tide of the rush to the cities which social reformers deplore. Certainly the economic and scientific forces which are working toward the improvement of the conditions of farm life are doing vastly more to stem the tide than the exhortions of the back to the farm advocates.—The Grinnell Review.

BREEDER SEE BETTER FUTURE AHEAD

The live stock industry of Iowa and of the middle west has hit the bottom and is already on he upgrade.

This is he concensus of opinionot

This is the concensus of ideas expressed by leaders in livestock industry of the state at the livestock conference held at Iowa Sstate College last Saturday. More than 200 breeders and farmers attended and many of them took part in the discussions.

When C. F. Curtis, dean of the division of agriculture, said in the first talk of the day that the livestock situation is not as bad as many people think, he expressed the convcition that was repeated many times during the day.

"I believe that we are coming out of the present situation slowly but surely," said Dean Curtiss. "If conditions get back to normal it is my prediction that there will be a shortage of food products within the next eighteen months. Demand will more than catch up with the supply.

Dean Curtiss pointed to the probability of definite settlement with Germany and to the announcement of the federal labor board that the wages of rail workers are to be reduced, as signs of better times for the farmer and breeder. He pointed out that reductions in wages paid rail workers will undoubtedly lead to reduced rates. Reduced acreage of crops this year will go far, Dean Curtiss believes, towards reducing the present surplus of foodstuffs. The Agricultural output this year will not exceed four-fifths of the output of 1920, he said.

"There neverwas a time," asserted Curtiss, " when it was more important that good sires and good herds be maintained and improved in order that fam effeciency be raised."

"The pure bred livestock breeder has hit the ground and must start again with 'value received' as his motto," declared E. H. Cunningham, secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation. Mr. Cunningham pointed out some of the abuses of the livestock business which he believes have contributed to the present conditions. He charged that pure bred prices have in many cases gone higher than was economical in he case of of sires for grade herds. Much of the inflation in the pure bred business he believes is due to unscrupulous practices which, in few cases, have crept into the business.

L. A. Andrews, president of the Iowa Bankers' Association, urged close cooperaton between the bankers of the state and the breeders in financing the marketing of products at a legitimate profit. Iowa is already reducing its debt, declared Mr. Andrews. He asserted that it will be two or three years, however, before Iowa will be even with the world. Iowa's loans from the federal reserve system totalled, said Mr. Andrews, $98,000,000 at the point of highest debt. At present this borrowing has been reduced to $76,000,000.

Much of the material of these talks was incorporated in the report of the reccommendations committee which was unanimously adopted. These recommendations call for a more extensive developement by breeders of the local farm market for pure bred cattle. They unequivoqcally condemn "all sharp practices," and urge that breeders, auctioneers and advertisers work together "to blacklist any person who is a party to such a practice."

The grove south of town has been the Mecca of many local people the past few Sundays. The woods are unusually thick with flowers this year, due to the heavy and frequent rains and is a very pretty place.

Save Your Trees

Were your fruit trees hit by the frost? If so, what should you do with them? You will know if you read next week's issue of

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

The frost this spring cut a wide swath clean across the country and nipped in the bud a startling proportion of our prospective fruit harvest for the year—it is estimated that as much as 30% of the apple crop is lost.

In next week's issue, Benjamin Wallace Douglas tells what he plans to do with his frozen trees. His story shows how the fore-handed farmer can prepare now to make up this year's losses with a bumper yield next year. It shows, too, how the indifferent orchardist may lose not only this season's crop, but perhaps his trees as well.

In the following issue E. V. Wilcox pictures another aspect of the situation in a snappy article, Where the Great Freeze Hit. And just as THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN serves the fruit grower, so it keeps every farmer in touch with all the national news of his business. For a whole year—52 issues—this service costs but $1.00.

If you're a farmer, you need it.

R. A. RANKINS,

Phone 115 or 196 Belmond, Iowa

An authorized subscription representative of

The Country Gentleman 52 issues—$1.00 The Ladies' Home Journal 12 issues—$2.00 The Saturday Evening Post 52 issues—$2.50

Does Adverting Pay?

Ask the Merchants Who Advertise

Womans' Exchange

Second House East of Klemme Office

Bring in Your Needle Work.

Rates will be 20 per cent

A Nice Lot of

GINGHAM COVER-ALL APRONS

At

$2.50

Orders for Home Baking Taken any Day in the Week.

Miss Mary Gealow

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

by IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

CHAPTER I.

Which Describes the Journey of Samson Henry Traylor and His Wife and Their Two Children and Their Dog Sambo Through the Adirondack Wilderness in 1831 on Their Way to the Land of Plenty—Furthermore It Describes the Soaping of the Brimsteads.

In the early summer of 1831 Samson Traylor and his wife, Sarah, and two children left their old home near the village of Vergennes, Vermont, and began their travels toward the setting sun with four chairs, a bread board and rolling-pin, a feather bed and blankets, a small looking-glass, a skillet, an ax, a pack basket with a pad of sole leather on the same, a water pail, a box of dishes, a tub of salt pork, a rifle, a teapot, a sack of meal, sundry small provisions and a violin, in a double wagon drawn by oxen. It is a pleasure to note that they had a violin and were not disposed to part with it. The reader must not overlook its full historic significance. The stern, uncompromising spirit of the Puritan had left the house of the Yankee before a violin could enter it. Humor and the love of play had preceded and cleared a way for it. Where there was a fiddle there were cheerful hearts. A young black shepherd dog with tawny points and the name of Sambo followed the wagon.

If we had been at the Congregational church on Sunday we might have heard the minister saying to Samson, after the service, that it was hard to understand why the happiest family in the parish and the most beloved should be leaving its ancestral home to go to a far, new country of which little was known. We might also have heard Samson answer:

"It's awful easy to be happy here. We slide along in the same old groove, that our fathers traveled, from Vergennes to Paradise. We work and play and go to meetin' and put a shin plaster in the box and grow old and narrow and stingy and mean and go up to glory and are turned into saints and angels. Maybe that's the best thing that could happen to us, but Sarah and I kind o' thought we'd try a new starting place and another route to heaven."

Sarah and Sampson had been raised on adjoining farms just out of the village. He had had little schooling, but his mind was active and well inclined. Sarah had prosperous relatives in Boston and had had the advantage of a year's schooling in that city. She was a comely girl of a taste and refinement unusual in the place and time of her birth. Many well-favored youths had sought her hand, but, better than others, she liked the big, masterful, good-natured, humorous Samson, crude as he was. Naturally in her hands his timber had undergone some planing and smoothing and his thoughts had been gently led into new and pleasant ways.

Let us take a look at them as they slowly leave the village of their birth. The wagon is covered with tent cloth drawn over hickory arches. They are sitting on a seat overlooking the oxen in the wagon front. Tears are streaming down the face of the woman. The man's head is bent. His elbows are resting on his knees; the hickory handle of his ox whip lies across his lap, the lash at his feet. He seems to be looking down at his boots, into the tops of which his trousers have been folded. He is a rugged, blond, bearded man with kindly blue eyes and a rather prominent nose. There is a striking expression of power in the head and shoulders of Samson Traylor. The breadth of his back, the size of his wrists and hands, the color of his face betoken a man of great strength. This thoughtful, sorrowful attitude is the only evidence of emotion which he betrays. In a few minutes he begins to whistle a lively tune.

The boy Josiah—familiarly called Joe—sits beside his mother. He is a slender, sweet-faced lad. He is looking up wistfully at his mother. The little girl Betsey sits between him and her father.

That evening they stopped at the house of an old friend some miles up the rusty road to the north.

"Here we are—goin' west," Samson shouted to the man at the door-step.

He alighted and helped his family out of the wagon.

"You go right in—I'll take care o' the oxen," said the man.

Samson started for the house with the girl under one arm and the boy under the other. A pleasant-faced woman greeted them with a hearty welcome at the door.

"You poor man! Come right in," she said.

"Poor! I'm the richest man in the world," said he. "Look at the gold on that girl's head—curly, fine gold, too—the best there is. She's Betsey—my little toy woman—half past seven years old—blue eyes—helps her mother get tired every day. Here's my toy man Josiah—yes, brown hair and brown eyes like Sarah—heart o' gold—helps his mother, too—six times one year old."

"What pretty faces!" said the woman as she stooped and kissed them.

"Yes, ma'am. Got 'em from the fairies," Samson went on. "They have all kinds o' heads for little folks, an' I guess they color 'em up with the blood o' roses an' the gold o' buttercups an' the blue o' violets. Here's this wife o' mine. She's richer'n I am. She owns all of us. We're her slaves."

"Looks as young as she did the day she was married—nine years ago," said the woman.

"Exactly!" Samson exclaimed. "Straight as an arrow and proud! I don't blame her. She's got enough to make her proud, I say. I fall in love again every time I look into her big, brown eyes."

They had a joyous evening and a restful night with these old friends and resumed their journey soon after daylight. They ferried across the lake at Burlington and fared away over the mountains and through the deep forest on the Chateaugay trail.

Since the Pilgrims landed between the measureless waters and the pathless wilderness they and their descendants had been surrounded by the lure of mystery. The love of adventure, the desire to explore the dark, infested and beautiful forest, the dream of fruitful sunny lands cut with water courses, shored with silver and strewn with gold beyond it—these were the only heritage of their sons and daughters save the strength and courage of the pioneer. How true was this dream of theirs gathering detail and allurement as it passed from sire to son. On distant plains to the west were lands more lovely and fruitful than any of their vision; in mountains far beyond was gold enough to gild the dome of the heavens, as the sun was wont to do at eventide, and silver enough to put a fairly respectable moon in it. Yet for generations their eyes were not to see, their hands were not to touch, these things. They were only to push their frontier a little farther to the west and hold the dream and pass it on to their children.

Those early years of the Nineteenth century held the first days of fulfillment. Samson and Sarah Traylor had the old dream in their hearts when they first turned their faces to the west. For years Sarah had resisted it, thinking of the hardships and perils in the way of the mover. Samson, a man of twenty-nine when he set out from his old home, was said to be "always chasing the bird in the bush." He was never content with the thing in hand. There were certain of their friends who promised to come and join them when, at last, they should have found the land of plenty. But most of the group that bade them good-by thought it a foolish enterprise and spoke lightly of Samson when they were gone. America has undervalued the brave souls who went west in wagons, without whose sublime courage and endurance the plains would still be an unplowed wilderness. Often we hear them set down as seedy, shiftless dreamers who could not make a living at home. They were mostly the best blood of the world and the noblest of God's missionaries. Who does not honor them above the thrifty, comfort-loving men and women who preferred to stay at home, where risks were few, the supply of food sure and sufficient and the consolations of friendship and religion always at hand? Samson and Sarah preferred to enlist and take their places in the front battle line of Civilization.

They had read a little book called The Country of the Sangamon. The latter was a word of the Pottawatomies meaning land of plenty. It was the name of a river in Illinois draining "boundless, flowery meadows of unexampled beauty and fertility, belted with timber, blessed with shady groves, covered with game and mostly level, without a stick or a stone to vex the plowman." Thither they were bound, to take up a section of government land.

They stopped for a visit with Elisha Howard and his wife, old friends of theirs, who lived in the village of Malone, which was in Franklin county, New York. There they traded their oxen for a team of horses. They were large gray horses named Pete and Colonel. The latter was fat and good-natured. His chief interest in life was food. Pete was always looking for food and perils. Colonel was the near horse. Now and then Samson threw a sheepskin over his back and put the boy on it and tramped along within arm's reach of Joe's left leg. This was a great delight to the little lad.

They proceeded at a better pace to the Black River country, toward which, in the village of Canton, they tarried again for a visit with Captain Moody and Silas Wright, both of whom had taught school in the town of Vergennes.

They proceeded through DeKalb, Richville and Gouverneur and Antwerp and on to the Sand plains. They had gone far out of their way for a look at these old friends of theirs.

Samson's diary tells how, at the top of the long, steep hills he used to cut a small tree by the roadside and tie its butt to the rear axle and hang on to its branches while his wife drove the team. This held their load, making an effective brake.

Traveling through the forest, as they had been doing for weeks, while the day waned, they looked for a brookside on which they could pass the night with water handy. Samson tethered, fed and watered their horses and while Sarah and the children built a fire and made tea and biscuits, he was getting bait and catching fish in the stream.

Tramped Along Within Arm's Reach.

"In a few minutes from the time I wet my hook a mess of trout would be dressed and sizzling, with a piece of salt pork, in the pan, or it was a bad day for fishing," he writes.

After supper the wagon was partly unloaded, the feather bed laid upon the planks under the wagon roof and spread with blankets. Then Samson sang songs and told stories or played upon the violin to amuse the family.

Often if the others were weary and depressed he would dance merrily around the fire, playing a lively tune, with Sambo glad to lend a helping foot and much noise to the program. By and by the violin was put away and all knelt by the fire while Sarah prayed aloud for protection through the night. So it will be seen that they carried with them their own little theater, church and hotel.

Soon after darkness fell, Sarah and the children lay down for the night, while Samson stretched out with his blanket by the fire in good weather, the loaded musket and the dog Sambo lying beside him. Often the howling of wolves in the distant forest kept them awake, and the dog muttering and barking for hours.

Samson woke the camp at daylight and a merry song was his reveille while he led the horses to their drink.

When they set out in the morning Samson was wont to say to the little lad, who generally sat beside him: "Well, my boy, what's the good word this morning?" Whereupon Joe would say, parrot like:

"God help us all and make His face to shine upon us."

"Well said!" his father would answer, and so the day's journey began.

Often, near its end, they came to some lonely farmhouse. Always Samson would stop and go to the door to ask about the roads, followed by little Joe and Betsey with secret hopes. One of these hopes was related to cookies and maple sugar and buttered bread and had been cherished since an hour of good fortune early in the trip and encouraged by sundry good-hearted women along the road. Another was the hope of seeing a baby—mainly, it should be said, the hope of Betsey. Joe's interest was merely an echo of hers. He regarded babies with an open mind, as it were, for the opinions of his sister still had some weight with him, she being a year and a half older than he, but babies invariably disappointed him, their capabilities being so restricted. Still, not knowing what might happen, he always took a look at every baby.

The children were lifted out of the wagon to stretch their legs at sloughs and houses. They were sure to be close behind the legs of their father when he stood at a stranger's door. Then, the night being near, they were always invited to put their horses in the barn and tarry until next morning. This was due in part to the wistful faces of the little children—a fact unsuspected by their parents. What motherly heart could resist the silent appeal of children's faces or fail to understand it? Those were memorable nights for Sarah and Joe and Betsey. In a letter to her brother the woman said:

"You don't know how good it seems to see a woman and talk to her, and we talked and talked until midnight after all the rest were asleep. She let me hold the baby in my lap until it was put to bed. How good it felt to have a little warm body in my arms again and feel it breathing! In all my life I never saw a prettier baby. It felt good to be in a real house and sleep in a soft, warm bed and to eat jelly and cookies and fresh meat and potatoes and bread and butter. Samson played for them and kept them laughing with his stories until bedtime. They wouldn't take a cent and gave us a dozen eggs in a basket and a piece of venison when we went away."

On a warm, bright day in the sand country they came to a crude, half finished, frame house at the edge of a wide clearing. The sand lay in drifts on one side of the road. It had evidently moved in the last wind. A sickly vegetation covered the field. A ragged, barefooted man and three scrawny, ill-clad children stood in the dooryard. It was noontime. A mongrel dog, with a bit of the hound in him, came bounding and barking toward the wagon and pitched upon Sambo and quickly got the worst of it. Sambo, after much experience in self-defense, had learned that the best way out of such trouble was to seize a leg and hang on. This he did. The mongrel began to yelp. Samson lifted both dogs by the backs of their necks, broke the hold of Sambo and tossed aside the mongrel, who ran away whining.

"That reminded me of a bull that tackled a man over in Vermont," he said. "The man had a club in his hand. He dodged and grabbed the bull's tail and beat him all over the lot. As the bull roared, the man hollered: 'I'd like to know who began this fuss anyway.'"

The stranger laughed.

"Is that your house?" Samson said.

The man stepped nearer and answered in a low, confidential tone:

"Say, mister, this is a combination poorhouse and idiot asylum. I am the idiot. These are the poor."

He pointed to the children.

"You don't talk like an idiot," said Samson.

The man looked around and leaned over the wheel as if about to impart a secret.

"Say, I'll tell ye," he said in a low tone. "A real, first-class idiot never does. You ought to see my actions."

"This land is an indication that you're right," Samson laughed.

"It proves it," the stranger whispered.

"Have you any water here?" Samson asked.

The stranger leaned nearer and said in his most confidential tone, "Say, mister, it's about the best in the United States. Right over yonder in the edge o' the woods—a spring—cold as ice—Simon-pure water. 'Bout the only thing this land'll raise is water."

"This land looks to me about as valuable as so much sheet lightnin' and I guess it can move just about as quick," said Samson.

The stranger answered in a low tone: "Say, I'll tell ye, it's a wild cow—don't stand still long 'nough to give ye time to git anything out of it. I've toiled and prayed, but it's hard to get much out of it."

"Praying won't do this land any good," Samson answered. "What it needs is manure and plenty of it. You can't raise anything here but fleas. It isn't decent to expect God to help run a flea farm. He knows too much for that, and if you keep it up He'll lose all respect for ye. If you were to buy another farm and bring it here and put it down on top o' this one, you could probably make a living. I wouldn't like to live where the wind could dig my potatoes."

"Elijah Brimstead Was a Friend o' My Father."

Again the stranger leaned toward Samson and said in a half-whisper: "Say, mister, I wouldn't want you to mention it, but talkin' o' fleas, I'm like a dog with so many of 'em that he don't have time to eat. Somebody has got to soap him or he'll die. You see, I traded my farm over in Vermont for five hundred acres o' this sheet lightnin', unsighted an' unseen. We was all crazy to go west an' here we are. If it wasn't for the deer an' the fish I guess we'd 'a' starved to death long ago."

"Where did ye come from?"

"Orwell, Vermont."

"What's yer name?"

"Henry Brimstead," the stranger whispered.

"Son of Elijah Brimstead?"

"Yes, sir."

Samson took his hand and shook it warmly. "Well, I declare!" he exclaimed. "Elijah Brimstead was a friend o' my father."

"Who are you?" Brimstead asked.

"I'm one o' the Traylors o' Vergennes."

"My father used to buy cattle of Henry Traylor."

"Henry was my father. Haven't you let 'em know about your bad luck?"

The man resumed his tone of confidence. "Say, I'll tell ye," he answered. "A man that's as big a fool as I am ought not to advertise it. A brain that has treated its owner as shameful as mine has treated me should be compelled to do its own thinkin' er die. I've invented some things that may sell. I've been hopin' my luck would turn."

"It'll turn when you turn it," Samson assured him.

Brimstead leaned close to Samson's ear and said in a tone scarcely audible:

"My brother Robert has his own idiot asylum. It's a real handsome one an' he has made it pay, but I wouldn't swap with him."

Samson smiled, remembering that Robert had a liquor store. "Look here, Henry Brimstead, we're hungry," he said. "If ye furnish the water, we'll skirmish around for bread and give ye as good a dinner as ye ever had in yer life."

Henry took the horses to his barn and watered and fed them. Then he brought two pails of water from the spring. Meanwhile Samson started a fire in a grove of small poplars by the roadside and began broiling venison, and Sarah got out the bread board and the flour and the rolling-pin and the teapot. As she waited for the water she called the three strange children to her side. The oldest was a girl of ten, with a face uncommonly refined and attractive. In spite of her threadbare clothes, she had a neat and cleanly look and gentle manners. The youngest was a boy of four. They were a pathetic trio.

"Where's your mother?" Sarah asked of the ten-year-old girl.

"Dead. Died when my little brother was born."

"Who takes care of you?"

"Father and—God. Father says God does most of it."

"Oh dear!" Sarah exclaimed, with a look of pity.

They had a good dinner of fresh biscuits and honey and venison and eggs and tea. While they were eating Samson told Brimstead of the land of plenty.

After dinner, while Brimstead was bringing the team, one of his children, the blonde, pale, tattered little girl of six, climbed into the wagon seat and sat holding a small rag doll, which Sarah had given her. When they were ready to go she stubbornly refused to get down.

"I'm goin' away," she said. "I'm goin' aw-a-ay off to find my mother. I don't like this place. There ain't no Santa Claus here. I'm goin' away."

She clung to the wagon seat and cried loudly when her father took her down.

"Ain't that enough to break a man's heart?" he said with a sorrowful look.

Then Samson turned to Brimstead and asked:

"Look here, Henry Brimstead, are you a drinking man? Honor bright now."

"Never drink a thing but water and tea."

"Do you know anybody who'll give ye anything for what you own here?"

"There's a man in the next town who offered me three hundred and fifty dollars for my interest."

"Come along with us and get the money if you can. I'll help ye fit up and go where ye can earn a living."

"I'd like to, but my horse is lame and I can't leave the children."

"Put 'em right in this wagon and come on. If there's a livery in the place, I'll send ye home."

So the children rode in the wagon and Samson and Brimstead walked, while Sarah drove the team to the next village. There the good woman bought new clothes for the whole Brimstead family and Brimstead sold his interest in the sand plains and bought a good pair of horses, with harness and some cloth for a wagon cover, and had fifty dollars in his pocket and a new look in his face. He put his children on the backs of the horses and led them to his old home, with a sack of provisions on his shoulder. He was to take the track of the Traylors next day and begin his journey to the shores of the Sangamon.

They got into a bad swale that afternoon and Samson had to cut some corduroy to make a footing for team and wagon and do much prying with the end of a heavy pole under the front axle. By and by the horses pulled them out.

"When ol' Colonel bends his neck things have to move, even if he is up to his belly in the mud," said Samson.

As the day waned they came to a river in the deep woods. It was an exquisite bit of forest with the bells of a hermit thrush ringing in one of its towers. Their call and the low song of the river were the only sounds in the silence. The glow of the setting sun which lighted the western windows of the forest had a color like that of the music—golden. Long shafts of it fell through the tree columns upon the road here and there. Our weary travelers stopped on the rude plank bridge that crossed the river. Odors of balsam and pine and tamarack came in a light, cool breeze up the river valley.

"I guess we'll stop at this tavern till tomorrow," said Samson.

Joe was asleep and they laid him on the blankets until supper was ready.

Soon after supper Samson shot a deer which had waded into the rapids. Fortunately, it made the opposite shore before it fell. All hands spent that evening dressing the deer and jerking the best of the meat. This they did by cutting the meat into strips about the size of a man's hand and salting and laying it on a rack, some two feet above a slow fire, and coveling it with green boughs. The heat and smoke dried the meat in the course of two or three hours and gave it a fine flavor. Delicious beyond any kind of meat is venison treated in this manner. If kept dry, it will retain its flavor and its sweetness for a month or more.

They set out rather late next morning. As usual, Joe stood by the head of Colonel while the latter lapped brown sugar from the timid palm of the boy. Then the horse was wont to touch the face of Joe with his big hairy lips as a tribute to his generosity. Colonel had seemed to acquire a singular attachment for the boy and the dog, while Pete distrusted both of them. He had never a moment's leisure, anyhow, being always busy with his work or the flies. A few breaks in the pack basket had been repaired with green withes. It creaked with its load of jerked venison when put aboard.

Farther on the boy got a sore throat. Sarah bound a slice of pork around it and Samson built a camp by the roadside, in which, after a good fire was started, they gave him a hemlock sweat. This they did by steeping hemlock in pails of hot water and, while the patient sat in a chair by the fireside, a blanket was spread about him and pinned close to his neck. Under the blanket they put the pails of steaming hemlock tea. After his sweat and a day and night in bed, with a warm fire burning in front of the shanty, Joe was able to resume his seat in the wagon. They spoke of the Brimsteads and thought it strange that they had not come along.

On the twenty-ninth day after their journey began they came in sight of the beautiful green valley of the Mohawk. As they looked from the hills they saw the roof of the forest dipping down to the river shores and stretching far to the east and west and broken, here and there, by small clearings. Soon they could see the smoke and spires of the thriving village of Utica.

CHAPTER II.

Wherein Is a Brief Account of Sundry Curious Characters Met on the Road.

At Utica they bought provisions and a tin trumpet for Joe, and a doll with a real porcelain face for Betsey, and turned into the great main thoroughfare of the North leading eastward to Boston and westward to a shore of the midland seas. This road was once the great trail of the Iroquois, by them called the Long House, because it had reached from the Hudson to Lake Erie, and in their day had been well roofed with foliage.

Soon they came in view of the famous Erie canal, hard by the road. Through it the grain of the Far West had just begun moving eastward in a tide that was flowing from April to December. Big barges, drawn by mules and horses on its shore, were cutting the still waters of the canal. They stopped and looked at the barges and the long tow ropes and the tugging animals.

"There is a real artificial river, hundreds o' miles long, hand made of the best material, water tight, no snags or rocks or other imperfections, durability guaranteed," said Samson. "It has made the name of DeWitt Clinton known everywhere."

"I wonder what next!" Sarah exclaimed.

They met many teams and passed other movers going west, and some prosperous farms on a road wider and smoother than any they had traveled. They camped that night, close by the river, with a Connecticut family on its way to Ohio with a great load of household furniture on one wagon and seven children in another.

So they fared along through Canandaigua and across the Genesee to the village of Rochester and on through Lewiston and up the Niagara river to the falls, and camped where they could see the great water flood and hear its muffled thunder. When nearing the latter they overtook a family of poor Irish emigrants, of the name of Flanagan, who shared their camp site at the falls. The Flanagans were on their way to Michigan and had come from the old country three years before and settled in Broome county, New York. They, too, were on their way to a land of better promise. Among them was a rugged, freckled, red-headed lad, well along in his teens, of the name of Dennis, who wore a tall beaver hat, tilted saucily on one side of his head, and a ragged blue coat with brass buttons, as he walked beside the oxen, whip in hand, with trousers tucked in the tops of his big cowhide boots. There was also a handsome young man in this party of the name of John McNeil, who wore a ruffled shirt and swallow-tail coat, now much soiled by the journey. He listened to Samson's account of the Sangamon country and said that he thought he would go there

(Continued next week)

DISTRICT LIBRARIANS HOLD MEETING AT CLARION

Monitor: There was a good attendance at the district meeting of librarians held in Clarion last Wednesday and Thursday. The conference was in charge of Miss Julia Robinson, executice secretary and director of state library extension. Considerable local interest was shown in attendance at the sessions and entertainment of delegates. The visitors were pleased with their reception, and seemed agreeably impressed with our city and its people. They commented favorably on the appearance of the library building, both as to exterior and interior, also the planting of vines and shrubbery on the grounds. They reported this one of the best meetings of the season, and remarked upon the fine spirit of co-operation which exhists between our library officials and the public. All of which the reporter mentions as a bolster to our municipal pride.

The Wednesday afternoon meeting was given over to reception of visitors and a round-table discussion of such topics as defacement and fumigation, fines, reserve shelf, circulation outside the district, the disposition of out of date reading material, book prices, binding and binders, propoganda publications and the merits of many new books.

Miss Robinson distributed suggestive lists of late output of the publishers and Miss Hopper of Fort Dodge read an interesting paper on this subject. Anent the reserve shelf discussion, most librarians compromise on that method of supplying books on demand which are not permitted to associate with the best society of the book shelves.

A fine dinner was served at six o'clock in the Presbyterian basement by the church ladies. The delegates, local library officials and citizens attended to the number of fifty. H. L. Scott presided at the short program which followed. Miss Mae Morton welcomed the visitors and Miss Callie Welder of Marshalltown responded. Miss Robinson in a brief address brot out some interesting facts about library work over the state. There are 139 public libraries in Iowa, of these 100 are Carnegie libraries. Most libraries are supported by a tax, but two in the state being endowed, Webster City and Whiting. Under present arrangements districts outside the radius of these 139 institutions must be served by them or not at all. About thirty cities in the state are granting rural extension from their libraries to surrounding townships, towns, consolidated schools, etc. Clarinda and Onawa are doing the best work in this line.

The circulation of the public libraries is augmented by 50,000 volumes of the state traveling library associaton, which are loaned to the various book centers. However, there are yet one and one-half million people still unserved, and a movement is now on foot to cover each county by levying a tax and serving small towns and outlying districts from book centers or traveling wagons if necessary, with preferably one central source of supply in the county. The state law permits a levy of one mill for this purpose at the discretion of the county board of supervisors. Miss Robinson mentioned the three methods by which public libraries are supported by subscription, endowment and tax. The first method is precarious, and uncertain, the second rare, the third the most common and should be adequate. The law allows a five mill tax, which is generally sufficient in the smaller places.

Library effeciency is measured by its per capita circulation. Factors contributing to effeciency are a suitable building, good book collection systematic routine in the management. Personality, effeciency and zeal of the librarian are also important. Financial support is a necessary factor and is much too low in many places.

An adjournment was taken to the library and the topics "Americanization" and "Maintence" were discussed. In connectio with the first Miss Barret, chief librarian in Mason City described the fine work accomplished by the library workers there in behalf of the mothers of foreign families.

The Thursday morning session was taken up largely with a discussion of junior work. Miss Bowman, the children's librarian in Mason City, had charge of this topic and made the session very interesting and helpful. The children's library in Mason City, is by the way, one of the finest in the state.

Among the librarians in attendance at this meeting was the librarian from Belmond, Mrs. Annie B. Case.

LIVE STOCK MARKETING COMMITTEE TO MEET

The Farmers Live Stock Marketing Committee of 15 of the American Farm Bureau federation, which has been working on a plan for the co-operative marketing of live stock, will meet again at Chicago on May 25 for the purpose of hearing reports of its various subcommittees and discussing plans for further procedure.

The personnel of this committee consists principally of representatives of live stock producers, co-operative live stock shipping associations and co-operative live stock marketing organizations. Producers have been forced to take matters pertaining to the marketing of their products into their own hands, says one member of the committee, and are determined now to build their own marketing machinery in order to eliminate the waste and graft of old time marketing methods on the principal live stock markets.

KLEMME'S SEWER SYSTEM IS NOW COMPLETED

Klemme Times: The sewer gang completed their last stretch of digging Saturday afternoon and laid the last sewer tile.

The fore part of this week they spent in repairing crossings and doing other clean-up work along the ditches.

Tom McElligott, boss on the job, informed us Monday that he would have the job all finished at the end of the week and they would then be ready to ship out to the next job.

The entire gang are a fine bunch of fellows and as far as we know, they have lived up to their contract in every way and even seem to step over the ropes in trying to please all and treat everyone alike. We have heard no complaint from anyone in regard to the work this company are doing here.

Tom was not sure just where they will go from here as they have a couple of jobs to be finished this year. One is at Quimby, Iowa, and the other is in Illinois some place, but they will probably go to Quimby first. We certainly wish them luck wherever they may go.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE FIGHTS FOR EXISTENCE

That farmers of Illinois, whose representatives in the state legislature are determined to regulate the Chicago Board of Trade, is shown by the big fight now in progress at Springfield over the Lantz bills. It is virtually a fight between the people of Chicago and those of the rest of Illinois outside of Chicago.

The Lantz grain exchange bills are not designed to put the Board of Trade out of business as Board of Trade representatives and Chicago newspapers indicate, nor will they do away with hedging, but they will admit farmers' co-operative companies to the place where the farmer's grain is sold and its price determined. They will place a representative of the state of Illinois on the exchange floor to see that the business is conducted fairly. They will eliminate market manipulation, excessive price fluctuation and widespread public gambling. "If these things will put the Board of Trade out of business, it must be a good deal worse than we have ever imagined," says the Prairie Farmer. "The wild fluctuations in price caused by its manipulation places a heavy load on the shoulders of every farmer, and it is high time to eliminate it."

CONGRESSMAN GOOD HAS REVENUE RAISING PLAN

Chairman of Appropriations Committee Says Make Medicinal Liquor Help Pay Bills.

Proposals for easing the burden on the taxpayers are urged by Congressman J. W. Good, of Iowa, chairman of the house committee on appropriations. They evidence the determination of the republican majority to get at the problem at the earliest moment. He says:

"If we accept $4,000,000,000 as the amount required for the next fiscal year, from what source can we collect the amount of revenue with the least disturbance to business, and at a minimum of hardship upn the taxpayers? Broadly speaking, our tariff duties should be increased, the excess profits tax and the ax on transportation should be repealed, and the supertax on individuals modified. The revenue derived from the excess profis tax is no longer necessary; the loss in revenue through the repeal of the transportation tax can be supplied without hardship by an additional tax upon luxuries, such as an additional tax upon tobaccos, cigars, and cigarettes. A tax levied upon these commodities equal to the tax levied by Great Britain on like articles would yield over $200,000,000 additional revenue, providing there should be no substantial reduction in consumption. Last year there was withdrawn from bonded warehouses almost 40,000,000 gallons of spirits for medicinal purposes, but which were used for beverage purposes. The restoration of the tax of $6.40 a gallon on spirits in lieu of the tax of $2.20 per gallon under existing laws should yield at least $100,000,000 A wheel tax on the 9,000,000 passenger-carrying automobiles now in use, and for the convenience of which we are spending out of the treasury approximately $100,000,000 in federal aid to good roads, would produce without hardship $150,000,000 A light tax on the net earnings of corporations could be resorted to with a minimum of hardship to the public.

It will be observed that this plan does not take into consideration anticipated receipts on government loans to European powers, aggregating $10,000,000,000. Inasmuch as we are not at present collecting interest on these loans, and it is problematical when the countries indebted to us will be able to pay either interest or principal, it would be unwise to rely upon substantial payments in the near future.

Bread

All Bread is not the same. Our Butter Milk Bread is gaining in Popularity all the time

Try It

ROBINSON

SERVICE

THIS BANK HAS AT ALL OCCASIONS ONE THING FOR ITS CUSTOMERS—SERVICE.

WHETHER YOUR ACCOUNT IS LARGE OR SMALL, WE ACCORD YOU THE SAME SERVICE AND ARE EQUALLY GLAD TO HAVE YOUR ACCOUNT.

START A SAVINGS ACCOUNT NOW IF YOU HAVE NOT ALREADY OPENED ONE—A DOLLAR STARTS, AND EVERY DOLLAR YOU AD TO IT MEANS THAT MUCH BEHIND YOU WHEN THE "RAINY DAY" COMES.

Belmond Savings Bank

Meet me at the Belmond Candy Kitchen and let them serve you with their Confections.

Belmond Candy Kitchen

What is more blissful these days than a big hammock, a good book and a box of Candy fresh from the Belmond Candy Kitchen? There isn't any better candy made than these fresh, home made confections such as our Chocolates, Molasses Chips, Butter Chips, Nougats, Peanut Bars, Peppermints, etc. Anything to please the sweet tooth.

We also serve Sundaes and Sodas, Phosphates, Grape Juice, Fancy Drinks, Ice Cream and Sandwiches. Everything cool and fresh.

Prftakes Bros. & Company

Steve Antonio, Mgr.

Take a Box of Candy Home with you. If you are Satisfied Tell Your Friends.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

ROWAN NEWS

Continued from page two

well attended. Aplatform and seats had been arranged in the shady street north of Main street, The people assembled in the M. E. church at 1:30 o'clock. The Legion and Boy Scouts and ex-service men formed in front of the Legion hall and marched to the M. E: church in a body. The firing squad escorted the colors and led the procession from the church to the place which had been arranged for the program to be held. Just as they arrived there a heavy shower came up causing them to repair to the Cong church where the services were held. The speaker for the day was Rev. Walker of Clarion. He gave a very good lecture on "The Day of Memory." Miss LaVonne Ballou sang a solo entitled "The Deathless Army." After the services at the church the people went to the cemetery where the Legion, Boy Scouts and school children decorated the graves of the heroes. Miss Frances Farren gave Lincoln's Gettysburg address. After the firing squad had fired a salute to the unknown dead the people went to the river where a wreath was cast on the water in honor of the sailors. There were about 24 Legion members and 12 Boy Scouts present at the service. The color guards were Duncan Farren, Frank Retliff, Harry Cain and J. F. Howell. The firing squad were Guy Toyne, Eddie Underdahl, Joe Hansen, Albert Moellering, Alfred Fletcher, Tommy Kew, George Carnon and [illegible] Braden, post commander, [illegible] remonies and the [illegible]

AUTHORIZED BUICK SERVICE

Emblem of Satisfaction

Motor Inn

Ray P. Morris Alfred Swensen

Phone 97—Black

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1921 — NO. 29

16th Annual Rebekah Convention District 99, June 30

Belmond Cleans West Bend Friday by 12 to 0

West Bend All Salaried Team Comes Sixty Miles To Get Awful Trimming From "Scrub" Outfit.

LUVERNE UMP WINS SUNDAY

In one of the finest exhibitions of the national sport ever witnessed in Belmond, the local base ball team took the salaried bunch from West Bend into camp last Friday by the lopsided score of 12 to 0, applying a beautiful coat of whitewash to that aggregation in an exciting game.

It was a game that was hard to describe. Despite the one-sided score it was the most interesting game the Belmond folks have ever had the opportunity of enjoying on the local diamond. Belmond started on the war path in the first inning, when they bunched hits and forced six runs over the plate. A series of well timed and well placed bunts completely disorganezid the West Bend outfit in that inning.

In the second inning the boys put another run across, and in the third two more. They rested up a bit in the fourth, but started again in the fifth and secured two more, added another in the sixth, and when the end came they counted up 12 nice large runs, while West Bend had a large round goose egg.

West Bend secured just one little scratch hit in the whole game, a line drive down the third base line. Except for that they never came within a mile of securing a clean hit off Pillmer's offerings. In the entire game not a West Bend runner got any further than second base, and not very many of them traveled that far. Pillmer had his curves working like a top, and had the Benders swinging at the atmosphere in a hopeless endeavor to connect for something worth while. It wouldn't have done them any good if they had connected, for Belmond was taking everything that came out in field, stopping the hot ones and ruining the hopes of the Benders every time they tried to get on base.

Pillmer pitched a magnificent and unbeatable game. He held the heavy hitters on the West Bend team to grounders and two or three outfield flies, while some eight or nine of the enemy fanned the breeze for nothing.

Belmond secured thirteen hits in the game for a total of 16 bases, Jones, Packard and Pillmer securing a two-base drive each. And on the home side there was but one error chalked up. In hitting they put it over West Bend 13 to 1, in bases secured 16 to 1, and in runs 12 to 0.

Playing as they did Friday, there is no amateur or semi-pro organization in the state that could have beaten them. The West Bend team is one of the best in this part of the state, with seven salaried players, and have been cleaning up the country this season. Belmond's team contains only one salaried man, the pitcher, the rest being home boys, and the fact that they cleaned up on West Bend as they did speaks volumes for the class of ball they are putting up this year.

The line-up was as follows:

	AB	H	S	R
Dillon, cf	5	3	0	3
Henisch, 3b	5	1		1
Jones, 2b	5	4	0	2
Fulton c	5	0	2	1
Parsons, rf	5	1	1	2
Baldridge, ss	5	1	0	0
Packard, 1b	4	1	0	1
Nelson, lf	4	0	0	0
Pillmer, p	4	2	1	2

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Runs
W. B.	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Bel.	6	1	2	0	2	1	0	0	x	12

LUVERNE UMP WINS SUNDAY

Sunday the Belmond team lost to the LuVerne umpire by a score of 5 to 4. LuVerne, after suffering a defeat at the hands of the Belmond team once this spring, loaded up for the game Sunday by securing five salaried men, the second baseman, third baseman, left fielder, short stop and pitcher. They started out bravely and put three runs over in the first inning. Belmond scored one run in the second, and there the game hung until the seventh, when Otis Nelson put the ball over the the left field fence for three bases, scoring two runs and tying the score, and later coming in on a passed ball, making the score then four to three in favor of Belmond.

Then is when the LuVerne ump won the game. A LuVerne runner on first was put out twice, but the ump couldn't see it that way no matter how much he tried, which wasn't very much, and a lucky home run put two more runs over for LuVerne and gave them the game five to four.

The LuVerne team in its strengthened players put up a good stiff game, but in spite of that the game should have been Belmond's.

A very large crowd of local fans drove over to see the game, estimated at around one hundred and fifty. Desipte the unfairness of the umpire, which reminded Belmond of the way LuVerne won the game there last year, the game was a good one and worth while. Pillmer was not in his usual form and was hit pretty freely at the beginning of the game, tightening up as the fray progressed, however, and doing good work.

CLASS OF '16 HOLD PICNIC REUNION

Ten Of Graduates Of 1916 Meet At Morse Lake Last Friday For Good Time.

The Class of '16, of the Belmond High, held a very enjoyable reunion on Friday evening of last week at Morse Lake, some ten of the old class being present to renew their high school days. With them were two of the faculty of '16, Amy Peterson and Ialeen Flynn. Those who were present were:

Mrs. Bessie Thompson
Mrs. Orpha Anderson
Mrs. Mona Hanson.
Mrs. Clarence Scott
Miss Marjory Flynn
Miss Sadie Frohling
Miss Agnes Rikensrud
Miss Gladys Jenison
Miss Oralee Brooks

The husbands of two of the class, Orpha Anderson and Clarence Scott, were also e.teprns hrdlushrdlhrhmm were also present.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Mrs. John Arends and son Leonard were callers in Hampton Monday.

Mr and Mrs. Fred Rodemeyer and family visited with relatives at Iowa Falls last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bohlen and children autoed to Hayfield, Minnesota to last Saturday where they will visit a few days at the Rev. Sherman Arends' home.

Miss Alice Peters was a Hampton caller last Saturday.

Miss Nettie Benson of Belmond who had been staying at the Foughty home, spent the last of the week at Belmond.

Fred Madsen of Latimer was a business caller here last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son Frederick visited with relatives at Belmond, Sunday.

The Ladies Ad society of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs A. L. Nelson next Wednesday afternoon, June 15. All are invited to attend.

Mrs. E. E. Butler and two sons, Edwin and John, of Hampton, spent the past week with relatives at this place.

Dr. Steele of Belmond was a professional caller at Alexander several days last week.

Bernard McCallum was a business caller at the county seat last Wednesday.

William Christensen of Iowa Falls was calling on old friends in town the last of the week.

A fine baby boy came to make its home with the Clark Lindsey family last Sunday, May 29.

Miss Ella Blau was shopping at Hampton between trains last Saturday.

Old Soldier and Pioneer Settler Dies

Frank Christie Dies At Home Of His Daughter, Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell, Last Week.

WAS SOLDIER OF CIVIL WAR

Frank Christie was born in Franklin county, Mass., Nov. 24, 1837, and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. C. Tyrrell, Jr, June 2nd., 1921, aged 83 years, 6 months and nine days.

Mr. Christie was reared on a farm and received his education in the public school. At the breaking out of the Civil War he enlisted in Company A., First Conn, Cavalry. His regiment took part in about 90 engagements. He was for a time on guard at the White House until he was honorably discharged as sergeant in the fall of 1865. The same year he came to Wright county with S. N. Hinman, who was a comrade in war and afterwards a brother-in-law. They bought the farm on which Ira Christie now lives, and there Mr. Christie lived until he moved to Belmond in 1889

He was married to Miss Carrie M. Cheney of Worcester county, Mass. on July 12, 1866. To this union three children were born, Marvin F., Edwin S., who died Nov. 28, 1905, and Mrs. Wm. C. Tyrrell, Jr.

When Mr. Chrisite came to this community the nearest railroad was at Cedar Falls. He was active in the work of the township and the community and had the privilege of having part in its developement from prairie to one of the most prosperous farming communities of the state While not a member he was interested in and gave his hearty support to the Congregational church.

Mr. Christie was a member of the Wm. Whited Post of the G. A R. always holding an office and was seldom absent from its meetings. He was never known to be absent from the services on Decoration Day until one year ago when the condition of his health would not permit him to be present. About two weeks ago he was stricken with heart trouble which, on account of his age and physical condition, he was not strong enough to overcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Christie have lived together in this community for nearly fifty-five years. Their lives have beautifully blended together and they have been one in their work They celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on July 12, 1916.

Mr Christie leaves besides his wife and two children, 15 grandchildren, seven greatgrandchildren, one sister, Mrs Nancy A. Davenport, and many other relatives and friends who mourn his departure.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Tyrrell, Rev. Leinbach officiating. The members of the G. A R acted as honorary pallbearers. Interment was in Franklin Grove cemetery.

The members of the Old Guard are rapidly answering the last call. The Whited Post a few years ago had a membership of 87 now there are but eight left, four having passed away during the past few months.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy and for their kindness and help during the death of our beloved husband and father, the G. A. R for their services, and all those who sent the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Frank Christie and Family.

Last Friday afternoon, before the town team played their game with West Bend, the Alumni and high school teams battled the annual affair to a finish, the finish finding the Alumni victors by the score of 9 to 1.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION HELD AT ROWAN

The 7th Annual W. C. T. U. Convention convened at Rowan Thursday and Friday, June 2nd and 3rd. These meetings were very helpful and interesting. There was a short session Thursday morning. Thursday afternoon Mrs. Wrght, of Eagle Grove had charge of the devotional exercises. Rev. Harold Tomkinson gave the address of welcome. Mrs. Kabele, of Goldfield responded. A telegram from Mrs. M. Snyder, a member of this Union but now sick at Clarion was read in which she sent greetings to the Convention. Anna and Nina Retz gave a vocal duet entitled "Rose, Rose, Rose" at this session. Plans were talked over for organizing certain Sunday school classes into Temperance classes as a substitute for the L. T. L. where it was impossible to have the separate society. Mrs. Harold Tompkinson, of Rowan gave a very good address on "Launching Little Ships" in which she gave very helpful suggestions on raising children.

Thursday evening they were disappointed in their speaker as she did not arrive. She was to drive from Webster City and owing to the bad roads was unable to get here. However they had a good musical evening. The Congregational choir furnished a song service, also special music. A violin solo by Fred Moellering was very much enjoyed. Mrs. ert Pelly sang a solo entitled "O Heart of Mine" which was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. L. Libridge, of Eagle Grove, filled in the evening with talks of the work and a reading

Friday afternoon Mrs. Simpson, of Galt, led the Devotional Rev. Nye of the Rowan Congregational church gave an address on "What is the church and what is the saloon. Miss LaVonneBallou sang a very beautiful solo at this session. Dr. Baldwin and Dr. Stecher of Iowa City were the leading features of the afternoon program. Dr. Baldwin gave a short talk on the work at the research station at Iowa City University and what they hoped to do. Dr. Stecher then showed the method of giving mental tests to normal children by means of puzzles, games and also by the Binet method of asking questions. Little Bernice and Mildred Williams sang a duet, "Apple Blossoms" at this session.

In the evening Dr. Baldwin gave a very interesting lecture, using the lantern slides. He showed the difference in children of the same age and also showed the methods of measuring children. He invited anyone to bring their children to Iowa City who wished to do so and have them examined. Dr. Baldwin is considered the best physiologist in the United States, so the W. C. T. U. were very fortunate in securing him for this convention. If a county fair or an organization would secure enough children to be examined Dr. Stecher would send some one to examine them.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Mrs. Lilibridge, Eagle Grove.

Vice President—Mrs. Simpson, of Galt.

Secretary—Mrs. Willard McCallum, Rowan.

Treasurer—Mrs. Alta Power, Clarion.

Department Superintendents

Americanization—Mrs. Wright, of Eagle Grove.

Benidict Home—Mrs. Triggs, of Clarion

Child Welfare—Mrs. D. W. Whitten, Rowan.

Flower Department—Mrs. Roseland, Eagle Grove.

Medal Contest—Mrs. Anna Thorpe, Eagle Grove.

Open Air Meetings and Fairs—Mrs. Kabele, Goldfield.

Proportionate and Sytematic Giving—Miss Jennie Kieth, Eagle Grove.

Sabbath School Work—Mrs. Mary Swatzendrover, Clarion.

Scientific Temperance Instruction—Miss Lucy Umbrieght, Clarion.

Press and Publicity—Mrs. State, Galt.

Young Peoples Department—Mrs. Fred Brooks, Rowan.

The delegates attending this convention are as follows:

Eagle Grove—Mesdames Wright, Roseland, Lilibridge, Smith and Miss Jennie Kieth.

Goldfield—Mesdames Kabele and French and D. H. Kieth.

Clarion—Mesdames Hamilton and Power.

Galt—Mrs. Cora State.

Holmes—Mrs. D. McBride.

DELEGATION FROM TEN TOWNS TO BE HERE THEN

Sixteenth Annual Rebekah Convention Of District Ninety-Nine Feature Of Month.

AFTERNOON AND EVENING

Delegates From Dows, Galt, Clarion, Woolstock, Eagle Grove, Goldfield, Humboldt, And Renwick.

The program for the day as at present planned will be as follows:

Afternoon Session

Called to Order at 1:30 p. m.
Opening of Lodge.
Address of Welcome—Mrs. McBurney, Belmond.
Response—Mrs. N. L. Vanderlip, of Dows.
Reading of Minutes of Last Convention.
Reading of Communications.
Instrumental Music—Goldfield.
Reports of Payment of Convention Tax and Presentation of Vice President's Bills—Vice President.
Paper—Mrs. Fobes, Dows.
Choosing Place for Next Convention.
Election of Officers.
Bills.
Treasurer's Report.
Unfinished Business.
New Business.
Reading—Woolstock.
Draping of Charter—Goldfield.

Evening Session

Called to Order at 8:00 p. m.
Song—Convention.
i....si ..iiiin oooo.. shrdlu mfywp mf
Reading—Edith Melnes, Clarion.
Degree Work—Eagle Grove
Music—Renwick.
Question Box.
Remarks—Assembly President.

MISS PIERCE IS PRESENTED IN RECITAL

Miss Alberta Pierce, of Belmond was presented in a dramatic recital at Mount St. Clare academy auditorium last evening at 7:45 o'clock. The senior music students assisted Miss Pierce and a delightfully versatile program was given.

Miss Pierce held her audience with her pleasing personality, thoroughness of understanding, and carried her audience from the depths of the dramatic to the lighter vein of humor. She has been a student under the supervisions of the Sisters of St. Frances.

The opening number was the overture "Mignon." Ambrose Thomas, a piano duet by Miss Grace Tobin and Lelia Jorgensen. The program follows:

The Wooing of Berenice—Miss Pierce.

Valse Caprice (Josef Hofman)—Miss Maxine McGrath.

(a) "Connor," (b) Bon Juor Ma Belle"—Miss Pierce.

Hager.

Forest Spirits from Suite Op. 42 No. 4 (Mac Dowell)—Miss L. Jorgensen, G. Tobin.

Mice at Play—Miss Pierce.

Prelude in C Sharp Minor (Rachmaninoff)—Miss Jorgensen.

(a) "In the Vanguard", (b) "Who who-oo"—Miss Pierce.

—The Advertiser, Clainton, Iowa, May 31, 1921.

FIRST BAND CONCERT ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

The first band concert of the season was held Saturday night, as announced in the Independent last week, and drew a large crowd, many people coming from the towns around The boys performed in a very creditable manner, and many compliments were paid them on their playing The new director appears to be delivering the goods, and the band is an organization of which the town may be proud.

FREE AIR!

Well, here's the Air again. Some folks thought it had been scared out or blow away by the hot air breezes lately, but such, alas, is not the case. Simply lack of time last week.

It has been quite warm the past couple weeks, hasn't it? At least, several people have said it was; we hadn't been het up any to speak of tho. Summer is coming and the hot winds do blow, don't you know. Which sounds like poetry but is merely fact.

Or maybe nothing but the truth. Graduation exercises are now over and the flowery orations of the high school graduates have gone thundering down the aisles. We almost said ages, but as we don't want to say anything but the truth, we'll make it aisles.

But did you ever stop to think that there might be a whole lot of truth and wisdom in the said graduation orations? There is, and ideas of which some of the grown-ups might be proud to possess.

You hear a lot of fellows with many years, few hairs and much wisdom spouting forth upon the hot air much that cannot compare with what may be found in the oration of a high school graduate. Men who have directed the affairs of a state, a county, or just a community might learn much.

One thing about a high school oration that we have always liked: They are always constructive, never destructive, or at least we never happened to hear a destructive one. The youths can see nothing but good in the future And don't you know that is a fine thing to see: to look to the betterman instead of the downfall of mankind.

Because, as the old saying puts it, "every knock is a boost." And to make the thing operate constructively you have to knock the things that are wrong and boost 'em out.

Which may seem dense at first, but think it over.

We have heard of hogs for punishment, but the West Bend base ball team take Barban's bakery for the prize winners. They came 60 miles to get walked on by a bunch of small town ball tossers who pay their way thru life by the salary they earn outside of ball playing.

Somebody must have prevaricated to that outfit instead of speaking only the truth, and told them Belmond lost everything it tackled in the country.

12 to 0 must have been interesting news to our friends 15 miles northwest. Whassamatter? Not a cheep has come down the breeze this year from that direction. Can it be that somebody has frappe in the pedals?

What do you think about the Air, anyway? Is it worth the price? How do you like the name? Any changes to suggest? During the summer it might be changed to Hot Air, but maybe that would be infringing on the rights of somebody else who has acquired previous right to that title. Might try the title of the Senior play this year, "Nothing But the Truth," but that's too long. And we mght not live up to it.

And we believe in living up to the things we say and believe. None of this saying one thing and doing another for us.

So we guess this column will remain Free Air. No charge. If you don't like it you won't have to peruse it; plenty of other stuff in the paper to read

ERSLAND GETS 25 YEARS

Tom Ersland, who created such a furor by his attack on Sheriff Lang recently when he broke jail at Clarion, was given 25 years in the penitentiary at hard labor by Judge Thompson last week. Ersland plead guilty to the charge of incest as charged. This was the limit that the law allowed on this charge. Should he come out at the end of the 25 years, there are other charges such as breaking jail and attacking an officer which can be brought at that time.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
J. H. Edge, Pastor.

M. E. CHURCH ------- ------ --

Sunday School at 10:00 a m.

Preaching services at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Epworth League Devotional Meeting at 7:00 p. m.

On Friday evening of this week the Rev. J. B. Walker, of Clarion will give an illustrated lecture in the church at 8:00 o'clock. There will be no admission charge and no collection. Everybody invited.

Next Sunday at the morning preaching service the pastor will conduct a questionairre. The pastor will appreciate it if those submitting questions will hand them in before Sunday.

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

Our record for the last two Sundays has been excellent altho we had no other services a week ago.

We hope to make a new record next Sunday for attendance and offering. It will be Children's Day and the offering will go to the Board of Sabbath School Missions to establish new schools n our own country. We hope to have an attendance of at least 150 and an offering of over $25. That would be sufficient to start a new school and furnish it with supplies for one year.

Sabbath school at the regular hour of 10:00 a. m. Children's Day exercises at 11:00 and the evening worship at 8:00.

Let every member be present and bring some one who does not attend church elsewhere.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets 's so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

HARD TIMES?

Is it hard times? That they are far different than they were last year or for the several years past, goes without saying, but the question arises: Is it hard times?

There has been a saying going the rounds: "It's Not the Hard Times Coming, It's Just the Soft Times Going." There is a lot of truth in that, but nevertheless, a lot of people are convinced that there are some hard times present.

Granted that there are, to more or less of an extent, the "hard times" we are now experiencing are not hard times at all in the real sense of the word. This country has had times that were so much harder it makes the present seem soft. There are people in Belmond who can remember when the hard times were really hard, when money could not be secured at any price, and when food was scare and almost unobtainable. The present is more of a let down from the abnormal prosperity and ready money of war times, an attempt at getting back to something near normal. There are, true, many thousands out of work; money is more or less tight, and business not what it should be, but the times are not hard in the real sense of the word.

One great obstacle that lies in the way of a return to "normalcy" is the price of the farm products. The prosperity of America rests upon its greatest and most important business, Agriculture. Unless the farmer is prosperous, other lines of business cannot prosper. The finished product cannot be turned over at a profit unless the raw material is given a square deal. And the farmer right now, and for the past year has not had a square deal on his products. Until he does other lines of business are pretty apt to be more or less slow.

But while this does not make the present times "hard," it does make them a little tough, and all lines of commercial life are feeling it to a greater or lesser degree. The turning point to normal times has been reached and passed, in the belief of men who should know, and the business of the country is now on the upward climb. It has depended and will depend more or less in the future, upon the conditions overseas. America with full granaries and overflowing storage houses, must have an outlet for its surplus goods, and until Europe can get settled down and establish a credit—for they are not in a position to pay cash—then business is going to be more or less bum, and "hard times" the rule.

There is a great deal of business that is not being done, which can be done by any firm that has the ambition and the spirit to go and get. People must live, they must eat and dress and shelter themselves, and the firm which goes after the business is the one that is going to secure the biggest share of it. Sitting back in the darkest corner of their establishment and moaning about the hard times and rotten business, will never bring in the customers or turn over the stock. "1921 Will Reward the Fighters" in more ways than one, for the business acquired now is not apt to go somewhere else after the "hard times" go.

Mr. and Mrs Joe Bohning and Miss Leona Jacobs expect to leave for South Dakota by auto this week. They expect to visit relatives at Huron, Miller and other points in that state.

CLIPPINGS

o o o o o o o o o o o o o
WHICH WAY, DAD?
o o o o o o o o o o o o o

Good-Bye, Dad

I left my dad, his farm, his plow,
Because my calf became his cow;
I left my dad—'twas wrong of course
Because my colt became his horse.
I left my dad to sow and reap
Because my lamb became his sheep;
I dropped my hoe and stuck my fork
Becausse my pig became his pork.
The garden truck I made to grow
Was his to sell and mine to hoe.

Dad and Son, Inc.

With dad and me it's half and half—
The cow I own was once his calf;
No town for mine; I will not bolt,
Because my horse was once his colt;
I'm going to stick right where I am
Because my sheep was once his lamb.
I'll stay with dad—he gets my vote,
Because my hog was once his shote;
Its "fifty-fifty" with dad and me—
A profit sharing company.

Wallace Ramsay, of Belmond visited his Garner relatives Friday afternoon. Wallace and his twin brother, the Secretary of State, have many old friends in Garner who are always glad to welcome them.—Signal.

Mrs. Sam Kirkwood came up from Belmond Decoration Day to spend the day visiting with Klemme relatives and friends.—Times.

Wm. Nelson, of Belmond, was transacting business and greeting friends here Tuesday.——Reporter.

"The Japanese Girl," an operatta by Belmond girls will be given at the Star theatre, Thursday, June 9th for the benefit of the Kanawha American Legion.—Reporter.

Belmond news dispatches to the daily papers a couple of weeks ago told of a cow on a farm near there giving birth to four calves. That beats any story we have to offer, but a cow owned by John Schawg, gave birth to triplets one day last week. The cow is a grade shorthorn. The calves all lived and were good strong calves.—Garner Leader.

A traveling show passed up Belmond this year and advertised it was because the city license had been boosted unreasonably, just because last year they refused to give city officials free tickets to the show. We doubt if many people getting free tickets to such shows ever value them THAT HIGH.—Clarion News.

State Treasurer W. J. Burbank is sending out little bookets explaining the workings of the new cigarette law. He states, in the explanation, that the law is also only a revenue producer, but it is also one that will prohibit the sale of cigarettes more effectively than the present law—provided the people see to it that it has been enforced. The present law has been a joke, cigarettes being sold openly in practically every town in the state, no revenue accruing to town or state. The tax for privilege of selling cigarettes hereafter will be $75 per year in cities of the second class and $50 per year in small places and outside cities. A bond in the sum of not less than $1,000 shall be required by every license holder, to be forfeited to the city or county should the law be violated. The law is actually more strict than the one now on on the books, or at least it will be much easier to enforce it.—News.

L. R. Melcher informs us that his sister, Mrs. W. H Galliger of Belmond is in a serious condition and not expected to live from day to day. Lou sent for his brother and stepmother yesterday.—Garner Leader.

Mrs. E. R. Lockwood attended a stockholder's meeting of the State Bank of Belmond, Monday, representing the shares owned by her late father, G. L. Cutler.—Monitor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Baldridge autoed to Belmond, Tuesday, where they were joined by Mr. Baldridge's mother and sister, Mrs. Schaffer and the party made a trip to Story county for a visit of a few days with George's grandmother and other relatives residing in and near Colo.—Kanawha Reporter.

Mail carrier Clark was caught out in last Thursday's storm and had quite a narrow escape from being hurt or perhaps killed. Mr. Clark was in his covered mail wagon when the storm struck and blew the wagon over. His team, being gentle, did not run and Mr. Clark was soon able to get out of his wagon, right it and continue on his route.—Reporter.

EAGLE GROVE ERECTS MEMORIAL TO SOLDIERS

Eagle Grove is the first town in this section of the state to have its plan for some memorial to their soldier dead assume material form. Last week in the little railroad park of the town facing the north, where it may easily be seen, was erected a $4,000 granite memorial to all the boys of the community—seventeen in number—who lost their lives in the world war.

This memorial has assumed the proportions of a nine by four panel, with a depth of 16 inches, which sits upon a base eleven feet long. At one side of the panel rises to half its height a pedestal holding an urn for flowers; upon the other side to an artistic height, is a drinking fountain also upon a solitary pedestal. The entire monument, which is in five or six pieces, is of gray granite from the Barre, Vermont, quarries and was cut there.

The tall panel in the center contains in bas-relief the figure of an American private, advancing with drawn rifle, his helmet drawn low over his forehead. This was made from a drawing submitted by Warren B. Dodge. Just above this and overhanging, slightly, is an American eagle with outstretched wings. Below the chiseled figure of the warrior will probaly be cut these words: "To the Memory of the Fallen Soldiers of the World War."

Upon the base of the urn will be cut the names of the soldiers who gave their lives, either on the field of battle or in hospitals in France. By the name Paul Hyman will be cut a Distinguished Service Cross, which decoration came to the relatives of the young soldier.

Upon the base of the monument will appear also the names of the organizations which raised the funds for this memorial, The Women's Relief Corps, and the Gold Star Mothers of Eagle Grove.—News

CLARION'S BAND PLEASES IN OPENING CONCERT

The opening concert by the Clarion Municipal band was held Tuesday evening and a large crowd was up town to hear the program. The band shows splendid results for the past everal months' training it has received under the direction of Dr. St. Clair, and is an organization in which Clarion people may take considerable pride.

The only unfavorable criticism the News has to make is regarding the conduct of the children in the courtyard. They did not seem to know that the concert was for the benefit of those who enjoyed music, rather than for those few who thought it was a good time to romp around and rowdy wit one another. Some of the boys and girls were really obnoxious, filling up paper sacks with water and throwing them at each other. Next concert night it is to be hoped that the youngsters who wish to play will go down to the city park for their fun and not annoy others as they did Tuesday night. —News.

WIND STORM NEARLY KILLS CLARION GIRL

The little two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Atwell of Clarion came very near being killed in Thursday's storm when a stove board was blow from a chicken coop and thrown against the child's head with considerable force. The little girl was knocked senseless and it was some time before she recovered consciousness. At first the doctors thot she had been killed.

Mrs. Atwell noticed the storm approaching and was in the yard. The little girl toddled off and she had just ran over to her and picked her up when the board was thrown against the child's head. She was knocked out of her mother's arms and Mrs. Atwell first thought the child had been killed.

The next day, however, the child was feeling pretty good and no serious results will follow the accident.

Trees in that part of town were pretty well torn by the wind. Several large branches were torn off and scattered around the yards.

Mrs. G. M. Chamberlain was a passenger to Mason City on the Motor Wednesday morning where she will spend a few days visiting at the home of friends and relatives at that place. Mr. Chamberlain is employed at the sugar plant.

W. W. Goetz was a passenger to St. Paul on Tuesday of this week, where he expects to remain for several days on a buying trip for his store.

Miss Thorman, music teacher of this city, went to Meservey on this week Tuesday where she will teach for a couple of days.

To the Housewives:

Who like to serve good meals and who like to eat good meals but do not have the time for baking, let me do your baking for you.

Every kind of Home Made Bake Stuffs made in my kitchen and sent direct to you warm from the oven. Phone in orders at any time and in any quantity.

Do These Taste Good to You?

Rich Devils, Food Cakes, Nut Cakes Angel Food Cakes, White Cakes, Ginger Creams, Cookies, Bread and Pies.

I also operate a Woman's Exchange, Selling Your Work for 20 per cent.

MISS MARY GEALOW
Second House East of Klemme's Lumber Office
Belmond, Iowa Phone 316

Your Profits and Ours

By buying large quantities for sixteen stores at inside prices, and by reducing profits on clothes we can increase yours.

We want to increase your profits.

Because, if we give you unusual values, its a good reason for buying, and if we sell more, we'll make more.

It's a rule of business that small profits and a large volume of sales is more profitable than large profits on small sales.

We're selling clothing today at prices closer to cost than ever before. That's why we are selling more of clothing than ever before.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes
$37. 50 $47.50 $52.50

All Wool Cloth Craft Serge Special
Gray Serge $30.00 Brown Serge $30.00 Blue Serge $33.50

Our Best Work Shirts 95c
Oshkosh Overalls $2.00
Heavy Gross Overalls $1.50
Special Work Shirts 67c

Similar Values in All Departments. You Get What You Pay for Here.

Get to Know
Gildner Bros.
Iowa's Largest Clothier
MASON CITY. IOWA

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Help make your home news interesting. Phone your news items to 62.

Mrs. Fred Williams took their young son, "Buddy" to Belmond Tuesday. Dr. Steele took the stitches out of his arm. It is doing nicely but will be several weeks before it is completely healed.

A. J. Azeltine was a Belmond and Thornton caller, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bohnett, of Clarion, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willams on Monday of last week.

S. A. Ferguson was a Clarion business caller, Tuesday.

Miss Frieda Whitten and Mrs. Will Rietz were Dows callers between trains, Thursday.

Mrs. Casper Reasoner, of Congor, Minnesota, came Tuesday evening to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey. Her sister, Bernice, who has been at her home for some time returned with her and will help her mother in the hotel. Mrs. Reasoner returned to her home Saturday.

Mrs. Etta Carr returned Wednesday from Alexander and Latimer where she had been spending Memorial Day.

F. M. Myers returned from Des Moines Wednesday morning. While he was gone he also visited at the home of his son, Lester, and wife. Lester is employed in a drug store at Indianola, Iowa. Mr. Myers reports heavy rains in that "neck of the woods" while he was there.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Stumph, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Robinson and Mrs. Blanche Jennings enjoyed the dance at Cornelia Monday night of last week.

Miss Susan Duffy visited friends at Coulter last week.

Mrs. Clifford Snow spent several days at Traer this week.

R. H. Keith, D. W. Whitten and F. B. Sheldon motored to Clarion on Monday.

Miss Wilda Whitten was a Clarion Shopper Thursday

Mrs. Ormal Gates went to Clarion Thursday to shop.

Wes Azeltine was a Fort Dodge caller Thursday.

Frank Snyder went to Clarion on Wednesday to see his mother, Mrs. M. Snyder, who is ill.

D. E. Harris was a business caller at Clarion, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ferguson were Clarion business callers Thursday.

Mrs. Frank Kercheval went to Webster City, Thursday, where she was called by the serious illness of her cousin, Mrs Wright Letts.

J. L. Sinclar of Clarion was a Rowan caller on Thursday. He was entertained atthe C. W. Fowler home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitten and daughter Billie were Belmond shoppers Friday.

Ed. Drury of Highmore, S D. came the first of the week to visit his daughter, Mrs. Herb Hadley and his son, Frank, of ths place. Mrs. Drury and granddaughter Bernice came a couple of weeks ago and have been visiting at these homes and also at Popejoy and Eagle Grove.

Mrs. Henry Azeltine and mother, Mrs. A. E. Johnson returned Tuesday from Keota, where they had been visiting relatives for a week. Mrs. Johnson will stay with her daughter this summer.

Mesdames Ed. Miller, Blanche Jennings, Ben Hackley and G. R Stumph motored to Dows, Saturday

Eph McKinley arrived Friday from Lake Park and will visit relatives and friends for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hiams and family were Clarion callers Monday.

L. W. Stevenson has purchased a new Ford car.

Miss Wilda Whitten went to Cedar Rapids Saturday to visit for the week end. She goes to a house party the first of the week, which is held at a summer resort between Mount Vernon and Cedar Rapids, and is called the "Palisades." The latter part of the week she will visit a college friend, Mrs. Roy Whiting at Cedar Rapids.

The following contestants went to LuVerne Friday for a tennis match: Donald Farren and Harold Tomkinson, Duncap Farren and Guy Sheldon, Dale Farren and Clessant Azeltine. They run up against some champions among the LuVerne players and LuVerne won thirty per cent more points than Rowan.

Fred Brooks started running the township road grader Saturday. They are working north of town by the Dewitt Munson farm.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. St. Clair, of Clarion were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fowler.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham, Mrs. Clint Kercheval and son, Charles, and Mrs. J. F. Howell and children were Clarion visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz, of Clarion were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher.

Fred Clark, who came from California to visit his niece, Mrs. Dan Fletcher went to Marble Rock Tuesday. He returned to the home of his niece this week Monday and will visit for a while.

Lewie Winkleman, of Wall Lake, was a passenger to Rowan Saturday, going from here to Dows where he was called by the illness of his son, Lucian, who is spending his vacation at the home of his grandmother. Mr. Winkleman returned Monday morning, reporting his son much better.

W. W. Bailey was a Belmond caller Tuesday.

Charley Ball visited his daughter at Clarion Sunday.

Mrs. Clarence Johnson was a Dows caller between trains Monday.

Miss Fannie Reed, Thelma, Marjorie and George Brooks and Kenneth Kieth visited in Clarion Monday at the Fred Smith home. Miss Reed stayed to assist Mrs. Smith in the care of her mother, Mrs. M. Snyder who does not improve in health as her friends would like to have her.

The ladies of the Congregational church hired the basement of the church cleaned this week. It looks very nice.

Mrs. Casper Reasoner and baby went to Dows Thursday to visit at the James Reasoner home.

Mrs. Seeny, of Sheffield has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Esther Andrews the past week. She returned to her home Wednesday. Mrs. Andrews went with her to visit for a short time.

Fred Hackley was at Waterloo this week attending a druggists' convention.

O. A. Ohlerking and son, of Hampton, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bailey, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Conn were Sunday guests at the parental Fletcher home.

Miss Lottie Williams and Cecil Harris returned Monday evening from Blythedale, Missouri, where they have been visiting. Henry Williams remained down there as he secured a job as a traveling salesman for a lightning rod company.

Mrs. James Reasoner and children, of Dows visited at the hotel Friday.

Guy Stumph, who had blood poisoning in his finger is reported as getting along nicely.

William Schreck, who visited here the first of the week went to Blythe dale, Missouri, Tuesday to visit relatives for a short time.

Miss Blanche Box returned Saturday night from Rochester, Minnesota where she had been visiting George Aldrch, who is in the St. aMry's hospital at that place. She reports him as doing well but not able to set up

Mrs. Roy Alberts, of Belmond, visited over Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith. They are moving to Greenville, Iowa.

Jim Ward started to work for Will Ferguson on his farm last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Haupt, of Coulter, were calling on old friends in town Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hills and baby, of Clarion, visited at the Will Ferguson home Sunday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Drury and granddaughter motored to Popejoy Sunday to visit at the Bert Trousdale home. Mr. and Mrs. Drury expect to go to their home in Highmore, South Dakota the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnson and family visited at Allison and Bristow Sunday and Monday of last week, returning home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Underdahl were over Sunday visitors at Rake.

Several of the Rowan people enjoyed the dance at Cornelia Friday night.

Mrs. Fred Brooks and Mrs. Bert Pelley were Clarion visitors Saturday.

Mrs. Voss, of Cherokee, came last Wednesday to visit her brother, Tice Streveler, and family returning to her home Friday.

The Congregational Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. H. J. C. Box Tuesday afternoon and worked on the quilts. Only a few were present but a nice lot was accomplished. The day of meeting was changed this week on account of the W. C. T. U. Convention which was held Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Kieth and family, of Goldfield, visited at the R. H. Kieth home over Sunday.

On Monday a sister of Mrs. R. H. Kieth, Mrs. Andrew McCutcheon and daughter, Grace, of Goldfield visited there. They were on their way home from Traer, where they had been attending the Commencement Exercises. Miss Edna McCutcheon, another daughter and one of the Rowan school faculty for the coming year graduated at this time.

Community Club Meeting

The Central Division of the Iowa

Belmond Local News

Mrs. Harry Nordschow and children went to Perry, Sunday of this week, for a few days visit at the home of her sister there. They accompanied Hedli Enger, who drove down in his car.

—I—

Mrs. Will Ferguson and son Don arrived in town from Fairbanks on Monday of this week. Mrs. Ferguson will assist her mother, Mrs. Foster, with the duties at the hotel for a time, as her mother has been quite ill for the past week or two.

—I—

Mrs. B. A. Anfinson and little daughter went to Mason City on this week Tuesday where they will be guests at the homes of relatives for a couple of weeks.

—I—

Mrs D. E. Packard went to Mason City on Tuesday to visit at the home of her son Francis for a few days this coming week.

—I—

Mrs. L. Collins went to Mason City on Tuesday for a days pleasure and business trip, returnng on the evening Motor.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Peterson, who have been residing on Water street, left last week Saturday for Lincoln, Nebraska, where they expect to make their future home.

Township Farm Bureau Community Club will hold a social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley, June 17th. A program will be given. Everyone invited.

Congregational Church Notes

Regular Services next Sunday.
Morning Service—11:00 a. m.
Sunday School—12:00 m.
Young Peoples' Society—7:00 p. m.
Evening Service—8:00 p. m.
Mid-week prayer meeting every Wednesday night—8:00 p. m.

You are all invited to attend these services. Let Sunday see everyone in the house of God.

The Sunday morning service at the Congregational church was well attended when the pastor spoke from the subject, "The Beauty of the Sanctuary." At the evening service he spoke on "Love." They were two strong sermons and Rev. Nye presented many truths which his congregations will not soon forget. The choir furnished special music at both services.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kerchival and sons visited at the E. Bingham home Sunday.

The American Legion held their regular meeting Monday night. Jim Rowen was elected as new manager of the ball team for the remainder of the season.

SHERIFF'S SALE

STATE OF IOWA,
Wright County ss.
To P. J. Lieuwen, W. L. Kent and J. Lieuwen:

You are hereby notified that by virtue of a general execution, to me directed, and issued out of the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the State of Iowa, within and for Wright County, upon a judgement rendered in said Court in favor of First National Bank, Belmond, Iowa, and against P. J. Lieuwen, W. L. Kent, J. Lieuwen, for the sum of Sixteen Hundred Eight & 98|100 ($1608.98) Dollars debt, and Sixty-Two & 25|100 ($62.25) dollars costs, and attorney's fees, I have levied upon the following Real Estate, to-wit: The Northeast Quarter (1-4) of Section Thirty One (31) Township Ninety-Two (92), Range Twenty-Three (23), and the Forty Eight acres (48), in Southeast of Southeast of Section Thirty (30), Township Ninety Two (92), Range Twenty Three (23) West of the 5th P. M. Wright County, Iowa.

And that on the 14th day of June, 1921 at 10:00 o'clock a. m. at the front door of the Court House, in Clarion, Iowa, I will proceed to sell the same in satisfaction of said execution, together with all legal costs accruing.

Dated at the Sheriff's office in Clarion, on this 13th day of May,1921.

HENRY LANG
Sheriff Wright County, Iowa.
J. M. Jensen, Attorney. 2t

NOTICE OF PROOF OF WILL

To Whom It May Concern:

In the Estate of Andrew O. Stockseth, Deceased:

You are hereby notified that on the 31st day of May, 1921, there was filed with and opened by the undersigned Clerk of the District Court of the State of Iowa, in and for Wright County, a Written instrument purporting to be the

Last Will and Testament

of Andrew O. Stockseth, late of said County, deceased.

And you are further notified that the 5th day of July, 1921, at 1:30 p. m. has been set as the day for the final hearing and proof of said Will at my office in the Court House at Clarion, Iowa, at which time any person interested can appear and show cause why the same should not be admitted to probate.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court at my office in Clarion in said County, this 6th day of June, A. D., 1921.

R. V. GOSLIN,
29-3t Clerk District Court

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Have Your Battery Tested and Filled FREE!

DO THIS EVERY TWO WEEKS

We do Repairing and Re-Charging on any make of Battery.

We have rental batteries to fit your car while your battery is being repaired and recharged.

Full line of new batteries for any make of cars. Complete line of genuine Willard parts---also parts for any other make of battery.

Ask us about Thread Rubber Insulation.
Batteries called for and delivered.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

THREAD-RUBBER Willard INSULATION

Announcement

We have opened a hotel in Rowan and will serve meals, also short orders at all hours and furnish beds. Also have home baking for sale. Prices reasonable.

Rowan Hotel

MR. AND MRS. CHESTER BAILEY

The Greatest thing in the world is that

"God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting Life."

We are here to help you and urge you to accept this

GREATEST GIFT

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

Pure-Breds Do Pay

That pure-bred livestock is a safe, profit-bringing investment for any farmer has long been the conviction and the message of the great national weekly of farm progress,

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

In a widely discussed recent series it pointed out, with merciless publicity, dangerous evil practices among certain breeders and distributors of pure-breds. Next week in a constructive article, it tells the general farmer how, in spite of these practices, he can profitably stock up with pure-breds NOW.

William Johnson writes the story. For several months he has been traveling all about the country, interviewing leading breeders and livestock farmers and gathering material for a message that will be helpful to everyone who raises animals. His able, concretely suggestive story deserves your attention.

In the same way other investigators are continually searching out the practices that pay in every other branch of farming. Each week their stories help 800,000 readers. What pure-breds are to farm livestock THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is to farm literature—the best, the safest, the most profitable.

52 Weekly Issues for just $1.00

R. A. RANKINS

Phone 115 or 196 Belmond, Iowa

An authorized subscription representative of
The Country Gentleman 52 issues—$1.00 The Ladies' Home Journal 12 issues—$2.00 The Saturday Evening Post 52 issues—$2.50

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

OLAF NEWS

Miss Gail Thompson, of Palsville is spending the week at the George Baxter home. Mr. Baxter is her uncle.

Mrs. S. O. Windecker made a business trip to Belmond Saturday.

Henry Linn and wife drove to Huxley Saturday to visit her father, Mr. Toresdahl, who is not very well.

Arthur and Alma Ericson went to Des Moines, Monday, where Arthur will be examined by government physicians.

Mrs. Henry Anderson visited at the E. N. Ericson home last Thursday.

Mrs. Clarence Scott and Mrs. Orpha Anderson attended the Alumni picnic in Belmond last Thursday

Olaf school closed Friday, the chidren enjoying the ice cream treat.

Miss Florence Simerson is attending commmencement exercises at Northwood, St. Olaf College.

Several have been shelling corn during the past week.

Elliott Collison and wife, the blind piano tuner, was here last week tuning pianos. This is his fourth year that he has done work in our community.

Take a Box of Candy Home With You. If You are Satisfied Tell Your Friends.

The Coolest Place in Town

We serve you with iced drinks of all kinds, Sundaes, Sodas, Phosphates, Ice Cream and Sandwiches.

The Home Made Candy Headquarters

where you can purchase every kind of Fresh, Pure, Home-Made Candy in Bulk and in Boxes.

Belmond Candy Kitchen

Prftakes Bros. & Company

Steve Antonio, Mgr.

Meet me at the Belmond Candy Kitchen and let them Serve You with Their Confections.

Belmond Local News

John Welch and Joe Englet of Kanawha were in town one day last week looking after some business matters and greeting friends.

—I—

Ed Carlston of Kanawha was in the city the first of this week on business affairs.

—I—

The Misses Ermalee Rowland and Virginia Hunt left last week for their homes in Missouri, and it is reported that they do not expect to return to Belmond to teach next year.

—I—

Mrs. H. C. Claussen and Mrs. A. E. Chamberlin are entertaining their grandmother, Mrs. C. Barrett of Neola, and a cousin, Miss Jennie Cook of Gilette, Wyoming.

—I—

Miss Gladys Hauge is visiting at the home of relatives in Des Moines for a couple of weeks.

—I—

Miss Laura Brooks of Klemme visited at the home of friends and relatives here last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Baker and son of Kanawha were recent guests at the home of Mrs Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lieuwen.

—I—

Mrs. Ed. Sands, a former resident of this place, was a recent visitor at the home of relatives and friends here.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Fyler and his brother drove to Manson, Iowa, last week to visit at the home of Mr. Fyler's mother.

—I—

J. D. Baker and family drove to Mason City one day last week to spend the day.

—I—

Rev Bureff of Klemme filled the pulpit at the Methodist church on Sunday of this week, Rev. Edge going to Klemme in exchange. Very good opisions were expressed on the sermons of Rev. Bureff.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay of Garner were guests last Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ramsay.

Mrs. Baker returned last Wednesday from her visit with relatives in Neraska.

—I—

Mrs. Wallace Ramsay and daughter Ruth left Tuesday for Des Moines for a few days vivsit with relatives at that place.

—I—

E. F. Bailey and daughter Doris were visitors at Clarion the first of the week.

—I—

Mrs. Rose Thorman of Clarion was a guest of friends here the first of the week.

—I—

Rev. and Mrs. Edge and Rev. Bureff drove to Clarion on Monday of this week to attend a ministerial meeting held at that place.

—I—

Rev. Walker of Clarion will give an illustrated lecture in the Methodist church on Friday of this week. No admission will be charged and no collection taken. All are invited.

—I—

Mrs Galbraith and Miss LaVonne of Meservey were shoppers here on Tuesday of this week.

—I—

We use only especially prepared, high test odorless gasolene, in our dry cleaning your suits and dresses. —Belmond Tailor Shop, F J. Tuffree, Prop. South of Hotel.

ROBINSON'S

Sugar	$8.50
Rolled Oats, bulk, 6 pounds for	25c
Fancy Prunes, per lb.	10c
Extra Fancy Prunes	12½ c
Peas, corn, tomatoes per can	10c
Pears, No. 2½ can	20c
Apricots, No. 2½	20c
Oranges, per doz.	25c

KANAWHA NEWS ITEMS

James Wagoner, of Clear Lake came Wednesday for a visit with relatives and friends here.

Knute Fosen and Happy Hall were Ft. Dodge callers the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Petheram and family left Wednesday for California, where they expect to spend the summer months.

Severt Heggen, of Belmond was greeting friends here Wednesday.

Miss Edna Johnson, who has been clerking is Minneapolis for some time came Tuesday for a short visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Johnson.

Howard Welch, of Dows, came Wednesday for a visit with relatives and friends.

William Johnson, who has been attending school at Des Moines returned home Thursday and will assist with the work at the Johnson drug store here during the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rankins left Thursday for California, making the by auto.

Henry Anderson and daughter, Miss Frances were callers in our little city Friday.

Mr. Wickman, of Garner was a s caller here Friday of this week.

Oscar Johnson was a Fort Dodge caller, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stotts and son, of Albert Lea, were greeting friends here Sunday.

Wm. Nleson, of Belmond, was a business caller here Tuesday.

J. W. Bailey and son, Wallace returned home Tuesday from a visit with reatives and friends at Omaha.

Miss Ruth Ostwald, who has been assisting with the work at the Dr. Judd home, left Saturday for a short visit with friends at Belmond, before returning to her home at Whitemore.

Si Petersson, of Corwith was greeting frends here Wednesday.

BELMOND SUMMER SCHOOL, UNITED BUSINESS INSTITUTE THE FINANCE AND COMMERCIAL COLLEGE OF DES MOINES UNIVERSITY

Is holding a summer school in Belmond, giving instructions in Typewriting, Shorthand, Bookkeeping and all commercial subjects. In order to get the class started the first five students will be given the course at actual cost. Instructors from the University will be sent out at regular intervals to take charge of the class.

Upon completion of the course, students are guaranteed to get position or tuition refunded if not satisfied. Students will be given the same credit as if the course was taken at the University.

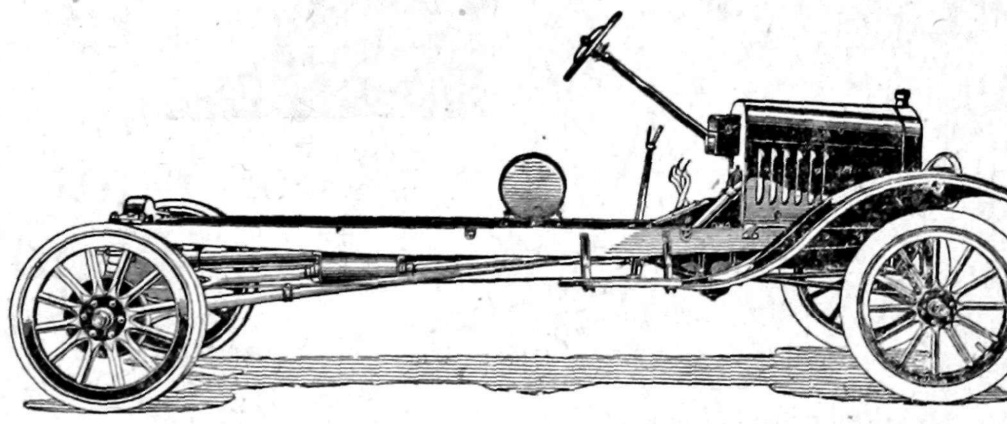
Here is an opportunity to secure a business education which you may never have again.

Call Mr. Hackett at Miss Gealow's Boarding House, Phone 316, or write the United Business Institute, Des Moines University.

Remember the first five get free scholarships.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR



The economical delivery service offered by the Ford Truck often makes it possible for the merchant or manufacturer to reach out for business that otherwise be closed to him. It enables him to expand-- to do a profitable business in outlying districts, near-by villages and suburbs.

A motorized delivery or hauling service broadens the business field and becomes a payer of dividends and a business builder for its owner.

Start now to build up your business with a Ford Truck.

Belmond Auto Company

Authorized Dealers

Louis Tokman Phone 108 G. F. Heginger

Oxfords & Strap Slippers for Summer Wear

Our stock comprises every style that you could possibly need.

Blacks Browns Greys

Whites and the New Sport Models

some in plain white, others are trimmed with either brown calf or dull, black kid leather.

We have selected a range of styles, each type designed to add to the enjoyment of your summer hours. They're not high priced either.

$5.00 to $12.00

Simply good enough and stylish enough to be worth every cent you pay for them.

Woodruff Shoe Co.

115 N. Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa

Try our One Day Repair Service

SPECIAL LOCALS

The Chapman bunch of ball tossers met the team from the county seat town last week, and put up such a stiff battle that the Clarion aggregation only beat them by one run, the score being six to seven.

—I—

For sale—60 gallon gasolene barrel with faucet.—T. D. Rankins

—I—

Mrs. Clyde Jennings expects to leave this week for different points in South Dakota, where she will spend a few weeks visiting at the home of relatives.

—I—

A free pair of pants with every order for a new suit.—Belmond Tailor Shop. South of Hotel.

—I—

Rev. Leinbach and Sam Lieuwen were greeting old acquaintances at the West Bend ball game last week Friday, both gentlemen having resided at West Bend for several years prior to moving here.

—I—

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 210. 23tfc

—I—

The fishing parties at the lakes adjacent to Belmond have been many and large the past week or two and reports of the catches appear to be getting better. Morse Lake seems to draw the most people from here and the fishing there is reported as being very good for bull heads. And a bull head cooked right is worth the trip to catch him.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—Belmond Tailor Shop, Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

The Belmond Candy Kitchen opened for business last week with Steve Antonio in charge as manager, and has been doing a very nice business. Mr. Antonio is a pleasant and most agreeable young man, and has made many friends in Belmond in his few weeks spent in the town so far.

—I—

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Mr. Dorr has been doing a land office business with his pop corn outfit at the ball games lately. Last Friday at the West Bend game he could hardly wait on his customers fast enough.

—I—

Headquarters for Fishing Tackle and the American Kampkook Stove at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph and family from Rowan were in town last week Saturday attending the first band concert and doing some shopping here.

—I—

Home made lard for sale.—Mrs. A. W. Martin.

—I—

S. D. Martin returned the first of the week from Elgin, Illinois, where he had been the past week or two visiting at the home of his brother there.

—I—

Try our high test kerosene in your oil stove.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Rev. Leinbach went to Fonda, the first of this week, where on Monday he officiated at the funeral of an old friend of his.

—I—

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

Eight room house for rent, one block north of Spruce street. Inquire at Community Filling Station.

—I—

For the Spring Frys—just arrived a new lot of panacea and louse killer at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Hector Nelson came up from Fort Dodge last Saturday to spend the week end with friends and relatives in Belmond.

—I—

If you intend to buy a separator or threshing machine, I can sell you anything you need and at the right price.—Christ Rise. 25tfc

—I—

The friends of Mrs. Pernell will be glad to learn that she has been granted the penssion she has sought for so long, and will receive back pay on her late husband's pension for several years, giving her a nice tidy sum of money.

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

The LuVerne bills of the ball game with Belmond caused much amusement among the fans here by their remarks about the "all-salaried Belmond team."

—I—

Our guarantee stands behind every sack of Peacock Flour. $2.45 a sack. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

—I—

Bertus Standtlander of Meservey was a caller here one day last week attending to some business matters.

—I—

Mrs. McCauley and baby of Des Moines have been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Groh.

—I—

A nice lot of Gingham Coverall Aprons. Price $2.50, at the Woman's Exchange.—Miss Mary Gealow.

—I—

A. A. Arnold of Hampton was a caller here on Friday of last week, attending to some business matters at this place.

—I—

Wm. Nuehring hauls gravel. For orders phone 2213. Those who owe for gravel pay at Belmond Lumber Co. 16tf

—I—

Virgil Casper and wife of Algona were callers here one day last week.

—I—

Miss Edna Johnson of Kanawha, who is employed in Mineapolis and who has been visiting her parents at Kanawha the past few days, was in Belmond last Saturday enroute to Minneapolis to resume her work. From there she goes to Glacier Park, Montana, for the summer months where she will be employed, combing a needed vacation with business. She was accompanied by her brother Paul and her uncle, Russell Garton, who were going to visit with relatives at Browndale, Minnesota, for a few days.

—I—

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

—I—

S. T. Kruse of Ackley was a business visitor here one day last week.

—I—

We are making as good chick feed as there is on the market. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tf

—I—

Wayne Pond, who has been working at Hampton for the past few months with a road gang, came over last week to attend the reunion of his graduating class, the class of 1916, which was held at Morse Lake on Friday evening.

—I—

We now have the high test kerosene and gasoline for sale.—Townsan Hardware.

A. D. White and daughter, Mrs. Hughes of Goodell were in this city Saturday to attend the funeral of Frank Christie.

—I—

Mrs. Ted Towsan and little daughter were recent guests at the home of relatives in Eagle Grove.

—I—

Mrs. Frank McGuire of Dubuque has been visiting at the home of her relatives here the past week.

—I—

The American Legion base ball team had a game scheduled with the Legion team at Eagle Grove for last week Monday, but were forced to cancel it on account of the rain. It is understood that they will meet the Legion team of that place in the near future.

—I—

If you want all the news all the time, read the Independent.

Miss Hilda Madsen, who has been teaching in Arizona the past winter, returned home last week. On Sunday she visited with the Geo. Peterson family at Ames, and from that place she went to Cedar Rapids where she will attend summer school for the next month or two.

—I—

N. B. Olson and George Whitten of Rowan were business callers here on Monday afternoon of this week.

—I—

P. L. Bowles of Oskaloosa was a visitor here on Friday of last week looking after some affairs of business.

—I—

A. L. Ramstad of Albert Lea, Minnesota, was a visitor with his friends in this place on Thursday of last week.

—I—

W. A. Hackett, whose home is at Iowa Falls, was a caller here on some business matters last week Friday.

—I—

W. O. Butterfield of this city was a caller at Goodell on Saturday, attending to some business affairs and greeting old friends at that place.

—I—

Gordon C. Dana of Perry, Iowa, is the new employee at the Auto Repair Shop conducted by E. G. Miller.

—I—

M. C. Barry and wife, Miss Mary Barry and the Rev. Father Eardley attended an initiation of the K. C's. held at Webster City last week, and while there visited at the home of Father Barry. They report a very enjoyable time.

—I—

Martin Cosgriff of Britt was a caller here on Wednesday of last week, looking after some matters of business.

—I—

Miss Helen Haven, who has been attending school at Grand Junction, Iowa, the past winter, came last week to be at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Miller.

—I—

The many friends in Belmond of Mrs. W. H. Galliger will be glad to learn that she is improving in health. She has been very dangerously ill for some time and last week was not expected to live, but she has taken a change for the better and is reported as improving daily.

—I—

C. B. Mason of Mason City was a business visitor here on Wednesday of last week.

—I—

Ray Crabtree was a visitor in this city one day recently. His home is at Clarion.

—I—

T. K. Anderson who resides at Charles City was a business caller here on Friday.

—I—

The Royal Neighbor ladies have been holding their regular monthly meetings at the homes of the members, and some very enjoyable times have been reported. The last meeting was held at the home of Mrs. L. Collins, refreshments being served after the business meeting.

—I—

Charles Papousek was a business caller at Klemme last week.

R. H. Klemme was a business visitor at Mason City one day last week.

—I—

Among the people from Rowan who came up Saturday to attended the first band concert and to do some shopping here, was R. E. Lee Aldrich and wife.

—I—

H. J. C. Box and daughter from Rowan were in attendance at the first band concert last Saturday evening.

—I—

Miss Lucretia Morse left last week for Minnesota, where she will spend a week or two visiting at the home of relatives.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs H. C. Thompson of Fort Dodge came up last week for a day or two with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. C. J. Boughton, who has been ill for some months from the effects of blood poisoning in one foot, is reported as improving slowly. As Mrs. Boughton is past eighty years of age her recovery from such an illness and the effects of the amputation of her foot, is most remarkable. Her many friends will hope for her complete and speedy recovery.

—I—

Homer Templeton of Ames was a visitor here on Wedsesday of last week.

—I—

Walter Peterson of Hampton was a visitor Sunday of this week at the home of his grandmother, Mrs P. J. Peterson.

—I—

Mrs. S. R. Huntington and children who have been visiting relatives here for the past week returned to their home at Dinsdale, Iowa, on Monday of this week. Mrs. Huntigton, mother of Mr. Huntington, accompanied them home for a few days visit.

—I—

C. M. . Morse and Clarence Obrecht drove to Des Moines on Monday evening of this week, to be present at a bankers' convention being held at that place this week.

—I—

W. C. Pech came home last Saturday to spend the week end with his family. He is now working at Wesyley on the water system of the town.

—I—

Maurice Mulnix of Rochester, Minnesota was a caller here on Saturday of last week.

—I—

S. D. Martin and C. A. Church left last week for Waterloo, where they will attend the state encampment of the G. A. R.

—I—

A. J Dorr has been installing the side walks along the Welding company's grounds this week.

—I—

The corn crop certainly looks in the best of condition where it has been plowed, but owing to the rainy ther there are a number of the fields where the farmers have not been able to get in, and they are in pretty weedy shape. The color of the corn is good and the growth as good as this time last year. Small grain is booming, and the prospects are for a big crop.

—I—

If any subscriber of the Independent has a copy of the May 4th issue they can dispose of it for 25 cents by bringing to this office.

—I—

Belmond folks are beginning to plan where they will spend the glorious Fourth this year, and have the choice of Ackley, Hampton, Clear Lake and Clarion. The majority of them appear to be planning on going to the county seat to spend the day. The county seat town has a very good program arranged, and it is probable that most Belmond people will go there.

—I—

Miss Ialeen Flynn arrived home last week from Glendale, Arizona, where she has been the past year teaching in the schools at that place.

—I—

Attorney W. E. Bullard was a caller on legal business at the county seat the first of the week.

—I—

C. H. Pullin drove down from Minnesota last week for a short visit with his family here.

—I—

Mr and Mrs. P. Barban are the happy parents of a fine baby boy who came to their home on Tuesday night of this week. The youngster weighed nine pounds.

—I—

Miss Kate Liddle, the county Red Cross nurse, was in town on business Tuesday afternoon of this week.

M. J. Thoe is installing cement walks along the front of the Independent office, the Nordschow Motor company office, and the photo gallery, Arne Skaar doing the work.

—I—

Mrs. Galliger of Louisville, Kentucky, came last week, called here by the serious illness of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Galliger.

—I—

Summer is here. The fact is proven by the street sprinkler, which started on its daily rounds the first of the week.

—I—

Henry Crist has returned from his trip to Illinois, where he had been the last couple of weeks visting at the home of friends.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Morse and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bohning spent Sunday at Olaf at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orpha Anderson.

—I—

Alec. McGregor of Des Moines was in town on Monday of this week, on business matters and meeting old friends. He recently returned from his trip to California, where he and his family spent most of the winter.

—I—

Mrs. Thomas B. McCauley and two cildren of Des oinMes came on Friday of last week to spend a few weeks visiting here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Groh.

—I—

Miss Agnes Clark returned last week from Clinton, Iowa, where she has been attending school the past year.

—I—

Miss Dolly Wilson, editor of the Register at Meservey, was in town on Monday of this week enroute to her duties at Meservey after a two weeks' vacation spent at her home at Moulton, Iowa. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Hazel, who will remain at Meservey for a week or two.

—I—

Henry Slinging was a business visitor at the county seat the first of the week, and also visited at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Floyd Doctor of that place.

—I—

Henry Schultz was among those who attended the ball game at LuVerne, Sunday.

—I—

Miss Nell Sullivan has been visiting at the home of her aunt in Dows the past few days.

—I—

J. M. Jensen was a legal caller at the county seat town on Tuesday afternoon.

—I—

Found—Hand bag. Owner can secure same by proving property and paying advertising costs. Call at the Independent.

—I—

Will Parker was one of the ball fans who drove to LuVerne on Sunday.

—I—

The ladies of St. John's Lutheran church held an ice cream social on the lawn of the church grounds last Saturday evening, serving ice cream and cake. They cleared around $25 in the evening.

—I—

Mr and Mrs. V. K. Mikesell were at LuVerne, Sunday, to see the ball game there between that place and Belmond.

—I—

C. T. Craven of Mason City was among the business callers here last week.

—I—

Mrs. Gus Okrueg and Mrs Geo. Ruka of Goodell were shoppers in Belmond on Thursday. They also attended the graduation exercises at the school here, when Mrs. Okreug's daughter Dortha graduated from the Belmond high school.

—I—

The local students who are attending Morningside College at Sioux City are commencing to return home for the summer, school being out at the college last week.

—I—

Miss Gilda Nelson, who has been quite ill the past week or two with an attack of pneumonia, is reported as recovering nicely.

—I—

Geo. Hake has been awarded the contract for draining the east and west road from Clarion.

—I—

Clarence Obrecht drove down from Thornton on Monday of this week, and from here he drove to Des Moines to attend a bankers' convention.

—I—

Miss Blanche Box of Rowan was a visitor and shopper in Belmond on Saturday evening of last week.

—I—

Miss Rose Wallace, who has been teaching the past year at Manchester, Iowa, arrived home last week for a visit with the home folks. She expects to go to Minneapolis soon to visit her sister, Mae.

Next Week's Dance Program AT Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday June 14 and June 17

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices.

If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

Lyric

THURSDAY, JUNE 9
"BEWARE OF THE BRIDE"
A Fox picture featuring
ILEEN PERCY
Also a two-reel Sunshine comedy.
11c and 25c

FRIDAY, JUNE 10
"SKIRTS"
A 5-reel Sunshine comedy featuring the
SINGER MIDGETS
11c and 25c

SATURDAY, JUNE 11
"THE FIGHTING CHANCE"
A Paramount-Artcraft picture.
The sins of his fathers were on him. Around him, the downward drag of his loose-lived wasting set. Yet he took a chance for the girl of his dreams and fought!
Also a two-reel Educational comedy.
11c and 25c

MONDAY, JUNE 13
"THE SCOFFER"
An Allan Dwan picture. A powerful drama. Scenes of strife, of romance, of vivid action. Men who are real men; men who are beasts. Women wonderful in their love; women pitiable in their frailty.
11c and 25c

TUESDAY, JUNE 14
"RESPECTABLE BY PROXY"
A Pathe picture featuring
SYLVIA BREMER
and
ROBERT GORDON
He was a gay young blade who married a chorus girl. When he was reported dead, another chorus jane posed as his wife to get his money; then he came home; climax! Then came the barricade between their rooms.
11c and 25c

Parson's Special

1 can of 50c Cocoa	40c
1 Loaf of Bread	10c
20 Bars White Laundry Soap	95c
A few pieces 40 in. Voiles, 75c value	50c
Union Underwear for Men	90c
49 lb. sack Blain Certified Flour	2.75

Our low prices in groceries are moving them fast.

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30
We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

My Bread is Clean

It isn't enough that bread should look well and taste well, it must be made of clean flour by clean bakers in a clean shop.

Belmond Bakery

Located in Cash Market
P. Barban, Prop.

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

BOONE TOWNSHIP SCHOOL PICNIC

About 300 Boone township farmers, thier wives and children, turned out to the annual township picnic which was held at Smith's park northeast of Renwick, Thursday, June 2.

The regular program did not begin until afternoon on account of a shower during the night. Most of the picnicers arrived in time to enjoy the picnic which was spread on the picnic table which was provided for that purpose.

The picnic dinner was followed by the school program which consisted of several recitations, dialogues and several musical selections, after which the eighth grade diplomas were presented by Miss Blanche Bcok, county superintendent. The school program was followed by a short talk by county agent Edwards, who talked on educational problems. The program was followed by several athletic stunts including 100 yard dash, three legged race, sack race and many other exciting stunts. The interesting part of the program in athletics was the base ball game between Renwick and Boone Valley teams.

PLEASANT FARM BUREAU MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Farmers of Pleasant township enjoyed a most interesting social evening at the home of J. F. Henn, Friday evening, June 3. About 250 people were in attendance at this community gathering.

Thru the kind efforts of Mr. Henn seats were provided on the lawn for those who found it possible to attend. Lanterns were hung at various points on the home porch which made the surroundings seem more home like.

A. L. Middletown of Eagle Grove (Troy township) gave the principal address of the evening. J. H. Abernathy of Boone township was to have appeared but he was unable to fill this appointment and Mr. Middleton was substituted in his stead. Mr. Middleton started his most interesting talk by giving a brief survey of the farm bureau work and urging upon the farmers to be loyal to the farm bureau organization and reminded them of the great responsibilities which rests upon this organization at the present time. Mr. Middleton talked for an hour or more on the committee of seventeen and the plans which were drafted and put in force by this committee. It will be remembered that Mr. Middleton was appointed a committee member of the National Grain Marketing committee of seventeen. With his past experience as a member of the committee of seventeen and as a member of the executive committee for the Third district of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation and with his problems as a practical farmer Mr. Middleton held the interest of his listeners for over an hour.

Mr. Middleton's talk was followed by refreshments served by the ladies of Pleasant township. Ice cream and cake was served to all members of the jolly crowd and the party broke up at about 11:00 o'clock. Pleasant township farmers realize the benefit from meeting with one another and talking over one another's problems.

TROY TOWNSHIP SCHOOL PICNIC

The annual Troy township picnic was held at the Troy Center grove Friday, June 3, and was attended by nearly 300 people of the community. The Tri-Star quintette of Dows furnished music for the occasion.

The first part of the program was given by representatives of the various schools in the township. Musical selections, readings and drills were given by the school pupils. Eighteen pupils received diplomas for the completion of the eighth grade work.

Rev. W. G. Muhlman of the Eagle Grove Methodist church gave the principal address of the occasion Mr. Muhlman's talk was most interesting instructive and inspiring. He reminded his young friends of the great responsibilities of life which are yet ahead of them.

Rev. Muhlman's address was followed by the sumptuous dinner which was spread upon the picnic tables and everyone seemed to enjoy the open air banquet.

The afternoon program was opened by a short address by Miss Kate Liddle, county health nurse, who urged upon the parents and children a closer attention to the health of the growing boys and girls. Miss Liddle was followed by the county agent, who gave a short talk on education and then spoke briefly of the farm bureau work. This part of the program was followed by the school exhibit. Each school in the township was represented in this exhibit and the final placings showed district No. 1 first, and No. 2 second in the exhibit.

The feature of the whole day's entertainment was the base ball game between Troy and Woolstock townships, both teams were in good condition and exhibited a good brand of baseball during the forepart of the game. Troy township won the game with a final score of 13 to 7.

CHEESE DEMONSTRATION A SUCCESS

Thirty-three ladies of Grant, Lake and neighboring townships enjoyed a most interesting demonstration of cheese making at the home of Mrs. J. Bell, four miles north of Clarion, on Tuesday, May 31. Prof. Rudnick, of the dairy department, Iowa State College, gave a demonstration of the methods of making commercial cheese.

Those who attended this demonstration are to be congratulated upon the extreme interest shown as well as the splendid attendance because Mr. Rudnick made the statement that in all his demonstrations thruout the state he had never held one where there was more interest shown in the demonstration

GRANT GIRLS MEET

Fourteen of the Grant township girls met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Velda Hill for the purpose of organizing a girls garment club. A good many of the mothers were present and all were very much interested. The meeting was called to order with Miss Hazel Spencer the leader acting as chairman and Miss Violet Lukens as secretary. The club pledges were then signed and the business of electing officers came next. The following were elected: Miss Lillian Sebert, president, Lila Hardy, vice president, Blanche Sibert, secretary, Pearl Woodley, treasurer, Dorothea Lukens, club reporter. These officers took their respective positions as soon as elected and carried on the meeting in a manner that did them credit.

Three committees were appointed during the afternoon; one to make and draw up the bylaws and constitution for the club. The second committee is to look up suitable name and slogan for the club. A program committee was also appointed to plan the meeting places etc. for the coming year. These committees are to report at the next meeting.

The girls are to spend a given time each meeting in games and out door sports. This division of the club is to be in charge of Miss Lukens.

Miss Bock attended the meeting and gave many helpful suggestions.

Ice cream and cake were served by the hostess late in the afternoon The girls departed eager for the next meeting which is to be held at the home of Maxine Morford, with Pearl Woodley as assistant hostess. This meeting will be on Wednesday, June 15, at 2:30 p m. It is one of the club's strong points to always start on time.

MUST KEEP OUTLET CLEAN IN FARM DRAINAGE SYSTEM

A clear outlet is one of the essential features of a successful tile drainage system.

It is good practice to inspect the outlet at least twice a year and clear away all rubbish and dirt that may have collected in front of it.

When dirt and trash is allowed to collect so as to hold water back in the tile serious trouble is very apt to result. All tile lines carry more ro less sediment and if the speed of the water is checked at the outlet some of this sediment will be dropped in the tile.

If the tile are laid on a comparatively flat grade, as is usually necessary, this dirt will be deposited for a considerable distance back of the line and the capacity is reduced accordingly. Reducing the capacity reduces the worth of the system and is a waste of money.

SPRAYED GARDEN TRUCK WILL NOT POISON ONE

The belief that garden truck which has been sprayed cannot be used

Garden foods, such as cabbage, lettuce, spinach, gooseberries and currants, when sprayed with arsenicals, are looked upon with doubt by many housewives. To remove this doubt the results of an experiment conducted in Colorado some years ago will undoubtedly suffice. Cabbages were sprayed with lead arsenate at the ordinary strength. These cabbages were treated to remove all of the arsenic, which was actually weighed. From these experiments it was fuond that the average person would have to consume 28 heads of sprayed cabbage at one meal to even cause the first symptoms of sickness due to arsenical poisoning.

Altho this experiment proves that sprayed garden crops are not dangerous, some care should be exercises in their use. Such sprayed crops as cabbage or lettuce should be well washed before going to the table. The same applies to gooseberries and currants.

BOY CHAMPION PRODUCED 113 BUSHELS CORN ON ACRE

Harry Christenson, a fourteen year old corn club member residing in Brookings, has successfully demonstrated that South Dakota must be reckoned with as a corn producing state.

Harry is the champion state corn grower in boys' and girls' club work, having raised 113 3-4 bushels on his acre last year. He took the sweepstakes on yield in the state. His yield surpassed all others ever reported in the state. Harry also took prizes at the county and state fairs, at the Sinai corn show and at the Corn and Grain Growers' show. These prizes attest that besides raising quantity, Harry also watched carefully the quality of his crop.

The corn club work, according to the state club leaders at State college, includes a greater number of competitors this year than in 1920. At present there are 448 enrolled in corn project work. Each of these receives instructions and suggestions as to the best method of corn culture. Each is also taught to use the junior account book.

All are forming habits and assimilating knowledge that will remain with them for the remainder of their lives. They will be better men and women as a result of their youthful traising in corn growing.

NO DIFFERENCE IN CANE AND BEET SUGAR

Every once in a while something occurs in this mundane paradise of professional propagandists to give us the gladsome assurance that the cold truth is still able to hold its own against hot air.

A few years ago when the question as to the relative merits of beet and cane sugar became of really paramount concern in California owing to the rapid increase of the state's fruit growing and canning industries, the state authorities adopted the very sensible plan of creating a commission to conduct an investigation that would determine once and for all whether either kind of sugar had any advantage over the other in preserving fruits.

This commission was composed mainly of disinterested technical experts, who spent a year and a half in making exhaustive analytical comparisons and tests. The results of their labors are set forth in a state document. The conclusion unanimously reached by the commission was that there was no distinguishable difference between the two kinds of sugar and that they are equally valuabe for canning purposes.

Among the many illuminating statements contained in the commission's report is one to the effect that beet and cane sugar were used in an equal number of cans of the same kind of fruit, and that these cans were kept the same length of time and then opened; whereupon it was found that one more can had spoiled where cane sugar was used than where beet sugar was used. However, this proved nothing against cane sugar, as in every case of a spoiled can the trouble was traced to the improper sealing of the can.

It thus appears that in this most trustworthy series of tests the domestic beet sugar fully held its own with cane sugar—that it proved itself in every instance the equal in chemical purity and utility of its imported competitor. Similar authoritative tests have been conducted in Europe—where the people use beet sugar almost exclusively and where the popular prejudice against cane sugar is even stronger than is the prejudice here against beet sugar—and always with the same fifty-fifty result.

These repeated demonstrations of the groundlessness of the artfully inculcated belief that one kind of sugar has "got it all over" the other kind for fruit preserving purposes calls irresistibly to mind the story of the famous Chicago judge who was once saluted on the street by a confidence man, who said: "I believe that you are Mr. Charles Johnson of Denver." The judge simply answered: "If you believe that you will believe anything." Hereafter whenever you hear anyone asserting his or her belief that beet sugar is inferior to cane sugar, just put it down that such a person is capable of believing any thing. ***

HAMPTON POST OFFICE ROBBED

Chronicle: Two full sacks of mail were stolen from the Hampton post office early Saturday morning by whom the city officials believe to be local robbers. Nothing else in the post office gave any evidence that the yeggs had tampered with the safe or stamp drawers. The pouches taken were selected from 14 mail sacks which were in the office at the time. The stolen sacks were those of incoming mail from the west on the Chicago Great Western and from the south on the M. & St. L. railways. Entrance was made thru the rear door of the postoffice, a pane of glass having been carefully removed and set to one side so that the door knob of the Yale lock could be turned by nserting the hand thru the opening. No substantial clue to the identity of the robbers has been found, but several persons are held under suspicion. Mail inspectors are expected to arrive this week to make investigations.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

BODIES OF HAMPTON SOLDIERS RETURNED

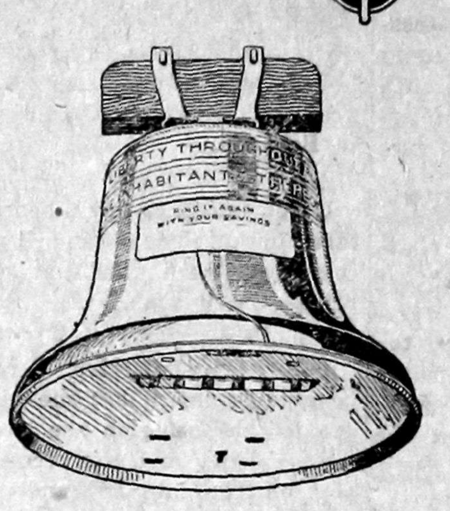
Recorder: The body of George Arthur Aldinger, the first Franklin county boy to enlist in the United States army and the first Franklin county boy to lose his life in France, will arrive in New York on June 2, according to word received here by his father, William Aldinger. Geo. Aldinger was a member of the famous Rainbow division and prior to his enlistment in the regular army served with the National Guard of Iowa along the Mexican border. The American Legion post in Hampton is named in memory of him, as are many of the posts of the United States named after their first soldier resident to lose his life in France.

R. W. Kugler of this city received word Tuesday morning from the war department at Washington that the body of his nephew, Lieut. Emil Messelheiser, who died of bronchial-pneumonia Dec. 10, 1918, in France, would arrive in New York June 2.

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, coedine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

STRENGTH SERVICE



Get one of the miniature Liberty Bells to drop pin money in at home---it counts fast towards success.

Teach Your Children to Save

Your children will learn more of the value of money through having a bank account than by any other means. It encourages them to see the amount increase, and at 5 per cent interest compounded semi-annually, it doesn't take long to save large sums.

Why not start an account for them now---the ultimate benefits will be inestimable. One dollar is sufficient to open a Term Savings Account.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

The Belmond Independent
Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings.

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

by IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

Sarah gave the Irish family a good supply of cookies and jerked venison before she bade them good-by.

When our travelers left, next morning, they stopped for a last look at the great falls.

"Children," said Samson, "I want you to take a good look at that. It's the most wonderful thing in the world and maybe you'll never see it again."

"The Indians used to think that the Great Spirit was in this river," said Sarah.

"Kind o' seems to me they were right," Samson remarked thoughtfully. "Kind o' seems as if the great spirit

"Kind o' Seems As If the Great Spirit of America Was in That Water."

of America was in that water. It moves on in the way it wills and nothing can stop it. Everything in its current goes along with it."

"And only the strong can stand the journey," said Sarah.

These words were no doubt inspired by an ache in her bones. A hard seat and the ceaseless jolting of the wagon through long, hot, dusty days had wearied them. Even their hearts were getting sore as they thought of the endless reaches of the roads ahead. Samson stuffed a sack with straw and put it under her and the children on the seat. At a word of complaint he was wont to say:

"I know it's awful tiresome, but we got to have patience. We're goin' to get used to it and have a wonderful lot of fun. The time'll pass quick—you see." Then he would sing and get them all laughing with some curious bit of drollery. They spent the night of July third at a tavern in Buffalo, then a busy, crude and rapid growing center for the shipping east and west.

There were emigrants on their way to the Far West in the crowd—men, women and children and babies in arms—Irish, English, Germans and Yankees. There were also well-dressed, handsome young men from the colleges of New England going out to be missionaries "between the desert and the sown."

Buffalo, on the edge of the midland seas, had the flavor of the rank, new soil in it those days—and especially that day, when it was thronged with rough coated and rougher tongued, swearing men on a holiday, stevedores and boatmen off the lakes and rivers of the middle border—some of whom had had their training on the Ohio and Mississippi. There was much drunkenness and fighting in the crowded streets. Some of the carriers handlers of American commerce their enthusiasm in song.

ad the lake view and its

on their way to Silver

We

kirk and Erie, and a t was in those days.

as been written of this arisome journey, but the

as ahead of them—much

it—in the swamp flats

Indiana. In one of the former a wagon wheel broke down, and that day Sarah began to shake with ague and burn with fever. Samson built a rude camp by the roadside, put Sarah into bed under its cover and started for the nearest village on Colonel's back.

"I shall never forget that day spent in a lonely part of the woods," the good woman wrote to her brother. "It endeared the children to me more than any day I can remember. They brought water from the creek, a great quantity, and told me stories and cheered me in every way they could. My faith in God's protection was perfect and in spite of my misery the children were a great comfort. In the middle of the afternoon Samson returned with a doctor and some tools and a stick of seasoned timber. How good he looked when he came and knelt by my bed and kissed me! This is a hard journey, but a woman can bear anything with such a man. The doctor said I would be all right in three days, and I was.

"Late that afternoon it began to rain. Samson was singing as he worked on his wheel. A traveler came along on horseback and saw our plight. He was a young missionary going west. Samson began to joke with him.

"'You're a happy man for one in so much trouble,' said the stranger.

"Then I heard Samson say: 'Well, sir, I'm in a fix where happiness is absolutely necessary. It's like grease on the wagon wheels—we couldn't go on without it. When we need anything we make it if we can. My wife is sick and the wagon is broke and it's raining and night is near in a lonesome country, and it ain't a real good time for me to be down in the mouth—is it, now? We haven't broke any bones or had an earthquake or been scalped by Indians, so there's some room for happiness.'

"'Look here, stranger—I like you,' said the man. 'If there's anything I can do to help ye, I'll stop a while.'"

He spent the night with them and helped mend the felly and set the tire.

The fever and ague passed from one to another and all were sick before the journey ended, although Samson kept the reins in hand through his misery. There were many breaks to mend, but Samson's ingenuity was always equal to the task.

One day, near nightfall, they were overtaken by a tall, handsome Yankee lad riding a pony. His pony stopped beside the wagon and looked toward the travelers as if appealing for help. The boy was pointing toward the horizon and muttering. Sarah saw at once that his mind was wandering in the delirium of fever. She got out of the wagon and took his hand. The moment she did so he began crying like a child.

"This boy is sick," she said to Samson, who came and helped him off his horse. They camped for the night and put the boy to bed and gave him medicine and tender care. He was too sick to travel next day. The Traylors stayed with him and nursed the lad until he was able to go on. He was from Niagara county, New York, and his name was Harry Needles. His mother had died when he was ten and his father had married again. He had not been happy in his home after that and his father had given him a pony and a hundred dollars and sent him away to seek his own fortune. Homesick and lonely and ill, and just going west with a sublime faith that the West would somehow provide for him, he might even have perished on the way if he had not fallen in with friendly people. His story had touched the heart of Sarah and Samson. He was a big, green, gentle-hearted country boy who had set out filled with hope and the love of adventure. Sarah found pleasure in mothering the poor lad, and so it happened that he became one of their little party. He was helpful and good-natured and had sundry arts that pleased the children. The man and the woman liked the big, honest lad.

One day he said to Samson: "I hope you won't mind if I go along with you, sir."

"Glad to have you with us," said Samson. "We've talked it over. If you want to, you can come along with us and our home shall be yours and I'll do what's right by you."

They fared along through Indiana and over the wide savannas of Illinois, and on the ninety-seventh day of their journey they drove through rolling, grassy, flowering prairies and up a long, hard hill to the small log cabin settlement of New Salem, Illinois, on the shore of the Sangamon. They halted about noon in the middle of this little prairie village, opposite a small clapboard house. A sign hung over its door which bore the rudely lettered words: "Rutledge's Tavern."

A long, slim, stoop-shouldered young man sat in the shade of an oak tree that stood near a corner of the tavern, with a number of children playing around him. He sat leaning against the tree trunk reading a book. He had risen as they came near and stood looking at them, with the book under his arm. Samson says in his diary that he looked like "an untrimmed yearling colt about sixteen hands high. He got up slow and kept rising till his bush of black tousled hair was six feet four above the ground. Then he put on an old straw hat without any band on it. He reminded me of Philemon Baker's fish rod, he was that narrer. For humliness I'd match him against the world. His hide was kind o' yaller and leathery. I could see he was still in the gristle—a little over twenty—but his face was marked up by worry and weather like a man's. I never saw anybody so long between joints. Don't hardly see how he could tell when his feet got cold."

He wore a hickory shirt without a collar or coat or jacket. One suspender held up his coarse, linsey trousers, the legs of which fitted closely and came only to a blue yarn zone above his heavy cowhide shoes. Samson writes that he "fetched a sneeze and wiped his big nose with a red handkerchief" as he stood surveying them in silence, while Dr. John Allen, who had sat on the door-step reading a paper—a kindly faced man of middle age with a short white beard under his chin—greeted them cheerfully.

"Where do you hail from?" the Doctor asked.

"Vermont," said Samson.

"All the way in that wagon?"

"Yes, sir."

"I guess you're made o' the right stuff," said the Doctor. "Where ye bound?"

"Don't know exactly. Going to take a claim somewhere."

"There's no better country than right here. This is the Canaan of America. We need people like you. Unhitch your team and have some dinner and we'll talk things over after you're rested. I'm the doctor here and I ride all over this part o' the country. I reckon I know it pretty well."

A woman in a neat calico dress came out of the door—a strong-built and rather well-flavored woman with blonde hair and dark eyes.

"Mrs. Rutledge, these are travelers from the East," said the Doctor. "Give 'em some dinner, and if they can't pay for it. I can. They've came all the way from Vermont."

"Good land! Come right in an' rest yerselves. Abe, you show the gentleman where to put his horses an' lend him a hand."

Abe extended his long arm toward Samson and said "Howdy" as they shook hands.

"When his big hand got hold of mine, I kind of felt his timber," Samson writes. "I says to myself, 'There's a man it would be hard to tip over in a rassle.'"

"What's yer name? How long ye been travelin'? My conscience! Ain't ye wore out?" the hospitable Mrs. Rutledge was asking as she went into the house with Sarah and the children. "You go and mix up with the little ones and let yer mother rest while I git dinner," she said to Joe and Betsey, and added as she took Sarah's shawl and bonnet: "You lop down an' rest yerself while I'm flyin' around the fire."

"Come all the way from Vermont?"

"Come All the Way From Vermont?" Abe Asked.

Abe asked as he and Samson were unhitching.

"Yes, sir."

"By jing!" the slim giant exclaimed. "I reckon you feel like throwin' off yer harness an' takin' a roll in the grass."

CHAPTER III.

Wherein the Reader Is Introduced to Offut's Store and His Clerk Abe, and the Scholar Jack Kelso and His Cabin and His Daughter Bim, and Gets a First Look at Lincoln.

They had a dinner of prairie chickens and roast venison, flavored with wild grape jelly, and creamed potatoes and cookies and doughnuts and raisin pie. It was a well-cooked dinner, served on white linen, in a clean room, and while they were eating, the sympathetic landlady stood by the table, eager to learn of their travels and to make them feel at home. The good food and their kindly welcome and the beauty of the rolling, wooded prairies softened the regret which had been growing in their hearts, and which only the children had dared to express.

"Perhaps we haven't made a mistake, after all," Sarah whispered when the dinner was over. "I like these people and the prairies are beautiful."

"It is the land of plenty at last," said Samson, as they came out of doors. "It is even better than I thought."

"As Douglas Jerrold said of Australia: 'Tickle it with a hoe and it laughs with a harvest,'" said Dr. Allen, who still sat in the shaded dooryard, smoking his pipe. "I have an extra horse and saddle. Suppose you leave the family with Mrs. Rutledge and ride around with me a little this afternoon. I can show you how the land lies off to the west of us, and tomorrow we'll look at the other side."

"Thank you—I want to look around here a little," said Samson. "What's the name of this place?"

"New Salem. We call it a village. It has a mill, a carding machine, a tavern, a schoolhouse, five stores, fourteen houses, two or three men of genius, and a noisy dam. It's a crude but growing place and soon it will have all the embellishments of civilized life."

That evening many of the inhabitants of the little village came to the tavern to see the travelers and were introduced by Dr. Allen. Most of them had come from Kentucky, although there were two Yankee families who had moved on from Ohio.

"These are good folks," said the Doctor. "There are others who are not so good. I could show you some pretty rough customers at Clary's Grove, not far from here. We have to take things as they are and do our best to make 'em better."

"Any Indians?" Sarah asked.

"You see one now and then, but they're peaceable. Most of 'em have gone with the buffaloes—farther west. Now and then a circuit rider gets here and preaches to us. You'll hear the Reverend Stephen Nuckles if you settle in these parts. He can holler louder than any man in the state."

The tavern was the only house in New Salem with stairs in it—stairs so steep, as Samson writes, that "they were first cousins to the ladder." There were four small rooms above them. Two of these were separated by a partition of cloth hanging from the rafters. In each was a bed and bedstead and smaller beds on the floor. In case there were a number of adult guests the bedstead was screened with sheets hung upon strings. In one of these rooms the travelers had a night of refreshing sleep.

After riding two days with the Doctor, Samson bought the claim of one Isaac Gollaher to a half section of land a little more than a mile from the western end of the village. He chose a site for his house on the edge of an open prairie.

"Now we'll go over and see Abe," said Dr. Allen, after the deal was made. "He's the best man with an ax and a saw in this part of the country. He clerks for Mr. Offut. Abe Lincoln is one of the best fellows that ever lived—a rough diamond just out of the great mine of the West, that only needs to be cut and polished."

Denton Offut's store was a small log structure about twenty by twenty which stood near the brow of the hill east of Rutledge's tavern. When they entered it Abe lay at full length on the counter, his head resting on a bolt of blue denim as he studied a book in his hand. He wore the same shirt and one suspender and linsey trousers which he had worn in the dooryard of the tavern, but his feet were covered only by his blue yarn socks.

It was a general store full of exotic flavors, chiefly those of tea, coffee, tobacco, muscovado sugar and molasses. There was a counter on each side. Bolts of cloth, mostly calico, were piled on the far end of the right counter as one entered and the near end held a showcase containing a display of cutlery, pewter spoons, jewelry and fishing tackle. There were double windows on either side of the rough board door with its wooden latch. The left counter held a case filled with threads, buttons, combs, colored ribbons, and belts and jew's-harps. A balance stood in the middle of this counter. A chest of tea, a big brown jug, a box of candles, a keg and a large wooden pail occupied its farther end. The shelving on its side walls was filled by straw hats, plug tobacco, bolts of cloth, pills and patent medicines and paste-board boxes containing shirts, handkerchiefs and underwear. At the rear end of the store was a large fireplace. There were two chairs near the fireplace, both of which were occupied by a man who sat in one while his feet lay on the other. He wore a calico shirt with a fanciful design of morning-glories on it printed in appropriate colors, a collar of the same material and a red necktie.

Abe laid aside his book and rose to a sitting posture.

"Pardon me—you see the firm is busy," said Abe. "You know Eb Zane used to say that he was never so busy in his life as when he lay on his back with a broken leg. He said he had to work twenty-four hours a day doin' nothin' an' could never git an hour off. But a broken leg is not so bad as a lame intellect. That lays you out with the fever an' ague of ignorance. Jack Kelso recommended Kirkham's pills and poultices of poetry. I'm trying both and slowly getting the better of it. I've learned three conjugations, between customers, this afternoon."

The sleeper, whose name was William Berry, rose and stretched himself and was introduced to the newcomer. He was a short, genial man, of some thirty years, with blonde, curly hair and mustache. His fat cheeks had a color as definite as that of the blossoms on his shirt, now rather soiled. His prominent nose shared their glow of ruddy opulence. His gray eyes wore a look of apology.

"Mr. Traylor, this is Mr. William Berry," said Dr. Allen. "Mr. Traylor has just acquired an interest in all our institutions. He has bought the Gollaher tract and is going to build a house and some fences. Abe, couldn't you help get the timber out in a hurry so we can have a raising within a week? You know the arts of the ax better than any of us."

Abe looked at Samson.

"I reckon he and I would make a good team with the ax," he said. "He looks as if he could push a house down with one hand and build it up with the other. You can bet I'll be glad to help in any way I can."

"We'll all turn in and help. I should think Bill or Jack Kelso could look after the store for a few days," said the Doctor. "I promised to take Mr. Traylor over to Jack Kelso's tonight. Couldn't you come along?"

"Good! We'll have a story-tellin' and get Jack to unlimber his guns," said Abe.

Jack Kelso's cabin, one of two which stood close together at the western end of the village, was lighted by the cheery blaze of dry logs in its fireplace. There were guns on a rack over the fireplace under a buck's head, a powder horn hanging near them on its string looped over a nail. There were wolf and deer and bear pelts on the floor. The skins of foxes, raccoons and wildcats adorned the log walls. Jack Kelso was a blond, smooth-faced, good-looking, merry-hearted Scot, about forty years old, of a rather slight build, some five feet, eight inches tall. That is all that any one knew of him save that he spent most of his time hunting and fishing and seemed to have all the best things, which great men had said or written, on the tip of his tongue.

"Welcome! and here's the best seat at the fireside," he said to Samson. "My wife and daughter are away for a visit and for two days I've had the cabin to myself. Look, ye worshipers of fire, and see how fine it is now! The homely cabin is a place of beauty. What a heaven it is when the flames are leaping! Here is Hogarth's line of beauty; nothing perpendicular or horizontal."

He took Abe's hand and went on: "Here, ye lovers of romance, is one of the story-tellers of Ispahan who has in him the wisdom of the wandering tribes. He can tell you a tale that will draw children from their play and old men from the chimney corner. My boy, take a chair next to Mr. Traylor. Mr. Traylor, you stand up as proud and firm as a big pine. I believe you're a Yankee."

"So do I," said Samson. "If you took all the Yankee out o' me I'd have an empty skin."

Then Abe began to show the stranger his peculiar art in these words:

"Stephen Nuckles used to say: 'God's grace embraces the isles o' the sea an' the uttermost parts o' the earth. It takes in the Esquimaux an' the Hottentots. Some go so fur to say that it takes in the Yankees but I don't go so fur.'"

Samson joined in the good-natured laughter that followed.

"If you deal with some Yankees you take your life in your hands," he said. "They can serve God or Mammon and I guess they have given the devil some of his best ideas. He seems to be getting a lot of Yankee notions lately."

"There was a powerful prejudice in Kentucky against the Yankees," Abe went on. "Down there they used to tell about a Yankee who sold his hogs and was driving them to town. On the way he decided that he had sold them too cheap. He left them with his drover in the road and went on to town and told the buyer that he would need help to bring 'em in.

"'How's that?' the buyer asked.

"Why they git away an' go to runnin' through the woods an' fields an' we can't keep up with 'em.'

"'I don't think I want 'em,' says the buyer. 'A speedy hog hasn't much pork to carry. I'll give ye twenty bits to let me off.'"

"I guess that Yankee had one more hog than he'd counted," said Samson.

"Whatever prejudice you may find here will soon vanish," said Kelso, turning to the newcomer. "I have great respect for the sturdy sons of New England. I believe it was Theodore Parker who said that the pine was the symbol of their character. He was right. Its roots are deep in the soil; it towers above the forest; it has the strength of tall masts and the substance of the builder in its body, music in its waving branches and turpentine in its veins. I thought of this when I saw Webster and heard him speak at Plymouth."

"What kind of a looking man is he?" Abe asked.

"A big erect, splendid figure of a man. He walked like a ram at the head of his flock."

Abe who since his story had sat with a sad face looking into the fire now leaned forward, his elbows on his knees, and shook his head with interest while his gray eyes took on a look of animation. The diary speaks often of the "veil of sadness" on his face.

"He is a very great man," Abe exclaimed.

"Have you learned that last noble flight o' his in the reply to Haynes, as you promised?" Kelso asked.

"I have," said Abe "and the other day when I was tramping back from Bowlin' Green's I came across a drove of cattle and stopped and gave it to them. They all let go of the grass and stood looking."

"Good! Now stand up and let us see how you imitate the great chief of the Whig clan," said Kelso.

The lank and awkward youth rose and began to speak the lines in a high-pitched voice that trembled with excitement. It lowered and steadied and rang out like noble music on a well-played trumpet as the channel of his spirit filled with the mighty current of the orator's passion. Then, indeed, the words fell from his lips "like the winter snows."

"They shook our hearts as the wind shakes the branches of a tree," Samson writes in his diary. "The lean, bony body of the boy was transfigured and as I looked at his face in the firelight I thought it was handsome.

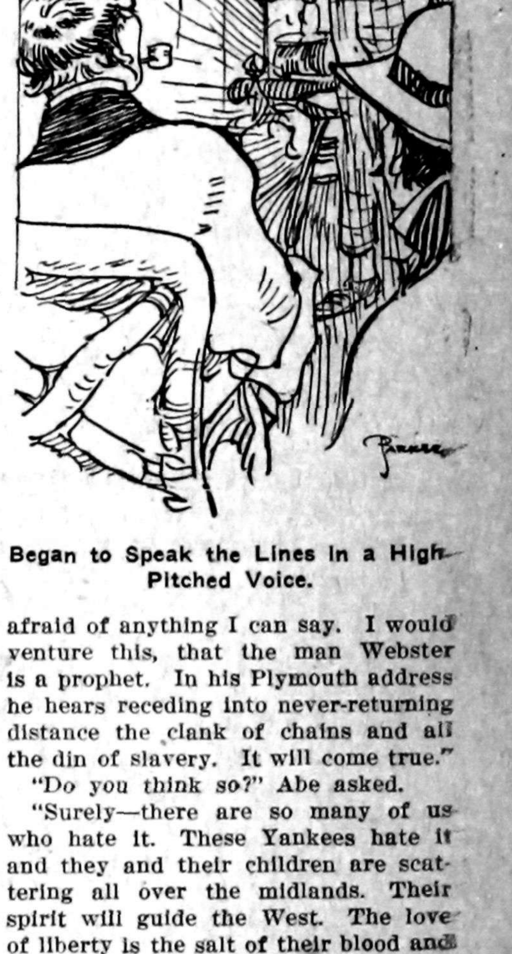
"Not a word was spoken for a minute after he sat down. I had got my first look at Lincoln. I had seen his soul. I think it was then I began to realize that a man was being made among us 'more precious than fine gold; even a man more precious than the golden wedge of Ophir.'"

The Doctor gazed in silence at the boy. Kelso sat with both hands in his pockets and his chin upon his breast looking solemnly into the fire.

"Thank you, Abe," he said in a low voice. "Something unusual has happened and I'm just a little scared."

"Why?" Abe asked.

"For fear somebody will spoil it with another hog story. I'm a little



Began to Speak the Lines in a High-Pitched Voice.

afraid of anything I can say. I would venture this, that the man Webster is a prophet. In his Plymouth address he hears receding into never-returning distance the clank of chains and all the din of slavery. It will come true."

"Do you think so?" Abe asked.

"Surely—there are so many of us who hate it. These Yankees hate it and they and their children are scattering all over the midlands. Their spirit will guide the West. The love of liberty is the salt of their blood and the marrow of their bones. Liberty means freedom for all. Wait until these babies, coming out here by the wagonload, have grown to manhood. Slavery will have to reckon with them."

"I hate it, too," said Abe. "If I live I'm going to hit that thing on the head some day."

"Do you still want to be a lawyer?" Kelso asked.

"Yes, but sometimes I think I'd make a better blacksmith," said Abe. "I'm trying to make up my mind what's best for me."

"No, you're trying to decide what is best for your friends and your country and for the reign of law and justice and liberty."

"But I think every man acts from selfish motives," Abe insisted.

Doctor Allen demurred as follows:

"The other night you happened to remember that you had overcharged Mrs. Peters for a jug of molasses and after you had closed the store you walked three miles to return the money which belonged to her. Why did you do it?"

"For a selfish motive," said Abe. "I believe honesty is the best policy."

"Then you took that long walk just to advertise your honesty—to induce people to call you 'Honest Abe' as they have begun to do?"

"I wouldn't want to put it that way," said Abe.

(Continued next week)

READ THE ADS

Would You Buy A Sea Breeze If You Could?

With the Thermometer rising higher and higher, man thinks of cool, shady places, cool water and cool Sea Breezes. But mere man has to work by the sweat of his brow these days to meet the price of beef-steaks, gasoline and other sundries, and its some sweat. The next best thing to a sea breeze is an for Home or Office. We have them in several sizes and ranging in price from $10.00 to $35.00, prices being much lower than last year. These Fans operate at at very small cost in electricity.

ELECTRIC FAN

Read On! $2.00 in Money to You!

By calling at the Electric Store in Belmond and presenting the coupon below, you can start payment on any Electric Fan in this store. Its the same as a $2 bill to you when purchasing one of these fans, if you hurry with it and reach our store in time to be one of the lucky three.

Good for $2.00 in Cash!

To the first three people who bring in this coupon, we will allow TWO DOLLARS on the purchase of any Electric Fan, any size, in our store.

THE ELECTRIC STORE
By C. J. Papousek

Electric Store

Belmond, Iowa

Phone 167

Emblem of Satisfaction

Motor Inn

Ray P. Morris Alfred Swensen

PHONE 97

...Announcing...

REDUCED PRICES

- On All -

FORD CARS

On Tuesday, June 7th, 1921, the following List Prices for all FORD Cars became effective:

FORD SEDAN, new price -	$845
FORD COUPE, new price -	778
FORD TOURING, with Starter	558
RUNABOUT, with Starter -	511

THESE PRICES ARE F. O. B. BFLMOND

BELMOND AUTO COMPANY

Authorized Ford Dealers

L. TOKMAN G. F. HEGINGER

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 16, 1921 NO. 30

Annual Community Club Picnic Held On June 24th

Last School Notes Of The Present Year

School Term Has Closed With The Many Graduation Exercises A Memory of the Past.

EIGHTH GRADE DIPLOMAS NOW

The high school commencement for the year 1921 was held in the high school auditorium, Thursday evening, June 2. The address of the evening by Dr. Lauer of the State University was informal, well adapted to the interests of the class, and the audience and very much appreciated.

The class was presented by Supt. Fyler and the diplomas given by Mr. H. F. Luick.

Eighth grade commencement on Wednesday, June 1, was well attended. The class presented their play very creditably and Kathleen Barry and Marian McNulty displayed remarkable talent in their solo work.

On Thursday afternoon the Junior class with their class teacher, Mrs. Amy Peterson, enjoyed a picnic in the grove.

On Friday morning the Sophomore class entertained the faculty at a breakfast, also in the grove.

A splendid exhibit of the vocational work, sewing and manual training has been on display Wednesday and Thursday. Much credit is due the instructors and the pupils for this tangible demonstration of the value of high school training.

Eighth grade diplomas have been signed by Miss Bock and may be had Friday morning from 9 to 12 at the schoolhouse in Miss Jenison's room.

CLARION WANTS STATE PARK

News: The Clarion Commercial club should go after the state park proposition which has been proposed for our lakes. A state park would attract thousands of visitors annually and with a few thousands spent on adding to the attractiveness of the two lakes there is no reason to doubt but that it would return handsome dividends to the people.

Already the lakes are bringing hundreds of visitors during the week, and many more on Sundays, despite the fact that the accomodations for the entertainment of these visitors are very inadequate as compared to older resorts.

It has been estimated that every visitor to a town is worth a certain sum of money from a business standpoint and if Clarion would profit from having the lakes right at her doors, the citizens must take advantage of the stuation. One thing that should be done now is to provide a real auto camp ground out there. By outlining some plan now nstead of afterwhile, we would be just that much ahead. More shade is needed and needed bad, and some organization, preferably the Commercial club, should see to it that we begin to plan for the future.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

In compliance with the law the 1920 election ballots were destroyed by a committee consisting of a republican and a democrat. Messrs. Callender and Linebarger feed several thousand such ballots to the furnace flames in the court house basement yesterday

Clerk Goslin has been devoting his spare moments to his domestic interests and when friend wife returns from her vacation visit she will find new linoleum on the kitchen floor, the bath room wood work newly painted and various other rooms likewise treated.

Mrs. W. K. Blackwell, who is living at Mason City, has caused an attachment to be issued against her husband, W. K. Blackwell, of Goldfield. It covers his financial interests and real estate holdings in Goldfield, as well as some real estate in

BELMOND WINS ANOTHER— BEAT ALGONA 2 TO 1

In a sensational nineth inning rally the home team won another victory Sunday by taking the salaried bunch frm Algona into camp by 2 to 1.

The Algona team are said to be a college team from Dubuque, and are a classy bunch of players, but a fierce lot of "beefers." The combination of an error, a stolen base and a hit in the sixth inning gave them one run. Up to that time the result on both sides had been nil. One to nothing was the way the game hung until the last half of the nineth inning. Up to that time the Belmond team had had a number of chances to score, with men on the bases and only one or no men out, but the necessary hit was not forthcoming. In the nineth, however, the crowd started to holler and the Algona pitcher's knees began to wobble and he walked the first man up with four straight balls. A bunt was fielded too slow and left two on the bases. Then Heinie came up and secured a nice little hit in left field, which brought home the bacon with all the rind on it.

It was a good game all thru except for the frequent chewing matches, which Algona started and Belmond could not help. A large crowd was present, and a number of fans came down from Algona to see their team get trimmed by a bunch of home boys.

Next Sunday the biggest game of the season takes place: Belmond is to meet the famed Kanawha bunch at the Lake. This ought to be worth going to see.

Cerro Gordo county. The amount of the claim is $125.000. The Blackwells separated some time ago.

Wm. Knuth also entered a plea of guilty to the charge of having stolen an auto truck at Eagle Grove a few weeks ago. The judge sent him along with Ersland for a five year period. Another five years for the part he had in helping Ersland to escape would not seem too severe. Dan Leonard and Fred Borel safely landed the two prisoners at Fort Madison yesterday.

Pauline Knuth, who accompanied her husband at the time the truck was stolen, has changed her mind after having signed a confession and will stand trial She asked the court for counsel to defend her and Judge Thompson appointed a young Belmond attorney, J. M. Jensen, to take charge of the defense. She may change her mind again for it was this same prisoner whom Mrs. Lang lambasted with an umbrella while attempting to escape the same night that Ersland made his get away.

Thos. Ersland of Belmond, who plead guilty to the charge of incest on an information drawn up by County Attorney Rogers was sentenced Monday to twenty-five years at hard labor at the Fort Madison penitentiary by Judge Thompson. When he has served the time above mentioned he should be given another twenty-five year sentence for attempting to kill Sheriff Lang with an iron bar.

On Monday the board of supervisors let the grading and draining of primary road project No. 19. The grading was awarded to Wisley & Son of Forest City, who it is expected will begin work within a few days. The labor on the tile work was awarded to E. S. Camden of Armstrong, while a gentleman from the same place is to furnish the tile, As soon as these contracts are completed, probably this fall, the work of graveling will be commenced. The western end of the above project starts at Goldfield and ends at the Humboldt county line. The eastern starting point is the Solberg corner and thence east thru Rowan to the Franklin county line Near the Iowa river, where the road turns north to cross Duffy's bridge, the highway is to be straightened, running in a straight line from Seller's corner to the Great Western overhead bridge on the hill. This will necessitate a new bridge and considerable fill across the river bottom. When completed a fine gravel road will reach from the east to the west county line.

Morse Lake Becoming Very Popular Resort

Many Cottages To Be Erected At Lake In Near Future According To The Reports.

WHY NOT HAVE STATE PARK?

Morse Lake is becoming one of the most popular places in this part of the county and bids fair to become one of the most attractive and popuar summer resorts in this part of the state.

Three cottages have been erected at the lake so far, those of Martin Hanson-John Anderson, Gfeller and A. L. Luick. There is prospect of several more to be erected at the lake in the near future, some half a dozen being reported to the Independent.

There are a dozen or more boats on the lake, with a sail boat and a a motor launch reported on the way in the near future. Fishing has been good, the lake is full of fish of all kinds, bass, pickeral, croppics and bull heads, and many thousands of fish have been caught at the lake this summer.

There is a plot of ground on the north side of the lake, directly off the main road, that is an ideal place for picnic parties, and with the addition of a few shade trees on the north would be a very pretty little park.

The lake is easily reached from the town, easily gotten to, and has every facility for an ideal resort of a small kind. A number of people from Clear Lake have come down here to fish this spring, so that that part of the lake's resources speaks for itself.

The Clarion News last week in an item on the front page brings up the question of the state park, which has been agitated between the two towns iver Cornelia Lake and Morse Lake, and urges the Clarion Commercial Club to start a campaign for securing the park at Cornelia. It would seem that Belmond might get busy and use what means it has to have Morse Lake considered as a state reserve.

BELMOND PLAYS HAMPTON HERE TODAY

The team from the Franklin county county-seat town meets the sluggers from Belmond today, Thursday, on the Belmond diamond at 3:30. The Hampton team was just organized a short time ago, and this is one of their first games. It's too bad to start 'em off with a defeat the first thing, but—. The Hampton team is composed of all home men except the battery, which is salaried, so the batte between the two home-town teams ought to prove interesting.

Next Sunday at the lake the chance to which all fans have longingly looked this year comes, when Belmond meets the Kanawha outfit for the first game of the season between the two. A large delegation of Belmond fans are reported as going to take in the battle.

REBEKAH LODGE ORGANIZED AT KLEMME

Times: A Rebekah lodge was organized at Klemme last Thursday evening, it being a branch of the Odd Fellows lodge.

Several carloads of men and women drove over from Britt to help put the work on here. They were also assisted by an officer from Marshalltown and Cherokee.

Twenty two Klemme ladies and men took the work and thus became charter members of the new fraternal organization here.

After the degree work a lunch was served and a general good time enjoyed by all. Klemme has a good live Odd Fellows lodge and no doubt the ladies new organization will also be marked with success.

Attend the Legion dance on Friday June 17.

ROWAN GIRL WRITES OF FLOOD AT PUEBLO

Eye Witness Of Terrible Calamity Describes It In Letter To Mother—Water Mile Wide.

A letter received by Mrs. N. B. Olson of Rowan from her daughter, Mary, who is at Pueblo, Colorado, where they had the recent disasterous flood, describes the scene in part as follows:

Pueblo, Colo, June 7, 1921.

Dear Mother:

I supose you have read in the papers all about the flood. It sure was terrible. We are thankful that we lived up on the hill. You know the river runs thru the business part of the town. When it overflowed the water came up this way as far as the depot and on the other side as far as Eighth street. It was almost a mile wide all together. It damaged all the business houses and washed away some of them altogether. A large number of residences were washed away entirely so you can't even tell where they have been. The report was that 2,000 people lost their lives but I don't think it was quite that many.

Last Thursday the day before the flood, we had the worst kind of a hail storm that I ever saw. It was much worse than the one we had about a month ago. There was a cloud burst at Cason City about 30 miles from here, Friday afternoon.

Friday night about 7:00 the river started to raise. They blew the fire whistle continually for two hours to warn the people but they stayed in their homes anyway and waited until the water came and then it was too late. About 8,000 people live in the district that was washed away. They have found dead bodies 11 miles down the river and I suppose some of them went on farther.

The water was 15 feet deep in the depot. The box cars and passenger coaches were turned upside down.

About 80 passengers that came in on the 8:00 o'clock train were drowned.

We have had neither gas nor lights since the flood and the first couple of days didn't have any water. We had to have a permit to buy food but the trains are in from Denver now so I guess there will be plenty. They are taking care of the homeless people in the churches and school houses.

After the flood all the Mexicans rushed down town and started to steal everyting they could lay their hands on. The citizens formed a guard and went down to guard the places. Cliff guarded a mail car one night. The state troops came so they are guarding now. Nobody is allowed on the streets after seven o'clock and there is a guard stationed at every corner. After the water went down there was a foot or two of mud on all the streets and in the stores. There are boards, trees, furniture, stoves and a little bit of everything lying all over. The people are all busy now trying to clean up but I think it will be some time before things will be like they were before. A lot of the people who lived down in the holow say they will never go back to live there again, so lots of the place will never be fixed up again.

POST OFFICE EXAMINATION POSTPONED TO JULY 2

Post Office Not To Be Open On Sundays After The First Of Next Month.

Because of the failure of a sufficient number of applications therefor, it has been found necessary to postpone the examination for postal clerk at the Belmond office from June 18 to July 2. A letter from the postal authorities at Washington states that in view of the apparant scarcity of applications, at the office here, they will accept applications from any male who will become 18 years of age within thirty days after the examination date now fixed.

After the first of July the office here becomes second class and no mail windows will be open on Sunday. The mail will be distributed and those who have boxes may get their mail from the box, but the window will not be open.

GOOD TIME TO BE HELD IN PARK

Annual Affair Of Town's Greatest Civic Society To Be Feature Of Next Week's Activities.

CLUB HAS ABOUT 200 MEMBERS

Splendid Program By Local Talent To Be Given—All Members And Families Are Invited.

The annual picnic of the Community Welfare Club will be held on next week Friday evening, June 24, at the city park.

All the members of the club and their families are cordially invited to attend. Supper will be served at 7:00 o'clock.

Members who attend are requested to bring with them a plate, fork, spoon, cups, and sauce dish. Each member is asked to bring sandwiches enough for their own family, and any of the following articles of food that they wish:

Meat, Salad, Baked Beans, Pickles, cake and cookies.

Ice cream will be served to those who wish it, a nominal charge being made. A very interesting program for the occasion is being arranged, in which some of the best local talent will take part. The program has not been entirely completed at this date, but we understand that one of the numbers is to be several readings by Miss Alberta Pierce, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Pierce of this place who has been under training in elecution at a school in Clinton for the past year and who recently appeared in a recital at that place where she made a decided "hit" with her selections.

It is also understood that efforts are to be made to secure the band for a concert in the park that evening.

There are around two hundred members of the Community Club, and if they all attend with their families it will be an enjoyable picnic and social time.

HAMPTON MAIL SACK FOUND IN CREEK

One of the mail pouches stolen from the Hampton postoffice was found in Penny creek, a half mile east of the Walter T. Robinson farm home, north of Hampton. William Rozevink, son of Jake Rozevink, when driving the cattle home from the pasture last Tuesday evening he noticed the pouch lodged against a tree in the creek, and at first did not pay much attention to it, but later he decided that it was not an ordinary attraction, so he returned on his horse and made another investigation, and discovered that it was one of the missing mail pouches stolen from the local postoffice. Investigation made yesterday by local officials failed to find any trace of the other missing pouch. Pieces of mail from this pouch were found lodged along the bank of the creek a quater of a mile west from where the pouch was found, idicating that the pouch may have been thrown into the creek from the bridge on the road running east and west between the W. T. Robinson and W. H. Rhutasel farms. It probably floated down stream when the water was higher than at present. Many letters were found in the pouch, but all the valuables had been carried away.

REV. VAN METRE NAMED AS CHAPLAIN

Word has been received here of the appointment of Rev. C. H. Van Metre, a former Methodist minister of this place, as chaplain of the One Hundred Thirty-fourth infantry, national guard of Iowa. He spent twelve months overseas during the recent war, and seven months of that time he was a chaplain in hospitals in France. Later he was with the 25th infantry 1st Division, in Germany.

FREE AIR!

Nothing much to write about this week; everthing seems to be as dead as Wilson's Leg of Mutton.

Haven't had any city court news for ages; no guys luggin' shot guns chasing 'round the country; no fights, no nothin'. How are we going to run a newspaper without having some sort of news?

Maybe its news that Matt has started a class in swimming out at Morse Lake. At any rate, we suppose he has, he was teaching a bunch of little kids to wade out there the other evening.

Ya oughta see Hizzoner in a bathing suit; he makes us think of the Greek stuff we used to read, about them there ancient guys who had a stand in with the gods, you know, Apollo, for instance, or mebbe Diogenes. Maybe we're getting a trifle mixed, tho; Diogenes was the long whiskered fellow with a lantern or something, wasn't he? That couldn't compare with Hizzoner very well, could it?

It must have been Apollo, he was some sort of insider in the ancient days that had something, we've forgotten what.

And do you know, the kids seemed to have all kinds of confidence in him! Not a one turned down his offer to show 'em the briny deep.

We've had something funny to tell you about for the past three or four weeks, but so far we haven't been able to get our nerve high enough to do it.

Which is one of the worst things about running a newspaper: You can't always tell the news that everybody else is talking about.

When Greek meets Greek next Sunday at the Twin Lakes, we prophosy that there is going to be something doing. Maybe we'll have to get out another extra about it, giving a list of the casualities and the scene of battle pictured in diagrams and line drawings.

Come pretty near having a little excitement at the game Sunday. The visiting bunch were the biggest bunch of beefers that ever came to the yards. Don't know how they get that way unless they've been fed on bull.

Last week a fellow asks our foreman, says he: "what did the boss mean by that piece he had?"

The foreman read it, scratched his head, and said he'd be durned if he knew. They argued it pro and con without getting the con in the piece, and then the foreman asks us.

How'd he suppose we knew? To make things clear to everybody is something we can't attempt to do; becauce sometimes we aren't exactly clear about it ourself.

And last week there was a line in the Rebekah program which ran something like this, and was in as a part of the doings:

shrdul !(_ shthrifwd !!|"*"!!"

If the program is anything like it was printed, it's going to be a hot one. That was what we call a "pie line."

DELEGATES FROM HERE AT ROYAL NEIGHBOR MEET

Local Lodge Sends Delegates To 10th Annual Convention Held At Fort Dodge.

The 10th Annual Convention of the Royal Neighbors of America was held at Fort Dodge last week Tuesday, June 7th. A number of the members of the local camp were in attendance at the convention. Those from here who attended were Mrs. Lillian Dibble Mrs. Mame Dillon, Mrs. Fannie Lathrop, who was a delegate from the Belmond camp, and Miss Virgie Jenison, who gave a reading which was very highly appreciated and complimented.

There were about 200 members of the district in attendance and the state deputy, Mrs. Irene Bently, gave some very good talks. The Clarion team put on a fancy drill which was pronounced by the deputy as the best she had ever seen, and showed that the Clarion team had been doing some hard work.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

AUTO TO FEED ITSELF

A prediction that automobiles within a few years would carry in dividual stills to produce fuel for their operation was made by Thomas A. Edison, Jr.

Discussing carburetion at the graduation exercises of the Knights of Columbus automobile school, the son of the inventor said he had himself been seeking a substitute for gasolene for ten years. The problem would be solved, he said, by the manufacture of individual distilleries to be attached to the cars, the stills to be operated by the heat and motion of the motor, and to produce from petroleum and other ingredients a combustible mixture supplied as constantly as current is generated by electric cars while in motion.

A car of average power, in his opinion, could be equipped to produce sufficient fuel to run itself and enough by products to pay for its maintenance.

CLARION TO LICENSE SALE OF CIGARETTES

News: Clarion's city officials will bow to the state law and license the sale of cigarettes. Already applications are being filed, together with the $75 per year license fee.

With application, bonds must be filed and when any one figures that the bond is a matter of form, he will have another guess coming, for it is about the safest provision for law observance that was ever enacted. We may expect no sales to minors, and the boys will hereafter have to smoke on the sly or at home, for the new law makes it a misdomeanor to give boys cigarettes.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS,
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

LET'S GET TOGETHER

There have been held at some of the neighboring towns during the past week or two, several meetings of the business men of the cities referred to, for the purpose of getting together and discussing one another's problems and the welfare and betterment of their city.

Notably among these recent meetings was the one at Hampton, when some fifty or more of the busines men of the city got together and had a good social time and general talk on busines conditions.

Why not have a similar affair in Belmond? They result not only in a closer co-operation and bettr understanding among the business men of the town, but they help one another to solve the problems of business life, and any business man knows that there are plenty of problems to solve.

The Chamber of Commerce in this city hasn't done anything that is very generally known about, for a long time. Why not have a meeting of the charactr suggested and get together? Why not now? There is no evident reason for just letting it drift; Let's get together.

A STATE CHILDREN'S HOME

Some time when the state legislature down at Des Moines is killing time and drawing salary, let some one of them suggest to the rest that some provision be made for those children in the state who by the fortunes of fate are left without any one to care for them.

In other words, a state home for homeless children. So far as this paper has been able to determine, there is no such an institution now in existance. We have our penitentiaries, our reform schools, our inebriate and insane asylums; we have our institutions of learning and we have provided for the children who are physically disabled, but the home less children of the state we leave to the good heartedness of the neighbors and socities.

There are various institutions of a religious character, and those that are nondenominational that endeavor to take care of the homeless children, and they are doing a great and noble work, but there is a class, and there are circumstances where these institutions, good as they and with their facilities, do not fill the need. And why should the state of Iowa depend upon private support for the care of its children? Is the state not large enough and wealthy enough to care for its own?

ROBBERS GET $3,500 FROM WILLIAMS BANK

Experts blew the safe at the First National bank at Williams at 2:00 o'clock in the morning last Tuesday and got away with $3,500 in coin and currency.

The missed a sum of equal amount that was in the safe. No attempt was made to blow the vault open.

The explosion was heard by one of the citizens who lives next door to the bank and he gave the alarm. The robbers fled, the citizen stating that he saw three of them, and it is supposed there was another of the gang who was waiting with the automobile, altho the car was not seen.

The thieves gained an entrance to the bank thru a back window, which they pried open. While waiting for the explosion they broke open the front door and escaped that way.

The robbers made sure to cut all the telephone and telegraph wires to the town before they blew the safe. The loss was fully covered by insurance carried by the bank.

CLIPPINGS

* * * * * * * * * * *

The city council decided by a vote of 5 to 1 that the ordinance prohibiting Sunday baseball should be repealed at their meeting Monday night. A committee of business men and others interested visited the council chambers and asked that the ban on Sunday baseball be removed. It was objected to by one member of the council, that they did not see their way clear to lock up a public park on Sunday and charge admission. Those backing the Sunday baseball idea proposed to construct new gates for those wanting to attend the ball game and allow free access to other portions of the park for picnic parties and other forms of recreation. —Eagle Grove Eagle.

* * * * * * * * * * *

Miss Viva Rourk spent the latter part of last week here with home folks. Monday, in company with six young ladies from Belmond, she went to Cedar Falls where they will attend summer school. Miss Viva has been rehired to teach at Belmond next year.—Kanawha Reporter.

L. A. Champlin has accepted a position as cook at the Commercial cafe at Belle Plaine, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Champlin expect to soon leave for that place.—Dows Advocate.

Some of the more experienced players praise the Clairmond course. To play over it sequires real skill. And some mighty fine scores are being made. Dr. Steele of Belmond made it in 52. So did Dr. Thornley of Clarion. But Wm. Tyrrell who at one time was amateur champion of Texas, has the best score, having made it in 51. Some of the others expect to do as well before many weeks.—Clarion News.

Mrs. Harry Forristal from Belmond was a Klemme caller Tuesday.—Times.

Mrs. George Coburn of Cornelia was a Klemme visitor Tuesday.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiegand from Belmond were visitors here yesterday.—Times.

Cosmos Preftakes was a Belmond visitor Tuesday. He reports a splendid opening business at the new Preftakes candy kitchen at Belmond. "Steve" is the manager of the Belmond place.—Monitor.

Mrs. Henry Thomas went to Belmond last Thursday to attend the high school commencement exercises, a cousin, Agnes Dillon, being a member of the class.—News.

Mr. and Mrs. John Atherton from Belmond were Klemme callers on Monday.—Times.

Mrs. Saatoff from Belmond was a caller in this city Monday.—Times.

Mr. Purdy of Belmond was a business caller here last Thursday.—Times.

MAIL ROBBERY AT C. G. W. DEPOT

Mail Pouch Stolen Wednesday Morning—No Clue Found

The mail box at the south end of the Great Western depot was broken open Wednesday morning and a mail pouch stolen. The pouch was placed in this box by Night Operator Harry Parsons. It came in on No. 12 at 12:39. It was billed for Eagle Grove and it is presumed contained local mail and valuable packages. About 2:15 when Parsons went to the box to place additional mail there off the 2:15 passenger he discovered the staple on the lock had been drawn and the pouch was missing. He immediately notified Marshal Kelling, who was in the waiting room at the time. The train was held several minutes while the train crew searched the blind baggage deck and other places for the robbers but no suspicious characters were found. The railroad officials and special agents were immediately notified and the train proceeded on its way.

On placing the pouch in this box the operator was performing his regular duty. About six o'clock in the morning, Bert Clarke takes the mail to the postoffice.

Whatever loss is sustained will have to be paid by the railroad company as they are responsible for the mail until it is delivered into the hands of some government employee. —Klemme Times.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets 's so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

NOTICE OF PROOF OF WILL

To Whom It May Concern:

In the Estate of Andrew O. Stockseth, Deceased:

You are hereby notified that on the 31st day of May, 1921, there was filed with and opened by the undersigned Clerk of the District Court of the State of Iowa, in and for Wright County, a Written instrument purporting to be the

Last Will and Testament

of Andrew O. Stockseth, late of said County, deceased.

And you are further notified that the 5th day of July, 1921, at 1:30 p. m. has been set as the day for the final hearing and proof of said Will at my office in the Court House at Clarion, Iowa, at which time any person interested can appear and show cause why the same should not be admitted to probate.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court at my office in Clarion in said County, this 6th day of June, A. D., 1921.

R. V. GOSLIN,
29-3t Clerk District Court

To the Housewives:

Who like to serve good meals and who like to eat good meals but do not have the time for baking, let me do your baking for you.

Every kind of Home Made Bake Stuffs made in my kitchen and sent direct to you warm from the oven. Phone in orders at any time and in any quantity.

Do These Taste Good to You?

Rich Devils, Food Cakes, Nut Cakes Angel Food Cakes, White Cakes, Ginger Creams, Cookies, Bread and Pies.

I also operate a Woman's Exchange, Selling Your Work for 20 per cent.

MISS MARY GEALOW
Second House East of Klemme's Lumber Office
Belmond, Iowa Phone 316

Does Adverting Pay?
Ask the Merchants Who Advertise

White Shoes and Oxfords
$3.50 to $12.00

These oxfords, strap slippers and pumps may be had in almost any of the new stylss, made of white reignskin, kid or buck leather.

Some of them in plain white while others are trimmed in black or brown. These sport models are by far the most comfortable and stylish thatwe have ever shown.

Woodruff Shoe Company
115 N. Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa
Try our One Day Repair Service

Picturing the Farmer

What does the farmer look like? Not like the typical stage "hick" who blows out the gas, by heck, when he first visits the city. Not like the movie hero who studies his agriculture in a Los Angeles studio. Not a bit like 'em, says Freeman Tilden in

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

What, then, does he look like? Cartoonists and artists want to know—they are drawing him every day and they want to draw him right—so that he will be instantly recognized, so that no one will be offended.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN will run, beginning with next week's issue, a series of cartoons drawn by a score or more of America's leading artists to show their ideas of how the pictured farmer should look. They want your criticism, because their cartoons are, in a way, pictures of you. Such features brighten every issue of this great national farm weekly. Of course its real purpose is to help you make your business pay; it does this by giving you competent week-by-week guidance on every farm problem. But you will enjoy the features and stories and cartoons just as you profit by the practical articles. For just $1.00 you get both for 52 weeks.

Prosperous Farmers Everywhere Read It

R. A. RANKINS
Belmond, Iowa Phone 115 or 196

An authorized subscription representative of
The Country Gentleman 52 issues—$1.00 The Ladies' Home Journal 12 issues—$2.00 The Saturday Evening Post 52 issues—$2.50

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Frank Snyder was a Clarion visitor Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, He went to see his mother, Mrs. M. Snyder.

Mrs. G. R. Stumph and children visited at the R. L. Robinson home at ows Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Shaner and son came Tuesday to visit old friends in Rowan. They have sold their business at Laurens and are taking a summer vacation. They were entertained at the C. W. Fowler home. They left Thursday for Iowa Falls.

C. I. McCallum returned Tuesday to the home of his son, L. A. McCallum, after an extended visit at La-Monte and Edgewood.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. C. Box asd daughter Blanche visited at the home of Arthur and family at Clarion, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham, Mrs. O. E. Ballou and Mrs. J. H. Dix of Hampton visited at the Clint Kercheval home Wednesday.

Frank Snyder is driving a new Ford runabout these days.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen and family motored to Hampton Monday of last week. Their son Raymond had some dental work done.

Last Tuesday morning a delegation of nine ladies from Dows transferred enroute to Fort Dodge to attend a Royal Neighbor convention. Seven were from the Maple Leaf Camp No. 1201 of Dows and two were from Humboldt.

Miss Miriam Wiley of Eagle Grove visited her friend Lillian Azeltne over the week end and attended the Christian Endeavor convention Tuesday.

Miss Laura McCallum spent the week in Clarion at the home of her sister, Mrs. Glen Jennings.

Earl Jacobs of Goodell who got his foot quite badly injured by a horse stepping on it, is reported as much better so he is able to attend to his farm.

Mrs. J. H. Dix of Hampton and Mrs. Grover Moore and daughter of Ida Grove visited with friends in Rowan Tuesday and Wednesday. They returned to Hampton Wednesday.

Miss LaVonne Ballou entertained on Wednesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Grove Moore of Ida Grove. The afternoon was spent in talking over old times and was much enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. Tom Ross and daughter, Marlidene, Mrs. Howard Box and Mrs. J. F. Howell and daughter, Clara Jane.

Mrs. John Richards has been suffering the past week from a gathering in her ear.

Little Marlidene Ross fell from the auto last week and hurt her face quite badly. Luckily no bones were broken any where.

Arne Skaar and family of Belmond were Rowan shoppers Tuesday.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

On Sunday morning, June 19, the Rev. W. H. Nye will speak on the subject "Life." In the evening he will speak on "The Ladder." Come with your family and invite your friends to spend the day with us.

The Rowan Cong. Sunday school has a Sunday school class for every child and adult in the home. We invite you with your family to attend our church and Sunday school, Sunday mornings and the evening service.

The pep meeting of the Christian Endevors will meet every Sunday evening at 7 p. m. Mid week prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8:00 The Rowan Cong. church will make you feel at home. Come, bring your friends. "Let's go."

The Communion Services will be administered at the First Sunday morning service in the month of July.

The Ladies Aid society will meet at the home of Mrs. Elsie Allen on Thursday of this week. June 16. A 25 cent supper will be served. Every body invited.

The Junior Endeavors will meet at the church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

The Sunday school class which Mrs. Fred Brooks teaches has changed its name from "Class in the Corner" to the "Frances Williard Class." The Sunday school can look for big things from this little class as they are lively young people and three of the members are owners of medals, two having both silver and gold and one just the silver. On Sunday evening, June 26 this class will give a program at the time of the regular evening service. It will be as follows:

Instrumental—Ruth Emerson.
Prayer—Rev. Nye.
Reading—Laura McCallum.
Duet—Marjorie Brooks, Frances Farren.
Reading—Frances Virden.
Quintette—Clarence Whitten, Marjorie Brooks, Frances Farren, James Kercheval, and Russel Bailey.
Reading—Althea Gunderson.
Quartette—Frances Farren, Marjorie Brooks, Alethea Gunderson and Laura McCallum.
Duet—Stella Emerson, Ruth Emerson.
Reading—Frances Farren.
Collection.
Benediction—Rev. Nye.

Announcement

We have opened a hotel in Rowan and will serve meals, also short orders at all hours and furnish beds. Also have home baking for sale. Prices reasonable.

Rowan Hotel

MR. AND MRS. CHESTER BAILEY

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bingham and children Duane and Loretta Maude spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie McCallum at Thornton.

Mrs. M. Francomb and daughter, Ione, spent Sunday at the home of her daughter, Flossie, near Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris were Belmond visitors Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bingham and and daufghter and Mrs. Fred Weber and daughter Ruth were Hampton callers Wednesday.

Fred Baltes of Dubuque came Wednesday to visit his sister, Mrs. L. A. McCallum for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hoke came home from Forest City on Saturday to stay. Mr. Hoke has been working on a dredge ditch and Mrs. Hoke has been cooking for the men.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Keith and family and Lucile Nye were Dows callers Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Kjar and family and Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Knuths and family were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Eson, Sunday of last week.

Big Horseshoe Game

The Horseshoe team of Rowan played the Thompson team Friday, defeating the to the tune of 7-4. Thompson claims the championship of Winnebago county. The ones who played were D. W. Whitten, G. Gunderson, Ed. Azeltine, Ed. Miller, Fred Hackley and John Riker. The others who went to witness the game were A. E. Emerson, F. M. Myers and Charley Ball. The score board showed as follows:

Town	Games Won	Scores	Riners
Rowen	----7	220	17
Thomp.	--4	162	10

The Misses Marjorie and Thelma Brooks and Mrs. Blanche Jennings were Dows callers Monday.

Miss Sunshine Gelvin was in town Friday trying to sell a Redpath chautauqua for this year. The Chautauqua company of Rowan had signed up for a Midland chautauqua to be put on August 1-2-3.

H. H. Barker was a Clarion visitor Sunday.

Ezra Ingraham returned to his home at Swaledale, Sunday after a visit with his son Ollie and family and his sister, Mrs. Mary Braden.

Fred Brooks purchased two new thorobred cows from the Sunnyside Dairy farm at Jackson county, Mo. to add to his herd of dairy cows. They are of fine stock.

Mrs. J. S. Farren and daughter and son spent Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval.

Pearl Gideon came Tuesday from the country to visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. George Liming.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Conn and family and Mrs. Kate Conn went to Parkersburg, Sunday, to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conn.

Mrs. Fred Brooks visited her mother at the home of her sister, Ms. Fred Smith in Clarion, Saturday. In the afternoon Mrs. Brooks and son Floyd Hackley and E. McKiney drove over and she returned home with them.

Mrs. Lizzie Brooks visited Saturday at the home of Mrs. Roy Fitz at Clarion.

Kenneth Ballou was a passenger to Clarion, Saturday. He went from Clarion to Dows remaining there until Sunday.

Tennis Match

Thursday afternoon the following people went to Clarion to witness and play a tennis match. Rev. Tomkinson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheldon and family, William Rietz, Donald and Duncan Farren. Guy Sheldon and Donald Farren were playing against Dr. St. Clair and his brother when the rain came on and stoped the game. They had played only three games of the set, each man winning his own serve. Clarion had two serves and Rowan one.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. McCallum and Fred Baltes of Dubuque visited in Clarion, Friday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jennings. Miss Laura McCallum returned home with them.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church had a business meeting Monday evening of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCallum. About 16 were present. They elected the following officers for the coming six months.

Pres.—A. O. Pelly.
1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. Willard McCallum,
2nd V. P.—Kathern Harson
3rd V. P.—Mrs. Clarence Lindsey.
4th V. P.—Miss Esther Fowler.
Sec.—Williard McCallum.
Treas.—Mrs. A. O. Pelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Williard McCallum Edgar Mantle and Marjorie Brooks attended the show "A Child for Sale" at Dows, Friday night.

Mrs. Nancy Logan of Des Moines has been visiting at the F. M. Myers home the past two weeks. She will remain for some time longer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Zeiger of Clarion transferred in Rowan, Friday enroute for Garner.

O. F. Braden has been doing mason work at the Joe Simons farm this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pritchett received word from their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Pollard of Twin Falls, Idaho, that she had had ptomaine poisoning from eating an ice cream cone. It was thought for a while she would have inflamatory rheumatism caused from the poison in her system. The last report from her stated that she was getting better but is still quite sick.

The Farmers Union held a meeting in their building Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snow went to Traer, Tuesday to stay a week. They expect to leave for their new home in Pomeroy about the 15th of this month. Mr. Snow has bought a barber shop at that place. Rowan will be sorry to lose Mrs. Snow as they have enjoyed having her here the past year but wish her much happiness in her new home.

Miss Dolly Riley returned Tuesday from a 12 weeks normal course at Ellsworth College. She reports a very enjoyable and profitable 12 weeks of training.

Mrs. Tom Ross was a Dows caller Tuesday.

Mrs. Frank Kercheval returned on Monday of last week from Webster City where she had been helping care for a cousin Mrs. Wright Letts who was ill.

Mrs. Andrew Anderson and Miss Haven of Dows were Rowan callers between trains Thursday. They were accompanied by a niece Miss Alma Schnore, of Wis. who had been attending school at Dows the past year and was transferring here on her way home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz of Clarion visited at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gay Fletcher, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheldon and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten motored to Des Moines, Tuesday, to attend the Iowa State Bankers association. They came back Wednesday reporting a fine time. Tuesday the ladies were entertained at a garden party, which was given in compliment to the wives of the visiting bankers, at the Clyde Herring home and Wednesday they were entertained at a uncheon at the Harris- Emery tea room.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Keith and family motored to Goldfield, Wednesday. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCutcheon and daughter, Grace, who have been visiting at the Keith home for several days, and returned to their home in Goldfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Turner went to Ft. Dodge, Saturday, to visit their daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Woodman. They returned home Monday accompanied by their two grandsons.

William and Clara Chase of Belmont were passengers on the C. G. W. Saturday to Grand Junction to visit an aunt.

Mrs. Wm. [illegible] Mrs. Anderson and daughter LaVonne of Thompson visited at [illegible] Clarion, Saturday.

The R[illegible] Harness Shop, owned by J. A. Whitten has a new sign, "Standard Oil of Indiana Service Station" in front of the shop.

The Home Missionary society of the M. E. church held a business meeing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsey, Monday evening, The following officers were eected:

Pres. —Mrs. Hannah Whitten.
Vice Pres.—Mrs. Ida Ryder.
Rec. Sec.—Mrs. Wm. Bingham.
Corres. Sec.—Mrs. Eva Lindsey.
Treas.—Mrs. Etta Carr.

There were 12 present at the meeting. Plans were made for their missionary picnic which will be held June 22 at the old mill dam site.

Mrs. Peterson Hansen went to Iowa Falls Saturday to spend over Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hyde moved Saturday into the Peter Schreck house in the south part of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley and family were guests at the Ben Hadley home Sunday.

Gen Liming was a Corwith visitor the past few weeks.

Edgar Mantle was a Mason City caller Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Temple of Burt visited over Sunday at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. D. A. French They were enroute to Des Moines to attend the Shriners session.

The Epworth League had a picnic at the home of Mr. asd Mrs. Toyne on Friday afternoon. Nearly 100 people enjoyed this social time. They met at the M. E. church and went out in cars. Each one furnished sandwiches and one other thing and a fine supper is reported. Quite a number stayed until dark playing volley ball. They gave Mr. and Mrs. Toyne a vote of thanks for a very pleasant afternoon.

Wednesday afternoon Harild and Frances Virden, Mrs. Geo. Pritchett and Ruth Emerson motored to Hampton to meet Miss May Virden and Mildred Azeltine, who were returning from Mt. Vernon where they have been attending college.

Clarence Whitten and Wilbur Utz motored to Hampton, Wednesday to meet Ralph Whitten who was returning from his year's work at Cornell college.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Emerson and family were Sunday guests at the Charles Emerson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harris and son of Thornton spent Sunday at the parental Stevenson home.

J. S. Farren and sons went to Pringhar, Tuesday to visit at the home of Mr. Farren's parents.

Ray Azeltine went to Colorado on Thursday to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher visited Sunday in Clarion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hackley and family, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Patton and family were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Martin

Geo. Aldrich returned from the St. Marys hospital at Rochester Saturday. He had been there for several weeks, having had an operation. He is doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Peddle of Coulter visited at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Whitten, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whitten and daughter Gladys went to Eldora, Sunday to be at a family picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Harland Hill and Miss Pearl Mickelson of Clarion and Mrs. Clint Kercheval called at the Fred Kercheval home Sunday evening.

The 14th District Iowa Christian Endeavor Union was held in the Cong. church at Rowan Tuesday, June 7, beginning at 9 a. m. and closing at 8:30 p. m. The young people were very earnest and showed a great deal of interest in the work. This was the best district convention the 14th district has had for several years. There were six towns represented with 28 out of town delegates. The weather was ideal and a great many came in cars. At the morning session Miss Carrie Reynolds of Iowa Falls spoke on "Helps derived by keeping the Christian Endeavor pledge." There were also short talks by the Endeavors on "Things necessary in order to have good prayer meetings" and some of the things suggested were co-operation, prayer to God, not to man, debates on Missionary subjects, making every one, old and young, feel at home the quiet hour of prayer in the home, and variety in the meetings.

The definition given for "Pep" was P for preparation, e for enthusiasm, and p for prayer.

A paper was given by Harold Maffit of Webster City on "Why and how should officers prepare for their work' He took as examples Washington, Lincoln and Dewey and how they prepared for their work. Miss Stella Emerson of Rowan gave a paper on Why and how should committees prepare for work." The delegates were entertained at the homes for dinner and assembled again at 2:00 p. m. at the

(Continued on page four.)

STRENGTH SERVICE

Small amounts deposited in a Liberty Bell Home Bank will swell your account to large proportions; $1 deposited here gets one for you

Not How Much But How Safe

The amount of interest should be a secondary consideration. The safety of the principal of your deposit should receive primary investigation.

The highest rate of interest payable on Savings Accounts as agreed upon by banking authorities is 5 per cent---the amount we pay, and at the same time, afford protection and security for your savings.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Have Your Battery Tested and Filled FREE!

DO THIS EVERY TWO WEEKS

We do Repairing and Re-Charging on any make of Bettery

We have rental batteries to fit your car while your battery is being repaired and recharged.

Full line of new batteries for any make of cars. Complete line of genuine Willard parts---also parts for any other make of battery.

Ask us about Thread Rubber Insulation.

Batteries called for and delivered.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.
Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

THREAD-RUBBER Willard INSULATION

ALEXANDER NEWS ITEMS

Herman Modderman is on the sick list at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilko Pals were Belmand visitors Saturday.

A fine children's day program was rendered at the Methodist church on last Sunday.

The Congregational church will observe children's day next Sunday morning beginning at 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frohling of Belmond were visitors at the Fred Greenfield home last Monday.

Dr. Martin of Latimer was a professional caller here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Green were visitors at Hampton last Sunday.

George Latch of LuVerne autoed here last Sunday and spent the day with relatives and friends.

Miss Wilma Foughty spent the week end at the Benson home at Belmond.

Alfred Anderson was a caller at Meservey last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Green and children of Dows visited at the Wm. Siberts home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Douglass of Hampton spent several days last week at the Otto Kieslich home.

Jack Kew of Dows was a visitor in town Friday evening.

Mrs. Kate Starkey was a Latimer visitor a few days last week.

Mrs. L. S. Reed and daughter visited relatives at Belmond last week.

The members of the Reformed church will observe their annual mission feast next Wednesday. All are cordially isvited to attend.

M. D. Latham and Miss Ruth Peters returned home Friday from Chicago where they spent a few days.

Several of the girl friends of Miss Sylvia Arends met at her home last Tuesday afternoon in honor of her birthday anniversary. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in playing games after which dainty refreshments were served. All went home reporting a jolly good time.

A. E. Yaw of Iowa Falls was transacting business here several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Aldinger and children, Miss Wilma Foughty and Miss Marie Blau were callers at Dows Tuesday evening.

Louie Peters and daughter Alice were Hampton visitors last Wednesday

George Pals and daughter Miss Jennie of near Belmond were visitors here last Thursday.

Miss Addie Larsen visited with relatives at Hampton the last of the week.

Geo. S. Yaw of Iowa Falls was a visitor in town last Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Class Symens and family were Meservey callers last Monday.

Miss Mae and Alma Greenfield of Willmsburg spent the past week with relatives at this place,

H. C. Yaw of Iowa Falls visited at this place with relatives several days the past week.

Will Siberts was a business caller at the county seat last Friday.

Little Orval Arends the seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Arends had the misfortune of falling while riding a pony last Tuesday and the pony stepped on him, breaking his arm above the elbow. He suffered severe pain for a while, but is getting along nicely now.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP

The Farm Bureau Lawn Party held at the J. F. Henn home last Friday evening was well attended and a pleasant evening was enjoyed.

The Immanuel church will hold their Annual Mission Feast Wednesday, June 22.

R. E. Armstrong, of Clear Lake has been tuning pianos in this vicinity the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barkema and family were visitors at the C. K. Pals home Sunday last.

Mrs. Emma Standtlander is having some painting done on her farm now occupied by Henry Osten.

ROUTE ONE ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brater and family of Meservey were Sunday visitors at the O. D. Jenison home

Mr. and Mrs. Sigard Anderson and family drove to Dows, Saturday, to visit over Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frislie.

Mss Vida Jenison left Tuesday for Fort Dodge to be present at the graduation of her cousin, Leona Stark.

Miss Edna Guest and Miss Virgie Jenison are visiting friends at Cambridge, Iowa, this week.

Henry Mennenga, Lambert Pals and Rankie Meinders returned last week from their school duties at Meekin, Illinois.

A Pleasant township farm bureau meeting was held at the Center school house last Friday evening.

Duane Jenison is spending the week with his friend, Bernard Brater, at Meservey.

Mrs. Harold Jenison was called to Humboldt last week to attend the funeral of a cousin who was killed by lightning.

KANAWHA NEWS NOTES

T. L. Johnson of Clear Lake was a visitor here Wednesday.

Robert Haveland of Lake Mills came Friday for a visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Myrtle Scott, who has been a guest at the Wm. Gunsell home the past week, returned to her home at Clarion Saturday.

E. E. Varo, who has been receiving treatments at Olson's hospital at Minneapolis returned home Thursday.

Messrs. Bush, Knudsen and Thompson were busines callers at Garner Thursday.

Miss Lena Kirkberg of Minneapolis came this week for a visit with relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Olson and family of Britt were greeting relatives and friends here Sunday.

O. A. Satter returned home Wednesday from a business trip to Ellsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Deibler and daughter Audrey spent Tuesday with relatives and friends at Dows.

Neil Hanson, F. L. Bush and F. N. Knudsen returned home the latter part of this week from Des Moines where they went to attend the bankers convention.

Mr. and Mrs. James Yeakel and children left the latter part of the week for Ames where they will be joined by the Jefferson Yeakel family and they will auto thru to Illinois for a short visit with relatives.

NORWAY TOWNSHIP

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kalvig and family visited at his aparental home in Belmond, Sunday.

James Mehl and T. A. Asbe shelled their corn Monday.

Miss Mable Olson, who has been quite ill lately is now improving at this writing.

Iver Iverson was shopping at the county seat Wednesday.

Hans Asbe came up from Eagle Grove, the forepart of the week to look after farm interests.

The Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Else Evens Wednesday afternoon.

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page three)

church. The meeting opened by a song service and scripture and prayer by Mrs. Ellet of Dows. Miss McPherrin, the state secretary, took quite a time telling of the 34th annual convention at Ottumwa June 17-18-19 and also the 6th world's convention which will be held in New York City July 6-11. She urged anyone who could attend these meetings to do so. In New York a grand parade has been planned in which each state will be in a body in a special uniform.

There were short talks in the afternoon on various subjects. Mr. Hardcaste gave a talk and raised $50 that was needed in the work.

A picnic supper was served in the basement of the church which was greatly enjoyed, the different societies giving their yells and making a regular "pep" meeting.

At the evening session the Rowan choir furnished special music. Rev. Hardcastle led the scripture and prayer. The address of the evening was given by Rev. Cushman of the Cong. church at Iowa Falls. The motto given at this meeting was "The close of this convention should be but the beginning of the effort for bigger and better work and service."

The district officers elected for the coming year are as follows:
Preg.—Raymond Poole, Eagle Grove.
Vice Pres.—O. C. Knoll, Webster City.
Sec.—Maulyn Allshouse, Eagle Grove.
Treas.—Geo. Thompson, Webster City.
Junior Supt.—Mildred Hardcastle, Iowa Falls.
Missionary Supt.—Mrs. O. D. Ellett, Dows.

One of the hardest rains that has visited this community for a long time occured last Thursday, when for a short time it fairly rained in bucketsful. The weather then turned off hot and this week has been a scorcher so for.

ROBINSON'S

Sugar - -	$8.50
Rolled Oats, bulk, 6 pounds for -	25c
Fancy Prunes, per lb.	10c
Extra Fancy Prunes	12½c
Peas, corn, tomatoes per can -	10c
Pears, No. 2½ can -	20c
Apricots, No. 2½ -	20c
Oranges, per doz. -	25

Dried Beet Pulp

Is a Good Dairy Feed
$1.10 a cwt or $20.00 a Ton in 100 lb. Bags,
At the Sugur Factory
Belmond, Iowa

A Message for You

is found in I Thessalonians 5:22

Read It!

You need God and His Church needs you even tho it be summer time. You are invited to the the services of the

Methodist Episcopal Church

Buy now and Save from $10 to $15 on a new

Sewing Machine

Your choice of designs

Wright County Furniture Co.

Phone 128 C. I. WILLIAMS, Mgr.

Kiddie Koops Lloyd Co-Carts

Auto Repair Shop

Our Auto Repair Shop is now open for business in the building on the corner north of Chris Rise's Implement Store. We do repair work on any make of cars. Expert mechanics and prices reasonable.

Tractor Repairing

Why not bring in your Tractor and have it overhauled and repaired ready for the Fall work?

BELMOND WELDING CO.

Located 2 doors north of the Auto Repair Shop, is ready at all times to take care of any and all kinds of Welding. Our prices are lower than the lowest, because we have all the equipment necessary for good work and an expert welder to do the work. Give us a trial.

E. G. MILLER, Prop.

Phone 39 Belmond, Iowa

Try Our Bread & Rolls

Take a few fresh rolls and a loaf of fresh bread home with you and save the wife many hot hours in the kitchen,

Belmond Bakery
P. Barban, Prop.

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

Big Clothing, Shoe & Furnishing Sale!

Starts June 17---Ends July 4th

Big Reductions in every Part of this Big Store. Nothing Reserved. Come Early.

MEN'S AND BOY'S CLOTHING

Here you will find extraordinary values in all newest styles and fabrics, made by real tailors of best materials.
Emby clothes have a gold band label on every suit. Its a band which guarantees you all wool and the best tailoring.

One lot of Men's Suits; good patterns - - $12.00
Another lot Young Men's Suits, latest styles, priced at - $24.50
Young Men's Suits, brown or black with pin stripes, the very latest - - $32.50
One big lot of Young Men's Suits at - - $19.00
Young Men's Suits, good quality and beautiful patterns - $27.00
Boy's Suits, good wearing materials, priced from $10 down to - - - $4.50

MEN'S & BOY'S SHOES

You will readily note that these are some wonderful bargains we're offering. Our shoes are all of good quality leather and made to stand severe tests as to durability.

A big value in dark brown Russian Calf - - $2.50
Extra good grade of Russian Calf $10.00 value prided at - $5.00
A combination last in brown calfskin, $8.00 value at only $6.45
Men's Outing Shoes, good values at $2.45, $3.25
A complete line of Boy's Shoes built for hard wear, prices from $2.25 up to $3.85.

You can buy your entire outfit here at prices away below the regular. Hats, caps, neckwear, underwear, hosiery, overalls, shirts, etc. All marked down to the very minimum,

Men's Raincoats, $10 values priced at - - - $4.95
Men's Felt Hats in all shades, special prices $1.95 up to $5.00
Men's cotton hose, brown or black. Special per pair - 9c
Men's Ribbed Underwear, light weight, at only 75c and up to $3.50
Men's Dress Shirts at only $1.25
One lot Men's blue work shirts - - - 55c
Best grade work shirts for men, we're selling them at 89c
Special line of men's trousers af $1.00 up to $7.50

We positively do not carry sample lines or brokerage stock, everything tailor-made.
We cheerfully refund the money on any purchases not satisfactory.

HARRY MARK

The Clothier

17 South Federal MASON CITY, IOWA 2 Doors North City Commercial Bank

OVERALL SPDCIALS
Men's Heavy Overalls or Jackets, best grade $1.45
Men's Blue Overalls 95c

D
can Linin ago la ing it, and coul
right. I h lain's Linim was applied t drove away the sale at Adams

KEEP COOL!

You can do so by visiting our Ice Cream Parlors and indulging in our Iced Drinks, Ice Cream, Sundaes, Phosphates, Fancy Drinks. All cooling and refreshing. We also have all kinds of such as Nut Nougats, Fresh Cream Candies, Maple Creams, Molasses Crisps, Peanut Brittle, Chocolates and all the varieties which the sweet tooth craves.

Home Made Candies

Belmond Candy Kitchen

PRFTAKES BROS. & CO.

Steve Antonio, Mgr.

Factory Demonstration Sale of the

One Minute Washer

For 3 Days, Saturday, Monday & Tuesday, June 18, 20, 21

Approved by a Million Housewives.

One million housewives have used One Minute Washers with universal satisfaction.

Backed by a Factory with Twenty Years Washing Machine Experience.

As pioneer manufacturers of mechanical washers the One Minute Manufacturing Company continues making the standard of washing machines.

A Model for Every Home.

Regardless of the size of washing or a family's need, a suitable model can be chosen from the One Minute line.

Price Represents 100 per cent Washing Value.

It contains the most superior merits of washing machine construction at a reasonable price to the consumer.

Washes the Entire Week's Wash Satisfactorily from "Brassieres to Blankets."

The whirling dolly does not injure clothing regardless of texture.

Has Every Mechanical Requirement for Satisfactory Washing.

With its componnd lever, its four position, swinging, reversible wringer, red cypress tub and steel frame, it embodies the best in mechanical washer construction.

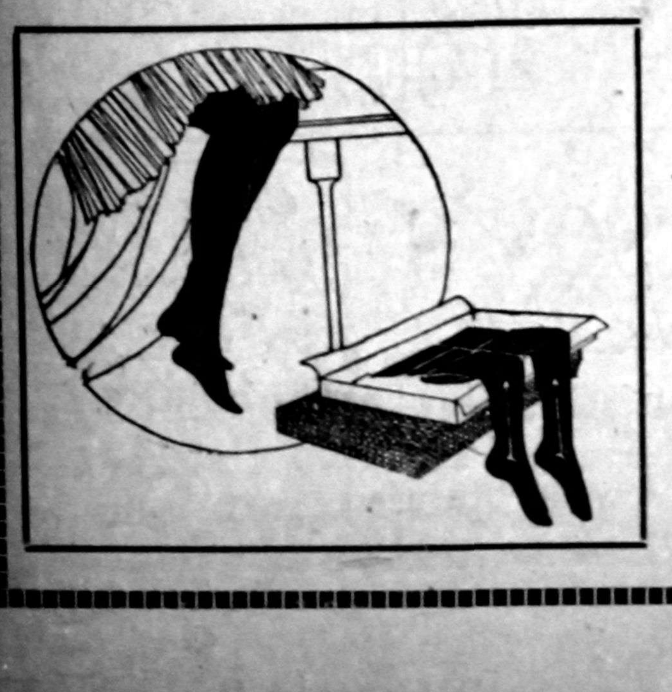
Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute

Townsan Hardware

Belmond, Iowa

THE KILLIAN STORE

Mason City's Shopping Center



Silk Hose to Match the New Shoe Shades

Perhaps you have experienced some trouble in finding Silk Stockings in certain shades of gray and brown to match your Summer's shoes.

You will find a complete range of colors here in pure thread Silk Hosiery---full fashioned legs and seamless feet, plain and drop stitch patterns.

Mail orders will be filled subject to your satisfaction. In writing specify Humming Bird or Lady June Pure Thread Silk Hose.

$1.50 a pair or $4.35 for a Box of Three Pairs.

SPECIAL LOCALS

Lost—Child's red, hand-knitted wool cap. Please return to Lee W. Stacy, in care of Independent.

—I—

Harry Webb was home this week Tuesday evening for a short visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Webb.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—New Belmond Tailor Shop. Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

Attend the Legion dance on Friday June 17.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. White and baby, Robert Kendall drove to Clear Lake Sunday where they spent the day at the cottage of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White.

—I—

Edmund Groh surprised his parents and his host of friends by coming down from Minneapolis last Friday night for a few days visit.

—I—

Get a Ford Coupe at the Legion dance Friday evening, June 17. A number free with each dance ticket.

—I—

The carnival company holds forth this week to fair sized crowds. Most of the farmers are too busy to come in unless it is necessary.

—I—

A free pair of pants with every order for a new suit.—New Belmond Tailor Shop. South of hotel.

—I—

A letter received from Joe Sampson at Ackley says that a fine new nine pound baby boy arrived at the home of he and his wife on June the 13th., and that everybody concerned is doing nicely.

—I—

Rev. Jensen was in attendance at a convention of his church held at Jewel last week.

—I—

Get a Ford Coupe at the Legion dance Friday evening, June 17. A number free with each dance ticket.

—I—

Mrs. Edge left last week on an extended vacation with her home folks who reside at Scranton, Penn.

—I—

For sale—60 gallon gasolene barrel with faucet.—T. D. Rankins

—I—

Frank McNulty of Goodell was in town last week Friday attending to some business matters.

—I—

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

—I—

Tom Finn and wife came up from Ackley last week to spend a few days with relatives and friends here. He disposed of his Variety store at that place recently. Tom states that the business there is good.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—Belmond Tailor Shop, Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

Miss Glda Nelson returned to her work at the Schultz Drug store after a three weeks illness with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schultz, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore attended the Shriners conclave at Des Moines this week.

—I—

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Willis A. Johnston of St. Paul visited his brother, Howard Johnston, over Sunday. He is attending John Brown college at Siloam Springs, Arkansas.

—I—

Headquarters for Fishing Tackle and the American Kampkook Stove at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Miss Neva Aldrich of Rowan is a guest at the home of her uncle, F. C. Aldrich and her grandmother, Mrs. P. M. Aldrich, for a few days.

—I—

We now have the high test kerosene and gasoline for sale.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Rufus Morse, who is attending the state University at Iowa City, came home to spend the summer vacation Wednesday. Mr. Morse plays in the University band and has been kept busy with it for a couple of weeks.

—I—

Mrs. Elry Purcell went to Marshalltown last week, where she was called by the serious illness of A. L. Purcell, a resident of the Old Soldiers Home at that place. He is reported some better but his recovery is doubtful.

—I—

If you want all the news all the time, read the Independent.

C. M. Morse went to Fort Dodge one day last week on business matters.

—I—

Try our high test kerosene in your oil stove.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Merle Hildebrand came up from Cedar Rapids one day last week to visit relatives and old friends. He is employed at that place.

—I—

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

The Eagle Grove city council by a vote of five to one recently repealed the ordinance against Sunday base ball.

—I—

For the Spring Frys—just arrived a new lot of panacea and louse killer at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Clarion held a meeting last week to organize a base ball team, and it is understood will have one in the field in the near future.

—I—

If you intend to buy a separator or threshing machine, I can sell you anything you need and at the right price.—Christ Rise. 25tfc

—I—

Glen Nihoof, son of Harry Nihoof, arrived last week from Miles, Montana, where he has been living, and will make his home with his father here from now on. He and his father had not seen each other for ten years.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bohning spent Sunday at Olaf at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orpha Anderson.

—I—

Home made lard for sale.—Mrs. A. W. Martin.

—I—

Clara Johnson, Myrtle Hawley and Marjorie Purcell returned home from Morningside College last week for the summer vacation.

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

E. F. Bailey was a Hampton caller last week Tuesday on some business matters.

—I—

Our guarantee stands behind every sack of Peacock Flour. $2.45 a sack. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

—I—

Little Miss Eleanor Edge is making her home with Dorothy Purcell during the absence of her mother, who is away on an extended visit.

—I—

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

—I—

Inez Boughton went to Dinsdale on Saturday of last week for a visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Seth Huntington. From there she went to Iowa City to attend commencement.

—I—

We are making as good chick feed as there is on the market. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tf

—I—

Geo. Peterson of Ames was an over Sunday visitor at the home of his mother, Mrs. P. J. Peterson. From here he went to Cear Lake to spend a few days outing.

—I—

Miss Jean Hoven, who attends school at Iowa City, came home on Saturday to spend her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs E. G. Miller of this place.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Slining are rejoicing over the arrival at their home of a new baby boy, born June 9th.

—I—

Miss Sadie Eckersley came on this week Monday for a visit this summer with her brothers, W. W. and T. A. Her home is at Wellington, Illinois, where she has been teaching.

—I—

The express office at Hayfield was broken into and robbed last Tuesday of about $1,500 in express financial papers. A reward of $100 is up for the arrest of the robbers.

—I—

Miss Mildred Gealow came down from Meservey to spend the week end with the home folks.

—I—

Bert Nelson came home last week from Cedar Rapids, where he has been attending Coe College.

—I—

A number of the Algona people came down Sunday to see the ball game here.

—I—

Geo. Heginger reports that last Saturday night he was called to tow in four auto wrecks from six o'clock to four.

—I—

The Clarion Monitor for this week states that on the 4th of July at their celebration the ball game will be between Belmond and Kanawha.

Next Week's Dance Program AT Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday June 21 and June 24

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices.

If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

Lyric

THURSDAY, JUNE 16

"THE IRON RIDER"

A Fox picture featuring

WILLIAM RUSSELL

A dramatic story of stern justice in a lawless town where justice had been burlesqued till the coming of the mysterious, black hooded iron Rider

Also a comedy.

11c and 25c

FRIDAY, JUNE 17

"A RIDING ROMEO"

A Fox picture featuring

TOM MIX

It is a picture full of thrilling stunts and good laughs. Tom Mix wrote the story himself and put in a lot of things he did and saw when he was a cowboy on the plains.

11c and 25c

SATURDAY, JUNE 18

"WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES"

A Paramount-Artcraft picture featuring

BRYANT WASHBURN

He leitures on the evils of tobacco. Then they caught him sneaking "hootch into a bone-dry town!" An orgy of laughter for all who "take it" and all who "leave it alone."

Also a two-reel comedy.

11c and 25c

MONDAY AND TUESDAY JUNE 20 & 21

"THE WOMAN IN HIS HOUSE"

This is one of the big pictures of the year and is a First National production. It will be accompanied by special music.

15c and 35c

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

THREE THOUSAND ATTEND PICNIC

In spite of the threatening weather conditions which started the day of June 9th, over three thousand Wright county farmers gathered at the fair grounds to enjoy the first county wide farm bureau picnic which has ever been held in Wright county. The amphitheatre was not half large enough to accomodate the enormous crowd which found its way to the county seat. It is estimated that it had not rained in the morning there would probably have been five thousand or more people in attendance.

The Uncertainty of the weather conditions made it impossible to carry out the program according to the schedule as arranged before hand. Most of the picnicers arrived in time for the picnic dinner and the regular program started promptly after dinner. Most families brought a picnic lunch and ate in groups in the grove near the floral hall.

The success of the picnic dinner goes to Mrs. Chas. Conklin, who made several boilerfuls of the most delicious coffee that the picnicers ever set their lips to. Mrs. Conklin surely made a hit with the farmers of Wright county with her coffee which was so pleasing to the palate. The hope was expressed that the farm bureau could secure Mrs. Conklin's services for the next annual picnic.

The musical part of the program which was furnished by the Tri-Star quintette from Dows and by the Lincoln chorus and quartette was a great success. The Dows quintettee rendered a rather unusual sort of program which proved highly pleasing. The Lincoln township farmers are to be congratulated upon having the musical talent which was exhibited at the picnic yesterday. It is rather interesting to know that all music was furnished by farm folks.

The regular program opened in full blast after dinner with a few selections by the Tri-Star quintette which was followed by an address of welcome by Harry Sumners, president of the farm bureau. This was followed by a selection from the Lincoln chorus and a couple selections by the Dows quintette. President Sumners then introduced Paul C. Taff, state club leader, who opened his address with a short talk on farm bureau work in general in which he urged the closest co-operation among the farm bureau constituents. Mr. Taff devoted the most of his time to the discussion of boys' and girls' club work in Wright county. He pointed out the advantages of club work to the individual, to the home and to the community and expressed the hope that the club would be so organized in our home county that it would become a part of the regular farm bureau program. This part of the program was followed by a selection from the Lincoln quartette. This selection was so well appreciated by the entire crowd that the quartette was called back for another number.

The principal address of the day was given by Mr. J. F. Coupe, assistant secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation, who held the attention of his interested listeners for over an hour. Mr. Coupe came to Wright county full of his subject which proved very interesting and instructive to the farmers who have been waiting for an opportunity to hear a man who is in direct touch with the live problems of the farm bureau federation at the present time. Mr. Coupe reviewed briefly some of the great accomplishments of the State and National Farm Bureau federation during the past year and made it quite clear that any man who had contributed his $5.00 for membership in the organization should feel that his money was well spent. In speaking of problems which are confronting the farm bureau federation at the present time he spent considerable time in explaining the referendum vote which was taken in the various townships Friday night, June 10. Mr. Coupe corrected the impression which is going about the country that our National Farm Bureau federation president, Mr. Howard, is receiving a salary for his services between $25,000 and $50,000 per annum. He explaned that Mr. Howard receives a salary of $15,000, no more, no less. The report that Mr. Howard received from $25,00 to $50,000 per year is simply propaganda which is being spread thruout the country by interests which are opposed to the farm bureau organization with the hope of poisoning the farmers' minds against the leaders of their organization.

The Clarion Commercial Club was represented at the farm bureau picnic by a number of business men who passed cigars to the picnic smokers. This expression of kindness from the Commercial Club was appreciated by the farmers.

HOPE TO EQUALIZE LAND TAXES

Representatives of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation will meet with the executive council in July when that body will sit as a board of equalization of land values for purposes of taxation.

In order to have accurate working information for the occasion the federation is conducting a careful, state wide survey to determine present values as compared with those of two years ago when speculation was rampant and prices seeking new levels every day.

Some of the oder counties of the state were not so upset by the ate land boom. Values remained fairly conservative, with taxes in proportion. But in most counties prices soared to the skies, and now with a marked reaction in progress, leaving taxes based upon the maximum figures reached, the problem has become distressing.

The federation officials realize perfectly that an equitable apportionment and distribution, one county with another, is about the hardest thing on earth to accomplish and dependable, first hand data is absolutely necessary if the exevutive council is to act intelligently and with anything approaching fairness to all.

This information the federation proposes to furnish. When completed the survey will show whether the inflation experienced two years ago has been discounted and to what extent; it will show the percentage of bankruptcies resulting from the boom, the proportion of cases where owners have been compelled to take back farms that could not be paid for, and much other information of a similar nature.

FARM BUREAU AT STATE FAIR

Monday, August 29th, will be "Farm Bureau Day" at the state fair. Such was the official announcement by the fair management, cooperating with federation officials, and the program for that day is being shaped with especial regard to the interests and developements of the organization.

So far as the federation's share in the day is concerned, plans for entertainment are not yet sufficiently matured for publication. But they are well under way and will be announced at an early date. Speakers of national prominence will be secured and everything possible will be done to make the occasion a noteworthy one. The state fair management will erect a big tent near the agricultural building, which is centrally located and in which the federation will maintain headquarters thruout the fair and provide a band for the day.

In this connection it might also be stated that the fair management has set aside a large tract in the most desireable part of the camp grounds for the use of the farm bureau members, in order that all who belong to the organization may be together. It is not only convenient to the tent, where the big meetings will be held but to all other attractions of interest.

BANKERS AND FARMERS HOLD MEETING

What was undoubtedly the most noteworthy and important meeting of the kind ever held in the middle west took place in Des Moines, June 7th. The occasion was the banker-farmer conference arranged for the opening session of the thirty-fifth annual convention of the Iowa State Bankers' association. Noteworthy in the attendance and interest displayed, and important because it indicates the new order of harmony and co-operation that is developing in Iowa between banking interests and the agricultural industry.

More than two thousand Iowa bankers and farmers attended, packing the Orpheum theatre from cellar to garret and from bald-head row to the outer entrances. Interest in the proceedings was intense, enthusiasm high, harmony in evidence at every turn, and confidence in Iowa and Iowa institutions 100 per cent strong.

Farm credits constituted the principal theme of discussion along with kindred complications of transportation and marketing. Speakers on both sides were agreed on the necessity of a more adequate and satisfactory system for financing farming operations than now prevails.

Mr. Heath presented some interesting information covering the rules functions and operation of Federal Reserve banks. Mr. Andrews paid a glowing tribute to the work and influence of the farm bureau federation and expressed himself in favor of bringing order and agricultural prosperity out of existing conditions.

President Hunt also touched on the question of credits, demanding "a system that will distinguish between credit for speculation and credit for legitimate business." Mr. Howard's remarks dealt with the purchasing power of the agricultural citizenry of the country and its influence upon other lines of business Mr. Harding went into the details of the Federal Reserve banking system, explaining its connection with the business machinery of the nation and the part it played in carrying the country's business thru the most critical time in its history.

Secretary Cunningham voiced his objections to arbitray rules for apportioning credit to a state or community without regard to its needs and resources. He emphasized the importance of community efficiency, favored the use of local money for financing local enterprise, urged economy by all, and expressed his unbounded faith in Iowa's solvency and ability to pay all outstanding obligations 100 cents on the dollar.

GARNER PLACING CONCRETE MARKERS AT STREET CORNERS

Garner Signal: The city council have had markers placed at the most prominent corners on Main street in the business district. Cement bases have been built with the intention of later placing posts in them with some kind of a marker at the top. Traffic is supposed to keep to the right of these markers and thus avoid the danger of autos colliding. If people will keep their cars where they belong and drive at a moderate rate of speed fewer accidents will occur.

The idea of solid, permanent markers is a good one, and worthy of serious thought. Why not have such permanent markers on the intersections in Belmond? They would not be pushed over, at any rate, nor bent over towards Jones if struck by a car. And they would be something which the careless driver would be careful to miss.

HEAD OF MATCH SETS FIRE TO AUTOMOBILE

Corwith Hustler: James Money came in on the night train a few nights ago and went to the Ford garage to get his car to ride home in. He struck a match to light a cigar, the head of the match flew off and ignited the gas under the Hatterscheid Brother's runabout. The fire also caught in one of the big wooden upright supports and burnt off the hose from the pressure tank. Mr. Money, by quick work, ran the car out of the garage and then turned the water on the fire inside, quenched it, then put the fire out in the car. The damage was slight.

FIND GOLD AT IOWA TOWN

Gold has been found on a farm near Grattinger, so it is reported here and it has caused a great deal of excitment in that neighborhood. The find is located in a gravel bed on a farm owned by a Mr. Smith, as near as we can learn. Samples have been sent away to be assayed and is reported that the gold run about $25 worth to the ton. Samples of gravel are now in the hands of the Iowa State College for another assay.—Ringsted Dispatch.

KLEMME CEMENT WORKS GET BIG CONTRACT

The Klemme Cement plant secured the contract for the big draining job at Clarion last week, which will amount to about $125,000.00. The ditching work on the job was let to E. F. Bailey of Belmond. Work is starting on the drainage at once.

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, coedine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

If you want all the news all the time, read the Independent.

Authorized Valve in Head Buick Motor Cars Service

Emblem of Satisfaction

Motor Inn

Ray P. Morris   Alfred Swensen

PHONE 97

BASEMENT BARGAINS

For Friday and Saturday you will find exceptional values in Kersey's Economy Basement. A few days ago we made a very

Special Purchase--52 Dresses

Satins, Taffetas, Georgettes---Just Unpacked

We consider this special offering for Friday and Saturday to be one of the greatest value-giving opportunities we have ever announced. Some of these dresses were manufactured to retail as high as $39.50. Friday morning they will go on sale at only

Sizes 16 to 44 $16.75 Colors: Blues, Blacks, Browns, Grays

APRONS Very specially priced at 79c

COTTON CREPE GOWNS Just unpacked 10 dozen, flesh and white colors. These gowns are wonderful values at . . $1.48

PETTICOATS One rack full of Satin, Taffeta Silk Jersey Petticoats. Real bargains in the Economy Basement . . $3.48

WASH SKIRTS One big lot white wash Skirts go on sale Friday and Saturday . . $1.98

WAISTS Real bargains in white organdy and Voile Waists, special at $1.48

COATS A few odd coats on sale, while they last $5.95

SUITS Taken from our regular stock and placed on sale in our Economy Basement . . $5.95

SKIRTS A number of real values are here for your selection. You should see them, only $1.98

BLOUSES One lot of Pongee and Georgette Waists, values to $6.75. On Sale Friday and Saturday $3.75

SILK GLOVES Kaysar, long silk gloves at bargain prices. See them in our Economy Basement.

SILK UNDERGARMENTS Many beautiful underthings of silk at extremely low prices, just Friday and Saturday.

APRONS One table packed down with very choice aprons and the price each only 98c

Suits One-half Price Friday and Saturday 1st Floor

Kersey's

Ready-to-Wear

122North Federal Mason City, Iowa

This Store will be closed at 5:30 during June, July and August.

Coats--Wraps One-Third Off Friday and Saturday 1st Floor

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

By IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 16 years of age.

"But that's the only way out," the Doctor insisted, "and we knowing ones would have to call you 'Sordid Abe.'"

"There's a hidden Abe and you haven't got acquainted with him yet," Kelso interposed. "We have all caught a glimpse of him tonight. He's the Abe that loves honor and justice and humanity and their great temple of freedom that is growing up here in the new world. He loves them better than fame or fortune or life itself. I think it must have been that Abe whose voice sounded like a trumpet just now and who sent you off to Mrs. Peters with the money. You haven't the chance to know him that we have. Some day you two will get acquainted."

At this moment there was a loud rap on the door. Mr. Kelso opened it and said: "Hello, Eli! Come in."

A hairy-faced, bow-legged man, bent under a great pack, partly covered with bed ticking, stood in the doorway.

"Hello, Mr. Kelso," the bearded man answered. "The poor vandering Jew has gome back ag'in—hey? I tink I haf to take de hump off my back before I gits in."

Staggering beneath his load he let it down to the ground.

"Bring in your Trojan horse and mind you do not let out its four and twenty warriors until morning. I'll have some bread and milk for you in a minute. Gentlemen, this is my friend Eli—a wandering pioneer of trade."

"I haf a vonderful line o' goods—vonderful! vonderful!" said Eli, gesturing with both hands.

"First supper—then open your Trojan horse," said Kelso.

"First I must show my goods," Eli insisted, "an' I'll bet you take dem all—everyt'ing vat I have in dot pack an' you pay my price an' you t'ank me an' say 'Eli, vat you have to drink?'"

"I'll bet you four bits I don't," said Kelso.

"You are my frient; I vould not take your money like dot so easy. No! It vould not be right. These are Scotch goods, gentlemen—so rare an' beautiful—not'ing like dem in de world."

He began to undo his pack while the little company stood around him.

"Gentlemen, you can see but you cannot buy. Only my frient can have dem goods," he went on glibly as he removed the cover of the pack.

Suddenly there was a lively stir in it. To the amazement of all a beautiful girl threw aside the ticking and leaped out of the large wicker basket it had covered. With a merry laugh she threw her arms around Jack Kelso's neck and kissed him.

The men clapped their hands in noisy merriment.

"That's like Bim, isn't it?" said the Doctor.

"Exactly!" Abe exclaimed.

"I stop at David Barney's an' dere she took de goods out o' my pack an' fix up dis job lot fer you," said Eli with a laugh.

"A real surprise party!" the girl exclaimed.

She was a small-sized girl, nearing sixteen, with red cheeks and hazel eyes and blonde hair that fell in curls upon her shoulders.

"Mr. Traylor, this is my daughter Bim," said Kelso. "She is skilled in the art of producing astonishment."

"She must have heard of that handsome boy at the tavern and got in a hurry to come home," said the Doctor.

"Ann Rutledge says that he is a right purty boy," the girl laughed as she brushed her curls aside

CHAPTER IV.

Which Presents Other Log-Cabin Folk and the First Steps in the Making of a New Home and Certain Capacities and Incapacities of Abe.

Next morning at daylight two parties went out in the woods to cut timber for the home of the newcomers. In one party were Harry Needles carrying two axes and a well-filled luncheon pail; Samson with a saw in his hand and the boy Joe on his back; Abe with a saw and ax and a small jug of root beer and a book tied in a big red handkerchief and slung around his neck. When they reached the woods Abe cut a pole for the small boy and carried him on his shoulder to the creek and said:

"Now you sit down here and keep order in this little frog city. If you hear a frog say anything improper you fetch him a whack. Don't allow any nonsense. We'll make you mayor of Frog City."

The men fell to with axes and saws while Harry limbed the logs and looked after the mayor. Their huge muscles flung the sharp axes into the timber and gnawed through it with the saw. Many big trees fell before noon time when they stopped for luncheon. While they were eating Abe said:

"I reckon we better saw out a few boards this afternoon. Need 'em for the doors. We'll tote a couple of logs up on the side o' that knoll, put 'em on skids an' whip 'em up into boards with the saw."

Samson took hold of the middle of one of the logs and raised it from the ground.

"I guess we can carry 'em," he said.

"Can ye shoulder it?" Abe asked.

"Easy," said Samson as he raised an end of the log, stepped beneath it and, resting its weight on his back, soon got his shoulder near its center and swung it clear of the ground and walked with it to the knollside where he let it fall with a resounding thump that shook the ground. Abe stopped eating and watched every move in this remarkable performance. The ease with which the big Vermonter had so defied the law of gravitation with that unwieldy stick amazed him.

Watched Every Move in This Remarkable Performance.

"That thing'll weigh from seven to eight hundred pounds," said he. "I reckon you're the stoutest man in this part o' the state an' I'm quite a man myself. I've lifted a barrel o' whisky and put my mouth to the bung hole. I never drink it.

"Say," he added as he sat down and began eating a doughnut. "If you ever hit anybody take a sledge hammer or a crowbar. It wouldn't be decent to use your fist."

They hewed a flat surface on opposite sides of the log which Samson had carried and peeled it and raised its lower end on a cross timber. Then they marked it with a chalk line and sliced it into inch boards with a whip saw, Abe standing on top of the log and Samson beneath it. Suddenly the saw stopped. A clear, beautiful voice flung the music of "Sweet Nightingale" into the timbered hollow. It halted the workers and set the woodland ringing. The men stood silent like those hearing a benediction. The singing ceased. Still they listened for half a moment. It was as if a spirit had passed and touched them.

"It's Bim—the little vixen!" said Abe tenderly. "She's an odd child and as pretty as a spotted fawn, and about as wild. She's a kind of a first cousin to the bobolink."

When they were getting ready to go home that afternoon Joe got into a great hurry to see his mother. It seemed to him that ages had elapsed since he had seen her—a conviction which led to noisy tears.

Abe knelt before him and comforted the boy. Then he wrapped him in his jacket and swung him in the air and started for home with Joe astride his neck.

Samson says in his diary: "His tender play with the little lad gave me another look at the man Lincoln."

"Some one proposed once that we should call that stream the Minnehaha," said Abe as he walked along. "After this Joe and I are going to call it the Minneboohoo."

The women of the little village had met at a quilting party at ten o'clock with Mrs. Martin Waddell. There Sarah had had a seat at the frame and heard all the gossip of the countryside. The nimble-fingered Ann Rutledge—a daughter of the tavern folk—had sat beside her. Ann was a slender, good-looking girl of seventeen with blue eyes and a rich crown of auburn hair and a fair skin well browned by the sunlight. She was the most dexterous needle worker in New Salem.

John McNeil, whom the Traylors had met on the road near Niagara Falls and who had shared their camp with them, arrived on the stage that evening. He was dressed in a new butternut suit and clean linen and looked very handsome. Samson writes that he resembled the pictures of Robert Emmet. With fine, dark eyes, a smooth skin, well-moulded features and black hair neatly brushed on a shapely head he was not at all like the rugged Abe. In a low tone and very modestly, with a slight brogue on his tongue he told of his adventures on the long shore road to Michigan. Ann sat listening and looking into his face as he talked. Abe came in, soon after eight o'clock, and was introduced to the stranger. All noted the contrast between the two young men as they greeted each other. Abe sat down for a few minutes and looked sadly into the fire but said nothing. He rose presently, excused himself and went away.

The logs for the new house were ready two days after the cutting began. Martin Waddell and Samuel Hill sent teams to haul them. John Cameron and Peter Lukins had brought the window sash and some clapboards from Beardstown in a small flatboat. Then came the day of the raising—a clear, warm day early in September. All the men from the village and the near farms gathered to help make a home for the newcomers. Samson and Jack Kelso went out for a hunt after the cutting and brought in a fat buck and many grouse for the bee dinner, to which every woman of the neighborhood made a contribution of cake or pie or cookies or doughnuts.

"What will be my part?" Samson had inquired of Kelso.

"Nothing but a jug of whisky and a kind word and a house warming," Kelso had answered.

They notched and bored the logs and made pins to bind them and cut those that were to go around the fireplace and window spaces. Strong, willing and well-trained hands hewed and fitted the logs together. Alexander Ferguson lined the fireplace with a curious mortar made of clay in which he mixed grass for a binder. This mortar he rolled into layers called "cats," each eight inches long and three inches thick. Then he laid them against the logs and held them in place with a woven network of stocks. The first fire—a slow one—baked the clay into a rigid stone-like sheath inside the logs and presently the sticks were burned away. The women had cooked the meats by an open fire and spread the dinner on a table of rough boards resting on poles set in crotches. At noon one of them sounded a conch shell. Then with shouts of joy the men hurried to the fireside and for a moment there was a great spluttering over the wash basins. Before they ate, every man except Abe and Samson "took a pull at the jug—long or short"—to quote a phrase of the time.

It was a cheerful company that sat down upon the grass around the table with loaded plates. Their food had its extra seasoning of merry jests and loud laughter. Sarah was a little shocked at the forthright directness of their eating, no knives or forks or napkins being needed in that process. Having eaten, washed and packed away their dishes the women went home at two. Before they had gone Samson's ears caught a thunder of horses' feet in the distance. Looking in its direction he saw a cloud of dust in the road and a band of horsemen riding toward them at full speed. Abe came to him and said:

"I see the boys from Clary's Grove are coming. If they get mean, let me deal with 'em. It's my responsibility. I wouldn't wonder if they had some of Offut's whisky with them."

The boys arrived in a cloud of dust and a chorus of Indian whoops and dismounted and hobbled their horses. They came toward the workers, led by burly Jack Armstrong, a stalwart, hard-faced blacksmith of about twenty-two with broad, heavy shoulders, whose name has gone into history. They had been drinking some but no one of them was in the least degree off his balance. They scuffled around the jug for a moment in perfect good nature and then Abe and Mrs. Waddell provided them with the best remnants of the dinner. They were rather noisy. Soon they went up on the roof to help with the rafters and the clapboarding. They worked well a few minutes and suddenly they came scrambling down for another pull at the jug. They were out for a spree and Abe knew it and knew further that they had reached the limit of discretion.

"Boys, there are ladies here and we've got to be careful," he said. "Le's stick to the job till four o'clock. Then we'll knock off for refreshments."

The young revelers gathered in a group and began to whisper together. Samson writes that it became evident then they were going to make trouble and says:

"We had left the children at Rutledge's in the care of Ann. I went to Sarah and told her she had better go on and see if they were all right.

"'Don't you get in any fight,' she said, which shows that the women knew what was in the air.

"Sarah led the way and the others followed her."

Those big, brawny fellows from the Grove when they got merry were looking always for a chance to get mad at some man and turn him into a plaything. A chance had come to get mad and they were going to make the most of it. They began to growl with resentment. Some were wigging their leader, Jack Armstrong, to fight Abe. One of them ran to his horse and brought a bottle from his saddle bag. It began passing from mouth to mouth. Jack Armstrong got the bottle before it was half emptied, drained it and flung it high in the air. Another called him a hog and grappled him around the waist and there was a desperate struggle which ended quickly. Armstrong got a hold on the neck of his assailant and choked him until he let go. This was not enough for the sturdy bully of Clary's Grove. He seized his follower and flung him so roughly on the ground that the latter lay for a moment stunned. Armstrong had got his blood warm and was now ready for action. With a wild whoop he threw off his coat, unbuttoned his right shirtsleeve and rolled it to the shoulder and declared in a loud voice, as he swung his arm in the air, that he could "out jump, out hop, out run, throw down, drag out an' lick any man in New Salem."

In a letter to his father Samson writes:

"Abe was working at my elbow. I saw him drop his hammer and get up and make for the ladder. I knew something was going to happen and I followed him. In a minute everyone was off the roof and out of the building. I guess they knew what was coming. The big lad stood there swinging his arm and yelling like an Injun. It was a big arm and muscled and corded up some, but I guess if I'd shoved the calico off mine and held it up he'd a pulled down his sleeve. I didn't know just how good a man Abe was and I was kind o' scairt for a minute. I never found it so hard work to do nothin' as I did then. Honest, my hands kind o' ached. I wanted to go an' cuff that feller's ears an' grab hold o' him an' toss him over the ridge pole. Abe went right up to him an' said:

"'Jack, you ain't half so bad or half so cordy as ye think ye are. You say you can throw down any man here. I reckon I'll have to show ye that you're mistaken. I'll rassle with ye. We're friends an' we won't talk about lickin' each other. Le's have a friendly rassle.'

"In a second the two men were locked together. Armstrong had lunged at Abe with a yell. There was no friendship in the way he took hold. He was going to do all the damage he could in any way he could. Half drunk, Jack is a man who would bite your ear off. It was no rassle; it was a fight. Abe moved like lightning. He acted awful limber an' well greased. In a second he had got hold of the feller's neck with his big right hand and hooked his left into the cloth on his hip. In that way he held him off and shook him as you've seen our dog shake a woodchuck. Abe's blood was hot. If the whole crowd had piled on him I guess he would have come out all right, for when he's roused there's something in Abe more than bones and muscles. I suppose it's what I feel when he speaks a piece. It's a kind of lightning. I guess it's what our minister used to call the power of the spirit.

"A friend of the bully jumped in and tried to trip Abe. Harry Needles stood beside me. Before I could move he dashed forward and hit that feller in the middle of his forehead and knocked him flat. Harry had hit Bap McNoll, the cock fighter. I got up next to the kettle then and took the scum off it. Fetched one of them devils a slap with the side of my hand that took the skin off his face and rolled him over and over. When I looked again Armstrong was going limp. His mouth was open and his tongue out. With one hand fastened to his right leg and the other on the nape of his neck Abe lifted him at arm's length and gave him a toss in the air. Armstrong fell about ten feet from where Abe stood and lay there for a minute. The fight was all out of him and he was kind of dazed and sick. Abe stood up like a giant and his face looked awful solemn.

"'Boys, if there's any more o' you that want trouble you can have some off the same piece,' he said.

"They hung their heads and not one of them made a move or said a word. Abe went to Armstrong and helped him up.

"'Jack, I'm sorry that I had to hurt you,' he said. 'You get on to your horse and go home.'

"'Abe, you're a better man than me,' said the bully, as he offered his hand to Abe. 'I'll do anything you say.'"

So the Clary's Grove gang was conquered. They were to make more trouble but not again were they to imperil the foundations of law and order in the little community of New Salem. As they were starting away Bap McNoil turned to Harry Needles and shouted: "I'll git even with you yet—you slab-sided son of a dog."

That is not exactly what he said but it is near enough.

CHAPTER V.

In Which the Character of Bim Kelso Flashes Out in a Strange Adventure That Begins the Weaving of a Long Thread of Romance.

The shell of the cabin was finished that day. Its puncheon floor was in place but its upper floor was to be laid when the boards were ready. Its two doors were yet to be made and hung, its five windows to be fitted and made fast, its walls to be chinked with clay mortar. Samson and Harry stayed that evening after the rest were gone, smoothing the puncheon floor. They made a few nails at the forge after supper and went over to Abe's store about nine. Two of the Clary's Grove gang who had tarried in the village sat in the gloom of its little veranda apparently asleep. Doctor Allen, Jack Kelso, Alexander Ferguson and Martin Waddell were sitting by its fireside while Abe sat on the counter with his legs hanging off.

"I'm sorry we had to have trouble," Samson remarked. "It's the only spot on the day. I'll never forget the kindness of the people of New Salem."

"The raising bee is a most significant thing," said Kelso. "Democracy tends to universal friendship—each works for the crowd and the crowd for each, and there are no favorites. Every community is like the thousand friends of Thebes. Most of its units stand together for the common good—for justice, law and honor. The schools are spinning strands of democracy out of all this European wool. Railroads are to pick them up and weave them into one great fabric. By and by we shall see the ten million friends of America standing together as did the thousand friends of Thebes."

"It's a great thought," said Abe.

"No man can estimate the size of that mighty phalanx of friendship all trained in one school," Kelso went on. "Two years ago the Encyclopedia Britannica figured that the population of the United States in 1905 would be 168,000,000 people, and in 1966, 672,000,000. Wealth, power, science, literature, all follow in the train of light and numbers. The causes which moved the sceptre of civilization from the Euphrates to western Europe will carry it from the latter to the new world."

"They say that electricity and the development of the steam engine are going to make all men think alike," said Abe. "If that's so democracy and liberty will spread over the earth. I reckon we are near the greatest years in history. It is a privilege to be alive."

"And young," Doctor Allen added.

"Young! What a God's blessed thing is that!" said Kelso. "Abe, have ye learned 'The Cotter's Saturday Night'?"

"Not yet. It's a heavy hog to hold, but I'll get a grip on an ear and a hind leg and lift it out o' the pen before long. You see."

"Don't fail to do that. It will be a help and joy to ye."

"Old Kirkham is a hard master," said Abe. "I hear his bell ringing every time I get a minute's leisure. I'm nigh through with him. Now I want to study rhetoric."

"Only schoolmasters study rhetoric," Kelso declared. "A real poet or a real orator is born with all the rhetoric he needs. Rhetoric is a steed for a light load under the saddle, but he's too warm blooded for the harness. He was for the day of the plumed knight—not for these times. No man of sense would use a prancing horse on a plow or a stone boat. A good plow horse is a beautiful thing. The play of his muscles, the power of his stride are poetry to me, but when he tries to put on style he is ridiculous. That suggests what rhetoric is apt to do to the untrained intellect. If you've anything to say or write, head straight across the field and keep your eye on the furrow."

In the last diary of Samson Henry Traylor is this entry:

"I went to Gettysburg with the President today and sat near him when he spoke. Mr. Everett addressed the crowd for an hour or so. As Kelso would say 'He rode the prancing steed of Rhetoric.' My old friend went straight across the field. When he finished, the field, plowed and harrowed and fertilized by war, had been sowed for all time. The spring's work was done and well done."

At a quarter of ten the doctor rose and said:

"We're keeping Abe from his sleep and wearing the night away with philosophy. I'm going home."

"I came over to see if you could find a man to help me tomorrow," Samson said to Abe. "Harry is going over to do the chinking alone. I want a man to help me on the whipsaw while I cut some boards for the upper flooring."

"I'll help you myself," Abe proposed. "I reckon I'll close the store tomorrow unless Jack will tend it."

"You can count on me," said Jack. "I'm short of sleep anyhow and a day of rest will do me good."

Abe went with his friends to the door beyond which the two boys from Clary's Grove sat as if sound asleep. It is probable, however, that they had heard what Samson had said to Abe.

Next morning Abe and Samson set out for the woods soon after daylight.

"I like that boy Harry," said Abe. "I reckon he's got good stuff in him. The way he landed on Bap McNoll was a caution. I like to see a feller come right up to the scratch, without an invitation just in the nick o' time, as he did. That boy is a likely young colt—strong and limber and well put together and broad between the eyes."

"An' gentle as a kitten," Samson added. "There never was a better face on a boy or a better heart behind it. We like him."

"Yes, sir. He's a well topped young tree—straight and sound and good timber. Looks as if that little girl o' Jack's was terribly took up with him. I don't wonder."

"What kind of a girl is she?" Samson asked.

"Awful shy since the arrow hit her. She don't know what it means yet. She'll get used to that, I reckon. She's a good girl and smart as a steel trap."

Harry Needles went whistling up the road toward the new house with sickle, hoe and trowel. As he passed the Kelso cabin he whistled the tune of "Sweet Nightingale." It had haunted his mind since he had heard it in the woods. He whistled as loudly as ever he could and looked at the windows. Before he had passed, Bim's face looked out at him with a smile and her hand flickered back of the panes and he waved his to her. His heart beat fast as he hurried along.

"I'm not so very young," he said to himself. "I wish I hadn't put on these old clothes. Mrs. Traylor is an awful nice woman but she's determined to make me look like a plow horse. I don't see why she couldn't let me wear decent clothes."

Sarah had enjoyed mothering the boy. His health had returned. His cheeks were ruddy, his dark eyes clear and bright, his tall form erect and sturdy.

He had helped Alexander Ferguson with the making of the fireplace and knew how to mix the mortar. He worked with a will, for his heart was in the new home. It was a fine September morning. The far reaches of the great, grassy plain were dimmed with haze. It was a vast, flowery wilderness, waving and murmuring in the breeze like an ocean. How long those acres, sown by the winds of heaven, had waited for the plowman now arrived!

Harry felt the beauty of the scene but saw and enjoyed more the face of Bim Kelso as he worked and planned his own house—no cabin, but a mansion like that of Judge Harper in the village near his old home. He had filled every crevice in the rear wall and was working on the front when he heard the thunder of running horses and saw figures, dim in a cloud of dust, flying up the road again. He thought of the threat of Bap McNoll. It occurred to him that he would be in a bad way alone with those ruffians if they were coming for revenge. He thought of running toward the grove, which was a few rods from the rear door of the house and hiding there. He couldn't bear to run. Bim and all the rest of them would hear of it. So with the sickle in his right hand he stood waiting inside the house and hoping they wouldn't stop. They rode up to the door and dismounted quietly and hobbled their horses. There were five of them who crowded into the cabin with McNoll in the lead.

"Now, you young rooster, you're goin' to git what's comin' to you," he growled.

The boy faced them bravely and warned them away with his sickle. They were prepared for such emergencies. One of them drew a bag of bird shot from his pocket and hurled it at Harry's head. It hit him full in the face and he staggered against the wall stunned by the blow. They rushed upon the boy and disarmed and bore him to the floor. For a little time he knew not what was passing. When he came to, his hands and feet were tied and the men stood near cursing and laughing, while their leader, McNoll, was draining a bottle. Suddenly he heard a voice trembling with excitement and wet with tears saying:

"You go 'way from here or I'll kill you dead. So help me God I'll kill

He Staggered Against the Wall.

you. If one o' you touches him he's goin' to die."

He saw Bim Kelso at the window with her gun leveled at the head of McNoll. Her face was red with anger. Her eyes glowed. As he looked a tear welled from one of them and trailed down the scarlet surface of her cheek. McNoll turned without a word and walked sulkily out of the back door. The others crowded after him. They ran as soon as they had got out of the door. She left the window. In a moment the young men were galloping away.

(Continued next week)

READ THE ADS

Parson's Special

1 lb. Farm House Cocoa, regular 50c	40c
3 pkg. macaroni for	25c
Bread per loaf	10c
1 lb. Peaberry coffee	25c
Corn meal per sack	20c

Our low prices in groceries are moving them fast.

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30

We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

Bring Your Fur Work in Now

Our new styles for Fall are being finished daily. You can copy these with your old furs. If you are going to have this work done you should have it done now. Later in the year we will be too rushed to take care of this work as new furs must then take the preference.

Let us look your furs over and give an estimate at once. This places you under no obligations whatsoever.

F. E. Sheehy & Co.

American Fur Shop

Quality fur at Popular Prices

221 North Federal Mason City, Iowa

Belmond Local News

Ray Klemme attended the Shriners conclave at Des Moines this week.

We are now prepared to give you immense discounts on tailor made suits. Discounts as high as $20 off original prices.—The New Belmond Tailor Shop, South of Case Hotel.

A letter from Howard Wolle states that he has arrived at Honduras and is now at work for the Dyer company.

Free! Free! Standard Gilette Safety razor given free with every purchase of a suit or coat and pants from the "English American" Tailoring line at the Star Cleaners.

The regular monthly business meeting of the M. E. Aid society will be held at the church on Thursday afternoon.

Bring in your suits and have them cleaned and pressed. Hats cleaned and reblocked. Get a free ticket on th e $75 suit to be given away at the Star Cleaners.

Mr. and Mrs. Gowdy were among the local people who attended the Shriners doings this week at Des Moines.

The Bible story contest will be held this week at Corwith. Two contestants from here will be in the contest, Mildred Stapley and Mildred Bayless.

Paul Pierce of Minneapolis came down last week to visit his mother Mrs. Daisy Pierce over the week end.

Mrs. Clyde Jennings left Thursday of last week for Mt. Vernon, South Dakota, where she will spend a few weeks visiting at the home of her parents.

Mrs. Hal Nourse and two sons left Thursday for Fox Lake, Wisconsin, to visit relatives.

Miss Blanche Baker and Miss Nettie Benson spent the greater part of the week at the home of their friend, Mrs Clarence Scott.

Dr. Steele was a professional caller at Alexander several times last week.

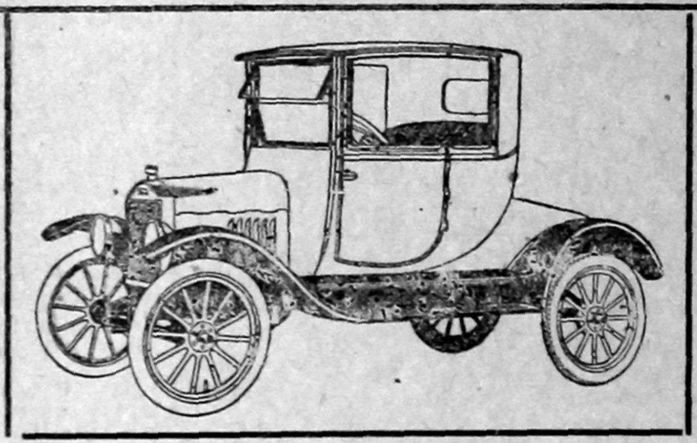
Wallace Ramsay went to Des Moines last week to spend the week end at the home of his brother.

The guessing contest at the Schultz rug store aroused quite a bit of interest. Loretta Delaney won the first prize, a green gold mesh bag, with a guess of 846, and Mrs. Glen Baker took second place with the guess of 821. The second prize was a green gold vanity case. The number of hair nets on display was 836.

Try a box of Websters' Famous Fudge or assortment. 75 cents a pound. Schultz Drug Co.

FORD COUPE

Given Away



By The

American Legion

OF BELMOND

Friday Evening, June 17th

Pavement Dance!

A number on the Ford to be Given with each Dance Ticket.

Special Carnival Attractions

Ferris Wheel Merry-Go-Round

No. 4 Automatic Electric Washers

Special Sale---Beginning Thursday June 16th

Regular Price---$97.50

Sale Price---The first two for only $75.00

The next 10 at $80.00.

The Automatic Electric Washer

washes everything beautifully clean, from heavy blankets to fine lingerie, without the slightest injury. It is a model of convenience, for the cord leading to the electric motor may be attached to any electric light socket or baseboard outlet.

Cut Out the Blue Mondays

with a No. 4 Automatic Washer. They are the famous washers that carry a five year guarantee. One of the special features of the Automatic is the substantial mounting of the wringer, preventing it from sagging. This makes a hit with a woman.

Cash Payments or the Installment Plan

The Electric Store

BELMOND, IOWA

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 1921 — NO. 31

Annual Community Club Picnic Held Tomorrow

Belmond Settles Ancient Fued With Kanawha

Take First Game From Eenemy In Grueling Contest After Kanawha Has 5 To 0 Lead.

KANAWHA HATES TO LOSE IT

In a wild and exciting game, Sunday, at Twin Lakes, Belmond evened up the old score between Kanawha and this town in the base ball line by trimming the Kanawhaites to the sweet-sounding tune of 6 to 5.

The game was red hot from the very start, as was expected, and was featured by two things: the beefing and rag-chewing of the Kanawha team and fans, and the persistant determination of the Belmond team to win.

Thru an error on Belmond's part, Kanawha was presented with a three run lead in the first inning. With one down, the ball was fumbled when it should have been a double play, and with two on, a lucky homer gave the Kanawha team the lead.

Further errors gave two more runs in the next few innings, making the the heart-sick score of 5 to 0 for Kanawha.

That was an awful lead to overcome but the home boys kept everlastingly at it, and, playing better ball as they went along, got to the mighty Yepson and pounded in three runs in the seventh inning.

After that the Kanawha team sort of went to pieces, and the boys pushed enough runs across to make the score look somewhat better, 6 to 5, and there it stayed. The heat was intense, and toward the last of the game got the best of the players on both sides and they all slowed down.

Pillmer was given somewhat ragged support at the beginning of the game and had to play it alone for several innings. Belmond was handicaped to a large extent by the absence of Fulton. A catcher from Mason City, Cook, caught a good all round game, but Fulton's familiarity with the pitcher and team work was missed.

Kanawha upheld their reputation for rag chewers and "beefers" at the game, and kicked from start to finish. They were abusive personally to the Belmond players, and roasted the town and team from Adam up. They had no regard whatever for a visitor's rights, climbing on the cars, casting insulting remarks and generally behaving like a bunch of peevish kids. There was a regular Fourth of July jam of people and cars, estimated at around two to three thousand people, and for all the mob there was one lone little Kanawha fellow with a tooth-pick cane to keep order.

In the seventh inning the Kanawha rooters became sore on a decision at the plate which gave Belmond a run, and the crowd poured out on the diamond like waves on a lake, and began chewing the rag and threatening to fight. The fact that there were fully as many Belmond people there as Kanawha seemed to cool their ardor for a mix-up somewhat for they did not seem to fancy the looks of some hundred and fifty husky fans who wanted a square deal.

The lake will be ruined as a resort if Kanawha keeps up the rag chewing they have been doing so far. Everybody was disgusted at the way they acted and many have said that they would never go back there again if there were to expect such treatment.

The day was the formal opening of the lake. A good many took their dinners and the Kanawha band was to give a concert, playing, however, but one or two pieces and there was a large delegation present from the surrounding towns.

The line up of the Belmond team was as follows:

Next Sunday, June 2, the Kanawha team is to play the return game here. They will be accorded a different treatment than the Belmond people were given Sunday, and the city authorities will have extra police on duty to see that there is no repitition of last Sunday's affair here.

OBITUARY

MRS. WM. GALLIGER

Mrs. Jennie Olive Melcher Galliger was born December 1, 1884, at Garner, Iowa, and died at her late home in Belmond, Iowa, June 17th, 1921 at the age of 36 years, six months and 16 days.

She was married in 1903 to William H. Galliger and for a number of years have made their home in Belmond. To them was born one child, Gordon Melcher Galliger, who is nearly four years of age.

Mrs. Galliger was a charter member of the Rebekah lodge at Garner and was affiliated with that organization here. She was a splendid woman, of true christian character, and she made a host of friends dur-suffered for many months and had suffered for many months and had patiently and cheerfully borne her affliction. She was resigned to the call of the Det Angel and was ready to obey her summons.

Besides her husband and little boy, Mrs. Galliger leaves to mourn her decease two brothers, Arthur Melcher of Brandt, South Dakota, and Lewis Melcher of Garner, Iowa, one sister, Mrs. Alice Schram of Parshall, North Dakota and numerous other relatives and a host of friends.

Brief funeral services were held from the home in Belmond, at 12:00 o'clock Sunday, conucted by Rev. J. H. Edge, and at 2:00 o'clock from the Methodist Episcopal church in Garner. Interment was made in the Garner cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

To the many friends and neighbors and to the Rebekah lodge of Belmond who so kindly assisted us in the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, and for the expressions of sympathy and the beautiful floral offerings, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks.

W. H. Galliger and Son.

BELMOND ADDS ANOTHER BY BEATING HAMPTON 2 TO 1

Belmond added another game to its list of victories last Thursday, when they trimmed the Hampton team by two to one, in a bitterly fought contest.

Hampton scored first, when a combination of errors let in a run. They held the lead until the l'il' ol' seventh came around, when Belmond pounded in a run, and the next inning added another, cinching the game.

For six innings the game, so far as Belmond was concerned, was a good sample of the way the team played last year; errors, and fumbles and over throws and chances galore to score but no score. From the sixth inning on, however, the boys snapped into it and played real ball, and when they did the Hampton team didn't have a show, for while their team is a good one and before the season is over will be going strong they were not up to Belmond.

The game was even all the way thru, and was interesting, and after the boys got into the harness was somewhat exciting. The Hampton shortstop was the star fielder of the day, accepting nearly everything that came his way and robbing the home boys of several hits.

Not a very large crowd was at the game, but those who were enjoy- a close contest between two good home-town teams. The game was played without any rag chewing, and after the Algona game that seemed pleasant and agreeable. The line up was as follows:

Fulton, c; Pillmer, p; Packard, 1st; Jones, 2nd; Thomas, 3rd; Nelson lf; Dillon, cf; Ray, rf.

In a good clean game the Belmond ball team added another scalp to the ever-increasing list yesterday when they trimmed Hampton 7 to 5. The boys scored three runs in the first frame, and in all gathered 12 hits for about 16 bases. In every branch they outplayed the Hampton team, Pillmer holding the Hampton sluggers to a few scattered hits until the nineth, when he let down the bars and gave them a chance. It a splendid game without any rag-chewing. The Hampton team and fans are a very nice bunch all around.

American Legion Dance Draws Immense Crowd

American Legion Has Immense Time With Large Crowd—Clear About Three Hundred Dollars.

RICH THOMPSON GETS THE CAR

The American Legion dance and raffle Friday evening of last week was most successful, and drew a very large crowd from Belmond and the surrounding towns. The cars began coming to town early in the evening, and were soon parked along Spruce street for blocks in both directions.

In the afternoon the Legion boys had roped off the street on the block from the State Bank to the Case Hotel, and also the street for half a block west and half a block east, and the side streets adjacent thereto for half a block north and south. In the afternoon the fire hose was brought out and the pavement flushed clean in the dancing part of the street, and then liberally covered with corn meal. Seats were constructed on the side walk along both sides of the block. The band stand was placed in front of the Schultz Drug store, and the ticket booth for dance tickets and tickets on the Ford Coupe placed just across the street, in front of the McGuire store. The car to be raffled was placed in the center of the street just beyond the band stand. Arrangements for the affair were carried out very nicely, and the boys are to be complimented on the excellent way in which they had things arranged and the splendid way in which the program went thru.

The band started playing about eight thirty, and the dancing began around nine o'clock. The pavement was soon covered with couples enjoying the dance. The evening was almost ideal, and the immense crowd seemed to enjoy the affair from the start to finish.

About 145 dance tickets were sold and a free ticket given on the car with each dance ticket. There were over eleven hundred tickets on the car when the raffle took place, about eleven o'clock and the crowd was on its toes waiting to see who would be the lucky man.

"276" was the lucky number and was held by Rich Thompson. Rich will never have another car that cost him less money than did this one.

The business establishments which remained open during the evening gave half of their evening's profits to the Legion.

The Legion has not figured up as yet on the expense of the raffle and dance, but they expect to clear around three hundrd dollars on the entire doings.

CREDIT ARRANGEMENTS FROM LLOYD SKOVLIN

The Belmond Business Men's Credit association has issued its first list of doubtful customer to the members of the association. Mr. Skovlin, who is in charge of the affairs of the association, states that any whose names may be on the list, and who by reason of lack of employment are unable to meet their bills, may call at his office in the First National Bank building, and the association will do what it can to secure employment for them and establish a credit. Mr. Skovlin will appreciate the matter if anyone in need of help in the labor line will let him know at his office.

FARM BUREAU MEETING IN BELMOND TOWNSHIP

There will be a meeting of the ladies of the Belmond township farm bureau today at the home of Mrs. Ira Christie, at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

All ladies of the township whether they are members of the farm bureau or not, are cordially invited to attend. Bring needlework with you. An enjoyable social time is assured.

HAMPTON AFTER AUTOISTS —MAKE FORTY ARRESTS

Business Men By Dozens Dragged In For Any Old Off-nse—Even Pull The City Cop.

Hampton has been all het up the last week by the wholesale arrests of business men and citizens there on various charges of breaking the automobile laws. The Chronicle last week had the following about it:

Hampton is having its semi-annual epidemic of rounding up auto speeders, no talighters, and all other breakers of the auto triffic laws. There are chronic violators of these laws who are usually allowed to go unmolested for a year or two, and when a new administration comes into power some fellow who breaks the auto law every day himself puts up a great howl about speeders, and then the "lid" is ordered on again. It has been on in Hampton this week.

There is a rule of reason in all things, and while every person ought to obey the laws there is no excuse for rounding up nearly fifty persons, like it has been done in Hampton this week, and arresting them on pure techinal violations of the law. A few miles more or less, is no violation of the law, and it is not considered so. It is the fellow who doubles the speed limit every day who should be looked after. The officers who made the complaint against the nearly fiftfy auto drivers last week violate the law every day they drive an auto in Hampton and so does the mayor of Hampton, and so does the justice of the peace who fines these parties. Why not arrest the fellow who really violates the law, and not the fellow who, within the rule of reason, does not violate it.

A large number of business men were caught in the drag net of the sleuths scattered around town to round up the auto violators. G. C. Ford of the Ford Cleaning Shop was one of the victims. With his wife he was driving home from his place of business Saturday night about 11:00 o'cock. He came down Reeve street and turned west on Fourth. Their baby was lying asleep in the back seat of the car, and was not even awakened by the speed of the car, nor knocked out of the seat when the jitney went over the M. & St. L. Fourth street crossing. One of our leading attorneys was arrested and fined $9.85 because he was driving thru the streets with his dimmer lights on, when the fact is most people will turn out their big lights while going thru town in order to keep the glare from the eyes of the several auto drivers who are usually going thru town in an opposite direction. Things are not as dark with the street lamps on as it is out in the country, and the fellow who turns out his big lights and uses his dimmers is only using the rule of reason. Still we suppose he techically violates the law.

A farmer drives up in front of a store to unload his family, and a case or two of eggs, and he is told to "move on" and carry his eggs a block or two from the side street. There is no sense in that order when the parking law is violated in Hampton every day by its leading citizens. And it will continue to be violated because since the last parking ordinance was passed there are about 1,000 more cars in use and they must be taken care of in some way.

As many of the business men are included in the arrests made during the past week they do not want to make a "holler" because it might appear that it was a peronal grievance with them. Such is not the case, but they do not favor the crusade as being made at this time, and neither does any other business man in Hampton.

Complaint was filed against Marshal Geo. W. Hooker because the number on the rear of his car was obscured from sight. It is just as ridiculous to arrest and fine him on that charge as it was to fine a large majority of those who have been arrested, and in many cases more so, but who is there to say that Mr. Hooker really violated the law? The justice has not decided Mr. Hooker's case yet.

INTERESTING PROGRAM NOW ARRANGED

Splendid Program Of Readings And Address To Be Given—Bullard To Be The Speaker.

BAND TO FURNISH THE MUSIC

Supper To Be At Seven O'Clock—All Members Of Community Club And Their Families.

The program for the anual picnic of the Community Welfare club, which is to be held at the city park on Friday evening of this wkeek, is now completed and will be given as arranged below. The band has consented to play during the evening, and an interesting address will be given by Attorney W. E. Bullard.

The program will be in order as follows:

Supper at 7:00 o'clock.
Music by the band.
Reading by Everel Thompson.
Address by Attorney . W. E Bullard.
Reading by Alberta Pierce.
Reading by Eloise Brooks.
Reading by Elaine Rierson.
Music by the band.

The Dorr pop corn stand will be at the park, to furnish pop corn to those who wish it, and Mr. Dorr will give half of the profits of the evening to the Community club.

Tables and chairs will be on the grounds for supper. The members of the club and all members of their families are invited, and as there are around two hundred members it is expected that a considerab'e crowd will attend the picnic. These annual picnics are always one of the most enjoyable features of the summer season, and those who attend are assured of some good eats and an enjoyable program.

The list of eatables to bring was printed in last week's Independent, but is here repeated for the benefit of any who may have overlooked it:

Enough sandwiches for your own family, and any of the following articles:

Meats, salads, baked beans, pickles, cake and cookies. Ice cream will be served at a nominal charge to those who wish it.

Bring a plate, fork, spoon, cups, and sauce dish.

ALGONA SAYS WE ARE A BUNCH OF THIEVES

The Algona papers last week used a lot of valuable space to read the pedigree of this town and its ball fans clear back to Adam. It was just one long wail of "thief! thief!" But it sounded more like a poor bunch of losers than anything else. They had the game all twisted up, and had evidently been fed a lot of untruths regarding the way the game was won, or rather lost. The Algona papers had their pitcher issuing eight straight strikes in the last of the nineth, which the umpire said were balls, and of course this gave Belmond the game. As a matter of fact the pitcher lost his nerve, giving four balls to the first man up, and the second man bunted. In their excitment the Algona fielders failed to make the play and both of the runners were safe. The third man up hit safely and won the game.

The Independent does not hesitate to brand the whole article in both papers as a fabrication. Belmond has been trimming the country this year and a lot of them are getting peved because their hired teams are unable to beat us. Belmond has won every game honestly and by better playing. When they start to "steal' their games the rest of the country will know it by the way they are "panned" at home.

Miss Mary Foster, stenographer in the State Bank, was called to Britt last week by the funeral of her brother, who was brought back a cemetery in France. He was a member of the 168th regiment, Rainbow division.

FREE AIR!

"The Belmond boys, by the aid of a salaried pitcher and some of the graduates from the Kanawha team, have been winning a number of games but better take a fool's advice and let your wives hold your pocketbooks lest ye get a repetition of the awful disaster of last season. The baseball season is young yet and great may be the fall of the mighty."

So says "Dorg" in his column of remarks more or less brilliant, mostly less, last week in the Kanawha Reporter.

Said column being entitled "Snips and Snarls," and consisting principally of snarls at Belmond.

Now the patience of this column of Air is like unto that of Job, but there be limits to all things and the last straw has been piled on our long-suffering back.

We will now present for your kind consideration, ladies and gentlemen, what is known as the "deadly parallel."

Dorg	Result
The Belmond boys by the aid of  some of the graduates of the Kanawha team —".	Jack Wolf
Better take a fool's advice and let your wives hold your pocketbooks	The bacon and all the rind.
Great may be the fall of the mighty	Belmond 6 Kanawha 5

For the biggest bunch of beefers, hard losers, poor sports and cheap Johns, the Kanawha ball fans not only take the cake, they hog the whole bakery. And the Reporter appears to be the biggest egg in the basket. We may expect a long-winded spiel from said sheet this week telling at great length but with little breadth how Belmond stole the game, have stolen every game this year and a mess of bunk of a similar nature that will smell to the skies and just like Kanawha.

Because last year they had a horse shoe factory situated in the middle of a 40-acre field of four-leaf clovers infested with rabbits that had nothing but left hind feet Kanawha won a number of games. This year, when their horse shoe factory seems to have been wrecked, they are trying to substitute more beefing and rag chewing to obtain the same results.

Yelling is to be expected at any ball game, sarcastic remarks and advice freely handed out, but when the remarks become personal as Kanawha made them, they indicate a lack of breeding and common sense and decency.

When Kanawha comes to Belmond, they will receive the treatment that any visitor is entitled to, curtesy and accomodation. They will receive the thing that they would not accord Belmond: decent treatment. And if they do not, the Belmond papers, unlike the Reporter, will not uphold their team as the Reporter has been doing.

Even some of the Kanawha people Sunday criticised their own team for the way they acted and the fans of that place for their treatment of visitors. When your own relation refuse to stick up for you then you're pretty rotten.

The Kanawha people, not all but some, screeched at great length and with great noise that Belmond had stolen every game, but they could not back up their words. They proved their calibre when they kicked on the umpire until Belmond took him out to let the game go on, and after they had chosen an ump to suit them they kicked just the same. Because neither one would favor them. Kanawha came out to win that game any way possible, crooked or not, fair play or foul, and depended on numbers and noise to make up what they lacked in intelligence and ability. The only reason they did not steal it was because the Belmond crowd was too big and husky. And they have to get big odds over there before they start anything.

Go right along, Dorg, and chew your bones and snarl your snarls. You're some dorg, we all admit, but your bark is worse than your bite.

Wrff! wrff! Sic 'em, Dorg.

Have you got a license?

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

The Cool Minnesota Lakes For You

Ten thousand of them—clear, cold, sky blue, fringed by [illegible] and spruce. The picturesque shore lines are broken occasionally by clean, sandy beaches. Lake after lake is connected by winding channels or portages. Each succeeding scene seems more and more exquisite. An endless panorama of natural beauty. Minnesota is the place for you.

Every recreation: Fishing (mighty muskie, gamy bass and northern pike), sailing, motor boating, canoeing, swimming, golf, tennis, woodland hikes.

Free Camp Sites

Choice of luxurious hotels, cottages, log cabins or boarding houses. Accommodations good and prices reasonable. Descriptive and illustrated folder, "THE MINNESOTA LAKES" is yours for the asking.

Two fast steel trains to St. Paul and Minneapolis, daily

Make a complete change this year—GO TO MINNESOTA. Inquire about fares—they are reduced if you buy round trip tickets.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD

Apply Ticket Agent C. G. W. R. R.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

THE THOROUGHBRED

The following article is by Judge Stone of Wyoming, and contains such a good practical lot of "horse sense" and applies so aptly to the trend of the times, that we take pleasure in reprinting it.

If I am ready and willing to work 12 hours a day, and do work 12 hours a day, it is none of your business. If you are willing to work but six hours a day, and work but six hours a day, it is none of my business; but if I work 12 hours a day, and you work but six hours a day, it is none of your business if my wife and children wear better clothes, eat better food and live in a better house than your wife and children.

There is a class of people who have made a failure of life from every standpoint, who imagine that they have discovered a cure-all for all the ills with which the body politic is threatened or afflicted. Armed with a Utopian pipe-dream, a magnificient set of lungs, and a pair of iron jaws they preach a doctrine that would tear down those institutions which we have been building up in this country for five hundred years.

Whenever you so build the laws of a people that there is no incentive to excell, no reward held out for individual initiative, no prize offered for thrift, industry and economy, no object to be obtained by doing things better than others do them, then you have cut the tap root thru which flows the life-blood of progress, advancement, initiative, invention, individual effort and competition, and have settled back to a dead-level of sameness and stagnation that is incapable of making any material progress in social, physical, mental, or material matters; you have produced a common herd of scrubs.

The Thoroughbred is produced by careful thought, persistant effort, thoro traning; by a desire to excell, to be in the forefront, to rise above the dead-level of mediocrity. The Thoroughbred wants to do better tomorrow than he did today; to accomplish more next year than he did this year. The Thoroughbred is willing to take a high leap, even tho he knock off te top rai of the barrier and come a cropper. If he comes a cropper today he will go back and train and fit and practice and try again and again, until he clears the barrier and has daylight left.

The scrub walks up to the barrier, takes a look, and says that it is too high; that it is useless to try, and he has not the nerve to make an effort; he settles back into the pasture which is enclosed by the barrier and where the feed is short, tough and dry, and drags out a miserable existence on poor feed, poor shelter, and poor care. His eye grows lack-luster, his coat poor and scanty, his ribs push thru his hide. He curses his luck and bemoans his hard fate and the lack of those things which he says the world owes him.

The Thoroughbred has been willing to pay the price; he has denied himself; he has disciplined himself; he has worked while the scrub slept; he has sweated while the scrub lay in the shade; he has kept his muscles free and supple by grilling work and constant use; he has exercised his initiative, his invention, his pluck, his perseverance, his tenacity; he has fitted himself to succeed; he succeeds; he sails over the barrier like a bird, into a pasture where the feed is sweet and tender, the water pure and cool, the shade of the forest of success restful and invigorating.

The scrub looks thru the slits in the barrier at the Thoroughbred, up to his knees in luxury and grass, whose eye sparkles, whose coat shines with a silken sheen, whose ribs are covered with sufficient meat to hide his bones. His eye shines with a malevolent light. The scrub says to himself, "It is unfair, inequitable unjust; there is somethisg wrong with a world that per mits such conditions to exist."

And immediately the scrub sets about to devise ways and means, not to fit himself to clear the barrier, not to put himself in a condition where he can by his own effort acquire that which he desires, but to either hamstring the Thoroughbred, who, by his willingness to "pay with the body for the soul's desire," has reached his goal, or to destroy the pasture in which the Thoroughbred is enjoying the fruit of his endeavor.

The Thoroughbred recognizes that in order to be, he must do. The scrub refuses to do, and then curses the rest of the world because he cannot be. There is an abundance of feed and water and shelter in the Thoroughbred pasture for all.

Be a Thoroughbred; don't be a whiner. I'd rather really live while I live, and die at thirty, a Thoroughbred, than be a scrub Methuselah.

The Thoroughbred never quits while the heart beats and the lungs perform their function. The scrub quits when he gets tired, and, if given the quirt and steel, lies down with the saddle on.

The real race in life is not for the "quarter-hoss," the scrub; it calls for blood, for bottom, for nerve, for perfect condition, and, above all, for a cool, quiet, courage and an absolute self-confidence; a courage and a confidence that are not daunted because the other fellow gets away from the wire first, is ahead at the quarter, the half, the three-quarters. Almost every great race where the stakes were large has been won in the home stretch, under whip and spur, used with tact, judgement and courage, with the rided standing in his stirrups, reins wrapped round his hands, with every muscle like the strings of a tuned instrument; with his face in his horse's ears, rolling him with the energy of a dynamo at every jump; with the spurs drawing blood; the horse's eyes flashing, his sides heaving, his nostrils working like the exhaust from a pair of powerful bellows; with every muscle woking as smoothly as the mechanism of a high-priced watch, and the heartbeat a true and regular as the tick of a clock. That's the Thoroughbred.

NOTICE OF PROOF OF WILL

To Whom It May Concern:

In the Estate of Andrew O. Stockseth, Deceased:

You are hereby notified that on the 31st day of May, 1921, there was filed with and opened by the undersigned Clerk of the District Court of the State of Iowa, in and for Wright County, a Written instrument purporting to be the

Last Will and Testament

of Andrew O. Stockseth, late of said County, deceased.

And you are further notified that the 5th day of July, 1921, at 1:30 p. m. has been set as the day for the final hearing and proof of said Will at my office in the Court House at Clarion, Iowa, at which time any person interested can appear and show cause why the same should not be admitted to probate.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court at my office in Clarion in said County, this 6th day of June, A. D., 1921.

R. V. GOSLIN,
Clerk District Court

29-3t

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Our Children's Day program next Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Please note the hour and be present on time. As a part of the program the pastor will administer the sacrement of baptism to children whose parents desire it. Kindly notify the pastor before the hour of the service if someone in your household desires baptism.

The Epworth League devotional meeting at 7:00 p. m. and preaching service at 8:00 p. m.

A welcome awaits you at any and all of the services of the church.

CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The hot weather had a little bad effect upon our attendance Sunday, but the Sunday school is still above the mark.

Next Sunday our goal for Sunday school is 150 and then that picnic. You will be there and help reach this goal, won't you? At the 11:00 service we are to have present the members of King Solomon's Lodge No. 210 of Masons. Be sure to be present to give them a good welcome. Special music and a sermon in keeping with Saint John's Day.

The evening services at 8:00. How can you better close the day than by spending an hour in worship?

The Ladies Missionary society will meet in the parlors of the church on Thursday afternoon.

CLIPPINGS

Says the Britt News-Tribune in last weeks issue: "Now comes E. N. Bailey after first swearing and spitting, and deposes and says that since the courts established the fact that he was a jackass that all editors in Hancock county are in his class and that proof of their nature is not necessary. Therefore, Frank Clark, Ted Tierney, Ray Jorgenson Howard Africa and S. L. Thompson prick up your ears and bray accordingly."—Times.

"The Japanese Girl" operetta given by Belmond girls for the benefit of the local American Legion was a very pleasing entertainment and enjoyed by all. Some good musical numbers were given. The audience was not as large as perhaps it would have been had the weather been more favorable, and the time not so near for our chautauqua.—Kanawha Reporter.

Rev. J. B. Walker gave illustrated lectures at Belmond and Rowan the past week on the centenary movement being promulgated by the M. E. church.—Monitor.

Lud C. Johnson of Belmond, a reader of the News, was here last week end looking after county seat business matters. Mr. Johnson called at our office during his stay in the city to get acquainted with the editor.—Clarion News.

Present indications are very favorable for a small sized peach crop in Clarion this fall. Mrs. G. L. Cutler and T. H. Crowe have two or three trees that are well loaded with fruit. being about the size of a walnut at the present time. They promise to equal anything shipped in from Colorado or California.—Monitor.

Mrs. Henry Keiper and little son Raymond went to Belmond on Tuesday evening for a few days visit with relatives and friends.—Klemme Times.

Several base ball fans attended the Belmond-Algona game at Belmond Sunday.—Times.

Miss Kate Liddle, Red Cross county health nurse, leaves Saturday for a month's vacation. She will go to St Louis where she will spend a week at the home of her sister, and will then accompany her mother, who has been spending the winter there, to Lake Forest, Ill.—News.

Hans Barkema and family of Alexander and Dick Barkema and family of Belmond spent Sunday here at the parental H. Barkema home.—Meservy Register.

W. M. Voiles, the hustling nursery salesman of Belmond, is looking after business interests in the Clarion territory this week.—News.

Miss Marian Luick came up from Belmond, Friday, for a visit with her Klemme friends.—Times.

Mrs. Tom Greenland and little girls from Belmond came Monday for a visit with Mrs. Stearnes for a few days.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Steil autoed to Belmond, Sunday, and spent the day with Mrs. Wm. Galliger, who is very ill. Mrs. Galliger and Mrs. Steil are cousins.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Conn Nissen of Belmond were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Schipull, Sunday.—Times.

STRENGTH SERVICE

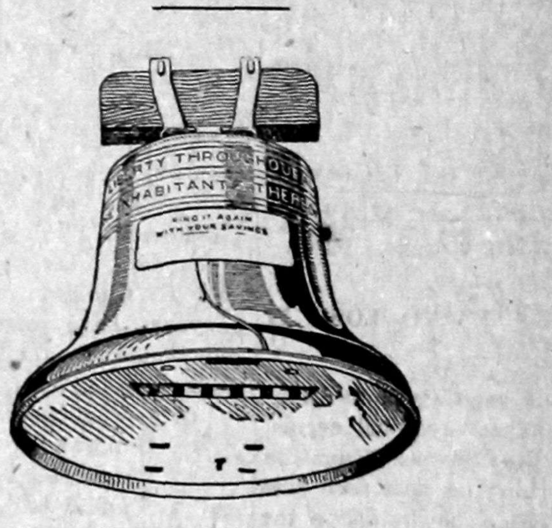
...Don't Waste Your Money...

Why gratify the passing desires of today at the expense of your piece of mind of tomorrow?

Stop being extravagant, start a systematic saving plan---save a part of your income, no matter how little---it soon grows big.

One dollar will open an account here and interest at 5 per cent is compounded semi-annually.

Start today and you'll be surprized how quickly it amounts up.



Open a Term Savings Account of $1.00 here and we give you one of these Liberty Bell Banks for your home savings. Ask for one.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

ATTEMPTS TO FORGE CHECK ON DOWS MERCHANT

Iowa Falls Sentinel: (Check artisits seem to be still at work in Iowa Falls. One recently at a local store one day recently and made a purchase amounting to something over three dollars, in payment of which he gave a check on a Dows bank for $65.00.

The proprietor of the store told the stranger that he could not cash the check witout the proper identification, and he was therefore given the name of a party to call up over the telephone as reference. While the proprietor was in the act of telephoning, the stranger left his purchase and check, stating he would "be back in a minute," but he is still gone.

READ THE WANT ADS

To the Housewives:

Who like to serve good meals and who like to eat good meals but do not have the time for baking, let me do your baking for you.

Every kind of Home Made Bake Stuffs made in my kitchen and sent direct to you warm from the oven. Phone in orders at any time and in any quantity.

Do These Taste Good to You?

Rich Devils, Food Cakes, Nut Cakes Angel Food Cakes, White Cakes, Ginger Creams, Cookies, Bread and Pies.

I also operate a Woman's Exchange, Selling Your Work for 20 per cent.

MISS MARY GEALOW

Second House East of Klemme's Lumber Office

Belmond, Iowa Phone 316

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

CREDIT ASSOCIATION NOW IN OPERATION

L. O. Skovlin, W. W. Goetz and B. J. Johnson of Belmond were in town last Thursday evening and met with the local members of the Business Men's Credit association.

A very profitable evening was spent in organizing the work here, and determining how best to handle the local branch of the association. The head office of the association is at Belmond and in charge of L. O. Skovlin, who takes care of the collections and general business of the association.

A complete rated list of every one in this vicinity is kept on file here for the use of local members, and another list is held in Mr. Skovlins office at Belmond.

A local committee consisting of Dan Whitten, Fred Hackley and Theo. Hansen was appointed for the purpose of reviewing credits, getting new members and to consult with the board of directors and the manager.

The association is incorporated under the laws of Iowa, and was organized for the purpose of furnishing ratings for its members, make adjustments between debtor and creditor, also to make collections of delinquent accounts.

The association primarily is for the merchant as a protector against the slow pay and the won't pay customer. There are those in this and every community who buy merchandise, but have no intention of paying for it. They trade with one merchant as long as they can, but when he asks them to settle, they move on to the next one. It is the business of the association to see that no one gets credit who is not deserving of it.

There are a number, possibly who find it hard to get along under the present conditions, but if such persons have always paid their bills promptly and are honest and industrious, they should have no cause for worry, as our merchants are reasonable and are doing everything in their power to help get back on a normal basis.

The "dead beat," however, might well have good cause for worry, with his credit cut off and with but a very small chance of laying by enough for the coming winter. It is not reasonable to expect the merchant to carry such a person when he is stranded, if that same person has abused his credit and has not been on the square, when he could pay his accounts.

The association, altho a merchants' organization, stands ready to assist the creditor in every way possible. Those who can only make a payment each week or month can send their money to the office and such payments will be prorated between the various accounts until they are paid up in full.

ROWAN M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Among those who took in the Algona District Epworth League convention at Britt were Mrs. Guy Stumph, Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCallum, Rev. Harold Tomkinson, Mrs. Gladys Ryder, Mrs. Wm. McCallum, Misses Bernice Hansen, Lilian Azeltine, Anna Reitz, Catherine Harsen, May Virden and Mrs. Edith Robinson.

The sacrement of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the morning service of the M. E. church. There will be a union service in the evening at the Congregational church.

The pastor of the M. E. church administered the sacrament of baptism last Sunday morning there being a number of children baptized. Mrs. A. O. Pelley sang a pleasing solo at this service.

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Carmon and Mrs. O. F. Braden were Fort Dodge shoppers Monday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Stumph were Belmond callers Saturday.

Harvey Lineweaver was a Belmond caller Tuesday, where he had some dental work done.

Frank Snyder was a Clarion caller Tuesday.

Miss Adelia Hill and brother Garald of Clarion transferred in Rowan on Tuesday enroute to Britt to attend the Algona District Epworth League convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz of Clarion visited Wednesday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gay Fletcher.

Mrs. A. O. Pelley visited at the Fred Smith home in Clarion, Tuesday. She was visiting Mrs. Snyder.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bingham and family were Dows callers Tuesday.

The Misses Marjorie Brooks and Blanche Box and George Aldrich and Edgar Mantle attended the carnival at Belmond, Tuesday night.

D. E. Harris was a Clarion caller Wednesday.

Geo. Ballou went to Clarion Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Whitten went to Des Moines, Wednesday, returning home Friday.

H. H. Barker was a Belmond caller Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Brooks and Frank Snyder visited their mother, Mrs. M. Snyde at Clarion, Thursday.

Lem Rowen, Harry Cain, Will Steffens and Ben Hadley went to Ventura Lake, Thursday, and spent a couple of days in good fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bailey, Jr., attended the carnival at Belmond, on Thursday night.

Wednesday night the Francis Williard class of the Congregational Sunday school held an ice cream social on the church lawn. A large crowd attended and all enjoyed themselves very much. They took in $22.

Jesse Steffens was a Belmond and Clarion caller Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fowler, Mrs. Joe Rowen and son Gilbert, and Mrs. Georgia Rowen were Belmond shoppers Thursday.

John Rowley is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Harold Steffens, and family.

Miss Nellie Hackley went to the hospital at Iowa City, Wednesday, returning Saturday. She is improving nicely.

J. F. Howell was an Eagle Grove business caller Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bingham and family and Mrs. J. . Howell and children spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval.

Eph McKinley returned to the home of his niece at Spirit Lake, Wednesday.

Mrs. Hiams spent the week end at the country home of her daughter, Mrs. Ben Fanselow and family.

Miss Loraine Aldinger of Hampton visited at the home of her uncle Jake Aldinger the past week. On Sunday the following guests were entertained: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sailer, and family of Ackley, J. H. Aldinger and daughter of Geneva, Mr. and Mrs. Will Aldinger and family of Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Will Aldinger, Jr., and sons Frank and Rex of Alexander, and Mr. Jones of Coulter.

Miss Wilda Whitten went to St. Paul Saturday to visit a week with her sister, Mrs. Jurden Brinkman.

Mrs. Cobble of Dows transferred in town Friday and called at the D. A. French home.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Temple of Burt called at the home of his mother, Mrs. D. A. French, Friday, enroute home from the Shriners meeting at Des Moines. They report a fine time.

Mrs. F. H. Fowler returned home on Friday from a visit at the homes of her daughters, Mrs. Johnson of Sioux Falls and Mrs. J. I. Drury of Highmore, S. D.

Word received by relatives from W H. Bingham and family who are in California states that they are going motoring to Old Mexico. They expect to camp along the way.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Brinkman and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Klemenson and baby of Coulter spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Hannah Whitten and the Will Whitten homes.

Mr. and Mrs Bert Heath and son of Des Moines motored to Rowan on Saturday to visit at the home of the former's parents, S. B. Heath. Bert expects to spend several mosths in the south. His wife will accompany him.

Ruby Pascoe of Eagle Grove is visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Herb Hadley.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Simons and family and Mr. and Mrs. Tice Streveler and family motored to Eagle Grove, Saturday.

Erma Donohue of Forest City came Saturday to visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Alfred Davis.

Mrs. Frank Reese and son of Albert Lea spent several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris. Mr. Reese came Saturday. He is a brother of Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. F. O. Fitts of Belmond spent a couple of days the past week with her friend, Mrs. D. E. Harris.

Mrs. Fannie Whitten of Eldora spent Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. A. Ferguson. She was accompanied by her sons Lyman and Herbert also her daughter, Esther and Mrs. Herbert Whiting. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Howell and children of Napoleon, O., Mr. and Mrs. Dan Harris and children, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ferguson.

Thursday afternoon the Cosgregational Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. Elsie Allen. The second section of the society served a 25 cent supper. This section is composed of Mesdames Elsie Allen, Ben Fanselow, Frank Fanselow, L. A. McCallum, Tom Ross, Jr. Dick Virden and A. Hiams. They were also assicted by Mrs. Irvin Knuths and Mrs. Jesse Payton. A large crowd was present and the proceeds for the day amounted to $20.00.

Marlidene, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ross, has been very ill the past week. She has had several convulsions. A nurse from Clarion Miss Kramer, is helping to care for her. She is reported better at this writing.

The Misses Esther, Ruth and Lela Brooks of Belmond called at the home of their cousin Fred Brooks and family Thursday.

Jim Rowen, Guy Toyne and J. F. Howell attended the Americas Legion at Dows, Monday night of last week. They report a fine meeting and a nice time.

M. L. Howell of Napoleon, O., came Sunday for a visit with relatives at Rowen, also at Winnebago, Minn, and Humboldt. He has about three weeks vacation. His wife and children came two weeks ago and have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ferguson.

The Rev. Tomkinson has been down to Des Moines this last week.

A number of the Rowan people attended the auto drawing and pavement dance at Belmond last Friday night. Among the number were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McCallum, Mr. and Mrs Roy Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitten, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Carmon, Mr. and Mrs. Will Whitten, Mr. and Mrs. George Pritchett.

Ball Games

The Legion ball team played the Galt team on the Legion diamond on Friday arfternoon, defeating them 19-7.

Sunday afternoon they played the Popejoy team, defeating them 6-3.

Community Club Meets

The Iowa township Farm Bureau Community club were entertained at their regular social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley, Friday night. About 175 people were present. A very delightful program was given which consisted of readings by different members of the club and a solo by J. E. Miller, a character quartette by Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley, Ed. Miller and Mrs. Blanche Jennings, entitled "The Husbands Mistake." County agent Edwards gave a talk. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The center section of the club did the entertaining this time. Every one had a lovely time.

Wedding Bells For Rowan Couple

Miss Lettie Williams was a passenger to Des Moines, Thursday, where she and Cecil Harris were united in marriage at 7:30. The young couple are well known around Rowan. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Williams and has lived here for a number of years. The groom is the son of D. E. Harris and has grown to manhood at this place. He is employed in the O'Dea garage at Des Moines. This is the same company for which he worked in Eagle Grove, so this speaks well for Cecil. They have gone to light housekeeping but expect to return to Rowan for a short visit in the near future. Their many friends wish them much happiness and success on their life's journey.

Tennis Matches

Monday night of last week Guy Sheldon, Donald Farran, Rev. Tomkinson and Will Reitz went to Clarion to play tennis. The score stood as follows.

Guy and Donald were beaten the first set 6-4 and the second set 6-1. Rev. Tomkinson and Will Reitz were beaten the first set 6-4 but won the second set 6-4.

On Friday night Clarion played a return game at Rowan. Quite a large crowd of citizens witnessed the game. The local boys came out on the right side of the game, winning two doubles and one single and losing two singles. Reitz and Tomkinson of Rowan defeated Ramsey and [illegible] of Clarion 6-2; they also defeated Webber and Sams 6-0. Ramsey of Clarion defeated Farran of Rowan 6-2 and Webber of Clarion beat Sheldon of Rowan 6-0.

Charley Ball, foreman on the Rock Isand section, went to Carion, Monday, to visit at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jack Bentley. He has two weeks vacation.

Fred Aldrich was shelling corn on Monday and delivering it to Rowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willis of Dows and Mrs. Henderson of Coggin called at the E. Bingham home Monday morning. Mrs. Henderson was enroute to Hampton where she will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dix for a few days before returning to her home.

Donald Farran was a Sunday visitor at Lansboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Tice Streveler and family were Dows shoppers Monday of last week.

Mrs. Chester Bailey was a Dows caller Saturday.

Dr. George was a professional caller in Rowan, Sunday.

The Rowan Hotel has changed hands again. Look for the change in the advertisement on this page.

Mrs. Lizzie Brooks has not been feeling well the past week.

Mrs. Alice Taylor and daughter of Chicago and Florence Sanders of Galt spent the latter part of the week at the O. E. Ballou home. E. J. Lynk of Chicago, a twin brother of Mrs. Ballou was visiting there also. They returned to Galt, Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. John DeNio of that place. Mrs. DeNio is a daughter of E. J. Lynk.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kuehl of Grundy Center came Saturdav to visit at the home of their cousin, Mrs. D. W. Whitten.

The W. C. T. U. met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. A. Williams with Mrs. J. S. Farren as leader. About 12 were present. Two new members were added to the list of names at this meeting. A very good lesson and a fine meeting is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver and baby, Misses Evelyn Heathershaw and Grace Meinders were Clarion callers Saturday night.

Rev. W. .H Nye went to Dows on Sunday afternoon to give the annual memorial address for the Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Nye and two of the children have been suffering from the mumps the past week.

The young people of the town have been enjoying some fine games of volley ball. It is a clean sport and a good addition to the games of the town.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

Morning service at 11:00.

Sunday school at 12:00.

Christian Endeavor at 7:00 p. m.

Usion services of the M. E. and Congregational church at 8:00 p. m.

Remember the program which will be given by the Francis Williard class Sunday night, the 26th. This was printed in last week's paper. It is sure to be good for these are wide awake young people.

The Junior Christian Endeavor of the church will meet every Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

Mid week prayer meeting every Wednesday evening at 8:00. Let more try to be at this service as it is the place to prepare for the Sunday services.

There will be the administration of the Communion and baptism at the Sunday morning service, July 3.

The service Sunday morning was well attended. The choir gave special music. Sunday night was Union service at the M. E. church when Rev. Tomkinson gave a lecture with the stereoptican views.

Mr. and Mrs. Mertel Myers spent Sunday at the F. M. Myers home.

A telephone message was received Monday of this week from Thornton, that Miss Blanche McCallum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie McCallum of that place, had been hurried to the hospital at Mason City for an operation for appendicitis. A short time ago their son Ernie was taken there for an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Smith of Garner motored down to Rowan, Monday. They called on friends in town and then went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Carr to visit for a few days before returning home.

Mrs. Hinkley's mother from Eagle Grove came Friday to visit her daughter and family for a while.

Dan Hartman of Rock Island, Ill., came Saturday to visit his sister, Mrs. John Combs and family.

The following guests from Corwith were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Liming, Sunday: Mr. Limings sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. Simpson and son Chester, and Mr. Simpson's mother, and Mr. Clarence Liming, a brother of Mr. Liming.

Mrs. Peter Hansen and son Alfred went to Iowa Falls, Sunday, to visit at the home of Mrs. Hansen's daughter, Mrs. Nelson and her two granddaughters Frances and Evelyn returned home with them to spend a week.

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, coedine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

READ THE ADS

The Man That Wears Them, Knows That

Good Work Clothes Pay

You'll find them here. You'll find them priced right. You'll get what you pay for---money back if you think you don't.

OSHKOSH B'GOSH OVERALLS. Made of heavy 220 white back, mill shrunk, no fade, Eastern denim. A new pair for one that fails regardless of time worn. They're better than ever. Sold here for - - - $2

GROSS OVERALLS. Union made, heavy 220 denim, full cut, two seam legs, double stitched - - - $1.50

GILDNER WORK SHIRTS. Our old standard extra full cut honest to gosh work shirt. They're - - - 95c

SPECIAL WORK SHIRTS. One lot ordinary shirts - - 67c

COTTON HOSE. Five different colors, 3 for 50c. Pair - - 17c

ROCKFORD SOX. A dandy, like the good old kind. 2 pair for - 25c

COTTON WRIST GLOVES	10c
COTTON GAUNTLET GLOVES	20c
COWDEN SERVICE SUITS, ready for wear	$3.65
JIFFY SUITS, no buttons	$4.65
BOYS' GENUINE KOVERALLS, Levi Straus make	95c
K E. BLOUSES. One special lot, 78c. 3 for	$2.25
BOYS' WASH PANTS	$1.15
LOT BOYS' OVERALLS	85c
ONE LOT MEN'S KHAKI PANTS	$1.50

Get To Know

GILDNER BROS.

Iowa's Largest Clothiers

Mason City, Iowa

Announcement

We have opened a hotel in Rowan and will serve meals, also short orders at all hours and furnish beds. Also have home baking for sale. Prices reasonable.

Rowan Hotel

MR. AND MRS. PETE ESON

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

OLAF NEWS

Geo. Baxter wife and baby, spent Sunday at the Andrew Lieuwen home near Alexander.

The E. N. Ericson family is enjoying a visit from Mr. Ericson's sister and family from Illinois. They drove thru by auto.

The Misses Doris and Evln Kessler came Sunday evening from Armstrong to visit their aunt, Mrs. S. O. Windecker.

The Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Geo. T. Johnson, Wednesday.

Last week the hot weather was very hard on horses, Mr. Halverson being unfortunate in losing one.

The Farmers Elevator Co. has taken in a good deal of grain the past week, as many of the farmers have been shelling corn.

Bennie Benson, who has been visiting in Illinois for some time, was greeting old friends at this place last week.

A much needed rain helped the corn and sugar beet crop last week.

KANAWHA NEWS NOTES

Mrs. Wm. Benzler, of Britt, was a caller here this week.

Miss Winifred Fritze, of Clarion, came the first of the week for a visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Celia Brouwer, of Ventura, was a visitor with friends here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cosgriff, of Belmond, was greeting frends here this week.

Cecil Griffith, who has been employed at Rockwell City for some time came Tuesday for a visit with friends.

Mrs. Morris Omvigen and baby daughter left for Minneapolis the latter part of the week for a visit at home folks.

Miss Nina Duryea, of Algona came the first of this week for a visit at the Henry Africa home.

Naomi and Wesley McCarty Jr., from Madelia, Minnesota left for their home Wednesday after a short visit with relatives and friends.

MESERVEY NEWS

Miss Viota Kofoed visited with her aunt, Mrs. Peterson, at Belmond last week.

Mr. Klaas Abkes was visiting with relatives here Sunday.

Mr. K. C. Ruigh and family, John R. Schmidt and family, and Mrs. Anna Bonte and daughter attended the Mission Feast at Alexander Wednesday evening.

Mr. A. J. Nissen and Carl Quandt motored to Clear Lake Saturday on a fishing trip.

Miss Kathryn Gruis went to Mason City Friday to have some dental work done.

Mr. Ben Gruis and family motored to Mason City Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Roecker visited the week end at Gilbert, Iowa with Mr. Raecker's brother, Rev. Henry Raecker.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Hulsebus visited last week at the Siefert Schulte home at Alexander.

Several members of the school board attended the consolidated school meeting at Mason City Tuesday.

Mr. Chris Enabnit and family from Manly were here on a visit Monday.

Meservey played ball with the Lakeside team Sunday, the score being 7 to 4 in favor of Lakeside.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Christopher McCallum of Rowan spent the past week with his son Bernard and family.

Miss Charity Hansen of Hampton visited at the Charley Hanson home the first of the week.

William Christensen of Iowa Falls was a caller in town last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilko Palls, Miss Nellie Bell and Arthur Winwood visited at the Dick Van Hirn home at Hansel last Sunday.

Miss Ethel Hall left for Yellow Stone Park, Wyoming, where she expects to spend the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Finkle and daughter Leona of Hampton were Sunday visitors with relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son Frederick visted with relatives at Belmond last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, Arthur Peters, Tenus Johnson, Henry Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peters and three children left Sunday for Minnesota and Canada for a two week outing and camping and fishing trip.

Ole Houg of Dows was a caller in town last Tuesday.

George S. Yaw of Iowa Falls was a caller here Thursday.

Alice Peters was a Hampton caller one day last week.

Elias Klinefelter, Bert Kielich and Leslie Reed were at Des Moines the first of last week.

C. R. Clark and son, Donald were business callers at Belmond last week Thursday.

Will Ammerman was a caller at tre county seat Tuesday.

Dr. George, of Dows, was a professional caller here last week.

Miss Wilma Foughty visited at the Benson home at Belmond several days last week.

Aldrich and Theodore Beenen autoed to Algona, Thursday, to visit their brother, Will, who is in the hospital at that place, recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Heneel and son Carol and Mrs. A. B. Arends visited with relatives at Hampton on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clate Symens, Lewis Susie and Ethel Schulte were visitors at Belmond, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens and Ralph, Lewis and Susie Schulte visited with relatives at Dumont last Sunday.

The Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Bobst next Wednesday afternoon, June 29.

Herman Modderman who has been sick for the past three weeks is reported better at this writing.

CROPS ARE HUMPING RIGHT ALONG

The crops are certainly coming right along in the vicinity of Belmond, but are badly in need of rain. Corn will be more than knee high by the Fourth, and small grain will be ready for harvest about a week earlier than usual.

LIBRARY NOTES

It gives us great pleasure to report that the advantages offered by our public library, now well started upon its fifth year, are being reconized more and more by its constantly increasing patronage. The unused cards in the files are by no means an indication of lagging interest or support, but rather a testimony of appreciation by many people who have been with us for longer or shorter periods, and have been accorded the privilege of borrowing books during their stay. It is the aim of the library to offer its readers only the best in every department. Books on all subjects are by authors of accepted authority, and a visit to the reference room is convincing proof of its resources.

The current periodicals, of which there are 23, offer a wide choice of the best of magazine literature, and a room has been fitted up with shelves to accomodate the files of those kept for reference. The "Index of Periodical Literature" is invaluable in connection with these. An article on any subject may be readily found by its use. Here, also, are steriopticon views of educational value, and books of picturesque America, besides others of interest. This room may be used for small committee meetings if desired, by applying to the librarian who will guard against interruptions.

The number of books upon the shelves has been increased from time to time by the donations of valuable books from the private libraries of many of our citizens who wish to extend their usefulness. Such books are gratefully accepted and a record kept of all. The list of these donors is too long to give here, but their contributions are prized for the spirt which prompted them.

After paying all expenses of the "Citizenship School" held during the fall of 1920, a balance of $52.40 was presented to the library for books and magazines by the Progress and Delphian clubs under whose auspices the school was conducted. The History of the Pilgrim Republic, and works of James Whitcomb Riley are among the several books purchased. Contributions of this nature assist very materially in the efforts to reach the even higher standard among libraries which we wish to attain. New books are being added as the publishers are able to supply them, a shipment being expected within a few days.

Do not let the hot weather dry up your thirst for knowledge. Take a refreshing draught from the fountain.

ROBINSON'S

Black Tea, per lb.	40c
Sugar - -	$7.65
Rolled Oats, bulk, 6 pounds for -	25c
Fancy Prunes, per lb.	10c
Extra Fancy Prunes	12½ c
Peas, corn, tomatoes per can - -	10c
Pears, No. 2½ can -	20c
Apricots, No. 2½ -	20c
Oranges, per doz. -	25c
Coffee -	15c

NEW CIGARET LAW

A cigarette law effective July 4th, 1921, has been enacted. By reviewing the same it is discover that it is a measure having two ends in view, the raising of revenue for the city and state, and the elimination of the use of cigarettes by minors.

W. J. Burbank, treasurer of state, says the department does not look upon this or any other law as a mere scrap of paper, and will expect every person, hamlet, city and county within the State of Iowa to do its bit in the observance of this measure and earnestly solicits the hearty co-operation of officers and people in the plain duty of enforcement.

The following synopsis of the new law by Ben J. Gibson, attorney general, is written at the request of the state treasurer, who is charged with the enforcement of the law, for the purpose of brining the important features of the law to the attention of all those who will be interested in such enforcement.

May I say by way of beginning that this law should be enforced in all its parts by every official in the state of Iowa. There should be no hesitancy in commencing prosecutions or in the bringing of injunction suits to enforce its provisions. This is so important in carrying out the intentions of the legislature as expressed in the bill and as expressed on the floor of both houses of the legislature that I feel it is incumbent on me to emphasize these provisions.

The law becomes effective July 4, 1921. Because of the importance of the law to all of the officials of Iowa who are charged with duties and responsibilities under the act, I am making the following brief statement of the important provisions of the law for their general information. The law itself should be consulted should any question arise in regard thereto.

Persons who may sell cigarettes. No one is authorized to sell cigarettes except he be a dealer holding a permit.

Permits. A permit may be issued to any person, firm or corporation for the sale of cigarettes upon compliance with the provisions of the law.

The issuance of permits in cities and towns is under the jurisdiction of the city or town council, as the case may be. The issuance of permits to dealers outside the incorporated limits of cities or towns is under the jurisdiction of the board of supervisors of the county. In Wright county the board would have jurisdiction over such towns as Cornelia and Holmes.

Bond required. No permit can be issued until the applicant therefor files a bond in the sum of not less than $1,000.00 conditioned upon the faithful observance of all the provisons of the law, including payment of taxes, fines, penalties, costs and damages. The bond must be signed by a surety company or by two sureties qualifying for double the amount of the bond. Where personal property is given the security cannot be surety on any other smilar bond. The filing of this bond is a preliminary requisite.

Fees for permits. The fees required for a permit in the first class cities, for each dealer is $100.00; in second class cities, $75.00; elsewhere, $50.00. The permit is for one place of busines and one dealer. These fees are per annum The fee is to be paid on or before July first each year. At any time a permit is issued the total annual fee is due for the remainder of the year which ends on July first following the issuance thereof. Fees for permits are to be paid to the treasurer of the county, city or town issuing the same.

Sales, to whom. Sales may be made to any person, except that no person shall furnish by gift, sale or otherwise, cigarettes, cigarette papers or tubes to a person under the age of twenty-one years.

Minors shall give information. Minors found in possession of cigarettes, cigarette papers, wrappers or tubes are required to furnish to any peace officer juvenile court officer, trauant officer or teacher information as to where the same was obtained. Refusal to give information constitutes a misdomeanor punishable by a fine of not to exceed $5.00 or imprisonment not to erceed five days, or both such fine and imprisonment. Minors under sixteen years of age, however, shall be certified to the juvenile court for such action as the court deems proper. If, however, the minor afterwards gives evidence in proceedings against the person who furnished the same to him, the court has power to suspend sentence against such minor.

Dried Beet Pulp

Is a Good Dairy Feed

$1.10 a cwt or $20.00 a Ton in 100 lb. Bags,

At the Sugur Factory

Belmond, Iowa

Cool Shoes!

We have them--any style or kind you like. What's more, the prices are right. Let us help keep you cool these hot days.

Woodruff Shoe Co.

115 N. Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa

Try Our One-Day Repair Shop

Candies You'll Like

There is such a vast difference in candy---such a variety in quality and price that it is hard to tell when you are getting good candy until after you have paid for it. That's why we are so careful to have every pound of our candy as good and fresh and delicious as candy can possibly be made.

At our Candy Counter you will find many new and toothsome dainties.

Brazil Roll
Pecan Rolls
French Fruit Candy
Sea Foam
Lady Fingers
Chocolate Fudge

Schuler's Candies in boxes
50c to $2.00

BELMOND CANDY KITCHEN

PREFTAKES BROS. & CO.
Steve Antonio, Mgr.

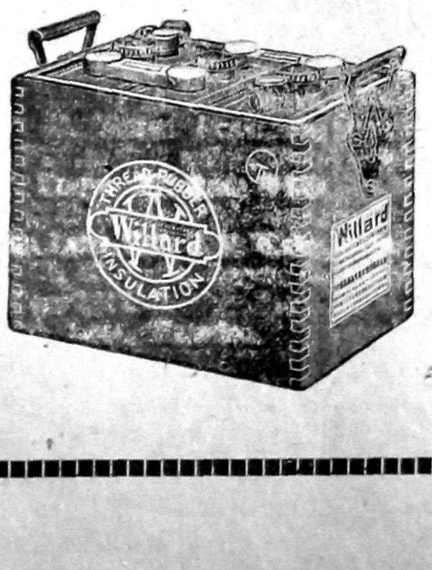
Don't Overheat Your Battery

Just because your storage battery is snugly tucked away out of sight, do not allow it to be "out of mind." One of the most harmful influences to guard against is overheating. Ask for our advice on how to prevent overheating.

Free Testing and Filling

Have your battery tested and filled---FREE. Do this every two weeks. Neglect to keep the battery filled with pure distilled water is one of the greatest of evils, as well as the most common, and will shorten its life quicker than anything else. Evaporation of water in the solution is continuous.

BATTERIES CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED



We have the "Still Better" Willard Thread Rnbber Battery in stock. Ask us about Thread Rubber Insulation.

Belmond Storage Battery Company

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Local News

Miss Greenfield, of the Dorenkamp & Greengeld millinery store, left last week for Minneapolis where she is doing some buying for the store. She also expects to visit at the home of friends in that city while she is there.

—I—

Miss Edith Haupt of Klemme, who has been spending a few days here isiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Haupt, and at the home of her friend, Miss Thorman, returned to her home on Friday afternoon. She was accompanied by Miss Thorman, who has a music class at Klemme.

—I—

Mrs. Dan Brooks left last week Saturday morning for Miniesota, where she will visit her son, Wm. Brooks. She was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Maitland.

—I—

W. O. Butterfield was a Goodell visitor last Thursday, where he done some work on a lot which he owns at that place.

—I—

Fred Fulton, Sr., and Ralph Wilcox went to Klemme the first of the week where they have a painting job to do this week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Luick, Jr., took their little daughter Guinevere to Mason City last week for a minor operation for removal of her tonsils. A specialist there was also consulted regarding the little girl's health, which has been poor since she had to scarlet fever. It is thought that as soon as she recovers from the present operation that she will have to have another operation for mastoid.

—I—

The hot, exceedingly hot, weather the past week was hard on the people, but good for the crops. The themometer was reported pretty close to the 100 mark last Friday, and certainly wasn't far from it Saturday.

—I—

W. C. Kane of Esterville was a business caller here one day last week.

—I—

Mrs. Anna Foster of the Foster Hotel was a visitor at Mason City this week at the home of an old friend, Mrs. Hemingway. Mrs. Foster has been on the sick list for the past few weeks, and her daughter will care for the Hotel during her vacation.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Saatoff were visitors here last week. They have been residing in Minnesota.

—I—

All stores except the restaurants and soft drink parlors closed during the American Legion affair Friday evening. The stores were closed at seven o'clock. Those establishments which remained open, including the pop corn stands, gave half of their evening's profits to the Legion.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Reed and baby of Alexander were visitors here last week at the home of Mrs. Reed's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flynn.

—I—

John Burress was in town a day or two last week, meeting old time friends. He has been attending Coe College the past year. He stated that he expected to make his headquarters this summer at Cedar Rapids.

—I—

August Foss is improving his shoe shop and the Foster Hotel by a new coat of paint, Jake Jacobs doing the work.

—I—

Dr. H. E. Meyer of Hampton, was in town last week Friday evening at the Legion dance. He was formerly located at this place, and will be remembered by many Belmond people.

—I—

D. Conlin and wife of Goodell were in town on Friday evening attending the dance of the Legion.

—I—

Geo. Baldridge of Kanawha was one of the out of town visitors here on Friday evening attending the dance of the Legion.

—I—

Mrs. Pillmer returned the first of the week from Des Moines, where she had been the past week visiting at the home of her relatives.

—I—

The business men were solicited on last Thursday to close their places on week days during the time that ball games were in progress. Quite a number agreed.

—I—

Belmond folks appear to be planning mostly on going to Clarion to observe the grand and glorious Fourth. The county seat town has arranged a very good program, with an unusually large assortment of fireworks. The Belmond ball team is to play at the celebration there with Kanawha.

Wm. Miller of the county seat was in town last week Thursday visiting his sister-in-law, Mrs. Foster, and attending the Hampton-Belmond ball game.

—I—

Miss Wessels of Ackley has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolle. She is a niece of Mrs. Wolle. Miss Wessels returned to her home last Friday.

—I—

Joe Courtney of Alexander was a visitor here Thursday attending to some business matters and visiting at the home of relatives. He returned home the next day.

—I—

Miss Sadie Frohling recently underwent an operation at a hospital in Mason City.

—I—

C. C. Quinn and family of Boone were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Klemme.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Fyler have returned from Shell Rock, where they have been the past week or so visiting at at the home of relatives.

—I—

The Chain of Ten met on Monday of this week at the home of Mrs. Thayne Bailey.

—I—

T. B. Wallace was in attendance at the state encampment of the G. A. R. held at Waterloo last week.

—I—

Mrs. Ole Scott was called to Huxley, Iowa, recently, by the serious illness of her aged mother.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Lorimer of Humboldt were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Eaton, the two ladies being sisters.

—I—

C. B. Johnson and family recently entertained Mr. Gus Nelson from Mason City.

—I—

Ole Scott was is attendance at the meeting of the Trinity church held at Jewel recently.

—I—

Mrs. J. H. Fetrow, who has been in somewhat poor health lately, went to Rochester recently to consult the medical authorities at that place. She was accompanied by Mrs. G. F. McBurney.

—I—

Miss Sidow, who has been trimming at the Dorenkamp & Greenfield millinery store, returned last week to her home in Missouri.

—I—

The Priscilla club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. Putnam.

—I—

Rev. Edge went to Corwith to attend the contest held there and from there to the Epworth League convention held at Britt.

—I—

Mrs. Sarah Zook enjoyed a visit last week from her brother.

—I—

Mrs. Harry Nihoof enjoyed a visit last week from her sisters, who reside at Clarion.

—I—

A few fans came over from Hampton last Thursday to see the game between Belmond and that town.

—I—

There were so many people from other towns present at the American Legion dance and raffle last Friday that the Independent reporter could not make a beginning at finding out who they were. There was certainly one awful mob in town.

—I—

C. I. Williams was one of the local fans who attended the ball game at Twin Lakes, Sunday, between Belmond and Kanawha.

—I—

Mrs. J. C. Reed of Goodell was in town on Saturday of last week visiting with friends.

—I—

Mrs. McElphree of Sargeants Bluff and her daughter, Frae Entrikin of Kingsley, were visitors with Belmond friends Saturday. They are visiting at the home of Mrs. McElphree's mother in Goodell.

—I—

D. Bishop and son Floyd were at Twin Lakes, Sunday, in attendance at the ball game.

—I—

The Henry Nelson family drove to Story City on Saturday afternoon where they are spending a few days visiting at the home of relatives and friends.

—I—

Mrs. Schramm, a sister of the late Mrs. Galliger, returned to her home in North Dakota on Monday of this week. She was here during the last illness and death of her sister.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Moore were among the local people at Twin Lakes Sunday afternoon.

—I—

A party of young men from Algona came down on a motor car on the M. & St.L. track, Sunday, to enjoy some fishing at Morse Lake. While they were hauling 'em out at the lake, someone made away with their motor car.

—I—

Mr. Josvanger from Wisconsin, a cousin of Mrs. Melvin Hanson, is spending a few days visiting at the Hanson home.

—I—

Mrs. Eric Ericson is entertaining a sister this week from Illinois, who made her a surprise visit last Friday, giving the family a very pleasant surprise.

—I—

Arthur Savogue, who is spending his vacation with relatives at Kanawha and Goodell, was a visitor here last week Saturday with old friends. He is making his home now in Chicago, where he is employed with the Lyon & Healey musical house.

—I—

Ora Braden of Rowen was among the out of town people present at the Legion dance last Friday evening.

—I—

Mrs. A. N. Anderson and daughter of Mason City are guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson.

—I—

Hal Nourse was among the base ball fans from here who attended the game at Twin Lakes, Sunday.

—I—

The Kanawha band and a bunch of booster were in town on Monday noon advertising "Creamery Day" to be held at that town on this week Thursday. The band played a couple of pieces.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. McCleod and daughter of Dows were in town on Friday of last week visiting friends and attending the Legion dance in the evening.

—I—

Andrew Bullis and helpers have been busy this week installing the sidewalks in front of the Pierce lots and the Haltzbaurer plumbing shop on Spruce street.

—I—

Harry Brooks was one of the rooters from Belmond who were at Twin Lakes, Sunday.

Editor King of the Wright County

—I—

News at Clarion, was in town on Sunday morning. The Independent editor acknowledges a call and regrets that he was not "at home." Come again, brother.

—I—

Lew Schram of Garner was called to Belmond last week by the illness and death of his sister, Mrs. Galliger.

—I—

The vicinity west of Goodell experienced a pleasant little shower on Sunday afternoon, which boosted the crops in that neighborhood along a few more notches.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stacy drove to Hampton Saturday night to spend the week end at the home of relatives there. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stacy, and on their return home Sunday they dorve to Iowa Falls to look the town over.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meacham were at Fort Dodge last week, where they attended the graduation exercises of their granddaughter, Miss Leona Stark.

—I—

Cort Morse and Claude Benson attended the Belmond-Kanawha game at Twin Lakes, Sunday.

Chris Enger was at Twin Lakes, Sunday, at the opening of that resort.

—I—

At the Epworth League convention held last week at Britt of the Algona District, two Belmond people were elected to serve as officers in the district cabinet for the coming yearr Rev. J. H. Edge was re-elected as the district president and Mrs. J. S. White was chosen as the district secretary.

—I—

Floyd Bailey and wife went to the county seat last week, and are now looking for a house to rent or for rooms during the summer. Floyd will be on the draingage job recently

—I—

We are making as good chick feed as there is on the market. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tf

—I—

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

—I—

Sheriff Lang of Clarion was in the city Tuesday afternoon attending to some business matters.

—I—

Rich Ziska was a week end visitor with friends at Eagle Grove. His place on the city route was taken Monday by Willard Morse.

—I—

Joe Hansen of Rowan was a caller in this city on Tuesday afternoon of this week. The Independent acknowledges a pleasant call. Mr. Hansen reports the crops in his neighborhood as good but much in need of rain.

—I—

Found—Auto license plate. Owner can have same by calling at this office and paying advertising.

SPECIAL LOCALS

Headquarters for Fishing Tackle and the American Kampkook Stove at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

We now have the high test kerosene and gasoline for sale.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

—I—

Try our high test kerosene in your oil stove.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Mrs. Wallace Ramsay and daughter Ruth returned on Saturday of last week from Des Moines where they have been spending the past couple of weeks at the home of relatives.

—I—

The carnival which showed here all last week has gone to Kanawha, where a celebration is being held today. They found trade pretty good here from all reports, and drew good crowds almost every night. They appeared to be a nice bunch of people.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brevig are the parents of a fine baby boy, born on June the 16th.

—I—

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Harris Pullin has been on the sick list the past week, but is reported as being somewhat better at this writing.

—I—

Mrs. Trumbell of Goodell spent the week end in Belmond at the Theodore Wright and Trumbell homes.

Mrs. Anna Martin and Mrs. Tom Brooks have been enjoying a visit from their sister, Miss Anderson.

—I—

A free pair of pants with every order for a new suit.—New Belmond Tailor Shop. South of hotel.

For the Spring Frys—just arrived a new lot of panacea and louse killer at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

A Children's Day program is to be given at the Methoist church on Sunday morning.

—I—

Rev. Sheveland of Kenyon, Minnesota has been a guest of relatives here the past week.

—I—

Mrs. Borrel and Miss Jennie Cook who have been visiting at the Chamberlin and Claussen homes have returned to their home at Neola, Iowa.

—I—

The hot weather lately has been hard on the gardens, which are reported as badly in need of rain.

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

Mrs. Aldrich brought the Independent a lovely bouquet of flowers yesterday. These tokens of friendship and good will go a long way toward making the life of ye ed a more happy one.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs Mrs. J. S. White are in receipt of an autographed photograph of Governor Kendall, sent them for their son, Robert Kendall, who was name after the Governor.

—I—

Our guarantee stands behind every sack of Peacock Flour. $2.45 a sack. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

—I—

The intense heat of last Saturday resulted in a inumber of horses in the vicinity of Belmond being killed by over work. Three are reported from the neighborhood of Meservey and two from around Belmond.

—I—

secured by his father.

Mrs. W. A. Schumacher of Long Island, New York, is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. R. Thayer.

—I—

Strayed—Spotted yearling steer.— Luke Wessels, Belmond.

—I—

Mowers, hay buckers, hay stackers, hay loaders—The great Dain line. Come and see them.—Christ Rise. Phone 85.

For Sale—Several bushels of old potatoes. 50 cents a bushel. Phone 316.

—I—

Lost—Crank for Stephen car, between my place and town. Finder please notify Glen Baker, Phone 3515.

—I—

Charley Webb who lives in Montana is visiting at the home of his rother, R. E. Webb, and family for a few days. He is enroute home from Kentucky, where he has been with some stock.

Ten per cent discount for cash on purchases of $1 and up, except special items.—Johnson & Wright.

—I—

Rufus Morse, who has been visiting relatives and friends here for the past two weeks, left Sunday for Marshalltown. He has been attending school at Iowa City.

—I—

There will be a meeting of the ladies of the Belmond township farm bureau at the home of Mrs. Ira Christie on Thursday, June 23. All ladies are invited regardless of whether they are members of the farm bureau or not. Bring needlework.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. George Barry have taken their little daughter Marie to the hospital at Rochester for further treatment of her injured thumb.

—I—

If you want all the news all the time, read the Independent.

—I—

Mrs. Frank Reese and son of Albert Lea, Minnesota, have been the guests of relatives here for the past week.

—I—

Claire Hill spent the week end at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Scott, at Olaf.

—I—

Mrs. F. O. Fitts was a visitor a few days the past week at the home of her friend, Mrs. D. E. Harris, at Rowan.

—I—

D. E. Harris and wife of Rowan spent the week end at the home of relatives here.

—I—

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

E. G. Miller and Joe Scott drove to Hampton yesterday afternoon to see the ball game between Hampton and Belmond.

—I—

Lost—Child's red, hand-knitted wool cap. Please return to Lee W. Stacy, in care of Independent.

—I—

Albert Beck of Thornton, a former resident and business man of this city, was a business caller here one day last week.

—I—

The Misses Sophia and Helen Johnson have been visiting their brother, at Oakdale, Iowa, where he is receiving treatment at the sanitarium.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—New Belmond Tailor Shop. Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

E. W. Hood left Saturday for Owen Sound, Ont., where he will spend a few weeks visiting at the home of his sister.

—I—

Ten per cent discount for cash on purchases of $1 and up, except special items.—Johnson & Wright.

—I—

Mrs. Wicks and son of Dell Rapids, South Dakota, are guests at the Rathburn home.

—I—

Mrs. Mary Bergman of Palestine, Illinois, is a guest this week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. R. Thayer, and family.

—I—

For best results and quick services let us develope and print your films.—Schultz Drug Co. 2tc

—I—

Harley Muhm of Belmond is the owner of a new Buick Six touring car, purchased from the Motor Inn.

—I—

W. O. Eaton was among the fans from here who attended the ball game at Twin Lakes, Sunday.

—I—

Mildred and Viota Koefoed of Meservey returned home Monday after spending a week with their aunt, Mrs. P. G. Pederson.

—I—

Miss Alpha Bayliss went to Meservety where she will spend the summer at the H. A. Koefoed home.

—I—

Mrs. H. E. Neal and little daughter Marjory of Indianola are spending a month with Mrs. Neal's mother, Mrs. P. G. Pederson.

—I—

Important Notice

For the accomodation of the policy holders of the Mutual Benefit Health & Accident Association of Omaha, Neb. I will be in the office each evening to accept your July dues. Lapsed policy is N. G. Sincerely, Wm. H. Wolle, Agt. & Receiver for company.

—I—

M. C. Barry and wife returned last evening from a combined business and pleasure trip to the Twin Cities.

—I—

We are now prepared to givve you immense discounts on tailor made suits. Discounts a high as $20 off original prices.—The New Belmond Tailor Shop, South of Case Hotel.

Next Week's Dance Program

AT

Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday June 28 and July 1

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices. If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

Lyric

THURSDAY, JUNE 23

"THE BIG PUNCH

A Fox Picture featuring

BUCK JONES

Also a 2-reel Sunshine Comedy, "Farm Yard Follies".

11c and 25c

FRIDAY, JUNE 24

"BEYOND PRICE

A Fox picture featuring

PEARL WHITE

A story of three wishes and all the complications and intricate situations in which the star finds herself before her wishes come true.

11c and 25c

SATURDAY, JUNE 25

"THE LITTLE CLOWN"

A Realart picture featuring

MARY MILES MINTER.

This is a genuine circus story a real circus being revealed before your eyes, and whether you are still young or not the thrill of circus day is in this picture.

Also a two-reel comedy.

11c and 25c

MONDAY and TUESDAY

JUNE 27 & 28

"PEACEFUL VALLEY'

A First National picture featuring

CHARLES RAY

Also a two-reel Buster Keaton comedy.

11c and 30c

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29

"BLACKMAIL"

A Metro picture featuring

VIOLA DANA

A sensational comedy-drama of love and crime in which crime is sidetracked and comedy has the right-of-way.

11c and 25c

Magazine Agency

BELMOND, IOWA

DON'T let your Magazine Subscription run out just when you are in the midst of an interesting article or a thrilling story.

I take orders for any magazine published, both new subscriptions and renewals.

Why wait or bother to write into the company yourself when I can take care of your subscription for you at any time?

R. A. RANKINS

Phone 115 or 196

The Belmond Independent Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

FINANCIAL RELIEF FOR IOWA FARMERS

Described by a prominent corporation attorney as "The only concern of its kind in the United States and the most advanced piece of financial machinery yet attempted for the relief of farmers," the recently organized Iowa Farm Credits corporation occupies a unique place in the financial affairs of the nation.

Briefly stated the company is capitalized at $5,000,000. It is organized to finance farmers and farming operations. It is not a bank, but will do a rediscount business, loaning money on land, livestock, and warehouse receipts for grain. It will begin operations with a paid up capital of $1,000,000. The stock will be equally divided between Iowa bankers and Iowa farmers, and the plan provides for about $10,000 worth of it in each of the ninety-nine counties, in order to distribute the holdisgs and make it a statewide enterprise.

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar of it will be common, which means that there will be absolutely no chance for any man or group of men to get control nor for any one locality to exercise a disproportionate influence. Articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state, and the company will be ready to function shortly after July 4th, when the new state law passed by the Thirty-nineth general assembly, making such concerns possible, will become operative.

The need for some special plan for financing Iowa farmers has long been apparant. Iowa has plenty of money with which to finance Iowa business. Millions of dollars have drifted out of the state seeking investment. At the same time Iowa farmers have been compelled to depend upon outside capital for long, often paying exobiant rates of interest and submitting to exacting com missions. The thing to do is to mobilize Iowa resources, direct the money into proper channels and use it at home. This is precisely what the Iowa Farm Credits corporation will do, conserve Iowa capital for Iowa business.

The trouble in the past has been the lack of enabling laws permitting the organization of financial enterprise of this character. During the recent session of legislature the Iowa Farm Bureau federation set out to clear the way of legal obstacles by getting a law to cover this lack. A farm credits bill was drawn by the the federation's attorney It was sanctioned by banking interests and business interests generally, introduced by friendly lawmakers and passed by both legislative bodies with out a dissenting vote. The law will become operative July 4th.

L. A. Andrews, retiring president of the Iowa State Bankers association, has been chosen to head the company. Mr. Andrews is widely known is Iowa and the middle west. Few men have worked harder than he has to tide the agricultural interests of the state over the financial "emergency of the last year." He has vision, as well as practical business sense, a broad, sane outlook, and believes religiously is the doctrice of live-and-let-live. Business interests generally will approve the judgement that placed him at the head of the new concern.

C. W. Hunt of Logan, J. H. McCord of Spencer, E. H. Cunningham of Cresco and John Cavenaugh of Des Moines were chosen vice presidents. Frank Warner of Des Moines was elected secretary and F. G. Rodfield of the same city was made the treasurer.

The board of directors, about equally divided between farmers and bankers, is composed of the following men: L. A. Andrews, Ottumwa; C. W. Hunt, Logan; J. H. McCord, Spencer; E. H. Cunningham, Cresco; John Cavenaugh, Frank Warner, F. G. Redfield, J. G. Mitchell and Homer Miller all of Des Moines; W. P. Dawson, Aurelia; M. V. Henderson, Hawkeye; C. H. Wollenberg, Holstein; T. C. Cessna, Grinell; L. S. Fisher, Edgewood; M. C. Sweeny, Osage; D. McLaughlin, Washington; T. Laskowski, Council Bluffs; P. E. Wingert, Tipton0; F. B. Yetter, Davenport; D. Mackie, Vinton; C. Huntley, Chariton; O. F. Freyer, Fairfield; Willis Krizer and C. E. Beeman, Oskaloosa; L. V. Carter, Lawn Hill; J. P. Kirby, Estherville; W. W. Latta, Logan; O. Anderson, Laomi; M. K. Frey, Eagle Grove; W. A. Lane, Waterloo.

UNUSUAL CLUB MEETING

A club meeting of unusual interest was held at the county agent's office Saturday afternoon, June 11th. when the members of the executive committee on girls' club work in the county and a number of girls' clubs members met to discuss plans for organizing the different communities in the club work.

Miss Lois Rath of the Extension Department at Ames was in charge of the meeting and gave a very interesting lecture and several demonstrations on garment club work. Miss Rath's demonstations on the operation and care of the sewing machine was very instructive and even the grownups witnessed the demonstration with great interest.

Thru the kindness of the Northern Iowa Gas & Electric Co., Miss Rath had the use of an electric sewing machine and the ladies who attended this demonstration are complimenting the local electric office on their splendid co-operation in making it possible to have the use of this machine.

GRANT SOCIAL

Farmers of Grant township spent a most enjoyable social time at the home of Mrs. Harry Woodley on the evening of Thursday, June 16th. About 200 people gathered on the lawn of the Woodley home and enjoyed the interesting program which was arranged by the social committee.

A shot program consisting of music and recitations was given by the school children of the various school districts of the township. The evening was warm but the program kept things moving.

E. A. Patton of Blaine township gave the address of the evening. Mr. Patton's address was very interesting especially because of the fact that he is an active farmer himself and knows farm conditions. Mr. Patton is a fluent speaker and a firm believer in the farm bureau. The Iowa Farm Bureau federation is now considering Mr. Patton for one of their organizers to do membership work thruout the state. Ice cream and cake were served by the ladies of the township.

IOWA TOWNSHIP MIXER

About 150 Iowa township farmers gathered at the home of H. L. Hadley on the Fred Brooks' farm Friday evening, June 17th, to enjoy the splendid program which was arranged and put on by the farmers of Iowa township. Mrs. J. E. Miller, the lady chairman for Iowa township, presided at the meeting.

A most interesting program of recitations by school boys and girls of the township, recitations, dialogues and musical selections were enjoyed by all.

A short talk was given by the county agent in which he gave a general review of the farm bureau activities and urged a closer co-operation by the individual members of the townships. The evening was hot and the mosquitoes were hungry and for that reason the crowd was not held long.

The county agent's talk was followed by the playing of various games which were arranged by Mrs. Hadley. Everyone entered into the playful spirit of this part of the program and seemed to have a pack of fun. This was followed by the serving of ice cream and cake after which the jolly crowd broke up.

LIVE SOCIAL IN WOOLSTOCK

The farmers of Woolstock township turned out in full force for their regular monthly farm bureau meeting which was held at the J. B. Carpenter home in the southeast section of the township.

Three hundred or more farmers, their wives and children gathered on the lawn of the Carpenter home to enjoy the evenings program which consisted of songs, readings and recitations by the children of the community and a short address by the chairman of the Lake township farm buerau.

The feature of the evening's entertainment was the splendid address given by E. W. Campbell, who is chairman of his own township farm bureau, and who is secretary of the Wright County Farm Bureau. Mr. Campbell spend considerable time in discussing the problems of the farm bureau in general and reminded his listeners of the great responsibilities which rests upon each of them as an integral part of the great farm bureau organization. As Mr. Campbell is also manager of the Clarion Livestock Shipping association, he spent considerabale time in discussing the operations of the local shipping association. Due to his close associaton with the inner workings of the farm bureau, Mr. Campbell had a great deal of valuable information at his tongue's end. Mr. Campbell is a practical farmer, a good live speaker and a man who boosts for the farm bureau first, last and always. By nature he is an optimist which fact seems to have had a good effect on his listeners.

The ladies of the township served ice cream and cake and the happy gathering broke up at about eleven o'clock. This community gathering is one of the many which are being held thruout the county this year.

PRAIRIE DELL PICNIC

Members of the Prairie Dell Agricultural society took time out and drove to the Renwick park for a day's picnic on Friday, June 17.

All the picnicers arrived in time for the pinic dinner which was spread before them on the picnic tables at the grounds. A real honest-to-goodness farmers' picnic dinner was spread before them and the appetite which was developed by the long trip to the picnic grounds seemed to make the picnicers appreciate their dinner more than ever.

The dinner was followed by a short athletic program, the main part of which was the base ball game between the old men and the young men, members of the club. The young men seemed to have an edge on the older boys when it came to twirling the ball and the final score showed 8 to 2 in favor of the young men.

STORM HITS KLEMME

Klemme Times: In Klemme the storm did not do as much damage as it did in the country surrounding the city. The shed of the Northern Lumber Company was blown over and completely destroyed. The Farmers elevator had a close call as the cyclone peeled off a large patch of shingles from the roof. Many large trees were torn out by the roots all over town. A number of chicken coops and other small buildings were blown over in Klemme.

The storm did considerable damage south and west of town. Nearly every farmer had some loss, many wind-mills were torn down and destroyed. Large barns on the Will Nuehring farm were destroyed, silo destroyed and more or less damage done about the farm. Barns on the Peterson and Anderson farms were also destroyed. Nearly every farm in that locality reports damage done to dwellings, barns, silos and wind mills. Silos in the path of the big storm are a mass of tangled wreckage.

Becker's New Barn A Complete Loss

The fine new brick and wood barn on the Wm. Becker place was entirely destroyed. The barn was just completed last year. The first story was of brick and the upper part of wood with a round self-supporting roof. The cyclone leveled it to the ground and only a mass of twisted timber and a heap of brick and cement show where the barn once stood. Other buildings on the farm were also damaged and large trees were torn up by the roots. Other farms north and east of Klemme in the path of the storm report damaged windmills, roofs blown off of barns and other buildings and silos tipped over. Ben Grieman reports that his barn was destroyed and a number of stock killed.

It was the worst storm witnessed here in years and the damage to buildings and crops will amount to many thousands of dollars. Many places the loss was only partly covered by insurance.

500 GIRLS IN SOUTH DAKOTA BREAD CLUBS

Five hundred South Dakota girls will probably be enrolled in bread clubs this year, according to P. J. Scarbro, state club leader of the state college extension service.

Last year the 274 girls enrolled in the bread clubs of the state made an excellent record. In addition to the baking for their own homes, they sold products to the value of $2,852.95.

"Our slogan, 'More Home baked bread from home milled flour," is becoming quite popular with the girls and womens clubs interested in practical home economies," says Mr. Scarbro.

"Last year the milling companies of South Dakota sent our state champion bread demonstration team to Chicago at the time of the International Livestock show for an educational trip. These girls were the champions of fifteen teams from 15 counties that demonstrated every day of the state fair."

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

by IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 18 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

Bim came into the house sobbing with emotion but with her head erect. She stood her gun in a corner and knelt by the helpless boy. He was crying also. Her hair fell upon his face as she looked at the spot of deep scarlet color made by the shot bag. She kissed it and held her cheek against his and whispered: "Don't cry. It's all over now. I'm going to cut these ropes."

It was as if she had known and loved him always. She was like a young mother with her first child. Tenderly she wiped his tears away with her blond, silken hair. She cut his bonds and he rose and stood before her. Her face changed like magic.

"Oh what a fool I've been!" she exclaimed.

"Why so?" he asked.

"I cried and I kissed you and we never have been introduced to each other."

She covered her eyes with her hair and with bent head went out of the door.

"I'll never forget that kiss as long as I live," said the boy as he followed her. "I'll never forget your help or your crying either."

"Go away from me—I won't speak to you," she said. "Go back to your work. I'll stay here and keep watch."

The boy returned to his task pointing up the inside walls but his mind and heart were out in the sunlight talking with Bim. Once he looked out of the door and saw her leaning against the neck of the pony, her face hidden in his mane. When the sun was low she came to the door and said:

"You had better stop now and go home."

She looked down at the ground and added:

"Please, please, don't tell on me."

"Of course not," he answered. "But I hope you won't be afraid of me any more."

She looked up at him with a little smile. "Do you think I'm afraid of you?" she asked as if it were too absurd to be thought of. She unhitched and mounted her pony but did not go.

"I do wish you could raise a mustache," she said, looking wistfully into his face. "I can't bear to see you look so terribly young; you get worse and worse every time I see you. I want you to be a regular man right quick."

He wondered what he ought to say and presently stammered: "I—I—intend to. I guess I'm more of a man than anybody would think to look at me."

"You're too young to ever fall in love, I reckon."

"No, I'm not," he answered with decision.

"Have you got a razor?" she asked.

"No."

"I reckon it would be a powerful help. You put soap on your lip and mow it off with a razor. My father says it makes the grass grow."

There was a moment of silence during which she brushed the mane of her pony. Then she asked timidly: "Do you like yellow hair?"

"Yes, if it looks like yours."

"If you don't mind I'll put a mustache on you just—just to look at every time I think of you."

"When I think of you I put violets in your hair," he said.

He took a step toward her as he spoke and as he did so she started her pony. A little way off she checked him and said:

"I'm sorry. There are no violets now."

She rode away slowly waving her hand and singing with the joy of a bird in the springtime.

That evening when Harry was helping Samson with the horses he said:

"I'm going to tell you a secret. I wish you wouldn't say anything about it."

Samson stood pulling the hair out of his card and looking very stern as he listened while Harry told of the assault upon him and how Bim had arrived and driven the rowdies away with her gun but he said not a word of her demonstration of tender sympathy. To him, that had clothed the whole adventure with a kind of sanctity so that he could not bear to have it talked about.

Samson's eyes glowed with anger. They searched the face of the boy. His voice was deep and solemn when he said:

"This is a serious matter. Why do you wish to keep it a secret?"

The boy blushed. For a moment he knew not what to say. Then he spoke: "It ain't me so much—it's her," he managed to say. "She wouldn't want it to be talked about and I don't either."

Samson began to understand. "She's quite a girl, I guess," he said thoughtfully. "She must have the nerve of a man—I declare she must."

"Yes-sir-ee! They'd 'a' got hurt if they hadn't gone away, that's sure," said Harry.

"We'll look out for them after this," Samson rejoined. "The first time I meet that man McNoll he'll have to settle with me and he'll pay cash on the nail."

Bim, having heard of Harry's part in Abe's fight and of the fact that he was to be working alone all day at the new house, had ridden out through the woods to the open prairie and hunted in sight of the new cabin that afternoon. Unwilling to confess her extreme interest in the boy she had said not a word of her brave act. It was not shame; it was partly a kind of rebellion against the tyranny of youthful ardor; it was partly the fear of ridicule.

So it happened that the adventure of Harry Needles made scarcely a ripple on the sensitive surface of the village life. It will be seen, however, that it had started strong undercurrents likely, in time, to make themselves felt.

The house and barn were finished, whereupon Samson and Harry drove to Springfield—a muddy, crude and growing village with thick woods on its north side—and bought furniture. Their wagon was loaded and they were ready to start for home. They were walking on the main street when Harry touched Samson's arm and whispered:

"There's McNoll and Callyhan."

The pair were walking a few steps ahead of Samson and Harry. In a second Samson's big hand was on McNoll's shoulder.

"This is Mr. McNoll, I believe," said Samson.

The other turned with a scared look.

"What do you want o' me?" he demanded.

Samson threw him to the ground with a jerk so strong and violent that it rent the sleeve from his shoulder. McNoll's companion, who had felt the weight of Samson's hand and had had enough of it, turned and ran.

"What do ye want o' me?" McNoll asked again as he struggled to free himself.

"What do I want o' you—you puny little coward," said Samson, as he lifted the bully to his feet and gave him a toss and swung him in the air and continued to address him. "I'm just goin' to muss you up proper. If you don't say you're sorry and mean it I'll put a tow string on your neck and give you to some one that wants a dog."

"I'm sorry," said McNoll. "Honest I am! I was drunk when I done it."

Samson released his prisoner. A number in the crowd which had gathered around them clapped their hands and shouted, "Hurrah for the stranger!"

A constable took Samson's hand and said: "You deserve a vote of thanks. That man and his friends have made me more trouble than all the rest of the drinking men put together."

"And I am making trouble for myself," said Samson. "I have made myself ashamed. I am no fighting man, I was never in such a muss on a public street before and with God's help it will never happen again."

"Where do you live?" the officer asked.

"In New Salem."

"I wish it was here. We need men like you."

Samson wrote in his diary:

"On the way home my heart was sore. I prayed in silence that God would forgive me for my bad example to the boy. I promised that I would not again misuse the strength He has given me. In my old home I would have been disgraced by it. The minister would have preached of the destruction that follows the violent man to put him down; the people would have looked askance at me. Deacon Somers would have called me aside to look into my soul, and Judge Grandy and his wife would not have invited me to their parties. Here it's different. A chap who can take the law in his hands and bring the evil man to his senses, even if he has to hit him over the head, is looked up to. It's a reckless country. You feel it as soon as you get here. In time, I fear, I shall be as headlong as the rest of them. Some way the news of my act has got here from Springfield. Sarah was kind of cut up. Jack Kelso has nicknamed me 'The man with the iron arms,' and Abe, who is a better man every way, laughs at my embarrassment and says I ought to feel honored. For one thing Jack Armstrong has become a good citizen. His wife has foxed a pair of breeches for Abe. They say McNoll has left the country. There has been no deviltry here since that day. I guess the gang is broken up—too much iron in its way."

Sarah enjoyed fixing up the cabin. Jack Kelso had given her some deer and buffalo skins to lay on the floors. The upper room, reached by a stick ladder, had its two beds, one of which Harry occupied. The children slept below in a trundle bed that was pushed under the larger one when it was made up in the morning.

"Some time I'm going to put in a windletrap and get rid o' that stick ladder," Samson had said.

Sarah had all the arts of the New England home maker. Under her hand the cabin, in color, atmosphere and general neatness, would have delighted a higher taste than was to be found on the prairies, save in the brain of Kelso, who really had some acquaintance with beauty. To be sure the bed was in one corner, spread with its upper cover knit of gray yarn harmonizing in color with the bark of the log walls. A handsome dark brown buffalo robe lay beside it. The rifle and powder horn were hung above the mantel. The fireplace had its crane of wrought iron.

Every one in the little village came to the house warming. The people were in their best clothes. The women wore dresses of new calico—save Mrs. Doctor Allen, who wore a black silk dress which had come with her from her late home in Lexington. Bim Kelso came in a dress of red muslin trimmed with white lace. Ann Rutledge also wore a red dress and came with Abe. The latter was rather grotesque in his new linsey trousers, of a better length than the former pair, but still too short.

"It isn't fair to blame the trousers or the tailor," he had said when he had tried them on. "My legs are so long that the imagination of the tailor is sure to fall short if the cloth don't. Next time I'll have 'em made to measure with a ten-foot pole instead of a yardstick. If they're too long I can roll 'em up and let out a link or two when they shrink. Ever since I was a boy I have been troubled with shrinking pants."

Abe wore a blue swallow-tail coat with brass buttons, the tails of which were so short as to be well above the danger of pressure when he sat down. His cowhide shoes had been well blackened; the blue yarn of his socks showed above them. "These darned socks of mine are rather proud and conceited," he used to say. "They like to show off."

He wore a shirt of white, unbleached cotton, a starched collar and black tie.

In speaking of his collar to Samson, he said that he felt like a wild horse in a box stall.

Mentor Graham, the schoolmaster, was there—a smooth-faced man with a large head, sandy hair and a small mustache, who spoke by note, as it were. Kelso called him the great articulator and said that he walked in the valley of the shadow of Lindley Murray. He seemed to keep a watchful eye on his words, as if they were a lot of schoolboys not to be trusted. They came out with a kind of self-conscious rectitude.

The children's games had begun and the little house rang with their songs and laughter, while their elders sat by the fire and along the walls talking. Ann Rutledge and Bim Kelso and Harry Needles and John McNeil played with them. In one of the dances all joined in singing the verses:

I won't have none o' yer weevily wheat,
I won't have none o' yer barley;
I won't have none o' yer weevily wheat,
To make a cake for Charley.

Charley is a fine young man,
Charley is a dandy,
Charley likes to kiss the girls,
Whenever it comes handy.

When a victim was caught in the flying scrimmage at the end of a passage in the game of Prisoners, he or she was brought before the blindfolded judge:

"Heavy, heavy hangs over your head," said the constable.

"Fine or superfine?" the judge inquired.

"Fine," said the constable, which meant that the victim was a boy. Then the sentence was pronounced and generally it was this:

"Go bow to the wittiest, kneel to the prettiest and kiss the one that you love best."

Harry was the first prisoner. He went straight to Bim Kelso and bowed and knelt, and when he had risen she turned and ran like a scared deer around the chairs and the crowd of onlookers, some assisting and some checking her flight, before the nimble youth. Hard pressed, she ran out of the open door, with a merry laugh, and just beyond the steps Harry caught and kissed her, and her cheeks had the color of roses when he led her back.

John McNeil kissed Ann Rutledge that evening and was most attentive to her, and the women were saying that the two had fallen in love with each other.

"See how she looks at him," one of them whispered.

"Well, it's just the way he looks at her," the other answered.

At the first pause in the merriment Kelso stood on a chair, and then silence fell upon the little company.

"My good neighbors," he began, "we are here to rejoice that new friends have come to us and that a new home is born in our midst. We bid them welcome. They are big-boned, big-hearted folks. No man has grown large who has not at one time or another had his feet in the soil and felt its magic power going up into his blood and bone and sinew. Here is a wonderful soil and the inspiration of wide horizons; here are broad and fertile fields. Where the corn grows high you can grow statesmen. It may be that out of one of these little cabins a man will come to carry the torch of Liberty and Justice so high that its light will shine into every dark place. So let no one despise the cabin—humble as it is. Samson and Sarah Traylor, I welcome and congratulate you. Whatever may come, you can find no better friends than these, and of this you may be sure, no child of the prairies will ever go about with a hand organ and a monkey. Our friend, Honest Abe, is one of the few rich men in this neighborhood. Among his assets are 'Kirkham's Grammar,' 'The Pilgrim's Progress,' the 'Lives of Washington and Henry Clay,' 'Hamlet's Soliloquy,' 'Othello's Speech to the Senate,' 'Marc Anthony's Address' and a part of 'Webster's Reply to Hayne.' A man came along the other day and sold him a barrel of rubbish for two bits. In it he found a volume of 'Blackstone's Commentaries.' Old Blackstone challenged him to a wrestle and Abe has grappled with him. I reckon he'll take his measure as easily as he took Jack Armstrong's. Lately he has got possession of a noble asset. It is 'The Cotter's Saturday Night,' by Robert Burns. I propose to ask him to let us share his enjoyment of this treasure."

Abe, who had been sitting with his legs doubled beneath him on a buffalo skin, between Joe and Betsey Traylor, rose and said:

"Mr. Kelso's remarks, especially the part which applied to me, remind me of the story of the prosperous grocer of Joliet. One Saturday night he and his boys were busy selling sausage. Suddenly in came a man with whom

"He and His Boys Were Busy Selling Sausages."

he had quarreled and laid two dead cats on the counter.

"'There,' said he, 'this makes seven today. I'll call Monday and get my money.'

"We were doing a good business here making fun. It seems a pity to ruin it and throw suspicion on the quality of the goods by throwing a cat on the counter."

This raised a storm of merriment, after which he recited the poem of Burns, with keen appreciation of its quality. Samson repeatedly writes of his gift for interpretation, especially of the comic, and now and then lays particular stress on his power of mimicry.

John Cameron sang "The Sword of Bunker Hill" and "Forty Years Ago, Tom." Samson played while the older people danced until midnight. Then, after noisy farewells, men, women and children started in the moonlit road toward the village. Ann Rutledge had Abe on one arm and John McNeil on the other.

CHAPTER VI.

Which Describes the Lonely Life in a Prairie Cabin and a Stirring Adventure on the Underground Railroad About the Time It Began Operations.

When Samson paid Mr. Gollaher, a "detector" came with the latter to look at the money before it was accepted. There were many counterfeits and bills good only at a certain discount of face value going about those days and the detector was in great request. Directly after moving in, Samson dug a well and lined it with a hollow log. He bought tools and another team and then he and Harry began their fall plowing. Day after day for weeks they paced with their turning furrows until a hundred acres, stretching half a mile to the west and well to the north of the house, were black with them. Fever and ague descended upon the little home in the early winter.

In a letter to her brother, dated January 4th, 1832, Sarah writes:

"We have been longing for news from home, but not a word has come from you. It don't seem as if we could stand it unless we hear from you or some of the folks once in a while. We are not dead just because we are a thousand miles away. We want to hear from you. Please write and let us know how father and mother are and all the news. We have all been sick with the fever and ague. It is a beautiful country and the soil is very rich, but there is some sickness. Samson and I were both sick at the same time. I never knew Samson to give up before. He couldn't go on, his head ached so. Little Joe helped me get the fire started and brought some water and waited on us. Harry Needles had gone away to Springfield for Mr. Offut with a drove of hogs. Two other boys are with him. He is going to buy a new suit. He is a very proud boy. Joe and Betsey got back with the doctor at nine. That night Abe Lincoln came and sat up with us and gave us our medicine and kept the fire going. It was comical to see him lying beside Joe in his trundle bed, with his long legs sticking over the end of it and his feet standing on the floor about a yard from the bed. He was spread all over the place. He talked about religion and his views would shock most of our friends in the East. He doesn't believe in the kind of Heaven that the ministers talk about or any eternal hell. He says that nobody knows anything about the hereafter, except that God is a kind and forgiving father and that all men are His children. He says that we can only serve God by serving each other. He seems to think that every man, good or bad, black or white, rich or poor, is his brother. He thinks that Henry Clay, next to Daniel Webster, is the greatest man in the country. He is studying hard. Expects to go out and make speeches for Clay next summer. He is quite severe in his talk against General Jackson. He and Samson agree in politics and religion. They are a good deal alike. He is very fond of Samson and Harry—calls them his partners. We love this big awkward giant. His feet are set in the straight way and we think that he is going to make his mark in the world.

"You said you would come out next spring to look about. Please don't disappoint us. I think it would almost break my heart. I am counting the days. Don't be afraid of fever and ague. Sapington's pills cure it in three or four days. I would take the steamboat at Pittsburg, the roads in Ohio and Indiana are so bad. You can get a steamer up the Illinois river at Alton and get off at Beardstown and drive across country. If we knew when you were coming Samson or Abe would meet you. Give our love to all the folks and friends.

"Yours affectionately,
"Sarah and Samson."

It had been a cold winter and not easy to keep comfortable in the little house. In the worst weather Samson had used to get up at night to keep the fire going. Late in January a wind from the southeast melted the snow and warmed the air of the midlands so that, for a week or so, it seemed as if spring were come. One night of this week Sambo awoke the family with his barking. A strong wind was rushing across the plains and roaring over the cabin and wailing in its chimney. Suddenly there was a rap on its door. When Samson opened it he saw in the moonlight a young colored man and woman standing near the doorstep.

"Is dis Mistah Traylor?" the young man asked.

"It is," said Samson. "What can I do for you?"

"Mas'r, de good Lord done fotched us here to ask you fo' help," said the negro. "We be nigh wone out with cold an' hungah, suh, 'deed we be."

Samson asked them in and put wood on the fire, and Sarah got up and made some hot tea and brought food from the cupboard and gave it to the strangers, who sat shivering in the firelight. They were a good-looking pair, the young woman being almost white. They were man and wife. The latter stopped eating and moaned and shook with emotion as her husband told their story. Their master had died the year before and they had been brought to St. Louis to be sold in the slave market. There they had escaped by night and gone to the house of an old friend of their former owner who lived north of the city on the river shore. He had taken pity on them and brought them across the Mississippi and started them on the north road with a letter to Elijah Lovejoy of Alton and a supply of food. Since then they had been hiding days in the swamps and thickets and had traveled by night. Mr. Lovejoy had sent them to Erastus Wright of Springfield, and Mr. Wright had given them the name of Samson Traylor and the location of his cabin. From there they were bound for the house of John Peasley, in Hopedale, Tazewell county.

Lovejoy had asked them to keep the letter with which they had begun their travels. The letter stated that their late master had often expressed his purpose of leaving them their freedom when he should pass away. He had left no will and since his death the two had fallen into the hands of his nephew, a despotic, violent young drunkard of the name of Biggs.

Samson was so moved by their story that he hitched up his horses and put some hay in the wagon box and made off with the fugitives up the road to the north in the night. When daylight came he covered them with hay. About eight o'clock he came to a frame house and barn, the latter being of unusual size for that time and country. Above the door of the barn was a board which bore the stenciled legend: "John Peasley, Orwell Farm."

Up the Road to the North in the Night.

As Samson drew near the house he observed a man working on the roof of a woodshed. Something familiar in his look held the eye of the New Salem man. In half a moment he recognized the face of Henry Brimstead. It was now a cheerful face. Brimstead came down from the ladder and they shook hands.

"Good land o' Goshen! How did you get here?" Samson asked. Brimstead answered:

"Through the help of a feller that looks like you an' the grit of a pair o' horses. Come down this road early in September on my way to the land o' plenty. Found Peasley here. Couldn't help it. Saw his name on the barn. Used to go to school with him in Orwell. He offered to sell me some land with a house on it an' trust me for his pay. I liked the looks o' the country and so I didn't go no further. I was goin' to write you a letter, but I hain't got around to it yet. Ain't forgot what you done for us, I can tell ye that."

"Well, this looks better than the sand plains—a lot better—and you look better than the flea farmer back in York state. How are the children?"

"Fat an' happy an' well dressed. Mrs. Peasley has been a mother to 'em an' her sister is goin' to be a wife to me." He came close to Samson and added in a confidential tone: "Say, if I was any happier I'd be scairt. I'm like I was when I got over the toothache—so scairt for fear it would come back I was kind o' miserable."

Mr. Peasley came out of the door. He was a big, full-bearded, jovial man.

"I've got a small load o' hay for you," said Samson.

"I was expecting it, though I supposed 'twould be walkin'—in the dark o' night," Peasley answered. "Drive in on the barn floor."

When Samson had driven into the barn its doors were closed and the negroes were called from their place of hiding. Samson writes:

"I never realized what a blessing it is to be free until I saw that scared man and woman crawling out from under the dusty hay and shaking themselves like a pair of dogs. The weather was not cold or I guess they would have been frozen. They knelt together on the barn floor and the woman prayed for God's protection through the day. Peasley brought food for them and stowed them away on the top of his haymow with a pair of buffalo skins. I suppose they got some sleep there. I went into the house to breakfast and while I ate Brimstead told me about his trip. His children were there. They looked clean and decent. He lived in a log cabin a little further up the road. Mrs. Peasley's sister waited on me. She is a fat and cheerful looking lady, very light complected. Her hair is red—like tomato ketchup. Looks to me a likely, stout-armed, good-hearted woman who can do a lot of hard work. She can see a joke and has an answer handy every time."

For details of the remainder of the historic visit of Samson Traylor to the home of John Peasley we are indebted to a letter from John to his brother Charles, dated February 21, 1832. In this he says:

"We had gone out to the barn and Brimstead and I were helping Mr. Traylor hitch up his horses. All of a sudden two men came riding up the road at a fast trot and turned in and come straight toward us and pulled up by the wagon. One of them was a slim, red-cheeked young feller about twenty-three years old. He wore top boots and spurs and a broad-brimmed black hat and gloves and a fur waistcoat and purty linen. He loked at the tires of the wagon and said: 'That's the one we've followed.'

(Continued next week)

COURT HOUSE NEWS

Two young men of Whitten, near Eldora, are in jail here, charged with having stolen some tires from the Wm. Braumann store in Eagle Grove May 23rd. Marshal Reynolds, of Eagle Grove, get a pretty straight tip that the young men were implicated in the robbery, so Monday he arrested Earl Snyder, who was yet in Eagle Grove, and after a short grilling Snyder confessed to the theft, implicating Vinton. Vinton, after his arrest flatly denied his guilt.

Upon being arraigned before Mayor Baker, they were bound over to the action of the grand jury and, being unable to give bond, were jailed in the county jail here.

George Moore, a farmer living in the Holmes vicinity, is accused of having stolen some harness from the Art Thiebay barn near Eagle Grove, and also from J. H. Oldaker, of the same vicinity. Sheriff Lang arrested Moore, who was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $2,000 bond, which he gave. He is now out on bond.

Booze Maker Held To Grand Jury

Perle Nelson, of Dows, alleged to be guilty of making home made booze has been bound over by Mafor Keister, of Dows, to the action of the grand jury, bond in the sum of $300 having been furnished by the young man's father. The still which is said to have been used by Nelson is now in the custody of the sheriff at Clarion.

New Cases In District Court

A petition has been filed in district court asking for the partition and sale of real estate held by the late Susan Busick, widow of Edward T. Busick, deceased. The land consists of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section five, and the east half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section six, all in 93-23. Henry Busick, plaistiff, and is brother, Olver Busick, deceased, held an undivided one-third interest in the land, and the defendants are the heirs of the late Susan Busick, a son and a number of children of deceased members of the family.

Henry Busick holds an undivided one-half of one-third of the estate through purchase and claims a one-tenth part of the estate through inheritance, and the other heirs are entitled to their interest through inheritance, or a 1-15th interest each, or less.

The court is asked to confirm the interests of the heirs as set out in the petition, and to order the sale of the real estate at referee's sale.

The Sweet, Orr & Co. corporation is suing George H. Wheeler to recover a total of $497.90, alleged to be due for merchandise sold the Woolstock merchant.

Frank H. Drury is appealing to district court from a decision by the board of supervisors against an award made in damages claimed by Mr. Drury by reason of a change in Primary Road No. 10. The appeal is from a damage allowance of the proposed change in the road near Rowan.

P. Trees, plaintiff, is suing S. Sarber to collect $626.55 due on a note, with interest and costs, and as personal service can be secured, asked for and received an order to secure service by publication in the Belmond Independent.

J. H. Reese, J. E. Richardson and D. W. Stewart, comprising the collateral inheritance commission were in session yeterday for the purpose of fixing the value of the estate of the late John Adams of Eagle Grove. They convene again on July 6th.

A marriage license was issued on Monday to Roy Mettler and Maye Rube, both of Mason City, also one to Perry D. Carson, of Peoria, Illinois, and Nell Noram of Fort Dodge. Both couples were married at Eagle Grove. On Tuesday a license was issued to Charles J. Birdsall and Esther E. Clark, of Clarion.

Too Much Liberty

Dan Leonard, who accompanied Ersland to the penitentiary at Fort Madison, reports another prisoner having made his getaway from that institution on the morning of his arrival. He was the tenth prisoner to escape since last December. It would seem as though the liberties of some of the "trusties"should be curtailed or additional guards placed over them. In commenting on the escape of these men, Lucius Simmons who visited in this city last week says that during the twenty-four years he was guard at this institution only two men got away.

Clarence Denger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Denger, of Dows has been selected as deputy sheriff of Wright county by Sheriff Lang. He is a single man and comes to the office well recommended as having many of the qualifications of a good officer.

Board of Supervisors convened on Monday and held a rehearing on drainage district No. 7, located southwest of Dows. A petition for clean-out and tile was up for consideration. After discussion of the same the prayer of the petitioners was granted.

Mrs. Wm. Knuth, who has been confined in the county jail as an accomplice in the theft of the Middleton auto truck at Eagle Grove, was released on Friday. Her parents came up from Cedar Rapids and deposited a $1000 cash bond. They kenw nothing of her marriage.

A committee from the county Red Cross nursing activities met with the board of supervisors Monday and laid before them the needs of the county association for next year. Miss Katie Liddle has accomplished a vast amount of good throughout the county. Her services are so far-reaching among the children that it would be almost impossible to estimate their value in dollars and cents. So great has become the demand upon her time that the committee hope the board will give her assistants for next year. The Red Cross chapter will provide automobiles and pay all incidentals in behalf of the assistants, whom they hope to secure for $1500 each. The committee was comprised of some of the best men and women in the county. Among them were: R. M. Smallpage, Mrs. A. L. Middleton, Mrs. Weeks, Eagle Grove; A. L. Luick and Wallace Ramsay, Belmond; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Young, Sr., O. P. Morton, L. N. Archerd, E. A. Allen, D. L. Nagle, Mrs. Alice Bunn Mrs. Hugo Rourbach, Clarion; R. W. Birdsall. Dows,

Picturing the Farmer

What does the farmer look like? Not like the typical stage "hick" who blows out the gas, by heck, when he first visits the city. Not like the movie hero who studies his agriculture in a Los Angeles studio. Not a bit like 'em, says Freeman Tilden in

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

What, then, does he look like? Cartoonists and artists want to know—they are drawing him every day and they want to draw him right—so that he will be instantly recognized, so that no one will be offended.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN will run, beginning with next week's issue, a series of cartoons drawn by a score or more of America's leading artists to show their ideas of how the pictured farmer should look. They want your criticism, because their cartoons are, in a way, pictures of you. Such features brighten every issue of this great national farm weekly. Of course its real purpose is to help you make your business pay; it does this by giving you competent week-by-week guidance on every farm problem. But you will enjoy the features and stories and cartoons just as you profit by the practical articles. For just $1.00 you get both for 52 weeks.

Prosperous Farmers Everywhere Read It

R. A. RANKINS

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115 or 196

An authorized subscription representative of
The Country Gentleman 52 issues—$1.00 The Ladies' Home Journal 12 issues—$2.00 The Saturday Evening Post 52 issues—$2.50

Does Adverting Pay?
Ask the Merchants Who Advertise

150 150 150

We must have one hundred and fifty next Sunday to assure us that picnic.

Come! Boost! Bring Some One!

Sands Memorial Cong. Church

150 150 150

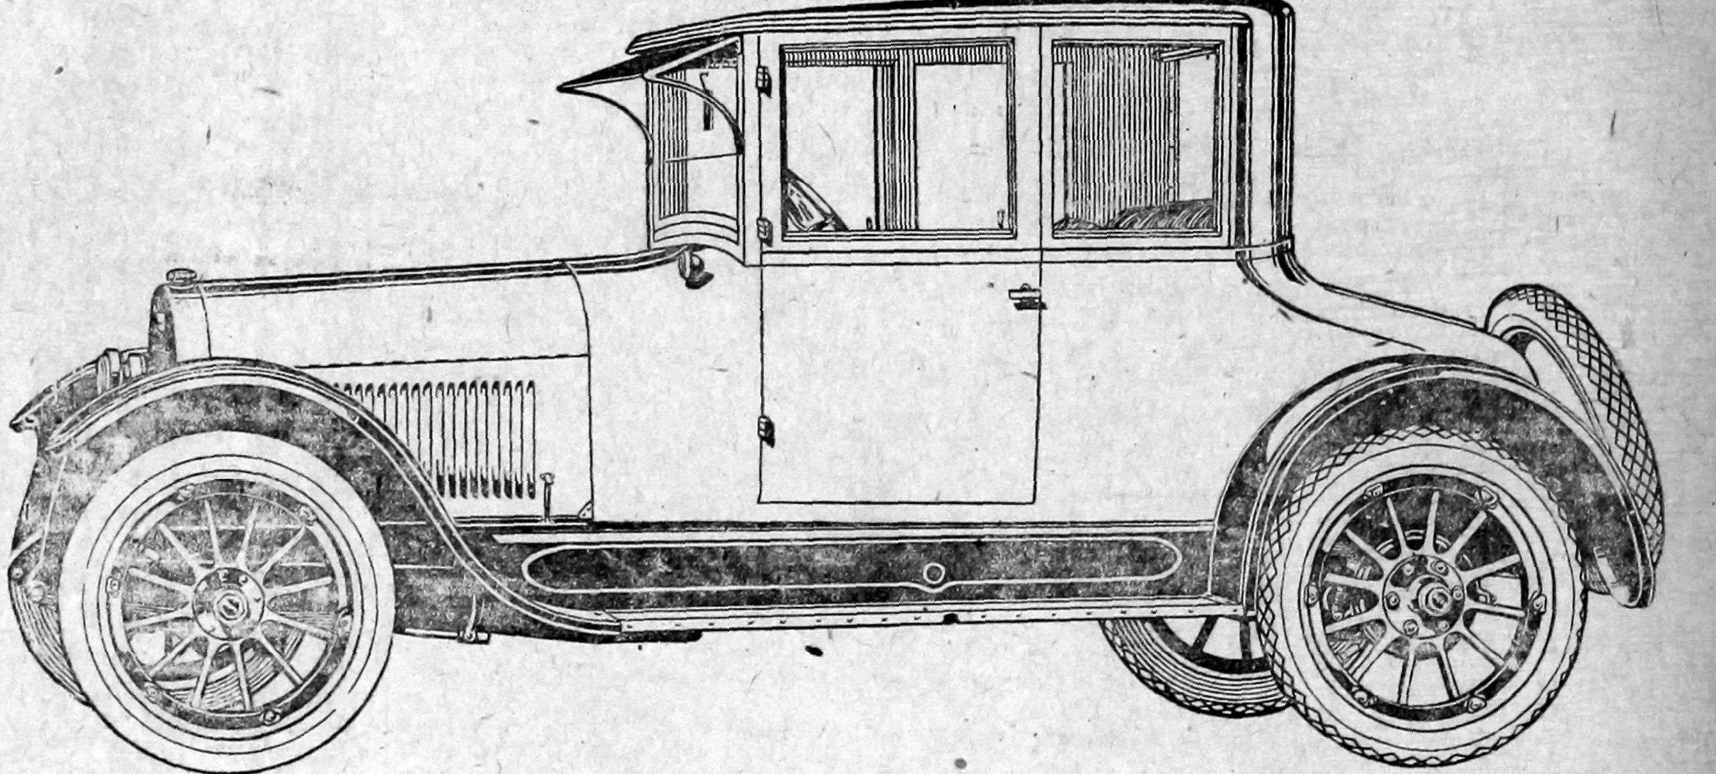
A Business Without Worry

Saving Money is a Business, and it is the only business in the world that does not bring worries, and there is nothing that brings on old age like worries.

A Savings account means less worry for each member of your family.
Start one in this bank and see if we are not right.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa



Two More Men Made Happy

Two more Belmond men have recently added their names to that large list of satisfied owners of Buick Cars.
Thomas Finn, Sr., of Belmond, recently purchased a Buick Six, Seven Passenger Touring Car.
Harley Muhm, of Belmond, purchased a Buick Six, Five Passenger last Tuesday.

MOTOR INN

Ray P. Morris Alfred Swensen

Phone 97

AUTHORIZED Buick SERVICE
Emblem of Satisfaction

Fourth of July Celebration!

CLARION, IA.

Big Doings

Grand Parade Sports Races Dancing
Hon. Michael Healy, Speaker
Wrestling Big Fireworks Display
A Real Ball Game--
Belmond vs. Kanawha

All for fun! Fun for All! Come!

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1921 — NO. 32

BURGLARS ROB A LOCAL STORE FRIDAY

A Slaughter Of The Innocents

Belmond "Steals" Another Game From Kanawha, Sunday, By Securing Six Runs First Inning.

FINAL RESULT READS 8 TO 3

Scoring six runs in the first inning, Belmond walked on the Kanawha team Sunday for the second game of the seasos betwees tnhe two and won by a score of 8 to 3.

The boys started out right off the bat and began to pound the mighty Yepson to the four corners of the lot, singles, two-baggers and a nice long triple being the order of the day. It was a walk-away for the Belmosd team from the start, and after the first inning there was never a doubt as to the final outcome of the game.

The Kanawha team was hopelessly outclassed in every branch of the game by Belmond. The home boys batted, fielded, ran bases and put more snap into their playing than Kanawha showed thruout the entire game. Ned Packard on first base was the star performer in the fielding line, making two of the best and "wooliest" catches that have been made this year.

Pillmer pitched a nice game, not as good as he has done and can do, but sufficient to keep the Kanawha team running in circles trying to locate their heads. They secured a total of seven hits, some of which were mere scratches, and Pillmer kept the seven so scattered out that they were of no use in producing runs. Kanawha seemed unable to connect for anything solid and they were out of luck most of the time when they did get the ball into the outfield.

There was a very large crowd at the game, the estimate running to about six to seven hundred. Everything was absolutely peaceful and orderly, not a decision of the umpire being protested and not a single kick being registered by either side thruout the game. The crowd, in a brief speech before the game by the mayor was told that it was to be a game between the two teams, not the two towns, and that anyone not in uniform was supposed to keep behind the wire. They did, and the game was quiet from start to finish. Extra police were on the grounds to see that there was not repatition of the unseemly conduct that prevailed the week before at the lakes when the two teams played.

The two teams meet for their next affair at the county seat when they play there on July 4th at Clarion's big celebration.

LIBRARY NOTES

Besides several new books recently added to the fiction list at the library the following were received last week and have been in constant circulation:

Buck—The Rooftree.
Masters—The Rooftree.
Connor—Glengarry Schooldays
Day—All-wool Morrison
McFee—Captain Macedoine's Daughter.
Lindsey—More Mother Stories
Sinclair—Poor Man's Rock.
Bailey—The Trumpeter Swan
White—Storm Country Polly.
Porter—Sister Sue.
Oemler—The Purple Heights.
Tarkington—Alice Adams.
Guest—When Day Is Done.
Canfield—The Brimming Cup.
Longstreth—Mac of Placid.
Seltzer—"Drag" Harlan.
Ashmun—Isabel Carleton's Friends
Isabel Carleton at Home

Other good books of new fiction are expected within a few days.

CHILDREN'S DAY AND RALLY DAY ARE BIG SUCCESS

Sunday was the combined Rally and Children's Day at the M. E. church, beginning at 10:30 and combining the church service and Sunday school in one. The program given by the younger members of the Sunday school was very fine and greatly enjoyed by all there, a good attendance being out. Special mention should be made at this time of the exercise given by four members of the Cradle Roll Department. Those taking part in it were Orville Keith Bailey, Joan Adene Fitts, Geneva Christina Clausen and Marjory Beluah Neilson, assisted by Beatrice Strieby.

The Baptismal Sacrament was givento 11 people at the service, eight of them being little babies. Those taking the sacrament were: Anna Mae Kurtz, Susan Rebecca Kurtz, and Bernice Viola Kurtz, daughters of James Kurtz; Orville Keith Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bailey, Hugh Douglas Klemme, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Klemme; Marjorie Beulah Neilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Neilson; Gladys Ione Nissen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Nissen; Clara Jane Townan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Townsan; Robert Kendall White, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. White; Joan Adene Fitts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Fitts; and Howard James Stapley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Stapley.

Just before the close of the service the Sunday school secretary gave a report as to the membership of all departments and the financial standing of the Sunday school. The home department under the superintendent Mrs. Osborn Young has a membership of 78. The Cradle Roll department under the superistendent Mrs. A. E. Chamberlin has a membership of 40. The enrollment of the regular Sunday School is about 200 as near as can be estimated, making the total of 318 with 18 officers and teachers. The collection taken in the morning was $26.00. This amount goes in to the Loan Fund of the M. E. church for the purpose of loaning same to young students going to colleges and universities for definite christian work. The Sunday school has at present $39.39 Missionary collection on hand for the last eight months and $16.16 in the treasury, all bills paid to date.

A very enjoyable Epworth League devotional meeting was held Sunday evening with Miss Bernetas Wolle as leader. Some very fine discussions were held and all those present participated in them.

Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Doris Bailey the old and new Cabinets of the Epworth League will meet to discuss the coming year's work and make plans for a bigger and better year. Members of the two cabinets are urged to be present at this meeting.

R. E. Porter.

EFFORTS BEING MADE FOR CHAUTAUQUA

A pretty young lady representing the Midland Chautauqua system was in town the first of the week endeavoring to secure signers among the business men of the city to guarantee a chautauqua here next summer. The young lady called at the Independent office, and had eight signers at that time and stated that she was meeting with very good success so far. the contract she offered called for a guarantee from the business men of eight hundred dollars, besides considerable other expense such as for ground, etc.

The cautauqua is to be a five-day affair if it is signed for, and some very good talent is on the programs as shown. The contract becomes valid when signed by twenty men.

GREAT WESTERN CHANGES TIME

A new time table goes into effect July 3rd. The time of trains has been adjusted with particular reference to summer tourist traffic, reduced rates for which and special convention arrangements are now in effect.

For additional information apply Ticket Agent Chicago Great Western Railroad.

Epworth League Enjoys Fine Picinic At Lake

Local Chapter Of League Goes To Morse Lake For Enjoyable Time And Meeting.

NEW OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

The Epworth Leaguers of the local chapter enjoyed a picnic supper at Morse Lake last Thursday afternoon and evening. The picnic was held a welcome home to the Methodist students. After the big supper new officers were elected for the coming year as follows:

President—Mrs. J. S. White.
1st. Vice Pres.—Bernetas Wolle.
2nd. Vice Pres.—Ethel Hedges
3rd Vice Pres.—Dorothy Purcell.
4th. Vice Pres.—Doris Bailey.
Secretary—Clara Johnson.
Treasurer—Ralph Mortimer.
Pianoist—Mildred Veeder.

After enjoying the fine bathing facilities which Morse Lake offers the Leagurers returned home, tired but happy, planning to hold another such picnic soon. Under the combined help of the new Cabinet the Epworth League is bound to boom and the President extends a hearty welcome and invitation to all young people who are not affiliated with some other young peoples society to join them in their hour of worship and the delightful socials that they enjoy.

16TH ANNUAL REBEKAH CONVENTION HERE TODAY

The 16th annual convention of the Rebekahs for this district is to be held in Belmond today, and an attractive program has been arranged for the members of that organization who attend. Delegates are expected to attend from ten different towns. The program for the day as planned is to be as follows:

Afternoon—Called to order at 1:30 o'clock.
Opening of lodge.
Address of welcome—Mrs. McBurney, Belmond.
Response—Mrs. N. L. Vanderlip, Dows.
Reading of minutes of last convention.
Readisg of communications.
Instrumental music—Goldfield.
Vice President—1: Reports; 2: Payment of convention tax; 3: Presentation of Vice President's bills.
Paper—Mrs. Fobes, Dows.
Choosing place of next convention.
Election of officers.
Bills.
Treasurer's report.
Unfinished business.
New business.
Reading—Woolstock.
Draping of charter—Goldfield.
Balloting on candidates—Woolstock.
Exemplifying how to introduce a visitor from this and another jurisdiction—Galt.
Reading—Renwick.
Opening and closing lodge—Humboldt.
Paper—Mr. W. E. Warnes, Eagle Grove.
Memorial work—Clarion.
Supper.
Evening session—Called to order at 8:00 o'clock.
Song—Convention.
Reading—Edith Milnes—Clarion.
Degree work—Eagle Grove.
Music—Renwick.
Question box.
Remarks—Emma Miller, Assembly President.

The officers are as follows:
President—Elizabeth Snyder, Belmond.
Vice President—Carrie Duer, Clarion.
Warden—Ida Ziegler, Goldfield.
Secretary—Hazel Hembd, Belmond.
Treasurer—Nellie Klein, Eagle Grove.

The various business establishments have been requested to decorate their windows with the color of the Rebekahs, which are pink and green. Any decorations containing these two colors will be approriate and it is hoped that all will do so.

THOUGHT THEY WERE FUNNY —MAYOR SAYS NOT

Two young men of Belmond are seriously considering today whether they were quite as funny as they thought. The mayor says they aren't and the boys are beginning to believe that maybe he is right. The way of it was thus:

A Mr. Wright, a traveling man, on Tuesday night were coming back to Belmond from Cornelia, where they had been to the dance, and when at a point between the Elder bridge and the M. & St. L. track saw a tire lying in the road. There were four other men in the car with Wright and one of them started to get out of the car to get the tire. The tire started off into the weeds. Wright and his companions, with visions of hold-up men—this "lost tire" stunt has been worked that way before—"stepped on her" and came to town after the marshal. They found the nightwatch, Rierson, and went back. The tire lay in the road again and as Rierson got out of the car the tire started to move off and at the same time the two young men began going elsewhere. Rierson had his gun out and commanded them to halt. They thought perhaps Holver meant it so they did. One young man was real sassy, while the other saw the error of his ways. Wright ordered them arrested and brought before the mayor, which was done, it being then 11:00 o'clock at night. The two men said it was all for a joke, but the mayor and Wright pointed out to them that it was a mighty poor one that the stunt had been used a number of times by highway robbers, and that the law has considerable to say about a joke on the public highway. After a severe lecture and warning they were turned loose.

But they'll never know how close they came to being shot.

COMMUNITY CLUB PICNIC DRAWS BIG CROWD

The annual picnic of the Community Welfare club held last week Friday evening in the city park drew a large number of members and their families, and a very enjoyable time is reported by those present.

The picnic supper was served at seven o'clock, and afterward a short program of readings was given, the readers being the Misses Alberta Pierce, Eloise Brooks, Elaine Rierson and Everrill Thompson. Attorney W. E. Bullard delivered a short address which was much enjoyed and appreciated. The Chamber of Commerce band rendered several selections.

The Dorr pop corn was on the grounds and donated half of the proceeds to the club.

ROUTE ONE ITEMS

The Misses Edna Guest and Virgie Jenison returned last week from their trip to points in southern Iowa. While there they attended the Shriners convention at Des Moines.

Miss Cloe Jenison was a Mason City caller between trains Saturday.

On Friday June 24 Wava Jenison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. El. Jenison and Floyd Thayer, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jenison, motored to Clarion where they were quietly married at the Congregational parsonage by the Rev. Viehe.

They left Clarion for a trip to Ft. Dodge and other points returning home Monday. Monday evening a reception was held at the O. D. Jenison home in honor of the newlyweds.

This affair was made doubly interesting because of the fact that it was the twenty-first anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Jenison.

The evening was spent in games and dancing, some twenty young people participating.

The most important feature of the reception was a mock double wedding in which the newlyweds and the bride and groom of twenty-one years ago promised to "honor, love and cherish."

Dainty refreshments were served and the guests departed congratulating the happy couples.

TAKE ABOUT THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS WORTH

Thieves Gain Entrance To Store By Side Window And Walk Out The Back Door When Leaving.

TAKE ONLY THE VERY BEST

Are Careful To Discard Anything Not Most Valuable—Make Get-away With Automobile.

Thieves broke into the Variety Store sometime during the night on Friday night of last week and made away with goods from the store to the amount of around three hundred dollars.

The robbers used a pry on the side window to make an entrance to the store, going out the back door when they had completed their haul. Once inside they made a clean-up on the things that they were after, and they were particular to take only the best, discarding anything that was not exactly up to their ideals. Silk waists, razors, silverware, and the like seemed to strike their eye the most, and they took all of each that was the best in the store, leaving the cheaper grades and discarding any that might have been injured or soiled in any way.

It is presumed that the thieves had an automobile to carry the plunder away, as the amount of stuff taken was more than could have been carried away by hand. A car was heard to start up on the street running south from the corner, at about two to three o'clock that night, and it is thought this may have been the car of the thieves.

So far as known, there is no clew to the guilty parties. Pfaltzgraff appears to be marked for robberies, as his store has suffere the same fate before and no clew ever discovered as to the thieves.

CITY COUNCIL TO PASS MILK ORDINANCE

The city council will pass at their next meeting, on Tuesday of next week, an ordinance regulating the sale of milk within the town of Belmond. At a meeting on Tuesday of this week the matter was discussed and the ordinance drawn up, and at the next meeting will be put into effect. Any one in the town, or who delivers milk to the town, will be required to comply with certain things, and the nature of these may be had any time at the mayor's office. Any retailer of milk who wishes to know what the nature of this ordinance is or who may have any suggestions to offer, should say it before the next meeting of the council.

At the next meeting of the council the change of names of the principal streets will be made, and an ordinance so changing them will be made.

FARM BUREAU MEETING

The ladies of the Farm Bureau of Belmond township enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ira Christie last Thursday. There were about 25 present. Many good ideas along poultry raising cooking and household duties were exchanged. Mrs. Christie served strawberry shortcake and coffee, giving the ladies her receipt for the delicious cake. Plans were formulated for a big township picnic to be held at the M. R. Pierce home July 14th. The ladies departed for their homes feeling the time had been pleasantly as well as profitably spent.

LEGION TO PLAY TOWN TEAM NEXT THURSDAY

A base ball game between the town team and the American Legion is being arranged to be played on next week Thursday afternoon, probably about six o'clock. As the Legion can lay claim to some of the best players on the town team, it ought to be a regular affair. Thomas it is understood will pitch for the Legion and the town team's heaver is not yet decided.

FREE AIR!

Well, suppose we stole another of our games Sunday.

The Reporter said last week that the game a week ago was a "daylight robbery."

This one must have been a daylight walk-away.

If Kanawha had secured more hits, for more bases, stolen more sacks, made less errors, they might have won the game.

Matt says: "Gentlemen, this is to be a game between the two teams, not the two towns."

And Matt said a large-sized quantity. He is to be congratulated upon the splendid and efficient way in which he managed the game and kept the crowd back and from chewing the rag. That's the way all of the games should be, and the way they have to a large extent that were played in Belmond.

Wonder if they brought their "Dorg" along?

We had our dorg out there; didn't you see him fielding?

Wonder, now, is Kanawha's Dorg as handsome as ours?

Rich Thompson, so they say, has sold his Ford for seven hundred good round plunks.

Talk about putting your money on interest, that is one way of investing a dollar in oil and striking a gusher.

Good boy, Rich. Only now don't go and blow it in as easy as it came.

We knew we wouldn't get it. We had number 715.

Add 'em up and see.

But we came awful near it; if they hadn't shaken the hat quite so hard our number might have come up on top.

Or if they hadn't picked 272 they might have picked ours. See?

Pretty close.

Did you meet up with that pretty girl who was after the chautauqua? She had eight roped and tied when she struck us.

We ain't sayin' nothin'.

But we'll just figure out about the middle of next summer how much a smile it cost.

Men are sure easy.

But there's solace in the thought that "there are others."

It's a good thing for the town, anyway.

We mean the chautauqua.

Tho pretty girls are too. That's one of Belmond's greatest attractions: It has more pretty girls than any other town of equal size in the state.

Of course, that's what they all say. But we can prove it here, that's the difference.

CAR TIPS OVER—LOCAL MAN ESCAPES INJURY

Geo. P. Hartwick had a narrow escape from serious injury and perhaps death when the automobile which he was driving ran off the grade south of the Will Barry farm on Saturday afternoon of last week. A storm was approaching and Mr. Hartwick was watching the approach of it as he was coming home. The car ran off the grade of the road into te ditch and turned over. Mr. Hartwick escaped injury, but the car was somewhat badly damaged, the top being torn and bent and the windshield smashed and the frame so broke and bent as to worthless. It was an exceedingly lucky accident as Mr. Hartwick might have suffered severe injuries had he become pinned beneath the car when it turned over.

WHERE YOU GOIN' THE 4TH?

Have you got your plans all made celebrating the grand and glorious Fourth? Lots of places to choose from this year: Clari on, Hampton, Clear Lake will observe the day in red-letter style. Most of the local folks appear to be planning on going to the county seat town to spend the day. Clarion is spending fifteen hundred dollars on their celebration this year and have a very good one planned. Hampton has a good program laid out also, with a big parade as one feature, while Clear Lake will observe the day with the usual run of attractions

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, .Iowa.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

For The Mighty Musky-Or-Gamy Bass

ACAST!
ASTRIKE!
HE'S ON!

The Reel Spins
The Line Sings
The Fight Is On

This is the place for you! 10,000 lakes. Fish for the mighty musky, gamy bass or northern pike. Swim in lakes with clean sand beaches. Motor-boat to some distant island and spend the day. Surf-ride on the waves to your heart's content. Canoe through the winding channels. Hike in the big forests where hay fever is unknown. Golf on the green links surrounded by lakes and big woods—in fact, do anything but work.

Write, phone, or call for information regarding our splendid service to St. Paul and Minneapolis. A copy of our illustrated folder, "The Minnesota Lakes," is yours for the asking.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD

Apply
Ticket Agent
C. G. W.
R. R.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

CLIPPINGS

A metropolitan newspaper points out that women have been experimenting since the days of Mother Eve, always seeking something more becoming, more practical and sanitary, and something that affords greater freedom of movement. The present short skirt is the result of these centuries of experimenting and pertetual evolution.

Everything new attracts attention and comment, until it is accepted as custom. Then it is regarded as right and becomes merely an incident of the day. Let the women and their short skirts alone. They are sane, sensible and sanitary. Men who are stickers for long skirts should don one themselves and parade to their heart's content. No one will object.—Hampton Recorder.

Miss Naomi Kenefick of Eagle Grove received the highest grade made in the state pharmacy examination at Iowa City, June 8, 9 and 10. Forty-two persons took the examination. Thirty-two passed and were given certificates as registered pharmacists.

Miss Kenefick graduated with the class of 1918 from Sacred Heart high school of this city. After a few weeks' vacation she will take a position as pharmacist in the Kenefick Pharmacy. This will relieve her father of a portion of the responsibility at the store.—Eagle.

The Empire Construction Company finished the paving job in Garner last Friday evening, making the biggest run on that day of any day since they began work in Garner. The record for that day was 1845 yards of concrete in nine and one-half hours. They made just about even 1700 in the regular nine hours which they ave been working, but the half-our overtime finished the job. They are already tearing down to move to Ames where they have a job that extends from the city out past the college grounds. —Garner Signal.

The News office has some pretty printed stock literature which is very unique in that it has a brand new scheme for stock selling as a foundation for its argument. Every man who buys a share of this stock gets a certified check attached to the stock which calls for a 12 per cent cash dividend December first. But there is only one certified check attached, and after December first w'll have to trust to luck to get the rest of the dividends.--News.

Miss Margery Purcell of Belmond visited her friend, Miss Jesse Nelson, in Clarion this week.—News.

Miss Hazel Thomas was a guest the first of the week at the Lawton home. Miss Thomas was principal of the Belmond school last year and has been rehired.—Kanawha Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bailey of Belmond were in Clarion, Monday, looking for a house. Mr. Bailey will be the foreman of the constrution gang which will build the outlets for Clarion's sewer job, and work was started Tuesday toward getting the job started. The company expects to rush the work as rapidly as possible, and every resource at its command will be placed back of the job. Mr. Bailey is a good band man, and will doubtless be recruited to the Clarion band activities during his stay in our city. —News.

A case of "stick fingers" will be brought to light within a short time wherein a trusted public employee is accused of appropriating property not belonging to him.—Monitor.

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Many folk commented upon the large attendance at the service of the church last Sunday. Why not make it that large every Sunday? If you were there last Sunday, what real reason have you for not being there next Sunday?

Sunday school 10:00 a. m.

Preaching services 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Epworth League devotional meeting 7:00 p. m.

The sermon theme Sunday morning will be "God and America's Destiny." There will be tumult and loud noise thruout the land on Monday, but what is the meaning of it all? Amidth e shoutings and noise of celebration let us not forget the soul of America. You are invited to worship with us at any and all of the services of the church.

CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

Three more would have given us our 150 last Sunday at Bible School. We are going to have the picnic nevertheless this week Wednesday out at Mr. Hinman's and we hope to see all there A good time is guaranteed and sorts of all kinds will be furnished. Those who have no way of getting out be at the church by 9:30.

Next Sabbath our services will be as follows: Sabbath school at 10:00 at which time we hope to see at least 150 present. The morning worship at 11:00 at which time the Lord's Supper will be adminstered, members received and baptism administered.

The evening services at 8:00 will be in charge of the young people. Mrs. Ralph Christie is the leader and will give us a report of her visit to the state conference at Sioux City. There will be special music and we hope that many will put forth an effort and be present. It will be worth while and why not put the evening service on your program?

The Damon-Igou Co.

Mason City, Iowa

DRY GOODS - MILLINERY

Women's - Misses' - Children's

Wearing Apparel

Rugs - Carpets - Draperies

Unique Gift Shop - Tea Garden

Beauty Parlors - Check Room

Our July Clearance Sale

This is recognized as the greatest value-giving event of the season begins next Friday, July 1st. and continues thru the month of July.

As a genuine clearance sale it has no competitors and it distinguishes itself more than ever this year in the values and standard merchandise offered.

It will mark a clean sweep of every dollar's worth of merchandise that belongs to the Summer Season. To you this should be most welcome news because there are many weeks of summer yet, in which you can use the merchandise that you purchase during this sale.

We want you to secure the best bargains and advise coming early, for this stock is reduced to a price that will sell each article on sight.

OUR FOURTH GREAT

SEMI-ANNUAL SUPER SALE

Starts Thursday Morning, July the 7th

It is destined to eclipse even our most brilliant Super Sale of the past.

SAVE THIS DATE, JULY 7th and spend it in Mason City. Bring your check book along, for when you see these

Quick Action Prices

You'll Want to Buy---You Should Buy---You Will Buy

This Super Sale Is the Result of Our Wanting to Raise $20,000 Quickly

Get One of Our Big Bills---Look It Over
You'll Find Everything Just As Described

THE STERLING DRY GOODS CO.

Mason City, Iowa

Let Our Past Super Sales Be an Indication of What You Will Find.

A WHIRLWIND SELLING OF BETTER DRY GOODS

UNBELIEVABLE PRICES ON LADIES READY TO WEAR

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

A. E. Drury of Des Moines visited at the home of his sister, Mrs. Herb Hadley on Monday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan McBurney of Popejoy visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tice Streveler the first of the week.

Messrs. O. E. Ballou, D. W. Whitten, Duncan Farran, Guy Sheldon, R. H. Keith and Gay Fletcher attended Masonic lodge at Dows Friday night.

Mrs. Harry Robinson and children of Waterloo came Tuesday to visit at the home of her cousin Mrs. Geo. Pritchett.

Miss Mable Azeltine, who graduated from the Nurses course at the M. E. hospital at Des Moines has been spending a short time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Azeltine. She expects to go back Thursday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher were Dows callers Friday night.

Mrs. L. A. McCallum spent Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Glen Jennings.

Clifford Farren of Sheldon came Saturday to visit at the home of his brother, J. S. Farren and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hinkley are the proud parents of a baby birl, born Wednesday, June 22. Mother and baby are reported doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Nelson gave a party to the young people of the neighborhood, Tuesday night, in compliment to their son and daughter. A large crowd attended and report a fine time. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Friday night Clarence Hills gave a barn dance in their new large barn which has just been completed on their farm south of town. About 50 couples enjoyed this occasion. They report good music also.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bingham and children spent Sunday at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Azeltine and family of Galt spent Sunday with relatives at Rowan. Miss Lillian remained to keep house for her uncle, Ray Azeltine.

Mrs. Darrell Stout has been ill this week. Dr. Steele of Belmond was called to prescribe for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Carmon and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams were Belmond callers Wednesday.

Mrs. Chester Bailey was a Dows caller between trains Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Brooks of Waverly motored to Rowan Friday, to visit at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks, returning Saturday.

Charles Emerson was a Belmond caller Tuesday.

Mrs. Vola Tibbets and Mrs. O. E. Ballou spent Saturday at the home of their brother, Ed. Ballou and family.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Munson and Mrs. Chester Bailey and daughter Bernice motored to Belmond on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Olson motored to Esendale, Minn., Saturday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Nelson who formerly lived at this place.

Fred Brooks was a Belmond caller Saturday.

Russell Bailey went to Belmond on Saturday morning to start work in the Elite Cafe.

Mrs. Fred Brooks visited her mother, Mrs. M. Snyder, at Clarion, Saturday.

Mrs. J. S. Farren and daughter, Frances and sons Bobby and Darl went to Fort Dodge, Saturday to do some shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kercheval spent Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval.

Mr. Statts of Hampton was in town Friday fixing sewing machines.

Mrs. G. R. Stumph visited Thursday at the home of her friend, Mrs. Roscoe Robinson of Dows.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L Howell and children of Napoleon, Ohio who have been visiting relatives at Rowan went to Winebago, Minn, Wednesday to visit at the home of his sister, Mrs George Watson. They will also visit at Humboldt before returning to Rowan.

Mrs. S. A. Ferguson has been sick the past week.

Mrs. O. H. Christian nee Leola Virden, and baby Cecelia May of Stratford, S. D., came Wednesday to visit at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Dick Virden and with other relatives. She went Saturday to visit at the home of her husband's parents at Rolland, Iowa.

Wm. Drury of Flannagan, Illinois came Tuesday to visit at the home of his niece, Mrs. Herb Hadley, and his nephew, Frank Drury.

Ray Azeltine returned home Saturday from Colorado where he has been visiting relatives for the past few weeks.

Fern Streveler has been visiting at the home of her aunt Mrs. Logan McBurney at Popejoy the past week.

Mrs. John Shurson of Kanawha, who has been visiting at the home of her daugter, Mrs. Elmer Burt, returned to her home Monday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheldon and L. W. McCallum were Eagle Grove shoppers last Tuesday.

Mrs. O. E. Ballou returned home from Galt, Tuesday where she had been visiting at the home of her niece, Mrs. John DeNio.

Miss Riley was at Clarion, Wednesday and Tursday taking the teachers examination. She reports them as hard work.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hansen and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Andrews of Coulter visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrfs. Tice Streveler and family and Mr. and Mrs. Logan McBurney of Popejoy motored to Mason City, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen and family motored to Fort Dodge on Monday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Box were Dows callers Wednesday.

Miss Erma Barker who has been teaching at La Monte, Iowa, the past year came Thursday to spend the summer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Barker. She has been visiting at the home of her sister, Ora, in Oelwein, since her school year closed.

Mrs. Roscoe Robinson of Dows was a Rowan caller Thursday. She was enroute to Clarion.

Charley Moon was a Fort Dodge caller Thursday.

Mrs. Viola Tibbets who has been spending the winter in California, came Wednesday to visit at the home of her brothers, O. E. and Ed. Ballou.

Ed. Ballou is making some improvements in his farm buildings. He is erecting a new hen house now and intends to build a barn in the near future.

Mrs. H. J. C. Box and daughter Blanch spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bohnett near Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Hoke have rented the Pete Eson house north of Main street and moved in this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Duffy were Clarion shoppers Friday.

Frank Snyder was a Clarion visitor Friday.

Mrs. J. F. Howell and children spent Friday at the home of her brother Will Bingham and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hadley.

Jack Steffens of South Dakota is visiting at the home of his uncle, Wm. Steffens and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval and son Charles spent Sunday at the Frank Kercheval home

Edgar Mantle and Marjorie Brooks were Mason City callers Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jennings of Clarion were Sunday visitors with relatives at Rowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz of Clarion spent Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gay Fletcher and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Aldinger and family motored to Hampton on Sunday and spent the day with relatives.

Mrs. Mullins and two daughters of Amboy, Minn., and Mr. and Mrs. Budick of Blairsburg spent Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McCallum.

Mrs. George Gunderson's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. M. Gunderson and her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Van Hook of Duncomb visited at her home Sunday.

Guy Pierce and sister Miss Emma Pierce and Mrs. Mill Holland were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Whitten.

Charley Ball was a Clarion passenger Monday.

Mrs. Cady Templeton, Miss Nellie Pierce and little Jean Hake of Clarion were over Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Jennie Rowen. They returned Monday.

Miss Minnie Aldinger returned home Monday after a week's visit with relatves at Ackley and Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey and daughter spent Sunday at the home of the former's brother, Fuller Bailey and wife of Belmond.

Fred Brooks made a business trip to Clarion, Monday. He was accompanied by his daughters Thelma and Marjorie.

Week of Picnics

This has been a week of picnics for the Rowan and vicinity people. Tuesday afternoon the Young Ladies Mis-

Continued on page 4

Belmond Local News

Frank McNulty of Goodell was in town on Sunday of this week, attending the ball game here between Kanawha and Belmond.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fulton are the happy parents of a baby girl, born on Sunday morning of this week.

—I—

Keneth Ballou of Rowan was a visitor here on Saturday of last week with old friends.

—I—

Henry Carpenter of Goodell was a visitor here one day last week with friends.

—I—

David Luick was among the local people who enjoyed the facilities of Clear Lake on Sunday.

—I—

Fred Desing was a visitor at Clear Lake on this week Sunday.

—I—

The Garner band was in town on Tuesday morning advertising the big wrestle and American Legion doings there on Friday afternoon and evening of this week. They favored the citizens here with a couple of selections.

—I—

The Thayer family held a very enjoyable family reunion on Sunday at the farm home of Ralph Thayer. A delicious dinner was served on the lawn, some thirty-five being present at the dinner, with some relatives present from distant points. A very enjoyable time is reported.

—I—

Thos. Kalvig from Kanawha was a recent visitor at the home of his parents here.

—I—

F. P. Dibble was among the local people who were at the creamery day celebration at Kanawha on Thursday of last week.

—I—

Mrs. Dillon was at Kanawha on Thursday of last week assisting Geo. Baldridge in the restaurant during the celebration there.

—I—

Mrs. M. L. Champlin from Dows was the guest of relatives here for a few days the past week.

—I—

Mrs. Tom Greenwood and little daughter were visitors with relatives and friends at Klemme last week.

M. J. Thoe went to Lake Mills on Saturday of last week to spend the week end at the home of relatives at that place. He returned on Tuesday of this week.

—I—

Fred Brooks of Rowan was one of the out of town people who were at the ball game here Sunday afternoon.

—I—

Mrs. F. E. Snyder was called to Traer, Iowa, on Saturday of last week to attend the funeral of an aged aunt, Mrs. H. C. Pierce, who was 84 years of age at her death. Her husband, who survives is 86 years of age.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Moore have been visiting the past week at the home of their son Howard and family.

—I—

Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell was a recent visitor with relatives and friends at Ottumwa.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were visitors at Clear Lake one day last week.

—I—

Mrs. Stanley has been enjoying a visit the past few days from her son, who lives in Missouri. He is a Shriner and came up from the Des Moines meeting to spend a few days with her and at the home of his sister, Mrs. H. N. Hill.

ROBINSON'S

Black Tea, per lb.	40c
Sugar - -	$7.65
Rolled Oats, bulk, 5 pounds for -	25c
Fancy Prunes, per lb.	10c
Extra Fancy Prunes	12½ c
Peas, corn, tomatoes per can - -	10c
Pears, No. 2½ can -	20c
Apricots, No. 2½ -	20c
Oranges, per doz. -	25c
Coffee -	15c

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

Feet Hurt?

DR SCHOOL'S foot expert will be at our store

July 9th, 11th and 12th

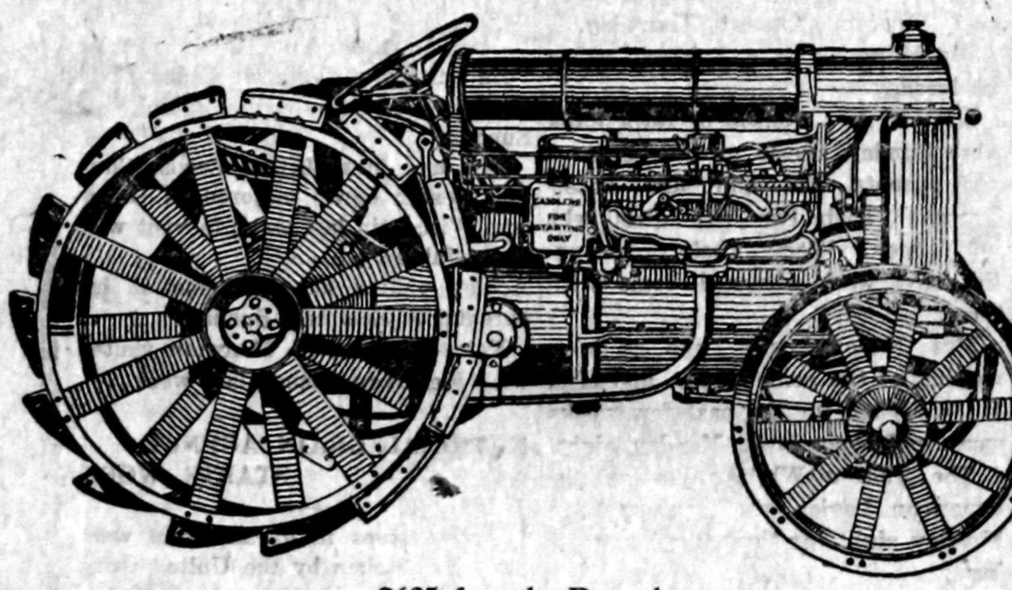
Bring your foot troubles to him. He will fix them.

Examination and Advice FREE

Woodruff Shoe Co.

115 N. Federal Mason City, Iowa

Fordson



$625 f. o. b. Detroit

Power Farming with the Fordson

The Fordson Tractor is taking care of every power job; it is taking the drudgery out of farm work and solving the labor problem. Power farming with the Fordson reduces the cost of preparing land to almost one-half what it would be with holses, and saves a third to a half of the farmer's time. What machinery does for the factory, the Fordson Taactor is accomplishing on the farm—it is increasing production at lower costs and making farm life attractive.

Apply this power farming idea in your threshing. More and more farmers are making themselves independent of unfavorable conditions by using the Fordson Tractor linked up with a light thresher. By seizing the right moment and being able to do the job without waiting and in quick time, crop losses are avoided and profits are increased.

The Fordson operates with kerosene. When used on belt work, running at full power at 1,000 R. P. M., the fuel consumption does not exceed 2 3-4 gallons per hour. It will run the electric light plant, operate the milking machines and straw baler---will take care of every kind of belt work.

The Fordson plows 6 to 8 acres in a 10-hour day, handling two plows with ease in the average soil. It requires an average of only 1 1-2 to 2 gallons of kerosene to the acre.

It is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways such as road work, hauling grain to the elevator, pumping water and moving granaries,

Belmond Auto Company

AUTHORIZED FORD DEALERS

Louis Tokman Phone 108 G. F. Heginger

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Continued from page three

sion Study club of the Cong. church had a picnic at the Rowen picnic grounds south of town. Fifteen members and eight guests were present. A very interesting lesson was led by Ruth Emerson. A letter concerning Miss Addie Harris, niece of D. E. Harris, who is a missonary in Adana, Turkey was read and enjoyed by all. A very nice picnic super was served after which a social time made the afternoon especially pleasant. One new member was added to the list.

Tuesday evening the following people enjoyed a picnic at Lake Cornelia: Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Stumph, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ryder and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley. They report a fine time.

Wednesday afternoon the Home Missionary society of the M. E. church had a picnic at the Old Mill dam site. This society has been having a contest to secure new members and this picnic was a reception for them. Thirty new members, 16 Jewels and four home guards were secured. Eighty ladies were present. Their husbands were invited for supper. A very pleasant time is reported. Mrs. Hannah Whitten was made a perpetual member and the late Mrs. J. Ryder was made a memorial member.

Thursday night another picnic party enjoyed the evening at Lake Cornelia. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley, and children. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Toyne, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheldon and children, Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph, and Mr. and Mrs. Ormal Gates.

A band from Hampton played on the Main street of Rowan, Monday afternoon advertising the celebration at Hampton July 4.

Charley Schreck of Iowa Falls was in town Sunday making arrangements for the funeral service for his niece, Nellie Schreck, daughter of Mrs. Fred Schreck of Des Moines. She has been in the hospital at Iowa City since the 13th of March suffering from tuberculosis. The body was shipped over the Rock Island, Monday morning. The Rev. W. H. Nye of the Rowan Cong. church conducted a short service at the cemetery. The following friends attended the service: Mrs. Fred Schreck and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Schreck of Des Moines, Charley and Martin Schreck of Iowa Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schreck and family of Hayfield.

Mrs. Clifford Snow went to Pomeroy, Tuesday to settle in their new home. Mr. Snow took an auto load of goods Monday.

Ball Game

The Rowan Legion ball team attended the Farm Bureau picnic at Morgan township and played the Dows team defeating them 8 to 7. The Dows boys thought they were going to have a walk away with the game, expecting to clean up the local team right, but they found out before they were thru that the Rowan boys had seen a ball diamond before.

Horse Shoe Game

Thursday evening the following people went to Holmes to play Horse Shoes with the team at that place: John Riker, Peter Mathiason, Ed Miller, Fred Hackley, D. W. Whitten and son Linden, G. Gunderson Ed. Azeltine, Joe Simons, Albert Emerson, F. M. Myers, Alt Hackley and L. A. McCallum. The score stood as follows:

Town	Games	Scores	Ringers
Rowan	5	196	23
Holmes	7	200	29

High man for Rowan—L. A. McCallum.

High man for Holmes—Warra.

Tennis Game

The local tennis club did not fare as well at Clarion last Tuesday as at Rowan. In the doubles Sheldon and Farran lost to Ramsey and Grattige with the following scores: 6-4, 04-6, 6-2. In the singles Rev. Tomkinson defeated Dr. Grattige 6-4, and Farran lost to Ramsey 6-0. The Rowan boys however are doing good work and soon will be able to take on all comers with a smile. In the near future the Rowan boys will go to Eagle Grove to meet the best players there, so watch for results.

The business men of Rowan have hired Mr. A. A. Williams to put on a picture show each Saturday night. This show is given to the public free of charge. Last Saturday night it was in the sales pavilion and a large crowd attended. Mr. Williams worked under difficulties as he had not had time to get his machine focused right but expects to have it in fine shape by next Saturday night.

S. A. Ferguson was a Fort Dodge caller Tuesday.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

Morning service 11:00.

Address "The Last Supper." The Communion and Baptism services will be administered at this service.

Sunday school after the morning service on Sundays.

The Christian Endeavor at 7:00 p. m.

In the evening there will be a union service of the Cong. and M. E. churches of Rowan during July and August. There will be union services at the Rowan M. E. church next Sunday evening at 8:00.

Mid week prayer meeting at the church Wednesday evening at 8:00.

The Cong. Ladies Aid society will meet with Mrs. Hugh Whitten on Thursday afternoon. The ladies are requested to come early as there is quilting to be done. A 25c supper will be served.

The Ladies Missionary society will meet with Mrs. W. H. Nye Friday afternoon July 1. Mrs. Fred Brooks is leader. The topic is "The American Indian." A good attendance is desired.

The service at the Cong. church Sunday morning was well attended. The pastor gave a very helpful sermon. The choir sang a very pleasant anthem at this service.

In the evening the 'Frances 'Williard Class" gave a temperance program. There was a large audience and the program was enjoyed by all very much. A vote was taken for the young people to have the time of the evening service again for another program.

The following people attended the funeral of the late Mr. David Pepper at Dows, Saturday afternoon: Mr. Will Duffy, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Will Duffy Jr., and family Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Duffy Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Whitten, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burger, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. McCallum and Rev. and Mrs. Nye. The Odd Fellows had charge of the services at the cemetery. Rev. Nye of Rowan gave the address. Mr. Pepper was well known around Rowan having lived here for a number of years.

Mrs. Esther Andrews and grandson Reed Bailey were Clarion shoppers Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. C. Box and daughter, Blanch and Thelma Brooks were Clarion shoppers Thursday.

Joe Hansen was a Belmond caller Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson of Iowa Falls were Sunday guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen. Their two little girls, who have been visiting their grandma the past week returned home with them.

Mrs. Nancy Logan, who as been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Myers, for the past few weeks went to Lacona Iowa, Monday night.

The Andrew Whitten Post of the American Legion at Rowan met on Monday night for their regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Christosserson Will Boelman and family from of Ames came Saturday to spend over Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Nelson.

ROWAN M. E. CHURCH NOTES

There was a large congregation present last Sunday morning in the Methodist church when an impressive service was conducted by the pastor, and followed by the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. A large number of communicants participated in these sacred rites. The evening service was held in the Congregational church where a union gathering was held.

At the morning service in the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday the pastor, Rev. Harold Tomkinson will deliver a special sermon on the subject "America the Beautiful." and will be strictly in accord with the true sentiment of the following day. July 4th. Mr. Tomkinson will discuss this subject in the light of the new and perplexing problems that are coming to the "New America." Several patriotic songs and solos will be sung, and a pleasant and profitable time is anticipated. If you do not belong to any particular church, come to the Methodist church next Sunday and you will receive a hearty welcome.

The union services of the two churches in town will be held either on the grounds of the Methodist curch or in the church next Sunday evening. If the weather is hot the service will be held outside. The meeting will be conducted by the M. E. pastor and the sermon will be delivered by the Congregational pastor, Rev. Nye, who has recently taken up his work in town. We are all looking forward to a time of christian co-operation in these services and in which the town will be particularly benefited. Three things will characterize these union gatherings, Good Singing, Good Sermons and Good Fellowship.

A second ice cream social, this a pay social, will be held on the grounds of the M E. parsonage next Wednesday evening commencing at 6:00 o'clock. Games such as volley ball, etc., will be indulged in and a good time generally will be given.

MESERVEY NEWS

A. J. Nissen motored to Mason City on business Monday. He was accompanied by his wife and two children.

Miss Grace and Wilma Pals are visiting with relatives at Austinville.

Alfred Meints and Paulina Gruis motored to Mason City, Saturday.

The Reform church will hold their annual Sunday school picnic Wednesday at the Harm Dirks grove.

The Children's Day exercises were held at the Evangelical church Sunday.

Miss Thelma Thomas is visiting with her sister, Vola, at Cedar Falls.

Miss Anna Gruis visited at Belmond Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lewis, Chris and Lester Lewis motored to Downing, Wisconsin last week to visit with their father.

Ackley visited at the home of his parents, R. Boelman, Sunday.

Velma Walton of Thornton visited with Meservey friends last week.

NATIONAL GRAIN AGENCY STARTS WORK

Active steps in organization work have been taken by the United Grain Growers, Inc., in Nebraska, Kansas, and Missouri where arrangements have been completed for the opening of schools to instruct solicitors. The organizers will first obtain contracts from local co-operative elevators whose incorporation papers permit immediate affiliation.

KANAWHA NEWS

S. W. Ford of Ida Grove was greeting friends here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Nelson and family of Hayfield, Minnesota came on Wednesday for a brief visit with relatives and friends.

The Misses Mable and Pearl Larson of New Richland, Minnesota, arrived Wednesday to spend their vacation with relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cox and family who have been visiting relatives and friends here several days, left Sunday for their home at Waseca, Minn. Miss Esther Africa accompanied them and will spend several weeks at the Cox home.

Miss Cecil Benzler was an over Sunday visitor with home folks at Britt.

Miss Gladys Peterson who has been working the past few months at Laurel, Neb., came this week for a visit with her father, Steve Peterson, and sister, Miss Artie, also other relatives and friends.

Whooping Cough

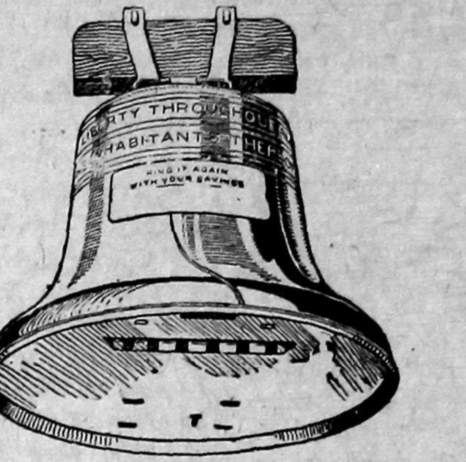
This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, coedine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

STRENGTH SERVICE

Save for Protection

It is often said that a dollar is your best friend, and many times it's true. A dollar when you need it is a mighty help---a protection to your family and yourself.

Deposits, large or small, regularly made, in a Term Savings Account at this Bank, paying 5 per cent interest annually, are the best protection yon can buy. Start now.



With a Term Savings Account of $1 or more you get one of our Liberty Bell Home Banks to help your savings grow.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Ready for the Line In Twenty Minutes

The busy woman who uses a One Minute Twin Tub, washes, rinses and wrings her clothes by power. From the first tub the washed clothes go into the second tub and are rinsed by power. Then with an extra tub and basket on the rack, she finishes the bluing and wringing, and the first batch is ready for the line in twenty to thirty minutes.

ONE MINUTE WASHER

The extra wide, floating dolly in the One Minute is best for clothes washing. It forces the hot, soapy water thru the clothes and takes out dirt quickly and effectively. Then the second tub, equipped with disc, rinses them. The One Minute Wringer, adjustable to four positions, wrings them from tub to tub and into the basket. One Minute cypress tubs hold the heat. The One Minute washes, rinses, wrings—a complete farm laundry.

Select a ONE MINUTE and you get a washer built by a company who has successfully built mechanical washers for over 20 years. A million satisfied users prove the merits of the One Minute.

We have this on display at our store and will be glad to show it to you the next time you stop in.

Townsan Hardware

Phone 34 Belmond, Iowa

FREE!

SATURDAY--a glass of nice cool nectar

11 1-2 oz. jar of pure fruit preserves	20c
19 oz. jar of pure fruit preserves	30c
A good 85c broom for	55c
3 pkgs. 12 1-2c Corn Flakes for	25c
Bread, per loaf	10c
21 bars of good White Laundry Soap	$1.00

We have some fine bargains in Voiles, Ginghams, Men's and Boys' Work Shirts,

Home-made Aprons for girls and women. Some extra large sizes for women

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30

We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

Belmond Local News

Relatives here have received word from Miss Gladys Barry that she will graduate from the Hagedorn Conservatory of Dramatic Art and English on July 6th. This is an honor and was granted because Miss Barry passed an examination of 99 per cent, and she will receive a loving cup as a token of her excellent work. She played recently in the Shubert Central theatre, in the Irish tragedy, "Kevin Barry," produced by Hagedorn players. Miss Barry's success is very pleasing news to her many friends in Belmond, who congratulate her upon it.

—I—

Miss Mildred Gealow came down from Meservey to spend the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gealow, of this place.

—I—

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Ten per cent discount for cash on purchases of $1 and up, except special items.—Johnson & Wright.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinlicht attended the Creamery Day celebration at Kanawha last week. Henry formerly resided north of that place and met many of his old neighbors and friends at the celebration.

—I—

Cyril McGuire was at Kanawha's celebration last week.

Bill Leavy went to Kanawha to attend the creamery day celebration last week.

—I—

The Epworth League of the Methodist church enjoyed a picnic at Morse Lake on Thursday evening of last week. A large crowd was present and a very nice time is reported.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stacy drove to Algona on Saturday evening, to visit over Sunday at the home of Mr. Stacy's sister. They were accompanied on the trip by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stacy. His father, who has been on the sick list for some time past, is improving nicely and is now up and around.

—I—

The Kanawha celebration last week Thursday, known as Creamery Day, was reported as being a nice success with suite a good crowd in attendance. A number of people from Belmond were preent, and report the band as being one of the best they ever heard. It was the Eldora Industrial School band, composed principally of boys from nine to thirteen years of age, and the way the boys rendered difficult selections, solos and the like was a revelation to the crowd. The ball game between Kanawha and Britt was won by the latter, in a rather ragged game, according to reports.

—I—

The first committee to hold their meeting in the new State Bank building was the committee from the Community Club which had charge of the club picnic, held on Friday evening of last week.

—I—

J. W. Smith, who has been staying at the home of his son Matt near Goodell, was a visitor here on Friday of last week attending to some business matters and greeting old friends. He reports a nice little rain thru his section of the country last Sunday afternoon, but says that a little more would not hurt any.

Clarensce Obrecht was down from Thornton last week Sunday visiting friends here during the day.

—I—

Jim Adams was one of the fans from here who drove to Hampton last Wednesday to see the game at that place with Belmond.

—I—

Lars Auestad was in the town a day or two last week, greeting old friends. He is at Radcliff this year, where he is employed and where he is pitching ball for the Radcliff ball team.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—New Belmond Tailor Shop. Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

Howard Wolle, who left about two or three weeks ago for Honduras to work for the Dyer company in the erection of a sugar factory at that place, has ordered the Independent sent to him at Honduras. Which gives the Independent a pretty long circulation. Howard says he likes it first rate down there and is hard at work on the factory. He says there is no place down there to spend money, so that those who are on the job ought to save a pile for the time when they return.

—I—

Steve Antonio, manager of the Candy Kitchen here, was a business caller at the county seat one day last week.

—I—

Clarion's Fourth of July celebration promises to be one of the best that has been held around here for many years. They have raised a large amount of money and appear to be sparing no effort to make the day a successful one. The program of entertainments may be found in the advertising columns of the Independent this week.

—I—

Hampton's celebration of the glorious Fourth this year is to be one of the best the town has ever had, according to the Hampton papers. A big parade and an address by the "Fighting Parson," Chaplan Roberts of Sheffield, are features of the day, together with a ball game between Hampton and Iowa Falls and a big display of fireworks in the evening at the fair grounds.

—I—

Our guarantee stands behind every sack of Peacock Flour. $2.45 a sack. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

—I—

C. M. Morse and wife were at the Creamery Day celebration held at Kanawha last week Thursday.

—I—

The Garner American Legion has a big day tomorrow, July 1st., when they stage a championship wrestling match, a big parade and initiation, ball game, airship flights and kindred attractions. A number of the Belmond people are planning on going up to take in the doings.

—I—

Mrs. Dan Brooks and Mrs. Maitland have been visiting the past few days with relatives and friends in Minnesota.

—I—

Elmer L. Spears has made application to the board of parole for a parole from Annamosa, where he received an indeterminate sentence of five years.

—I—

Mrs. Herman Schultz and son Herman left the first of the week for Idaho, where they expect to spend a month or so visiting at the homes of relatives in different points of the state.

Jim Adams was among the people from this place who went to Kanawha last Thursday to attend the celebration of Creamery day at that place.

—I—

Mrs. Bayliss is laid up with a bad foot, the result of being bitten by a dog. It will be some time before she will be able to be around again.

—I—

Alphia Bayliss, who has been working at the H. A. Kofoed home at Meservey, was called home to help care for her mother, who is suffering from a lacerated foot as the result of being bitten by a dog.

—I—

Found—Auto license plate. Call at Independent. 2tc

—I—

The Misses Shirley Brooks, Loretto Barry and Helen Elder attended a house party at the home of Miss Marian Pritchard at Garner several days last week. The girls report a very delightful time.

—I—

Miss Beatrice Barry is visiting at the home of her uncle, Father Barry of Webster City.

—I—

The Chain of Ten will meet on next week Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. A. Stevens.

—I—

The Priscilla club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. J. J. Flynn. An enjoyable time is reported.

—I—

The H. A. Kofoed family of Meservey motored to Belmond to see Mrs. Bayliss on Monday night.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bohning and Miss Leona Jacobs have returned from their trip to Dakota.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Rabbit have moved from Belmond to Mason City where they expect to make their home in the future. Mr. Rabbit will be employed at the sugar factory at that place.

—I—

Olle Kleinshroot and Duncan Hunter from Minnesota were recent visitors at the home of W. A. Parsons.They are relatives of Mr Parsons.

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

We are now prepared to givve you immense discounts on tailor made suits. Discounts a high as $20 off original prices.—The New Belmond Tailor Shop, South of Case Hotel.

—I—

Important Notice

For the accomodation of the policy holders of the Mutual Benefit Health & Accident Association of Omaha, Neb. I will be in the office each evening to accept your July dues. Lapsed policy is N. G. Sincerely, Wm. H. Wolle, Agt. & Receiver for company.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Russell of Gray Eagle, Minnesota have been spending a few days here visiting at the home of relatives. Mrs. Russell is a daughter of T. S. Wallace.

—I—

Try our high test kerosene in your oil stove.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

For best results and quick services let us develope and print your films.—Schultz Drug Co. 2tc

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Thayne Bailey drove to Iowa City last week Thursday to take their little daughter Mary Jean to the hospital for consultation with a specialist. The little one has not been in very good health for some time. They were accompanied by Mrs. McBurney.

Celebrate the GLORIOUS FOURTH ---At--- CLARION, IA.

MONDAY, JULY 4th

Grand Decorated Auto Parade In the Morning
$40 In Prizes

Music by Clarion Municipal Band---All Day

Kanawha vs. Belmond Ball Game. A real battle for these Two Rival Teams.

One Real Wrestling Bout---Ziesmer vs. Lien.
$100 Purse and Side Bets.

Boxing Contest---Army Style---Battle Royal

A Great Fireworks Night Display
$500 in Pyrotechnics Exhibited by Experts.

A great program of Athletic Events for Young and Old, Men and Women. Entries open to all comers, no one barred. Cash prizes.

A Stirring Patriotic Address by Hon. Michael Healy, of Ft. Dodge.

Free Street Attractions — Attractions Galore — Dancing — A Good Time for All — Fun for All

From the Morning Salute at Daybreak 'till the Last Dog is Hung at Night Something will be Doing ALL the Time. Clarion Has Raised $1500 to be Spent for Your Pleasure, and this celebration will ECLIPSE ALL OTHERS in this Section of the State. It will positively be the BIGGEST AND BEST EVER---with More Variety in Free Amusements and Offering Something that will interest and please all Comers.

Celebrate the 4th In Clarion! Be Alive---LET'S GO!

Next Week's Dance Program AT Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday July 1 and July 8

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices. If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

We

Steam Clean Dry Press

or

Dry Clean and Steam Press

Your Suits for

$1.75

Ladies Suits $2.00

Ticket on Free Suit Given Away.

Star Cleaner
W. L. Wilson
Under Postoffice

Lyric

THURSDAY, JUNE 30
"WING TOY"
A Fox picture featuring pretty
SHIRLEY MASON
The story of a little Oriental who worshiped Buddha—and a white man.
11c and 25c

FRIDAY, JULY 1
"UNSEEN FORCES"
A First National picture featuring
SYLVIA BREAMER
Could Miriam, Mistress of Unseen Forces, foretell where her heart woud lead her? Unseen forces made her love another woman's husbasd.
11c and 25c

SATURDAY, JULY 2
"THE STRANGE BOARDER"
A Goldwyn picture featuring
WILL ROGERS
11c and 25c

MONDAY & TUESDAY
JULY 4 and 5
"LESSONS IN LOVE"
A First National picture featuring
CONSTANCE TALMADGE
"She kissed me." Sure—she kissed everyone but the chap who was crazy about her. He wanted to give up a million just to marry her, but all she let him do was to look on while she kissed someone else. It's full of pep.
11c and 30c

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
JULY 6 and 7
"MADAME X"
A Goldwyn picture featuring
PAULINE FREDERICK
America's most distinguished emotional actress, in the role of the unfortunate woman whose very name has been lost and who went on trial for murder under the title of "Madame X."
11c and 30c

A Business Without Worry

Saving Money is a Business, and it is the only business in the world that does not bring worries, and there is nothing that brings on old age like worries.

A Savings account means less worry for each member of your family.
Start one in this bank and see if we are not right.

Belmond Savings Bank
Belmond, Iowa

Summer Time Is Picnic Time

---and that means Ice Cream

When you go to the lake for a picnic---celebrate a birthday---have an anniversary---at the Sunday dinner---or after a hot day's work, doesn't a dish of ice cream "go good"?

Call on us at these occasions, and we will supply you with cooling, refreshing, satisfying Ice Cream in any flavor and any quantity.

And Don't Forget Our Home-made Candies
Take A Box Home With You.

BELMOND CANDY KITCHEN
PREFTAKES BROS. & CO.
Steve Antonio, Mgr.

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

WRIGHT-FRANKLIN COUNTY PICNIC

A joint meeting of the chairman and three representatives from each of the four townships surrounding the city of Dows was held at the N. L. Vanderlip home Thursday evening, June 23.

The purpose of the meeting was to plan and organize a joint picnic to be put on by Morgan and Oakland townships of Franklin county in co-operation with Blaine and Vernon townships of Wright county. It will be remembered that the people in the vicinity of Dows purchased a small tract of land just north of Dows, with the view of establishing permanent picnic grounds.

E. A. Tatton, of Blaine township, was elected president of the picnic association and Callum O. Evans of Dows was elected secretary-treasurer. Complete plans for holding the picnic will be worked out by six different committees each of which will have one representative from each township and one representative from the city of Dows. The committee members were appointed.

The picnic will be held on Thursday either August 18 or 25. The committee will set the date definitely later.

CRUSADE AGAINST SLACKER HENS

Poultry raisers will be interested to know that the farm bureau is arranging a series of poultry culling demonstrations to be held thruout the county during the latter part of July and the forepart of August.

The county agent is arranging for three demonstrations in each township and the aim will be to distribute them over the township as evenly as possible. It will be remembered that one demonstration was placed in each township last year but it has been decided to spread the work over a larger territory and give every person interested an opportunity to attend one of these demonstrations.

The county agent will attend the poultry culling school which is being arranged by the poultry department of the college at Ames. This culling school which will be held at Ames from June 27 to July 1 will be attended by all county agents and home demonstration agents who hope to do culling work this year.

IOWA FEDERATION NOT IN COAL POOL

Iowa Farm Bureau Federation officials emphatically deny the statement sent out from Chicago recently to the effect that the Iowa organization would join with eight other states in the formation of a gigantic purchasing pool to buy coal direct from the mines.

"So far as Iowa is concerned there isn't a word of truth in the statement" declared Secretary Cunningham. "I was present at that meeting in Chicago June 20 when the coal committee appointed recently by the American Federation brought in its report. This report provided for the appointment of purchasing agents, commissions collections, publicity and a score of other matters, state and interstate, incident to the developement of the plan, and recommended the use of farm bureau machinery thru county agents and county farm bureau organizations to head up and centralize in the State Federation.

"Instead of adopting the committee's report the meeting decided to pass it along to the various State Federations, and thus allow each individual organization to exercise its own judgement in the matter. This report has not been officially presented to the Iowa Federation. There has been no meeting of the executive committee which shapes and controls all the policies of the federation and it will some little time before one is due.

"Is this connection I might say that it has not been the policy of the Iowa Federation to foster merchandise schemes of this kind. The Iowa farmer's one big outstanding problem has to do with the marketing end. Give him a satisfactory market for his products and he is abundantly able to take care of the buying end for himself, whether it be coal or any other commodity."

LAKE TOWNSHIP ENJOYS FINE SOCIAL

Members of the Lake township farm bureau enjoyed an unusually pleasant social evening at the Lake Center school on Tuesday evening, June 21.

A well arranged program consisting of recitations, dialogues, musical numbers and a number of readings was enjoyed by all. The hot summer evening and outside attractions did not seem to keep the members from attending their social gathering. A very noticeable characteristic of the Lake township farm bureau is the fact that they always meet with a definite purpose in mind.

The feature of this social gathering was the unusual address given by O. P. Morton, who for so many years served as secretary of the Wright County Farm Bureau from the time of its inception until two years ago. Mr. Morton began by giving a bit of early history of Wright county and told how his parents came to Wright county forty-seven years ago and settled on the farm which is now owned by Herbert Pick. Mr. Morton stated that hard times have been brought on by nations and individuals spending too much and that our only solution of this problem is for everyone to spend less than they make. He believes that another method of improving our present conditions is to practice a closer co-operation in the home, in the community, in the state and in the nation. He touched upon the consolidated school and also upon the improved road conditions for the county and explained the great benefit these two factors would be to any community.

Mr. Morton's address was very interesting and the Lawe township farmers are congratulating Mr. Morton upon the splendid message he brought to them as a practical farmer and a man who has had the opportunity to study the inner workings of the farm bureau.

LADIES OF GRANT MEET

The ladies of Grant township farm bureau held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Alf. Huntley on Friday afternoon, June 24.

They were expecting an outside speaker from Eagle Grove to address them but for some reason their speaker did not arrive. In the absence of the regular speaker the ladies staged a demonstration themselves on home nursing andeveryone who witnessed the demonstration speaks highly of the work as it was put on.

The next regular meeting of the ladie club will be held at the home of Mrs. W. S. Tucker on Friday afternoon, July 29. Miss Hazel Spencer will put on a demonstration with her club girls at the next regular meeting.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

READ THE ADS

Matthew Style Shop

101 N. Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa

F. C. Whitney, Mgr.

July Clearing Sale

During the week of June 27 to July 2nd, Mason City's most unique, most phenominal value giving event will be in progress, and occurring as it does, right in the season, it affords an ideal opportunity for Milady to select apparel for the resort, for vacation or summer wear at home. As the Matthew Style Shop has been established only six weeks this clearance does not include antiquated styles, but offers the newest, smartest modes of the moment. This sale is certain to gain hosts of new friends for this store, already famous for its prices that win friends---values that hold them.

Just a Few of the Many Bargains:

Frocks

150 dainty, modish creations in georgette, taffeta, canton crepe and crepe de chene. The effects are all original and captivating. Some are exquisitely beaded—others smartly embroidered. You will instantly recognize these extraordinary values at ---------------- $14.75 to $35.00

100 beautiful summer frocks of organdies, voiles, canton crepes and imported French ginghams. This group consists chiefly of individual modes, with elaborate trimmings. Original prices run far in excess of this clearance sale price—as you will immediately realize. $4.95 to $22.50

Coats and Wraps

150 handsomely tailored Dolman wraps and high quality coats of tricotine, bolvia and velour de laine. Some have embroidered sleeves others tassel trimmed, others with the tuxedo effects, most of them silk lined. The variety of effects and remarkable low prices will make choosing a pleasure $7.75 to $29.50

Blouses

A new shipment of tub blouses goes in this Clearance sale. With an abundance of wash blouses a woman is always ready for a fresh change at a moments notice. Perhaps it is because they are so eagerly sought that Wash Blouses of charming daintness are frequently hard to find during the busy season, all of which makes this sale a pleasant occurance. Included in this shipment are extra large sizes and stouts. $1.50 to $3.25

Moderate Prices Prevail in the Millinery Section.

Values that emphasize the economy of the July Clearance are to be found in the Millinery section. These hats are neither shopworn nor ordinary in appearance. They are distinctive models which must be cleared. A large selection of sport Hats so necessary for vacation time are interesting features of this showing.

$3.95 to $6.50

We are also showing a nice selection of Children's Hats

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE LADIES

We have decided to put in a full line of ladies shoes and the new line has been coming in for the past 10 days. We are now ready with a big display of the newest styles in one and two button strap pumps and oxfords. We have just purchased these shoes at the new prevailing prices which are much lower than they have been in the past and therefore can give you much better value for your money than we could if we had purchased them 6 months ago. Come in and look them over. You'll be surprised at the low prices. Here are a few:

Ladies' fine brown calf skin, one button strap pump, military heel. This is regularly sold at $9.50. Introductory price	$6.00
Ladies' brown kid, two button one strap pump, military heel, Introductory price	5.75
Ladies' brown kid Oxford military heel, extra fine quality. Introductory price	6.00
Ladies' white canvas, 2 button, 1 strap pump, with military or Baby Louis covered heel	2.85
Ladies' brown calfskin ball and strap oxford, military heel. Introductory price	4.50
Young ladies' 2 strap brown calfskin slipper, low heel	4.75

PRE-FOURTH SALE OFMEN'S AND YOUNG MEN'S SUITS

Fine hard worsted checks and stripes in blue serges. If you are planning buying a suit, look all over but don't buy until you have seen ours. You will readily see the big saving by buying our clothes.

$22.50 $25.00 $27.50 $32.50 $37.00

Other grades at $12.50, $17.00, $19.00

HOT WEATHER SPECIALS

Men's New Dress Shirts at	.98c
Men's Athletic Underwear at	69c and 98c
Men's Light Balbriggan Union Suits at	75c and 98c

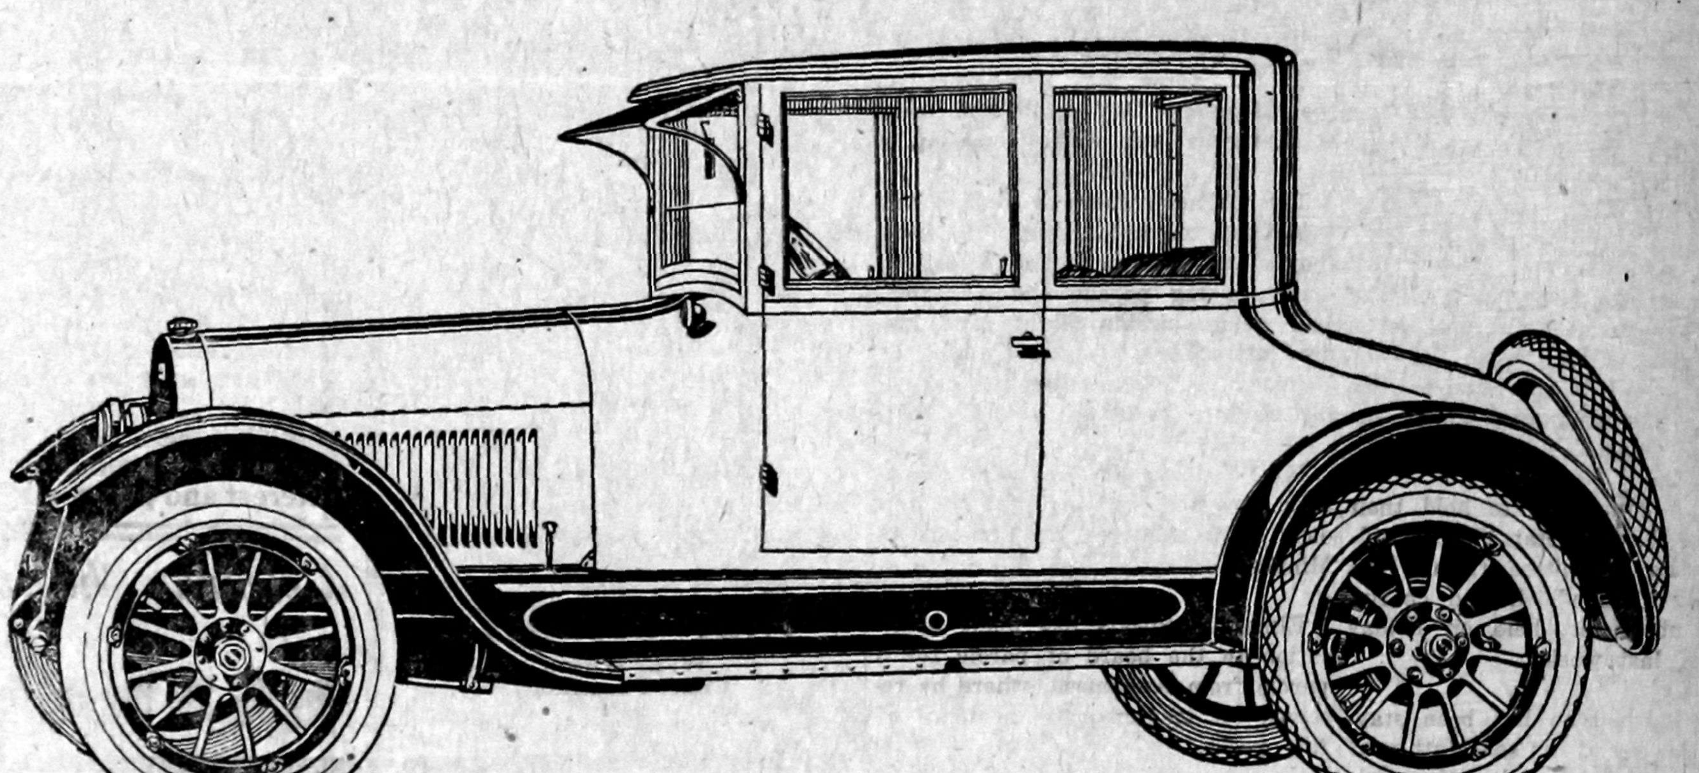
STRAW HATS AT A BIG REDUCTION

Regular $6.00 Hats now	$2.45
Other Straws at	$1.95, $2.50 and $3.50

HARRY MARK

17 South Federal Avenue
Mason City, Iowa

No brokerage or sample lines---all first class merchandise.
Satisfaction guaranteed or money cheerfully refunded.



Buy A Buick and Be Satisfied

MOTOR INN

Ray P. Morris Alfred Swensen

Phone 97

AUTHORIZED BUICK SERVICE

Emblem of Satisfaction

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

By IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 16 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI. — Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

"'Which o' you is Samson Traylor?' he asked.

"'I am,' said Traylor.

"The young feller jumped off his horse and tied him to the fence. Then he went up to Traylor and said:

"'What did you do with my niggers, you dirty sucker?'

"Men from Missouri hated the Illinois folks them days and called 'em Suckers.

"'Hain't you a little reckless, young feller?' Traylor said, as cool as a cucumber. He stood up nigh the barn door, which Brimstead had closed after we backed the wagon out.

"The young feller stepped close to the New Salem man and raised his whip for a blow. Quick as lightnin' Traylor grabbed him and threw him ag'in the barn door, keewhack! He hit so hard the boards bent and the whole barn roared and trembled. The other feller tried to get his pistol out of its holster, but Brimstead, who stood beside him, grabbed it, and I got his hoss by the bits and we both held on. The young feller lay on the ground shakin' as if he had the ague. Ye never see a man so spylt in a second. Traylor picked him up. His right arm was broke and his face and shoulder bruised some. Ye'd a thought a steam engyne had blowed up while he was puttin' wood in it. He was kind o' limp and the mad had leaked out o' him.

"'I reckon I better find a doctor,' he says.

"'You get into my wagon and I'll take ye to a good one,' says Traylor.

"Just then Stephen Nuckles, the circuit minister, rode in with the big bloodhound that follers him around.

"The other slaver had got off his hoss in the scrimmage. Traylor started for him. The slaver began to back away and suddenly broke into a run. The big dog took after him with a kind of a lion roar. We all began yelling at the dog. We made more noise than you'd hear at the end of a hoss race. It scairt the young feller. He put on more steam and went up the ladder to the roof of the woodshed like a chased weasel. The dog stood barkin' as if he had treed a bear. Traylor grabbed the ladder and pulled it down.

"'You stay there till I get away an' you'll be safe,' said he.

"The man looked down and swore and shook his fist and threatened us with the law.

"Mr. Nuckles rode close to the woodshed and looked up at him.

"'My brother, I fear you be not a Christian,' he said.

"He swore at the minister. That settled him. 'I reckon he better stay thar till he gits a little o' God's grace in his soul,' says the minister.

"Then he says to the dog: 'Ponto, you keep 'im right thar.'

"The dog appeared to understand what was expected of him.

"The minister got off his hoss and hitched him and took off his coat and put it on the ground.

"'What you goin' to do?' I says.

"'Me?' says the minister. 'I be goin' to rassle with Satan for the soul o' that 'ar man, an' if you keep watch I reckon you'll see 'at the ground'll be scratched up some 'fore I git through.'

"He loosened his collar an' knelt on his coat and began to pray that the man's soul would see its wickedness and repent. You could have heard him half a mile away.

"Mr. Traylor drove off with the damaged slaver settin' beside him and the saddle hoss hitched to the rear axle. I see my chance an' before that prayer ended I had got the fugitives under some hay in my wagon and started off with them on my way to Livingston county. I could hear the prayin' until I got over the hill into Canaan barrens. At sundown I left them in good hands thirty miles up the road."

In a frontier newspaper of that time it is recorded that the minister and his dog kept the slaver on the roof all day, vainly trying with prayer and exhortation to convert his soul. The man stopped swearing before dinner and on his promise not again to violate the commandment a good meal was handed up to him. He was liberated at sundown and spent the night with Brimstead.

"Who is that big sucker who grabbed my friend?" the stranger asked Brimstead.

"His name is Samson Traylor. Comes from Vermont," was the answer.

"If he don't look out 'Liph Biggs'll kill him—certain."

Samson spoke not more than a dozen words on his way back to New Salem. Amazed and a little shocked by his own conduct, he sat thinking. After all he had heard and seen, the threat of the young upstart had provoked him beyond his power of endurance. The sensitive mind of the New Englander had been hurt by the story of the fugitives. Upon this hurt the young man had poured the turpentine of haughty, imperial manners. The more he thought of it the less inclined he was to reproach himself for his violence. Slavery was a relic of ancient imperialism. It had no right in free America. There could be no peace with it save for a little time. The Missourians would tell their friends of the lawless and violent men of the North, who cared not a fig for the property rights of a Southerner. The stories would travel like fire in dry grass.

So, swiftly, the thoughts of men were being prepared for the great battle lines of the future. Samson saw the peril of it.

As they rode along young Mr. Biggs complained of pain and Samson made a sling of his muffler and put it over the neck and arm of the injured Biggs and drove with care to avoid jolting. For the first time Samson took a careful and sympathetic look at him. He was a handsome youth, about six feet tall, with dark eyes and hair and a small black mustache and teeth very white and even.

In New Salem Samson took him to Doctor Allen's office and helped the doctor in setting the broken bone. Then he went to Offut's store and found Abe reading his law book and gave him an account of his adventure.

"I'm both glad and sorry," said Abe. "I'm glad that you licked the slaver and got the negroes out of his reach. I reckon I'd have done the same if I could. I'm sorry because it looks to me like the beginning of many troubles. The whole subject of slavery is full of danger. Naturally Southern men will fight for their property, and there is a growing number in the North who will fight for their principles. If we all get to fighting, I wonder what will become of the country. It reminds me of the man who found a skunk in his house. His boy was going after the critter with a club.

"'Look here, boy,' he said, 'when you've got a skunk in the house, it's a good time to be careful. You might spyle the skunk with that club, but the skunk would be right certain to spyle the house. While he's our guest. I reckon we'll have to be polite whether we want to or not.'"

That evening Samson set down the events of the day in his book and quoted the dialogue in Offut's store in which he had had a part. On the first of February, 1840, he put these words under the entry:

"I wouldn't wonder if this was the first trip on the Underground railroad."

CHAPTER VII.

In Which Mr. Eliphalet Biggs Gets Acquainted With Bim Kelso and Her Father.

In a musty old ledger kept by James Rutledge, the owner of Rutledge's tavern, in the year 1832, is an entry under the date of January 31st which reads as follows:

"Arrived this day Eliphalet Biggs of 26 Olive street, St. Louis, with one horse."

Young Mr. Biggs remained at Rutledge's tavern for three weeks with his arm in a sling under the eye of the good doctor. The Rutledges were Kentucky folk and there the young man had found a sympathetic hearing and tender care.

It had done him good to be hurled against a barn door and to fall trembling and confused at the feet of his master. He had never met his master until he had reached Hopedale that morning. The event had been too long delayed. Encouraged by idleness and conceit and alcohol, evil passions had grown rank in the soil of his spirit. Restraint had been a thing unknown to him. He had ruled the little world in which he had lived by a sense of divine right. He was a prince of Egoland—that province of America which had only half yielded itself to the principles of Democracy.

It must be said that he served his term as a sober human being quite gracefully, being a well born youth of some education. A few days he spent mostly in bed, while his friend, who had come on from Hopedale, took care of him. Soon he began to walk about and his friend returned to St. Louis.

His fine manners and handsome form and face captured the little village, most of whose inhabitants had come from Kentucky. A week after his arrival Ann Rutledge walked over to Jack Kelso's with him. Bim fled up the stick ladder as soon as they entered the door. Mr. Kelso was away on a fox hunt. Ann went to the ladder and called:

"Bim, I saw you fly up that ladder. Come back down. Here's a right nice young man come to see you."

"Is he good-looking?" Bim called.

"Oh, purty as a picture, black eyes and hair and teeth like pearls, and tall and straight, and he's got a be-e-autiful little mustache."

"That's enough!" Bim exclaimed. "I just wish there was a knot hole in this floor."

"Come on down here," Ann urged.

"I'm scared," was the answer.

"His cheeks are as red as roses and he's got a lovely ring and big watch chain—pure gold and yaller as a dandelion. You come down here."

"Stop," Bim answered. "I'll be down as soon as I can get on my best bib and tucker."

In a few minutes Bim called from the top of the ladder to Ann. The latter went and looked up at her. Both girls burst into peals of merry laughter. Bim had put on a suit of her father's old clothes and her buffalo skin whiskers and was a wild sight.

"Don't you come down looking like that," said Ann. "I'll go up there and tend to you."

Ann climbed the ladder and for a time there was much laughing and chattering in the little loft. By and by Ann came down. Bim hesitated, laughing, above the ladder for a moment, and presently followed in her best blue dress, against which the golden curls of her hair fell gracefully. With red cheeks and bright eyes, she was a glowing picture. Very timidly she gave her hand to Mr. Biggs.

"It's just the right dress," he said. "It goes so well with your hair. I'm glad to see you. I have never seen a girl like you in my life. I'm going to come and see you often, if your mother will let me."

A blush spread over the girl's cheeks to the pretty dimple at the point of her chin.

"You'll see her scampering up the ladder like a squirrel," said Mrs. Kelso. "She isn't real tame yet."

"Perhaps we could hide the ladder," he suggested, with a smile.

"Do you play on the flute?" Bim asked.

"No," said Mr. Biggs.

"I was afraid," Bim exclaimed. "My Uncle Henry does." She looked into Mr. Biggs' eyes.

Mr. Biggs laughed. "That smile of yours is very becoming," he said.

At this point Mr. Kelso returned with his gun on his shoulder and was introduced to Mr. Biggs.

"I welcome you to the hazards of my fireside," said Kelso. "So you're

"I Have Never Seen a Girl Like You in My Life."

from St. Louis and stopped for repairs in this land of the ladder climbers. Sit down and I'll put a log on the fire."

"Thank you, I must go," said Biggs.

"Can I not stay you with flagons?" Kelso asked.

"The doctor has forbidden me all drink but milk and water."

"A wise man is Doctor Allen!" Kelso exclaimed. "Cervantes was right in saying that too much wine will neither keep a secret nor fulfill a promise."

"Will you make me a promise?" Bim asked of Mr. Biggs, as he was leaving the door with Ann.

"Anything you will ask," he answered.

"Please don't ever look at the new moon through a knot hole," she said in a half whisper.

The young man laughed. "Why not?"

"If you do, you'll never get married."

"Don't be alarmed by my daughter's fancies," Kelso advised. "They are often rather astonishing."

So Mr. Eliphalet Biggs met the pretty daughter of Jack Kelso. On his way back to the tavern he told Ann that he had fallen in love with the sweetest and prettiest girl in all the world—Bim Kelso. That very evening Ann went over to Kelso's cabin to take the news to Bim and her mother and to tell them that her father reckoned he belonged to a very rich and a very grand family. Mr. Kelso had gone to Offut's store and the three had the cabin to themselves.

"I think he's just a wonderful man!" Bim exclaimed. "But I'm sorry his name is so much like figs and pigs. I'm plum sure I'm going to love him."

"I thought you were in love with Harry Needles," Bim's mother said to her.

"I am. But he keeps me so busy. I have to dress him up every day and put a mustache on him and think up ever so many nice things for him to say, and when he comes he doesn't say them. He's terribly young."

"You told me that he said once you were beautiful."

"But he has never said it twice, and when he did say it, I didn't believe my ears, he spoke so low. Acted kind o' like he was scared of it. I don't want to wait forever to be really and truly loved, do I?"

Mrs. Kelso laughed. "It's funny to hear a baby talking like that," she said. "We don't know this young man. He's probably only fooling, anyway."

Bim went often to the little tavern after that. Of those meetings little is known, save that, with all the pretty arts of the cavalier, unknown to Harry Needles, the handsome youth flattered and delighted the girl. This went on day by day for a fortnight. The evening before Biggs was to leave for his home, Bim went over to eat supper with Ann at the tavern.

It happened that Jack Kelso had found Abe sitting alone with his Blackstone in Offut's store that afternoon.

"Mr. Kelso, did you ever hear what Eb Zane said about the general subject of sons-in-law?" Abe asked.

"Never—but I reckon it would be wise and possibly apropos," said Kelso.

"He said that a son-in-law was a curious kind o' property," Abe began. "'Ye know,' says Eb, 'if ye have a hoss that's tricky an' dangerous an wuth less than nothin', ye can give him away er kill him, but if ye have a son-in-law that's wuthless, nobody else will have him an' it's ag'in' the law to kill him. Fust ye know ye've got a critter on yer hands that kicks an' won't work an' has to be fed an' liquored three times a day an' is wuth a million dollars less than nothin'.'"

There was a moment of silence.

"When a man is figurin' his assets, it's better to add ten dollars than to subtract a million," said Abe. "That's about as simple as adding up the weight o' three small hogs."

"What a well of wisdom you are, Abe!" said Kelso. "Do you know anything about this young Missourian who is shining up to Bim?"

"I only know that he was a drinking man up to the time he landed here and that he threatened Traylor with his whip and got thrown against the side of a barn—plenty hard. He's a kind of American king, and I don't like kings. They're nice to look at, but generally those that have married 'em have had one h—l of a time."

Kelso rose and went home to supper.

Soon after the supper dishes had been laid away in the Kelso cabin, young Mr. Biggs rapped on its door and pulled the latchstring and entered and sat down with Mr. and Mrs. Kelso at the fireside.

"I have come to ask for your daughter's hand," he said, as soon as they were seated. "I know it will seem sudden, but she happens to be the girl I want. I've had her picture in my heart always. I love your daughter. I can give her a handsome home and everything she could desire."

Kelso answered promptly: "We are glad to welcome you here, but we cannot entertain such a proposal, flattering as it is. Our daughter is too young to think of marriage. Then, sir, we know very little about you, and may I be pardoned if I add that it does not recommend you?"

The young man was surprised. He had not expected such talk from a ladder climber. He looked at Kelso, groping for an answer. Then—

"Perhaps not," said he. "I have been a little wild, but that is all in the past. You can learn about me and my family from anyone in St. Louis. I am not ashamed of anything I have done. May I not hope that you will change your mind?"

"Not at present. Let the future take care of itself."

"I generally get what I want," said the young man.

"And now and then something that you don't want," said Kelso, a bit nettled by his persistence.

"You ought to think of her happiness. She is too sweet and beautiful for a home like this."

There was an awkward moment of silence. The young man said good-night and opened the door.

"I'll go with you," said Kelso.

He went with Mr. Biggs to the tavern and got his daughter and returned home with her.

Mrs. Kelso chided her husband for being hard on Mr. Biggs.

"He has had his lesson, perhaps he will turn over a new leaf," she said.

"I fear there isn't a new leaf in his book," said Kelso. "They're all dirty."

He told his wife what Abe had said in the store.

"The wisdom of the common folk is in that beardless young giant," he said. "It is the wisdom of many generations gathered in the hard school of bitter experience. I wonder where it is going to lead him."

As Eliphalet Biggs was going down the south road next morning he met Bim on her pony near the schoolhouse, returning from the field with her cow. They stopped.

"I'm coming back, little girl," he said.

"What for?" she asked.

"To tell you a secret and ask you a question. May I come?"

"I suppose you can—if you want to," she answered.

"I'll come and I'll write to you and send the letters to Ann."

Mentor Graham, the schoolmaster, who lived in the schoolhouse, had come out of its door.

"Good-by!" said young Mr. Biggs, as his heels touched the flanks of his horse. Then he went flying down the road.

CHAPTER VIII.

Wherein Abe Announces His Purpose to Be a Candidate for the Legislature, at Kelso's Dinner Party.

Harry Needles met Bim Kelso on the road next day, when he was going down to see if there was any mail. She was on her pony. He was in his new suit of clothes—a butternut background striped into large checks.

"You look like a walking checkerboard," said she.

"This—this is my new suit," Harry answered, looking down at it.

"It's a tiresome suit," said she impatiently. "I've been playing checkers on it since I caught sight o' you, and I've got a man crowned in the king row."

"I thought you'd like it," he answered, quite seriously, and with a look of disappointment. "Say, I've got that razor and I've shaved three times already.

"Don't tell anybody," he warned her. "They'd laugh at me. They wouldn't know how I feel."

"I won't say anything," she answered. "I reckon I ought to tell you that I don't love you—not so much as I did, anyway—not near so much. I only love you just a wee bit now."

Harry's face fell.

"Do you—love—some other man?" he asked.

"Yes—a regular man—mustache, six feet tall and everything. I just tell you he's purty!"

"Is it that rich feller from St Louis?" he asked.

She nodded and then whispered "Don't you tell."

The boy's lips trembled when he answered. "I won't tell. But I don't see how you can do it."

"Why?"

"He drinks. He isn't respectable."

"That's a lie," she answered quickly. "I don't care what you say."

Bim touched her pony with the whip and rode away.

Harry staggered for a moment as he went on. His eyes filled with tears. It seemed to him that the world had been ruined. On his way to the village he tried and convicted it of being no fit place for a boy to live in. Down by the tavern he met Abe, who stopped him.

"Do You—Love—Some Other Man?" He Asked.

"Howdy, Harry!" said Abe. "You look kind o' sick. Come into the store and sit down. I want to talk to you."

Harry followed the big man into Offut's store, flattered by his attention. There had been something very grateful in the sound of Abe's voice and the feel of his hand. The store was empty.

"You and I mustn't let ourselves be worried by little matters," said Abe, as they sat down together by the fire. "Things that seem to you to be as big as a mountain now will look like a mole hill in six months. You and I have got things to do, partner. We mustn't let ourselves be fooled. I was once in a boat with old Cap'n Chase on the Illinois river. We had got into the rapids. It was a narrow channel in dangerous water. They had to keep her headed just so or we'd have gone on the rocks. Suddenly a boy dropped his apple overboard and began to holler. He wanted to have the boat stopped. For a minute that boy thought his apple was the biggest thing in the world. We're all a good deal like him. We keep dropping our apples and calling for the boat to stop. Soon we find out that there are many apples in the world as good as that one. You have all come to a stretch of bad water up at your house. The folks have been sick. They're a little lonesome and discouraged. Don't you make it any harder by crying over a lost apple. Ye know it's possible that the apple will float along down into the still water where you can pick it up by and by. The important thing is to keep going ahead."

This bit of fatherly counsel was a help to the boy.

"I've got a book here that I want you to read," Abe went on. "It is the 'Life of Henry Clay.' Take it home and read it carefully and then bring it back and tell me what you think of it. You may be a Henry Clay yourself by and by. The world has something big in it for every one if he can only find it. We're all searching—some for gold and some for fame. I pray God every day that He will help me to find my work—the thing I can do better than anything else—and when it is found help me to do it. I expect it will be a hard and dangerous search and that I shall make mistakes. I expect to drop some apples on my way. They'll look like gold to me, but I'm not going to lose sight of the main purpose."

When Harry got home he found Sarah sewing by the fireside, with Joe and Betsey playing by the bed. Samson had gone to the woods to split rails.

"Any mail?" Sarah asked.

"No mail," he answered.

Sarah went to the window and stood for some minutes looking out at the plain. Its sere grasses, protruding out of the snow, hissed and bent in the wind. In its cheerless winter colors it was a dreary thing to see.

"How I long for home!" she exclaimed, as she resumed her sewing by the fire.

Little Joe came and stood by her knee and gave his oft repeated blessing:

"God help us and make His face to shine upon us."

She kissed him and said: "Dear comforter! It shines upon me every time I hear you say those words."

"Would you mind if I called you mother?" Harry asked.

"I shall be glad to have you do it if it gives you any comfort, Harry," she answered.

She observed that there were tears in his eyes.

"We are all very fond of you," she said, as she bent to her task.

Then the boy told her the history of his morning—the talk with Bim, with the razor omitted from it.

"Well, Harry, if she's such a fool you're lucky to have found it out so soon," said Sarah. "She does little but ride the pony and play around with a gun. I don't believe she ever spun a hank o' yarn in her life. She'll get her teeth cut by and by."

Then fell a moment of silence. Soon she said:

"There's a bitter wind blowing and there's no hurry about the rails, I guess. You sit here by the fire and read your book this forenoon. Maybe it will help you to find your work."

So it happened that the events of Harry's morning found their place in the diary which Sarah and Samson kept. Long afterward Harry added the sentences about the razor.

One evening Sarah and Samson, with Harry, went to a debate in the tavern on the issues of the day, in which Abe won the praise of all for an able presentation of the claim of Internal Improvements. During that evening Alexander Ferguson declared that he would not cut his hair until Henry Clay became President, the news of which resolution led to a like insanity in others and an age of unexampled hairiness on that part of the border.

For Samson and Sarah the most notable social event of the winter was a chicken dinner at which they and Mr. and Mrs. James Rutledge and Ann and Abe Lincoln and Doctor Allen were the guests of the Kelsos. That night Harry stayed at home with the children.

Kelso was in his best mood.

"Come," he said, when dinner was ready. "Life is more than friendship. It is partly meat."

"And mostly Kelso," said Doctor Allen.

"Ah, Doctor! Long life has made you as smooth as an old shilling and nimbler than a sixpence," Kelso declared. "And, speaking of life, Aristotle said that the learned and the unlearned were as the living and the dead."

"It is true," Abe interposed. "I say it, in spite of the fact that it slays me."

"You? No! You are alive to your finger tips," Kelso answered.

"But I have mastered only eight books," said Abe.

"And one—the book of common sense, and that has wised you," Kelso went on. "Since I came to this country I have learned to beware of the one-book man. There are more living men in America than in any land I have seen. The man who reads one good book thoughtfully is alive and often my master in wit or wisdom. Reading is the gate and thought is the pathway of real life."

"I think that most of the men I know have read the Bible," said Abe.

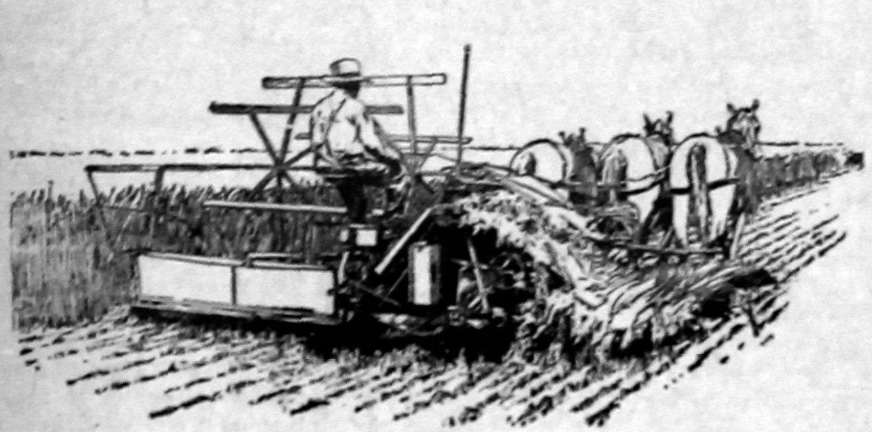
"A wonderful and a saving fact! It is a sure foundation to build your life upon."

(Continued next week)

Special Prices

ON

Deering & McCormick Grain Binders



$240.00 Cash

September 1st

This is a Special Cut of $20 to Move Our Stock

Why Wait?

Cato C. Griesy

Belmond, Iowa

ALEXANDER NOTES

Theodore Beenen was a business caller at Mason City last Friday.

Albin Johnson of Hampton was a caller in town one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder and the Misses Addie and Esther Larsen were callers at Fort Dodge last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ammerman and son Alfred visited with relatives at Sheffield last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Winwood were Mason City callers last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Born visited with friends at Hampton last Saturday evening.

Wedding bells are ringing in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vanhetta and Mr. and Mrs. Smith and son of Des Moines visited at the Nels Larsen home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C.Arends and family autoed to Nebraska the first of the week where they will visit at Hastings and other points before returning home.

John Christensen and children of Ackley visited with Alexander friends the first of the week.

Fred L. Greenfield was a caller at Minneapolis last week.

Fourth of July is rapidly nearing and the people of Alexander are making plans to celebrate at Hampton, some at Clarion and some will celebrate at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Greenfield and daughter June of near Belmond visited at the Fred Grenffield home on last Thursday evening.

Frank Hock of Cleveland Ohio, who has been spending the past few weeks at the A. B. Arends home, departed Tuesday for his home.

Mrs. Tena Graves and children of Grudy Center visited at the Henry Stoffer and Fred Greenffield homes last week.

Mrs. E. E. Butler and two sons of Hampton spent the first of the week with relatives at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dirksen and Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Dirksen and children of Nevada, Iowa, visited at the George Dirksen home last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Reed and baby were callers at Latimer Sunday.

Fred Greenffield and son Frederick were callers at Belmond, Monday.

Alice Peters was a Hampton caller one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Miss Jessie Bell, Mrs. John Arends, Mrs. Mabel Symens, Mrs. Fred Greenffield and son and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Larsen attended the funeral services of Harley Seward at Hansell last Tuesday.

Belmond Local News

We are making as good chick feed as there is on the market. Ask your dealer for it.—T. S. Wallace & Co. tf

—I—

The Royal Neighbors met on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Williard Morse.

—I—

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

—I—

For Sale—10-months old Collie, eligible to registry. Just the dog for some farmer.—Jack McIlrath. 1t*

—I—

Headquarters for Fishing Tackle and the American Kampkook Stove at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Mrs. Minnie Furuseth is reported on the sick list this week. She is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Oscar Jacobson.

—I—

We now have the high test kerosene and gasoline for sale.—Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Lawrence Gealow and a party of friends drove to Clear Lake on Sunday to spend the day.

—I—

Ten per cent discount for cash on purchases of $1 and up, except special items.—Johnson & Wright.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Soper of Elgin, Illinois, drove to Belmond to spend a few days at the A. E. and A. W. Martin homes. They were accompanied by Mrs. Soper's mother, Mrs. E. Martin, and by a nephew, Ervin Born. They returned on Tuesday morning of this week.

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Kill those rats. Use Azoa Rat Virus. It gives them a disease. Ask us about it.—Schultz Drug Co. 1tc

—I—

Mrs. H. Schultz and daughter Leone of Los Angeles, California, came Sunday to visit her son, Herman L. Schultz and family.

—I—

Headquarters for fireworks. Roman Candles, Skyrockets, Firecrackers, torpedoes, sparklers, etc.—Schultz Drug

—I—

A free pair of pants with every order for a new suit.—New Belmond Tailor Shop. South of hotel.

—I—

For the Spring Frys—just arrived a new lot of panacea and louse killer at Townsan Hardware.

—I—

Mrs. Lena Anderson of Westbrook, Minnesota, has been here the past three weeks caring for her mother, Mrs. Ole Gunderson.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Eaton went to Fairbanks, Iowa, last week to spend a few days at the home of relatives there.

—I—

Mrs. Charles Luick of Wapeton, North Dakota, came this week to assist in the care of her mother, Mrs. Ole Gunderson.

—I—

E. G. Miller and wife were among the Belmond people who enjoyed the outing facilities of Clear Lake on this week Sunday.

—I—

Mowers, hay buckers, hay stackers, hay loaders—The great Dain line. Come and see them.—Christ Rise. Phone 85.

Oxy-Acetylene Welding

All work promptly attended to. We can save you money on broken castings.

Belmond Welding & Tank Co.

Belmond, Iowa Phone 39

Remember!

Patriotic--Religious Service next Sunday Morning at 11:00 o'clock: Hear the sermon on

"God and the Destiny of America"

"Whosoever heareth, let him say, 'Come'."

Methodist Episcopal Church

New Bakery and Confectionery.....

ANNOUNCING THE OPENING OF OUR NEW BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY, LOCATED ACROSS THE STREET WEST OF THE NEW STATE BANK OF BELMOND. WE INVITE YOU TO MAKE OUR NEW STORE YOUR HEADQUARTERS FOR ALL KINDS OF CANDIES, ICE CREAM, SOFT DRINKS AND CIGARS.

BREAD, CAKES, PIES, DOUGHNUTS, COOKIES

Anything You Like In Bakery Goods

Belmond Bakery and Confectionery

P. Barban, Prop.

Cut Rate Grocery

Mason City, Iowa

Saves You Money

SUGAR

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THIS?

100 lbs. Cain	$6.90
100 lbs Beet	$6.70
14 lbs.	$1.00
6 1-2 lbs.	.50
3 lbs.	.25

LET US SEND YOU A SACK

Brooms 39c Each

OUR STORE IS JUST FULL OF BARGAINS. COME IN.

Mustard, 1 quart jar	23c
Matches, 6 boxes	35c
Bakers Cocoa 1-2 lb. can	28c
White Palona Soap, 10 bars	48c
Peanut Butter, 1 qt. jar	48c

The jar is worth 10c

Van Camps Baked Beans —
No. 2 can, 2 for	25c
Red Salmon Libby, 1 lb can	36c
Pink Salmon, 1-2 lb. can	10c

Hebe Milk

Tall cans	10c
Small cans	6c

We carry a full line of Bakery Goods

We have a good Assortment of Fresh Vegetables and Fresh Fruits

We are here to serve you. See how hard you can make us work. We like it.

Salt--100 lb. Sack $1.50

Cut Rate Grocery

C. E. Rush, Manager E. F. Chapin & Co. Props.

Phone 113-114 Mason City, Iowa 30 E. State St.

Don't Overheat Your Battery

Just because your storage battery is snugly tucked away out of sight, do not allow it to be "out of mind." One of the most harmful influences to guard against is overheating. Ask for our advice on how to prevent overheating.

Free Testing and Filling

Have your battery tested and filled--FREE. Do this every two weeks. Neglect to keep the battery filled with pure distilled water is one of the greatest of evils, as well as the most common, and will shorten its life quicker than anything else. Evaporation of water in the solution is continuous.

BATTERIES CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED

We have the "Still Better" Willard Thread Rnbber Battery in stock. Ask us about Thread Rubber Insulation.

Belmond Storage Battery Company

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1921 NO. 33

BIG CROWD CELEBRATE AT COUNTY SEAT

Main Street To Be The New Name

New Name To Be Officially Endorsed At Meeting In August—Others May Be Changed Too.

"DICK" KENEFICK SUGGESTS IT

The city council has definitely decided as to the new name for Spruce street, and will enact at their next meeting an ordinance changing the name of the street.

The new name is to be "Main Street." The council, after considering for several weeks the various names which were submitted, settled on Main street as being the most logical one, one that was the most universally used at the present time and the one which would be the most appropriate, all things considered.

The winner of the Independent's offer of five dollars for the new name is R. D. Kenefick, he being the first one to suggest that name. A number of others also sent in Main street astheir suggestion but Kenefick's is reported as being the first received.

There is already a Main street in the city, being the street running east and west just south of Spruce. It will be changed, as will the various east and west streets on the north and south sides of the Main street. It is understood that these streets are to be called "First street south" and "First street north" and so on. There was some talk of making the main street west of the bridge known as "West Main street," and the same street east of the Rock Island depot "East Main street," but the outcome of this is not known at the present writing.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

Clerk Goslin reports the following marriage licenses for the past week: Francis Thayer and Weva Jenison, George Sadler and Lillian Runden, Frank D. Newcomb and Lydia R. Thomason, Wm. Conners and Mary Conners.

Two stills, a miscellaneous lot of "hootch," several automobile tires and an assortment of clothing, held as evidence in cases coming before the October term of district court, are in the vault in Clerk Goslin's office at the court house. The clothing is that taken by robbers at Goldfield and Woolstock sometime ago.

E. F. Bailey, the Belmond contractor, has begun action against the Great Western to recover the sum of $3,000 alleged to be due on account of defendant's failure to furnish cars per contract for the shipping of gravel from a pit near Belmond. Plaintiff was to have $5.00 per hour for each hour his men and outfit was delayed. He claims a total of 600 hours delay on the part of the defendant.

A violent temper, with no effort to control it, striking her with his fists and kicking her while wearing heavy boots is the alleged inhuman treatment upon which Ida Nelson, of Eagle Grove bases her petition for divorce from her husband, John Nelson. Defendant is a farmer and for the past two years has also conducted a hotel known as the Oelson hotel in Eagle Grove. Parties to this action were married at Paxton, Illinois, in 1911. They have no children.

Treasurer Allen mourns the death of his mother, Mrs. Eugene Allen, of Eagle Grove who passed away last Friday death being due to heart trouble. Deceased was in her 78th year and was about her usual home duties until the day previous to her death. Mrs. Allen came to Wright county in 1874, being numbered among the older inhabitants. The Allen family has been a prominent and influential factor in the affairs of Eagle Grove and Troy township for a long period of years.

More Good Road News

The work of draining and grading the main county road south from Clarion corporation line to the gravel road connecting with Woolstock is to be commenced at once. Several cars of road machinery, including two caterpillar tractors, were unloaded at Woolstock last week. The contractor has two complete outfits and will push the work as fast as possible.

Petition for New District

A petition has been filed with County Superintendent Blanche Bock, signed by 134 qualified voters residing within the territory asking that a consolidated independent school district to be known as the Consolidated Independent School District of Woolstock be established within the contigius territory containing not less than sixteen sections within the ner of Sec. 20, T 90 N, R 25 W as follows:

Commencing at the sw corner of Sec. 33, T 90 N, R 26 W, thence north to the nw corner of Sec. 28, T 90 N, R 26 W, thence east to the sw corner of Sec. 20, T 90 N, R 26 W, thence north to the nw corner of Sec. 14, T 90 N, R 26 W, thence east to the ne corner ofSec. 17, T 90 N, R 25 W, thence south to the se corner Sec. 27, T 90 N, R 25 W, thence south to thence east to the ne corner of Sec. 27, T 90 N, R 25 W, thence south to the secorner of section 34, T 90 N, R 25 W, 5th P. M. Iowa.

Objections to the project must be filed in the office of the county superintendent on or before noon of the 9th day of July.

Another Still Captured

Head Grove neighborhood south of Eagle Grove, has yielded up the latest Wright county moonshiner. John Mathews, a tiler making his home with a brother in that neighborhood had his preliminary hearing before Squire Williamson at Eagle Grove last Saturday, at which time he waived a hearing and was released on posting bonds in the sum of $750 for appearance before the October grand jury.

A night last week Marshal Rennolds of Eagle Grove arrested a couple of drunks on the street of that town and from evidence he secured with other officers made a raid on Mathews and captured a still, twenty bottles of beer, a dozen pints of whiskey and two pints of alcohol, which is being held as evidence against him.

The two drunks above alluded to caused some excitement the night of their arrest and confinement in the Eagle Grove bastile when a mattress was set on fire from a lighted cigarette. A stream of water was turned on the mattress and the two men dragged from their cell in a senseless condition, it being thought for a time that one of them was dead.

News: Mrs. Ida Nelson, proprietor of the Nelson hotel in Eagle Grove, is suing her husband for divorce and alimony in such sum as the court may direct. She alleges her husband is worth at least $15,000.

The basis of her charges against her husband is that he was so cruel to her as to endanger her health and make life miserable for her. He would strike, beat, kick, and otherwise abuse her, calling her vile names even in the presence of others. They were married at Paxton, Ill., May 17, 1911, and she left him June 21. She asked the court to enjoin her husband from appearing at the hotel and attachment against his property pending suit.

E. F. Bailey is suing the Great Western for $3000, alleged to be due as a result of failure of the company to deliver gravel cars to the gravel pit he had opened there on the Great Western property, working under a contract which provided the company was to forfeit $5 per hour for each and every hour his workmen were idle thru lack of cars. The contract called for a 500-cubic yard delivery every 12 hours and he claims that he lost 600 hours thru failure of the company to keep the cars on hand. Therefore he asks $3,000, and costs of the suit.

GIVEN TREATMENT AT IOWA CITY HOSPITAL

Little Rosa Onderdic, has been given treatment at the Perkins' hospital of Iowa City thru the efforts of Dr. Steele for congenital hip trouble, and was returned to her home at the A. E. Martis farm last week with the cast removed and practically cured.

Milk Ordinance For City To Be Drastic One

New Ordinance Will Require Fulfillment Of Many Obligations By All Retailers Of Milk.

MILK DEALERS FAVOR LAW

The city council has had under consideration for the past few weeks an ordinance regulating the sale of milk within the city limits and the probablities are that the ordnance will be passed at the next meeting of the council.

The ordinance is a most drastic one and will affect every retailer of milk in the city, whether they make that a business or whether they have but one cow and sell a pint a day. The ordinance is one that has been worked out by the state food and dairy commission, and is the result of months of thought and preparation. It is being introduced into the towns all over the state and will in the near future being the ruling law in every town of any consequence in the state.

The ordinance provides that no one who has a cow may sell milk unless it has been pasteurized first, specifying the exact amount of heat to pasteurize the milk, what shall be done with it, no other product shall be placed in the receptacle into which the milk is taken, the way the milk shall be retailed, the use of bottles being made compulsory— the bucket or dish way being unlawful—the way the cow barns shall be kept, the kind of stable floor, and a dozen different things that mean the end of the quart or two quart dealer.

All cows must be tested every so often for tuberculosis, and any animal found affected must be segregated from the rest of the herd, the herd tested again in six months, and the state dairy commission notified at once.

Those dealers in milk who are in the business as a business are all in favor of the proposed law, and are waiting for it to be pulaced in effect. The proposed law will force them all to a strictly sanitary and hygenic way of supplying the trade with milk, and will place them to a considerable expense. No one will be permitted to retail milk under the new law unless their cows have under gone the tuberculin test, the milk is pasteurized and sold in bottles, and the various other obligations of the measure complied with. violation of the law means one hundred dollars fine and thirty days in jail.

PUBLIC SPIRITED CITIZEN GIVES KIDDIES PICNIC

Under the auspices of the Community Club and financed by a friend who is always doing something for Belmond and Belmond people, about eighty small children enjoyed a rare treat. The past two Saturdays were devoted to a picnic for the kiddies, about forty being out each day. They were taken to the lake and were filled to the brim with goodies, and after wading in the water and playing games were returned to their homes a truly happy bunch.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Belmond, Iowa, June 28, 1921.

Special meeting of town council eld in Town Hall on call of Mayor Barry for the purpose of considering the granting of licenses uder the Iowa Cigarette Law, effective July 4th., 1921.

Members all present.

Moved and seconded licenses be issued to Whippenbeck & White, S. S. Packard, George J. Brady, Schultz Drug Co., Alex Smith, Ella M. Cleveland and Steve Antonio, same to be effective on July 4th, 1921 and also to be confirmed at the next regular meeting of council.

Motion carried.

On motion and second council adjourned.

GUY BYERS, Clerk

OBITUARY

WILLIAM MILES MONTGOMERY

Williams Miles Montgomery was born at Clarion, Pa., May 4, 1872 and died at his home east of Belmond, Iowa, June 28, 1921.

Mr. Montgomery's parents moved to Illinois when he was a boy nine years old. About twenty-five years ago he moved to Wright county and eight years ago onto the farm east of town.

He was married to Miss Mabel E. Luick, January 14, 1903 and to this union nine children were born, Madge, Samuel Mildred Erma, Lyle, Muriel and George. Two children died in infancy.

Mr. Montgomery had been in poor health for some months and had not been able to work but was up and around all of the time and no one thought that the end was so near. For the past three weeks he had been confined to te home and early Tuesday morning the summons came and he took his departure.

Besides his wife and children he leaves two brothers, Isaac M. Montgomery of Tacoma, Wash., and Geo. M. Montgomery of Humboldt, South Dakota, and three sisters, Miss Madge Montgomery of Tacoma, Washington, Mrs. Lizzie Jones of Meservey, Iowa, and Mrs. Ella Ashley of Vernon Center, Minnesota and many other relatives and friends who mourn his, what seems to us, untimely departure.

Funeral services were held at the home on Thursday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. S. U. Leinbach, pastor of the Congregational church.

CHAUTAUQUA SIGNED FOR BY TWENTY-ONE MEN

The pretty little girl who was here a week or so ago secured the twenty signers she was seeking to guarantee a chautauqua here for next year. The chautauqua to be given will be under the Midland Chautauqua system, the date for it not having been announced yet.

The chautauqua is to be an eight hundred dollar affair, containing the best talent the Midland has in its contracts, and was signed for by the following men:

Dr. Steele, Geo. Heginger, Lars Johanson, T. A. Townson, Cato C. Griesy, C. C. Benson, H. D. Johnston, Adolph Skovlin, R. A. Rankins, B. J. Johnson, M. C. Barry, Johnson Garage, J. L. Graham, Adam Hollman, H. S. Nordschow, Alfred Swenson, Ray P. Morris, James Kenefick, Joe Kiplinger, Theo. Wright and H. F. Luick.

REBEKAH CONVENTION DRAWS LARGE CROWD

The 16th annual covention of the Rebekah lodge held here last week on Thursday drew a very large attendance, there being something like two hundred or more delegates and visitors here from the surrounding towns. The program was carried thru as printed in the Independent, and the reports of the convention are all very highly satisfactory, a general goo and helpful time being enjoyed. In the evening the ladies enjoyed a fine supper in the city park.

BELMOND TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU PICNIC

The Belmond Township Farm Bureau picnic will be held at the home of M. R. Pierce at the edge of Morse Lake on Thursday, July 14. We will endeavor to have a speaker of note and hope to have a large attendance. Come at one-thirty. The speech will be about three, and the picnic supper at five. Mrs. Pierce will furnish blackberries free of charge to all.

Because of the Fourth, when the whole force took a lay off, and a breakdown on our linotype yesterday the Independent was forced to leave out considerable reading matter and change the make up of the paper this week.

LARGEST CROWD EVER AT COUNTY CELEBRATION

Clarion's Glorious Fourth Celebration Draws Biggest Crowd Ever In The Town.

BALL GAME FEATURES SPORTS

Kanawha Wins From Belmond By Score Of 4 To 2 After Hotly Contested Battle.

All roads in the county led to the county seat Monday when Clarion celebrated the glorious Fourth.

Probably the town of Clarion never had as large a crowd before in its history. The mob was packed all over the main part of town, with the cars as thick as grass. While the writer was one of the mass, he would not attempt to estimate the number of people there, for it would be an impossible task. Cars by the hundreds were parked all over the city, on all streets in all directions, and the cars and people at the fair ground during the ball game, and especially at night at the fireworks, was the largest ever seen in this neck of the woods.

The program was carried thru in an orderly fashion and practically as it had been arranged. The parade in the morning was very good, and was variously commented upon for its attractiveness and beauty. The address in the park by Hon. Michael Healey, the blind attorney and orator from Fort Dodge, was pronounced splendid by all who heard it. The attractions during the afternoon, the wrestle and street sports, were good, and the ball game between Belmond and Kanawha featured that part of the program.

The game was lost by Belmond, the score being 4 to 2. There were several reasons for it, chief of which was the pitcher for Kanawha, who was especially hired for the occasion and who certainly had the goods and delivered them. Belmond played the regular team, not hiring any one, while Kanawha "loaded up" with a number of players from other places to strengthen their team and win one game from Belmond this year. Even at that had Belmond played the game they are capable of, they would have trimmed the hired outfit Kanawha sent against them. Pillmer was off, his pitching was wild, and as a result he walked several men. The boys were unable to connect with Kanawha's hired heaver's offerings, and Kanawha got next to Pillmer's curves sufficiently to win the game. Belmond was beaten by better playing on the part of Kanawha's hired players, and considering the various angles of the affair deserved to lose the game. That kind of "stuff" will lose the team every particle of support at home, and the sooner some of them realize it the better it will be.

In the evening at the exhibition of fireworks there was the largest crowd and the greatest number of cars that probably has ever been seen in the county at a celebration. Cars were parked entirely around the north side of the fair grounds, three and four rows deep, on the west side in the road they were lined up for blocks and the race track was pretty well filled with them. The fireworks were good, but the crowd became impatient waiting for them to begin, and tooted their horns and whistled and hollered.

The only criticism the writer heard of any note was that there were not sufficient police to maintain the order and keep the crowds back. In the crowd there was there should have been a number of more officers.

The celebration, however, as a whole was very successful, and the Clarion business men and citizens generally are to be congratulated upon the successful conclusion of the affair, the treatment accorded visitors and the smoothness with which the entire program was carried thru.

Most of the Belmond people who celebrated the day out of town were at the county seat, altho many of them did not go until afternoon.

FREE AIR!

The dog days are here, and you want to be on the watch for dorgs that go 'round frothing at the mouth and snapping and snarling at every one they meet.

Kanawha's Dorg has been on the rampage again and last week used seven-eighths of his little missionary sheet to read the riot act to the editor of the Independent, the town and most everybody connected with it.

It was just the same old run of snarls at somebody else, written in as mean a way as the poor Dorg knew how and containing as much personal abuse as Dorg could think up, with the aid of the rest of his gang of maudlin muckrakers, about the writer of Free Air.

Dorg says our conscience ought to bother us, for upholding a gang of robbers, thieves, pirates, cutthroats and highway bandits. Doesn't it seem odd folks, that Dorg should be talking of a conscience? How does he know whether a conscience is an animal or an insect? People who live in glass houses should be a little less careless about throwing their bricks around.

He says he hopes the manhood of the editor will some day assert itself sufficiently so that he will defend the right instead of what he knows is wrong. Wonder where Dorg found out we knew we were wrong? We might return the compliment to bro. Africa, but we haven't any hopes of him reforming—he's past redemption to all appearances.

Notice, folks, that his name is Africa. What's in a name, somebody once remarked, and usually the name is of little consequence but in this case doesn't it sound, so appropriately, like the darkest part of that benighted place?

Dorg makes us think of the old fire bell tower here: a good solid understanding, but nothing but noise at the top, and sort of cracked, too, if you've noticed.

Dorg even had something supposed to be poetry in his little peddler of woe last week telling about the dogs and cheatin' dogs in Belmond. The poetry was probably just like the author, well meaning but ignorant.

Then Dorg tells how they lost the game here Sunday, blaming it on a jinx. Kanawha, he says, outplayed us, but—.

Says a character in Shakespeare's "King Lear": "Get thee glass eyes, and, like a scurvy politician, seem to see the things thou dost not."

But every dorg has his day, even tho the nights belong to the cats, as Roosevelt said, and Dorg had his on Monday. He had to hire a team to do it, tho, as there were only four regular Kanawha players who were good enough players to be in the ring that day. Now we'll see the whole front page of Dorg's little weekly spasm devoted to telling the story. The Sunday game, which they lost, was tucked off in a back corner inside where patent medicine ads are usually run.

Tell you what, Dorg, you play your regular team, pitch the Mighty Yepson, and he's good, and Satter, and we'll pitch Pillmer and Thomas, play nothing else but home men, for a series of three games, and see which team is the best. Isn't that fair enough, Dorg? Do we hear you answer? Listen!

Yes. Dorg, you said something when you said that we believed that Kanawha had a mosly "less" brilliant Snips and Snarls editor, that they had a poor team, but we don't agree with you about the "stinking" people, for we don't judge the town by snips and snarls.

And he says that, despite this belief, they are just brazen enough and ignorant enough to go right on.

Sometimes Dorg says something really worth while. Ignorant enough is right: Ignorant and egotistic.

"Come up, bro. Rankins," says polite Dorg, "and let Dorg bite you." Thanks, Dorg for the invitation but we don't want hydroprobia.

We aren't going to monkey with you all summer, Dorg; you aren't worth it. But for your own good we thought you ought to know a few things. Probably the effort has been wasted, for what would you learn with?

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m. 1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

The Cool Minnesota Lakes For You

Ten thousand of them—clear, cold, sky blue, fringed by balsam and spruce. The picturesque shore lines are broken occasionally by clean, sandy beaches. Lake after lake is connected by winding channels or portages. Each succeeding scene seems more and more exquisite. An endless panorama of natural beauty. Minnesota is the place for you.

Every recreation: Fishing (mighty muskie, gamy bass and northern pike), sailing, motor boating, canoeing, swimming, golf, tennis, woodland hikes.

Free Camp Sites

Choice of luxurious hotels, cottages, log cabins or boarding houses. Accommodations good and prices reasonable. Descriptive and illustrated folder, "THE MINNESOTA LAKES" is yours for the asking.

Two fast steel trains to St. Paul and Minneapolis, daily

Make a complete change this year—GO TO MINNESOTA. Inquire about fares—they are reduced if you buy round trip tickets.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD

Apply Ticket Agent C. G. W. R. R.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

STOP THE BETTING

There is one thing above all others that will kill any sport or any clean and popular amusement; one thing that always has, and always will, be the beginning of the end for any pastime, and that is gambling.

It seems strange that some people to enjoy a game must wager their money on the outcome; money which they need, and which, if they do not, could be devoted to better purposes. During the past few weeks certain men of this city have made it more or less of a practice to bet on the various games that have been played by the Belmond ball team. One young man of whom the Independent has knowledge won a considerable sum each game for four weeks. The young man, and others like him, may be able to afford it when he loses, doubtless he is, but he, and others who have been making it a practice, are doing the best thing possible to kill base ball in Belmond, for with gambling the rule the public will not in the first place suport the games and in the second place will begin to shut down on them.

Betting has not been widely practiced in Belmond at all, but it has become too common for the good of the game. Cut it out; it won't get you anywhere in the end: you'll come out even, if you do that good, and it hurts the game.

The Independent has been more or less criticised for its attention to base ball, but the Independent does not believe in the tactics being followed by some of the team and fans, and if persisted in will not suport the game here.

Keep it clean from betting, play the game as it should be played, and be on the job RIGHT.

THE BOYS AND GIRLS CLUBS

What this paper believes is one of the best things the Farm Bureau ever undertook is the frmation of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs thruout the county, clubs designed to keep the younger generation interested in the agricultural business and on the farm.

Too many boys and girls drift to the city, looking for a wider vision and the higher life. Forget it. The city is not and never has been any place to live. Few great men of this nation's history came direct from the city; they were country born, the product of the farm and the small town. The boys' and girls' clubs will go far to show the young people the advantages of rural life, the opportunities and independence that lies within the grasp of each of them, if he or she will but take them.

The notable success of this work may be pointed out thru the clubs of South Dakota, the state leader of whom is Prof. Paul J. Scarbro, for nine years superintendent of the Belmond schools and who is remembered by all Belmond people. Prof. Scarbro has increased the clubs in two years in numbers from about seven thousand to nearly twenty thousand; and the members of the clubs have taken first prizes by the scores at the state fairs and county fairs of that state; their products have sold for millions of dollars; all of which has been the direct result of the fact that the boys and girls were given an interest in their daily life, in the things with which they were familiar and which they understood.

To give the farm boys and girls something which will interest them, bring the worth-whileness of agriculture home to them thru their own efforts, means that there will be fewer boys and girls leaving the farms for something indefinite and uncertain in the city. Farm work is hard work—any work done right is hard—but to work in the open, your own boss, for your own self, free to come and go when you will, has working and living in a crowded, hot noisy city, where you don't know who lives in the next room to you, beaten seven ways to Sunday. And these are the things which the boys and girls will be made to realize thru the clubs, and every business man, every professional man, and every man or woman of influence in the county should boost for the clubs; they mean better citizens, more contented citizens, and therefore a better community life for all.

CLIPPINGS

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

After an active business career of 42 years W. T. R. Humphrey has disposed of his abstract business to M. H. Austin & Son and will on July 1 retire from business. Mr. Humphrey came to Clarion in 1874 and with the exception of five years has been prominently identified with the business and political life of the community. He has always stood for a clean government, and the better things in the social and spiritual realm. A record of 17 years' attention to business at his age with but one week's vacation surely warrants him in taking the action he has.—Monitor.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

Miss Alphia Bayliss was called to her home in Belmond, Monday evening, on account of her mother being severely bitten by a dog. Her foot was the injured member and it will be quite awhile before Mrs. Bayliss will be able to use her foot again.—Meservey Register.

H. C. Johnson, L. J. Green and H. Wesenberg motored to Belmond last Thursday.Dows Independent.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Evans and Miss Mary Papousek of Des Moines were guests at the Ed. Papousek home last week. They also vitised at the Chas. Papousek home at Belmond. The ladies are sister of Ed. and Chas.—Garner Signal.

Mr. and Mrs. Byard Strieby and daughter Beatrice of Belmond, the Misses Myrtle and Ilo Strieby and Howard Strieby of Garner and Miss Elizabeth Oberton of Mechanicsville were Sunday visitors at the Ed. Shreve home.—Monitor.

Mrs. Cady Templeton spent Sunday at Rowan. Miss Nellie Pierce of Belmond accompanied her home. —Monitor.

Several people from here drove to Belmond, Sunday, to attend the ball game between Belmond and Kanawha, Belmond won by a score of 8 to 3.—Klemme Times.

Wm. Tyrrell of Belmond defeated Dr. Steele also of Belmond in a fast game of golf at the Clairmond course Friday afternoon, fifty to fifty-two. A large crowd was out to see this game. and in the beginning Dr. Steele took the lead and at one time was ahead two holes, but Mr. Tyrrell was not daunted and rapidly regained the lost ground and finished the course two holes ahead of his opponent. The boys present say it was some game. —News.

Minnie and Marie Blank went to Belmond for a visit with relatives and friends.—Times.

Mr. J. H. Thomas was up from Belmond last Thursday on business here.—Times.

Roland Runge, while digging post holes the other day, found 21 Indian arrow heads. The stone points are all in fine condition and were all in the same spot.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Russell and niece, Miss Helen Flinch, of Gray Eagle, Minnesota, were in town on Monday visiting friends. They formerly lived here and were enroute to Belmond to visit Mrs. Russell's parents.—Register.

Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and Gentle in Effect.

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

CHURCH NOTES

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

Those who were at the picnic on last Wednesday at Mr. Hinman's will not soon forget the nice time that we had. The day was ideal and the rain of the night before made every one feel good to start with. There were 173 who sat down to the table and this number with those who waited upon the tables and those who came after dinner made our number over the two hundred mark. It was a great family gathering and we are only sorry that there were some who could not come.

Every one entered into the spirit of the occasion and there was not one thing that happened to mar the pleasure of the day. The base ball game was hotly contested almost at the start and the winners had a hard time to make that one extra score which gave them the victory.

The services for next Sabbath are: Bible school at ten, and remember our mark for this quarter is an average of 125 which means 11 2-13 a Sunday more than last quarter, when we had the largest verage attendance in the history of the school. The morning worship at eleven, the evening services will be in charge of the young people, with Miss Olive Butts as leader and they will be held on the lawn of Mr. Ira Christie at eight o'clock. The evening services for the summer will be held at the different homes.

We invite all who are not obligated elsewhere to come and worship with us.

THE KING'S HERALDS ENJOY DAY

The King's Heralds, a missionary band of children from eight to 14, met Friday, June 17 at the A. W. Martin home. There were 23 children present who enjoyed the good time planned for them. Rev. Edge gave a short talk. The mystery box was conducted by Mrs. Martin in an interesting contest.

The day being Harriet's birthday the children shared her birthday cake and ice cream.

As the guests departed each one was presented with a plant prepared by Miss Harriet in honor of the occasion.

The King's Heralds have grown rapidly under the leadership of Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Claussen, having a membership now of 28 paid members. The children raised forty dollars this year for missionary work.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, July 15, at the city park.

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

THE DAMON-IGOU CO.
Mason City, Iowa

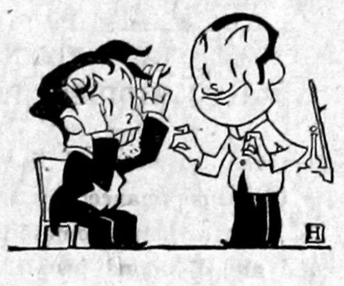
July Clearance Sale

Trade Here During This SALE and SAVE.
Specials may be found in every department.

Dry Goods
Ready-to-Wear
Millinery
Carpets
Rugs
Draperies
Shop Unique
Tea Garden
Beauty Shop
Check Rooms

SALE CONTINUES THPU THE ENTIRE MONTH
The early ones get the choice.

Nix on the "Parley-Voo" stuff!



A FRIEND of mine.
WHO COULDN'T speak.
A WORD of French.
WENT TO Paris.
AND THE first time.
HE HAD to get.
A HAIRCUT and shave.
HE PRACTICED an hour.
MAKING SIGNS.
IN THE looking glass.
SO THE French barber.
WOULD UNDERSTAND him.
AND THEN he went in.
AND WIGGLED his fingers.
THROUGH HIS hair.
AND STROKED his chin.
AND THE barber grinned.
AND FINISHED the job.
THEN MY friend thought.
HE'D BE polite.
SO HE gave the barber.
AN AMERICAN cigarette.
WHICH THE barber smoked.
AND MY friend pointed.
TO HIS mouth.
AND SAID "Likee voo."
AND THE barber roared.
AND SAID "You BET.
I USED to smoke 'em.
WHEN I worked.
IN INDIANAPOLIS.
AND BELIEVE me.
THEY SATISFY!"

HERE'S a smoke that talks in any language and needs no interpreter. Light up a Chesterfield, draw deep—and more plainly than words your smile will tell the world "They Satisfy". It's the blend that does it—and you can't get "Satisfy" anywhere except in Chesterfields, for that blend can't be copied!

Air-Tight Tins of 50
Ask your dealer to show you the new vacuum-sealed tins of 50 Chesterfields. A compact, convenient and absolutely AIR-TIGHT packing—the cigarettes keep fresh indefinitely.

They Satisfy
Chesterfield
CIGARETTES
Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

WEDDINGS

A pretty and fashionable wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents on the morning of Wednesday June 29th. The contracting parties were Miss Huldah Fern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Westaby of Alexander, and William August, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Jakobs of Alexander. The home was artistically decoated for the occasion, the ceremony being performed under an arch of lillies by Rev. Harold Tomkinson, pastor of the M. E. church at Rowan. The bride was attended by her sister Mary Westaby, while Jesse Westaby supported the groom. After a delicious wedding dinner had been served the happy couple left for an automobile trip to Illinois and Wisconsin. The grooms gift to the bride was a beautiful ring, and the bride's gift to the groom was a piece of gold. Mr. and Mrs. Jakobs, who are well known in this vicinity, have the best wishes of a host of friends. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Jakobs will reside three miles east of Rowan on the farm recently purchased by the groom.

ROWAN M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Section three of the Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church, consisting of Mrs. D. E. Harris, Mrs. Willard McCallum, Mrs. T. Hansen, Mrs. A, Hackley, Mrs. Frank Kercheval, Mrs. H. Tomkinson, Mrs. Eva Lindsay and Miss Nora Shaffer held a pleasant and profitable ice cream sociable on the church grounds last Wednesday. The proceeds of the social amounted to nearly $24.

The morning service at the M. E. church last Sunday morning was of a patriotic nature, the choir rendering "America the Beautiful," and an anthem, "Let the People Praise Thee." The pastor took as his subject 'America the Beautiful,'" and urged a less spectacular patriotism and a more sacred sense of our duties and privileges as Americans The church was full. At the union service in the evening the Congregational pastor brought the message. The choir rendered "Crossing the Bar whilst Mrs. A O Pelley sang "The Perfect Day."

Service will be conducted in the Methodist church next Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev Harold Tomkinson, the Sunday school session being held at the close. The union service in the evening will be in the Congregational church and the speaker will be the pastor of the M. E. church.

A party of Rowan friends went to Clear Lake last Friday and had a most enjoyable time. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. T. Hansen and family, F. B. Sheldon, Mrs. Guy Sheldon, Mr and Mrs. A. C. Rietz, Mrs. Henry Rietz, Rev George and Mrs. Stephens of Deloit, and Rev. and Mrs. H. Tomkinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Pelley and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Haupt

The following intend to start out on a two weeks' camping trip thru Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan next Monday: Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Sheldon, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheldon and family and Rev. and Mrs. Tomkinson.

The local tennis club have been invited to play a game next Thursday on the new courts at Eagle Grove. The Eagle Grove club have just built three new courts and a new pavilion at a cost of $12,000.

Wednesday the following people enjoyed a picnic at Lake Cornelia: Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Heath, Mrs. O. E. Ballou and daughter LaVonne, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. C. Box and daughter Blanch, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Azeltine and family, Mr and Mrs. Howard Box and the Misses Celia and Hazel Azeltine. They report a fine time.

A party of young folks enjoyed a picnic at Lake Cornelia on Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Harris of Des Moines motored to Rowan, Sunday, to visit relatives. They returned home Monday. They are nicely settled in Des Moines in a nice part of the resident district and enjoy the city.

The Iowa township farm bureau Community club will hold their regular monthly social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Veeder. The north section will entertain this time. A program will be given.

A large number of Rowan people attended the celebration at Clarion Monday.

Last Thursday night thieves broke into the general store owned by D. W. Whitten and took his silk goods, silk hose and silk petticoats. The loss amounts to between two and three hundred dollars. They tried to get in thru the cellar window at first but when they coudnd't get up stairs they forced one of the back wisdows and gained entrance that way.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ballou of Fort Dodge came Sunday to visit relatives at this place and to spend the Fourth at Clarion. They returned home Monday night.

Mrs. Fred Kercheval and baby spent several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval. Fred has been helping his brother put up hay.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L Howell and children returned from Humboldt on Saturday. They spent Sunday at the home of his brother J. F. Howell and family.

Friday the following people enjoyed the day at Clear Lake: Mr. and Mrs. Will Duffy and family, Mrs. Berryhill. Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Heath, Mr. and Mrs Hugh Whitten and family, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Box, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Emerson and family and the Misses Ruth and Esther Emerson, Frances Farran and Mae Virden. A fine time is reported.

Friday night the following fellows enjoyed the wrestling match at Garner: Fred Hackley, Will Whitten, D. W. Whitten, Frank Retcliff, J. F. Howell, James Rowen, Harold Virder and O. F. Braden. Frank Retcliff James Rowen, O. F. Braden and Harold Virden took the 40 and 8 during the day.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

Morning service at 11:00.
Sunday school at 12:00.
Christian Endeavor at 7:00.

Union service of the Congregational and M. E. churches at the Congregational church at 8:00 p m.

Junior Christian Endeavor will meet Wednesday afternoon of each week at the Cong. church at 2:30.

The midweek meeting will be held each Wednesday evening at 8:00.

There was a good attendance at the baptismal and communion services Sunday morning.

Be sure and hear the Rev. Tomkinson and Rev. Nye Sunday July tenth at the Rowan Cong. church.

Rev. Nye will deliver a sermon on "The Two Heavens." Be sure and hear this and bring your friends.

The Missionary society was held last Friday at the Cong. manse. The attendance was good and the study of the American Indian was the topic of the day. Mrs. J. F. Howell was the leader.

Be sure ad attend the union services Sunday evening at eight. Rev. Tomkinson will deliver the sermon at this service which will be held at the Cong. church.

The Christian Endeavors will hold a Sun Rise meeting Sunday morning, July tenth at seven-thirty a. m. All the young people are requested to be present at this service on the church lawn next Sunday morning.

Rev. Nye delivered a patriotic address on "Our Nation" at the union meeting held in the M. E. church last Sunday evening.

The Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Hugh Whitten last Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance and a fine supper was served. $20 was realized from this supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Toyne, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Toyne and baby of Carrol came Wednesday to spend the Fourth at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Toyne.

Saturday night just before work closed for the day Chester Bailey had the misfortune of getting his right hand crushed. He was hurried to Dr. George at Dows to have it dressed. It wil lay him off from work for some time.

Sunday morning another team ran away which belonged to the men who are hauling reinforcing steel for the bridge west of town on the new state road. Not much damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Zeigler of Sioux City came Saturday to visit at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hadley and Mr. and Mrs. Walt Whitten and other friends. Mrs. Zeigler will be remembered to Rowan friends as Miss Blanch Howe, who taught in our Rowan schools for some time.

The Misses Dollie Riley and Bernice Bailey went to Belmond, Saturday, to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Bailey.

There are nine cars of workmen on the C. G. W. tracks laying ties. The Rock Island section men are unloading ties in Belmond, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper Reasoner and baby of Minnesota came Saturday to spend the Fourth with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey.

Charley Ball, who is foreman on the Rock Island section, returned to work Saturday after a two weeks vacation. Mr. George Sheilds who has been working in Mr. Balls place went to his home at Council Bluffs to spend the Fourth but expects to come back to Rowan to work.

John, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howell, fell from a bed Saturday striking his head and cutting the forehead so it required a stitch to be taken in it. He is getting along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Underdahl went to Rake, Saturday, to spend the Fourth and also play ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson and family were Belmond callers Friday.

Frank Snyder was a Clarion visitor Tuesday.

Laura McCallum was a Clarion visitor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Bingham of Iowa Falls visited relatives in Rowan on Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bingham and family were Dows shopeprs Thursday.

Miss Wilda Whitten returned from St. Peter, Minn., Wednesday, She was been visiting her sister, Mrs. Jurden Brinkman.

Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver and baby Kenneth, Mrs J. F. Howell and children were Thursday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Carmon and daughter Adelaide went to Prescott, Wis., Wednesday to spend the Fourth with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs Fred Williams and family went to Hayfield, Monday to visit his sister, Mrs. Peter Schreck and family. They returned home on Saturday

Wilford Carmon who has been visiting at DeSmet, S. D., for the past few weeks returned home Tuesday. John Larson, a brother of Alfred Larson of the Larson & Carmon garage, returned with him for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz of Clarion visited Friday at the home of their daughter Mrs. Gay Fletcher. Mrs. J. A. Whitten and daughters were Dows shopers Friday.

Mr. Virden has screened the front porch to his house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Braden. This is a decided improvement.

Carl Swensen and family visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Steffens one day last week.

Lewis Hearn of Dumont visited at the home of his sister Mrs, Clarence Johnson and family one day last week.

Mrs. B. Berryhill of LaPort is visiting at the R. R. Duffy and Will Duffy homes this week.

Rev. and Mrs. George Stevens and family of Deloit came Wednesday to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rietz, thru the month of July.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Pelley spent Thursday at Clear Lake.

Clarence Williams who is working in the post office department at Washington D. C., came Saturday to spend his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Williams and with other relatives.

The Legion ball team played at Clarion, Sunday, defeating them 2 to 0.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan McBurney of Popejoy spent the Fourth at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tice Streveler.

The school board held a business meting July 1. J. F. Howell was elect ed janitor of the school house for the coming year.

HAMPTON PEOPLE HAVE LUCKY AUTO ESCAPE

Recorder: Vivian Ruble and a companion narrowly escaped serious injury and Dean Hobbie, ten-yearold son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hobbie, and Robert Coonley, son of J. E. Coonley experienced a miraculous getaway from being killed, when on Tuesday noon a Ford car driven by Ruble drashed into a tree.

Young Ruble and his companion were driving west at a high rate of speed when a tire blew out. In order to avoid a collision with an approaching car Ruble gave his Ford a sudden turn to the left causing the machine to run up on the parking of the Hobbie lawn where it hit a tree. The sudden stop of the machine threw the two occupants out a distance of a rod or two from the car. Directly on the other side of the tree the two boys, Dean and John, were sitting on the ground engaged in boyish conversation. It was only the presence of the tree that saved them from injuries that would have proven fatal.

At a hearing before Mayor John H. Darrah and City Attorney Sharpe, Ruble was assessed $25 and trim mings for speeding, the fine being made lighter because of the fact that the ordinance violator immediately went to the mayor's office and confessed his guilt voluntarily. The car was damaged to a considerable extent and the bark of the tree badly peeled.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Magazine Agency

BELMOND, IOWA

DON'T let your Magazine Subscription run out just when you are in the midst of an interesting article or a thrilling story.

I take orders for any magazine published, both new subscriptions and renewals.

Why wait or bother to write into the company yourself when I can take care of your subscription for you at any time?

R. A. RANKINS

Phone 115 or 196

The Belmond Independent Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

JULY SHOE SALE

Now you can buy plenty of good shoes at

Reduced Prices

We Are Having Another Big Shoe Sale

STARTS THURSDAY

July 7th

LASTS 10 DAYS

In this sale EVERY HIGH and LOW SHOE IN THIS STORE WILL BE REDUCED IN PRICE. You'll find all the bargains you want. Come--fit out your family and tell your friends.

COME EARLY

WOODRUFF SHOE CO.

115 N. Federal

Mason City, Iowa

DR. SCHOOL, Foot Expert

Here July 9th, 11th, 12th

ROUTE ONE

Harvesting has begun in this vicinity and the farmers are very much surprised as the oats are not as good as they looked to be.

Arthur Storm and son are guests at the C. J. Schmalle home,

The Independent Threshing Machine company held their annual meeting at the S. A. Anderson farm last Friday evening. S. A. Bohning was re-elected president, O. D. Jenison re-elected secretary and Earl Jenison elected time keeper.

A family reunion and picnic was held at the home of S. A. Bohning on July 4.

The Pleasant township school board held their anual meeting at the Belmond Savings Bank on July 1.

KANAWHA NEWS ITEMS

T. L. Johnson of Clear Lake was a business caller here Wednesday.

Miss Viva Rourk who has been attending summer school at Cedar Falls returned home Saturday.

Merle Hartwig who is employed at Des Moines came Saturday for a short visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hartwig.

Mrs. Fred Knudsen left Wednesday for Iowa Falls for a visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. E. F. Newell.

Alvin Hanson of Sioux Falls, S. D. arrived the latter part of last week for a visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Hanson.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy of Fort Dodge are guests at the Ole Peterson home this week.

Harold Peterson who is employed at Fort Dodge is visiting here with relatives and friends.

Mr. Bowles of Algona was a business caller here on Thursday.

Miss Alpha Bamford of Mason City came Saturday for a visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Bamford.

SHEFFIELD MERCHANT TAKES OWN LIFE

Hampton Recorder: Fred Fruedenberg, a well known and popular merchant of Sheffield, committed suicide Saturday morning by slashing his throat with a razor almost from ear to ear. His lifeless body was discovered by his wife in the hayloft of the barn just before the noon hour when she went to the structure to call him for dinner.

Mr. Fruedenberg has been in ill health for some time and recently consulting with a physician was told that his affliction was cancer on the liver. The thoughts of the dreadful malady with no hope for recovery completely unnerved him and he became despondent and it is believed was temporarily insane when he committed the dreadful act.

The deceased was about fifty-five years of age and had been a resident of this county for many years. He was well known and highly esteemed and his death cast a dark shadow over the community. He had been engaged in the mercantile trade at Sheffield for several years, having purchased a store there that for a long time was owned by Mr. Young and was counted among the prosperous merchants of Sheffield.

HERE'S NEW SALAD PLANT

Chinese Celery cabbage, or Pe Tsia, is a good vegetable for the summer gardens of Iowa, according to C. V. Holsinger of the extension department of Iowa State College. Not only does it grow wherever cabbage or lettuce does but it resembles the head lettuce and cabbages but tastes more like celery than like cabbage, which makes it a desireable salad plant.

This plant should not be planted before the summer is well along as it is a hot weather crop. It does the best when the seed is started in a hot bed and then the plants transplanted. It should be put into a hotbed that is either rich or else has been given a liberal dressing of manure, preferable chicken manure.

After planting, the celery cabbage must be kept growing as fast as possible and irrigation is desirable where water is available. The plants begin to head up naturally about October 1 and do not require any tying They soon become firm, similar to cabbages and are then ready to use. They are subject to frost injury but if taken up and placed in a cool cellar the celery cabbage is easily kept for six or eight weeks.

Mature reads will weigh as much as two or three pounds. The interior leaves will be creamy white and free from fibre and with the celery flavor make desireable salad ingredients.

Belmond Local News

Harry Webb was home for a few days last week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Webb. He returned to his charge at Wallingford on Saturday.

—I—

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Martin.

—I—

Mrs. Rieke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bettin of the Case hotel, left recently for New York city, where she expects to take a course in music and vocal training. Mrs. Rieke is an accomplished singer and with this extra training will be one of the best. Her two children will remain here with their grandparents.

—I—

Harry Wolle was an over Sunday visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mr. W. H. Wolle, returning with Carl.

—I—

Louis Rierson has resigned his position at the Standard Oil station and Joe Graham is now employed there.

Miss Wallace of Goldfield, who spent the winter with her brother, T. B. Wallace here, was among the out of town visitors present at the Rebekah convention last week, remaining over Sunday with her brother.

—I—

Mr. asd Mrs. Ollie Kleinschrodt and two children from Fairmont, Minnesota, drove to Belmond by auto last week to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Kleinschrodt over Sunday. They returned to their home on Monday by way of Swea City, on the Rock Island as it was his parents' car that he drove down with. They were accompanied here by Olle Kleinschrodt's uncle, D. C. Hunter, a brother of Mrs. P. Kleinschrodt. Both men are farmers so their time was limited. Mrs. Joseph Patton of Rowan was also one of the party on the trip here. She had been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Gill, at Fairmont for the past two months.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Moore returned on Saturday to their home at Lidderdale, after a visit here at the home of their son, Howard, and family.

GREAT WESTERN CHANGES TIME

A new time table goes into effect July 3rd. The time of trains has been adjusted with particular reference to summer tourist traffic, reduced rates for which and special convention arrangements are now in effect.

For additional information apply Ticket Agent Chicago Great Western Railroad.

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, coedine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

SCHULTZ DRUG CO.

If You Can't Swim----Why Take Chances?

You Can Purchase

LIFESAVERS

from us at a reasonable cost.

WE MAKE THEM IN ALL SIZES

A Lifesaver Is Just the Thing for the Children.

Take a Lifesaver with you on your next viiit to the lake.

CHRIST RISE

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

Specials

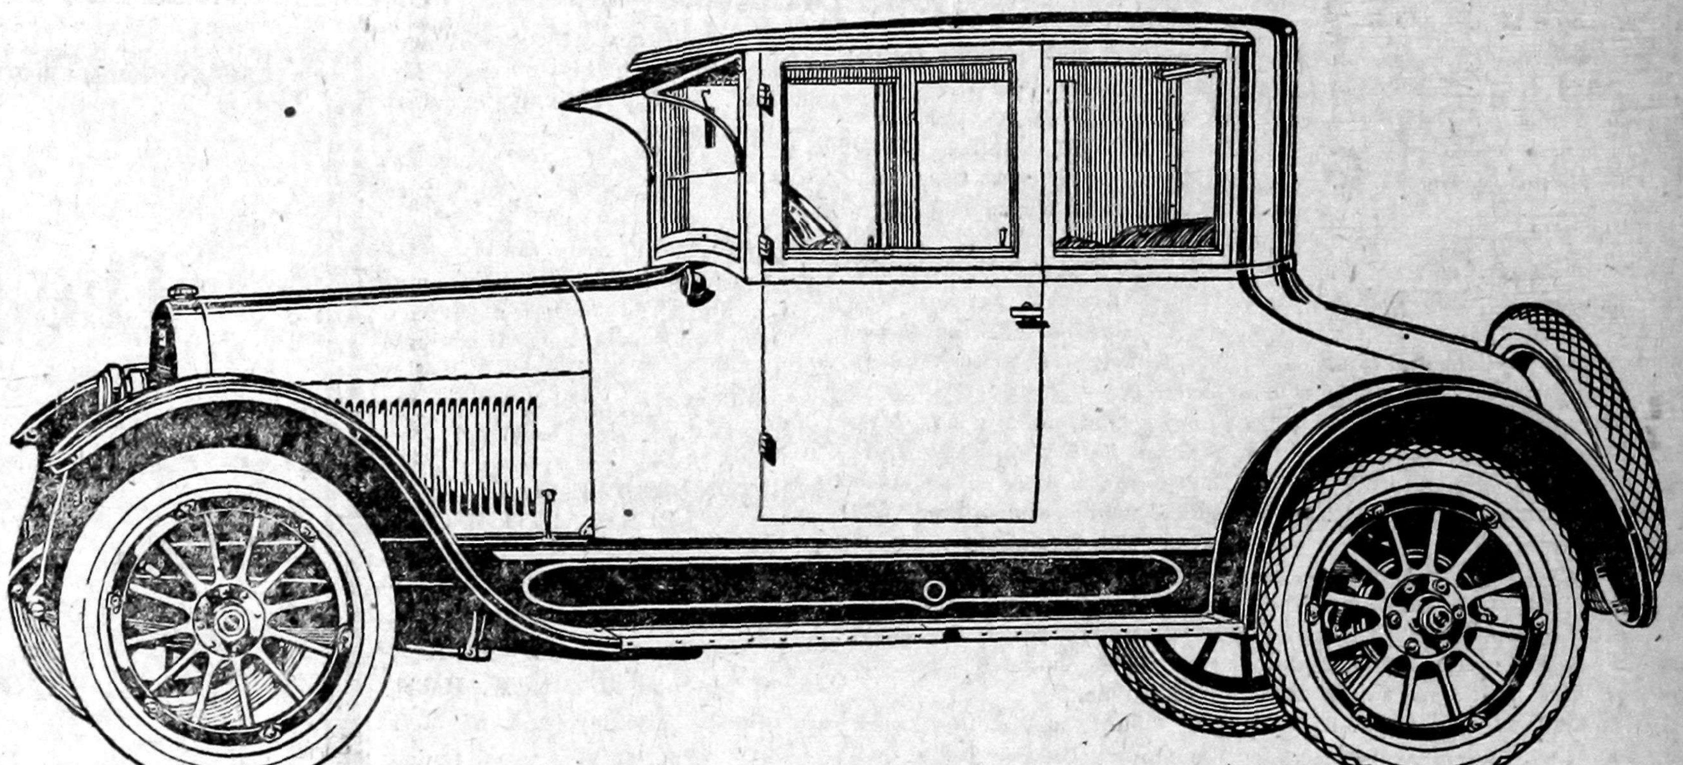
Bread, per loaf	10c
Jell, per glass	10c
4 lbs. rice, fancy head	25c
3 pkgs macaroni for	25c
3 12-cent pkgs corn flakes	25c
50c bottle nector for	40c
Peaberry coffee, 12 lbs for	$1.00
25c Percale for	19c

Ladies' and Men's Underwear and Hosiery at a good price.

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30

We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings



Buy A Buick and Be Satisfied

MOTOR INN

Ray P. Morris Alfred Swensen

Phone 97

AUTHORIZED VALVE IN HEAD Buick MOTOR CARS SERVICE

Emblem of Satisfaction

Belmond Local News

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

—I—

Alex McGregor of Des Moines was a visitor here last week

—I—

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Miss Hazel Thomas leaves this week for points in Michigan where she plans to spend a few weeks visiting at the homes of relatives and friends.

—I—

Albin Johnson of Hampton was in town one day last week on business matters. He was accompanied by his little son, and the son stayed at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs Gus Johnson, during the day.

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

Miss Rowland, who taught music in the school here last year has accepted a position at Topeka, Kansas, teaching music. She is in the employ of the government at that place.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Greenfild and daughter were Alexander visitors one day last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinbicht and family spent the week end and the Fourth with relatives at Britt.

—I—

Mrs. Amy Peterson and Miss Oralee Brooks returned last Friday from Cedar Falls where they have been attending summer school. They attend the first term.

—I—

Ed. V. Price $60 suits now selling at $30—a big saving to you.—New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of hotel.

—I—

Paul Northrop, who is employed in the office of the newspaper at Parkersburg, spent the week end in town here with old friends. He celebrated the Fourth at Mason City and Clear Lake with some friends from Parkersburg.

—I—

A couple of auto accidents occurred here the Fourth, neither of them of serious consequences.

—I—

Miss Belle Brewer of Walker, Iowa, is a guest at the home of her brother, Wm. Brewer, and family.

—I—

E. S. Fyler was a business caller at the county seat on Thursday of last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lewis were visitors here the first of the week with relatives and friends. They are now residing at Mason City, moving to that place from here last year.

—I—

The Misses Marie Leavy and Bessie Quigley returned last week from Cedar Falls where they have been attending summer school.

One of the interesting exhibitions at the celebration at Clarion was an exhibit of corn. The prize winning stalk was grown by a young lad on the southeast of that town, and was planted on May 5. It was exactly ten feet five inches tall, which for two months is certainly some corn.

—I—

NOTICE!

There was a mistake in a Panama hat at the Belmond Tailor Shop. Will the party who got the wrong one please call 28?—F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Eaton and family moved Tuesday of this week to the residence on Water street known as the Norm Thompson place.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snyder of Newton, Iowa, drove to Belmond last Saturday to spend the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Snyder and with other relatives and friends here. Carl returned to his duties on Tuesday and his wife went on to Winona, Minnesota, for a visit there with her folks.

—I—

We are now prepared to give you big discounts on E. V. Price tailor made suits. Discounts as high as $30 off original prices.—New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of Case hotel.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Bettin were entertaining her brother from Wisconsin one day last week

—I—

Mrs. Robbins returned last week Saturday from her trip to California.

—I—

T. O. Letch of Goodell was a Belmond caller last week on matters of business.

—I—

The Rev. M. O. Insko of Lucknow, India, was a caller at the Methodist parsonage between trains on Saturday of last week. Mr. Insko and his family expect to spend several days on his return with Rev. Edge and family, as they were class mates at college.

Conrad Nissen was a business caller at Mason City on Wedneday of last week.

—I—

Prof. Fyler went to Des Moines on Tuesday afternoon of this week to attend an educational meeting held at that place this week.

—I—

The members of Congregational Sunday school enjoyed a fine picnic at the Hinman farm last week Wednesday.

—I—

A few second hand Fords at real bargains, in first class running order. —Belmond Auto Co.

—I—

Morse Lake is certainly becoming a busy spot these hot evenings and any night will find from fifty to a hundred bathers there. With the erection of more cottages the lake is becoming quite a resort.

—I—

Maude Newgard and Viva Rourk returned last Saturday from their attendance at summer school at Cedar Falls.

—I—

AUTO BUS TO MORSE LAKE

50c round trip—two trips each evening, five o'clock and seven o'clock. Phone 20.—C. J. Johnson Garage.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Martin, Miss Harriet Martin and Miss Helen Luick spent the Fourth at Clarion, returning to Morse Lake in the evening where they were joined by A. E. Martin and family Mr. and Mrs. Rosecrans, Geo. Elder and family, H. L. Gowdy and family, all enjoying a delicious picnic supper, after which they had their own fireworks display at the lake.

—I—

The Fourth is all over and a lot of Belmond people are recovering from the effects of celebrating. Most local folks went to Clarion to the doings there, a few went to Clear Lake and a number spent the day picnicing at the lake, and these latter ones probably had the best time.

A few second hand Fords at real bargains. In first class running order.—Belmond Auto Co.

—I—

Menno Frohling has been enjoying a visit from his uncle from Illinois the past week.

—I—

Word was received here the first of the week of the death at his home in Ionia, Michigan, of Judge Allan B. Morse a brother of Willard and R. C. Morse of this place and well remembered by many of the Belmond people. Judge Morse had been active in poltiics many years and was 81 years of age at his death.

—I—

The local ball team will meet the team from Ackley on the local field this coming Sunday July tenth. The Ackley team has been playing some fast ball, according to reports, winning practically all of their games and the team is composed of all local men with the exception of their pitcher, which makes the two teams line up about the same and should mean a good game.

—I—

E. S. Fyler and wife enjoyed a family reunion and picnic on the Fourth of July at Clear Lake, relatives being there from various parts of the state for the occasion. An enjoyable time is reported.

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

—I—

Melvin Soma who has been working for Ed. Hauge was caught in a mower recently when the team he was driving ran away and the young man was more or less severely cut and bruised.

ROBINSON'S

Bread, three 10c loaves	25c
Black Tea, per lb.	40c
Sugar - -	$7.25
Rolled Oats, bulk, 5 pounds for -	25c
Fancy Prunes, per lb.	10c
Extra Fancy Prunes	12½ c
Corn and tomatoes, per can -	10c
Pears, No. 2½ can -	20c
Apricots, No. 2½ -	20c
Coffee -	15c

Next Week's Dance Program AT Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday July 12 and July 15

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices.

If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

Cheating the Fly

Spring brings flies and flies bring trouble to the plowman and his horses. A half dozen persistent horse flies can ruin the pulling power of the best team.

The Fordson heeds not the flies. Its steady, powerful pull is the same in and out of fly time. And for the spring and fall plowing it handles the specially built Oliver Plow as only a good plow can be handled.

Present conditions demand that use be made of every efficient method of crop production this year. Fordson farming has cut costs for thousands of other farmers. It will do the same for you.

There are special Oliver Plows built to work with the Fordson in all soils.

BELMOND AUTO CO.

Louis Tokman PHONE 108 G. F. Heginger

Lyric

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY
JULY 6 and 7
"MADAME X"
A Goldwyn picture featuring
PAULINE FREDERICK

America's most distinguished emotional actress, in the role of the unfortunate woman whose very name has been lost and who went on trial for murder under the title of "Madame X."

11c and 30c

FRIDAY, JULY 8
"THE MARRIAGE OF WILLIAM ASHE"
A Metro picture featuring
MAY ALLISON
11c and 25c

SATURDAY, JULY 9
"SHE COULDN'T HELP IT"
A Realart picture featuring
BEEBE DANIALS
11c and 25c

MONDAY and TUESDAY
JULY 11 & 12
"THE FASHION FLOWER"
A First National picture featuring
NORMA TALMADGE

A picture with all the fire of Spain, created by Jacinto Benaventa, greatest of Spanish dramatists and glowing from the screen as an epic of emotion.

In this picture Norma Talmadge is wonderful as the Spanish beauty for whom men fought. You'll smile, you'll sob love with her love and hate with her hate.

11c and 30c

Beginning Monday, July 11 we will only show four nights each week, Monday and Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

HIGH PRICED COAL
INFERIOR GRADE OF COAL
DELAY IN FILLING ORDERS

These are the three things you will face next winter if you delay in buying your winter's supply.

The Weekly Production of Coal Is 3,000,000 Tons Short

You know what that will mean---coal scarce and high in price. The railroads have added no new cars, and but very few of the old cars have been repaired; there is no prospect of freight rate reductions; coal will not only be scarce but hard to get.

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE---BUY NOW!

We earnestly urge you to BUY NOW. Don't Delay---the longer you wait the harder it will be to get coal and the higher the price will be. BUY NOW! Be assured your home will be heated next winter, and at the same time save you money.

Come In and Ask Us.

BELMOND LUMBER COMPANY

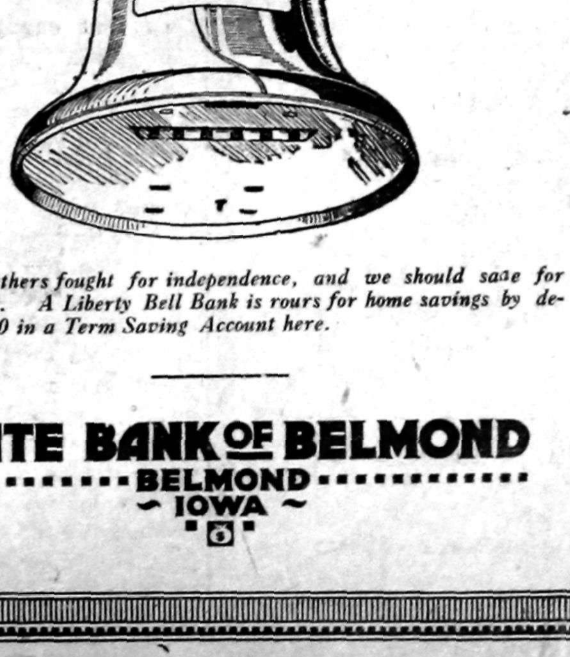
M. H. HANSON, Mgr.

STRENGTH SERVICE

Secure Your Savings

Each year thousands of people of small means lose what little money they have saved, thru investing it in something that looks like a "get-rich quick" opportunity.

For the person of small means, this Bank offers security of principal, certainty of 5 per cent compound interest return and availability of funds when needed.



Our forefathers fought for independence, and we should save for independence. A Liberty Bell Bank is yours for home savings by depositing $1.00 in a Term Saving Account here.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Here's Good News, Men!

Gildner's July Clearance

STARTS THURSDAY, JULY 7

Ends Saturday, July 16

Here's a chance to save, men. We're putting some real prices on goods we want to move quickly. You'll find our regular standard lines on sale and not a bunch of stuff bought especially for a sale.

Not everything in the store is on sale, but there is such an array of seasonable things that are, that you can't afford to miss this chance. Many lines will go at prices that shout. If prices talk they'll go in a hurry.

Four Big Lots Three-Piece Suits

$23.85 $28.85 $35.85 $38.85

See these and dozens of other bargains.

Get To Know

GILDNER BROS.

Iowa's Largest Clothiers

Mason City, - Iowa

Home of Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes

To the Housewives:

Who like to serve good meals and who like to eat good meals but do not have the time for baking, let me do your baking for you.

Every kind of Home Made Bake Stuffs made in my kitchen and sent direct to you warm from the oven. Phone in orders at any time and in any quantity.

Do These Taste Good to You?

Rich Devils, Food Cakes, Nut Cakes Angel Food Cakes, White Cakes, Ginger Creams, Cookies, Bread and Pies.

I also operate a Woman's Exchange, Selling Your Work for 20 per cent.

MISS MARY GEALOW

Second House East of Klemme's Lumber Office

Belmond, Iowa Phone 316

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

POULTRY CULLING SCHOOL

The poultry culling school of instruction which was held at Ames, June 27 to July 1 was attended by nearly every county agent in the state also many other people who are particularly interested in the pountry industry. This school was conducted by some of the ablest poultry experts in the state and the instructions given out were highly beneficial to those in attendance. Any one who took the five day's course of instruction will be equipped to cull the farm flocks and discard the non-laying hens.

The local county agent spent two days taking this course of instructions in the culling work and expects to conduct the culling work himself this season.

JULY BUSY MONTH

July will be a very busy month for the county agent in conducting a series of forty-eight demonstrations in the county. Arrangements have been made to place three poultry culling demonstrations in each township and it has been planned so as to conduct three demonstrations each day, one demonstration in the forenoon beginning at 1:00 o'clock and the second at 3:30.

Those who attend the culling demonsrations are earnestly urged not to come "dolled up" in their best clothes because those who wish to get the most out of the demonstration must necessarily come prepared to handle the birds themselves. Those whose flocks are to be culled are asked to make sure that the rule will be followed in conducting the demonstration. The following sched-birds are in coops on the day of the poultry culling demonstrations:

Belmond, Juy 14; Pleasant township July 15; Iowa July 18; Blaine July 19; Vernon July 20; Wa;ll Lake July 21; Woolstock July 22; Troy July 25; Eagle Grove July 26; Liberty July 27; Boone August 1; Norway August 2; Dayton August 3; Lake August 4 Grant August; 5; Lincoln, August 8.

A complete scedule showing the dates and places for holding the demonstrations will be sent out as soon as all townships have reported back the place for holding the demonstrations.

POOLING WRIGHT COUNTY WOOL

Wool growers in Wright county will be interested to know that arrangements are being made for pooling the entire wool crop of the county on July 28 and 29.

It has been decided that in order to save freight charges on the entire shipment it would be better to ship from one point so as to make up a carload lot in shipping. Since Clarion is the most centrally located shipping point all sonsignors are asked to bring their wool to Clarion for shipment on either July 28 or 29.

A new supply of wool twine and sacks has arrived at the county agent office and those who are still in need of twine or sacks should write or call the county agent.

CREATING THE WRONG IMPRESSION

Certain organizations which are not friendly toward the Farm Bureau and the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., are bending every effort to spread propoganda thru the newspapers and other sources in an effort to creat a wrong impression regarding the amount of money paid the men who have been elected to organize the grain growers movement in each state.

Wild reports have come out to the effect that the state organizers have contracts which provide for salaries ranging from $3,000 to $10,000 per year but the fact of the matter is that each state organizer is to be allowed $10.00 per day and he to pay his own expenses from this amount while he is out engaged in the org tion work.

Let us stop for a moment and think what the actual expenses per day of a man would be in the average city and then think of the small amount which he would have left for his services in carrying on the organization work, and remember also that he is paid only for the days when he is actually engaged in carrying on the organization work.

The organizations which are most bitterly opposed to the U. S. Grain Growers movement have spent many years working out the system which is now used for handling the grain products of the country and they will naturally fight to the last ditch to prevent any change being made in the marketing system of grain in this country Those who believe in the U. S. Grain Growers movement must bear in mind that those organizations which are opposed to this movement have one of the keenest and shrewest writers at the head of their publicity department and in addition to this they have millions of dollars at their disposal for publicity thru the public press to poison the farmers' minds against the .U S. Grain Growers movement, which, if developed, will be a death blow to certain other interests.

COUNTY AGENT LEADER BACK

I. W. Van Nice, assistant county agent leader for northwest Iowa, will be in Wright county July 11 and 12 to address the farm bureau members of Lake and Grant townships.

Grant township farmers are to be favored with an address from Mr. Van Nice on the evening of Monday, July 11, and Lake township on the evening of Tuesday, July 12. Those who have heard Mr. Van Nice before will be glad to know that he is returning to the county. Mr. Van Nice was a practical farmer himself up until a few months ago and for this reason his talks are always interesting and practical.

LINCOLN ICE CREAM SOCIAL

About 250 Lincoln township Farm Bureau members gathered on the lawn of the O. P. Morton home on Friday evening, July 1 to enjoy the ice cream social which had been planned for some time.

The people of Lincoln township decided to make this a strictly social affair and the business part of the meeting was omitted entirely. The evening was unusually cool for this time of year and everyone seemed to enjoy the open air festival immensely.

The feature of the evening was the ice cream eating contest which was arranged to determine which person had the greatest capacity for the frozen product. The laurels for this contest went to Miller Isenhart. We have no report as yet as to the appetite of this man but we presume that he is fed up for a few days.

This meeting of farmers in a community social is strong evidence of the fact that the people in the rural districts are beginning to realize the value of meeting one another and talking over things which are of common interest to all. These community gatherings build for community co-operation and community cooperation means better homes and better citizenship.

LIVE CLUB MEETING

Miss Thora E. Larsen of Dayton township, with the assistance of county agent Edwards and Miss Hazel Spencer, county club leader, organized a girls' club Friday afternoon, July 1 at the home of John Larsen.

The county agent opened the meeting, giving briefly the purpose of the club work in the county and also the advantages to the club member, to the home and to the community. Miss Spencer then took charge of the meeting and explained in detail the general plan of the girls' club schedule which has been arranged for the year's work.

At the close of the meeting the girls elected their own officers and appointed committees for the coming year.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Thora Larsen on Friday, July 15.

Plans for Marketing Grain

A Des Moines news dispatch under date of June 23 has the following information regarding plans of the U. S. Grain Growers Corporation for handling the farmers' grain:

A. L. Middleton, of Eagle Grove, director, and Frank M. Myers, of Fort oDdge secretary of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., have just announced definite plans for the introduction of this farmer-controlled marketing organization to the grain growers of Iowa. Mr. Middleton will act as state organizer and have personal charge of the membership campaign.

A general meeting of heads of the various farm organizations will be held in Des Moines on or about June 29. Arrangements for the active solicitation of co-operative elevators and individual members will be made at this time and each organization will be asked to nominate a number of competent farmers to act as solicitors in this work. Final selection of solicitors will be made by the state organizer.

Mr. Middleton stated further that the preliminary work of speaking at meetings over the state in explaining the U. S. Grain Growers to the stockholders and boards of directors of the co-operative elevators would be handled by a committee consisting of A. W. Carver, Muscatine; B. E. Morton, Rockwell City, and himself.

A state school for training solicitors will be held in Des Moines about July 10 to 15. At this time directors of the U. S. Grain Growers will discuss the aims and policies of the organization. A member of the legal department from Chicago will also attend and explain the contracts and answer all legal questions.

At the completion of the training school the solicitors will be sent out over the state canvassing the co-operative elevators. The elevators will be asked to sign a contract with the U S. Grain Growers agreeing to deliver the grain of the farmers who later become members to its nati[illegible] [illegible] Mr. Middleton intimated that it would take four or five weeks to complete the work with the elevators. As soon as inroads have been made in this phase of the campaign solcitors will canvass the individual grain growers, by which the farmers contract to deliver their grain to the U. S. Grain Growers for a period of five years with an option of four different methods of disposal.

DIG POTATOES EARLY

It pays to dig potatoes early, according to experiments carried on by C. V. Holsinger, horticultural extension specialist of Iowa State college. Mr. Holsinger is of the opinion that even tho the tops are quite green, potatoes can be dug and saved for winter use to advantage.

Mr. Holsinger one year harvested a crop of potatoes from two acres of Early Ohios during the first part of July. They were thrown out with a plow and allowed to remain only long enough for them to dry thoroly before being placed in a dark cellar and spread over the floor to a depth of about 15 inches. They kept well and by fall had shriveled only a little because of a lack of humidity.

At another time Mr. Holsinger dug a crop of potatoes on June 21. They were so mature that the skins slipped in handling. After being dried they were stored in stalled crates in a dark place. This crop kept perfectly.

If early potatoes are not dug until fall, the warm weather during the summer makes them watery and reduces their quality. Scab will work on the skin of the tubers and grub worm and other pests will feed on them.

THINGS TO BE DONE IN JULY

Can garden products now. Don't wait until the garden vegetables are too mature. They should be canned when young and fresh. July is the month to preserve vegetables. Send to the extension service of the state college for bulletins dealing with canning and preserving. Information will be gladly furished.

Hogs, being covered with a thick coat of flesh and not being equipped with sweating processes to cool the body, are in a hard way when the excessively hot weather arrives. Shade, a sanitary hog wallow and plenty of fresh water to drink, will largely help the hog out of his difficulties at this time of year.

Usually it is more profitable to market the surplus cockerals as broilers or fryers rather than to hold them to maturity. The first on the market bring the top prices. In this way, too, the cockerals may be disposed of before they begin to worry the pullets and will do away with the work of separation of sexes. Birds weighing from one to three pounds may be marketed as broilers or fryers. All cull pullets may be disposed of in the same way. July and August are good months to pick out and sell off the early molting hens that have quit laying. To finish off broilers shut up in coops and fed for 10 to 14 days a ration as follows:

3 pounds cornmeal
1 pound middlings
1 pound bran
1 pound ground oats

Milk with one gallon of skimmilk or buttermilk.

Feed twice daily in a trough.

No watering is necessary.

THINGS TO BE DONE IN JULY

Cut the weeds—Save water for next year's crop. Save work for next year's team. Increase the market value of grain by cutting weeds in July, in pastures, fence rows, waste places and along the roads.

Sows need a rest—Sows after weaning need a rest before being rebred. A scant pasture at first to dry up may be advisable. Good alfalfa, sweet clover, or medium red clover, fed in racks, or the same in pastureage, will require very little grain to keep the sows in the resting stage. With this good protein feed, the small amount of grain may consist of ground barley, corn, feed which may be right at hand. Oats if available is fine. When getting ready to re-breed the sows it is advisable to feed a bit heavier and have them on the gain.

Summer time is typhoid time—This terrible disease is caused by germs that find their way from human excrement and urine to food and drinking water. Guard against it by making the privy flyproof. See that no polluted drainage reaches the well or water supply. Boil the drinking water if you have any reason to expect that it may be dangerous.

Watch for army worms—The latter part of July is army work time Keep a close watch in oats and rye fields. An early discovery of the worms many times saves the entire crop as they can be completely controlled by the use of poisoned bran mash if applied in time. Watch for the worms during the latter part of the month as the extra effort will pay big returns in case they show up in damaging numbers.

Market the spring lambs—Market the spring lambs while the milk fat is on. The home butcher shops and best hotels could use several nice milk fat lambs every week for Sunday dinners. Young lamb is the most delicious of meats and properly advertised would be much in demand. Fair sized helpings should be served of roast lamb or thick lamb chops. A 60-pound spring lamb should dress out 25 pounds and cut up very little waste compared with older sheep and should bring the producer $5 to $8 for the lamb and work in dressing.

CUTWORMS ENDANGER CROPS

Iowa's cornfields and clover fields are in danger of severe injury from variegated cutworms, according to reports received from many parts of the state by the entomological section of the Iowa Agricultural Experimental station at Ames. Nearly all of the western sections of the state and the southern tier of counties have reported large swarms of gray moth, about an inch in length, which lay eggs that eventually produce the variegated cutworm.

This pest appeared in Iowa two years ago but only in a small way, attacking the southwestern section of the state.

"These caterpillers," says Fred A. Fenton, entomologist at Iowa State College, "attack clover fields and alfalfa and after eating this material run into the corn fields. They opersate in a manner similar to army worms. Controll is best handled by a poison mash, but in case the outbreak is large a special method is used. All Iowa farmers who suspect this pest should inform the entomology section at once and special control methods will be furnished.

For small areas, poison bran bait can be made according to the forula given below, broadcast over the fields The following formula has been tried and proven successful:

Bran 20 lbs., Paris green 1 lb., salt 1 lb., molasses (cheap grade) 2 qts.

Amyl acetate three-fourths ounce or if this can not be obtained lemons or oranges finely chopped equal to six fruits.

Enough water to make a crumbly mash, usually 2 to 4 gallons.

Mix the bran and Paris green thoroly together while dry. Then put in the amyl acetate or fruit and salt. Dilute the molasses with water and mix with the poison bran until a mash is formed. The salt not essential and may be omitted. If it is possible to obtain this however, it seems to make the bait more attractive and better results are obtained.

Unless wet weather makes a rank growth in clover and alfalfa fields so that the cutworms cannot get the best of them, Iowa will lose much thru the pest this season.

BIG WRESTLING MATCH AT GARNER JULY FIRST

Dr. G. A. Bemis, post commander of the Legion at Garner, landed what will undoubtedly be the greatest of wrestlng matches in the state of Iowa this year when he finally succeeded in getting a match to take place at Garner on July 1 between the two light-heavyweight kings of the wrestling game in Iowa. Both of the Iowa boys will go on the mat at Garner, won high honors in the army, Parcaut winning the light heavy weight for Uncle Sam's boys and Prehn taking all the medals and honors in the middle weight class. Ralph Parcaut is the wrestling coach at the Iowa University and Prehn holds the same position with the University of Illinois. They both claim to be king of this class and the scrap they will put up at Garner will be something out of the ordinary and is attracting state wide attention. Parcaut comes from the town of Spencer and Prehn is a native of Mason City.

READ THE WANT ADS

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

by IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 16 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI. — Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Bim Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Bim's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Bim confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

Kelso paused to pour whisky from a jug at his side for those who would take it.

"Let us drink to our friend Abe and his new ambition," he proposed.

"What is it?" Samson asked.

"I am going to try for a seat in the legislature," said Abe.

The toast was drunk, and by some in water, after which Abe said:

"If you have the patience to listen to it, I'd like to read my declaration to the voters of Sangamon county."

"I'd Like to Read My Declaration to the Voters."

Samson's diary briefly describes this appeal as follows:

"He said that he wanted to win the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens. This he hoped to accomplish by doing something which would make him worthy of it. He had been thinking of the county. A railroad would do more for it than anything else, but a railroad would be too costly. The improvement of the Sangamon river was the next best thing. He favored a usury law and said, in view of the talk he had just heard, he was going to favor the improvement and building of schools, so that every one could learn how to read, at least, and learn for himself what is in the Bible and other great books. It was a modest statement and we all liked it."

"Whatever happens to Sangamon, one statement in that platform couldn't be improved," said Kelso.

"What is that?" Abe asked.

"It's the one that says you wish to win the regard of your fellows by serving them."

Early in April an Indian scare spread from the capital to the remotest corners of the state. Black Hawk, with many warriors, had crossed the Mississippi and was moving toward the Rock River country. Governor Reynolds called for volunteers to check the invasion.

Abe, whose address to the voters had been printed in the Sangamon Journal, joined a volunteer company and soon became its captain. On the tenth of April he and Harry Needles left for Richland to go into training. Samson was eager to go, but could not leave his family.

Bim Kelso rode out into the fields where Harry was at work the day before he went away.

"I'm going away," the boy said, in a rather mournful tone.

"I hate to have you go. I just love to know you're here, if I don't see you. Only I wish you was older and knew more."

There was half a moment of silence. She ended it by saying:

"Ann and I are going to the spelling school tonight."

"Can I go with you?"

"Could you stand it to be talked to and scolded by a couple of girls till you didn't care what happened to you?"

"Yes; I've got to be awful careless."

"We'll be all dressed up and ready at quarter of eight. Come to the tavern. I'm going to have supper with Ann. She is just terribly happy. John McNeil has told her that he loves her. It's a secret. Don't you tell."

"I won't. Does she love him?"

"Devotedly; but she wouldn't let him know it—not yet. I reckon he'll be plumb anxious before she owns up. But she truly loves him. She'd die for him."

"Girls are awful curious—nobody can tell what they mean," said Harry.

"Sometimes they don't know what they mean themselves. Often I say something or do something and wonder and wonder what it means. Did you ever ride a horse sitting backwards—when you're going one way and looking another and you don't know what's coming?" she asked.

"What's behind you is before you and the faster you go the more danger you're in?" Harry laughed.

"Isn't that the way we have to travel in this world, whether we're going to love or to mill?" the girl asked, with a sigh. "We cannot tell what is ahead. We see only what is behind us. It is very sad."

Harry looked at Bim. He saw the tragic truth of the words and suddenly her face was like them. Unconsciously in the midst of her playful talk this thing had fallen. He did not know what to make of it.

"I feel sad when I think of Abe," said Harry. "He don't know what is ahead of him, I guess. I heard Mrs. Traylor say that he was in love with Ann."

"I reckon he is, but he don't know how to show it. He's never told her. I reckon he's mighty good, but he don't know how to love a girl. Did you ever see an elephant talking with a cricket?"

"Not as I remember," said Harry.

"I never did myself, but if I did, I'm sure they'd both look very tired. It would be still harder for an elephant to be engaged to a cricket. I don't reckon the elephant's love would fit the cricket or that they'd ever be able to agree on what they'd talk about. It's some that way with Abe and Ann. She is small and spry; he is slow and high. She'd need a ladder to get up to his face, and I just tell you it ain't purty when ye get there. She ain't got a chance to love him."

"I love him," said Harry. "I think he's a wonderful man. I'd fight for him till I died. John McNeil is nothing but a grasshopper compared to him."

"That's about what my father says," Bim answered. "I love Abe, too, and so does Ann, but it ain't the hope to die, marryin' love. It's like a man's love for a man or a woman's love for a woman. John McNeil is handsome—he's just plumb handsome, and smart, too. He's bought a big farm and is going into the grocery business. Mr. Rutledge says he'll be a rich man."

"I shouldn't wonder. Is he going to the spelling school?"

"No, he went off to Richland today with my father to join the company. They're going to fight the Injuns, too."

The shell sounded for dinner. Bim started for the road at a gallop, waving her hand. He unhitched his team and followed it slowly across the black furrows toward the barn.

He did not go to the spelling school. Abe came at seven and said that he and Harry would have to walk to Springfield that night and get their equipment and take the stage in the morning. Abe said if they started right away they could get to the Globe tavern by midnight. In the hurry and excitement Harry forgot the spelling school. To Bim it was a tragic thing. Before he went to bed that night he wrote a letter to her.

CHAPTER IX.

In Which Bim Kelso Makes History, While Abe and Harry and Other Good Citizens of New Salem Are Making an Effort to That End in the Indian War.

In the midst of springtime there came cheering news from the old home in Vermont—a letter to Sarah from her brother, which contained the welcome promise that he was coming to visit them and expected to be in Beardstown about the fourth of May. Samson drove across country to meet the steamer. He was at the landing when the Star of the North arrived. He saw every passenger that came ashore, and Eliphalet Biggs, leading his big bay mare, was one of them, but the expected visitor did not arrive. There would be no other steamer bringing passengers from the East for a number of days.

Samson went to a store and bought a new dress and sundry bits of finery for Sarah. He returned to New Salem with a heavy heart. Sarah stood in the open door as he drove up.

"Didn't come," he said mournfully.

Without a word, Sarah followed him to the barn, with the tin lantern in her hand. He gave her a hug as he got down from the wagon. He was little given to like displays of emotion.

"Don't feel bad," he said.

"I've given them up—I don't believe we shall ever see them again," said Sarah, as they were walking toward the door. "I think I know how the dead feel who are so soon forgotten."

"Ye can't blame 'em," said Samson. "They've probably heard about the Injun scare and would expect to be massacreed if they came."

Indeed the scare, now abating, had spread through the border settlements and kept the people awake o' nights. Samson and other men, left in New Salem, had met to consider plans for a stockade.

"And then there's the fever an' ague," Samson added.

"Sometimes I feel sorry I told 'em about it, because they'll think it worse than it is. But we've got to tell the truth if it kills us."

"Yes; we've got to tell the truth," Samson rejoined. "There'll be a railroad coming through here one of these days and then we can all get back and forth easy. If it comes it's going to make us rich. Abe says he expects it within three or four years."

Sarah had a hot supper ready for him. As he stood warming himself by the fire she put her arms around him and gave him a little hug.

"You poor tired man!" she said. "How patient and how good you are!"

There was a kind of apology for this moment of weakness in her look and manner. Her face seemed to say: "It's silly but I can't help it."

"I've been happy all the time, for I knew you was waiting for me," Samson remarked. "I feel rich every time I think of you and the children. Say, look here."

He untied the bundle and put the dress and finery in her lap.

"Well, I want to know!" she exclaimed, as she held it up to the candlelight. "That must have cost a pretty penny."

"I don't care what it cost—it ain't half good enough—not half," said Samson.

As he sat down to his supper he said:

"I saw that slaver, Biggs, get off the boat with his big bay mare. There was a darky following him with another horse."

"Good land!" said Sarah. "I hope he isn't coming here. Mrs. Onstot told me today that Bim Kelso has been getting letters from him."

"She's such an odd little critter and she's got a mind of her own—anybody could see that," Samson reflected. "She ought to be looked after purty careful. Her parents are so taken up with shooting and fishing and books they kind o' forget the girl. I wish you'd go down there tomorrow and see what's up. Jack is away, you know."

"I will," said Sarah.

It was nearly two o'clock when Samson, having fed and watered his horses, got into bed. Yet he was up before daylight, next morning, and singing a hymn of praise as he kindled the fire and filled the tea kettle and lighted his candle lantern and went out to do his chores while Sarah, partly reconciled to her new disappointment, dressed and began the work of another day. So they and Abe and Harry and others like them, each under the urge of his own ambition, spent their great strength in the building and defense of the republic and grew prematurely old. Their work began and ended in darkness and often their days were doubled by the burdens of the night. So in the reckoning of their time each year was more than one.

Sarah went down to the village in the afternoon of the next day. When Samson came in from the fields to his supper she said:

"Mr. Biggs is stopping at the tavern. He brought a new silk dress and some beautiful linen for Mrs. Kelso. He tells her that Bim has made a new man of him. Claims he has quit drinking and gone to work. Bim and her mother are terribly excited. He wants them to move to St. Louis and live on his big plantation in a house next to his—rent free."

Samson knew that Biggs was the type of man who weds Virtue for her dowry.

"A man's judgment is needed there," said he. "It's a pity Jack is gone. Biggs will take that girl away with him sure as shooting if we don't look out."

"Oh, I don't believe he'd do that," said Sarah. "I hope he has turned over a new leaf and become a gentleman."

"We'll see," said Samson.

They saw and without much delay the background of his pretensions for one day within the week he and Bim rode away and did not return. Soon a letter came from Bim to her mother, mailed at Beardstown. It told of their marriage in that place and said that they would be starting for St. Louis in a few hours on the Star of the North. She begged the forgiveness of her parents and declared that she was very happy.

"Too bad! Isn't it?" said Sarah when Mrs. Waddell, who had come out with her husband one evening to bring this news, had finished the story.

"Yes, it kind o' spyles the place," said Samson. "I'm afraid for Jack Kelso—'fraid it'll bust his fiddle if it don't break his heart. His wife is alone now. We must ask her to come and stay with us."

"The Allens have taken her in," said Mrs. Waddell.

"That's good," said Sarah. "I'll go down there tomorrow and offer to do anything we can."

When Mr. and Mrs. Waddell had gone Sarah said: "I can't help thinking of poor Harry. He was terribly in love with her."

"Well, he'll have to get over it—that's all," said Samson. "He's young and the wound will heal."

It was well for Harry that he was out of the way of all this, and entered upon adventures which absorbed his thought. As to what was passing with him we have conclusive evidence in two letters, one from Col. Zachary Taylor, in which he says:

"Harry Needles is also recommended for the most intrepid conduct as a scout and for securing information of great value. Compelled to abandon his wounded horse he swam a river under fire and under the observation of three of our officers, through whose help he got back to his command, bringing a bullet in his thigh."

With no knowledge of military service and a company of untrained men, Abe had no chance to win laurels in the campaign. His command did not get in touch with the enemy. He had his hands full maintaining a decent regard for discipline among the raw frontiersmen of his company.

When the dissatisfied volunteers were mustered out late in May, Kelso and McNeil, being sick with a stubborn fever, were declared unfit for service and sent back to New Salem as soon as they were able to ride. Abe and Harry joined Captain Iles' company of Independent Rangers and a month or so later Abe re-enlisted to serve with Captain Early, Harry being under a surgeon's care. The latter's wound was not serious and on July third he too joined Early's command.

This company was chiefly occupied in the moving of supplies and the burying of a few men who had been killed in small engagements with the enemy. It was a band of rough-looking fellows in the costume of the frontier farm and workshop—ragged, dirty and unshorn. The company was disbanded July tenth at Whitewater, Wisconsin, where, that night, the horses of Harry and Abe were stolen. From that point they started on their long homeward tramp with a wounded sense of decency and justice. They felt that the Indians had been wronged, that the greed of land grabbers had brutally violated their rights. This feeling had been deepened by the massacre of the red women and children at Bad Ax.

A number of mounted men went with them and gave them a ride now and then. Some of the travelers had little to eat on the journey. Both Abe and Harry suffered from hunger and sore feet before they reached Peoria, where they bought a canoe and in the morning of a bright day started down the Illinois river.

They had a long day of comfort in its current with a good store of bread and butter and cold meat and pie. The prospect of being fifty miles nearer home before nightfall lightened their hearts and they laughed freely while Abe told of his adventures in the campaign. To him it was all a wild comedy with tragic scenes dragged into it and woefully out of place. Indeed he thought it no more like war than a pig sticking and that was the kind of thing he hated.

They Had a Long Day of Comfort in Its Current.

Harry had not heard from home since he left it. Abe had had a letter from Rutledge which gave him the news of Bim's elopement. The letter said:

"I was over to Beardstown the day Kelso and McNeil got off the steamer. I brought them home with me. Kelso was bigger than his trouble. Said that the ways of youth were a part of the great plan. 'Thorns! Thorns!' he said. 'They are the teachers of wisdom and who am I that I should think myself or my daughter too good for the like, since it is written that Jesus Christ did not complain of them?'"

"Have you heard from home?" Abe asked as they paddled on.

"Not a word," said Harry.

"You're not expecting to meet Bim Kelso?"

"That's the best part of getting home for me," said Harry, turning with a smile.

"Let her drift for a minute," said Abe. "I've got a letter from James Rutledge that I want to read to you. There's a big lesson in it for both of us—something to remember as long as we live."

Abe read the letter. Harry sat motionless. Slowly his head bent forward until his chin touched his breast. Abe said with a tender note in his voice as he folded the letter:

"This man is well along in life. He hasn't youth to help him as you have. See how he takes it and she's the only child he has. There are millions of pretty girls in the world for you to choose from."

"I know it, but there's only one Bim Kelso in the world," Harry answered mournfully. "She was the one I loved."

"Yes, but you'll find another. It looks serious, but it isn't—you're so young. Hold up your head and keep going. You'll be happy again soon."

"Maybe, but I don't see how," said the boy.

"There are lots of things you can't see from where you are at this present moment. There are a good many miles ahead o' you, I reckon, and one thing you'll see plainly, by and by—that it's all for the best. I've suffered a lot myself but I can see now it has been a help to me. There isn't an hour of it I'd be willing to give up."

They paddled along in silence for a time.

"It was my fault," said Harry presently. "I never could say the half I wanted to when she was with me. My tongue is too slow. She gave me a chance and I wasn't man enough to take it. That's all I've got to say on that subject."

Some time afterward in a letter to his father the boy wrote:

"I often think of that ride down the river and the way he talked to me. It was so gentle. He was a big, powerful giant of a man who weighed over two hundred pounds, all of it bone and muscle. But under his great strength was a woman's gentleness; under the dirty, ragged clothes and the rough, brown skin grimy with dust and perspiration, was one of the cleanest souls that ever came to this world. I don't mean that he was like a minister. He could tell a story with pretty rough talk in it, but always for a purpose. He hated dirt on the hands or on the tongue. He loved flowers like a woman. He loved to look at the stars at night and the colors of the sunset and the morning dew on the meadows. I never saw a man so much in love with fun and beauty."

They reached Havana that evening and sold their canoe to a man who kept boats to rent on the river shore. They ate a hot supper at the tavern and got a ride with a farmer who was going ten miles in their direction. From his cabin some two hours later they set out afoot in the darkness.

"Going home is the end of all journeys," said Abe as they tramped along. "Did it ever occur to you that every live creature has its home? The fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the beasts of the field and forest, the creepers in the grass, all go home. Most of them turn toward it when the day wanes. The call of home is the one voice heard and respected all the way down the line of life. And, ye know, the most wonderful and mysterious thing in nature is the power that fool animals have to go home through great distances, like the turtle that swam from the Bay of Biscay to his home off Van Dieman's Land. Somehow, coming over in a ship, he had blazed a trail through the pathless deep more than ten thousand miles long. It's the one miraculous gift—the one call that's irresistible. Don't you hear it now? I never lie down in the darkness without thinking of home when I am away."

"And it's hard to change your home when you're wonted to it," said Harry.

"Yes, its a little like dying when you pull up the roots and move. It's been hard on your folks."

This remark brought them up to the greatest of mysteries. They tramped in silence for a moment. Abe broke in upon it with these words:

"I reckon there must be another home somewhere to go to after we have broke the last camp here, and a kind of a bird's compass to help us find it. I reckon we'll hear the call of it as we grow older."

He stopped and took off his hat and looked up at the stars and added:

"If it isn't so I don't see why the long procession of life keeps harping on this subject of home. I think I see the point of the whole thing. It isn't the place or the furniture that makes it home, but the love and peace that's in it. By and by our home isn't here any more. It has moved. Our minds begin to beat about in the undiscovered countries looking for it. Somehow we got it located—each man for himself."

For another space they hurried along without speaking.

"I tell you, Harry, whatever a large number of intelligent folks have agreed upon for some generations is so—if they have been allowed to do their own thinking," said Abe. "It's about the only wisdom there is."

He had sounded the keynote of the new Democracy.

So, under the lights of heaven, speaking in the silence of the night of impenetrable mysteries, they journeyed on toward the land of plenty.

"It's as still as a graveyard," Harry whispered when they had climbed the bluff by the mill long after midnight and were near the little village.

"They're all buried in sleep," said Abe. "We'll get Rutledge out of bed. He'll give us a shakedown somewhere."

His loud rap on the door of the tavern signalized more than a desire for rest in the weary travelers, for just then a cycle of their lives had ended.

BOOK TWO.

CHAPTER X.

In Which Abe and Samson Wrestle and Some Raiders Come to Burn and Stay to Repent.

Within a week after their return the election came off and Abe was defeated, although in his precinct two hundred and twenty-seven out of a total of three hundred votes had been cast for him. He began to consider which way to turn. Maj. John T. Stuart, a lawyer of Springfield—who had been his comrade in the "war"—had encouraged him to study law and, further, had offered to lend him books. So he looked for an occupation which would give him leisure for study. Offut, his former employer, had failed and cleared out. The young giant regarded thoughtfully the scanty opportunities of the village. He could hurl his great strength into the axhead and make a good living, but he had learned that such a use of it gave him a better appetite for sleep than study.

John McNeil, who for a short time had shared his military adventures, had become a partner of Samuel Hill in a store larger and better stocked than any the village had known. But Hill and McNeil had no need of a clerk. Roman Herndon and William Berry had opened a general store. Mr. Herndon offered to sell his interest to Abe and take notes for his pay. It was not a proposition that promised anything but loss. The community was small and there were three other stores, and there was no other "Bill" Berry, who was given to drink and dreams, as Abe knew.

Abe Lincoln had not been trained to weigh the consequences of a business enterprise. The store would give him leisure for study and New Salem could offer him nothing else save consuming toil with the ax or the saw. He could not think of leaving the little cabin village. There were Ann Rutledge and Jack Kelso and Samson Traylor and Harry Needles. Every ladder climber in the village and on the plain around it was his friend.

Upon these people who knew and respected him Abe Lincoln based his hopes. Among them he had found his vision and failure had not diminished or dimmed it. He would try again for a place in which he could serve them and if he could learn to serve Sangamon county he could learn to serve the state and, possibly, even the republic. With this thought and a rather poor regard for his own interest his name fell into bad company on the signboard of Berry and Lincoln. Before he took his place in the store he walked to Springfield and borrowed a law book from his friend Major Stuart.

The career of the firm began on a hot day late in August with Bill Berry smoking his pipe in a chair on the little veranda of the store and Abe Lincoln sprawled in the shade of a tree that partly overhung its roof, reading a law book. The face of Mr. Berry suddenly assumed a look of animation. A small, yellow dog which had been lying in repose beside him rose and growled, his hair rising, and with a little cry of alarm and astonishment fled under the store.

"Here comes Steve Nuckles on his old mare with a lion following him," said Berry. "If we ain't careful we'll git prayed for plenty."

"Here Comes Steve Nuckles on His Old Mare."

Continued on page eight.

A Man for the Ages

A Story of the Builders of Democracy

By Irving Bacheller

Copyright, Irving Bacheller

Continued from page seven.

"If the customers don't come faster I reckon we'll need it," said Abe.

"Howdy," said the minister as he stopped at the hitching bar, dismounted and tied his mare. "Don't be skeered o' this 'ere dog. He were tied when I left home but he chawed his rope an' come a'ter me. I reckon if nobody feeds him he'll patter back tonight. Any plug tobacco?"

"A backload of it," said Berry, going into the store to wait on the minister.

When they came out the latter carved off a corner of the plug with his jack-knife, put it into his mouth and sat down on the doorstep.

"Where do Samson Traylor live?"

Abe took him to the road and pointed the way.

"There be goin' to be a raid," said Nuckles. "I reckon, by all I've heard, it'll come on tonight."

"A raid! Who's going to be raided?" Abe asked.

"Them Traylor folks. Thar be a St. Louis man, name o' Biggs, done stirred up the folks from Missourey and Tennessee on the south road 'bout the Yankee who holps the niggers out o' bondage. They be goin' to do some regulatin' tonight. Ol Satan'll break loose. Ef you don't wa'ch out they'll come over an' burn his house sartin."

"We'll watch out," said Abe. "They don't know Traylor. He's one of the best men in this county."

"I've heered he were a he man an' a right powerful, God-fearin' man," said the minister.

"He's one of the best men that ever came to this country and any one that wants to try his strength is welcome to; I don't," said Abe. "Are you going over there?"

"I were goin' to warn 'em an' help 'em ef I cain."

"Well, go on, but don't stir 'em up," Abe cautioned him. "Don't say a word about the raid. I'll be over there with some other fellers soon after sundown. We'll just tell 'em it's a he party come over for a story-tellin' an' a rassle. I reckon we'll have some fun. Ride on over and take supper with 'em. They're worth knowing."

In a few minutes the minister mounted his horse and rode away followed by his big dog.

"If I was you I wouldn't go," said Berry.

"Why not?"

"It'll hurt trade. Let the rest of Traylor's friends go over. There's enough of 'em."

"We must all stand as one man for law and order," said Abe. "If we don't there won't be any."

As soon as Abe had had his supper he went from house to house and asked the men to come to his store for a piece of important business. When they had come he told them what was in the wind. Soon after that hour Abe and Philemon Morris, and Alexander Ferguson, and Martin Waddell and Robert Johnson and Joshua Miller and Jack Kelso and Samuel Hill and John McNeil set out for the Traylor cabin. Samson greeted the party with a look of surprise.

"Have you come out to hang me?" he asked.

"No just to hang around ye," said Abe.

"This time it's a heart warmin'," Jack Kelso averred. "We left our wives at home so that we could pay our compliments to Mrs. Traylor without reserve, knowing you to be a man above jealousy."

"It's what we call a he party, on the prairies," said Ferguson. "For one thing I wanted to see Abe and the minister have a rassle."

The Reverend Stephen Nuckles stood in front of the door with Sarah and Harry and the children. He was a famous wrestler.

"I cain't rassle like I used to could, but I be willin' to give ye a try, Abe," said the minister.

"You'd better save your strength for ol' Satan," said Abe.

"Go on, Abe," the others urged. "Give him a try."

Abe modestly stepped forward. In the last year he had grown less inclined to that kind of fun. The men took hold of each other, collar and elbow. They parried with their feet for an instant. Suddenly Abe's long right leg caught itself behind the left knee of the minister. It was the hip lock as they called it those days. Once secured the stronger man was almost sure to prevail and quickly. The sturdy circuit rider stood against it for a second until Abe sprang his bow. Then the heels of the former flew upward and his body came down to the grass, back first.

"That ar done popped my wind bag," said the minister as he got up.

"Call in," said John McNeil and the others echoed it.

"I call in Samson Traylor," said the minister.

At last the thing which had long been a subject of talk and argument in the stores and houses of New Salem was about to come to pass—a trial of strength and agility between the two great lions of Sangamon county. Either of them would have given a month's work to avoid it.

"Now we shall see which is the son of Peleus and which the son of Telemon," Kelso shouted.

"How shall we rassle?" Samson asked.

"I don't care," said Abe.

"Rough and tumble," Ferguson proposed.

Both men agreed. They bent low intently watching each other, their great hands outreaching. They stood braced for a second and suddenly both sprang forward. Their shoulders came together with a thud. It was like two big bison bulls hurling their weight in the first shock of battle. For a breath each bore with all his strength and then closed with his adversary. Each had an under hold with one arm, the other hooked around a shoulder. Samson lifted Abe from his feet but the latter with tremendous efforts loosened the hold of the Vermonter, and regained the turf. They struggled across the dooryard, the ground trembling beneath their feet. They went against the side of the house, shaking it with the force of their impact. Samson had broken the grip of one of Abe's hands and now had his feet in the air again but the young giant clung to hip and shoulder and wriggled back to his foothold. Those lesser men were thrilled and a little frightened by the mighty struggle. Knowing the strength of the wrestlers they felt a fear of broken bones. Each had torn a rent in the coat of the other. If they kept on there was danger that both would be stripped. The children had begun to cry. Sarah begged the struggling men to stop and they obeyed her.

"If any of you fellers think that's fun you can have my place," said Abe. "Samson, I declare you elected the strongest man in this county. You've got the muscle of a grizzly bear. I'm glad to be quit o' ye."

"It ain't a fair election, Abe," Samson laughed. "If you were rassling for the right you could flop me. This little brush was nothing. Your heart wasn't in it, and by thunder, Abe, when it comes to havin' fun I rather guess we'd both do better to let each other alone."

"'Tain't exactly good amusement, not for us," Abe agreed.

It was growing dark. Ann Rutledge arrived on her pony, and called Abe aside and told him that the raiders were in the village and were breaking the windows of Radford's store because he had refused to sell them liquor.

"Don't say anything about it," Abe cautioned her. "Just go into the house with Sarah Traylor and sit down and have a good visit. We'll look after the raiders."

Then Abe told Samson what was up. The men concealed themselves in some bushes by the roadside while the minister sat close against an end of the house with his bloodhound beside him. Before they were settled in their places they heard the regulators coming. There were eight men in the party according to Abe's count as they passed. The men, in concealment, hurried to the cabin and surrounded it, crouched against the walls. In a moment they could see a big spot, blacker than the darkness, moving toward them. It was the massed raiders. They came on with the stealth of a cat nearing its prey. A lionlike roar broke the silence. The preacher's bloodhound leaped forward. The waiting men sprang to their feet and charged. The raiders turned and ran, pell mell, in a panic toward their horses. Suddenly the darkness seemed to fill with moving figures. One of the fleeing men, whose coat tails the dog had seized, was yelling for help. The minister rescued him and the dog went on roaring after the others. When the New Salemites got to the edge of the grove they could hear a number of regulators climbing into the treetops. Samson had a man in each hand; Abe had another, while Harry Needles and Alexander Ferguson were in possession of the man whom the dog had captured. The minister was out in the grove with his bloodhound that was barking and growling under a tree. Jack Kelso arrived with a lantern. One of Samson's captives began swearing and struggling to get away. Samson gave him a little shake and bade him be quiet. The man uttered a cry of fear and pain and offered no more resistance. Stephen Nuckles came out of the grove.

Suddenly the Darkness Seemed to Fill With Moving Figures."

"The rest o' that ar party done gone upstairs to roost," said the minister. "I reckon my dog'll keep 'em thar. We better jest tote these men inter the house an' have a prayin' bee. I've got a right smart good chanct, now, to whop ol' Satan."

They moved the raiders' horses. Then the party—save Harry Needles, who stayed in the grove to keep watch—took its captives into the cabin. Three of them were boys from eighteen to twenty years of age. The other was a lanky, bearded Tennesseean some forty years old. One of the young lads had hurt his hand in the evening's frolic. Blood was dripping from it. The four sat silent and fearful and ashamed.

Sarah made tea and put it with meat and milk and doughnuts and bread and butter on the table for them. Samson washed and bandaged the boy's wound. The captives ate as if they were hungry, while the minister went out to feed his dog. When the men had finished eating Samson offered them tobacco. The oldest man filled his pipe and lighted it with a coal. Not one of the captives had said a word until this tall Tennesseean remarked after his pipe was going:

"Thankee, mister. You done been right good to us."

"Who told you to come here?" Samson demanded.

"'Twere a man from St. Louis. He done said you hated the South an' were holpin' niggers to run away."

"And he offered to pay you to come here and burn this house and run Traylor out of the county, didn't he?" Abe asked.

"He did—yes, suh—he suah did," answered the man—like a child in his ignorance and simplicity.

"I thought so," Abe rejoined. "You tackled a big job, my friend. Did you know that every one of you could be sent to prison for a term of years, and I've a good mind to see that you go there. You men have got to begin right now to behave yourselves mighty proper or you'll begin to sup sorrow."

Stephen Nuckles returned as Abe was speaking.

"You jest leave 'em to me, Mr. Lincoln," he said. "These be good men, but ol' Satan done got his hooks on 'em. Mis' Traylor, ef you don't mind, I be goin' to do a job o' prayin' right now. Men, you jest git down on yo' knees right hyar along o' me."

It is recorded later in the diary that the rude Shepherd of the prairies worked with these men on their farms for weeks until he had them wonted to the fold.

CHAPTER XI.

In Which Abe, Elected to the Legislature, Gives What Comfort He Can to Ann Rutledge in the Beginning of Her Sorrows—Also He Goes to Springfield for New Clothes.

Radford's grocery had been so wrecked by the raiders that its owner was disheartened. Reinforced by John Cameron and James Rutledge he had succeeded in drawing them away before they could steal whisky enough to get drunk. But they had thrown much of his goods into the street. Radford mended his windows and offered his stock for sale. After a time Berry and Lincoln bought it, giving notes in payment and applied for a license to sell the liquors they had thus acquired.

Late that autumn a boy baby arrived in the Traylor home. Mrs. Onstott, Mrs. Waddell and Mrs. Kelso came to help and one or the other of them did the nursing and cooking while Sarah was in bed and for a little time thereafter. The coming of the baby was a comfort to this lonely mother of the prairies.

There is a letter from Sarah to her brother dated May, 10, 1833, in which she sums up some months of history in the words that follow:

"The Lord has given us a new son. I have lived through the ordeal—thanks to His goodness—and am strong again. The coming of the baby has reconciled us to the loss of our old friends as much as anything could. It has made this little home dear to us and proved the quality of our new friends. Nothing is too much for them to do. I don't wonder that Abe Lincoln has so much confidence in the people of this country. They are sound at heart, both the northerners and the southerners. Harry Needles is getting over his disappointment. He goes down to the store often to sit with Abe and Jack Kelso and hear them talk. He and Samson are getting deeply interested in politics. Abe lets Harry read the books that he borrows from Major Stuart of Springfield. The boy is bent on being a lawyer and improving his mind. Bim Kelso writes to her mother that she is very happy in her new home but there is something between the lines which seems to indicate that she is trying to put a good face on a bad matter. Abe has been appointed postmaster. Every time he leaves the store he takes the letters in his hat and delivers them as he gets a chance. We have named the new baby Samuel."

One evening, of that summer, Abe came out to the Traylors' with a letter in his hat for Sarah.

(Continued next week)

Belmond Local News

Last Thursday evening a very pleasant surprise was perpetrated on Mrs. Floyd Thayer, nee Jenison, when about twenty of her girl friends assembled at the home of Miss Rhea Campbell the occasion being a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Thayer.

It was a complete surprise to the bride altho she recovered sufficiently to answer numerous questions asked her by those present. She received many useful presents from her friends as a token of their esteem. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess after which every one departed feeling that they had had a "full evening and a delightful time."

—I—

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

—I—

Unless we get some rain immediately the gardens around here are going to be pretty nearly a total loss, especially in the potatoe line. No rain of any amount has fallen here for several weeks and the crops and gardens are suffering. Crops in the country are generally pretty good, in better shape and further ahead than last year, but in town the lack of rain has effected growing things to a large extent. Corn is away ahead of any year for a long time and small grain is about a week to two weeks ahead.

—I—

Mowers, hay buckers, hay stackers, hay loaders—The great Dain line.

—I—

Found—Auto license plate. Call at Independent. 2tc

—I—

For best results and quick services let us develope and print your films.—Schultz Drug Co. 2tc

—I—

A number of local people went to Garner last week Friday to attend the American Legion day at that place.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—New Belmond Tailor Shop. Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

BELMOND WINS ANOTHER FROM THORNTON

Sunday the Belmond base ball team added another victory to their string when they defeated the Thornton nine on the local diamond by 9 to 4. The game was nothing extra, both teams playing loosely, and making a variety of errors, the Thornton team having the worst of that end. Thornton used two pitchers in the endeavor to get away with the game, the first one being driven from the box in the first inning. Thornton put up a good enough game, and made it interesting for the boys a few times, but they were traveling in too fast company.

Sunday of next week, July 10, the team from Ackley plays here. The Ackley team is composed of all home men except the pitcher, the same as the local team, and have been winning consistently all season. The game between the two teams ought to be a good one.

New Bakery and Confectionery.....

ANNOUNCING THE OPENING OF OUR NEW BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY, LOCATED ACROSS THE STREET WEST OF THE NEW STATE BANK OF BELMOND. WE INVITE YOU TO MAKE OUR NEW STORE YOUR HEADQUARTERS FOR ALL KINDS OF CANDIES, ICE CREAM, SOFT DRINKS AND CIGARS.

BREAD, CAKES, PIES, DOUGHNUTS, COOKIES

Anything You Like In Bakery Goods

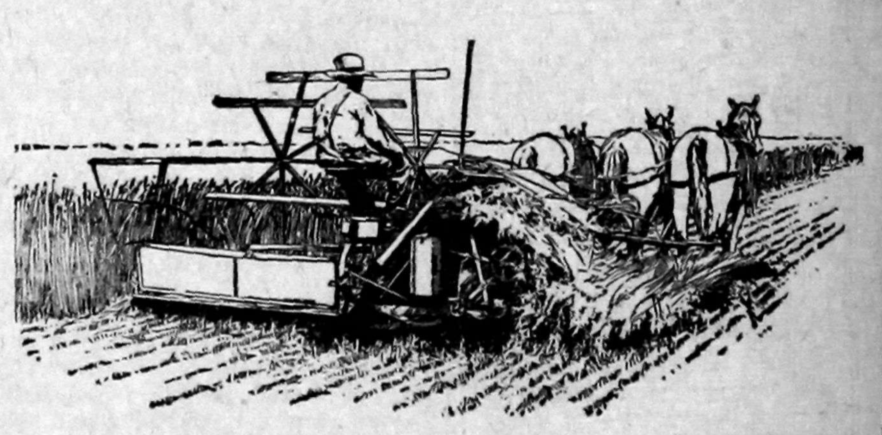
Belmond Bakery and Confectionery

P. Barban, Prop.

Special Prices

ON

Deering & McCormick Grain Binders



$240.00 Cash

September 1st

This is a Special Cut of $20 to Move Our Stock

Why Wait?

Cato C. Griesy

Belmond, Iowa

Don't Overheat Your Battery

Just because your storage battery is snugly tucked away out of sight, do not allow it to be "out of mind." One of the most harmful influences to guard against is overheating. Ask for our advice on how to prevent overheating.

Free Testing and Filling

Have your battery tested and filled---FREE. Do this every two weeks. Neglect to keep the battery filled with pure distilled water is one of the greatest of evils, as well as the most common, and will shorten its life quicker than anything else. Evaporation of water in the solution is continuous.

BATTERIES CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED

We have the "Still Better" Willard Thread Rnbber Battery in stock. Ask us about Thread Rubber Insulation.

Belmond Storage Battery Company

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1921 NO. 34

BELMOND MAN FATALLY INJURED SUNDAY

Belmond Hands Game To Ackley And Beg 'Em To Take It

Polish Silver Platter Place Game On It And Present With Errors

The local team presented the team from Ackley with a nice little game Sunday when they lost to that team by the score of five to four.

The game started all wrong in the first place, Ackley scoring one run in the first inning before one man was out. Then some real ball playing on the part of Baldridge put two men out at the plate, with the bases loaded and not a man out.

Pillmer did not throw the game he is capable of, and a bunch of bonehead plays all thru the game gave it to the visitors on a silver platter, and fairly begged them to take it.

The Ackley bunch also had some awful errors charged up to them, notably in the seventh inning, when a combination of errors allowed a man to score on a measly little single base hit. Caught flatfooded off first, he started for second; the pitcher threw to first, who threw to second; second muffed the ball, the shortstop done the same, and then booted it further out in field, and the runner scored.

Belmond scored three runs in the sixth, when they managed to bunch a couple of hits along with some errors and crossed the pan three times.

The Ackley team, however, outplayed the home boys, and secured nine hits to the local boys' six. Two of the Belmond hits were for three bases while the Ackley team secured one homer.

The Belmond team should have won the game about four to two, and if they failed to do so it was just one of the breaks that "happen in the best regulated families."

They play Ackley at Ackley on this coming Sunday.

Wednesday at the county seat there was a red hot battle. The two teams were fighting tooth and toenail from the very beginning, and both pitchers were going strong. Clarion had got as far as first and Belmond as far as the home plate when the Belmond team quit at the end of the seventh inning.

The local manager and players claimed that the umpire was so bad they couldn't see him. A Belmond runner ws put out at the plate on a very close decision, and the local bunch claim he was safe. The decision was accepted, however, and the game went on for another inning, when the ump started arguing with the local players. A new ump was demanded; the Clarion manager refused; and Belmond quit. As a team has the right to demand a new umpire, the game can not be called forfeited.

Belmond was playing real ball, and had it on the county seaters during the game, making less errors, getting more hits, and if the game had gone on to a finish would probably have secured the bacon.

The merits of the dispute the deponeth knoweth not, but according to the reports the only kick to register was on the ump, and also according to reports the kick was justified. However, it is too bad that the game did not go on to the end for the result then would very likely have been on the side of Belmond.

Owing to the fact that some of the local players were unable to go to the game, a player from Kanawha was on third base for Belmond.

PARTY

The Thos. Brooks family entertained a number of relatives and friends at a picnic dinner and supper at their home, Sunday, for Arthur Nelson, who returned from New Orleans last Thursday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Torger Nelson and daughters, Bessie and Thelma, of Jewell, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Eckstrom, of Moline, Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. Mons Skouge and Oren, of Kanawha; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Nelson and Loraine, Arthur Skouge, Henry Eide and family and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Martin and family.

SURPRISE PARTY

A big surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Luick, Sunday, when twenty-five of the relatives came in with well filled baskets to spend the day. Those present were Harry Huntley and family, of Clear Lake; W. E. Huntley and family, of Clear Lake; J. A. Jensen and family, of Clear Lake; Hans Hansen and family, of Clarion; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lakerse, of Clarion; and Miss Jewell and Mr. Johnson, of Clear Lake. A pleasant day was enjoyed by all.

MRS. L. E. WICKHAM

Mrs. L. E. Wickham passed away at the home in north Belmond on Monday of this week, death being due to tuberculosis, from which she had been a sufferer for some time, and the past seven weeks had been very ill. She was twenty-three years of age, and leaves her husband, two children having died in infancy. Her mother is dead, her father, Andrew Munson, residing at Lake Mills. Funeral services were held at the Klemme undertaking parlors on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30, Rev. Jensen in charge, and interment was made in the Franklin Grove cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the friends and neighbors for their kindness and help in the illness and death of our beloved wife, daughter and sister.

L. E. Wickham,
Andrew Munson,
Mrs. C. F. Kemp.

NEW AUTO LAW EFFECTIVE NOW

Motor vehicle laws, which became effective in Iowa July 1, and require that drivers in all instances observe regulations with reference to speed and laws which superced others on the statute books, are as follows:

Thirty miles an hour if the weight of the vehicle and load is less than three tons and the vehicle is equipped with pneumatic tires and twenty-five miles an hour if the vehicle is equipped with solid rubber tires.

Twenty-five miles an hour if the weight of the vehicle and load is more than three tons and less than six tons and the vehicle is equipped with pneumatic tires; and twenty miles an hour if the vehicle is equipped with solid rubber tires.

Sixteen miles an hour if the weight of the vehicle and load is more than six tons, and the vehicle is equipped with pneumatic tires; and twelve miles an hour if the vehicle is equipped with solid rubber tires.

Ten miles an hour if the vehicle or any trailer is equipped with two or more metal tires.

Provision is made that local authorities of any city or town may establish a suburban district in which the maximum speed of any vehicle shall not exceed twenty miles an hour, and a business district in which the maximum speed of any vehicle shall not exceed fifteen miles an hour.

The total maximum load on any one wheel of any motor vehicle including the weight of the vehicle, and the load it carries, shall be four tons, provided the total maximum weight of the vehicle and load shall not in any event exceed fourteen tons.

The total load on any wheel of any motor vehicle is limited to eight hundred pounds per inch width of tire, measured between flanges of the rims. The enforcement of this provision is entrusted to the state highway commission.

The maximum width of any motor vehicle and its load is limited to eight feet, except loads of loose hay, straw and similar materials of farm production.

"PUG" OBRECHT MARRIES

Altho "Pug" tried to keep it quiet, friends here learned of the marriage of that young man to Miss Mable DeWolf, of Spirit Lake the first of the week. They drove thru Belmond on Monday on their way to Thornton, where Clorence is cashier of the bank, and called on a few friends here. Rumors of Pugs taking unto himself a better half have floated around for some time, but nothing definite was forthcoming. The many friends in Belmond of Pug wish him every success of married life and a long and happily married life with his new mate.

Clarion Folks Sore About Failure Of Fourth Fireworks

County Seat Folks Much Peeved At Way 4th Fireworks Failed To Work

News: The fireworks display did not come up to expectations nor did it come up to the promise of the salesman who sold the program to the committee in charge. Several big pieces bought were not included and several of the set pieces sent here were not successfully fired, either because defective materials were used or inexperienced handlers were sent from the factory.

Clarion wants it distinctly understood that the fault did not lie with the town or committees pushing the celebration. The committee selected the highest program offered, at $500, and we should have had a display that was larger and better than any had last year during fair week. But the display as delivered was a disappointment. The American Legion set piece was not a success. Neither was the "Hello Buddies" piece. The waterfall was just about half what it should have been. Some of the skyrockets were beautiful, but at least a third were defective and went off practically on the ground. The Red Cross set piece was good, so was the American flag set piece.

Then, too, the committee had ordered the display to start at nine o'clock but it was nearer ten before the workmen got it going. This vexed the crowd. But it was not the fault of local people.

However, the committee is not going to pay the $500 for the display given us. It wasn't worth half of it, not to mention the unfavorable opinion created in the minds of our guests for the evening who were promised in the best of faith one of the finest fireworks displays ever attempted here. The committee has taken the matter up with the firm selling the display, but has yet to learn where the blame should be placed. It is thought perhaps the firm oversold, and slighted some of its customers at the last minute. But Clarion folks are sore about the display, and regret that nothing can be done to make good the crowd's disappointment.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

The board of supervisors will meet in regular session Monday, July 11. The usual monthly meeting date fell on July 4th.

Dr. G. H. Steele, of Belmond, has brought suit against Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heinisch to recover the sum of $296.50 for two operations performed upon Mrs. Heinisch.

A rehearing on drainage district No. 183, located at Dows, will be held by the board of supervisors today, after which they will offer for sale $27,500 county road funding bonds.

M. C. and J. J. Barry, of Belmond have filed suit against the Belmond Sugar Company and the Iowa Valley Sugar Company, in the sum of $961.12 which plaintiffs allege to be due for rent of ground for the purpose of raising sugar beets.

The farm bureau office has received the first consignment of wool blankets belonging to its members, who are members of the Iowa Fleece Wool Growers' association. The blankets were made from wool shipped by the association to Chicago. The lot consists of forty-seven pairs and contains both the strip and plaid variety. One of the members, Ralph Smith, of Dayton township ordered ten pairs.

News: There isn't very much doing in district court right now, for it is evidently too hot for law suits. F. M. Clough is suing W. H. Clough to recover $1170.15, alleged to be due on a note originally for $737.42.

M. C. and J. J. Barry are suing the Belmond Beet Company, at partnership of Belmond men, H. J. Holt, J. A. Brock, H. C. Weiss and Geo. A. Beard and the Iowa Valley Sugar Company, to recover a balance of $961.12, alleged to be due on rent for a tract of land leased to the Belmond Beet Company. The beets were sold to the sugar company, it is claimed, and the latter refused to make good the plaintiff's claim for unpaid rent, although it is alleged the company was previously advised of this claim.

Dr. George H. Steele is suing Carl and Mary Heinisch to recover $269.50 alleged to be due on an unpaid bill for medical and hospital services. Garnishee papers were issued and served Sunday, the plaintiff claiming that the defendants were about to move from the state and the only way his claim could be protected was to serve the papers Sunday.

In probate court F. B. Sheldon has been appointed executor of the estate of the late Harriet M. Evans, and bond fixed at $14,000.

The collateral inheritance tax appraisers, Messrs. Richardson, of Eagle Grove, Resse of Belmond and Stewart, of Clarion, met Monday for the purpose of appraising the property of the late Hugo Cornelson, of Goldfield. His estate consisted of two vacant lots and a house and lot, which were valued at $3800. The property was bequeathed to an alien, a sister residing in Germany. Clerk Goslin informs us that through a treaty with that country the state of Iowa will receive only a five per cent tax, the same as would have been paid if the heir was a resident of America. This looks like a shrewd agreement on the part of Germany for the reason that she doubtless has far more of her people who are residents of the United States than of American born residing in that country. Where no treaty exists between this and other countries the tax payable to the state is ten per cent when left to a more distant relative.

The next job for the collateral inheritance tax appraisers in that of the estate of J. D. Stryker in Troy township. Mr. Stryker was the owner of 360 acres of good farm land which at $300 per acre would amount to $108,000. He also had over $18,000 in personal property, $12,000, of which was cash in bank.

Another estate, or rather a small portion of it, to come under the inheritance tax commission is that of the late W. W. Courson. The amount involved is only $2000, which was bequeathed to a brother and sister. The Courson estate is one of the largest in the county.

Sheriff Lang reports that a new scheme was put into execution a short time ago for the purpose of obtaining a supply of booze and it worked to perfection. Some half dozen of the thirsty residents of the Kanawha neighborhood learning of the location of a still sallied forth under cover of darkness to lay in a supply for the Fourth of July. They had little trouble in purchasing several quarts at the agreed price of $80, for which amount one of the fellows wrote a check. It was taken to a bank a couple of days later, where the holder was politely informed it was no good. Owing to the nature of the business his claim would have no standing in court, besides the revenue officers would assess him a good sized fine. Previous to this episode this same bootlegger took a quantity of whiskey to Kanawha to sell. He hid the bulk of it while he peddled the balance. The boys found nineteen quarts of the stuff and stole the whole smear. Verily, the path of the bootlegger is a thorny one.

The old fire proof safe, which did duty in the auditor's office for these many years, in fact since few can remember to the contrary, was removed some months ago and sold to the Jones Hardware Company at Woolstock for $25. It was loaded onto an auto truck yesterday and taken to its new location.

Miss Bock, county superintendent, has on file in her office blue prints and specifications for the four new school houses to be erected in Norway township this season.

Ralph Fisher and Mrs. Frank Fisher, administrators of the estate of the late Bert Fisher have filed suit against R. W. J. H. Frank to recover $3,000 on their promissory note.

Theo. Hansen, a Rowan merchant, has begun suit against S. A. Ferguson to recover on two notes aggregating $376.86.

HOWARD LUICK DIES AS RESULT OF INJURIES

Young Man Dies At Waverly After Three Days Of Intense Suffering

Two Others To Recover -- Car Turns End Over End And Is Total Wreck

Howard Luick was fatally injured in an automobile wreck on Sunday evening when the car in which he and two other men were riding smashed into a bridge near Bremer.

A cousin of Howard's, Donald Brooks of Waverly, and a frieind of Brooks, Barney Eichman, came down on Sunday afternoon after Howard, who was going to Waverly to work for his uncle. The three had reached Waverly and were on their way to Bremer, a small town near there, about nine o'clock in the evening. The car which they were using belonged to Eichman, who was quite a bit older than the boys, and Eicman was driving. They attempted to pass a Buick car which was traveling slowly, at the approach to a bridge, and in some manner the Ford roadster of the boys' hit the corner of the bridge, smashed thru the railing, and turned over and over into some rocks and a wire fence.

The Buick car never stopped, but kept right on without stopping to see whether anyone was hurt. The boys do no know whether they skidded and hit the bridge, or whether the Buick hit their car and threw them over.

Another car following behind stopped and rescued the boys. Howard was taken out of the wreck unconscious, and but for a brief period was never conscious until the time of his death at 3:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. His chest had been crushed in, one lung mashed beyond hope and a few ribs broken, one of which had gone thru the other lung. Donald Brooks was picked up unconscious and did not regain consciousness until 8:00 o'clock the next morning. Eichman, beyond a few bruises and scratches was not hurt.

Howard fought bravely for his life but there never was a chance for him to pull thru. His lungs were injured so badly that he could not secure the air he struggled for and the end came Tuesday afternoon.

Word was received here of the accident at about 11:00 o'clock Sunday night, and Howard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W Luick, left immediately by auto for Waverly where Howard was in the hospital.

The body was brought back to Belmond on Wednesday morning via the Great Western, relatives here meeting the party at Rowan.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o clock at the house, Rev. Lenbach in charge, and interment will be made in the Franklin Grove cemetery.

Howard would have been 21 years of age in September He graduated from the local high school last year, and had been taking the normal training course the past year in the local school. He was a young man with a host of friends, industrious and very well liked, and his sorrowing parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their loss. Mr. Luick did not want Howard to go on the trip, stating that he had a premonition that Howard would be injured if he did, but the youth wanted to go so much that he was finally permitted to go.

An agtiation has been started to have Wall Lake, in this county, made a state park, a man from Blairsburg starting the agitation. He claims in a letter to the Webster City paper that private parties from Waterloo are seeking to gain control of the lake shore for their own private purposes and selfish interests, and he urges the state to make the lake into a state park and keep it for the benefit of the public.

FREE AIR!

Talking about the heat—we haven't but everybody is anyway—how many times during the past two or three weeks have you heard that nice sensible question:

"Is it hot enough for you?" asked?

Why not pull something original, like "gosh, ain't it cold?"

Anyway, it's been so hot that there isn't much of any news; too hot for folks to be traveling around much.

Or maybe they haven't recovered from celebrating the glorious Fourth yet.

Being dog days, probably Dorg of Kanawha will be frothing at the mouth again this week.

Let him bark and snarl and growl around. We aren't going to fuss with him all summer long; what's the use when the poor fellow is so hot?

Asd now even Dows feels that they are capable of traveling in the higher society, and the Independent of that place takes occasion to remark that they can puntchure the Air and trim the Dorg any ol' time they feel like it.

Funny how they get jealous of the upper crust, isn't it?

But by the looks of it, the upper crust needs a little more baking, or else we have the best-hearted bunch of ball tossers in the country, for the other day they polished up the silver platter, placed the game on it with nice juicy trimmings, and handing it to the Ackley team begged 'em to accept.

And Ackley did.

Ho, hum; how much like last summer the weather seems.

Folks don't realize how many things a newspaper does not do.

Of course they take care to point out the things that aren't done and which they want done. But they never know the things that could be done and aren't.

Last week this little paper left out of its columns three perfectly legitimate news items. Because to have printed them would have caused some folks more unhappiness than the news would have been worth to the rest of the readers.

It happens in the best regulated families, as the cartoonist says, and there is never a week goes by but what something is left out that could have been in.

Ever think of that?

Then there's the queer requests that are made to a newspaper. Some of the oddest ones you could imagine. Last week one fellow wanted us to say something about the road south of town, how badly it was cut up, and so forth.

And he isn't a subscriber, either.

Why, do you s'pose, he asked us?

And how does he know what is in this little sheet, anyway?

Must borrow his neighbborsi paper to read the news.

Don't be a moocher, friend; two dollars will save you making the weekly trip across the way and thinking up a new one every time.

This newspaper life is a great life—if you don't weaken.

Once in a while we can feel ourself slipping tho; and then it's time to watch your step. You tell 'em.

In making a public affair you have to suit all kinds of folks; some want one thing and some want another; and some don't want any of what the rest want.

By the time you have reached the happy medium—of which there ain't no such animal—you are in a stew and sweat and your head aches and your brain is woozy and you feel like something the cat has dragged in and the dog worried around.

And then the next day somebody comes in and says what the ding ding did you put that in for? or what the ding ding did you leave that out for? or why, what, who, where, when, why and how the ding ding did you do this, that or the other?

But once in a while somebody says say, that was good, or I enjoyed that, or you're doing fine, and then we cheer up and grin and think maybe it's all right after all.

Ain't it human?

AUTO BUS TO MORSE LAKE

50c round trip—two trips each evening, 5:00 and 7:00 o'clock. Return at 6:30 and 9:00 o'clock. Phone 20.
—C. J. Johnson Garage.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

Minnesota Lakes

For The Mighty Musky-Or-Gamy Bass

ACAST! ASTRIKE! HE'S ON!
The Reel Spins
The Line Sings
The Fight Is On

This is the place for you! 10,000 lakes. Fish for the mighty musky, gamy bass or northern pike. Swim in lakes with clean sand beaches. Motor-boat to some distant island and spend the day. Surf-ride on the waves to your heart's content. Canoe through the winding channels. Hike in the big forests where hay fever is unknown. Golf on the green links surrounded by lakes and big woods—in fact, do anything but work.

Write, phone, or call for information regarding our splendid service to St. Paul and Minneapolis. A copy of our illustrated folder, "The Minnesota Lakes," is yours for the asking.

Apply Ticket Agent C. G. W. R. R.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

SHALL AMERICA DISARM?

One of the greatest and foremost questions of the present day is the question of whether or not America shall disarm, whether we shall destroy our armies and navies as a signal that we stand ready to place the safety of our national welfare in the keeping of our fellow nations, believing in their trustworthiness and good will.

There is no question but what the great majority of the nations are ready for world disarmament, but the fact is equally evident that none of them are willing to take the first and vital step toward it. None of them but what want it, and none of them but what are afraid to go ahead.

Shall America take the lead? Is is our place to start the ball rolling that will eventually mean world government by world agreement?

There are some who say that America should do this; that we, as the greatest and most powerful nation of the earth beyond all question, should set the example, dismantle our army and navy, and then the rest of the world will follow suit.

That idea is pretty, but it places too much faith in the willingness of some nations to follow suit. It is more than probable that just about the time America had dismantled her forces, some of the nations who have very little love for America would be apt to consider that it was time to play trumps instead of following suit. America as the greatest and strongest has the enemies which the greatest and strongest always have, who in a favorable circumstance would not hesitate to use force to break us. To place too much trust in their soft words and willing promises would be folly. If they are so ready for the disarmament of nations, why do they not say "Here, We'll scrap six of our guns if you'll scrap six of yours; then nether of us will have enough to start a fight on the other, but just enough to maintain order at home." But to do that seems out of their range of vision; they say "You start it and then we'll see about it."

America should disarm whenever the rest of them agree to disarm at the same time. To destroy all our means of defense and then depend on the rest to do likewise is placing the country too much at the mercy of its enemies. Just so long as the rest of them keep on with their building of large navies and armies, America is forced to maintain her own defenses. To do otherwise would be to invite aggression on the part of those countries whom we know to be unfriendly toward us.

But if the nations of the earth—the "big" nations, those who have the balance of power—England, Japan, France, Italy—would get together and agree to limit armaments, it would be the greatest blessing that the world has had since the Prince of Peace came to earth. The billions of money now spent on weapons of destruction for our fellowmen could be turned to ways of bettering mankind, of improving the social conditions of the world, and the peoples of the earth would advance five hundred years closer to that universal brotherhood toward which mankind has ever been working.

Gentle in Effect.

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

CHURCH NOTES

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The hot dry weather had somewhat of a depressing influence upon our number last Sunday, but we were still above our mark for the previous quarter in our Sunday School attendance.

The evening services at Ira Christies' were better than anyone had anticipated. The evening was perfect and it was nice and cool out on the beautiful lawn. There were sixteen cars and seventy people present and everyone was well repaid for all the effort which it took to stir out a hot night. It was a meeting full of inspiration and it bespeaks much for the good things which are in store for us during the coming weeks.

We hope that each one will feel an individual responsibility resting upon him to see that the attendance upon all the services are kept up to the high mark even though the weather be dry an hot. The best way to forget your troubles is to go to the services of the sanctuary.

Sabbath school at 10:00 every Sunday morning. The morning worship at 11:00. The evening services will e held at Mr. William Tyrrell's Sunday evening at 8:00. Miss Carroll Tyrrell is the leader and the whole evening will be in charge of the young people. Those who have no way of getting out meet at the church at 7:30 and you will find a way. We expect to have at least one hundred present next Sunday evening. Come and enjoy these services with us.

The Ladies' Aid will hold a business meeting on Thursday afternoon in the parlors of the church.

Several articles were left at the picnic, among which is a blanket and a pair of auto chains. Speak to the Superintendent and he will tell you where you can get them.

UNITED STATES IS NATION OF SIXTH GRADERS

If the American business man were to place the astounding conclusion that "the United States is a nation of sixth graders," we should soon have a complete change in both our system and the efficiency of our education. Thus argues Dean John S. Nollen, of Grinnell College in a leading article in the July-August number of The Grinnell Review. This conclusion was heached by Frank E. Spalding, who made a thorough investigation of the American educational system, and Dean Nollen presents some of the reasons why we have not advanced beyond the sixth grade. One of the most important of these, argues Dr. Nollen, is the fact that the home is no longer the educational influence that it has been. Parents are depending upon the already overworked public school teacher to give their children satisfactory training in all the requirements of live, whereas, the child spends most of its waking hours in and around the home and is much more susceptible to instruction from his parents.

Another reason is the completely disorganized condition of the American educational system. Dean Nollen cites the fact that in the state of Illinois there are "33,000 school trustees conducting the rural and ungraded schools, with 12,000 teachers and an annual expenditure of $500,000 so that each one of these important public officials has one-third of a teacher, and $15 in public funds to look after." The writer advocates a national Department of Edeucation which will help to centralize and coordinate the educational work of the entire country. This department will also be able to aid those schools which are less developed than the average schools in our country.

Finally, Dean Nollen insists that the present condition will not be improved until the teaching profession is placed in the position it deserves. He claims that it has been the Yankee tradition to get schoolmasters "as cheap as possible or something "cheaper," and that the time has come to recognize that the builders of our young manhood must have a living wage and a satisfactory status in their communities.

This will have a two-fold result. It will enable the teacher to spend all of his energies for the wefare of the students and it will enable men with greater educational training and greater ability to enter the teaching profession.

Mrs. T. D. Rankins spent a few days last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Leonard, near Swaledale.

Mrs. Theo. Wright and Miss Iva Trumbell, of Des Moines, left the first of the week for Okoboji, where they plan to spend a few days' vacation at the lake

CLIPPINGS

"Well, Pat," said Bridget, "what kind of a bird have you brought home in a cage?"

"It's a raven," replied Pat.

"A raven! An' what do ye bring home a raven for?"

"Well, I read in the paper the ither night that a raven has been known to live for three hundred years. I don't believe it, an' I'm goin' to put it to a test!"—Exchange.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Papousek of Belmond were in Garner and Duncan July 4 Chas. returned to his business at Belmond Tuesday morning. Mrs. Papousek remained over for another day to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Jacobs. In order to be on the job to get Charles' breakfast Wednesday morning Chris took her to Belmond via auto.—Garner Leader.

G. R. Walrath, a rural carrier out of Blairsburg is sounding the clarion call to all sportsmen who have in the past enjoyed the hunting and fishing at Wall Lake in Wright county to band together and have the state take over the shore front in an effort to make the lake a state park. He alleges Waterloo parties are trying to organize a club sorely for their own benefit, getting control of the private property which now abuts the lake and making it a closed place to the general public.—News.

I. F. Montgomery of Tacoma, Washington, came Saturday to visit his sister Mrs. L. Jones a few days. He went to Belmond, Tuesday, to visit with other relatives before returning home.—Meservey Register.

W. C. Tyrrell of Beaumont, Texas, was renewing old friendships in Clarion on the Fourth. Cap. is enjoying better health this summer than for over two years which his friends will be glad to know.—Monitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gruis motored to Belmond, Wednesday, to visit relatives.—Register.

Dick Barkema and family of Belmond spent Sunday at te parental H. Barkema home.—Register.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Burk of Belmond were visiting in Klemme, Friday.—Times.

Miss Laura Maitland of Belmond was a Klemme visitor last Wednesday.—Times.

John E. Harriott spent a few days during the past week with friends and relatives in Belmond.—Times.

Preparedness!

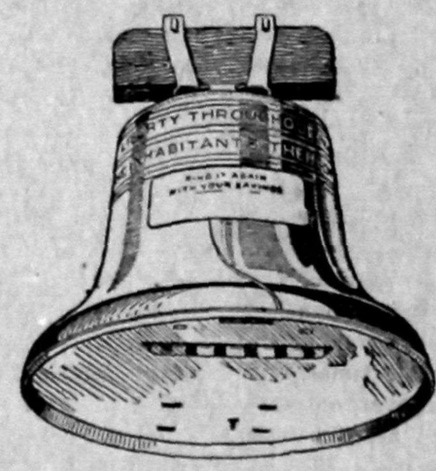
The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

STRENGTH SERVICE

How About Your Family?

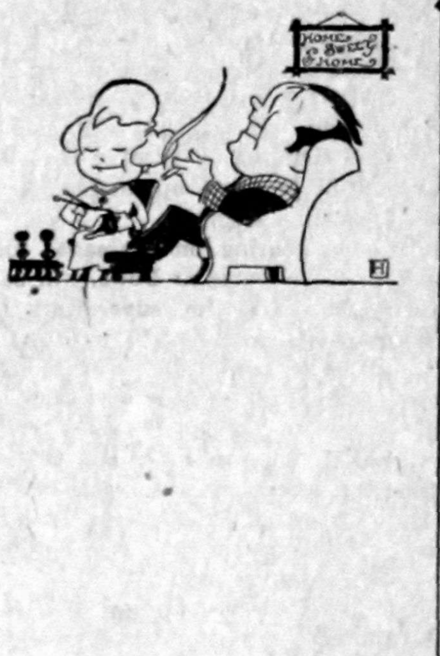
The Savings Account means more for the future of the family than almost all the advice the world can offer. It means a right start upon the right course. Give your family the assurance of permanent financial protection by opening a Term Savings Account paying 5 per cent interest annually, with us. One dollar will do it.



A little Liberty Bell Bank to put your little savings in, is yours with a Savings Account.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

"Home, Sweet Home"—that's the music for me



Air-Tight Tins of 50
Ask your dealer to show you the new vacuum-sealed tins of 50 Chesterfields. A compact, convenient and absolutely AIR-TIGHT packing—the cigarettes keep fresh indefinitely.

IT WAS a rotten night.
RAIN, WIND, mud, slush.
AND AFTER a hard day.
IT MADE me sore.
TO GET all dolled up.
JUST TO go calling.
ON A pair of fish.
I NEVER could see.
BUT ORDERS is orders.
FROM FRIEND wife.
AND "GEE," I said.
"THIS IS a bum life."
THEN THE phone rang.
AND THE party was off.
I CLIMBED out quick.
FROM THE soup and fish.
INTO THE easy clothes.
AND SAT by the fire.
TOASTING MY toes.
AND WATCHING my wife.
QUIETLY KNITTING away.
IN THE firelight.
AND I heard the rain.
BEAT AT the windows.
AND THE winter wind.
HOWL AROUND.
AND I stretched out.
IN THE old arm chair.
TOOK UP a book.
LIT ONE of those cigarettes.
THAT "SATISFY."
AND SAID, "Oh, Man.
IT'S A great old life."

IT'S a great life, all right—sometimes. But in fair weather or foul, you've got a lean-to if you've got Chesterfields—they always "Satisfy." It's all in the way we blend these fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos. And mind you—the "Satisfy-blend" can't be copied!

They Satisfy
Chesterfield
CIGARETTES
Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Gene Sprague spent Sunday with her husband who is overseeing the hauling of cement to the new state road which is being built thru Rowan.

Miss Freida Zander of Mason City spent the Fourth with her friends, Miss Vinnie Whitten and Mrs. Mary Williams, returnisg home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Howell were Clarion callers Tuesday.

Mrs. L W. McCallum and children LaVonne and Jackie went to Amboy, Minn., Tuesday, to visit at the home of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Mullins, for a couple of weeks.

Frank Snyder was a Clarion caller Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver and baby, and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howell and children were Clarion callers Wednesday evening

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks motored to Clarion, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Brooks' mother, Mrs. M. Snyder, who has been staying with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Smith at that place, returned to her home with them. Miss Fannie Reed also returned with them and will stay with Mrs. Snyder for the present. The many friends of Mrs. Snyder are glad to welcome her back and hope she may be fully restored to health before the summer is past.

Miss Jeanette Kervink who was formerly a teacher in the Rowan school, spent a few days in town this week. She has been attending school at Cedar Falls the past year and expects to go back again next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller, Mrs. Harold Gates and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph motored to Fort Dodge on Thursday to shop

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham and grand daughter Clara Jane Howell were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval on Friday in honor of Mrs. Bingham's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sullivan of Fort Dodge came Thursday to visit at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher. They returned home Saturday.

Mrs. O. E. Ballou was a Dows shopper between trains Saturday.

Friday Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Virden, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Christian and baby, Mr. and Mrs George Pritchett and the Misses May and Frances Virden and Izetta Fletcher spent the evening at Morse Lake.

Mrs. Fred Brooks, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks, Edgar, Thelma and Marjorie Brooks, Mrs. J. F. Howell and daughter Clara Jane, motored to Clarion on Saturday to shop.

Mrs. R. Virden went to Waterloo on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard McCallum when they returned home from visiting relatives in Rowan. Mr and Mrs. Harry Robinson also returned to their home in Waterloo Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Christian of Stratford, South Dakota, returned from Roland Tuesday and accompanied the rest to Waterloo for a visit. Mr. and Mrs. Christian and Mrs. Virden eturned to Rowan Thursday. Mr. and Mrs Christian left for their home Monday

John Larson who has been visting his brother Alfred returned to his home in De Smet, South Dakota, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Howell, who have been visiting relatives in this section for the past month, returned to their home in Napoleon, Ohio, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris returned from Minnesota, Friday where they have been spending their vacation.

Margaret Keith has been suffering the past week from poisoning caused from poison ivy. She was confined to her bed for several days but is better at the present writing

Mrs. Jessie Box Agnew and sons arrived at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. C Box Friday. She will teach the primary room of the Rowan school next year. Her many friends are glad to have her among them again. She has been teaching in Wilmington, Del., the past year.

A small company met at the home of Mrs. Keith, Friday afternoon, to tie a comforter. Refreshments were served and a pleasant afternoon is reported.

Thursday night Fred Hacking, Bert Pelly, Joe Patton and D. W Whitten attended a Business Men's [illegible]it Association meeting at Bel[illegible] dau

Mrs. Georgie Rowen recent[illegible]d her knee last Tuesday. It h[illegible] Nelson's very painful but is commer[illegible] N. Amb[illegible] get some better.

Mrs. Coulter went resides in [illegible]ville on Thursday to vi[illegible]s a guest at [illegible]over Sunday. She will [illegible]ge with Rev. [illegible] to Sibley. She will [illegible]nd. [illegible]r a short time and [illegible]ghmore, S. D., where she expects to stay some time.

Mrs. Lew Vennum and son of Fort Dodge came Saturday and spent over Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Cliff Steffens, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Box of Clarion spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. C. Box.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher went to Clarion, Sunday, to visit at the home of Mr and Mrs, Roy Fitz.

Mrs Jesse Steffens visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Packard of Belmond, Tuesday.

A painter from Coulter is busy redecorating the interior of the M. E. church in Rowan. He will be here for about three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Kelsey and children and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simkins and the Misses Eva Hackley and Ward of Sioux Falls, S. D., motored to Rowan a week ago Sunday and have been visiting at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hackley, and other relatives. Sunday five car loads went to Clear Lake to hold a family picnic. All the family were present and they report a fine time.

Jesse Steffens spent Wednesday at Clarion with friends.

Mrs. Raymond Yeakle of Vinton visited at the home of Mr and Mrs. Sim Stout, Saturday.

Miss Leona Pepper who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Kehler, and Mrs. Blanche Jennings, returned to her home in Dows on Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Williams and son Ivan and Miss Vinnie Whitten visited at the home of their sister Mrs. Chas. Peddle at Coulter, Wednesday evening.

Clifford Liming of Oskaloosa is visiting at the home of his brother, Geo. and family here.

The Misses Wilda and Frieda Whitten were Dows shoppers Saturday.

The north section of the Iowa township farm bureau community club entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Veeder on Friday night. About 125 people enjoyed this evening. A very nice program was given. R. E. Lee Aldrich and the county agent gave talks. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The next meeting of this club will be a box social at the Rowan school house for all three sections. The date will be on August 12. Ladies be thinking about your box and come.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen motored to Coulter, Friday to see the bank building after the robbery in the morning. Mr. Hansen's father and brother are cashiers in the bank. They report the building as being wrecked. They drove on to Mason City before coming home.

J. F. Howell was a Fort Dodge business caller Monday.

Wednesday evening the following people gave a picnic at Lake Cornelia in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ziegler and Mr. and Mrs. Tobey of Sioux City: Mr. and Mrs. Walt Whitten and daughter Frieda, Mr. and Mrs. Will Rietz, and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley and family They report a fine time. The Sioux City folks went home Thursday.

Mrs. Will Farmer and children of Steubenville, Ohio, are visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Jennie Rowen. Mrs. Farmer will be remembered by a great many Rowan folks as Miss Noa Dean who used to teach around Rowan.

Mrs. Cady Templeton of Clarion visited over the week end at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jennie Rowen, returning to Clarion Monday.

Mrs. Fred Jensen was a Fort Dodge caller Monday. Mr. Jensen is employed on the extra gang which is laying ties on the C. G. W.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Robinson and daughters Iva and Barbara of Detroit, Mich., came by motor Sunday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French. Mrs. Robinson is a niece of Mrs French Mr. French and Mr. Robinson left Mosday for three or four days fishing trip at the lakes in northern Iowa.

Miss Grace Dayton of Cedar Rapids came Thursday to spend her vacation at the home of her sister, Mrs. D. A. French.

Miss Frances Farran had the misfortune to step on a nail Tuesday and run it into her foot. It is causing her quite a little suffering and trouble.

Donald Farren was a Belmond caller Monday.

Mrs. Jessie Agnew and sons spent Monday with friends in Dows.

The Home Missionary society of the M. E. church met with Mrs. Frank Kercheval on Wednesday with Mrs. Keith as leader. The subject was "Alien Yet Friends." Mrs. Carr had charge of the devotional part and Mrs. Ryder had the enigmas. There were fourteen present at this meeting and a good meeting is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and family of Clarion spent Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. Snyder.

Miss Celia Azeltine went to Superior Saturday to visit for a short time.

Mrs. Chester Bailey spent Monday at Belmond visiting relatives.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

Morning services at 11:00.

Sunday School at 12:00.

Christian Endeavor at 7:00 p. m.

Evening Service at 8:00.

The pastor, Rev. W. H. Nye will deliver an address at the evening service on the question, "What is the Unpardonable Sin?" There will be special music at both morning and evening services.

Everybody is invited to attend these services Sunday.

The Junior Christian Endeavor meets every Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the church.

The Mid-week prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 8:00.

The Rev. H. Tomkinson gave an address at the union service last Sunday evening on "The Sin of Treachery." There was a good crowd to hear this fine address an many helpful thots were left with the people.

The Rowan Congregational Church will hold an ice cream social under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society on the church lawn Tuesday evening. Commence serving at 7:30. Be sure and come and enjoy the social gathering.

Remember the Young Ladies' Mission Study Club Picnic Monday, July 18th. Everyone is invited to come and be sure to remember your own dishes and silverware.

There was a large attendance of Endeavors at the Sunrise prayer meeting last Sunday and the spirit manifest in this large attendance of Endeavors shows by their good spirit and in not being afraid to turn out in the morning that they were willing to do their best as Endeavors, for the best interest of their church and society. There were two delegates elected at this meeting to attend the Convention at Cedar Falls July 14th to 21st.

Vacation Trips

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bowels and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ralston, and son Paul, of Laconia, Iowa, stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Myers Sunday on their way to Minnesota for an outing. Mr. and Mrs. Myers accompanied them on this trip.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Sheldon, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheldon and children, Rev. and Mrs. Tomkinson and children left Monday morning for a trip thru Minnesota. They will also visit a brother of Mr. Sheldon's while gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Whitten and daughter, Gladys, Mrs. Lew Vennum and Dan Fletcher left early Monday morning for Bruce, Wisconsin to visit at the home of Mr. Fletcher's daughter, Mrs. Tim Weld and family.

A pick up team from Rowan played the Galt team Saturday, meeting sad defeat. The score stood 15 to 8 in favor of Galt.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carmon returned from Prescott, Wisconsin Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson, cousins of Mrs. Carmon returned with them for a visit.

Mr. Thompson, of Milwaukee, Minnesota, father of Mrs. G. G. Boonee, Miss Mildred Thompson, a former teacher of our school and Mr. G. G. Boone, of Randolph, Nebraska, called at the home of Miss Mary Braden Thursday of last week. They were motoring from Randolph to Milwaukee. Mrs. Boone has been visiting her mother at Milwaukee for some time.

Mrs. Dan Fletcher returned from Ft. Dodge Monday night where she has been visiting her daughter Mrs. Morris Sullivan.

Play Tennis At Eagle Grove

Rev. Tomkinson, Will Rietz, Guy Sheldon, Donald Farren and Clarence Williams went to Eagle Grove Thursday to play tennis on the new tennis court. The boys have not received the score board so it is impossible to give the score. They are planning a County Tournament to be held at Eagle Grove about the first week in August.

500 MOVIE FILMS FREE

All kinds of movies, good, bad, and indifferent are shown every day in Iowa but not very many people know that a considerable number of the motion picture films that are exhibited in the state are furnished by the visual instruction department of the Iowa State College.

Some 500 films dealing with questions of agriculture and of the farm home are available through this department of the college and can be obtained from Charles Roach, in charge of this work. No charge is made for the films.

In Iowa, with its many community buildings, consolidated schools and churches fitted out with motion picture machines in the matter of presenting these films is simple and many localities and organizations have taken advantage of this opportunity to show educational films.

Magazine Agency

BELMOND, IOWA

DON'T let your Magazine Subscription run out just when you are in the midst of an interesting article or a thrilling story.

I take orders for any magazine published, both new subscriptions and renewals.

Why wait or bother to write into the company yourself when I can take care of your subscription for you at any time?

R. A. RANKINS

Phone 115 or 196

The Belmond Independent Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

MESERVEY NEWS

Too late for last week.

Miss Viola Thomas of CedarFalls came home Saturday to spend the Fourth with the home folks. Two of her friends accompanied her.

Mr. C. E. Brogan and family are spending a few days at Charles City this week

Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Ruigh and daughter Ida spent Sunday and Monday with relatives near Austinville.

Miss Grace Pals and sister Wilma returned home Monday after visiting in the vicinity of Ackley for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lewis returned home Saturday after a week's vacation in Winconsin.

Miss Kathryn Gruis visited with Belmond friends Monday.

A. J. Nissen motored to Clear Lake Monday evening.

Quite a few Meservey people celebrated the Fourth at Hampton.

KANAWHA NEWS ITEMS

Miss Theresa Peterson who is employed at Laurel, Nebraska, came on Friday and will spend a two weeks' vacation with relatives and friends here.

F. I. Bush was a business caller at Garner, Monday.

Miss Mable Knoll returned to Fort Dodge, Sunday after spending a very pleasant week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Knoll.

James Shaw was a Belmond visitor the first of the week.

Miss Lydia Stueland of Fort Dodge returned home Saturday after a weeks visit at the James Shaw home.

Messrs. Albert Severson and Miller of Albert Lea were business callers here last week.

Messrs. Lew Kalvig and James Shaw were Des Moines callers the latter part of this week.

C. C. Lucas was a business caller at Algona, Friday.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP

The Ladies Aid Society will meet at the church this week Thursday afternoon.

Professor Waalkes, of Meekin, Illinois is spending his vacation at the home of his brother, Rev. A. H. Waalkes.

Miss Nora Finn, of Belmond spent the past week at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. Dzlewanowski.

The Fred and W. A. Gartz families were Sunday afternoon visitors at the John Halfpop home.

The Poultry Culling Demonstration will be held in Pleasant township Friday of this week.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Cornelius Stoffer was a caller at Hampton Saturday evening.

Little Orvel Arends, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks is reported better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Buss, of Port Arthur, Texas, came for a few weeks' visit at the home of their sister, Mrs. Peter Pals and other relatives.

George Latch, of Luverne, autoed here Sunday and spent the day with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son, Fredrick spent the last of the week with friends at Dumont.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hardy and daughter, Virgie, of Hampton were visitors in town last Saturday.

Miss Alice Peters was a Hampton caller one day last week.

Miss Oranna Kinseth, of Belmond visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clarence Bohlen several days the past week.

Misses Addie and Esther Larsen left last Wednesday for a few days visit with relatives at Sutherton.

A fine baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell, Monday, July 11th.

Miss Alice McCallum, of Hazle Green, spent the past week at the Bernard McCallum home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clark and two sons have been visiting with relatives at Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs Vernon Finkle and daughter, Leona, of Hampton visited at the Lewis Bell home last Sunday.

Albin Johnson of Hampton was a business caller at Alexander last Monday.

Mrs. Anna Bell Marble, of Waterloo is visiting relatives and friends at Alexander this week.

Herman Modderman who was taken to the hospital at Rochester, Minnesota for the treatment of blood poison is recovering nicely at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson and children spent the first of the week with relatives at Waterloo.

Mr and Mrs. Chas. Bell visited with relatives at Alexander the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rodemeyer and children autoed to Iowa Falls last Friday and spent the day with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son Fredrick were visitors at Belmond Thursday evening.

Mrs. Sylvia Thelmy, of CaoDora, South Dakota, is visiting at the Green and Hall homes this week.

Miss Vivian Meierbachtol, of Springfield, Minnesota, former domestic science teacher of this place, has been visiting her friend, Miss Nellie Bell the past week.

Miss Lelia Klinefelter who has been attending school at Mason City is visiting at the home of her brother Clay Klinefelter and family.

BASEBALL TOURNAMENT AT GARNER BEING TALKED

Signal: Whether Garner is to have a ball tournament this year is being quite freely talked of at present.

If we are to hold one it seems to the writer of this article that such decision should be made at once, so that the teams could be contracted, dates set, etc.

The logical time for this year's tournament would seem to be in August right after the Mason City Fair, and four very logical teams would be Kanawha, Lake Mills, Belmond and the Mason City Independents. Furthermore it is the belief of the writer that this should be a baseball tournament and nothing else with the possible exception of a dance and band concert each evening. Carnivals and ball tournaments do not mix well.

There has been some talk of a tournament in Belmond, to be held in August, but so far no definite plans have been arranged. Garner's tournaments have always been paying affairs and doubtless one could be made successful in Belmond.

BIRTH AND DEATH RECORDS CHANGED

Iowa has a new vital statistics law on its statute books and the new law takes away from the clerk of courts the registration of births and hs, and places it in the hands of district registrars, one registrar for each township and city, as a rule, except that in some instances there may be a consolidation of districts. Under the new law the county will pay a fee of 25c to each registrar for every birth and death regstered in his district. At the present time bsrthi are registered without any fee being provided.

The new law will add to the troubles of the physicians in that they will be required to have a list of township registrars in the territory in which they may practice and until they become familiar with these names it will be bothersome.

The registration of births is broadened under the new act to include all still-born children who have advanced to the firth month of uterogestation. Such still births shall also be registered as "deaths." A burial permit shall also be required for such stillborn children and the cause of the premature birth shall also be recorded, if known. Midwives are not permitted to sign certificates of birth in such instances but such deaths shall be treated as deaths without medical astendance as provided for.

Indefinite and unsatisfactory terms denoting only symptoms of disease or conditions resulting from disease, will not be held sufficiest for issuance of a burial or removal permit; and any certificate containing only such terms as defined by the state registrar, shall be returned to the physician or officer making the medical certificate for correction and more definite statement

The body of any person whose death occurs in the state or which shall be found dead there, shall not be interred deposited in a vault or tomb, or cremated or otherwise disposed of, or removed from or into any registration district r be temporily held pending further disposition more than 72 hours after death, unless a permit for burial, removal or other disposition thereof shall have been properly issued by the local registrar of the registration district in which the death occured or the body was found.

Physicians, midwives, undertakers and casket dealers must register their local registrar of the district in which name, address and occupation with the place they reside. In turn the local registrar forwards to the state registrar a record of such persons registered in his district No fees are charged for this registration.

READ THE ADS

INDEPENDENT WANT ADS

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 35.

A few second hand Fords at real bargains. In first class running order.—Belmond Auto Co.

Lost—At Clarion on the Fourth, a ladies gold watch, Elgin make. Finder please return to Independent office, or to Mrs. Kate Lubey, Goldfield, Iowa.

Chambermaid wanted, to assist in dining room during meals.—Hotel Case 1t*

LOCAL BOYS MAY TAKE MILITARY TRAINING

Applications for admission to the Citizens' Military Training Camps must be in the office of the Military Training Camp association before July 10th, in order to receive consideration, it was anounced in a communication received in Belmond Saturday. This time limit is set in order that the office will not be flooded with applications at the last moment, thus congesting the work.

The association has a representative among the ex-service men in every county in Iowa. The matter of enrollment in the camp for the month of August has been takes up with the American Legion posts, the schools the Boy Scouts and other boys' organizations.

Iowa boys will be sent to Fort Snelling, Minnesota. Some of the best instructors in the country not only in military affairs, but health education, correction of minor defects, sports and other branches, have been scred to at this camp during the month's encampment.

It is understood that some of the Belmond boys have made application for admission. Here is a fine chance for ambitious fellows who prefer work of this kind to an outing at some summer resort.

NEW LAWS EFFECTIVE ON JULY FOURTH

Several important laws passed by the last general assembly became effective on Monday, July 4. We give below a summary of probably the most important ones:

Cigarets—Sale of cigarets to persons 21 years old or over legalized. Heavy penalties for sales to minors. Dealers must obtain licenses and put state revenue stamp on all cigarets sold.

Blue sky—Iowa corporations wishing to sell securities must obtain permit from secretary of state and comply with requiremests formerly fastened only on foreign companies. Birddog bankers penalized. Resale contract, abuse eliminated. State officials prohibited from engaging in promotions. Heavy penaltiesfixed for violations of the law or for fraud of any kind.

Vital statistics—All births and deaths must hereafter be registered with county recorder.

Campaign expenses—Candidates limited in their expenses in either primary or general election to onehalf the amount of annual salary of the office to which they aspire.

Junkets—State officials are to be required to secure advance consent from executive council before they may make trips outside Iowa at state expense.

Healers — Chiropractors, osteopaths and pediatrists are to have state examining boards and all practioners must pass strict examination.

School head pay—Salaries of county superintendents of schools raised to minimum of $1,800 and maximum of $3,000.

HAMPTON LEGION RAFFLES OFF CAR THE FOURTH

Recorder: The George A. Aldinger Post, No.183, gave a dance at the Coonley Hotel Monday evening, July 4th, that in point of attendance distanced anything of the kind ever held in Hampton.

To encourage a liberal patronage the committee in charge of the affair sold tickets at $1.00 each that entitled the holder to admittance to the hop and a chance to win without further cost a new Ford five passenger car.

Members of the post have been busy selling tickets for ten days. The time limit expired Monday night at when the drawing took place. At the appointed hour stubs from 1,305 sold tickets were placed in a box and given a good shaking after which a little girl was blindfolded and told that the first number drawn out would win the Ford. The little tot dropped her hand into the box and produced ticket No. 1835 with the name of "G. E. Dourte, Iowa Falls," written plainly on the same. Mr. Dourte was notified of his good luck by telephone and appeared here in person at noon and was soon riding home in the new car. Mr. Dourte was among the visitors from the 'Scenic City" who came here Monday to take in the celebration and just to help out the American Legion post purchased a ticket for the dance with no thought of winning the car.

The local post cleared over $600 from the dance.

The Lyric theatre is now showing but four times a week, as will be seen by the program. The shows are now given on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

SCHULTZ DRUG CO.

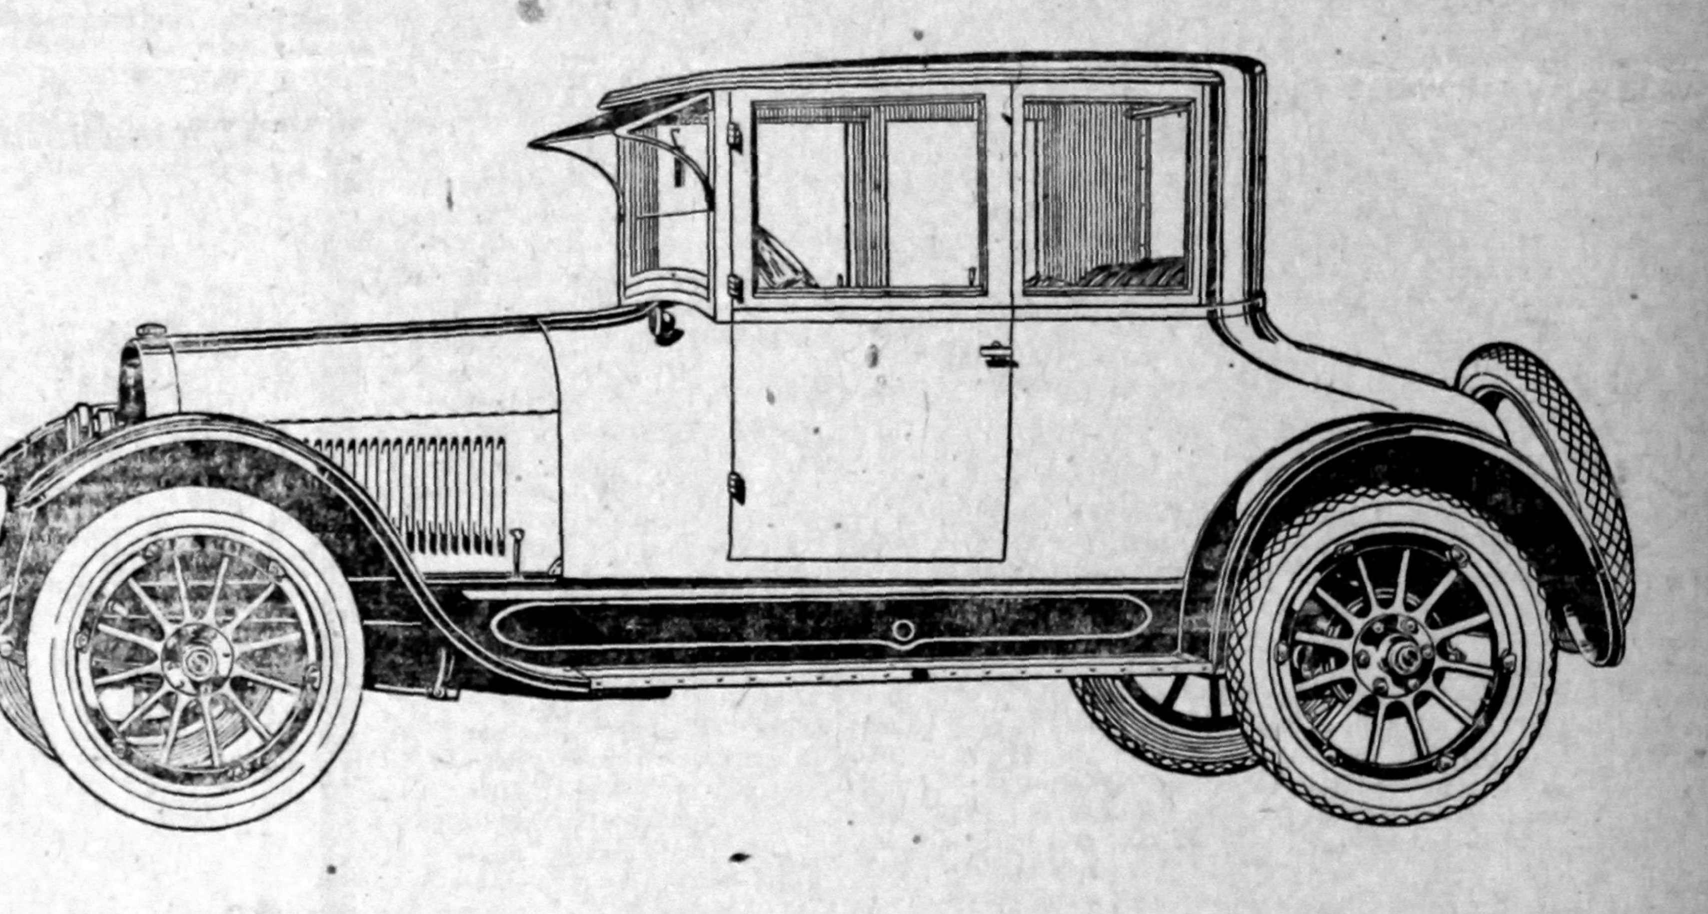
Specials

Bread, per loaf	10c
Jell, per glass	10c
4 lbs. rice, fancy head	25c
3 pkgs macaroni for	25c
3 12-cent pkgs corn flakes	25c
50c bottle nector for	40c
Peaberry coffee, 12 lbs for	$2.50
25c Percale for	19c

Ladies' and Men's Underwear and Hosiery at a good price.

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30
We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings



Buy A Buick and Be Satisfied

MOTOR INN

Ray P. Morris Alfred Swensen

Phone 97

Belmond Local News

Everrett Parsons has been attending the Gregg shorthand and typewriting school in Chicago for ahe past few weeks, taking stenography. He will be there for several weeks yet, and upon his completion of the course expects to teach the study.

—I—

Mrs. E. L. Warneke, of Oelwein, was a visitor last week at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. P. Buchanan, returning home to Oelwein the last of the week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Nihoof have returned from their trip to Minnesota, where they spent a few days visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Fred Nelson.

—I—

Miss Iva Trumbell came up from Des Moines last week for a visit at the home of relatives here. She is superintendent of a hospital in the Capital City.

—I—

Mrs. T. B. McCauley returned on Friday of last week to her home in Des Moines after spending five weeks at the home of her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Groh.

—I—

Clarion folks are very much dissatisfied at the way the fireworks at their Fourth celebration failed to explode, and the News of that place has considerable to say about it.

—I—

Miss Nell Luick arrived last week from Los Angeles for a visit at the homes of various relatives in this vicinity. She expects to remain here for about two months, or until the first of September, when she will return to Los Angeles to resume her teaching duties in the schools there. Miss Nell was joined on the trip here at Hastisgs, Nebraska, by Miss Bonnie Luick, who will remain here for about two weeks visiting various relatives and friends before returning home.

—I—

Mrs. E. L. Gaunt, of Little Rock, Arkansas, arrived last week for a visit at the home of her father, Mr. Betten, at the Case hotel. Mrs. Gaunt epects to remain here for several weeks.

—I—

Mrs. Del Hake and two children from Minot, North Dakota, came last week for an extended visit at the D. H. Hake home here.

—I—

Bert Trumbell came down from Clear Lake where he is workink to spend Sunday at the home of relatives and friends here.

—I—

D. Conlin and wife, of Goodell were in town Sunday at the ball game with Ackley.

—I—

C. A. Palmer and wife, of Sioux City were visitors over the Fourth at the home of Mrs. Palmer's father, D. Betten, at the Hotel Case.

—I—

Mrs. Geo. Aul and son, George, Jr., of Courtland, New York, came last week for a visit at the home of her father, D. H. Hake. Mrs. Aul expects to remain for about two months.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs Eugene Curtiss and two little daughters from Canon City, Colorado, arrived last week for a visit at the home of W. D. Schlieffarth, and with other relatives and friends in this vicinity. Mrs. Curtiss is a former resident of this vicinity, and is a sister of Mr. Schlieffarth. They made the trip by auto, camping out on the way, and report a splendid trip and enjoyable time.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Will Rathbun left Wednesday for Mitchell, South Dakota. They expect to stop enroute at Dell Rapids for a visit with the parents of Mrs. Rathbun.

—I—

E. S. Fyler and wife were among a family group who enjoyed a reunion at Clear Lake on the Fourth.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Tomson are visiting this week with relatives in Wisconsin.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ramsay spent the week end with relatives and friends at Garner, where they were joined by their daughter, Ruth, who had been visiting the Stebbleton family at Britt.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. James Cullinan, of St. Paul have been spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cullinan.

—I—

Mrs. Nelson and little daughter, from Eage Grove were recent guests at the home of Mrs. Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Amble.

—I—

N. F. Forsyth, who resides in Whiting, Indiana, was a guest at the Methodist parsonage with Rev. Edge over the week end.

Henry Saatoff, of Kanawha drove down on Thursday evening of last week on some business matters.

—I—

W. O. Butterfield was a Mason City visitor on Friday of last week, visiting his son at that place.

—I—

Mrs. Pernell reports that the affliction on her face, with which she has been bothered for some time, has been cured thru the use of the Xray by Dr. Steele.

—I—

Tom Finn, who resides at Ackley, accompanied the team from that place to Belmond, Sunday, when Ackley played ball with Belmond. Tommy was right out among those present rooting for his adopted town.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Larson, and Miss Dike, all of Eagle Grove, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Eaton last week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Browne Bullard and family, from Mason City, have been spending a few days here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bullard.

—I—

It is reported that J. D. Wallace is suffering from a slight attack of appendicitis the past few days. He is reported better at this writing, however.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jensen have removed to the Enger house, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Eaton.

—I—

Miss Savogue, Howard Strieby and Miss Strieby of Garner were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Strieby of this palce.

—I—

The public library is being remodiled this week, the interior being decorated and repainted. Mr. Cowles of Fort Dodge has charge of the work.

—I—

The little Light Bearers are planning on holding a picnic on Friday afternoon of this week, the picnic to be held in the city park.

—I—

James Shaw of Kanawha was a visitor here the first of the week, looking after some business interests and greeting friends and relatives.

—I—

Attorney Bullard is making some improvements on his office on Spruce street, raising the building higher and placing a higher foundation under it.

—I—

The vicinity west of Belmond, near Morse Lake, was visited by a heavy local shower of rain on Sunday afternoon, which, it is reported, was so heavy that autos going to the lake had to plow thru mud. There was a single cloud hung over the vicinity for about 45 minutes, over a narrow strip of territory, and the water simpy poured down, while a half mile on either side the roads were dusty and in town there was nothing doing at all.

—I—

Win Sands has been making some improvements on his property on the main street by installing connections with the sewer and rearranging the water main connections.

—I—

The Independent can vouch for the service rendered by the local telephone company, especially on long distance calls. Last week the Independent had occasion to put in a call to Albert Lea, Minnesota one day last week and the call was put thru in less than five minutes. Various other long distance calls have been handled equal ly satisfactorily.

—I—

That Morse Lake holds attractions worth while is evidenced on any old night of the week, when from one hundred and fifty to two hundred of the local people and people from the surrounding territory seek its waters to cool off from the heat of the day. Any evening from six to eight in deed later than that, even up to ten o'clock, there are all the way from one hundred to a hundred and fifty bathers can be seen splashing in the the waters, while about as many more are watching the fun from the shore. As a bathing place Morse Lake has it all over any of the surrounding ponds, with the beach smooth and sandy, with a gradual slope to deep water, and any depth of water that the swimmer desires. A local man remarked the other evening at the lake, "how long before Morse Lake will be a real resort?" One season, if the local people would co-operate and get together on the things that the lake needs to make it one. It can be done, at little expense, by an united effort.

—I—

W. J. Morse attended the funeral of his brother, Judge Morse, held at Ionia, Michigan, last week.

—I—

Ole Thompson and wife were recent visitors at Fort Dodge at the home of their daughter at that place.

Miss Rena Purdy was among the local people who attended the recent educational meeting held at Des Moines.

—I—

Rain, rain, pretty nearly every other place but here, but so far none of it here. Rain on all sides of the town have been reported, even as close as a mile on all sides, but not a drop in the town. If we don't get some wet pretty quick the gardens about town are going to make a fine memory of what might have been. Numerous threats of rain have been made, but they all turned out bluff.

—I—

Mrs. Wm. Scooler returned on this week Tuesday from her trip to Woodward, Iowa, where she has been spending the past couple of weeks visiting at the home of her parents. She also visited in Des Moines with the parents of Mr. Schooler.

—I—

Willete Breightspiecker of Fort Dodge spent several days the past week at the homes of relatives and friends in Belmond, returning to her home in Fort Dodge on Tuesday afternoon of this week.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stadtlander and children of Meservey visited at the Earnest Stadtlander home on Sunday of this week.

—I—

Robin and Gladys Bohning of Mason City have been recent guests at the Harm Steenblock home in Belmond.

—I—

Ole Thompson left last week Friday for Dakota, to look after his farming interests there. He received a telegram last week reporting a bad storm in the vicinity of his land.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris of Rowan were visitors here on Friday of last week with relatives and friends.

—I—

Earnest Stadtlander Jr. is on the sick list this week, having been taken ill last Saturday.

—I—

Carl Gruis of Meservey was a caller here on Thursday evening of last week, visiting with friends.

—I—

Every sack of Peacock Flour is now guaranteed to give satisfaction. $2.10 per sack—why pay more?—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

—I—

According to the best "dope" available, the local post of the American Legion is planning on staging a day in the fall similar to the recent big day the American Legion at Garner had, the observation of the day to be an initiation into the mysteries of the "40 Hommes et 8 Cheveaux" This is an order that applies to the Legion somewhat in the same way that the Shriners do to the Masons. The initiation here it is understood will be in co-operation with the Legion from Rowan, and some of the ex-service men from other points in the county may be taken into the mysteries of the society. A big day is reported as being planned, to be held about the middle of September.

—I—

Rev. Jensen was a business caller the first of this week at Mason City.

—I—

Raymond Hill spent the week end at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Clarence Scott, at Olaf.

—I—

Mrs. Clyde Jennings returned on Tuesday of this week from her trip to Dakota, where she has been spending the past few weeks visiting at the homes of various relatives and friends in different points.

Donald Farren of Rowan was a visitor here on Monday of this week.

—I—

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

—I—

Howard Moore was a recent caller at Carroll, where he was looking after some business interests.

—I—

Harry Wolle was in town on Wednesday of this week, enroute from Minburn, Iowa, to Minnesota. He has had charge of a big ditching job at Minburn, which he has just completed, and was on his way to the northern state to start on another job of a similar nature.

—I—

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

—I—

Sailor and Panama hats cleaned and reblocked at the New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of the Case Hotel. Phone 28.

—I—

A few second hand Fords at real bargains, in first class running order. —Belmond Auto Co.

—I—

We clean all kinds of straw hats and Panamas.—New Belmond Tailor Shop. Phone 28. F. J. Tuffree.

—I—

Let us do your fancy dry cleaning and pressing. Having added new equipment we are prepared to handle rush orders. Satisfaction guaranteed. —New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of Case Hotel. Phone 28.

—I—

Editor Jorgenson of the Klemme Times was a visitor here on Tuesday of this week, and the Independent acknowledges a very pleasant call and hopes that Brother Jorgenson will drop in again the next time he comes to town.

—I—

Mrs. Geo. Dipple underwent a severe operation at the local hospital last week, but is reported much better now and able to return to her home the latter part of this week.

—I—

The new milk ordinance which has been before the council and which it is probable will be passed at the next meeting, has been causing considerable comment.

—I—

Fred Aldrich, of Rowan, recently purchased a new binder from Chris Rise.

—I—

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

F. C. Aldrich has been helping with the harvesting on his farm near Rowan this week

—I—

Orvall Anderson, the six year old son of J. C. Anderson of near Alexander, has been in the hospital here with an attack of lockjaw. It is supposed that the attack was caused by some scratches on his feet. He is recovering nicely, however, and will soon be able to return home.

—I—

Mr. and Mrs. W. H White returned last week from Clear Lake, where they have a cottage and where they have been spending the past month of six weeks

—I—

The country club building is now well under way and it is thought that another thirty days will see te club house practically completed. There has been some talk of a big blow out when the club house is finished.

Battery Truths

That Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation can be depended upon to outlast the battery plates. Ends the expense of wood-separator replacement.

That wood separators may seem cheaper at the beginning but Threaded Rubber Insulation is always cheaper in the end.

That our responsibility to you lasts as long as your battery is in service.

That the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery is the highest point in battery achievement. We're here to tell you about it —the only battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation.

Belmond Storage Battery Company

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

Willard Batteries

Would You Live In A Town Without A Church?

The Church has always been the advance agent of Civilization. Why? Come to Church next Sunday and find the reason.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Next Week's Dance Program

AT

Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday

July 19 and July 22

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices.

If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

Lyric

THURSDAY, JULY 14

"The Man Who Had Everything"

A Goldwyn picture featuring

JACK PICKFORD

11c and 25c

SATURDAY, JULY 16

"Love, Honor and Obey"

A 5-reel Metro Comedy

11c and 25c

MONDAY AND TUESDAY, JULY 18 AND 19

"Love, Honor and Behave"

A 5-reel Mack Sennett Comedy

11c and 25c

A GOOD DINNER

Is made complete with a dessert of pure, delicious ice cream. We have it---your choice of two or more flavors. We sell both the Iowa Falls and Mason City ice cream. They are both favorites. We have reduced the price to 50c per quart---good news, is'nt it?

BELMOND CANDY KITCHEN

The Home of Good Candies

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

COUNTY AGRICULTURAL HEARINGS

The American Farm Bureau federation has arranged county agricultural hearings all over the United States to gather information to be presented to the Congressional Joint Commission of Agricultural Inquiry which will begin its hearings in Washington, D. C. July 11.

Representative farmers of Wright county have been asked to meet in conference at the county agent's office to express their opinions regarding the present agricultural status which opinions are ot be stated to the Congressional Joint Commission of Agricultural Inquiry.

The Commission is working under the following authorization, quoted from the Congressional Record:

Resolved, by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, that a joint commission is hereby created, to be known as the joint commission of agricultural inquiry, which shall consist of five senators, three of whom shall be members of the majority party and two of whom shall be members of the minority party, to be appointed by the president of the senate, and five representatives, three of whom shall be members of the majority party and two of whom shall be members of the minority party, to be appointed by the speaker.

Said commission shall investigate and report to the congress within 90 days after the passage of this resolution upon the following subjects:

1. The causes of the present condition of agriculture.
2. The cause of the difference between the prices of agricultural products paid to the producer and ultimate cost to the consumer.
3. The comparitive condition of industries other than agriculture.
4. The relation of prices of commodities other than agriculture.
5. The banking and financial resources and credits of the country especially as affecting agricultural credits.
6. The marketing and transportation facilities of the country.

The commission shall include in its report recommendations for legislation which in its opinion will tend to remedy existing conditions and shall sepcifically report upon the limitations of the powers of congress in enacting relief.

The commission is composed of the following: Representative Sydney Anderson of Minnesota, chairman; Representatives Frank H. Funk of Illinois, Ogden L. Mills of New York, Peter G. Ton Eyck of New York, Hatton W. Summers of Texas. Senators Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, Arthur Capper of Kansas, Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Joseph T. Tobinson of Arkansas, and Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

IOWA ENJOYS SOCIAL

A real old time community gathering was held at the Leo Veeder home northeast of Rowan Friday evening, July 8, and judging from all reports the farmers who attended this social enjoyed a rip-roaring good time.

Since everyone was so busy with the haying and harvesting work at this season no attempt was made to prepare a program for this occasion. However short talks were given by the county agent and by R. E. Lee Aldrich.

Mr. Aldrich who is one of the progressive farmers of Iowa township, seemed somewhat modest to appear before his own people but his address proved to be very interesting and very instructive. Mr. Aldrich is a man who makes a thoro study of world conditions and has the faculty of being able to talk on such occasions. Mr. Aldrich has been called upon on several different occasions to talk at township farm bureau meetings and in every case he delivered the goods.

After the splendid address by Mr. Aldrich ice cream and cake were served by the good housewives of Iowa township and everyone who had the pleasure of attending the social seem to have enjoyed themselves.

BELMOND WILL PICNIC

Farmers of Belmond township have decided to take time out and enjoy the picnic at the home of M. R. Pierce, Thursday afternoon, July 14.

Arrangements are being made for an outside speaker and a special effort is being made to secure A. L. Middleton of Eagle Grove, who has taken such an active part on the "Committee of Seventeen," and who has finally been appointed organizer for Iowa in this great grain marketing movement.

County agent Edwards will conduct a poultry culling demonstration at the Pierce farm some time during the afternoon's entertainment. It was originally planned to hold three demonstrations in the township, one at the Ira L. Christie home, one at the A. E. Martin home and one at the Pierce home, but since the picnic comes on the same day as the demonstrations it was thought best to combine the three demonstrations at the Pierce home.

The general plan of this picnic is to spend the afternoon listening to the speaker and attending the poultry culling demonstration and then enjoy the big feed which is being prepared for the picnic supper on the lawn of the Pierce home.

SOCIAL IN PLEASANT

The farmers of Pleasant township are planning a social gathering at the home of Adolph Meinders for Friday evening, July 15, when everyone will gather for a good old visit with neighbors and friends.

R. E. Lee Aldrich of Iowa township has been secured for the speaker of the evening and with plans completed for a good speaker and good eats everyone is expecting a grand and glorious time at this community gathering. Mr. Aldrich is well known among the farmers of Pleasant township and his ability to speak is known to all. As a practical farmer and as a speaker who makes a thoro study of world problems, Mr. Aldrich will have a message for the Pleasant township farmers.

This is the second of the socials held in Pleasant township and it is hoped that every man, woman and child will turn out and help make the social a success in the community.

HOGS POISONED FROM EATING COCKLEBURS

Uremic poisoning as a result of eating young cockleburs is responsible for the loss of quite a number of hogs in South Dakota.

The poison in the weed causes a nephritis or an inflamation of the kidneys. After the kidneys cease to function properly a uremic poison soon developes and this may kill the hog.

A case of this kind recently developed in Jackson county, that state. A small patch of ground near the hog lot was being prepared for alfalfa. The owner stated that he was sowing late and was thoroly preparing the ground beforehand for the reason that it was exceptionally weedy the year before. Close inspection of this piece of ground revealed that it was badly infested with young cockleburs. The hogs were eating large quantities of these weeds.

When a hog was first noticed to be sick he would refuse to eat and drink. Very little fever developed. After a few hours the animal would develope convulsions and would usually die in 10 or 12 hours. Some few would vomit. Many would develope a reddish condition of the skin.

Post mortem examination revealed an inflamation of the kidneys and bladder. The liver was larger than normal and the body fat showed a yellowish tinge.

Naturally the poisoning was stopped as soon as the hogs were shut away from the weeds.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy. Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and

SOME RULES FOR CARING FOR DOBBIN

The horse, one of man's best and most faithful friends, is in many cases inhumanely treated, either through carelessness or base cruelty. Neither is excuseable. During hot weather horses suffer unmeasureably from such things as overloading, fast driving, lack of or too much water when warm, too little care and no thought of their comfort.

A man if asked to pull a load as correspondingly great as that pulled by some horses would strenuously object and refuse to undertake it. Yet that same man would think nothing of it if he saw a horse exerting every ounce of energy to move a load, sweating in the hot sun, without a chance to stop and rest in the shade.

The moral is, load the horse lightly and whenever possible let him rest in the shade and there will be fewer horses overcome by the heat.

There are some simple rules which if followed will make life more pleasant for the horse popuation. Load lightly and drive slowly, stop in the shade if possible; a wet sponge or cloth on the head is good to keep the horse cool, but is worse than useless when dry; water your horse as often as possible, but let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still; (water in small quantities will not hurt him as long as he is working. After coming from work sponge him off, wash his feet, but not his legs; if the thermometer is at 75 degrees or higher sponge him all over with a damp sponge, using vinigar water if possible, but do not wash the horse at night; Saturday night give him a luke warm bran mash and add a tablespoonful of saltpetre.

If the horse suddenly stops sweating, or he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or he stands with his legs bracer sideways, he is in danger of becoming sunstroke or overheated; if a horse is overcome by the heat get him into the shade, remove the harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs and give im two ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre in a pint of water, or give him a pint of warm coffee; cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice wrapped in a cloth; if he is off his feed try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran and a little water, and add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oat meal gruel of barley and water to drink; clean him thoroly at night so that he can rest well, and clean him thoroly. The salt dandruff drying on his skin makes him uncomfortable, and often produces sores under the harness; do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay. If you do not he will be thirsty all night. if it is so hot in the stable at night the horse sweats, tie him outside with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night he cannot well stand the day's heat and his efficiency will be impaired.

FARMERS' INFLUENCE FELT IN CONGRESS

The agrarian bloc in congress, which is making the power of farmers felt in national affairs as seldom before, has mapped out an extensive program of proposed legislation and is pressing for immediate action thereon.

One of the most important bills on the program is the Capper bill authorizing associations of agricultural producers. Explaining this measure, Senator Capper says:

"Under existing statutes, the legality of co-operation is constantly questioned. Co-operative associations have been prosecuted and harassed by selfish business interests. This bill does not ask for class legislation. It does not seek to exempt co-operative farm organizations from the provisions of the anti-trust laws, but its purpose is only to clearly define the rights of these organizations so that there will be no misunderstanding as to where they stand. Our system of marketing is the costliest and most inefficient in the world."

Belmond Local News

Mrs. C. J. Boughton, who has been ailing for some months past, is reported as being somewhat better at the present writing, which will be good news to her many friends in Belmond.

C. H. Tyrrell, from Sioux Rapids was a visitor at the home of his brother, Tom Tyrrell on Wednesday of last week.

J. M. Dubois, of Oxford Junction, Iowa, has been a guest the past few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tyrrell.

Harry Forrestall was a caller at the Twin Cities on last week Thursday where he was attending to some business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brewer were visitors at Stanhope, Iowa, one day last week at the home of Mr. Brewer's brother and family.

Mrs. George Peterson, from Ames was a recent visitor with relatives here, returning to her home on Thursday of last week.

Leo Kenefick left last week for Crystal Lake, where he will "make hay while the sun shines" on the farm of his brother-in-law, Charles Engstler.

The picture at the Lyric theatre last week, "Madame X," was widely commented upon, and universally pronounced one of the best Manager Hake has shown here for some time. To those who had read the story it was especially appealing.

Roy French has been spending a few days the past week visiting at the home of his father in Nashua.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brewer, from Stanhope were visitors at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brewer, the first of this week.

W. C. "Cap." Tyrrell, of Beaumont, Texas, was greeting old friends here on the Fourth. Mr. Tyrrell was looking fine, and stated that he was enjoying better health than for some time.

Mrs. H. G. Nordschow left last week for Lake Mills, where she was called by the serious illness of her mother. Her mother is seventy-seven years of age, and but little hopes are held for her recovery. Harry Nordschow drove up on Sunday to spend the week-end there.

ROBINSON'S

Bread, three 10c loaves	25c
Black Tea, per lb.	40c
Sugar	$7.00
Rolled Oats, bulk, 5 pounds for	25c
Fancy Prunes, per lb.	10c
Extra Fancy Prunes	12½c
Corn and tomatoes, per can	10c
Pears, No. 2½ can	20c
Apricots, No. 2½	20c
Coffee	15c

To the Housewives:

Who like to serve good meals and who like to eat good meals but do not have the time for baking, let me do your baking for you.

Every kind of Home Made Bake Stuffs made in my kitchen and sent direct to you warm from the oven. Phone in orders at any time and in any quantity.

Do These Taste Good to You?

Rich Devil's Food Cakes, Nut Cakes Angel Food Cakes, White Cakes, Ginger Creams, Cookies, Bread and Pies.

I also operate a Woman's Exchange, Selling Your Work for 20 per cent.

MISS MARY GEALOW

Second House East of Klemme's Lumber Office

Belmond, Iowa Phone 316

July Shoe Sale

ENDS SATURDAY, JULY 16TH

This GREAT PEDUCTION OF EVERYTHING in our store will all be over after Saturday, July 16th. It will pay you to make a special effort to get here before thut time.

Come Tomorrow

WOODRUFF SHOE CO.

115 N. Federal Mason City, Iowa

MAIL ORDERS FILLED PROMPTLY

HIGH PRICED COAL

INFERIOR GRADE OF COAL

DELAY IN FILLING ORDERS

These are the three things you will face next winter if you delay in buying your winter's supply.

The Weekly Production of Coal Is 3,000,000 Tons Short

You know what that will mean---coal scarce and high in price. The railroads have added no new cars, and but very few of the old cars have been repaired; there is no prospect of freight rate reductions; coal will not only be scarce but hard to get.

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE---BUY NOW!

We earnestly urge you to BUY NOW. Don't Delay—the longer you wait the harder it will be to get coal and the higher the price will be. BUY NOW! Be assured your home will be heated next winter, and at the same time save you money.

Come In and Ask Us.

BELMOND LUMBER COMPANY

M. H. HANSON, Mgr

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

by IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 16 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI. — Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Bim Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Bim's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Bim confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

CHAPTER IX.—Biggs comes back to the village and he and Bim elope. Harry learns of it on his way home from the "war." Lincoln's advice and philosophy sustain him in his grief.

CHAPTER X.—Lincoln, defeated in his candidacy for the legislature, forms a partnership with "Bill" Berry in the grocery business. Biggs sends a gang to burn Traylor's house, but the New Salem men are warned and the raiders worsted.

CHAPTER XI.—Lincoln, now postmaster, decides to run again for the legislature. Ann Rutledge is openly in love with John McNeil. He leaves for his home in the East, promising to return soon and marry Ann. Lincoln accepts his defeat manfully. No word coming from McNeil, Ann confesses to Abe that his real name is McNamar, and her fears that he will not return. Lincoln in his deep love endeavors to reassure her, though he shares her misgivings. Lincoln wins his seat in the legislature.

"How's business?" Samson asked.

"Going to peter out, I reckon," Abe answered with a sorrowful look. "It will leave me badly in debt. I wanted something that would give me a chance for study and I got it. By jing! It looks as if I was going to have years of study trying to get over it. Have you got any work to give me? You know I can split rails about as fast as the next man and I'll take my pay in wheat or corn."

"You may give me all the time you can spend outside the store," said Samson.

That evening they had a talk about the whisky business and its relation to the character of Eliphalet Biggs and to sundry infractions of law and order in their community. Samson had declared that it was wrong to sell liquor.

"All that kind of thing can be safely left to the common sense of our people," said Abe. "The remedy is education, not revolution. Slowly the people will have to set down all the items in the ledger of common sense that passes from sire to son. By and by some generation will strike a balance. That may not come in a hundred years. Soon or late the majority of the people will reach a reckoning with John Barleycorn. If there's too much against him they will act. You might as well try to stop a glacier by building a dam in front of it. They have opened an account with slavery, too. By and by they'll decide its fate."

Such was his faith in the common folk of America whose way of learning and whose love of the right he knew as no man has known it.

In this connection the New Englander wrote in his diary:

"He has spent his boyhood in the South and his young manhood in the North. He has studied the East and lived in the West. He is the people—I sometimes think—and about as slow to make up his mind. As Isaiah says: 'He does not judge after the sight of his eyes neither reprove after the hearing of his ears.' Abe has to think about it."

In April Abe wrote another address to the voters announcing that he was again a candidate for a seat in the legislature. Late that month Harry walked with him to Pappsville where a crowd had assembled to attend a public sale. At one place there were men in the crowd who knew Harry's record in the war. They called on him for a speech. He spoke on the need of the means of transportation in Sangamon county with such insight and dignity and convincing candor that both Abe and the audience hailed him as a coming man. Abe and he were often seen together those days.

In New Salem they were called the disappointed lovers. It was known there that Abe was very fond of Ann Rutledge, although he had not, as yet, openly confessed to any one—not even to Ann—there being no show of hope for him. Ann was deeply in love with John McNeil—the genial, handsome and successful young Irishman. The affair had reached the stage of frankness, of an open discussion of plans, of fond affection expressing itself in caresses quite indifferent to ridicule.

For Ann it had been like warm sunlight on the growing rose. She was neater in dress, lovelier in form and color, more graceful in movement and sweeter-voiced than ever she had been. It is the old way that Nature has of preparing the young to come out upon the stage of real life and to act in its moving scenes. Abe manfully gave them his best wishes and when he spoke of Ann it was done very tenderly. The look of sadness, which all had noted in his moments of abstraction, deepened and often covered his face with its veil. That is another way that Nature has of preparing the young. For these the roses have fallen and only the thorns remain. They are not lured; they seem to be driven to their tasks, but for all, soon or late, her method changes.

On a beautiful morning of June, 1834, John McNeil left the village. Abe Lincoln and Harry and Samson and Sarah and Jack Kelso and his wife stood with the Rutledges in the dooryard of the tavern when he rode away. He was going back to his home in the East to return in the autumn and make Ann his bride. The girl wept as if her heart would break when he turned far down the road and waved his hand to her.

The Girl Wept as If Her Heart Would Break.

"Oh, my pretty lass! Do you not hear the birds singing in the meadows?" said Jack Kelso. "Think of the happiness all around you and of the greater happiness that is coming when he returns. Shame on you!"

"I'm afraid he'll never come back," Ann sobbed.

"Nonsense! Don't get a maggot in your brain and let the crows go walking over your face. Come, we'll take a ride in the meadows and if I don't bring you back laughing you may call me no prophet."

So the event passed.

Harry traveled about with Abe a good deal that summer, "electioneering," as they called it, from farm to farm. Abe used to go into the fields, with the men whose favor he sought, and bend his long back over a scythe or a cradle and race them playfully across the field of grain cutting a wider swath than any other and always holding the lead. Every man was out of breath at the end of his swath and needed a few minutes for recuperation. That gave Abe a chance for his statement of the county's needs and his plan of satisfying them. He had met and talked with a majority of the voters before the campaign ended in his election in August.

At odd times that summer he had been surveying a new road with Harry Needles for his helper. In September they resumed their work upon it in the vicinity of New Salem and Abe began to carry the letters in his hat again. Every day Ann was looking for him as he came by in the dim light of the early morning on his way to work.

"Anything for me?" she would ask.

"No mail in since I saw you, Ann," was the usual answer.

Often he would say: "I'm afraid not, but here—you take these letters and look through 'em and make sure."

Ann would take them in her hands, trembling with eagerness, and run indoors to the candlelight, and look them over. Always she came back with the little bundle of letters very slowly as if her disappointment were a heavy burden.

"There'll be one next mail if I have to write it myself," Abe said one morning in October as he went on.

To Harry Needles, who was with him that morning, he said:

"I wonder why that fellow don't write to Ann. I couldn't believe that he has been fooling her, but now I don't know what to think of him. I wonder what has happened to the fellow."

The mail stage was late that evening. As it had not come at nine Mr. Hill went home and left Abe in the store to wait for his mail. The stage arrived a few minutes later. Abe examined the little bundle of letters and newspapers which the driver had left with him. Then he took a paper and sat down to read in the firelight. While he was thus engaged the door opened softly and Ann Rutledge entered. The postmaster was not aware of her presence until she touched his arm.

"Please give me a letter," she said.

"Sit down, Ann," said he, very gently, as he placed a chair in the fire-glow.

She took it, turning toward him with a look of fear and hope. Then he added:

"I'm sorry, but the truth is it didn't come. It is terrible, Ann, that I have to help in this breaking of your heart that is going on. I seem to be the head of the hammer that hits you so hard, but the handle is in other hands. Honestly, Ann, I wish I could do the suffering for you—every bit of it—and give your poor heart a rest. Hasn't he written you this summer?"

"Not since July tenth," she answered. Then she confided to Abe that her lover told her before he went away that his name was not McNeil but McNamar; that he had changed his name to keep clear of his family until he had made a success; that he had gone East to get his father and mother and bring them back with him; lastly she came to the thing that worried her most—the suspicion of her father and mother that John was not honest. "They say that he probably had a wife when he came here—that that is why he don't write to me."

Then after a little silence she pleaded: "You don't think that, do you, Abe?"

"No," said the latter, giving her the advantage of every doubt. "John did a foolish thing, but we must not condemn him without a knowledge of the facts. The young often do foolish things and sickness would account for his silence. You go home and go to sleep and stop worrying, Ann. You'll get that letter one of these days."

A day or two later Abe and Harry went to Springfield. Their reason for the trip lay in a talk between the postmaster and Jack Kelso the night before as they sat by the latter's fireside.

"I've been living where there was no one to find fault with my parts of speech or with the parts of my legs which were not decently covered,' said Abe. "The sock district of my person has been without representation in the legislature of my intellect up to its last session. Then we got a bill through for local improvements and the governor has approved the appropriation. Suddenly we discovered that there was no money in the treasury. But Samson Traylor has offered to buy an issue of bonds of the amount of fifteen dollars."

"I'm glad to hear you declare in favor of external improvements," said Kelso. "We've all been too much absorbed by internal improvements. You're on the right trail, Abe. You've been thinking of the public ear and too little of the public eye. We must show some respect for both."

"Sometimes I think that comely dress ought to go with comely diction," said Abe. "But that's a thing you can't learn in books. There's no grammarian of the language of dress. Then I'm so big and awkward. It's a rather hopeless problem."

"You're in good company," Kelso assured him. "Nature guards her best men with some sort of singularity, not attractive to others. Often she makes them odious with conceit or deformity or dumbness or garrulity. Dante was such a poor talker that no one would ever ask him to dinner. If it had not been so I presume his muse would have been sadly crippled by indigestion. If you had been a good dancer and a lady's favorite, I wonder if you would have studied Kirkham and Burns and Shakespeare and Blackstone and Starkie, and the science of surveying and been elected to the legislature. I wonder if you could even have whipped Jack Armstrong."

"Or have enjoyed the friendship of Bill Berry and acquired a national debt, or have saved my imperiled country in the war with Black Hawk," Abe laughed.

In the matter of dress the postmaster had great confidence in the taste and knowledge of his young friend, Harry Needles, whose neat appearance Abe regarded with serious admiration. So he asked Harry to go with him on his new mission and help to choose the goods and direct the tailoring, for it seemed to him a highly important enterprise.

"Our appropriation is only fifteen dollars," said Abe as they came in sight of "the big village" on a warm bright day late in October. "Of course, I can't expect to make myself look like the President of the United States with such a sum, but I want to look like a respectable citizen of the United States, if that is possible. I'll give the old Abe and fifteen dollars to boot for a new one and we'll see what comes of it."

Springfield had been rapidly changing. It was still small and crude, but some of the best standards of civilization had been set up in that community. Families of wealth and culture in the East had sent their sons and a share of their capital to this little metropolis of the land of plenty to go into business. Handsome, well-groomed horses, in silver-mounted harness, drawing carriages that shone "so you could see your face in them," to quote from Abe again, were on its streets.

The two New Salem men stopped and studied a big sign in front of a large store on which this announcement had been lettered:

"Cloths, cassinettes, cassimeres, velvet silks, satins, Marseilles waistcoating, fine, calf boots, seal and morocco pumps for gentlemen, crepe lisse, lace veils, Thibet shawls, fine prunella shoes."

"Reads like a foreign language to me," said Abe. "How would you like a little Marseilles waistcoating?"

Suddenly a man touched his shoulder with a hearty "Howdy, Abe?"

It was Eli, "the Wandering Jew," as he had been wont to call himself in the days when he carried a pack on the road through Peter's Bluff and Clary's Grove and New Salem to Beardstown and back.

"Dis is my store," said Eli.

"Your store!" Abe exclaimed.

"Ya, look at de sign."

The Jew pointed to his sign-board, some fifty feet long under the cornice, on which they read the legend:

"Eli Fredenberg's Emporium."

Abe looked him over from head to foot and exclaimed:

"My conscience! You look as if you had been fixed up to be sold to the highest bidder."

The hairy, dusty, bow-legged, threadbare peddler had been touched by some miraculous hand. The lavish hand of the West had showered her favors on him. They resembled in some degree the barbaric pearl and gold of the East. He glowed with prosperity. Diamonds and ruffled linen and Scotch plaid and red silk on his neck and a blue band on his hat and a smooth-shorn face and perfumery were the glittering details that surrounded the person of Eli.

The Jew Pointed to His Signboard.

"Come in," urged the genial proprietor of the Emporium. "I vould like to show you my goots and introduce you to my brudder."

In the men's department after much thoughtful discussion they decided upon a suit of blue jeans—that being the only goods which, in view of the amount of cloth required, came within the appropriation. Eli advised against it.

"You are like Eli already," he said. "You haf got de pack off your back. Look at me. Don't you hear my clothes say somet'ing?"

"They are very eloquent," said Abe.

"Vell, dey make a speech. Dey say 'Eli Fredenberg he is no more a poor devil. You cannot sneeze at him once again. Nefer. He has climb de ladder up.' Now you let me sell you somet'ing vat makes a good speech for you."

"If you let me dictate the speech I'll agree," said Abe.

"Vell—vat is it?" Eli asked.

"I would like my clothes to say in a low tone of voice: 'This is humble Abraham Lincoln, about the same length and breadth that I am. He don't want to scare or astonish anybody. He don't want to look like a beggar or a millionaire. Just put him down for a hard-working man of good intentions who is badly in debt.' "

That ended all argument. The suit of blue jeans was ordered and the measures taken. As they were about to go Eli said:

"I forgot to tell you dot I haf seen Bim Kelso de odder day in St. Louis. I haf seen her on de street. She has been like a queen so grand! De hat and gown from Paris and she valk so proud! But she look not so happy like she usit to be. I speak to her. Oh my, she vas glad and so surprised! She tolt me dot she vould like to come for a visit but her husband he does not vant her to go dere—nefer again. My jobber haf tolt me dot Mr. Biggs is git drunk efery day. Bim she t'ink de place no good."

"Poor child!" said Abe. "I'm afraid she's in trouble. Her parents have begun to suspect that something is wrong. They have never been invited to go down there and visit the girl. I reckon we'd better say nothing to any one of what we have heard, at present."

They reached New Salem in the middle of the night and went into Rutledge's barn and lay down on the haymow between two buffalo hides until morning.

CHAPTER XII.

Which Continues the Romance of Abe and Ann Until the Former Leaves New Salem to Begin His Work in the Legislature. Also It Describes the Coloneling of Peter Lukins.

The next day after his return, Abe received a letter from Ann. She had come over to the store on the arrival of the stage and taken her letter and run home with it. That Saturday's stage brought the new suit of clothes from Springfield.

It was an Indian summer day of the first week in November. That afternoon Abe went to the tavern and asked Ann to walk out to the Traylors' with him. She seemed to be glad to go. She was not the cheerful, quick-footed, rosy-cheeked Ann of old. Her face was pale, her eyes dull and listless, her step slow. Neither spoke until they had passed the Waddell cabin and were come to the open fields.

"I hope your letter brought good news," said Abe.

"It was very short," Ann answered. "He took a fever in Ohio and was sick there four weeks and then he went home. In two months he never wrote a word to me. And this one was only a little bit of a letter with no love in it. I don't believe he cares for me now or, perhaps, he is married. I don't know. I'm not going to cry about it any more. I can't. I've no more tears to shed. I've given him up."

"Then I reckon the time has come for me to tell you what is on my heart," said Abe. "I love you, Ann. I have loved you for years. I would have told you long ago but I could not make myself believe that I was good enough for you. I love you so much that if you can only be happy with John McNamar I will pray to God that he may turn out to be a good and faithful man and come back and keep his promise."

She looked up at him with a kind of awe in her face.

"Oh, Abe!" she whispered. "I had made up my mind that men were all bad but my father. I was wrong. I did not think of you."

"Men are mostly good," said Abe. "But it's very easy to misunderstand them. In my view it's quite likely that John McNamar is better than you think him. I want you to be fair to John. If you conclude that you can not be happy with him give me a chance. I would do my best to bring back the joy of the old days. Sometimes I think that I am going to do something worth while. Sometimes I think that I can see my way far ahead and it looks very pleasant, and you, Ann, are always walking beside me in it. Before we take another step I wish you could give me some hope to live on—just a little straw of hope."

"You are a wonderful man, Abe," said Ann, touched by his appeal. "My father says that you are going to be a great man."

"I can not hold out any such hope to you," Abe answered. "I'm rather ignorant and badly in debt, but I reckon that I can make a good living and give you a comfortable home. Don't you think, taking me just as I am, you could care for me a little?"

"Yes; sometimes I think that I could love you, Abe," she answered. "I do not love you yet, but I may—some time. I really want to love you."

"That is all I can ask now," said Abe as they went on. "Do you hear from Bim Kelso?"

"I have not heard from her since June."

"I wish you would write to her and tell her that I am thinking of going down to St. Louis and that I would like to go and see her."

"I'll write to her tomorrow," said Ann.

They had a pleasant visit and while Ann was playing with the baby she seemed to have forgotten her troubles. They stayed to supper, after which the whole family walked to the tavern with them. When Ann began to show weariness, Abe gently lifted her in his arms and carried her.

That evening Mrs. Peter Lukins called upon Abe at Sam Hill's store where he sat alone, before the fire, reading with two candles burning on the end of a dry goods box at his elbow.

"I wanted to see you private 'bout Lukins," she began. "There's them that call him Bony Lukins, but I reckon he ain't no bonier than the everidge run o' men—not a bit—an', if he was, I don't reckon his bones orto be throwed at him every time he's spoke to that away."

"What can I do about it?" Abe asked.

"I've been hopin' an' wishin' some kind of a decent handle could be put on to his name," said Mrs. Lukins, with her eye upon a knot hole in the counter. "Something with a good sound to it. You said that anything you could do for the New Salem folks you was goin' to do an' I thought maybe you could fix it."

Abe smiled and asked: "Do you want a title?"

"If it ain't plum outrageous I wish he could be made a colonel."

"I'll see what can be done, but if he gets that title he'll have to live up to it."

"I'll make him walk a chalk line—you see," the good woman promised as she left the store.

That evening Abe wrote a playful commission as colonel for Peter Lukins, which was signed in due time by all his friends and neighbors and presented to Lukins by a committee of which Abe was chairman.

Coleman Smoot—a man of some means who had a farm on the road to Springfield—was in the village that evening. Abe showed him the commission and asked him to sign it.

"I'll sign on one condition," said Smoot.

"What is that?" Abe asked.

"That you'll give me a commission. I want to be your friend."

"You are that now, aren't you?" Abe asked.

"Yes, but I haven't earned my commission. You haven't given me a chance yet. What can I do to help you along?"

Abe was much impressed by these kindly words.

"My friends do not often ask what they can do for me," he said. "I suppose they haven't thought of it. I'll think it over and let you know."

Three days later he walked out to Coleman Smoot's after supper. As they sat together by the fireside Abe said:

"I've been thinking of your friendly question. It's dangerous to talk that way to a man like me. The fact is, I need two hundred dollars to pay pressing debts and give me something in my pocket when I go to Vandalia. If you can not lend it to me I shall think none the less of you."

"I can and will," said Smoot. "I've been watching you for a long time. A man who tries as hard as you do to get along deserves to be helped. I believe in you. I'll go up to Springfield and get the money and bring it to you within a week or so."

Abe Lincoln had many friends who would have done the like for him if they could, and he knew it.

"Every one has faith in you," said Smoot. "We expect much of you and we ought to be willing to do what we can to help."

"Your faith will be my strength, if I have any," said Abe.

On his way home that night he thought of what Jack Kelso had said of democracy and friendship.

On the twenty-second of November a letter came to Ann from Bim Kelso, which announced that she was going to New Orleans for the winter with her husband. Six days later Abe took the stage for the capital, at Rutledge's door, where all the inhabitants of the village had assembled to bid him good-

The Village Had Assembled to Bid Him Goodby.

by. Ann Rutledge, with a flash of her old playfulness, kissed him when he got into the stage. Abe's long arm was waving in the air as he looked back at his cheering friends while the stage rumbled down the road toward the great task of life upon which he was presently to begin in the little village of Vandalia.

CHAPTER XIII.

Wherein the Route of the Underground Railroad Is Surveyed and Samson and Harry Spend a Night in the Home of Henry Brimstead and Hear Surprising Revelations Confidentially Disclosed.

Early in the autumn of that year the Reverend Elijah Lovejoy of Alton had spent a night with the Traylors on his way to the North. Sitting by the fireside he had told many a vivid tale of the cruelties of slavery.

"I would not have you think that all slaveholders are wicked and heartless," he said. "They are like other men the world over. Some are kind and indulgent. If all men were like them slavery could be tolerated. But they are not. Some men are brutal in the North as well as in the South. If not made so by nature they are made so by drink. To give them the power of life and death over human beings, which they seem to have in parts of the South, is a crime against God and civilization."

Continued on page eight.

A Man for the Ages

A Story of the Builders of Democracy

By Irving Bacheller

Copyright, Irving Bacheller

Continued from page seven.

"I agree with you," said Samson.

"I knew that you would," the minister went on. "We have already had some help from you but we need more. I take it as a duty which God has laid upon me to help every fugitive that reaches my door. You can help the good work of mercy and grace. If you hear three taps upon your window after dark or the hoot of an owl in your dooryard you will know what it means. Fix some place on your farm where these poor people who are seeking the freedom which God wills for all His children, may find rest and refreshment and security until they have strength to go on."

Within a week after the visit of Mr. Lovejoy, Samson and Harry built a hollow haystack about half-way from the house to the barn. The stack had a comfortable room inside of it about eight feet by seven and some six feet in height. Its entrance was an opening near the bottom of the stack well screened by the pendant hay. But no fugitive came to occupy it that winter.

Soon after the new year of 1835 Samson and Harry moved the Kelsos to Tazewell county. Mr. Kelso had received an appointment as land agent and was to be stationed at the little settlement of Hopedale near the home of John Peasley.

Late in the afternoon Harry and Samson left the Kelsos and their effects at a small frame house in the little village of Hopedale. The men had no sooner begun to unload than its inhabitants came to welcome the newcomers and help them in the work of getting settled. When the goods were deposited in the dooryard Samson and Harry drove to John Peasley's farm. Mr. Peasley recognized the big, broad-shouldered Vermonter at the first look.

"Do I remember you?" he said. "Well, I guess I do. So does my barn door. Let me take hold of that right hand of yours again. Yes, sir. It's the same old iron hand. Marry Ann!" he called as his wife came out of the door. "Here's the big man from Vergennes who tossed the purty slaver."

"I see it is," she answered. "Ain't ye comin' in?"

"If you try to pass this place I'll have ye took up," said Peasley. "There's plenty of food in the house an' stable."

"Look here—that's downright selfish," said his wife. "If we tried to keep you here Henry Brimstead would never forgive us. He talks about you morning, noon and night. Any one would think that you was the Samson that slew the Philistines."

"How is Henry?" Samson asked.

"He married my sister and they're about as happy as they can be this side the river Jordan," she went on. "They've got one o' the best farms in Tazewell county and they're goin' to be rich."

"Yes, sir; I didn't think o' that," said Peasley. "Henry and his wife would holler if we didn't take ye over there. It's only a quarter of a mile. I'll show ye the way and we'll all come over this evening and have a talkin' bee."

Samson was pleased and astonished by the look of Brimstead and his home and his family and the account of his success. The man from the sand flats was cleanly shaved, save for a black mustache, and neatly dressed and his face glowed with health and high spirits. A handsome brown-eyed miss of seventeen came galloping up the road on her pony and stopped near them.

"Annabel, do you remember this man?" Brimstead asked.

The girl looked at Samson.

"He is the man who helped us out of Flea valley," said the girl. "Would you mind if I kissed you?"

"I would be sorry if you didn't," said Samson. "Here's my boy, Harry Needles. You wouldn't dare kiss him, I guess."

"I would be sorry, too, if you didn't," Harry laughed as he took her hand.

"I'm afraid you'll have to stay sorry," said Annabel turning red with embarrassment. "I never saw you before."

"Better late than never," Samson assured her. "You don't often see a better fellow."

The girl laughed with a subtle look of agreement in her eyes. Then came up from the barn the ragged little lad of No Santa Claus Land—now a sturdy, bright-eyed, handsome boy of twelve.

The horses were put out and all went in to supper.

After supper Brimstead showed models of a mowing machine with a cut bar six feet long, and a plow which would turn two furrows.

"That's what we need on these prairies," said Samson. "Something that'll turn 'em over and cut the crop quicker."

"Say, I'll tell ye," said Brimstead as if about to disclose a secret. "These great stretches of smooth, rich land just everlastingly ram the spurs into you and keep your brain galloping. Mine is goin' night and day. The prairies are a new thing and you've got to tackle 'em in a new way. I tell you the seeding and planting and mowing and reaping and threshing is all going to be done by machinery and horses. The wheel will be the foundation of the new era."

"You're right," said Samson.

"How are you gettin' along?"

"Rather slow," Samson answered. "It's hard to get our stuff to market down in the Sangamon country. Our river isn't navigable yet. We hope that Abe Lincoln, who has just been elected to the legislature, will be able to get it widened and straightened and cleaned up so it will be of some use to us down there."

"I've heard of him. They call him Honest Abe, don't they?"

"Yes; and he is honest if a man ever was."

"Is he going to marry the Rutledge girl?" was the query of Mrs. Brimstead.

"I don't think so," Samson answered, a little surprised at her knowledge of the attachment. "He's as humly as Sam Hill and dresses rough and ain't real handy with the gals. Some fellers are kind o' fenced in with humliness and awkwardness."

"The boys around here are all fenced in," said Annabel. "There's nobody here of my age but Lanky Peters, who looks like a fish, and a redheaded Irish boy with a wooden leg."

The Peasleys arrived and the men and women spent a delightful hour traveling without weariness over the long trail to beloved scenes and the days of their youth. Every day's end thousands were going east on that trail, each to find his pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow of memory.

Before they went to bed that night Brimstead paid his debt to Samson, with interest, and very confidentially.

It was a long, wearisome ride back to the land of plenty, over frozen ground, with barely an inch of snow upon it, under a dark sky, with a chilly wind blowing.

"After all, it's home," said Samson, when late in the evening they saw the lighted windows of the cabin ahead.

"After All, It's Home," Said Samson.

When they had put out their horses and come in by the glowing fire, Samson lifted Sarah in his arms again and kissed her.

"I'm kind o' silly, mother, but I can't help it—you look so temptin'," said Samson.

CHAPTER XIV.

In Which Abe Returns From Vandalia and Is Engaged to Ann, and Three Interesting Slaves Arrive at the Home of Samson Traylor, Who, With Harry Needles, Has an Adventure of Much Importance on the Underground Road.

Abe came back from the legislature to resume his duties as postmaster. The evening of his arrival he went to see Ann. The girl was in poor health. She had had no news of McNamar since January. Her spirit seemed to be broken. They walked together up and down the deserted street of the little village that evening. Abe told her of his life in Vandalia and of his hopes and plans.

"My greatest hope is that you will feel that you can put up with me," he said. "I would try to learn how to make you happy. I think if you would help me a little I could do it."

"If you want me to, I will marry you, Abe," said she. "I cannot say that I love you, but my mother and father say that I would learn to love you, and sometimes I think it is true. I really want to love you."

They were on the bluff that overlooked the river and the deserted mill. They were quite alone looking down at the moonlit plains. A broken sigh came from the lips of the tall young man. He wiped his eyes with his handkerchief. He took her hand in both of his and pressed it against his breast and looked down into her face and said:

"I wish I could tell you what is in my heart. There are things this tongue of mine could say, but not that. I shall show you, but I shall not try to tell you. Words are good enough for politics and even for the religion of most men, but not for this love I feel. Only in my life shall I try to express it."

He held her hand as they walked on in silence for a moment.

"About a year from now we can be married," he said. "I shall be able to take care of you then. I think. Meanwhile we will all help you to take care of yourself. You don't look well."

She kissed his cheek and he kissed hers when they parted at the door of the tavern.

"I am sure I shall love you," she whispered.

"Those are the best words that ever came to my ears," he answered, and left her with a solemn sense of his commitment.

Soon after that Abe went to the north line of the county to do some surveying, and on his return, in the last week of May, came out for a talk with the Traylors.

That was the 26th of May, 1835, a date of much importance in the calendar of the Traylors. It had been a clear, warm day, followed by a cloudless, starry night, with a chilly breeze blowing. Between eleven and twelve o'clock Sarah and Samson were awakened by the hoot of an owl in the dooryard. In a moment they heard three taps on a window pane. They knew what it meant. Both got out of bed and into their clothes as quickly as possible. Samson lighted a candle and put some wood on the fire. Then he opened the door with the candle in his hand. A stalwart, good-looking mulatto man, with a smooth-shaven face, stood in the doorway.

"Is the coast clear?" he whispered.

"All clear," Samson answered, in a low tone.

"I'll be back in a minute," said the negro, as he disappeared in the darkness, returning presently with two women, both very black. They sat down in the dim light of the cabin.

Harry, who had been awakened by the arrival of the strangers, came down the ladder.

"These are fugitive slaves on their way north," said Samson. "Take them out to the stack. I'll bring some food in a few minutes."

Harry conducted them to their hiding place, and when they had entered it, he brought a ladder and opened the top of the stack. A hooped shaft in the middle of it led to a point near its top and provided ventilation. Then he crawled in at the entrance, through which Samson passed a pail of food, a jug of water and some buffalo hides. Harry sat with them for a few moments in the black darkness of the stack room to learn whence they had come and whither they wished to go.

"We are from St. Louis, suh," the mulatto answered. "We are on our way to Canada. Our next station is the house of John Peasley, in Tazewell county."

"Do you know a man of the name of Eliphalet Biggs, who lives in St Louis?" Harry asked.

"Yes, suh; I see him often, suh," the negro answered.

"What kind of a man is he?"

"Good when he is sober, suh, but a brute when he is drunk."

"Is he cruel to his wife?"

"He beats her with a whip, suh."

"My G—!" Harry exclaimed. "Why don't she leave him?"

"She has left him, suh. She is staying with a friend. It has been hard for her to get away. She has been a slave, too."

Harry's voice trembled with emotion when he answered:

"I am sure that none of her friends knew how she was being treated."

"I suppose that she was hoping an' praying, suh, that he would change."

"I think that one of us will take you to Peasley's tomorrow night," said Harry. "Meanwhile I hope you get a good rest."

With that he left them, filled the mouth of the cave with hay and went into the house. There he told his good friends of what he had heard.

"I shall go down to St. Louis," he said. "I read in the paper that there was a boat Monday."

"The first thing to do is to go to bed," said Sarah. "There's not much left of the night."

They went to bed, but the young man could not sleep. Bim had possession of his heart again.

Fortunately, the spring's work was finished and there was not much to be done next day. Samson went to "Colonel" Lukins' cabin and arranged with him and his wife to come and stay with Sarah and made other preparations for the journey to the north. Soon after nightfall they put their guests on a small load of hay, so that they could quickly cover themselves, if necessary, and set out for Peasley's farm. As they rode along Samson had a frank talk with Harry.

"I think you ought to get over being in love with Bim," he said.

"I've told myself that a dozen times, but it don't do any good," said the boy.

"She's another man's wife and you have no right to love her."

"She's another man's slave, and I can't stand the thought of it," Harry answered. "If a man's sister were in such trouble, I think he'd have the right to help her; and she's more than a sister to me."

"I'll stand with you on the sister platform," said Samson.

At sunrise they stopped to give their horses a moment to rest. In the distance they could see Brimstead's house and the harrowed fields around it. The women were lying covered by the hay; the man was sitting up and looking back down the road.

"They're coming," he exclaimed, suddenly, as he got under the hay.

Samson and Harry could see horsemen following at a gallop half a mile or so down the road. Our friends hurried their team and got to Brim-

(Continued next week)

Belmond Local News

Wm. O. Butterfield was an over Sunday visitor at Mason City.

The Chamberlin and Claussen families are entertaining an aunt and cousins this week, the relatives arriving Saturday.

The road running south of town past the sugar factory is one awful rocky road to Dublin these days, with every mile a series of bumps and jerks. Formerly one of the best roads in the county, smooth as a floor, it is now one continuous bumpity bump all the way to Solsburg. The heavy trucks used to haul gravel for the road leading from Solsburg to the county seat, have cut the road to ribbons, leaving hollows and bumps all along. After the road to the county seat if fixed it might be a good idea to give this road a little attention.

STILL ANOTHER STILL FOUND AT HAMPTON

Chronicle: Another "still" was rounded up in Hampton last week. It was discovered at the Charles E. Schoppe place in the southwest part of the city. The still was a crude affair but sheriff Atkinson and deputy sheriff Millett gathered up a quan of liquor and a good supply of mash.

Mr. Schoppe was taken before Judge Parks and after pleading guilty to breaking the prohibition laws he was fined $56, including the costs of the case. County attorney Staurt handled the case for the state.

Sheriff Atkinson and Deputy Sheriff Millett each made a haul at Dows last Friday night. At the place of Henry Welzein they rounded up a large supply of mash, but did not find any of the machinery with which t finished product is made. The stuff did not seem to have the necessary kick, so the defendant was discharged in Judge Park's court in Hampton las Saturday.

At the Fred Malnory place, also i Dows, 120 quarts of the "home brew" was confiscated by the officers from the sheriff's office. The still was not to be found, but it is evident t defendant himself believed that he had the real stuff as he was not to be found in court here to pay any fine which might have been assessed against him. However, a sample of the brew was examined at the chemical department of the Marschall drug store, and it was announced no traces of the real stuff could be found. As a result the case against Mr. Malnory was dismissed.

The Value of Money

If you would know the value of money, try to borrow some." A volume of good advice on the subject of saving would fail to convince as would this simple teat. 'Tis better though to banish the necessity for borrowing by saving.

START A SAVINGS ACCOUNT TODAY

Belmond Savings Bank

FORD PLANT BUILDS 108,962 IN JUNE

Demand Exceeds Output As Ford Breaks All Previous Records

During the month of June, the Ford Motor Company, thru its Detroit Factories and 22 Assembly Plants thruout the country reached the production of 108,962 Ford cars and trucks, setting up a new high record for one month.

Production of Ford cars and trucks has been steadily increasing since early spring, and shows substantial gains over the same period last year. The second quarter of 1921, viz., April, May and June, shows an output of 301,796 Ford cars and trucks against 220,878 for hte same three months of last year, or a net increase of 80,918.

Despite the fact, however, that the Ford Plants have been running at maximum capacity, the demand for Ford cars and trucks is not being met, and at the present time, many thousand unfilled orders have been piled up ahead so that Ford sales are still limited by manufacturing facilities rather than marketing possibilities. Particularly is this true with respect to enclosed cars, for which the demand has been unusually heavy.

One reason cited by Ford officials for the unprecedented demand for Ford cars is the present tendency toward economy. Many of those whose names have been added to the long list of buyers might have afforded larger and more costly cars than the Ford, but it is the belief that most prospective motor car buyers are investgating all of the costs incident to motoring much more carefully than at any period during the past five years.

The estimated output of the Ford factories for July calls for 10,000 cars and trucks, or a production of 4,360 a day for 25days. Since the assembling of cars is being handled during an eight hour work day only, the hourly output will be 545 cars. In other words one Ford car or truck leaves the assembly room every six and one-half seconds.

North Iowa's Greatest Selling Event

Our 4th Sem-Annual

SUPER SALE

Made Great Because of Our Determination To Raise

$20,000 In Ten Days

It' an unparalelled selling of the highest type of Dry Goods and Ready-To-Wear that can be had.

COME--BUY

If you don't think that your purchase is the biggest bargain you ever bought, bring it back and get your money.

MAIL ORDER THESE. Return them if they are not better than you expect:

81x90 Sleep Well seamless sheets, a real buy	$1.29
27-inch white Outing Flannel, 10 yards	1.30
Genuine Dee Brown Crash Toweling, 10 yards	1.30
Ladies' Cotton Hose, black or white, all sizes	23c
Children's Hose, black or white, our 40c value	23c
9-4 Bleached Premier Sheeting, while it lasts	38c

Send for samples of our 16c yard wide Percales.

STERLING

Mason City, Iowa

When we say SUPER SALE, it's time to buy.

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1921 NO. 35

MILK ORDINANCE TO BE EXPLAINED FRIDAY

Belmond Township Farm Bureau Picnic Held Thursday

Enjoyable Affair Held At Home Of M. R. Pierce Draws Large Attendance

DEMONSTRATION IS GIVEN

About 200 farmers of Belmond township took time out last Thursday afternoon, July 14, and enjoyed an afternoon social and even picnic at the home of M. R. Pierce on the west edge of Morse Lake.

A. L. Middleton of Eagle Grove who was scheduled for this meeting was unable to meet with the Belmond farmers because of his appointment with a committee in Des Moines. The county agent substituted for Mr. Middleton and gave a short talk on general farm bureau work.

The greater part of the afternoon was given to the poultry culling demonstration which was conducted by the county agent. Several crates of hens were handled and culled and the slacker hens thrown out. The points in culling were explained in detail and those who are interested in poultry work gathered enough informaaion so as to be able to go back to their own farms and pick out the star boarders in their flocks. About thirty percent of the hens culled were discarded as non-layers.

After the poultry culling demonstration the picnicers sat down to a most sumptuous picnic supper, which was spread on the rustic tables which were arranged in the grove of the Pierce farm. Everyone ate until completly satisfied then ate some more and then finished up with ice cream.

The last thing was boating on the lake and the joyful crowd broke up after everyone had enjoyed an evening ride.

FARM BUREAU SOCIAL AT MEINDERS HOME

On of the largest social gatherings ever held in Pleasant township was held at the Adolph Meinders home four miles south of Belmond on Friday evening, July 15. Automobiles were packed into the farm yard and the road in front of the home was lined on both sides for several rods.

Pleasant township farmers have caught the spirit of community socials and have decided to hold regular monthly gatherings at various of the homes over the township throout the entire year.

The first number on the program was a short talk from the county agent who reviewed the farm bureau work that has been carried on during the last year. He spoke of the social developement of the farm bureau and explained in detail some of the legislative measures which have been accomplished during the past few months. He also explained what is being done by the farm bureau in an effort to reduce freight rates.

The principal address of the evening was given by R. E. Lee Aldrich of Iowa township who talked for an hour or more on farm bureau work and world problems in general. Mr. Aldrich's talk indicated that he is a man who makes a thoro study of our present day conditions. He is well known to the farmers of the township and his address seemed to be interesting and to the point.

Ice cream and cake were served and the evening's program closed at 11:30.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

The St. Olaf Lutheran [illegible] will hold a social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Emerson, [illegible] place east of the church, on the north side of the road, instead of the regular Sunday evening program.

ERNEST HOWARD LUICK

Ernest Howard Luick, second son of E. W. and Grace Luick, was born in Belmond, Iowa, September 1, 1900, and died in the hospital at Waverly, Iowa, July 12, 1921, from injuries received in an auto accident on July 10.

Howard attended the Belmond public school and graduated in the class of 1920. He was very popular with all his school mates and his teachers admired him for his frankness and honesty. If he were one's friend he would be true to one always. Two of his school mates have written of him that he was their 'pal' every place they went and that he was loved by all his school mates.

The characteristic of being a "pal" existed not only with his class mates but also with his father and mother. They always shared each others confidences.

Howard's Sunday school teacher has said of him "that no matter what she asked him to do he did it and did it well. He entered whole souled into whatever he undertook; he could enter into social activities with the same life and enthusiasm that he put into athletics.

His life was an open book. His frankness was a characteristic that may be well admired and patterned after. He was always considerate of older folks. As a small boy when delivering milk he would often visit for a prolonged time with Belmond's oldest residents, enjoying himself as much with them as with friends of his own age and giving his boyish ideas with as much abandon.

He loved his grandmother Brande with all his heart, not letting a day pass without doing some gallant little deed for her. He worked industriously with his father on their new home, taking great pride in carrying out their plans.

To his father and mother, little sister and little brother, relatives and companions we would leave these words of Whittier:

"To weary hearts, to mourning homes,
God's meekest Angel gently comes;
No power has he to banish pain,
Or give us back our lost again;
And yet in tenderest love our dear
And Heavenly Father sends him here.

There's quiet in that Angel's glance,
There's rest in his still countenance!
He mocks no grief with idle cheer,
Nor wounds with words the mourner's ear;
But ills and woes he may not cure,
He kindly trains us to endure.

Angel of Patience! sent to calm
Our feverish brows with cooling palm;
To lay the storms of hope and fear,
And reconcile life's smile and tear;
The throbs of wounded pride to still,
And make our own our Father's will!

O thou who mournest on the way,
With longings for the close of day—
He walks with thee, that Angel kind,
And gently whispers, "Be resigned:
Bear up, bear on, the end shall tell
The dear Lord ordereth all things well."

A Friend.

Funeral services were held at the home in east Belmond on Friday afternoon at 2:30, the Rev S. U. Leinbach in charge, and interment was in the Franklin Grove cemetery.

The out-of-town relatives who were present at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Glidden of Henry, South Dakota; Mrs. Cora Evans and Russell Benton of Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Brooks and sons John, Donald, Richard and Robert, and daughter Elizabeth of Waverly; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brooks and family of Jessup; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brande of Iowa Falls; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brande of Alden; and Mike Highberger from Rockwell City.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation of the sympathy and acts of kindness shown to us in our great bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Luick and family.

Mrs. Lucy Brande.

Mrs. A. L. Luick was called to Dubuque last week by the serious illness of her mother, who later died at her home there.

Belmond Farmer Is Held Up By Three Men With Guns

Men Asleep In School House Near Davenport Farm Grow Abusive

THREATEN TO BURN HOME

D. C. Abels, a farmer residing south and west of Belmond, had a hair-raising experience on Wednesday morning of last week when three men trained three guns on him and made him walk the chalk line.

The three men, strangers, were at the Davenport school house south of town, asleep. Abels, coming along, noticed that they had several shocks of his oats, which they were using for pillows. He stopped and asked them to return the shocks after they had finished their snooze, and the strangers became sassy about it, saying that they would if they felt like it, and he could go chase himself.

Abels went back to his house, got his gun and drove back to the school house. He had the gun on the car seat beside him. The men were at the school house yet, and Abels once more requested them to return the bundle of oats to the field. The men again became abusive, and Abels started to reach for his gun. He only had time to start, however, when each of the strangers got into action and Abels was looking down the business end of three hefty revolvers.

The men ordered him to throw up his hands, which he did immediately. They then took his gun away, broke it open and threw the cartridges in the weeds, then they politely handed the gun back to him and said that if he did not go home and stay there, and keep his mouth shut for an hour, they would return and burn him out. Abels thought that the odds were too great to take a chance on, so followed directions to the letter.

The strangers then hopped into their car, a Ford badly broken down and in desripit condition, and traveled.

Who they were, where they were going and what their business was nobody seems to know, but the fact that they each carried a good-sized gun makes it look suspicious.

FIRM OF NISSEN & HARBISON DISSOLVE PARTNERSHIP

The firm of Nissen & Harbison was dissolved last week when Mr. Harbison sold out to his partner. The future plans of Mr. Harbison are not known, but it is understood he has been offered several positions since disposing of his interests here, one of the offers being from Mason City. Belmond folks will hope that he decides to stay here, for his many local friends will hate to see him move. Mr. Nissen is now conducting the business alone.

LEGION SHOCKS OATS FOR MEMBER

Elmer Larson was called to Radcliff last week by the death and funeral of his sister, Mrs. Lars Severeid. He had just cut his oats, and was up against it. During his absence the local post of the American Legion, of which Larson is a member, got busy, and a gang of them went out to the Larson farm on last Thursday and shocked some thirty acres of oats, some of the neighbors out that way helping. The Legion is right on the firing line when it comes to helping out. Some one of the boys left a pair of gloves in the field and he can secure them by calling at the Independent office, where they were left to be called for.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gregory and family of Chicago were recent guests at the home of their friends here, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Luick.

LUELLA MAY GREEN

Luella May, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Green, was born at Belmond, Iowa, March 10, 1920, and died July 15, 1921, of summer complaint, after an illness of only 98 hours. To the sorrowing parents and relatives we would commend the following beautiful words:

"Only a home so sad and drear
Shadowed by Sorrow's dark pall—
Only a rain of the heart felt tears
That in bitterest anguish fall.
Only a tiny waxen form
From which the sweet life has sped—
Only awed whispers, hushed and low—
'The little baby is dead.'

"Only all this the world can see
In its passing to and fro,
Only God knows a father's grief,
And the mother's anguished woe.
Only He knows the bright fond hopes
From their hearts forever fled,
Only He knows the aching void
When their little baby is dead.

"Only from God can comfort come,
Sweet hope and surcease from pain—
Only He in His infinite power
Can measure the baby's gain.
Only He knows the blessed release
Never to weep or to mourn.
Hark! dear parents, Angels are whispering,
'Thy little one's safely at home.'"

Funeral services were held at the home on Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Leinbach officiating, after which the little body was laid away in Franklin Grove cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation to the friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy in the illness and death of our beloved one, and for the beautiful floral offerings.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Green.
Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Green.

BELMOND WINS ANOTHER— BEAT HAMPTON 10 TO 9

In a wild and sensational ten-inning game the Belmond team took the third straight victory from the fast-improving Hampton team.

It was nobody's game the whole game thru, seesawing back and forth from one side to the other. Hampton started out bravely in the first inning and scored twice. Belmond in their half failed to make the way round. In the second Hampton put in three more, giving them a five to nothing lead. That was the way the boys were in the first Kanawha game, however, and then they won out, and they started out to do the same thing yesterday. In their half of the second they pounded in six runs, a lot of costly bungles by Hampton helping things along.

In the third each side scored one, leaving Belmond still one to the good. The fourth and fifth were runless on both sides, but in the sixth Belmond shut Hampton out and made one run themselves, which made the score 8 and 6.

In the seventh Hampton pounded a couple of runs over, which made the score even eight apiece.

Belmond couldn't make the riffle in their half, and there the old game stood, ready to be picked.

The eighth found both sides unable to complete the circuit, and the game went into the nineth with an even score of eight to eight. Hampton got as far as first, but couldn't get any further. Belmond made it as far as second, and died there. So the battle went into extra innings, with everybody on their toes and pulling for life.

Hampton took all the joy out of life when a walk, a hit, and some errors put one big run over the pan for them.

Belmond's chances looked pretty gloomy when the first man up fanned the breeze. But the next one got on, and a hit advanced him to third base. The old squeeze play was gotten out, dusted off, and put into action, and a bunt left the bases loaded, the man on third being unaple to get home. Another bunt put a run over and tied the score, and then Fulton laid down a pretty little bunt for the winning run.

The game was featured by numerous errors on both sides.

STATE DAIRY INSPECTOR TO BE HERE THEN

Proposed Ordinance Regulating Sale Of Milk Thoroly Explained

OTHER COUNCILS COMING

Clarion And Dows Councils To Hear Address By Dr. O. P. Thompson

Dr. O. P. Thompson of Waterloo, State Dairy Inspector for Iowa, will be in Belmond on Friday evening of this week and will deliver an address in the city hall explaining in detail the proposed ordinance dealing with the regulating of selling milk within the city limts of the town.

The address will be given at 8:00 o'clock, and the public, both retailers of milk and anyone who is interested in the subject, is invited to be present and learn the whys and wherefores of the proposed ordinance.

The ordinance as it has been reported to the council of Belmond, is the same as those which are being placed before the city dads of every incorporated town in the state, and the councils from Clarion and Dows are to be here Friday evening to hear the address by Dr. Thompson.

The proposed ordinance is exceptionally strict and far-reaching, and will have a large effect on anyone in Belmond who retails milk, either in quantities or in just pint lots, so that it would seem that everyone who sells milk would profit greatly by attending the address Friday evening and having the ordinance thoroly explained to them.

The council proposes to pass the ordinance at the next meeting, and the consequences will be of considerable range.

AUTO HITS CALF AT MORSE LAKE--VEAL

Out near Morse Lake on Wednesday evening of last week, a calf was called hence with great neatness and dispatch, when a Paige car, driven by Thomas O'Toole of Eagle Grove, son of a doctor at that place, met said young bovine head on while the car was going fifty miles more or less—mostly more—an hour. Young O'Toole and a party of friends from his town had been at the lake, and in going down the hill west of the lake they met three calves in the road. The big Paige smashed into one of the poor innocent things and proceeded to mess things up generally. The calf was turned into vial pronto, and the car into scrap, more or less, the top radiator and windshield being demolished. Outside of a few bruises and the jarring up, the occupants were not injured to speak of, altho the car turned over. A little less speed and more sense would do a lot of people good when they meet an animal in the road, for going at a good gait it does not require much to turn a car over or into the ditch.

BOLLER-LETCH

Mr. Anton John Bohler and Miss Faye Letch were united in marriage by the Rev. S. U. Leinbach of the Congregational church on Saturday evening of last week, July 16, the ceremony taking place at the home of Rev. Leinbach.

Both contracting parties have been making their homes here, altho they are originally from Goodell. They expect to reside here for the present.

The Independent joins with their many friends in extending best wishes for a long and happily married life.

Charley Peterson and family of Hampton came over with their ball team Wednesday.

FREE AIR!

Out at the lake.
* * *
The other night.
* * *
There was a guy.
* * *
From some other town.
* * *
And he was about.
* * *
Six cubits.
* * *
Whatever that is.
* * *
Around the center.
* * *
And he was about.
* * *
Eight axe handles high.
* * *
More or less.
* * *
And he put on a suit.
* * *
And went in the water.
* * *
And then we shuddered.
* * *
And held our breath.
* * *
In horrified suspense.
* * *
Because he stumbled.
* * *
And almost fell.
* * *
And if he had tumbled.
* * *
And fallen flat.
* * *
There would have been.
* * *
Several drownding.
* * *
Because the waves he would make.
* * *
If he ever fell flat.
* * *
Would have swamped the bathers.
* * *
But he didn't fall.
* * *
And just waded in.
* * *
And the water rose.
* * *
About two feet.
* * *
And he paddled round.
* * *
And seemed to have.
* * *
A good time.
* * *
Just the same as others.
* * *
And we were glad.
* * *
Because we knew.
* * *
Just how he felt.
* * *
And there were two girls.
* * *
Went in the water.
* * *
And as they went.
* * *
One of them said.
* * *
To the other one.
* * *
"Be careful what you say.
* * *
Because there's a lot.
* * *
Of men around."
* * *
And ever since.
* * *
We've been wondering.
* * *
What she meant?
* * *
Most any old night.
* * *
Of the week.
* * *
You can have fun.
* * *
By the bushel at the lake.
* * *
Just lookin' on.
* * *
And watchin' the bathers.
* * *
And listening to the talk.
* * *
But sometimes you get
* * *
An awful hankerin'.
* * *
To splash around too.
* * *
Ain't it the truth?

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

Ten thousand of them—clear, cold, sky blue, fringed by balsam and spruce. The picturesque shore lines are broken occasionally by clean, sandy beaches. Lake after lake is connected by winding channels or portages. Each succeeding scene seems more and more exquisite. An endless panorama of natural beauty. Minnesota is the place for you.

Every recreation: Fishing (mighty muskie, gamy bass and northern pike), sailing, motor boating, canoeing, swimming, golf, tennis, woodland hikes.

Free Camp Sites

Choice of luxurious hotels, cottages, log cabins or boarding houses. Accommodations good and prices reasonable. Descriptive and illustrated folder, "THE MINNESOTA LAKES" is yours for the asking.

Two fast steel trains to St. Paul and Minneapolis, daily

Make a complete change this year—GO TO MINNESOTA. Inquire about fares—they are reduced if you buy round trip tickets.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD

Apply Ticket Agent C. G. W. R. R.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

GET TOGETHER

The daily press reports that the various nations whom President Harding has asked to meet in a conference to limit armaments, have agreed to the meeting, and that the conference is soon to take place.

Let's all hope that it does, and that the nations at the conference will be able to reach a mutual understanding and agreement on the limiting of the world's armaments, for it will be the greatest step forward that the world has taken in two thousand years.

The war bill of the big nations is now totalling ten billion dollars every year. This is a sum that cannot be comprehended by the human mind. It is the great bulk of the world's expenditures for government, and if the limitation of armaments can be mutually agreed upon this stupendous sum will be reduced by half if not more, and the money which is now spent in building up armies and navies for the purpose of destruction will be turned into the channels of education, better government and better living conditions and homes, into a thousand one different avenues of betterment to mankind. And this immense sum, now taken from the pockets of the people for maintaining the fighting forces, in the way of heavy taxes, will be greatly reduced, for by far the largest share of the tax money goes toward paying for wars past, present and future.

Of the nations asked, England appears glad, as does Italy, while France is skeptical and Japan watchfully waiting. Japan apparantly will insist on completing her present naval program. She appears to be the one nation who may hold back when the time comes to compromise.

President Harding has taken a big step forward in inviting this conference, and should it be successfully concluded will be numbered as one of the greatest figures of all history.

AIN'T IT AWFUL, MABLE?

It does beat the cars—and it has to go some nowadays to beat 'em—that the Clarion News cannot get things straight? And doesn't it beat the cars that they hate to see the Belmond ball team get away with a game?

In the write up of the Fourth game the news, as the Herald-Press so aptly put it, crowded 20 inches of type full of errors and incorrect statements, but in its write up of the game last Wednesday the News gives anything but the news. It says Belmond got sore and quit over a decision at the plate, when as a matter of fact the boys quit because they would not put in another umpire. And on this umpire business there is considerable to say. The Clarion dispatches to the Globe-Gazette grossly mistated the facts of the game and appeared to deliberately libel the team and town.

Belmond quit because the umpire was rotten in his decisions. After Belmond had accepted his decision on home and had gone on playing, he made it a point to come over to the boys after the next inning and start arguing and talking about the decision, altho none of them had given him cause to start talking. The Belmond manager asked for a new umpire, which he had a perfect right to do. The Clarion manager agreed, as we only asked that another man, any one from any place be put in. But the Clarion pitcher then steps in and declared he wouldn't play if they put in a new ump. As the pitcher rather than the manager seemed to manage the team, the Belmond boys decided they would rather forfeit the game than have it stolen from them, they quit, altho they wanted to continue the game for they were playing better ball than Clarion.

The News says it was Clarion's game, mostly because Wilson had 15 strikeouts to Pillmer's nine. But not the strikeouts count, brother King. Belmond had four hits to Clarion's two; Belmond had five men left on bases to Clarion's two; and Belmond had not made an error in the entire game, while Clarion had, a beautiful bonehead play wherein three men stood around and let a high pop fly drop between them. Does that look as tho it was Clarion's game?

The News insinuates that the Belmond manager had a bet on the game, which was absolutely without foundation. As a matter of fact the betters were from the county seat, who made bets among themselves. Belmond people at the game were not betting, aside from one or two.

The umpire, when he went into the grounds, paid his way, and said to the gatekeeper: "I may umpire, and if I do I'll come back and get my money." Later he did. He asked the gatekeeper for his money back, saying he was to umpire, and he said: "I'll give you a good deal today." He did, alright. Said conversation being overheard by a man who wasn't from Clarion.

Ain't it awful, Mable, that they just hate to see Belmond win?

The Independent is not picking a scrap with the News, or with the fans from Clarion, but it would like to see things given straight.

CLIPPINGS

* * * * * * * * * * * *

The other day Eckard Zeidler was shocking grain for Albert Schmidt and in the days work ran onto something rather strange. Eckard found a bird's nest with young birds in it in a bundle of grain wovhad built their nest on top of a tall weed which was cut with the grain, went thru the binden into a tall weed. The birds er and made into a bundle and the nest was not destroyed or the young birds were not spilled out in going thru the binder. Eckard set the bundle up in the shock and the birds seemed quite content in their new location and were none the worse for their exciting trip thru the binder.—Klemme Times.

* * * * * * * * * * * *

The bank burglars were scheduled to visit us this week, but evidently they had a tip that it would be a tough job, for we understand that our local bank has its Liberty Bonds with a city correspondent. This has been done by nearly all banks so that the burglar does not fare nearly so well as he did a year ago.—Meservey Register.

Vern Smith returned on Monday morning from an over Sunday visit at Belmond.

Sunday night while Mr. and Mrs. Curley Lewis, their little daughter, Curley's sister, Miss Essex of Whitten, who is a guest at their home, and Miss Viva Rourk were returning from Bayside, one of the front wheels on their auto came off near Garner causing the occupants to be thrown against the sides and the windshield of the car. No one was seriously hurt, Miss Viva receiving a cut on one side of her head that required a couple of stitches and was also quite badly bruised. Miss Essex received several small cuts and was bruised. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis both received minor injuries while their little daughter escaped uninjured. She was asleep in her mother's lap and did not even wake up.—Kanawha Reporter.

Up in West Bend a fellow sold a cow hide for one dollar and then had to pay forty cents for a belt lacing. It is estimated that a single cow hide will make 1,000 belt lacings. Where does the money between the cost of the hide and cost of the strings go?—Exchange.

The Goldfield ban has accepted thru their manager an engagement to play two concerts for the Clear Lake Amusement company at Bayside Park on next Sunday afternoon and evening. The band, fully uniformed, will number about 35 men. The trip will be made in cars and the band will be accompanied by a hundred or more friends and relatives of of the members. This band has made considerable strides musically during the past year and have several offers for outside engagements.—Eagle.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gartin of Belmond were visiting in Klemme last Thursday afternoon.—Times.

W. C. Tyrrell of Belmond passed thru here Monday enroute to Britt. He and W. S. Pritchard are old time friends and Mr. Tyrrell stopped for a few minutes confab with Walt.—Garner Signal.

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. Our Superintendent anounced last Sunday that we are to have our annual picnic in the near future. Further announcement will be made next Sunday. Be sure to hear it.

Preaching services at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Epworth League devotional meeting at 7:00 p. m.

A welcome awaits you at any and all of the services of the church.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Ladies Aid society will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at the Wolle home. A picnic will be held in connection with the meeting. Every member and any who wish to join the society are urged to be present. Bring dishes, sandwiches and one other thing for your own family.

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

We must go one better next Sunday to be up to the mark set for this quarter. That was fine for this hot weather but let us not let good enough beat us out of the best. The young peoples meeting at Mr. Tyrrell's was full of interest and there were at least two more present than the week before. Let us keep moving up.

Next Sunday: Sabbath school at 10:00, morning worship at 11:00 and the evening services at 8:00. The services next Sunday evening will be held at the home of Mr. Bert Jenison and will be led by Miss Beatrice Leinbach. We hope to see at least a hundred present at this meeting. Why not spend your Sunday evenings in an hour of worship out on a nice cool lawn rather than just riding around or at the lake or in some picnic party? The groves were God's first temples and it does seem that we get very near to God in these out of door services. We invite all to come and those who have no way of getting out we will furnish you cars in which to go if you will come to the church not later than half past seven. The services begin promptly at 8:00.

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

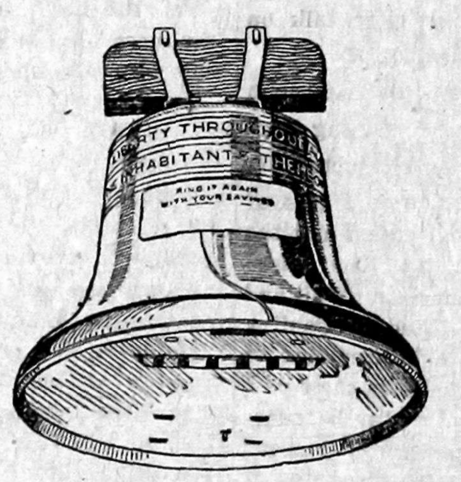
STRENGTH SERVICE

THE SEED OF SUCCESS

To save is the seed of success and the regular and systematic depositing of a little of all you earn is the cultivation of the fertile soil of increased wealth and future financial independence.

Sow today and reap tomorrow.

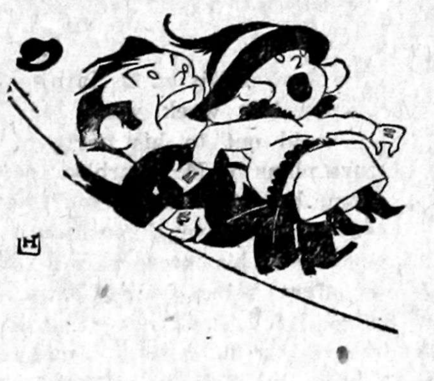
Begin with as small an amount as $1 and open a Term Savings Account here that will pay you 5 per cent interest compounded semi-annually.



Lay aside a small amount today and get one of our Liberty Bell Banks to save your spare change in.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Transfer? A fat chance!



I READ a story,
ABOUT A fellow.
WHO SLIPPED.
ON AN icy hill.
AND STARTED to slide.
AND TRIPPED up.
A FAT lady.
WHO SAT on him.
AND RODE down hill.
TO THE foot.
AND THEN he wheezed.
"MADAM, YOU'LL have.
TO GET off here.
THIS IS as far.
AS I go."
SO WHEN a new clerk.
WHO DIDN'T know.
MY REGULAR smoke.
TRIED TO sell me.
SOME OTHER kind.
OF CIGARETTE.
I REMEMBERED that yarn.
AND TOLD the clerk.
JUST WHERE to get off.
OTHER KINDS will burn.
AND GIVE off smoke.
I'LL ADMIT that much.
BUT THAT'S as far.
AS I'LL go.
THERE'S ONLY one kind.
OF CIGARETTE.
THAT CAN, and will, and does.
REALLY "SATISFY."

OTHER cigarettes may please your taste for a time—but that's as far as they go. With finer tobaccos—both Turkish and Domestic—and with finer blending—Chesterfields give you the fullest possible cigarette enjoyment. They always satisfy. It's the blend—and it can't be copied.

Air-Tight Tins of 50
Ask your dealer to show you the new vacuum-sealed tins of 50 Chesterfields. A compact, convenient and absolutely AIR-TIGHT packing—the cigarettes keep fresh indefinitely.

They Satisfy Chesterfield
CIGARETTES

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Miss Izetta Fletcher spent Tuesday at Fort Dodge with her sister, Mrs. Morris Sullivan.

Miss Iva Zalesky of Detroit, Mich., who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. D. A. French, went to Fort Dodge on Tuesday to visit relatives there for a while.

Fred Clark is visiting his niece, Mrs. Dan Fletcher.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D Yoeman, Mrs. Bert Hiams and Mrs. L. W. Stevenson were Clarion shoppers Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham, Mrs. W. H. Nye and Mrs. J. F. Howell and children went to Clarion, Tuesday, to shop.

Mrs. Joseph George of Dows visited at the home of her friend, Mrs. Ed Miller last Tuesday. The following ladies entertained her at a picnic at the river: Mesdames Ed Miller, Blanche Jennings, F. H. Fowler, Willard McCallum and Guy Stumph. They report a fine time.

Miss Blanch Combs was taken to the hospital at Iowa Falls where she was operated on last Tuesday for appendicitis. She is reported as recovering nicely.

Relatives here have received cards announcing the marriage of Charles McKinstrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jap McKinstrey of Cedar Falls, the last Thursday in June. They were married at the "Little Brown Church in the Vale."

Jay, Vera and Dorothy Knuths were Coulter callers Sunday of last week.

Donald Farren was an Eagle Grove caller Tuesday where he helped arrange for the county Tennis Tournament which will be held at Eagle Grove, August 4.

Mrs. Fred Smith, Kenneth and Marion, of Coulter, came Wednesday to spend several days at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. Snyder and her sister, Mrs. Fred Brooks.

Miss Susan Duffy and Mr. R. Williamson were Hampton business callers Wednesday.

The meat market has discontinued retaiing ice on account of the shortage. This is a disappointment to their customers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lerton Sater of Middletown were in town Wednesday evening. They were looking after farm interests here. They were enroute to Clear Lake to spend a week camping. Mr. Sater is a brother of Bert Sater who lived here several years.

Miss Margaret Cooley of Forest City has been visiting at the home of her uncle Herb Ketchum and family. She returned home Wednesday.

Mrs. E. Bingham has been on the sick list the past week.

Mrs. Will Farmer and children of Stubenville, Ohio, who have been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Jennie Rowen, returned to Clarion, Thursday to visit for a few days.

Mrs. B. Bradfield of Spirit Lake arrived Tuesday to visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jennie Rowen, returning home Friday. Miss Nellie Pierce of Belmond is also visiting at the Rowen home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks and Mrs. Fred Smith of Clarion were Eagle Grove shoppers Thursday.

J. L. Sinclair of Clarion was a Rowan caller Thursday.

Edgar Mantle went to Goodell this week to help his folks put up hay.

Mrs. Lloyd Green and Mrs. Lyle Hall of Alexander were Rowan shoppers Friday. They also met Mrs. Mary Hall, and Mrs. Sylvia Felmy, also Alexander, who had been visiting at Bristow.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong of Clarion were in town Monday of this week tuning pianos.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Welch and their children have moved in rooms in the Bingham block. Mr. Welch is with the extra gang on the Great Western railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Brooks and their family of Waverly, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brooks and family of Jessup, called on relatives here Friday. They were enroute to Waverly from Belmond where they had been attending the funeral of the late Howard Luick. He was a nephew of Mrs. Will Brooks.

Last Wednesday four auto loads from Belmond met the body of Howard Luick who was fatally injured in an auto accident at Waverly.

Little Barbara Ketchum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Ketchum, met with an accident last Thursday when their automblle backed over her. Luckily she was not hurt much, no bones being broken.

Last Wednesday four auto loads from Belmond met the body of Howard Luick, who was fatally injured in an auto accident at Waverly.

T. Hansen was a Thornton and Clear Lake visitor Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Welch was a Clarion visitor Friday.

Mrs. Will Bailey was sick this week caused from the extreme heat.

Mrs. Ben Stout and baby of Thompson came Saturday to visit at the home of her uncle, Sim Stout, and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ferguson and Mrs. Dan Harris and children attended the circus at Webster City, Saturday.

Mrs. Roy Fitz of Clarion visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gay Fletcher, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey and daughter Bernice were Belmond shoppers Friday.

Mrs. Dan Flecher and daughter, Izetta, were Dows shoppers between trains Friday.

The Misses Wilda and Frieda Whitaen were Dows shoppers Saturday.

J. H. Dix of Hampton was a visitor here Saturday, looking after his farm interests and calling on old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bailey, Jr. and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey and Bernice were Dows callers Saturday. Chester went down to have his hand dressed, which he had broken when the hand car fell over on it. It is not getting along as well as it should.

The morning freight train going on the Rock Island set fire to the oat field on the Fred Brooks farm, Saturday, burning about ten acres of the shocked oats. Herb Hadley lives on on this place. The fire also ran into R. E. Lee Aldrich's field and burned one or two acres for him. Several car loads of men from town went out to fight the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Virden, the Misses May and Frances Virden, and Ruth Emerson and Mrs. W. H. Nye and Wilford and Margerette motored to Iowa Falls, Thursday. Miss Frances went from there to Cedar Falls to attend the State Christian Endeavor convention at that place.

The ice cream social which was held on the church lawn last Tuesday night was well attended. The home made ice cream was enjoyed very much and the Endeavors realized over $20 from it which was nearly all clear money.

Mrs. R. H. Keith and Kenneth and Margaret spent the week last week at Renwick at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clowes. Mr. Keith motored after them Sunday. Mrs. Keith's niece, Charlotte Clowes, returned with them for a visit.

Mrs. Gene Sprague and son Kenneth spent several days with her husband last week at the home of Mrs. Mary Braden. She went to Cedar Rapids, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Cowley and Miss Maude Cowley of Dows spent Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Braden. Miss Cowley is one of the high school teachers for the coming year.

Fred Brooks finished his work on the road grader for the present and started running the separator on the Keith threshing machine last Saturday.

Jack Steffens, who has been visiting at the home of his uncle Wm. Steffens, and family, left Monday for Spring Valley, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen and family visited at the J. L. Sinclair home in Clarion Monday evening

Fred Heathershaw, a brother of Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver, arrived one day last week from England.

The Jackson Furniture Co. of Clarion brought a bunch of all cotton filled mattresses over Thursday and sold a good share of them.

Ben McCormick has resigned as section foreman on the Great Western road here and returned to Dumont. Carl Kalvig has been appointed as foreman in his place.

Mrs. J. S. Farren and son Bobby visited at Fort Dodge Saturday.

Miss Erma Barker went to Fayette, Saturday, to attend a six weeks summer course.

Eddie Underdahl was a Mason City caller Monday of this week.

Earl Bailey went to Fort Dodge on Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Robinson went to Clear Lake Saturday returning home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kalvig and family moved from Ackley last week into the residence vacated by the Dr. Gordon family last spring. The houses in Rowan are all full again.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Comer and children and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jennings and children of Clarion spent Sunday at the L. A. McCallum home.

Clarence Lindsey has been working for Dan Fletcher on the dray during Mr. Fletchers' absence.

Miss Alice McCallum of Dundee is visiting at the L. A. McCallum home.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Madson and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hansen and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Andrews and family of Coulter were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sailor and family of Ackley were Sunday guests at the Jake Aldinger home. They all went to Clear Lake for part of the day.

Sunday evening the following people had a picnic supper at Morse Lake Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Carmon, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Braden and Mr. and Mrs. R. Williamson.

Mrs. A. D. Hiams has been spending the week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. B. Heath.

Marledene Ross, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs Tom Ross of near Galt, has been very sick the past week with convulsions caused from her teeth. She is reported better at the present time.

The Rowan ball team played the Goodell team Sunday on the diamond north of town with a score of 4-3 in favor of Goodell.

Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver was a Clarion visitor Monday.

The score of the tennis game which was played at Eagle Grove July 7th stands as follows:

Andrews vs. Tomkinson, 6-2.
Rietz vs. Whiteman, 7-5.
Martin vs. Shedon, 6-2.
Andrews vs. Rietz, 6-0.
Martin vs. Farren, 6-1.
Wilson vs. Norris, 6-1.
Martin vs. Whiteman, 7-5.

Results in doubles:

Platte-Cook vs. Farren-Sheldon, 6-2.
Strans-James vs. Farren-Sheldon, 1-6.
Platt-Whiteman vs. Rietz-Tomkinson, 6-4.
Andrews-Martin vs. Rietz-Tomkinson, 6-4.
Platt-Andrews vs. Tomkinson-Farren, 6-2.
Farren-Tomkinson vs. Cooke-Barnes, 5-4.

Miss Urdahl and Clifford Larson of Rake came Monday night to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Underdahl.

John Brooks of Waverly came Monday to visit at the home of his grandma Brooks and his uncle Fred Brooks.

Miss Laura McCallum went to Clarion, Sunday, to visit a couple of weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. Glen Jennings.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Emerson and family left Friday night for Lake Okoboji for a short camping trip. They expected to meet Dr. and Mrs. Chassell and family at that place and then all come to Rowan.

The American Legion met Monday night in regular session.

Mrs. Fred Welch was taken suddenly very ill Monday night.

Mr. Mullins of Des Moines was in town several days last week canvassing the country with Mr. E. Bingham selling stock medicine.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

Morning service at 11:00.
Sunday school at 12:00.
Christian Endeavor at 7:00.

There will be a report given at this meeting by our delegate who attended the state convention at Cedar Rapids.

Evening service at 8:00.

Everybody is invited to attend to these services. Come and bring your friends.

Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. the Junior Endeavor will meet at the church.

The mid-week prayer meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 8:00 at the church.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Jake Aldinger on Wednesday afternoon, July 20. Topic, Law Enforcement. Leader, Mrs. Mollering.

The union service Sunday night at the Cong. church was cuite well attended. The male quartette gave a fine selection which was enjoyed by all.

REDUCED RAILROAD RATES

Veterans of 88th Division Granted Rate of One and One-Half Fare To Reunion.

Local veterans of the Eighty-eighth division have just received word from the Western Passenger Association announcing a reduced rate of one and one-half for round trip to the first reunion of the division to be held at Des Moines, Iowa, August 26 to 28.

The special rate will be given for all service men who trained at Camp Dodge, either with the regular regiments of the division or with any of the special units stationed there during the war. It also applies to all artillerymen who were in training at the Des Moines cantonment.

At least 2,000 veterans from this state are expected to attend the reunion. Special trains will be operated from several points within the state, details concerning which will be announced later.

According to announcements received from Des Moines this week there will be a tena city of more than 20 acres erected at the state fair grounds there, where the veterans will be given housing free of charge for the period of the reunion. Provision is being made for a total attendance of between 6,000 and 10,000 men.

Magazine Agency

BELMOND, IOWA

DON'T let your Magazine Subscription run out just when you are in the midst of an interesting article or a thrilling story.

I take orders for any magazine published, both new subscriptions and renewals.

Why wait or bother to write into the company yourself when I can take care of your subscription for you at any time?

R. A. RANKINS

Phone 115 or 196

The Belmond Independent Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

GARNER PLEASED WITH CHAUTAUQUA

The chautauqua just completed at Garner has proved highly satisfactory to the people of that town, and the Garner Leader has considerable to say about it. The chautauqua is of the Midland system, which is the same system that has been signed up for here for next year. The Leader says in part:

With this evening's program, Garner closes the most successful chautauqua that has ever been held in the city. We measure the success of this attraction by the quality of the talent furnished rather than by the gate receipts. This is the first year that Garner has attempted to put a seven-day chautauqua over and altho the undertaking did not bring the guarantors any dividends, Garner boosters are by no means discouraged, and we will have another chautauqua next year, and it will be a seven-day lay-out. There are several matters to be taken into consideration in figuring why the chautauqua did not attract as it should this year. The principal one is that our people did not realize what really excellent talent was being brought to our city, nor did this great truth become generally known and understood until the last days of the program when marked increase in attendance was evidenced.

Now since the programs have been given and our people have come to realize what sort of talent we have had one could go out and sell the guarantee in one day's time. Another matter to be considered is that farmers are busy at this time in the harvest fields and could not well get away. A third and perhaps one of the best reasons to assign is that we have not been educated to such quality programs. Heretofore we have had junior or five-day chautauquas and naturally the quality of the talent has not been as good in some instances as what we had expected, but we have had a real chautauqua this season and none can say that he has not had many times his money's worth. What the Midland Chautauqua company furnished this year has blazed the trail for future chautauqua and hereafter it will be a seven-days program for Garner.

ALEXANDEER NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohlen and two children visited at the B. K. Kinseth home at Belmond last Sunday.

The many friends of Adolph Eden are glad to learn that he is somewhat improved after his recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Van Horn, Mrs. Kate Kausian and children, Earnest, Julius and Minnie of Dumont, visited with relatives here the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Reed are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine baby boy, born Friday, July 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Caas Symens were business callers at Belmond last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Aldinger and children were callers at Hampton last Thursday evening.

Will Vestweber of Belmond was a caller in town last Saturday.

Else Eden was a caller at Belmond last Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Winwood and Mrs. Fred Rodemeyer and children visited at the George Yaw home at Iowa Falls one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Greenfield and son Frederick visited with relatives in Belmond Sunday evening.

Miss Wilma Foughty visited at the DeMaris home in Hampton several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Marble of Waterloo visited at the John Bell and Peter Bohlen homes the past week.

John Modderman and sons, Claas, Ilert and John, autoed to Rochester Minnesota, last Sunday to visit with Herman Modderman who is in the hospital at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Finkle and daughter Leona of Hampton visited at the Nels Larsen home last Sunday.

Rev. J. J. Priestly former pastor of the Congregational church, is visiting Alexander people this week.

Will Foughty was a Sunday caller at Garner.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP

The hum of the threshing machine has already been heard here the past week.

The three standard schools of Pleasant township have ordered slides which will greatly improve the playgrounds.

Mrs. Rob Walters spent Sunday at the Harry Green home, her little daughter, Harriet, is visiting with her aunt, Mrs. Ed. Thompson.

Bertha Gartz spent the past Sunday with her friend, Hazel Hendrickson, at Thompson.

The road graders are grading the rest of the state road in this township after which it will be graveled.

KANAWHA NEWS

Mr. Bowles of Algona was a business caller Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Blomgren and the Misses Gladys and Artie Peterson were Fort Dodge visitors Monday.

T. L. Johnson of Clear Lake was a visitor here Wednesday.

Frank Huxtable returned to Mason City, Monday, after a brief visit with friends here.

The Messrs. Ed. Soderberg and Geo. Gollier left Saturday for Spencer, where they expect to work this summer.

Frank Ross, who has been employed at the J. C. Anderson Harness shop for several years, left Saturday for Illinois where he expects to work at the harness trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kalvig and family left Sunday for a couple weeks outing at Lake Okoboji.

The Misses Cecil Benzler and Thersa Peterson and Ed. Hanson were over Sunday visitors at Mason City.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

Monitor: Marriage licenses for the past week: Anton Boller and Fay Letch, Clifford Whitten and Linda Lee.

H. H. Barker of Rowan, quite well known thruout the county as a grower of fruits and fine vegetables, was brought before the insane commission Monday. After examining a number of witnesses it was decided best to end Mr. Barker to Cherokee for treatment, to which place he was taken Tuesday morning by Deputy Denger.

Monday the board of supervisors awarded the contract of graveling the road north from Holmes to E. F. Bailey of Belmond, who is to furnish the gravel and deliver it at Holmes. It will be shipped over the Rock Island via. Dows. Jack Welch of Dows will haul the gravel and distribute it over the road.

A meeting of the representatives of the various rural school townships of Wright county was held at the office of Supt. Bock at Clarion on Thursday last for the purpose of adopting a uniform wage scale for the teachers of the county Nine out of 16 townships sent representatives and the session lasted several hours. After discussing the matter pro and con it was decided to make a reduction of $10 per month on all grades. The schedule adopted was as follows: First grade, $100; second, $85; third, $70. These amounts were suggested for the entire county, but are not mandatory. Those in attendance at the session were (from this vicinity) O. D. Jenison, E. D. Murphy, Aug-Rabe, Pleasant; James Mehl, Norway; G. C. Baker, Belmond.

A couple of lads living less than a thousand miles from Clarion have been cutting up capers of late that will spell trouble for them if they do not desist. Their first offense was to take dad's big seven passenger car and leave between two days for parts unknown. Next heard of was when a check for gas and oil turned up at one of the Eagle Grove banks. Payment was refused for lack of funds. On another occasion or possibly it was before leaving for the west, they came to Clarion and passed some checks, one of which turned out to be a forgery, on several of our local merchants. After being notified of the circumstances dad came to the rescue and took up the aforesaid checks. Only last week Sheriff Lang was notified that an auto belonging to dad No. 2 had been stolen. The officer was summoned from his slumbers about two a. m. and an hour later had Eagle Grove police hot on their trail. In fact the fleeing pair were filling the radiator of their car when word was received to hold them. They were only a few blocks ahead of the officers, but gave them the slip at a cross roads by turning off their lights. Sheriff Lang sent out a call to other towns and a couple of hours later he received word that the Fort Dodge police had the men wanted. Dad was pretty hostile at the start, but when informed of the lads capture he weakened and hustled to Fort Dodge and fixed matters up by paying all expense. Both dads should put a stop to such escapades as another offense may not be treated so lightly by the officers.

At a recent meeting the county board of supervisors voted to assist the Red Cross health nursing project by assuming Miss Liddle's salary and donating $1,000 toward the salary of an assistant, the enlarged scope of Miss Liddle's work making it impossible for her to cover all the ground alone. The office of the health nurse will remain in the court house and the Red Cross organization directs the work and provides funds for automobile and incidental expenses, also balance of assistant's salary.

The nursing activities committee of the Red Cross feels gratified at this step in advance for the work in Wright county. The committee is composed of well posted, far sighted and reasonable men and women, who realize the importance of the work they have in hand and who can be trusted to prosecute it vigorously but wisely. The results of the project thus far speak for themselves, and the public is becoming more and more interested and responsive. There are many demands on each dollar of Wright county's public funds at present. but the Monitor believes the supervisors acted wisely is giving some support toward carrying on the health nurse work so well begun in this county. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Holver Thompson in Norway township, about eight miles west of Belmond, was the scene of a very happy event when on July 12 Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were completely surprised by some eighty of their friends, neighbors and relatives, who dropped in to help them celebrate the fifthieth anniversary of their marriage.

The friends gathered at 2:30 o'clock and spent the afternoon in a very enjoyable social time. Short talks appropriate for the occasion were given by Rev. Jensen and Rev. Thompson, and a beautiful solo was rendered by Miss Alma Erickson. A bountious supper was served between five and six o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were married at Etne, Norway, in 1871, and came to Lesbon, Illinois, in 1883. In 1899 they moved to Wright county, where they have since made their home. They were blessed with four children, Mrs. Tom Thompson, Mrs. Soren Toftey, Mrs. Thor Knutson, and Mrs. Andrew Olson, all of whom were present at the celebration except Mrs. Knutson, who resides at Minneato, Minnesota.

The guests from away who were present were Rev. Torger Thompson and family of Fairview, South Dakota; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thompson of Hartland, Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. Ole Heggens, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Heggen, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Tjelle and son, Miss Bertha Tjerson, all of Renwick; and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tunsell and Mr. and Mrs Ole Severtson of Kanawha.

The Independent wishes to join in with the many friends of this couple in congratulations and best wishes.

J. C. Arends of Alexander was in town Tuesday afternoon, bringing his young son Orvall to see Dr. Steele. Orvall has been suffering from a severe case of lockjaw, which was so very severe that no hopes were entertained whatever for his recovery. His body became as rigid as a board, the muscles contracting to a poker-like stiffness. Some 75,000 units of serum were injected into his arm, after two attempts to reach the spinal cord had failed, and the little fellow finally came thru. He lost but five pounds in his illness and is coming along in fine shape. Miss Nora Nelson was the nurse.

Belmond Local News

Mrs. R. C. Morse has been enjoying a visit from her niece, Miss Lorena Malvin from Minnesota.

Last Thursday afternoon at the M. R. Pierce home beside the beautiful little Morse Lake, about one hundred men, women and children members of the Belmond Township Farm Bureau, met for a picnic. The county agent, Mr. R. E. Edwards, gave a splendid demonstration in culling chickens, making everything so plain and simple a child could understand and be able to cull a flock. We felt somewhat disappointed that Mr. Middleton was unable to be present and give us a talk, but Mr. Edwards in his pleasant, genial manner, creditbly filled the gap in our program and gave us some good sound farm bureau points, after which the ladies brought forth baskets filled to the brim with good things to eat and we were served to a genuine picnic supper.

Boating and bathing followed, and all went home feeling that the time had been pleasantly and profitably spent, and expressing gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Pierce for their hospitality. **

IOWA HOME BREW ON THE INCREASE

University Laboratories Make Frequent Analyses As Aid To Court Proceedings.

Home brew is growing in popularity in Iowa, judging from the increasing number of samples of this anti-Volstead product sent for analysis to the laboratories of the college of pharmacy of the University of Iowa. Dean Wilber J. Teeters, head of the college receives many samples of home brew to test for various courts in which the cases have been brought charging illegal manufacture and sale of liquor.

"Tests show that the average samples of home brew contain from eight to twelve per cent alcohol, some of it runs as high as twenty per cent," according to Dean Teeters. "The amount of alcohol depends upon the quantity of sugar used.

"For the most part the Iowa folks are making their home brew of rhubarb, sorghum, and either corn meal or rye. Sometimes raisins are used. Dandelions and clover heads likewise seem to have a large following."

Frequently vrious articles of food are sent in to the laboratory for analysis to determine whether or not they contain poison. Most of this work is done for private individuals who imagine someone is trying to poison them.

Recently a man brought in a shaker of salt in which he felt sure his wife had placed poison. An analysis showed the shaker to contain nothing but pure salt, yet it was rather hard to convince the man that his suspicions were not correct. Flour, sugar, peanuts, and many other articles of food have been sent in by persons who suspect someone of attempting to take their life.

INDEPENDENT WANT ADS

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

A few second hand Fords at real bargains. In first class running order.—Belmond Auto Co.

Lost—At Clarion on the Fourth, a ladies gold watch, Elgin make. Finder please return to Independent office, or to Mrs. Kate Lubey, Goldfield, Iowa.

Chambermaid wanted, to assist in dining room during meals.—Hotel Case 1t*

Found—Automobile tool kit containing tools. Owner can have same by proving property. Call at Independent.

For Sale—Good fresh milk cow.—Sheriff Bros.

Gentle in Effect.

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

When You Are In Mason City Looking For

READY - TO - WEAR

Be Sure To Visit Glanville's New Store and See the

NEW FALL SUITS AND DRESSES

GLANVILLE'S

GARMENT SHOP

7 West State Street Mason City, Iowa

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing

Acetylene Welding

Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson

Props.

OUR big Super Sale is a thing of the past, and with its going we find a great many odds and ends and broken lines; also many lines that did not sell that we desire to close out---BEGINNING THURSDAY and lasting throughout the month we will conduct a and endeavor by a cut price method to reduce this stock to where it should be by August first. We are going to offer you some items that will start something. We are going to convince you that it's timd to buy- Here's a sample of what you'll find.

JULY CLEARANCE SALE

All Remaining Ladies' Coats

Will go during this sale at prices that are less than the labor in them---in two lots---your choice

$5 and $10

27 inch Fancy

OUTINGS

20 yards for $1.00

Sport Dresses

Our entire stock, that sold for two and three times these prices, in three lots at $3.85 $8.75 $9.75

75c Linen Crash

TOWELING

10 yards for $1.00

Our Entire Stock of All Wool

Plaid Pleated Skirts

Sold As High As $12.50

YOUR CHOICE $4.75

Flesh Treci

CONFINERS

65c Regular Value

39c

We Offer About

250 Lingerie Waists

That Sold At $3.75

During This Sale At

$1.25

MAIL ORDER THESE

Child's Hose, all sizes, in black and white	15c
40-inch all silk, good weight, crepe-de-chine, all shades	$1.65
Long Silk Gloves, all sizes, black. white or mode at	$1.49
Children's Rompers, all sizes, our regular $1.50 value	85c
Heavy Red Boreer Huck Towels, 18x38, a real buy	29c
36-inch good grade Percale in 30 good patterns	16c

One Big Lot of White

WASH SKIRTS

But They Go At

98c

STERLING

Mason City, Iowa

BELMOND MEETS ACKLEY AND BRINGS SAUERKRAUT

It was literally a premeditated and cold blooded slaughter. The sauerkraut team never once had the ghost of a show, and the details of the affair are sickening. After the first two innings the Belmond boys got so warm running around the bases that "King" Brady had to fan 'em to keep prostration off. Sauerkraut lay thick all over the field, and the air was filled with flying weiners and two-base hits. Two in the third, fourth and fifth, some more in the seventh, and five in the nineth, when added up gave 12. Ackley never had a look at the plate until the nineth when a three-bagger and a two-base hit one after the other gave them their one lone run. They never saw second in the eight innings but twice, and they never had a show in that time of getting any farther. Bemond played an errorless game until the eighth, when an error was made, and one in the nineth was the total of their bungles. Ackley featured the game with wooly plays of all kinds and descriptions, their left fielder hanging onto only one ball in the entire game, a red-hot line drive by Heinsch, which he had to stop to save himself.

Playing as they did in this game, the Belmond team had anything in this neck of the woods looking like a rimless cipher. After the way the game a week ago Sunday was handed to the sauerkraut town, the second game was good to see, and demonstrated that the Ackley team are away out of their class with Belmond. The final result was 12 to 1, and while Ackley secured four hits off Pillmer's delivery the Belmond boys secured between fifteen and twenty, nobody appears to know the exact number; they came too fast to keep track. The Ackley players and people are a very nice bunch of folks and treated the boys royally. A large delegation of local fans drove down to the game.

Belmond Local News

County Agent Edwards was in the city on Thursday afternoon of last week, on his way to the M. R. Pierce home where a Farm Bureau picnic was held that day.

Steve Antonio, manager of the Belmond Candy Kitchen, was a business visitor last week at Albert Lea, Minnesota.

Miss Mildred Gealow came down from Meservey to spend the week end at the home of relatives here.

Wayne Pond was over from Hampton the first of the week, greeting old friends. He is employed at that place with the Kughn road gang of Dows who are doing some work in the vicisity of Hampton.

Sunday evening at Morse Lake a local citizen counted over seventy-five carloads of people at one time, many of them from the towns around. There were over a hundred and fifty bathers in at one time, which speaks considerable for the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brewer and Mr. and Mrs Ray Brewer were visitors at Abert Lea with relatives over the week end, going up on Saturday and returning the first of this week.

Miss Helen DeWitt of Chicago is here spending a two weeks' vacation visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hauge.

Miss Adeline Hauge returned on Friday of last week from Des Moines, where she has been taking a course in stenography.

For Sale—Household goods, consisting of 1 Electric range, Hoosier Kitchen cabinet, and leather couch. Cheap if taken at once—Mrs. Irene Bailey.

Mrs. Hans Hanson went to Fort Dodge the first of the week to see Mrs. C. M. Johnson, who recently underwent an operation at that place. Mrs. Johnson is recovering nicely and expects to return to her home here on Saturday of this week.

Adolph Skovlin was at Mason City on Monday of this week, attending to some business matters.

Ed. Carlston was down from Kanawha on Tuesday of this week. He was accompanied by his brother Roy, and his father, who lives in Galesburg, Illinois, and who is making his sons a visit.

"Rich" Ziska, the city mail carrier, is enjoying a couple of weeks vacation at Spirit Lake, Okoboji, and other points. His place on the mail route is being taken by Willard Morse.

No rain yet. Most everybody says we aren't ever going to have any more rain, but maybe if we keep on hoping long enough we may get some. Potatoes are a goner, however, and there is some corn that is reported past help.

John Burress was over from Clarion, where he is employed at the Great Western depot, to attend the funeral of Howard Luick.

T. A. Davenport was at Thornton, Wednesday of last week, looking after some business interests at the telephone exchange there.

Quite a few of the county seat folks have been deserting Cornelia Lake in favor of Morse Lake the past couple of weeks, the bathing at the latter place being so much better.

Threshing began the first of this week, and the reports of oats say that they are running pretty light.

Ralph Wilcox was a caller at Mason City the first of the week, where he spent a few days visiting one of his friends.

R. D. Kenefick has erected a new carpenter shop on the grounds of the Belmond Lumber company on Spruce street, and this week carries an opening ad in the Independent stating he will do any kind of carpenter repair work. "Dick" is a good carpenter and will doubtless secure all the business he can handle.

The program will begin at 8:00 o'clock, after this refreshments will be served, the proceeds going to defer expenses of the League. Everybody invited.

C. N. Hildebrand of this place has been awarded the contract of laying the drain tile on the road between Manchester and Ryan, in a big contract that was recently let there by the board of supervisors of Deleware county. The tile are to be furnished by the Mason City tile and brick company.

Little Orvis Fitts was quite sick on Sunday of this week, but is getting along nicely now.

Some of the local folks, hearing of the wonderous tales of golf at Lake Cornelia, are getting the bug, and beginning to read up on the "dope", to buy clubs, and practice swinging at a pill box in the privacy of their room. That's what they say, anyway.

Mrs. J. H. Edge and little daughter Beth returned last week Tuesday after a visit of several weeks with relatives and friends in Pennsylvaia.

Little Murial Hill was reported on the sick list the first of the week.

Miss Bernetas Wolle is attending an Epworth League convention being held this week at Okoboji.

Mrs. E. F. Bailey and daughter Doris went to Clarion on Tuesday to assist Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bailey in getting settled in their house at that place. Floyd is the foreman on the drainage job which Mr. Bailey recently bid on at the county seat.

The Golden Oak Billiard Parlor is adding some improvements by having the interior redecorated.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis and two little daughters of Foley, Minnesota, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bailey.

The contract for the new Catholic church at Goodell has been let, the successful firm being A. L. Lake of Mason City, who was the lowest of six bidders. The new church is to be of faced brick, with hollow tile inside, and the contract price calls for a $9,000 structure. Work is to begin immediately on the new building. The old church at Goodell was burned to the ground on Christmas afternoon of last year, and the congregtion under the leadership of Rev. Eardley of this place immediately began plans for their new church. They are to be congratulated upon securing the new building in such a short length of time.

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bailey moved this week to the county seat, where they will make their home for the next few months while Floyd is overseeing the job of draining the town.

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

A few second hand Fords at real bargains, in first class running order. —Belmond Auto Co.

The Priscilla club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. O. Young. A very enjoyable time is reported by those present.

Let us do your fancy dry cleaning and pressing. Having added new equipment we are prepared to handle rush orders. Satisfaction guaranteed. —New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of Case Hotel. Phone 28.

Every sack of Peacock Flour is now guaranteed to give satisfaction. $2.10 per sack—why pay more?—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

Miss Mary Bromwell and Claude Bromwell, of Vernon, South Dakta, are making a few days' visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jennings. They are a sister and brother of Mrs. Jennings, and accompanied Mrs. Jennings home from her recent visit in South Dakota.

The Chain of Ten will hold their next meeting on Monday afternoon of next week at the home of Mrs. C. M. Morse.

Mrs. Stockwell of Wesley is a guest this week at the home here of her son Fred, and is assiting in the care of her little granddaughter who has the scarlet fever.

The Mehodist Ladies Aid society will hold a picnic meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wolle.

Mrs. C. H. Pullin and children have returned from their visit at the home of relatives asd friends in Fort Dodge and Humboldt.

Mrs. Chas. Reese of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, arrived the first of the week for a visit at the home of relatives and friends here. She was formerly a resident of this place

Fred Mortimer, station agent on the Great Western road here, was in attendance at a safety meeting and picnic of the railroad employees held at Fort Dodge on Sunday of this week.

It is reported that there is soon to be a change in one of the local business establishments.

AUTO BUS TO MORSE LAKE

50c roud trip—two trips each evening, 5:00 and 7:00 o'clock. Return at 6:30 and 9:00 o'clock. Phone 20. —C. J. Johnson Garage.

Mrs Geo. Coburn went to Mason City last week for a medical examination.

Mrs. Wm. Legge and son of Belmond visited at the Wm. Bell home Friday night.—Times.

Miss Gertrude Ely presented the Misses Carol Tyrrell and Marjorie Wiliams in a musical recital on Friday evening of last week, at the Congregational church parlors.

Mr. Volles of Belmond was here Tuesday to do some landscape work here.—Klemme Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Davenport have moved to this place from Minnesota, and expect to make their home for the future here. They are staying for the present at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Truer Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kinney returned Sunday from Cornelia where they had spent a very pleasant and enjoyable week at the cottage of Duran Nagle of Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Fyler left on Friday of last week for Shell Rock, where they are spending the week visiting at the home of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Green and Vona went to Belmosd, Monday, to have some dental work done.—Times.

ROBINSON'S

Bread, three 10c loaves	25c
Black Tea, per lb.	40c
Rolled Oats, bulk, 5 pounds for -	25c
Extra Fancy Prunes	12½ c
Corn and tomatoes, per can -	10c
Evaporated Pears, lb.	25c
Apricots, No. 2½ -	20c
Coffee -	15c

Next Week's Dance Program AT Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday July 26 and July 29

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices.

If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

Specials

25 bars White Kaundry Soap -	$1.00
3 12c pkgs macaroni for - -	25c
3 10-cent pkgs corn flakes -	25c
Bread, per loaf	10c
Flaxon, per yard -	30c
Men's Overalls - -	$1.25
Men's Pants - -	2.50

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30
We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

Lyric

THURSDAY, JULY 21

"IT'S A GREAT LIFE!"

A Goldwyn picture from a Rinehart story. A story of live wires who went to boarding school, with what they did to get themselves and others in trouble and what happened to them afterward fully explained. A humorous regular boy tale that will bring back your own "puppy love" days and make you smile to yourself for a week.

11c and 25c

SATURDAY, JULY 23

"BLACKBIRDS"

A Realart picture featuring

JUSTINE JOHNSTONE

It is a fascinating crook play which holds the spectator in a tight embrace with its adventureous action and appealing romance.

11c and 25c

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

JULY 25 and 26

"NINETEEN AND PHYLLIS"

A First National production featuring

CHARLES RAY

His brightest and most humorous comedy-romance of the year. He was chagrined because his rival constantly taunted him with a dress suit and a fast motor car. Andy could only wear his store clothes bought with a salary of eighteen dollars a week. He knew that if he couldn't get a dress suit and a car that the girl would give her affections to his hated rival. It was a good thing that a crime wave was abroad in the little town. Else Andy might never have gained the girl, the dress suit and the car.

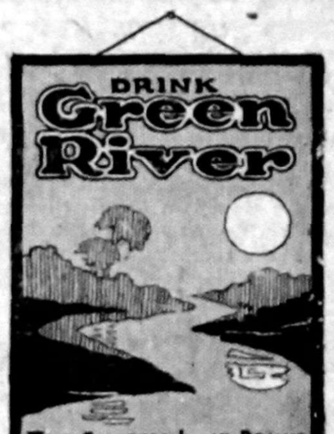
11c and 30c

For YOUNG and OLD

Green River

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

THE SNAPPY LIME DRINK



HERE is the coolest, snappiest drink you can buy. Its refreshing lime flavor, its sparkle and life, its purity and richness have made GREEN RIVER the greatest soft drink success in years.

Try it—just once—and you'll drink GREEN RIVER again and again.

Wherever they sell beverages—ask for it today.

Special Orders for Ice Cream

Let us know when you need Ice Cream in quantities of One Gallon or More. We are prepared to take care of such orders on short notice. WE GIVE YOU A SPECIAL LIBERAL DISCOUNT ON ANY ORDER OF ONE GALLON OR MORE.

BELMOND CANDY KITCHEN

Phone 65 STEVE ANTONIO, Prop Belmond, Iowa

Attention, Farmers!

We want you to make our Welding Plant your headquarters. In case you break any part of your farm machinery, don't wait to bring in the broken casting---phone in your emergency want and we will send out a man to help you remove broken part to be welded.

Visit our welding wlant when in town. Let's get acquainted.

Belmond Welding & Tank Co.

Belmond, Iowa Phone 39

1¢ SALE

While They Last---

ALL SPRING COATS

In a Sale in which you can buy one at the present reduced price and you may select another of equal value for only

ONE CENT!

REMEMBER---

Every Coat has already been reduced in price for clearance.

All models are from our regular stocks and of standard Killian quality. Styles are smart and fabrics and colors most desirable.

Bring a friend and come to Mason City Saturday. Buy a splendid Coat for ONLY ONE CENT

ON SALE SATURDAY, JULY 23rd, ONLY!

The Killian Store

MASON CITY'S SHOPPING CENTER

What Do You Say?

You give the same loyalty and devotion to your work, your friends and your family in the summer as in the winter. Are you as considerate of your God and His Church in summer as in winter? Victory comes to the LOYAL and the crown is promised to the FAITHFUL.

A welcome awaits you at the

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

VISIT OUR

ECONOMY BASEMENT

Make a special effort to see the excellent showing of low-priced Foot-Wear in our Basement this week and next.

Women's Low Shoes -	$2.98 to $4.64
Children's Low Shoes -	98c to 2.48
Misses Shoes - -	2.24 to 3.98
Boy's Shoes - -	3.48 to 4.98
Women's Shoes -	3.98 to 6.48
Men's Dress Shoes -	3.48 to 6.50
Men's Work Shoes -	3.98 to 4.50
Special lot of Children's Shoes -	1.98

BE SURE AND COME

THIS WEEK OR NEXT

Woodruff Shoe Co.

115 N. Federal Mason City, Iowa

Try Our One Day Repair Service

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

LAKE SOCIAL AT ADAMS HOME

About 150 Lake township farmers gathered on the lawn of the Granville Adams home northwest of Clarion Tuesday evening, July 12, to enjoy their regular monthly social meeting. Open air seats were arranged for this occasion and everyone enjoyed the open air meeting.

I. W. Van Nice, assistant leader of county agents in Iowa, who has been in Wright county on several occasions before, was the principal speaker of the occasion. The county agent gave a short talk on farm bureau work in general and then introduced Mr. Van Nice, who gave his audience a good lively talk on "Farm Bureau Activities." Mr. Van Nice's experiences as farmer and his recent experiences in various parts of the state as county agent leader, makes him a very thought that the period of depression thought ahat the period of depression which we are now passing thru is a good time for farmers to support their organization. Ice cream and cake were test of the farmers' loyalty to his orserved by the good housewives of Lake township, after which everyone turned toward home.

E. W. Campbell and Mrs. M. L. Clark announce the next regular social at the Granville Adams home for the second Tuesday in August, or August 9. A short program is being arranged and an effort will be made to secure an outside speaker.

LIVE SOCIAL IN GRANT

A real lively social gathering was held at the Harland Hill home northeast of Clarion, when the farmers of Grant township met for their regular monthly social on Monday evening, July 11. In the midst of the haying and harvest season the Grant farmers forgot their cares long enuf for this good old community mix.

The farmers were favored with a splendid address from I. W. Van Nice, assistant state leader of county agents. Mr. Van Nice had been in Grant before and the farmers were intensely interested in the message he brought to them. His address was filled with bits of information which are vital to the farmer at the present time. He seemed very optimistic about the status of the farm bureau and urged the farmers to give their loyal support to the organization during the period of depression.

The girls' club of Grant served ice cream and candy in a unique way. Two booths were arranged in the corners of the front yard and the girls dressed in their regulation club caps took charge of the distribution of the candy and ice cream. The lanterns, which were hung in the trees of the dooryard, gave the scene the touch of a real lawn social.

POULTRY CULLING PROGRESSING.

The poultry culling demonstrations which were begun last week are progressing nicely and the leafer hens are beginning to fall at the hands of the county agent, who is conducti the work this year.

It will be remembered that a high per cent of the birds were discarded from the flocks which were culled last year. So far this year about twenty-five per cent of the hens are being discarded as non-layers. It will mean a vast saving to Wright county poultry raisers to get rid of the 25 per cent of non-laying hens and not have to board them thru the winter months.

The poultry culling scedule will be carried out as follows:

Vernon, July 20
Henry England, 9:30.
Ernest Thelke, 1:00.
Glenn Knox, 3:30.

Wall Lake, July 21
Ed. Smith, 9:30.
Eugene Wasson, 1:00
Frank Peck, 3:30

Troy, July 25
(Not sent in.)

Woolstock, July 22
Geo. Bernard, 9:30.
John Schutt, 1:00.
Frank Klass, 3:30.

Eagle Grove, July 26
(Not sent in.)

Liberty, July 27
Roy B. Martin, 8:30.
Robert Lester, 10:00.
Frank Bjornson, 1:00.
J. B. Rasmussen, 3:30.

Boone, August 1.
Engh Bros., 9:30.
Everett Nelson, 1:00.
W. H. Helmke, 3:30.

Norway, August 3
E. N. Erickson, 9:30.
Philip Velthouse, 1:00.
Thor Wicks, 3:30.

Dayton, August 3
Harry Poundstone, 9:30.
Isaac Knutson, 1:00.
T. L. Thompson, 3:30.

Lake, August 4
O. J. Lewis, 9:30.
Wm. Stecher, 1:00.
Clarence McBride, 3:30

Grant, August 5
Harry Brooks, 9:30.
Harry Woodley, 1:00
E. A. Poulson, 3:30.

Lincoln, August 8.
Homer Lord, 9:30.
Ray Wharton, 1:00.
Harry Sweet, 3:30.

WRIGHT COUNTY WOOL POOL

All wool growers of Wright county who wish to pool their wool this year are asked to tie and sack their wool securely and bring to Clarion for shipment on July 28 or 29, when a carload shipment will be made up. Wool growers are docked for tieing fleeces with anything but the regulation wool twine. Consignors are asked to use the regulation wool sacks which may be purchased from the county agent for 43c each. Wool twine comes at 32 cent per pound. These prices cover express charges.

WHY THE EDITOR LEFT TOWN

In a recent letter to the Breeders Gazette, Mr. F. M. Woods of Lanlaster county, Nebraska, told how a Nebraska printer got an auction bill and an account of a wedding mixed together. The result read like this:

"Married at the home of the bride's township one mile north and two miles east of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, highly respected residents of Thursday, Jan. 27, Miss Ethel Drinkwater by the Rev. 18 head of Shorthorns consisting of four bridesmaids dressed in pale blue and carrying calves by their sides. They had tulle veils * * * sired by the noted Kentucky jack Bombina 3rd. Also 46 head of hogs, including the groom's father from North Dakto, where he is engaged in missionary work and is immuned by the double process. These shotes are thrifty, and all relatives of the bride and groom. They all gathered in the spacious dining room after the ceremony, and partook of 300 bushels of seed oats, 1,000 bushels of corn, 10 large sacks of millet and alfalfa. The bride is the youngest daughter of one trusty incubator, capacity 600 eggs, one John Deere five room cottage and a trip to Amaha, after which they draw 10 per cent interest from date. Free lunch at noon. —Capper's Weekly.

HUGE MORTGAGE RECORDED

Hampton Recorder: A record breaking mortgage for Iowa was filed a few days ago in the office of Frank P. Fowler, recorder of Franklin county, when the Bell Telephone Company entered a $30,000,000 mortgage to the New York Trust Company.

The property involved in the deed covered all the Bell property in Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska. The transaction required 54 pages of solid typewritten copy in the recorder's books, with a fee of $46.50.

EAGLE GROVE MAN LOSES LEG IN BINDER

Eagle: Martin Cleveland had his left leg completly severed by a binder late Wednesday evening. His right leg was badly lacerated as were his arms and other parts of his body. He was driving the binder and at the turn a line broke and he jumped off and ran around in front of the horses to stop them. A young horse became frightened and started to run. Cleveland got them almost stopped when this young horse gave another lunge, throwing him under the horses' hoofs. He was caught in the cycle. One leg was completely severed between the knee and ankle and the other badly injured. He lay on the ground about a half hour before he was discovered. The others in the field had gone to supper. He was discovered after seven o'clock by his nephew, who went out to the field to be with him. The accident occured about 6:30. He is being cared for at the O'Toole-Christensen hospital. The doctors hold out little hope for his recovery.

DE DUCKS GOT IT.

"I don't understand why you should want to borrow money when you have just shipped your corn," said a South Dakota banker to an Irish customer.

"De ducks got it," replied Pat.

"What do you men by ducks?"

"Well, I shipped the car to market and sold it for 52 cents. Then deduct freight, that left me 31c deduct ;1 cent commission (the smallest deduction), that left 30 cents; deduct elevator charges, that left 27 cents; deduct husking, that left 15; deduct hauling, that left 5 cents; deduct the hired man's wages from that and you are a dom site better farmer than I am!"

FARM BUREAU SEEKING BETTER FREIGHT RATES

An early downward readjustment of railroad freight rates is the objective of a campaign launched by the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the organization held in Des Moines on July 7th and 8th. The plan is to make the movement as general as possible by urging all other organizations of farmers, merchants, bankers, manufacturers, and commercial bodies to cooperate in this way developing a comprehensive campaign and a concerted advance along the entire line of business industry. To this end the Federation officials were instructed to confer with the leaders of other organizations in Iowa, both farm and commercial, in order to mobilize public sentiment, after which the campaign would be carried into other Middle West states. The Federation has been quietly gathering data and working information for some time preparatory to inaugurating some such movement. The situation has been studied from every possible angle that promised light on the subject. The principal fact to be faced is that practically nothing in the way of farm products and livestock is moving, simply and solely because freight rates absorb too large a proportion of the selling price of the product shipped. It had been suggested to the Federation that the fight for readjustment of rates be divided among the various business industries, grain men to work for reductions on grain, livestock men to look after livestock rates, while the merchant, the manufacturer, et al should each tackle his own problem. After extended investigation the Federation decided to oppose that plan of procedure, principally on the ground that it would mean a series of long-drawn contests and hearings, in the course of which there might be a tendency on the part of railroads to revert to the pre-war plan of increasing the rates on some commodities when compelled to back up on others. The Federation insists that a general downward adjustment of rates is the only means of rehabilitating the business interests of the country, the railroads included, and a general readjustment can be accomplished only by united action by all concerned.

The following resolution sets forth the Federation point of view:

Whereas it is the sense and strong conviction of the Executive Committee of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation representing over 120,000 farmers with whose views they are familiar, and upon whose sentiment this ction is based, that the present excessive freight rates as they affect not only agricultural and commercial interests of the country, particularly of the Middle West, and

Whereas such rates resulted in absolute prevention of the movement of large quantities of commercial products of all kinds because the cost of reaching the market combined with necessary handling charges absorbs in many instances the entire amount received at the market for the commodity, and in other cases so large a proportion as to render the business affected highly unprofitable, and that in view of this condition it is the judgement of this committee that the reaction upon the railroads themselves is distinctly unfavorable

Whereas the valuations on which the railroads are now authorized under the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission to establish freight rates are not based upon actual establish values, and,

Whereas in order to secure returns on such values the rates have become in a measure confiscatory and have been instrumental in defeating the objects sought in hat it actually decreased traffic by reason of such excessive charges and

Whereas we beleive railroads should not be specially privileged, but should function tocustomary business pratices and be subject to economic laws as applied to all industry, and

Whereas the farmer is not demanding special privilege or class preferment, neither does he concede it right or just that any other interest should be so favored.

Therefore, be it resolved that this committe take cognizance of the substanial reduction that has recently been made in the operating expenditures of the railraods by reason of certain wage readjustments and is appreciative of the fact that other readjustments may be reasonably anticipated, and is of the further opinion that such reductions in operating expenditures justify and demand a corresponding decrease in the cost of transportation, and that a sincere effort on the part of the railroads to adjust freight rates to the exigencies of the present situation will better enable them to approach the problem of further reducing operating costs.

Be it further resolved that this committe cannot unduly emphasize its conviction that the readjustment of freight rates urged in this resolution will contribute largely to the prevention of further economic disaster and have a beneficial effect upon all reconstucive interests concered.

Be it further resolved that this Executive Committe of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation invites all organized agricultural and commercial interests to join in conference with the object in view of obtaining relief thru a general reduction in all freight rates, and instructs the Secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation forthwith to communicate with State Farm Bureau Federations of the Mid-West States and make the necessary arrangements for such conference, and

Because we believe that adequate and efficient transportation facilities at the lowest possible rates consistent with good business management are imperatively necessary to bring about normal commercial conditions in our State and Nation. We direct that this resolution be given publicity thru the press with a hope that all affected interests may co-operate and join in an attempt to bring about the desired result.

LARGEST BARN IN IOWA IS DESTROYED

Estherville and community witnessed last week what was possibly the most spectacular blaze seen here for several years. The farm buildings of John Dillon, four miles west of Etsherville were completely wiped out by the fire which was started by the explosion of an overturned lantern in the hay loft where one of the men was repairing the hayfork track.

The fire is noteworthy for the reason that the barn is considered to have been the largest barn in the state of Iowa, at least none larger is known of. The dimensions were 310 feet long and 110 feet wide. At the time of the fire it was filled with hay. Among other buildings which burned was a corncrib containing 2,000 bushels of corn. The house which is quite a distance from the other buildings did not burn and is the only building which is left standing. The loss is estimated at $30,000, only a small part of which is covered by insurance. Up until a few years ago this place has been known as the County Orphans Home.

ROAD BUILDING SETS RECORD

$2,000,000 Spent On Primary System During June

A mile of paving is being completed every day in Iowa as road construction work is swinging into the fastest pace it has ever hit in the history of the state.

A million and a half dollars were spent from the primary road fund alone during the month of June for road building, bridges and maintenance. This amount is boosted to $2,000,000 when one includes special assessments and bond issues.

The summary of road building activities in June shows the following totals: 29 1-3 miles of permanent paving, 28 1-4 miles of gravel and 153 1-10 miles of permanent grading. Work on the primary road system is being carried on in 87 counties. One hundred and forty-six projects are under way.

With the price of materials down almost to pre-war levels and with an abundant supply of labor, contractors have been confronted with only one handicap, the weather. State highway commission officials estimate that one-third of the actual working time of the past month has been lost on this account. It is thought that the construction in July will far exceed that of June.

HAMPTON CAR, STOLEN IN FALL, AT MINNEAPOLIS

Chronicle: The Fred P. Banker automobile, which was stolen in Minneapolis late last fall, has been located by officals of the insurance company which held the policy on the car. It was in the hands of a railroad engineer, who seems to be an innocent purchaser.

The insurance company officials were tipped off a few weeks ago that the car was in Minneapolis, being operated by a woman. Investigation was made and the car discovered, and it is reported that even the police are mixed in the deal.

The insurance company detectives found that the factory number had been changed on the car but its identity was established by the number on the engine. The factory number is attached to the car in plate form, and it is possible that the parties who stole the ar last fall were not aware of the fact that thede was another number on the machine, located in a more difficult place to find. It is reported that the automobile is in good condition. The insurance company will become owner of the car, as they paid Banker.

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

by IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 16 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI. — Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Bim Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Bim's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Bim confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

CHAPTER IX.—Biggs comes back to the village and he and Bim elope. Harry learns of it on his way home from the "war." Lincoln's advice and philosophy sustain him in his grief.

CHAPTER X.—Lincoln, defeated in his candidacy for the legislature, forms a partnership with "Bill" Berry in the grocery business. Biggs sends a gang to burn Traylor's house, but the New Salem men are warned and the raiders worsted.

CHAPTER XI.—Lincoln, now postmaster, decides to run again for the legislature. Ann Rutledge is openly in love with John McNeil. He leaves for his home in the East, promising to return soon and marry Ann. Lincoln accepts his defeat manfully. No word coming from McNeil, Ann confesses to Abe that his real name is McNamar, and her fears that he will not return. Lincoln in his deep love endeavors to reassure her, though he shares her misgivings. Lincoln wins his seat in the legislature.

CHAPTER XII.—Ann hears from McNamar, but his letter is cold and she is convinced he does not love her. She tells Abe of her doubt, and he confesses his love and asks her to marry him. Ann declares she does not yet love him, but will try to. With that promise Lincoln sets out for Vandalia and his legislative duties.

CHAPTER XIII.—Inspired by Elijah Lovejoy, Traylor arranges on his farm a hiding place for runaway slaves, a station on the "Underground Railroad."

CHAPTER XIV.—Ann agrees to marry Abe, but her health is wrecked. Three runaway slaves seek Traylor's help in escaping. They belong to Biggs and he comes in pursuit of them. Threatened with arrest for inciting the raid on Traylor, he flees. One of the fugitives is Bim in disguise. She has fled from her husband's cruelty.

---

stead's door ahead of the horsemen. Henry Brimstead stood in the open door.

"Take these slaves into the house and get them out of sight as quick as you can," said Samson. "There's going to be a quarrel here in a minute."

The slaves slid off the load and ran into the house.

The team started on toward Peasley's farm as if nothing had happened, with Harry and Samson standing on the load. In a moment they saw, to their astonishment, Biggs and a colored servant coming at a slow trot. Were the slaves they carried the property of Biggs?

"Stop that wagon," the latter shouted.

Samson kept on, turning out a little to let them pass.

"Stop or we'll shoot your horses," Biggs demanded.

"They'll have to pass close to the load," Harry whispered. "I'll jump on behind Biggs as he goes by."

The words were scarcely out of his mouth when Harry sprang off the load, catching Biggs' shoulders and landing squarely on the rump of his horse. It was a rough minute that followed. The horse leaped and reared and Biggs lost his seat, and he and Harry rolled to the ground and into a fence corner, while the horse ran up the road, with the pistols in their holsters on his back. They rose and fought until Harry, being quicker and stronger, got the best of it. The slaver was severely punished.

Biggs swore bitterly at the two Yankees.

"I'll have you dirty suckers arrested, if there's any law in this state," he declared, as he stood leaning against the fence, with an eye badly swollen and blood streaming from his nose.

"I suppose you can do it," said Samson. "But first let's see if we can find your horse. I think I saw him turn in at the house above."

Samson drove the team, while Biggs and Harry walked up the road in silence. The negro followed in the saddle. Peasley had caught Biggs' horse and was standing at the roadside.

"I want to find a justice of the peace," said Biggs.

"There's one at the next house above. I'll send my boy for him," Peasley answered.

The Justice arrived in a few minutes and Biggs lodged a complaint founded on the allegation that his slaves were concealed in the hay on Samson's wagon. The hay was removed and no slaves were discovered.

"I suppose they left my niggers at the house below," said Biggs as he mounted his horse and, with his companion, started at a gallop in the direction of Brimstead's. Samson remained with Peasley and the Justice.

"You had better go down and see what happens," he said to Harry. "We'll follow you in a few minutes."

So Harry walked down to Brimstead's.

He found the house in a condition of panic. Biggs and his helper had discovered the mulatto and his wife hiding in the barn. The negroes and the children were crying. Mrs. Brimstead met Harry outside the door.

"What are we to do?" she asked, tearfully.

"Just keep cool," said Harry. "Father Traylor and Mr. Peasley will be here soon."

Biggs and his companion came out of the door with Brimstead.

"We will take the niggers to the river and put them on a boat," Biggs was saying.

His face and shirt and bosom were smeared with blood. He asked Mrs. Brimstead for a basin of water and a towel. The good woman took him to the washstand and supplied his needs.

In a few moments Samson and Peasley arrived.

"Well, you've found them, have you?" Peasley asked.

"They were here, as I thought," said Biggs.

"Well, the justice says we must surrender the negroes and take them to the nearest landing for you. We've come to do it."

"It's better treatment than I expected," Biggs answered.

"You'll find that we have a good deal of respect for the law," said Peasley.

Biggs and his friend went to the barn for their horses. The others conferred a moment with the two slaves and Mrs. Brimstead. Then the latter went out into the garden lot to a woman in a sunbonnet who was working with a hoe some fifteen rods from the house. Mrs. Brimstead seemed to be conveying a message to the woman by signs. Evidently the latter was deaf and dumb.

"That is the third slave," Brimstead whispered. "I don't believe they'll discover her."

Soon Peasley and Samson got into the wagon with the negroes and drove away, followed by the two horsemen.

In a little village on the river they stopped at a low frame house. A woman came to the door.

"Is Freeman Collar here?" Peasley demanded.

"He is back in the garden," the woman answered.

"Please ask him to come here."

In a moment Collar came around the house with a hoe on his shoulder.

"Good morning, Mr. Constable," said Peasley. "This is Eliphalet Biggs of St. Louis, and here is a warrant for his arrest."

"For my arrest!" Biggs exclaimed. "What is the charge?"

"That you hired a number of men to burn the house of Samson Henry Traylor, near the village of New Salem, in Sangamon county, and, by violence, to compel him to leave said county; that, on the 29th of August, said men—the same being eight in number—attempted to carry out your design and, being captured and overpowered, all confessed their guilt and your connection with it, their sworn confessions being now in the possession of one Stephen Nuckles, a minister of this county. I do not need to remind you that it is a grave offense and likely to lead to your confinement for a term of years."

"Well, by G—," Biggs shouted, in anger. "You suckers will have some traveling to do before you arrest me."

He struck the spurs in his horse and galloped away, followed by his servant. Samson roared with laughter.

"Now, Collar, get up on your horse and hurry 'em along, but don't ketch up with 'em if you can help it," said Peasley. "We've got them on the run now."

When the constable had gone, Peasley said to Samson. "We'll drop these slaves at Nate Haskell's door. He'll take care of 'em until dark and start 'em on the north road. Late in the evening I'll pick 'em up an' get 'em out o' this part o' the country."

Meanwhile Brimstead and Harry had stood for a moment in the dooryard of the former, watching the party on its way up the road. Brimstead blew out his breath and said in a low tone:

"Say, I'll tell ye, I ain't had so much excitement since Samson Traylor rode into Flea valley. The women need a chance to wash their faces and slick up a little. Le's you and me go back to the creek and go in swimmin' an' look the farm over."

"What become of the third nigger?" Harry asked.

"She went out in the field in a sunbonnet an' went to work with a hoe and they didn't discover her," said Brimstead.

They had their swim in the creek and got back to the house at dinner time. Samson had returned and, as they sat down at the table Harry asked: "What have you done with the third slave?"

"She's been upstairs, getting washed and dressed," said Mrs. Brimstead.

As she spoke, the stairway door opened and Bim entered the room—in a silk gown and slippers. Sorrow had put its mark upon her face, but had not extinguished her beauty. All rose from the table. Harry walked toward her. She advanced to meet him. Face to face, they stopped and looked into each other's eyes. The moment long desired, the moment endeared and sublimated by the dreams of both, the moment toward which their thoughts had been wont to hasten, after the cares of the day, like brooks coming down from the mountains, had arrived suddenly. She was in a way prepared for it. She had taken thought of what she would do and say. He had not. Still it made no difference. Quickly they fell into each other's embrace, and the depth of their feeling we may guess when we read in the diary of the rugged and rather stoical Samson that no witness of the scene spoke or moved "until I turned my back upon it for shame of my tears."

Soon Bim came and kissed Samson's cheek and said:

"I am not going to make trouble. I couldn't help this. I heard what he said to you last night. It made me happy in spite of all my troubles. I love him, but above all I shall try to keep his heart as clean and noble as it has always been. I really meant to be very strong and upright. It is all over now. Forgive us. We are going to be as respectable as—as we can."

Samson pressed her hand and said:

"You came with the slaves and I guess you heard our talk in the wagon."

"Yes, I came with the slaves, and was as black as either of them. We had all suffered. I should have come alone, but they had been good and faithful to me. I could not bear to leave them to endure the violence of that man. We left together one night when he was in a drunken stupor. We took a boat to Alton and caught the Star of the North to Beardstown—they traveling as my servants. There I hired a team and wagon. It brought us to the grove near your house."

"Why did you disguise yourself before you came in?"

"I longed to see Harry, but I did not want him to see me. I did not know that he would care to see me," she answered. "I longed to see all of you. Now I am ready to go to my father's house—like the Prodigal Son coming back after his folly."

"But you will have some dinner first," said Mrs. Brimstead.

"No, I can not wait—I will walk. It is not far to Hopedale."

"Percy is at the door now with his buggy," said Brimstead.

Bim kissed Samson's cheek and embraced Annabel and her mother and hurried out of the house. Harry carried her bag to the buggy and helped her in.

She waved her hand as the buggy went up the road.

"It's the same old Bim," Harry said to himself, as he stood watching her. "But I think she's lovelier than she ever was."

The next day Samson wrote in his diary:

"Bim was handsomer, but different. She had a woman's beauty. I noticed her loose clothes and that gentle look in her face that used to come to Sarah's when her time was about half over. I am glad she got away before she was further along."

CHAPTER XV.

Wherein Harry and Abe Ride Up to Springdale and Visit Kelso's.

Illinois was growing. In June scores of prairie schooners, loaded with old and young, rattled over the plains from the East. There were many Yankees from Ohio, New York and New England in this long caravan. There were almost as many Irish, who had set out for this land of golden promise as soon as they had been able to save money for a team and wagon, after reaching the new world. There were some Germans and Scandinavians in the dust clouds of the National road. Steamers on the Illinois river scattered their living freight along its shores. These were largely from Kentucky, southern Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. The call of the rich and kindly lands had traveled far and streams of life were making toward them, to flow with increasing speed and volume for many years.

People in Sangamon county had begun to learn of the thriving village of Chicago in the north. Abe said that Illinois would be the Empire state of the West; that a new era of rapid development and great prosperity was near. Land was in great demand and there were many transfers of title. Abe had more surveying to do than he was able to accomplish that summer. Harry was with him for some weeks. He could earn two dollars a day with Abe, whereas Samson was able to hire a helper for half that sum. Harry made a confidant of his friend, and when they were working at the northern end of the county they borrowed a pair of horses and rode up to Kelso's house and spent a Sunday there.

Bim met them down the road a mile or so from Hopedale. She, too, was on the back of a horse. She recognized them before they were in hailing distance and waved her hand and hurried toward them with a happy face.

"Where Are You Going?" She Asked.

"Where are you going?" she asked.

"To see you and your father and mother," said Harry.

A sad look came into her eyes.

"If I had a stone I would throw it at you," she said.

"Why?" Harry asked.

"Because I have to get used to being miserable, and just as I begin to be resigned to it, you come along and make me happy, and I have it all to do over again."

The young man stopped his horse.

"I hadn't thought of that," he said, with a sad face. "It isn't fair to you, is it? It's rather—selfish."

"Why don't you go to Brimstead's," Bim suggested. "A beautiful girl over there is in love with you. Honestly, Harry, there isn't a sweeter girl in all the world."

"I ought not to go there, either," said the young man.

"Why?"

"Because I mustn't let her think that I care for her."

So it happened that Harry went on with Bim and Abe to the little house in Hopedale.

They put out the horses. The girl came and sat on her father's knee. Harry sat down by the side of Abe on the grass in the oak's shadow.

"It's a joy to have the little girl back again," said Kelso, as he touched her hair with his hand. "It is still as yellow as a corn tassel. I wonder it isn't gray."

"Her eyes look as bright as ever today," said Harry.

"No compliments, please. I want you to be downright mean," Bim protested.

Kelso looked up with a smile: "My boy, it was Leonardo da Vinci who said that a man could have neither a greater nor a less dominion than that over himself. I hold that if our young man are to be trained to tyranny in a lot of little nigger kingdoms, our democracy will die."

Abe made no answer. He was always slow to commit himself.

"The North is partly to blame for what has come," said Samson. "I guess our Yankee captains brought over most of the niggers and sold them to the planters of the South."

"There was a demand for them, or those Yankee pirates wouldn't have brought the niggers," Harry answered. "Both seller and buyer were committing a crime."

"They established a great wrong and now the South is pushing to extend and give it the sanction of law," said Abe. "There is the point of irritation and danger."

"I hear that in the next legislature an effort will be made to endorse slavery," said Kelso.

"It is a dangerous subject," Abe answered. "Whatever happens, I shall not fail to express my opinion of slavery if I go back."

"The time is coming when you will take the bull by the horns," said Kelso. "There's no fence that will keep him at home."

"I hope that isn't true," Abe answered.

Soon Mrs. Kelso called Bim to set the table. She and Harry brought it out under the tree, where, in the cool shade, they had a merry dinner.

When the dishes were put away, Percy Brimstead arrived with his sister Annabel in their buggy. Bim went out to meet them and came into the dooryard with her arm around Annabel's waist.

"Did any one ever see a lovelier girl than this?" Bim asked, as they stood up before the dinner party.

"Her cheeks are like wild roses, her eyes like the dew on them when the sun is rising," said Kelso.

Abe rose and said. "The day is passing. I'll start on with Parsons and the pony and read my stint afoot. You come along in a few minutes. By the time you overtake me I'll be ready to get into the saddle."

Half an hour or so after Abe had gone, Harry's horse, which had been whinnying for his mate, bounded out of the stable and went galloping down the road, having slipped his halter.

"He will not stop until he overtakes the other horse," said Harry.

"You can ride with us," Annabel suggested.

So the young man brought his saddle and bridle and put it under the seat of the buggy and got in with Annabel and her small brother.

Some two miles down the road Harry found Abe standing between the horses, holding the runaway by his forelock. The latter was saddled and bridled, while the buggy went on ahead.

"That is a wonderful girl," said Harry, as he and Abe were riding along together. "She is very modest and gentle hearted."

"And as pleasant to look at as the flowery meadows," Abe answered.

"I have promised to stop there a few minutes on our way back."

"It is possible Bim could get a divorce," said Abe, looking down thoughtfully at the mane of his horse. "I'll ask Stuart what he thinks about it when I see him again."

"I hope you'll see him soon."

"As soon as I can get to Springfield."

Next day a letter came from Doctor Allen, telling him that Ann was far gone with a dangerous fever. Both Abe and Harry dropped their work and went home. Ann was too sick to see her lover.

The little village was very quiet those hot summer days. The sorrow of the pretty maiden had touched the hearts of the simple kindly folk who lived there. For a year or more there had been a tender note in their voices when they spoke of Ann. They had learned with great gladness of her engagement to marry Abe. The whole community were as one family with its favorite daughter about to be crowned with good fortune, greater than she knew. Now that she was stricken down, their feeling was more than sympathy. The love of justice, the desire to see a great wrong righted, in a measure, was in their hearts when they sought news of the little sufferer at the tavern.

There was no shouting in the street, no story-telling in the dooryards, no jesting in the stores and houses, no merry parties, gladdened by the notes of the violin, in the days and nights of Ann's long illness.

Samson writes in his diary that Abe went about like a man in a dream, with no heart for work or study. He spent much time at the doctor's office, feeling for some straw of hope.

One day late in August, as he stood talking with Samson Traylor in the street, Doctor Allen called him from his doorstep. Abe turned very pale as he obeyed the summons.

"I've just come from her bedside," said Doctor Allen. "She wants to see you. I've talked it over with her parents, and we've decided to let you and her have a little visit together. You must be prepared for a great change in Ann. There's not much left of the poor girl. A breath would blow her away. But she wants to see you. It may be better than medicine. Who knows?"

The two men went across to the tavern. Mrs. Rutledge and Abe tiptoed up the stairway. The latter entered the room of the sick girl. The woman closed the door. Ann Rutledge was alone with her lover. There were none who knew what happened in that solemn hour save the two—one of whom was on the edge of eternity, and the other was never to speak of it. The only record of that hour is to be found in the face and spirit of a great man.

Entered the Room of the Sick Girl.

Years later Samson wrote in a letter:

"I saw Abe when he came out of the tavern that day. He was not the Abe we had all known. He was different. There were new lines in his face. It was sorrowful. His steps were slow. He had passed out of his young manhood. When I spoke to him, he answered with that gentle dignity now so familiar to all who knew him. From that hour he was Abraham Lincoln."

Ann passed away before the month ended and became, like many of her kind, an imperishable memory. In her presence the spirit of the young man had received such a baptism that henceforward, taking thought of her, he was to love purity and all cleanness, and no Mary who came to his feet with tears and ointment was ever to be turned away.

CHAPTER XVI.

Wherein Young Mr. Lincoln Safely Passes Two Great Danger Points and Turns Into the Highway of His Manhood.

For days thereafter the people of New Salem were sorely troubled. Abe Lincoln, the ready helper in time of need, the wise counselor, the friend of all—"old and young, dogs and horses," as Samson was wont to say—the pride and hope of the little cabin village, was breaking down under his grief. He seemed to care no more for work or study or friendship. He wandered out in the woods and upon the prairies alone. Many feared that he would lose his reason.

There was a wise and merry-hearted man who lived a mile or so from the village. His name was Bowlin Green. Those days when one of middle age had established himself in the affections of a community, its members had a way of adopting him. So Mr. Green had been adopted into many families from Beardstown to Springfield. He was everybody's "Uncle Bowlin." He had a most unusual circumference and the strength to carry it. His ruddy cheeks and curling locks and kindly dark eyes and large head were details of importance. Under all were a heart with the love of men, a mind of unusual understanding and a hand skilled in all the arts of the Kentucky pioneer. He could grill a venison steak and roast a grouse and broil a chicken in a way which had filled the countryside with fond recollections of his hospitality; he could kindle a fire with a bow and string, a pine stick and some shavings; he could make anything from a splint broom to a rocking horse with his jack-knife. Abe Lincoln was one of the many men who knew and loved him.

On a warm, bright afternoon early in September, Bowlin Green was going around the pasture to put his fence in repair, when he came upon young Mr. Lincoln. The latter sat in the shade of a tree on the hillside. He looked "terribly peaked," as Uncle Bowlin has said in a letter.

"Why, Abe, where have you been?" he asked. "The whole village is scared. Samson Traylor was here last night lookin' for ye."

"I'm like a deer that's been hurt," said the young man. "I took to the woods. Wanted to be alone. You see, I had a lot of thinking to do—the kind of thinking that every man must do for himself. I've got the brush cleared away, at last, so I can see through. I had made up my mind to go down to your house for the night and was trying to decide whether I have energy enough to do it."

"Come on; it's only a short step," urged the big-hearted Bowlin.

"What I feel the need of, just now, is a week or two of sleep," said Mr. Lincoln, as he rose and started down the long hill with his friend.

Some time later Bowlin Green gave Samson this brief account of what happened in and about the cabin:

"He wouldn't eat anything. He wanted to go down to the river for a dip, and I went with him. When we got back, I induced him to take off his clothes and get into bed. He was fast asleep in ten minutes. When night came I went up the ladder to bed. He was still asleep when I came down in the morning. I went out and did my chores. Then I cut two venison steaks, each about the size o' my hand, and a half moon of bacon. I pounded the venison to pulp with a little salt and bacon mixed in. I put it on the broiler and over a bed o' hickory coals. I got the coffee into the pot and up next to the fire and some potatoes in the ashes. I basted a bird with bacon strips and put it into the roaster and set it back o' the broiling bed. Then I made some biscuits and put 'em into the oven. I tell you, in a little while the smell o' that fireplace would have 'woke the dead—honest! Abe began to stir. In a minute I heard him call:

"'Say, Uncle Bowlin, I'm goin' to get up an' eat you out o' house and home. I'm hungry and I feel like a new man. What time is it?'

"'It'll be nine o'clock by the time you're washed and dressed,' I says.

"'Well, I declare,' says he, 'I've had about sixteen hours o' solid sleep. The world looks better to me this morning.'

"At the table I told him a story and got a little laugh out of him. He stayed with me three weeks, choring around the place and taking it easy. He read all the books I had, until you and Doc Allen came with the law books. Then he pitched into them. I think he has changed a good deal since Ann died. He talks a lot about God and the hereafter."

In October young Mr. Lincoln returned to his surveying, and in the last month of the year to Vandalia for an extra session of the legislature, where he took a stand against the convention system of nominating candidates for public office. Samson went to Vandalia for a visit with him and to see the place before the session ended. The next year, in a letter to his brother, he says:

(Continued next week)

ARREST OF CROOK STOPS ROBBERY OF DOWS BANK

Robbery of the Jamieson bank at Dows was frustrated on last week Wednesday when Sheriff Marsh of Cerro Gordo county arrested a crook at Dows, a Kelly Charleston of Mason City, who was wanted at that place on the charge of forgery, passing of bad checks and similar offenses.

The Cerro Gordo county officials had been after Charleston for some time, and Wednesday, receiving a tip that their man was in Dows, the sheriff went down and nailed him.

That Charleston had planned to rob the Dows bank was evidenced by a letter which he had written to a pal in Mason City, in which he says that they could clean up from $8,000 to $10,000 on the "deal." It is thought that this man is one of a gang of organized crooks who have been making hauls all over the state, doing a rushing business in auto tires, accessories, etc., maintaining a "fence" to dispose of their goods in the cities. It is also thought that he may be one of the gang who robbed the bank at Coulter recently.

Belmond, it is understood, has a vigilance committee appointed, but it is also understood that the men appointed have never been supplied with the necessary guns to do anything in case it was necessary. It might be a good idea to look the matter up, for any time may be the time for this place.

BANK ROBBERS WILL MEET WARM RECEPTION

Since the bank robbery at Williams and Coulter and the proposed robbery of the Jamieson bank at Dows, the Wright County Bankers association has taken up the matter of organizing a protective association. In other words they are attempting to "lock the barn before the horse is stolen."

The following list of men thruout the county have agreed to act as deputy sheriffs in case of an emergency similar to that which has happened in surrounding towns. These names have been confirmed by the board of supervisors, which makes their appointment legal and invests them with full authority to act.

Clarion—L. R. Stark, Dr. G. J. Meier, M D. Mmshower, M F. Reed, C. L. Adams, Burr Nagle, A. A. Linfor, W. B. Elkenberry.

Belmond—H N. Hill, Geo. J. Brady, Chas. J. Johnson, Jr., Cato C. Griesy, J. M. Jensen, E Bock, J. L. Graham.

Rowan—Alfred Larson, Geo. Carmon, Ed Underdahl, Geo. Liming, Ora Braden.

Each deputy will be required to furnish a bond for $2000. These bonds will be provided by the several banks of the county. —Monitor.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.— For sale by Adams Pharmacy. Chamberlain's Tablets Are Mild and

The Willard Sign

The red Willard sign marks the place where you can get authorized Willard Service—and buy the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

We're here on the job to see that you get the full satisfaction and service you are entitled to as the user of a Willard Battery.

We're authorized Willard Dealers completely equipped for battery recharging, repairing and full Willard Service.

Come in and we'll tell you how Threaded Rubber Insulation saves you money and worry.

Belmond Storage Battery Company

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

Willard Batteries

Announcement

- I Have Opened A -

Carpenter Repair Snop

On the Belmond Lumber Company Grounds, and am equipped and ready at all times to do any repair work of any kind that you may have. Good workmanship and satisfaction guaranteed.

If you have a door to be fitted, windows to be put in; if your roof needs shingling or you need carpenter repairs of any kind, call on

R. D. Kenefick

Phones 101 and 277 Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Local News

Harold Stoved, living northeast of Dows, while riding his pony last Sunday ran into a barbed wire and cut his throat from ear to ear. It so happened the the jugular vein was not severed and he is resting very nicely. —Dows Advocate.

Mrs. Jim Thayer of Belmond was shopping in Klemme last Thursday afternoon.—Times.

Mrs. Snyder was a business caller on Wednesday of last week at the county seat.

A gentleman from Dows was in town on Tuesday of this week, and in speaking of the ball game played Sunday between Dows and Clarion at the latter place, stated that the same umpire who umpired the Belmond-Clarion game had charge of this one, and that he gave Dows the same sort of a deal that was handed Belmond, and that Dows came very near for feiting the game.

The Rebekah lodge held their installation of officers on Wednesday night of last week, Mrs. Mable Norris, the district deputy president, doing the installation. The new officers of the lodge here are as follows:

Emma Brewer, Noble Grand.
Edith Stapley, Vice Grand.
Elizabeth Snyder, Recording Secretary.
Laura Davenport, Treasurer.

There are some tennis players here, or at least some who can swing at the ball, so why not a few games with some of the neighboring towns? The little town of Rowan boasts several good players, who have met the Clarion and Eagle Grove weilders of the racket, and an interesting series of games might be arranged.

The fire company was called out on Monday afternoon, to put out what this vicinity has not had in many a long moon, prairie fire. The pasture near the Skouge home caught fire, the extended hot weather making the grass like dry hay. The truck was driven into the "danger zone" and the chemical and a few wet blankets soon fixed matters up.

The freight train on the Rock Island at Rowan set fire to a field of oats on the Fred Brooks farm, and ten acres of shocked oats were burned. The fire spread to the Lee Aldrich farm and a couple of acres of grain were burned on that farm. A large delegation of men from Rowan went out to help fight the blaze.

The Mid Continent Shows arrived in town Tuesday and are holding forth on the same grounds as the previous carnival. This affair appears to be of much more consequence than its predecessor, and have some very good acts.

The Misses Anna and Veronica McNamara are visiting relatives and friends at Fort Dodge and Pocohontas for a few days. Miss Anna is on her vacation, and expects to be home this week.

Relatives and friends here relelved word recently of the birth of a fine baby daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Knowles of Manly. Mrs. Knowles will be remembered by many Belmond people as Miss Velma Kimmel, who was for several years a resident of this place.

Tuesday evening, July 12, relatives of J. D. Walton helped him celebrate his 76th birthday by a picnic supper at Morse Lake. Six families, E. F., Thayne and Floyd Bailey, E. F. Snyder, Purcell and Kraghs, participated in this pleasant event. Altho "Grandpa" has been in poor health lately, he said he was no worse for the trip but felt better, thus proving to us that he is a real good old sport and can enjoy a good time as well as the younger ones. "May time touch him gently and bright be the way that leads him on to another birthday."— By One Present.

"Shorty" Hutchinson, well known in and around Belmond, drifted into the city limits the first of the week and his presence immediately became a fact to His Honor. Shorty left town rather suddenly in 1919, and at that time promised he would never return A warrant was still hanging over him for a past offense, and Mayor Barry, realizing the undesireable company, had it served by Constable McAlpine. Shortly was brought before the Mayor and after being reminded of his previous promise to stay away, was fined $25 and costs on the old warrant and took the first train out of town, solemnly promising never to come back any more.

Thursday afternoon, July 7th., the ladies of the Foreign Missionary society enjoyed a pleasant social and educational hour at the home of Mrs. Voiles. Rev. Edge led the devotional lesson and gave a short talk. Some of the Standard Bearer girls were present and sang a Standard Bearer song. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Otto Hanson, served delicious refreshments at the close of the lesson. Come on members, and all interested in an uplifting work, and be a booster for the W. F. M. S.—A Member.

Mr and Mrs. Hughie Sharp and daughter and Mrs. Jake Meyers and son were visitors at the home of Mrs. Meyers' brother, Chris Stadtlander, and family, at Alexander on Sunday.

Mrs. Pat Dillon and daughter Agnes were among the local people who attended the circus held at Mason City last week.

Mrs. Green of Klemme was a visitor here one day last week with friends here.

Mrs. N. Robinson of Detriot, Michigan, was visiting friends here a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Forrestal and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Forrestal were among the local people who attended the circus at Mason City last week Thursday.

Mrs. Ross Farmer of Clarion was a guest last week at the home of her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Luick

Miss Maye Tracy was a visitor most of last week at the county seat, at the home of Verne Tracy.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore visited several days last week with friends in Omaha.

Miss Mary Madigan was a business caller one day last week at Mason City.

L. F. Montgomery who lives in Tacoma, Washington, has been visiting relatives here the past week or two.

Duncan Farren of Rowan, who is one of the tennis fans of that place, was in town one day last week in the interest of the tennis tournament to be held some time next month at Eagle Grove.

Harry Wolle has been spending the week here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolle, before going on to Minnesota to take charge of a ditching job there.

Final Clean-Up Sale
Ladies' Ready-to-Wear

Starting Friday, July 22nd and continuing until Saturday, July 30th, we will place on sale our entire stock of

Spring and Summer Frocks, Gowns, Suits, Coats, Wraps, Skirts, Blouses and Millinery

at prices that will be a revelation to this community. As we have only been in business in Mason City a little over two months, our stock is new and fresh and of the latest styles. It is our policy not to carry over any Summer Goods, so we are offering it to you at prices that you will appreciated.

Remember the date, Friday, July 22 to to Saturday, July 30th.

MATTHEW STYLE SHOP

101 N. Feberal Ave Mason City, Iowa

Dispersion Sale of

Farm Machinery

We have decided to hold a dispersion sale of all our

FARM MACHINERY

- Everything Goes At Sale Prices -

Our Reason: WE MUST HAVE MONEY--ACT NOW--GET IN THE BARGAIN LINE

Tractors. Waterloo Boy $1000. Titan $850.
Tractor Plow, 3 bottom, $185.
Gang Plows, $125.
Deere Spreaders, $175.
Jenny Silo Filler and Husker, $525.
Corn Binders, $185.

All Other Tools Are Marked Down In the Same Proportion.

At these Prices You Cannot Afford Not To Buy.

You need the machinery---we need the money---let's talk business.

CHRIST RISE

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1921 — NO. 36

"COMMUNITY DAY" TO BE HELD NEXT MONTH

Belmond Adds Another; Beat Mason City

Game Featured By Numerous Errors On Both Sides With Heavy Hitting

FIFTEEN ERRORS ARE MADE

In a game that was slow and dragging, with little interest or excitement, the Belmond team defeated a team from Mason City on the local grounds Sunday by 6 to 4.

It was a quiet game, with no star plays and oodles of errors on both sides. Belmond had an off day and played poor ball, the boys couldn't scare up any pep, pobably because Mason City didn't have any either.

The first inning was scoreless, but in the second errors present Mason City with one run. Belmond ma le one in their half also. The third was runless, while in the fourth the visitors secured one run and Belmond pounded in two. The fifth was runless for Mason City, while the locals added one more. In the sixth it was the same story for the enemy, while two runs went over for Belmond. Mason City scored once in the seventh and eighth, while the boys ha'e took it easy.

Belmond secured six hits, one of them a three-bagger by Baldridge, three being doubles and two singles. Mason City got four, with one for three sacks and the rest singles. The errors were about equally divided, with Belmond being one or two behind.

There was only a small crowd at the game, but those who were there had a good time out of it. It was the quietest game that has been played here this summer. Out of seventeen games the local team has played this season, they have won thirteen of them.

"CAP". TYRRELL ON VACATION

The following article is taken from the Rice Journal for the July number, and concerns a former well known resident of Belmond:-

Captain W. C. Tyrrell, president of the Tyrrell Rice Milling company of Beaumont, Texas, is now on his annual vacation. He will visit points in Iowa, Oklahoma, and spend some time on the shores of Lake Superior before his return. Captain Tyrrell is one of those grand old men who, having made a success in life, has at the same time not become hardened by the game of accumulating a fortune. Just before leaving for his vacation he made his annual contribution of $50 to the Beaumont Journal's ice and milk fund for the children and old folks, according to that paper. This is only one of the many acts of charity for which the Captain is responsible. He recently donated a 500-acre park to the city of Beaumont.

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO COLLIDE HERE SUNDAY

A young man by the name of Kincaid, residing at Sheffield, was mixed up in a collision here Sunday afternoon about six o'clock. He was coming east across the town bridge, riding a motorcycle, just as a car came frm the south on the Water street road. The young man saw the danger and applied his brakes, but the car struck him and threw him off the motorcycle onto the pavement, the young man alighting on his head and shoulders several feet away. Beyond bruises and scratches he was not hurt. The car went on north, then turned and came back, but did not stop to ascertain what damage, if any, had been done. The driver of the car was unknown, but the license number of the car was secured, the reports stating it was owned in this county, and measures are being taken to straighten the matter out.

COMMUNITY CLUB MEETS AT LIBRARY TOMORROW

The Community Welfare club meets at the library basement on Friday afternoon, July 29. The program will be on Patriotism, and is as follows:

Leader ---------- Mrs. E. F. Bailey
Music ---------------- Carol Tyrrell
Paper on Patriotism
---------------- Mrs. M. F. Christie
Reading ------------ Alberta Pierce
Prominent Women in Politics ------
---------------- Mrs. A. E. Martin
Music -------------- Girls' Quartette
Reading -------------- Gladys Barry
Song—Star Spangled Banner.

Serving Committee: Mrs. H. F. Luick, Mrs. Mortimer, Mrs. Pat Dillon, Mrs. R. H. Rierson, Mrs. Tom Brooks, Mrs C. J. Johnson, Mrs. Earl Madsen, Miss Mary Barry, Mrs. M. J. Newgard.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

F. C. Aldrich arranged a surprise on his mother last Sunday, the occasion being her birthday. A number of the relatives were present, about twenty-five in all. Each one brought their own lunch, and a delight ful luncheon was served. A very enjoyable time was had. Mrs. Aldrich was seventy-one on that day, and is an exceptionally spry and able lady for her age.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Sorenson from Latimer were among the out of town guests who were present.

MONEY ROLLING IN TO HELP KEEP WALL LAKE

More than half of the $2,500 fund for establishing a public park on the shores of Wall Lake, Wright county, has been pledged, it was learned here yesterday, states a dispatch from Webster City to the Mason City Globe Gazette. Letters from Wellsburg, Alden, Williams, Blairsburg and Ames have been received in reply to a communication recently sent out by Dr. N. C. A. Berg of this city, explaining an alleged attempt by Waterloo men to corner lake shore property and make the resort a private landing place.

Sportsmen who resented this reported manipulation of real estate took the matter before the Iowa board of conservation which looked favorably upon their recommendation that a public park be established on the lake shore, but was unable to take active measures toward this end because other park projects previously granted have absorbed the funds for such purposes.

It was suggested that sportsmen interested in the enterprise raise the $2,500 reuired in the undertaking. The Webster City Wall Lake club provided $500 as a starter for the park, and Dr. Berg said that letters have been received by him pledging approximately $1,000 more for the undertaking.

Local backers of the proposition are awaiting replies from other clubs and individuals addressed.

It was said that the Iowa board has agreed to acquire by purchase or condemnation a certain tract of land bordering upon the southeast shore of the lake as soon as the required sum is raised.

LAKE CORNELIA PARK TO BE OPENED SUNDAY

They have rented grounds and fixed it up for high class professional, or semi-pro, ball games at Lake Cornelia, and next Sunday, July 31, is the opening day, when the new park will be opened by a game between Belmond's aggregation of scalp-takers and Ryder's Independents of Rowan. The Independents are composed, according to reports, of the best from Rowan, Dows and Clarion, and as the three towns have some very good material the game ought to be worth something. Lake Cornelia is making big bids for the most popular resort in the county, and appears to be pushed by a bunch of live wires from both Rowan and Clarion.

A. B. Cuppett left on Monday for Northern Minnesota where he contemplates the purchase of a farm on Lake Vermillion.

Milk Ordinance Explained Friday By Dr. Thompson

State Dairy Inspector Gives Large Audience Fine Address

PASTUERIZE MILK OR TEST

Dr. O. P. Thompson of Waterloo, state dairy inspector, was in Belmond on Friday night as expected, and delivered an interesting address in the city hall to a good sized audience who were interested in the proposed milk regulation ordinance.

Dr. Thompson stated that the ordinance, which is the same as is being introduced in other towns, is not going to work a hardship on anyone who is engaged in retailing milk. The sanitary measures which the ordinance calls for are a good thing, and will result in cleaner and more sanitary milk to the consumer.

The doctor stated that the proposed measure will require all retailers of milk to do one of two things, either to pasteurize the milk, or to have the cows tested. The state will test any cow free of charge, and this requirement is a precaution against the spread of disease, principally tuberculosis, which is so frequently contracted thru milk from tubercular cows, and which this compulsory test will eliminate.

Among those present at the address were councilmen from Garner and some of the neighboring towns, and milk dealers from Dows, besides many who were more or less interested in the proposed ordinance.

A case has come to the notice of the Independent this week, of a man residing on a farm a short way from Belmond who had his herd of cows tested this week, and every one of the herd, of pure breds, was found to be tubercular. He wil have the herd disposed of, and new floors laid in the barns, and everything disinfected.

CAR HIT BY FREIGHT TRAIN SATURDAY EVE

A. C. Meyers met with an accident Saturday evening which resulted in a lucky escape, but which might very easily have proven serious. He was driving home about 10:30, and as he arrived at the Great Western railroad tracks a freight train was switching. The brakeman was on the other side of the train, and did not see Meyers approaching and Meyers could not see the brakeman's lantern. As Mr. Meyers was crossing the track the train, backing up, struck his car. Mr. Meyers and his wife jumped and escaped with minor injuries. The car was pushed about 30 feet up the track, the wheels torn off and the body smashed to pieces. As it was, the only damage was to the car, which was ruined, but the occupants were exceedingly lucky to escape with their lives.

YOUNG BELMOND BOY ACCEPTS PASTORATE

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Webb of this city received word a few days ago that their son Harry had been offered and has accepted the pastore of the church at Wollingsford, Iowa, for the coming year. Harry has the distinction of being the youngest member in the conference, and his many old friends in Belmond extend their congratulations and best wishes in the exceptional success he has attained in his chosen line of endeavor. Harry has been a student at Morningside College at Sioux City the past year, taking studies along his chosen profession, and it is understood that he will continue his studies by correspondence while serving his pastore at Wolingsford.

Henry Anderson was a business caller at Kanawha one day last week.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

A marriage license was issued Tuesday to George F. Stevens and Lynda Resting.

The Sieg company has begun suit against the Iowa Valley Sugar Co. to collect $228 on a note.

The Independent Grain and Lumber Co. of Eagle Grove has filed suit to recover $312 from Amos and T. O. Thompson on their note.

E. Van Engen has filed a petition in the district court asking judgment against Earl Walrod for balance due on promissory note in the sum of $230.

Annie Danielson vs. Geo. and Lillian Moore is the title of a suit in which landlord seeks to enforce a lien in the sum of $543, balance due as rent money from her farm and asking that said lien be made a prior claim to a certain mortgage.

B. F. Hall vs. Amos and T. O. Thompson of Eagle Grove is an action to recover $500 on a note. A similar action is brought by W. W. Frakes against the same defendants, the amount involved being $1595.

In our report of the stolen autos in this column last week wife of dad No. 2 says their boy took the car all right, but was not mixed up in the check deal. She also says they did what they could to have the law enforced, hence this correction and explanation.

Hugh Whitten of Rowan is appealing from the drainage assessment levied by the board of supervisors against his land in the sum of $2477. The amount of four other appeal cases are as follows: Mary Whitten, $256; H. J. Peddle, $3969; Daniel Whitten, $2767; Mrs. Chas. Brandis, $2478; John Demaris Est., and Mary Marschall, $3457.

Bail bond in the sum of $1000 was furnished Monday by the parents of Art Rasmussen, who was bound over to the October grand jury charged with stealing his father's automobile. Payment was made in cash and the $1000 in currency made quite a "wad" when piled upon the counter in Clerk Goslin's office.

J. D. Cline of Des Moines has begun action against W. L. Kent to recover $1600. Plaintiff alleges that in the exchange of a farm for city property the facts were misrepresented and that defendant's property was subject to a $1600 judgment held by the First National Bank of Belmond and was a matter of record at the time. Plaintiff avers that defendant stated that there was no such incumbrance.

Another case of insanity was before the commissioners Saturday when Mrs. Mary Helgo of Belmond was brought to the court house for examination. She was adjudged insane and taken to Cherokee that afternoon by Deputy Denger and Fred Borel and a sister Mrs. Bertha Fallhaber in Sheriff Lang's automobile. It was too late to make train connections and with good roads the trip could be made in five hours. Besides the unfortunate woman weighted nearly 200 pounds and was so crippled with rheumatism that she could not walk. Her husband had left her and her unsoundness of mind seemed to be mostly over men in general.

Deputy Denger returned from Omaha Friday night with Art Rasmussen, who was arrested for the theft of his father's automobile some weeks ago. County Attorney Rogers conducted a preliminary hearing Saturday morning before Justice Brown, who bound the young man over to the grand jury in the sum of $1000 bond. Rasmussen seems to have gotten into bad company for he has heretofore borne a good reputation. He left this place with a fellow named Belmont and running out of money they went to work on a ranch in Nebraska. They visited Omaha and while in that city the officials arrested Rasmussen, the other man not being found.

Last Mile of Gravel.

The work of hauling gravel for the last mile of the county road east of Clarion was begun Monday. Eight auto trucks belonging to the State Highway commission are engaged in hauling the gravel, which is unloaded from Great Western cars. The gravel was purchased by the county at Belmond. Engineer Hilton states that the work of spreading the gravel on this same road is well under way and by next week it will be completed to the Solberg corner.

BIG DAY TO BE STAGED BY LOCAL CLUB

Home Talent Carnival To Be One Feature Of The Days Attraction

TO HAVE REAL BALL GAME

Trying To Get Belmond And Kanawha -- Otherwise Will Have Ladies Game

The Community Welfare club at a committee meeting held Tuesday afternoon, decided upon a big day to be held here sometime next month. The exact date has not as yet been chosen, depending upon certain circumstances yet to be arranged.

This "big day" from the present plans will be one of utmost interest and enjoyment. The ladies are planning on a ball game in the afternoon, and are endeavoring to arrange one between Belmond and Kanawha, and such a game would certainly draw the crowd. It is not known as yet whether this game can be arranged, and if it proves impossible the ladies are going to stage a game themselves in which the young ladies and the married ones will battle for supremecy.

In the evening of the day they are to stage a home talent carnival in the city park, wherein all the side shows, petrified Eskimoes, red-lemonade and peanut stands will hold forth to the wondering public. Vaudeville stunts by home talent will be on the program, and the cry of the "barker" that for "five cents, a nickel a hafadime" you can see the world's greatest wonder will fill the air.

There is a large supply of good talent for such an affair and the ladies should have a carnival that will be worth coming far to see. The band will furnish plenty of circus music for the occasion, and there will be somethng doing all the while.

It is probable that the big day will be held on either the 18 or 19 of August, depending upon whether the ladies can complete their plans as at present arranged. Belmond hasn't had a "big day" this year, and the proposed affair ought to draw a large crowd. The ball game will be worth coming far to see, and the rest of the doings held in the evening will give everybody a chance to be present.

Further announcements of the affair will be made later, so prepare yourself for something good and a big time.

FAMILY PICNIC HELD AT FRANKLIN GROVE

A very enjoyable picnic was held at Franklin Grove last Sunday by the Fetrow, Easton and Veeder families. Soon after arriving at the grove a delightful dinner was served by the ladies. The main feature of the dinner being fried spring chicken and good old fashioned apple pie. After a few hours of base ball, horseshoe games and visiting, the majority of the party motored to Morse Lake where the remainder of the day was spent in bathing. Before returning from the lake the lunch baskets were raided and their contents were found to be great enough to furnish an attractive lunch for the party.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fetrow and family, Mr. J. H. Reese, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fetrow and son Rex, Mrs. Neva Easton and son James, Mrs. Flora Veeder and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Veeder, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Collins and their little daughter Maxine.

The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rummel of Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval and little son of Rowan, and Zadie Boyer of Arthur.

FREE AIR!

We disclaim any credit or blame for the Air this week. A fellow offered to fill the column for us, and we took him up before he had a chance to change his mind.

Therefore, folks, any bouquets or brix you feel inclined to pass around may be addressed to the Air, in care of us. We'll pass 'em on, even tho we have a curiosity to know what might be contained therein.

Change of pasture will doubtless be welcome anyway, so, ladies and gentlemen, we present for your kind consideration A. N. Nommynus, in his sketch entitled "Idears":

Funny, somehow, the way people get ideas into their ivory and no matter how hard you try to convince them they still hang to the same old theory.

We once heard of a rat that wanted to get into a safe, so he kept chewing at the safe and was very much encouraged when every now and then he saw chips fall. After a while his jaws began to hurt, his teeth felt peculiar and upon investigation he found it was pieces of his teeth instead of pieces of the safe. This rat was finally convinced that he was trying the impossible.

Same applies to some people who try to beat the train to the railroad crossing, and the boy under 21 who tries to sneak a cigarette nowadays.

It's a funny world, we admit. Prices are coming down on most everything, but paper and envelopes, and that's stationary. Then, too, the law of gravity has been greatly overcome, for it hasn't a look-in on bringing prices down—or skirts.

People raving about short skirts nowadays in the cities and towns, just remember the poor policeman, he has to have some enjoyment.

The skirt that used to sweep the sidewalk is about as hard to find as the non-floating soap—and who likes either?

Right now, in all the big dailies, we read principally three items of news: The base ball scandal, the Stillman case, and Gov. Small.

These subjects usually draw a head line in all papers, and it's just about the same every day. It is very true the bigger the thing gets the slower it is to move. F'instance, take the elephant and the flea.

The Great Western motor started running Sunday for Clear Lake business. Belmond contributed one fellow on the train Sunday morning, and that was because he had missed connections or some such reason, and he didn't go to Clear Lake either.

Why go to Clear Lake when our own little lake has the same advantages and you don't spend a month's wages there either.

We happened to think that we hadn't been bothered much this summer with mosquitoes. Do you know why? Because it hasn't rained for about ten weeks, and we understand, the more rain the more mosquitoes, and vice versa, but more flies and heat. There's always something to take the joy out of life—and put it back in again.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Onderdic, residing on the A. E. Martin farm west of town, wishes to take this way of thanking Mr. and Mrs. Martin and Dr. G. H. Steele for their help and assistance in the treatment of her little daughter Rosa, who was given treatment at the hospital in Iowa City for congenital hip trouble.

GREAT WESTERN FREIGHT SETS FIELD AFIRE

The freight train on the C. G. W. road set a field of shocked oats on fire yesterday afternoon about half past three, near the Frank Barry frm, northeast of town. The fire had just gotten started when noticed, and the alarm was turned in here. The fire company responded with the truck and soon had the blaze out. About eight shocks of oats were destroyed. The high wind would doubtless have carried the blaze across the field and eventually up to the Barry house had the fire not been discovered when it was.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

For The Mighty Musky-Or-Gamy Bass

A CAST! A STRIKE! HE'S ON!

The Reel Spins
The Line Sings
The Fight Is On

This is the place for you! 10,000 lakes. Fish for the mighty musky, gamy bass or northern pike. Swim in lakes with clean sand beaches. Motor-boat to some distant island and spend the day. Surf-ride on the waves to your heart's content. Canoe through the winding channels. Hike in the big forests where hay fever is unknown. Golf on the green links surrounded by lakes and big woods—in fact, do anything but work.

Write, phone, or call for information regarding our splendid service to St. Paul and Minneapolis. A copy of our illustrated folder, "The Minnesota Lakes," is yours for the asking.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD

Apply Ticket Agent C. G. W. R. R.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBER IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

KEEP YOUR WORD

One of the things which has always struck this paper as being one ot the best tests of a man's character, is whether or not he keeps his word when he gives it.

A man's word has only the one thing back of it, one thing upon which the world has to depend: the honor back of it. The pledged word should be the most valuable thing any man possessed; the thing upon which he could stake his character and reputation and know it was safe.

"My word is my bond" should be the motto of every man, a pledge and a promise which he should under any circumstance use every means in his power to see that his pledged word is good, that his word is as good as tho he had given a bond secured by gold dollars.

But the fact remains that too many people do not take the pledging of their word seriously. They give it unthinkingly, not seriously intending to make any extra effort to keep it or to fulfill the promise given. The average man is a man of honor, and is honest in his intentions, but he fails to realize what his word should be and mean. All men, upon reaching their majority, unconsciously, technically, agree to fulfill the obligations of citizenship, to cast their vote and suport the institutions of their government. They give their word, perhaps not in fact, but nevertheless in theory which is taken as fact, and yet, when it comes time to meet the demands of their word, to cast their vote, for instance, how many men, and now that equal suffrage is here, how many women, consider it as their duty?

No one will place overly much confidence in the person who does not keep their word, who is not to be depended upon. In any business, the man who promises, and does not endeavor to keep the promise, loses the respect of his fellows with whom he is dealing. The man about whom it is said, "you can depand upon him," has something which he should prize above rishes, for he has the confidence of his fellow men; they know he will do as he says, that he will keep his word. But they whom men have no faith in, whom they do not trust to do as he has promised, is a long, long ways from being successful, even tho he occupy one of the most prominent positions of his community. He lives among people who do not trust him, who know he is not to be depended upon. And that, it seems to us, is a state that any man would find unbearable, a state which he would use every effort to get out of.

Even tho a man be of small wealth or of little education; be his position in the community life the most humble, yet if men say of him "you can depend on John," he has something which no man can excell, the trust of his fellows.

WE ADMIT A CORRECTION

The Wright County News, taking exception to what the Independent had to say regarding the ball game between the county seat and Belmond, points out a correction in the write up which the Independent gladly acknowledges, to wit: That no Clarion player got beyond first base. Clarion reached third in the disputed affair.

Outside of that, however, the Independent declines to agree with the views expressed by the News, that the game was Clarion's, or that Belmond quit because they were afraid of losing. Let's get the two teams together again, Brother King, and fight it out. Any time, any place, 60-40, whole hog or none, and with an umpire whose name isn't Bliss and who comes from far, far away. How about it?

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.

Preaching services at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Epworth League devotional meeting at 7:00 p. m.

The annual Sunday school picnic will be held Friday, August 5. Be at Sunday school next Sunday to hear the final announcements in regard to the picnic.

A welcome awaits you at all the services of the church.

CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

There were eighty-five present at the services at Mr. Bert Jenison's last Sunday evening. These evening services are growing in interest and all are being benefited by them. Let us have that hundred next Sunday night at Mr. Arthur Hinman's. Would like to see as many as we had at our picnic but presume that would be expecting too much.

Sunday school at 10:00 and our morning worship at 11:00 at which time the pastor will speak especially to young people on the subject, "My Life, What Will I Do With It?" We hope to have a large number present. The evening services at 8:00 at Mr. Hinman's. We hope that each one will help to make next Sunday a great day in the Kingdom. If you have no church home we ask you to come with us and we will try and make it as pleasant as possible for you.

The Ladies Missionary society will meet on next Thursday.

CLIPPINGS

Vern Smith was at Belmond again Friday. He claims he was there on business so we will take his word for it but we wonder when he will bring her to Klemme to live.—Times.

The bathing girls whose pictures you see so often in the summer, presumably bathe in the winter, too, but you don't see any pictures of them in their winter costumes.—Ex.

Jasper M. Jensen, Belmond, has been named as president of the State University's Philomathean society, and Mildred N. Waddell, of Eagle Grove, will be treasurer of the Athena society. Both are literary societies.—News.

So far no tobacco dealer in Klemme has applied for a license to sell "fags," coffin nails, or so called "pills." Those who desire to smoke these little cylinders will have to look elsewhere for their favorite smoke. No dealer here seems to want to pay the high license and take chances on selling cigarettes. The new cigarette law is in full force and the dealer who sells to a minor will be given a stiff fine. A minor who is caught smoking is also up against it and is subject to a $5 fine and five days in the county jail. So it might be well for some of you minors to be a little more careful in the future or else smoke your little "pills" behind the barn.—Times.

J. M. Jensen, of Belmond, has been signally honored by being elected vice president of Waldorf college, at Forrest City, an institution of learning fostered by the Norwegian Lutheran churches of this section. The college officials propose a spirited campaign for a $200,000 fund designed to take care of the rapidly increasing needs of the college, which has an enrollment of around 300 yearly, making it the ranking academy of its kind in America.—News.

Mrs. G. R. Hill, of Clarion, and sister, Miss Marie Johnson, of Belmond, are enjoying a visit with their brother, F. J. Johnson, at Colorado Springs, Colo., and occasional side trips to the scenic points in that section of the Golden State.—News.

Mrs. Gittie Finch, her daughter, Mrs. Mrs. Mame Martin and son Robert, of Belmond were guests of Garner relatives yesterday. Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Pritchard are sisters.—Leader.

Saturday morning a report was started around town that a secret marriage for a year was to be made public the coming week end and, would you believe, before two o'clock there were at least five couples who were suspected of having been married all the way from two months to a year. "So and So had heard that So and So had bought a wedding ring steen weeks ago; Such and Such had made such and such a trip at such and such a time," etc. Seems all you have to do is to start a rumor and facts and near facts will furnish the rest.—News.

Mrs. W. K. Blackwell was the victim of an attack of hysteria Sunday, following a visit to his children by her former husband, who had gone to Clear Lake. Mrs. Blackwell was talking to friends when the attack came, and she was removed to her home in Clear Lake. The heat and nervous tension following the meeting with her husband are believed to have caused the spell.—News.

E. Welchhourn, an employee of the Iowa Bridge Co., was instantly killed Tuesday afternoon. He was working with the crew on the bridge near the Olson school house northeast of town. One of the stakes holding the crane and derrick in place on the excavating machine pulled out, and one of the big steel arms fell on the young man, crushing his head to a pulp. The foreman lifted the big steel iron off the unfortunate man and sent for Dr. O'Toole, county coroner, but death was instantaneous and the doctor ordered the remains taken to the Kubitschek & Kashler undertaking parlors. He has a brother living in Des Moines and other relatives at Delphi. He was 19 years of age and had been on the job but three days, coming up from Des Moines Saturday night and going to work Sunday.—Eagle.

W. J. Barz autoed to Belmond yesterday afternoon to meet a cousin of his, Mrs. Ella Tamp of Valley City, North Dakota. Mrs. Tramp will remain here several days.—Garner Leader.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Gentle in Effect.

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Attention, Farmers!

We want you to make our Welding Plant your headquarters. In case you break any part of your farm machinery, don't wait to bring in the broken casting---phone in your emergency want and we will send out a man to help you remove broken part to be welded.

Visit our welding plant when in town. Let's get acquainted.

Belmond Welding & Tank Co.

Belmond, Iowa Phone 39

Belmond Local News

Floyd Case of Clarion, formerly a Belmond boy and well remembered here, has purchased the transfer line in the county seat town from Shake & Son, a partner, Chas. Sumners, being with him in the deal. The Belmond friends of Floyd will wish him the best of success in his business venture.

The Mid-Continent Shows, popularly known as the carnival, pulled up stakes Saturday night and Sunday and left the first of the week for Garner, where they make a two-day stay and then land up in Clear Lake for the big American Legion doings at the resort town.

The motor on the Great Western, which heretofore has been running only on week days, has been put on a seven-day schedule, and arrives in Clear Lake, Sundays, at 10:00 a. m., starting south at 6:00 p. m. It will run as far as Fort Dodge.

N. M. Wolcott of Des Moines came up last week Saturday to visit old friends in the home town. He went to Clear Lake on Saturday morning, going down to Fort Dodge that afternoon, and came back to Belmond Tuesday. Mr. Wolcott is looking extraordinarily well, and says he is feeling fine.

Dr. A. W. Russell left last week Wednesday for Fairmount, Minnesota, where he was called by the illness and death of his sister, Mrs. Wood.

J. J. Flynn is the latest owner of a Henry, and the past week has been missing fence posts and telephone poles and learning to drive.

Louis Tokman was a business caller one day last week at Meservey.

Herman Schultz has been improving his drug store property by a new coat of paint outside, Ernest Stapley doing the work.

The Clarion ball team won from Clarion last week Tuesday by a score of 4 to 3 in a hot contest, and Thursday Kanawha was defeated by Hampton 7 to 3, Hampton scoring every run in the first inning. Why not a tournament in which Hampton, Clarion, Kanawha and Belmond mixed. It ought to draw some crowds, and would certainly be a series of hotly contested games.

Magazine Agency

BELMOND, IOWA

DON'T let your Magazine Subscription run out just when you are in the midst of an interesting article or a thrilling story.

I take orders for any magazine published, both new subscriptions and renewals.

Why wait or bother to write into the company yourself when I can take care of your subscription for you at any time?

R. A. RANKINS

Phone 115 or 196

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval attended a family reunion at a picnic dinner at Franklin Grove and a picnic supper at Morse Lake Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Conn and family motored to Parkersburg, Sunday, to attend a family reunion at the home of Mr and Mrs. [illegible] The occasion was Dan Conn's birthday. Mrs. Kate Conn, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Conn and family of Aredale, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Conn and family and Mrs. Stanley Conn and family of Parkersburg were also present.

Joe Patton had the misfortune to break his right arm while working the dump at the elevator Monday of last week.

A. A. Williams was at Aleander last week doing some painting.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval visited Saturday in Galt at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Herb Aldrich.

Clarence Williams extended his vacation one more week and went to Iowa Falls Tuesday where he had his tonsils removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Carmon and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams motored to Webster City one day last week Mr. and Mrs. Williamson have returned to their home in Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shiley and Mrs. Joe Rice of Dows, Mrs. Bennetto Shiley of Rockwell City and Mrs. Graff of Freeporte, Ill., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph on Tuesday.

Dale Farren has been having considerable trouble with an abcess on one side of his heel. Dr. J. L. Chassell lanced it.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walker and family of Fairbault, Minn., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Yoeman, and with other relatives.

Earnest Nash of Santa Ana. Calif., Mr. Pester of Clarion, and Mr. Meyers of Solsburg called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kercheval, Sunday. Mr. Nash will be remembered by a great many Rowan people as he lived here for a good many years. They have bought a home in Santa Ana, and intend to make it their home as they enjoy it out there very much.

Rev. and Mrs. Whitford and children, Thelma and Grace, of Hardy, were calling on old friends in Rowan one day last week. Rev. Whitford was a former M. E. pastor here.

Mrs. Gay Fletcher spent Tuesday in Clarion at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz.

Will Whittens are driving a new Ford since their return from Wis.

Mrs. Lizzie Lawson of Wessington, Springs, S. D., came Tuesday to visit her sister, Mrs. E. Bingham, and other relatives. She is a former resident of Rowan. She reports the crops in South Dakota as looking fine as they have had plenty f rain.

The Young Ladies Mission Study club of the Congregational church held their regular meeting as a picnic at the Mill dam. About 20 were present at this meeting. Marjorie Brooks was the leader and the study was of the vacation trips of Dr, Sheppard, the missionary, who is being studied at present. Three new members were added to the list at this meeting. A very nice picnic supper was enjoyed by all. There will be one more picnic this summer, the third week in August.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham, Mrs. Lizzie Lawson and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howell and children motored to Humboldt, Wednesday, to visit at the home of Rev. and Mrs. I. N. Howell. J. F. Howelll took the "40 and 8" while there. L. W. Howel returned with them to Rowan where he visited at the home of his brother a few days, returning to his home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kercheval and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval and son motored to Webster City, Thursday, to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wright Letts.

Rev. and Mrs. George Stevens and family, who have been spending their vacation with relatives at this place, returned home to Deloit, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lineweaver are the proud parents of a fine baby girl, their first born, who arrived on Tuesday, July19. The little miss weighed eight pounds and has been named Shirley Arlene. Mother and baby are reported as doing fine.

While trying to crank their Ford car last Thursday, Mrs. Herb Hadley dislocated her wrist and broke a bone in the forearm of her right arm. Dr. Sams was called to set it. It is very painful but is doing as well as could be expected. Mrs. Hadley and the children have been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hadley since the accident.

Mrs. Dan Fletcher and her uncle, Fred Clark, who has been visiting her the past week, left Thursday evening for Bruce, Wisconsin, to visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tim Weld.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snow of Pomcroy visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. Will Whitten, and family, Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Weber and her brother, Claud Chipman, of Clarion, started Saturday by auto for a trip thru Minnesota and Wisconsin, and will visit relatives at both places.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Carmon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Halbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Braden and Clarence and Henry Williams went to Clear Lake for an outing picnic supper Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. C. Box, Mrs, Jessie Agnew and sons and Miss Blanche Box were Clarion callers on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Ramsey of Latimer are the proud parents of a baby boy born Wednesday, July 20.

Mrs. Hannah Whitten was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lineweaver last week helping care for her new granddaughter.

A great many people from Rowan attended the Chase-Lister shows in Clarion this last week.

Mrs. Clifford Steffens went to Reinbeck, Saturday, to visit her sister, Mrs. Frank Dray, nee Wava Fletcher.

Earl Jacobs of Goodell visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller on Saturday.

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. O. E. Ballou and seven girls from the Congregational church Sunday school took flowers to Mrs. M. Snyder, who has been sick for some time. The girls sang for her also.

O. M. Scott of Eagle Grove visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Draeger last week. He was looking after farm interests.

Donald McCallum returned Saturday from Iowa City where he has been attending a six weeks' summer college course.

The seven o'clock passenger on the Rock Island jumped the track between Rowan and Belmond, Thursday night. It was past midnight before they got it fixed so they could go on. No one was hurt.

Clifford Whitten of Clarion and Miss Linda Lee of Olaf were united in marriage Monday, July 18. Clifford is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Whitten of this place and has an interest in a blacksmith shop in Clarion. The young people will start housekeeping in Carion. Their friends wish them much success and happiness in their new home. They spent the week end at the parental Whitten home.

Emmet Carr went to Iowa Falls last Friday where he had his tonsils removed. He has been suffering from rheumatism for some time and it i hoped this will be of benefit to him.

Mr. Jepson and family and Mrs. Johnson and daughter of Clear Lake visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen, Saturday evening.

Miss Tillie Lindhl of Coggin came Thursday to visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Fred Hackley.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz in Clarion.

Little Charlotte Clowes of Renwick who has been visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. R. H. Keith, returned to her home Saturday. Mrs. Keith accompanied her to Dows.

Frank Carr is suffering from blood poisoning in his foot. He is at the home of his mother, Mrs. Etta Carr.

Mrs. W. W. Levens and children of Oelwein came Monday to visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. H. Barker.

Chester Bailey was a Dows caller Saturday.

Mrs. Ed. Riley went to Belmond, Saturday, to spend the week end with her daughter, Mrs. Fuller Bailey. They attended the Chase -Lister show at Clarion, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stronquist and son of Perry, and Mrs. Albert Thompson and three children of Clarion were in town Saturday calling at the homes of A. O. Pelly and Roy Hyde.

Blanche Combs came home Wednesday from the hospital at Iowa Falls where she had an operation for appendicitis. She is getting long nicely.

Mrs. L. A. McCallum went to Dubuque on Monday of this week to see her mother, Mrs. Fred Baltes, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Underdahl are the proud parents of a fine baby boy born Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rummel of Davenport visited at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Fred Kercheval, Friday.

Miss Laura McCallum returned on Monday from Clarion, where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Glenn Jennings.

Mrs. Cora Evans of Milwaukee was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Brooks, Friday, enroute to Waverly to visit her sister, Mrs. Will Brooks. Her niece, Elizabeth, who had been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks, and her uncle, Fred Brooks, returned to her home in Waverly with Mrs. Evans.

Miss Vinnie Whitten went to Mason City, Saturday, to spend the week end with her friend, Miss Freida Zander.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stevenson went to Thornton, Sunday, to visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Bert Harris. Their grandson Leland who has been visiting them for the past week returned to his home with them.

Miss Alice McCallum, who has been visiting at the home of her uncle, L. A. McCallum, returned to her home in Dundee, Saturday. Miss Esther Kiplinger of Belmond accompanied her home.

County agent Edwards visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller, Monday evening. He held three culling demonstrations that day, one at Earl Sellers, one at Sim Stouts, and one at Mr. Eastman's near Belmond.

Remember the box social which the Iowa Township Farm Bureau Community club will hold at the school house August 12. All three sections will be together at this social. A program will be given. Everybody come and bring a box.

The M. E. Ladies Aid held a business meeting at the home of Mrs. A. C. Rietz on Thursday to decide about the new carpet for the church, which is being redecorated.

Mrs. Maude Kehler and son of La-Port City, came Saturday to visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harold Steffens and family.

Mrs. Lena Murdock of Clarion was a Sunday guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kalvig.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCutcheon of Trae visited at the home of his aunt, Mrs. R. H. Keith several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kalvig and family who have just moved here where he was appointed section foreman on the Great Western, expect to move to Clarion August 1 where he will be foreman in the yards. It is reported Geo. Wessells will take the section at this place.

Mrs. Charles Farmer of Clarion spent a few days the past week with her daughter, Mrs. Will Ferguson. Glen Farmer and Miss Hope Perdun autoed over Saturday evening and Mrs. Farmer returned to her home with them.

Mrs. Lew Vennum and son Buddy of Fort Dodge returned Friday to their home after a couple of weeks visit with relatives at Dows and at Rowan. They also accompanied Will Whittens on their trip to Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson and children of Dows spent Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Steffens.

Daughter of Former Pastor Wed.

Following is a clipping taken from a Humboldt paper which will be of interest to Rowan people. The bride visited her parents at Rowan several times during their pastorate here and made many friends who wish her much happiness in her new ome.

"The marriaoge of Miss Hilda Bonnell of Parkersburg to R. J. Tidman of Humboldt occured at the home of a mutual friend at Albion, Neb., on June 26. The young people motored to Humboldt and are now at nome in temporary rooms at the Fleming residence, and will begin housekeeping as soon as a residence is available.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Bonnell, of Parkersburg, and for some time was a teacher in the Bradgate schools. She has many friends in Bradgate, and is a very popular lady in her home circle. The groom is the proprietor of the Soda Grill at Humboldt and is a business man of ability, and a young man of excellent qualities.

The young couple carry the best wishes of all their acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Munson and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey were Dows callers Wednesday.

Kenneth Ballou was a Clarion and Belmond caller Saturday.

Mrs. Fred Welsh and children visited at the home of her parents in Clarion Saturday.

Mr. George Liming and daughter, Lorraine were Dows callers Friday, where Lorraine had some dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Toyne and children Guerdon and Helen and Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCallum started Saturday for Lanesboro for visit. They will also visit at Carroll, Lake City and Manilla and expected to attend the Merle Hayes funeral at Glidden Sunday. They expect to be gone a couple of weeks.

Samie Hearn and bride of Bristow are visiting at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. Clarence Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair of Clarion visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fowler, Saturday, and also at the Edd. Miller home.

Th First section of the M. E. Ladies Aid society held an ice cream social on the tennis court Saturday night. They took in $29.75. About twenty dollars of this was clear.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pritchett left Monday night for Rochester, Minn., to receive medical aid for Mrs. Pritchett.

Tuesday night Mr. and Mrs. Will Whitten and daughter Gladys, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher, and Mrs. Lew Vennum and son Buddy returned from their trip to Bruce, Wisconsin. They report a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Emerson and family returned Tuesday night from their camping trip at Lake Okoboji. They met Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Chassel and family of Belle Fouche, S. Dak. while there, and all returned to Rowan in a company. They report a lovely time and a fine place to camp at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralston and son, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bowels of Lacona, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Meyers returned from their trip thru Minnesota and Wisconsin, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Bowels returned to their home at Lacona, Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Ralston and son will visit at the Myers home for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Kjar and family, Sophia Eson and Frank Stevensen motored to Newell last week. Mrs. Kjar and the children visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Meller Jensen while the rest of the party motored to Omaha. They returned home the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Nelson of Iowa Falls visited at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith of Clarion and Mrs. Fred Brooks motored to Des Moines last Thursday. They returned home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen and family were Iowa Falls visitors on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith of Clarion spent Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. Snyder.

Mrs. Ernie McBurney and Miss Maude Nickless of Shuiler, Neb., visited at the home of their sister, Mrs. Tice Streveler and family the past week.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

Sunday, July 31, 1921.

11:00 a. m.—Divine worship.

12:00—Sunday school.

8:00—Evening service; Union service at the M. E. church. We invite you to attend these services. The music will be special and addresses to fit the occasion. Come and bring your friends.

At 7:30 a. m. the Christian Endeavor will meet at the church for an early morning prayer. They will continue to meet in the morning thru the month of August.

2:30 Wednesday afternoon the Junior Christian Endeavor will meet at the church.

Wednesday evening at 8:00 the regular mid week prayer meeting will be held at the church.

STRENGTH SERVICE

A Regular Income

From small beginnings, large fortunes spring- -fortunes that pay regular incomes.
No matter how small, make your beginning immediately with this Bank ann let us help you grow.

We pay 5 per cent inthrest on Savings Accounts, payable semi-annually. We provide security and service for you and our officers are ready to give financial advice at any time.

Plant the seed of your fortune in a Liberty Bell Bank at home---we have one far you.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Preparedness!

The Telephone prepares you for the emergency call for the doctor, the fire department, the police.

Belmond Telephone Company

Henry even carries matches now

HENRY WAS "near."
IN OTHER words, tight.
HE CARRIED two packs.
OF CIGARETTES.
ONE FOR friend Henry.
FULL OF "Satisfys."
AND THE other containing.
JUST ONE cigarette.
AND THAT lone cigarette.
WAS ALWAYS offered.
TO SMOKELESS friends.
WHO WERE all polite.
AND REFUSED to take it.
AND SOMEHOW Henry.
WAS NOT popular.
TILL ONE day by mistake.
HE PULLED the full pack.
AND EVERYONE fell on it.
WITH LOUD cries of glee.
HIS STRONG constitution.
CARRIED HENRY through.
AND DAY by day.
HE GREW more popular.
AND HENRY knew why.
FOR HE'S nobody's dummy.
AND NOWADAYS he not only.
CARRIES THE cigarettes.
THAT SATISFY.
BUT FORCES 'em on people.
GIVES AWAY packs of 'em.
AND, SHUCKS.
HENRY COULD run for Mayor.
AND GET away with it now.

Air-Tight Tins of 50
Ask your dealer to show you the new vacuum-sealed tins of 50 Chesterfields. A compact, convenient and absolutely AIR-TIGHT packing—the cigarettes keep fresh indefinitely.

GIVE your friends the real thing—introduce them to Chesterfields! Odds are they'll find just what you've found in this wonderful Turkish-Domestic blend—a smoke that by comparison seems way out of its price class—and is. "They Satisfy!"

They Satisfy Chesterfield CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

OLAF NEWS ITEMS

Mrs. Elmer Kessler returned home to Iowa Falls, Friday, after having spent the past week helping Mrs. Windecker in the store, during the recent illness of Mr. Windecker.

Mrs. Longley of Belmond and Miss Carrie Baxter were callers at the Geo. Baxter home one day last week.

Two auto loads of relatives of Julius Olson drove thru from Omaha one day last week and made him a visit. His three youngest children returned with them.

The social given under the auspices of the St. Olaf Luther League at the H. O. Anderson home last Friday evening was well attended and considered a success, both financially and socially.

Martin Paulson was an over Sunday visitor at Belmond.

Miss Hill of Story county is visiting at the Clarence Scott home. She is a cousin of Mr. Scott.

The Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Garfield Holverson on Wednesday, August 3.

Mr. Saunders of Kanawha was in our burg last week working at the insurance business.

Threshing seems to be the order of the day, many machines being kept busy within a radius of a few miles. Oats are a very light crop, as they did not mature properly, owing to the hot weather.

ALEXANDER NEWS

John Modderman was a business caller at Hampton last Friday.

Fred Greenffield and son Frederick were Hampton callers Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hansen visited with relatives at Iowa Falls last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bobst and baby and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nelson and Theodore and Bertha were Sunday visitors at Clear Lake.

Mr. Dykeman of Hampton was a business caller in town the first of the week.

Dr. Schultz of Latimer was a caller at Alexander Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenffield and son and Miss Alma Greenffield of Belmond autoed last week to Williamburg to visit with the former's brother, Meno Greenffield, and family.

James Green of Hampton was a business caller here several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rankin of Dows were callers in town last Monday.

George Pals and daughter Miss Jennie of near Belmond were callers here Tuesday.

Little Virgie Hardy of Hampton is visiting with relatives in this vicinity.

Lewis Bell and Albert Larsen were business callers at Latimer last Tuesday.

Joe Veeder and Charley Winwood were Clear Lake visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frd Rodemeyer and children visited with relatives at Iowa Falls, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and Miss Jessie Bell visited at the Will Tucker home in Hampton, Friday.

H. CC. Yaw f Iowa Falls was in town the first of the week looking after business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Larsen and two sons were business callers at Hampton, Monday.

Miss Ella Blau went to Iowa Falls last week to assist with the work at the Geo. Yaw home.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Kaduce and family of near Meservey visited at the Alfred Anderson home last Sunday evening.

Glenn Klinefelter of Garner spent Sunday with friends and relatives at this place.

The Dorcas society will meet at the home of Mrs. F. L. Greenffield next Wednesday afternoon. All ladies are invited to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Houg and daughter Delia of Dows visited at the Peter Bohlen home one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and daughters Jessie and Nellie were visitors at Clear Lake last Saturday.

The hum of the threshing machine has been heard te past week and after this week most all shock threshing will be oone. The yield of oats is reported to be very light, owing to the extreme warm weather.

READ THE ADS

KANAWHA NEWS

Henry Anderson of Belmond was a business caller here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Yeakel of Ames were visitors here this week.

T. L. Johnson of Clear Lake came Wednesday for a brief visit with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Fosen and family were over Sunday visitors at the Gerhard Olson home in Britt.

Prof. Hilligan of Forest City was an over Sunday visitor at the Rev. Trelstad home. On Sunday he gave a talk at the Lutheran church.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Whitney and little son left Monday for their home at Howarden, after a pleasant visit at the O. A. Satter home.

Mr. nd Mrs. Wm. Benzler of Brit were callers here Monday night.

Belmond Local News

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brooks and Art Nelson leave this week for Canada for a three weeks visit with relatives and friends in that country. They go by auto, and expect to camp out on the trip.

Mrs. Cora Evans returned last week to her home in Minneapolis, after a week or two spent at the home of relatives here, where she was called by the death of Howard Luick.

Mrs. Jennings' brother and siter, from Vernon, South Dakota, who have been visiting at the Jennings home here for the past two or three weeks, returned to their home the latter part of last week, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings accompanying them as far as Garner by auto.

Mrs. A. L. Luick and son returned last week from Dubuque, where she was called by the illness and death of her mother.

Every sack of Peacock Flour is now guaranteed to give satisfaction. $2.10 per sack—why pay more?—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

Bob Wilson of Cornelia, who has had his speed boat at Morse Lake the past week or two, has taken it back to Cornelia, the business at the lake here in pleasure riding being rather dull.

James Halligan whose home is in Utah, returned to that place the first of the week after spending the past week or two visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Titzell.

Let us do your fancy dry cleaning and pressing. Having added new equipment we are prepared to handle rush orders. Satisfaction guaranteed. —New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of Case Hotel. Phone 28.

Word was received here this week of the death at his home in Indianola of F. H. Wilbur, a former resident of this vicinity and well remembered by many Belmond people.

Vacation Days

Come and go. Your need of God is constant.

Remembee the Services at the

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Specials

25 bars White Laundry Soap	$1.00
3 12c pkgs macaroni for	25c
3 10-cent pkgs corn flakes	25c
Bread, per loaf	10c
Flaxon, per yard	30c
Men's Overalls	$1.25
Men's Pants	2.50

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30

We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whittaker expect to leave this week by auto for a trip to Illinois, where they plan on spending some three weeks, visiting at the homes of friends and relatives in that state.

The Misses Alma Ruka and Dortha Okrueg of Goodell were guests recently at the Butts home here.

MIDLAND PACKING PLANT MAY BE REOPENED

The Midland Packing Plant at Sioux City is expected to begin operations August 15th, or within a short period after that time as conditions will permit. The plant, one of the most perfect of its kind has been leased to Wilson and Company, one of the five leading packers in Chicago.

Having a capacity of about 2,000 hogs and about 400 head of cattle daily, the operation of the plant will add much to the prestige of the Sioux City live stock market.

Should the opening be postponed until fall employment will be afforded several thousand men through the fall and winter and at the time when opportunities for work are considerably reduced.

Future conditions of the hog market during 1921 are uncertain. It is possible that operations in all the Sioux City packing plans may be effected by them. An unofficial statement is to the effect efforts will be made to dispose of this surplus before maximum operations are conducted at Sioux City and other market plants.

Water is Necessary for your Battery

Water is as necessary to battery life as it is to plant life. The water should be pure—and it should be put into the battery regularly, at least once every two weeks.

You can easily put this water in, but we will gladly do it if you prefer.

We are also equipped to recharge and repair batteries. We carry a complete line of Willard battery parts, rental batteries and Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries.

Ask us how Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation puts an end to the separator replacement expense caused by warped, cracked, punctured and carbonized wood separators.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

Willard Batteries

BROKE UP NICE GAME

Hampton Chronicle—Sheriff A. C. Atkinson and City Marshal Hooker rounded up a bunch of gamblers the first of the week, and they were not "kids" as had been reported. Married men were sitting in on the game when the officers suddenly gave the participants the surprise of their lives. There were four or five hauled up before Judge J. J. Sharpe, and after pleading guilty he gave them a nominal fine, with costs added.

J. J. Donovan, the traffic cop who started in to arrest the whole county for violating the automobile laws of Hampton a few weeks ago, was among those charged as being implicated in the gambling crime. He pleaded not guilty, but after a hearing before Judge Sharpe the court decided that his case was suspicious at least, and he gave him $10 and trimmings. Officers state that Donovan was outside of the barn, acting as guard for those inside, when they made a quick swoop and fooled the whole bunch.

RECORD ENROLLMENT AT AMES

With 1,285 students enrolled in more than 255 classes, Iowa State college is conducting the largest summer session in the history of the college.

Students from many states and several foreign countries are in attendance. Most of the work that is offered during the regular school year is available to students during the summer.

Summer session work was offered for the first time at Iowa State college in 1911 when about 50 superintendents and teachers in public schools attended. In 1912 there were 128 students and from this time the enrollment steadily increased. Last year 763 attended the first summer session. This year the enrollment is about 500 greater than that of last year.

The first shower for over a month visited this vicinity on Tuesday night, when a shower of twenty to thirty minutes duration fell. It was all right while it lasted, but it didn't last.

ROBINSON'S

Bread, three 10c loaves	25c
Black Tea, per lb.	40c
Spaghetti and Macaroni, 2 lbs. for	25c
Rolled Oats, lb.	5c
Rice, 5 lbs. for	25c
Corn and tomatoes, per can	10c
Evaporated Pears, lb.	25c
Apricots, No. 2½	20c
Coffee	15c

The Cut Rate Grocery

Saves You Money

We Have A First Patent Flour

CLIMAX FLOUR, 49 lb. sack	$2.50
In bbl. lots we sell for	$9.50

There is no better flour milled.

Rice, 6 lbs.	38c
Navy Beans, 6 lbs.	38c
Salmon, fancy pink No 1 tall can	15c
Salmon Red Boy	36c
Hippo Washing Powder, 6 boxes for	25c
Swift Pride Washing Powder large size	19c
Palm Olive Soap, 3 for	25c
Cream Oil Soap, 3 for	25c

Our Store Is Full of Bargains

Make Our Store Your Headquarters While In Mason City.

CUT RATE GROCERY

Mason City, Iowa

C. E. Bush, Mgr.

Home Baking at the Woman's Exchange

Homemade Bread, per loaf	15c
Nut Bread, per loaf	35c
Pies, each	40c
Devil's Food Cake	40c
White Cake	40c
Spice Cake	40c
Nut Cake	50c
Sunshine Cake	50c
Angel Food Cake, large size	$1.00
Doughnuts, per dozen	20c
Ginger Creams, per dozen	25c
Plain White Sugar or Ginger Cookies, dozen	20c
Drop Cookies, dozen	25c
Baked Beans, pint	20c

Phone your order at any time and in any quantity.

Bring in your needlework or anything you have to sell. I charge 20 per cent.

MARY GEALOW

Phone 316 Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Local News

E. F. Bailey started his big ditching machine for the first time Monday on the drainage job at Clarion, and made a big run for the day. That evening the machine broke down, and Mr. Bailey drove to Iowa Falls in the night for repairs.

Bill Clark, who moved from this place to the county seat recently, to work on the drainage ditch there, was calling on old friends here the first of the week.

Mrs. Ellis Burk has been reported on the sick list this past week, but is reported better.

Miss Christina Hanson of Hawley, Minesota, a cousin of Mrs. C. A. Johnson, is spending a few days here at the Johnson home.

Miss Nettie Benson went to Alexander the first of the week where she will spend the next few weeks keeping house for uncle, Mr. Foughty.

Louis Parsons went to Chicago one day last week where he visited a few days with his brother, Everett, who is taking a business course at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hills and two sons of Clarion were guests last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Snyder.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dodd of Popejoy were visitors on Saturday of last week at the F. E. Snyder home.

Preston Tyrrell returned to Sioux Rapids, Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. Hall Tyrrell.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Johnson spent the week end at Latimer, at the home of their son and family there.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Kraig and daughter moved to the county seat on Saturday, where they will make their home this summer, Mr. Kraig being employed with Mr. Bailey on the big ditching job there.

Floyd Bailey drove home from the county seat Saturday, to spend Sunday with relatives and friends in his home town.

Let us do your developing and printing. Prints reduced or developing to 10 cents a roll.—Schultz Drug Co.

Lee Stacy and wife drove to their former home, Hampton, last Saturday evening to spend the week end at the home of relatives there.

Mrs. Tuffree was a visitor last week at Mason City, at the homes of various friends there.

Warner Butts of Goodell and his brother, Billy, of this place, are enjoying a vacation this week at Lake Jefferson.

Mrs. Ray Norris of Garner was a visitor here last week at the home of relatives and friends.

It was reported here on Monday of this week that the dam at East Lake, between Belmond and Kanawha, was dynamited on Sunday at about two o'clock in the morning. It is said that some of the farmers in the neighborhood of the lake are a little bit sore over some drainage matters connected with the lake, and the reports blame someone in that vicinity for the deed. The water let loose raised the river in town here considerably, and the river is reported full of fish that escaped from the lake. They say that this is the third time that the lake has been dynamited.

Mrs. Tony Knipp of Goodell was a visitor here on Saturday, doing some shopping and visiting friends.

Hal Nourse left Sunday of this week for Fox Lake, Wisconsin, to join his family, who have been enjoying a vacation at that place for the past few weeks. They expect to return home some time this week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Mallory returned last week from Moss Point, Miss., where they have been spending the past six or eight months. They are staying for the present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Morse, and are doing some repairs on their residence property here. They had a very enjoyable time in the south, but say that it was exceedingly hot down there, altho the gulf breezes helped things wonderfully. Mr. Mallory states that labor in the south is cheap, and that a skilled mechanic receives from but three to five dollars a day. Living is very reasonable, much below what it is in the northern states.

W. E. Bullard was a business caller last Friday at Cambridge, making the trip by car. Rufe Morse says he bought an umbrella while there, because it looked like rain.

Albert Tracy of Clarion caused a calf to go hence at Morse Lake one day last week, when he hit it with a big Paige car. This makes the second calf to be turned into veal by Clarion young men at the lake within the past two weeks.

The Garner papers have been agitating that Pilot Mound and Dead Man's Lake, in Hancock county, be made a state park, and in a long article last week the Leader gives the reasons why it thinks this should be done. A dispatch to the Mason City paper states that the park is to be granted.

The post office at Meservey has been made a third class affair, and Meservey people are feeling quite puffed up about it.

No rain yet. But several promises of it. Sunday it looked very much as tho our long dry spell was going to be broken at last, with an overcast sky and mutterings of thunder, but there was nothing doing, not even a drop. Good showers were had in all directions from Belmond, with heavy rainfall at Garner, Hampton, east of Rowan, and fourteen miles south of Belmond. Crops of all kinds are in a more or less bad way for rain, the corn being somewhat spotted in this particular, however, with some good fields as yet not much harmed, while others are firing. Potatoes, except those planted in the early spring, are counted as just about a total loss, with the planter lucky to get his seed back.

Morse Lake continues to draw some good crowds, altho the cloudy weather has cut down on the number to a considerable extent. Many picnic parties have taken place there the past week. Some of the carnival people who visited the lake were loud in their approval of it, and they could not understand why Belmond people did not improve it and make it into the resort it is capable of being made.

Threshing began in this vicinity last week, and reports of the oats seem to be somewhat light in quantity and of fair quality.

W. H. Wolle has been putting in a new walk in front of his office on Spruce street.

LuVerne Smith came down from Klemme to spend Sunday with relatives and friends at this place.

The county fair of Wright county will be held at Clarion next month, three days of big times being on the program. The fair last year was the best yet, and the reports of this year's fair are that it is to eclipse last year's event.

The ball team at LuVerne, practically and all-salaried outfit has been disbanded owing to a lack of sufficient funds to keep it going. Whenever some of the small towns learn that a salaried outfit is too expensive to pay out, and that a hired team never draws the interest of the home folks as it does where everybody knows the players, the better off they will be.

Charley Peterson came over from Hampton to spend Sunday here with his family, who have been visiting the past few days with relatives.

Dr. Brown of Clarion was a caller here one day last week, driving over in his car.

Kanawha played a team from Mason City, Sunday, at the lake, and the result was 20 to 0 in favor of the salaried Kanawha team.

Mr. and Mrs. Schooner spent the week end with friends and relatives at Iowa Falls.

Rev. Jensen and family and Martin Hansen and family in their cars started this week for a trip to points in Minnesota and North Dakota.

Henry Saatoff and wife drove down from Kanawha to spend Sunday here with friends and relatives.

The Misses McBane of Fort Dodge were visitors here on Thursday of last week.

Cap. W. C. Tyrrell of Beaumont, Texas, returned from Walker, Minnesota, with his brother Hall from Sioux Rapids on Friday of last week, after a few days spent there with relatives. Cap. enjoyed the fishing but says it was rather cool.

Now Comes Our Semi-annual

Clearaway

For the last few days of July

REFRESHING PRICES--so far below regular that there is no comparison, for this is our semi-annual Clearaway. Just hundreds of items on Sale--most of them in small, broken lots that must be sold at any sacrifice.

ALL THROUGH JULY we have hammered prices down in one clearance after another, in every department. Now, what remains after this concentrated effort will be marked way below the Sale prices of a few days ago in a final clearaway.

EVERY DEPARTMENT in this store has entered this semi-annual Clearaway. Surely, out of about 400 items, all desirable, you will find many that you desire and need at savings you cannot realize until you come here this week-end.

Dollar Day

August 4th

This greatest of all Fort Dodge shopping days in conjunction with all other Fort Dodge merchants, will be the signal for the Boston Store to step forward again with unequalled dollar bargains.

Dollar Day will be conducted at this store on the same successful plan of six months ago. One hundred items will be put on sale when the store opens and 10 more every half hour during the day — bringing something new to your attention continually.

Holger's Ice Tea and National Biscuit Company Wafers will be served on fourth floor all day long—FREE OF CHARGE, on Dollar Day.

If you wish a copy of the advertisement that will appear in Tuesday evening's Messenger—write to us immediately and we will send you one. This advertisement contains all the items that are put on sale for Dollar Day.

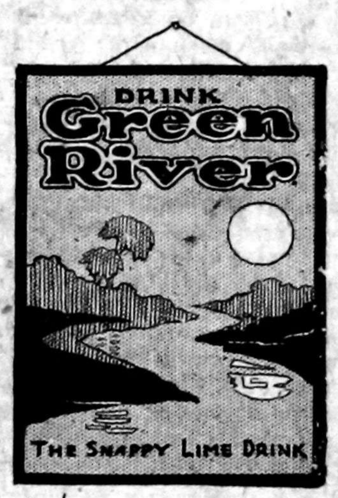
THE BOSTON STORE
FORT DODGE, IOWA

For YOUNG and OLD

Green River

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

THE SNAPPY LIME DRINK



HERE is the coolest, snappiest drink you can buy. Its refreshing lime flavor, its sparkle and life, its purity and richness have made GREEN RIVER the greatest soft drink success in years.

Try it—just once—and you'll drink GREEN RIVER again and again.

Wherever they sell beverages—ask for it today.

Special Orders for Ice Cream

Let us know when you need Ice Cream in quantities of One Gallon or More. We are prepared to take care of such orders on short notice. WE GIVE YOU A SPECIAL LIBERAL DISCOUNT ON ANY ORDER OF ONE GALLON OR MORE.

BELMOND CANDY KITCHEN

Phone 65 STEVE ANTONIO, Prop Belmond, Iowa

Next Week's Dance Program

AT

Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday
August 2nd and 5th

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices.

If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

FAIR BEGINS TO LOOK LIKE WINNER

It is only a short time till the Wright County Fair opens its gates to the public once more, and the management has practically completed preliminaries for this big Wright county event. The last contract for amusement features was signed the first of the week, when the Capital City Amusement Co. was booked for carnival features and attractions and is said to be one of the cleanest carnival shows on the road. Riding devices for the children are carried, so there will be no disappointment. Two hundred people are carried with the company.

Premium List Out This Week

The premium list has been delivered and is being mailed out this week. Any one wishing a copy may receive one by writing to Secretary J. H. Moore, Clarion. They may also be obtained at Mr. Moore's hotel office, the Wilson variety store, Jackson's furniture store or at The News office.

There are some changes in this year's premium list. In minor divisions the premiums have been added to and in the cattle and stock divisions some of the premiums are slightly lowered to the level paid by the majority of fairs in this section. New departments have been opened for competition, and the fair this year is offering very substantial cash prizes for the most artistic displays made by business houses.

Frank Wilson, superintendent of speed, is lining up the hosses for the racing program, and it looks like there would be a good field with plenty of entries. Clarion has never yet fallen down on its racing and as long as Wilson is boosting the racing there is no fear it will fall.

The big attractions this year for the fair are the Hornbrook Wild West shows, presenting free performances twice daily and also putting on a real Wild West show to which admissions will be charged. Then one of the highest class trapeze acts in the business will be here, and the fireworks display at night will eclipse last fair's nightly programs. Thearle-Duffield Co. furnishes the fireworks and they write the management that everything will be delivered as contracted for and we need have no hesitancy in so advising the public. This company supplies the fireworks for the state fair, so our display will be delivered as provided for. It is much better than last year's.

The News advises its readers to begin to get ready NOW for attending this big event. Look over the place and see what is good for exhibition. Let the handiwork of the ladies of the county, and the products of farm and field be brought in. The stockmen, too, should welcome the opportunity to exhibit. It looks like a great fair.

Balancing Act is Contracted

The fair association on Tuesday evening contracted for a balancing comedy act that has featured some of the big fairs of the country, and which will furnish fun for old and young during the fair. It is said to be an extremely good act, and will complete an already good program of free acts.

A string of horses is already at the fair grounds in training for the racing season to come. At least a dozen more will be here by today, for a car load is enroute. Frank Wilson says we will have the usual big entry list for our fair, and some of them will be real steppers.—News.

Mr. and Mrs. Graephler of Dows were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Sullivan.

Chas. Engstler and family from Chrystal Lake spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Engstler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Kenenck.

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

By Ralph Edwards.

Middleton Speaks at Bige Home.

The Ollie Bige home southeast of Eagle Grove was the scene of a lively community social on Friday evening, July 22nd, when about 200 farmers of Woolstock township gathered on the lawn of this farm home to enjoy an evening's entertainment consisting of piano solos, vocal solos, vocal duets, recitations and a splendid speech from Mr. Middleton. The busy threshing season did not stop these good farmers who were determined to meet with one another in a social way for their regular monthly farm bureau affair.

A. L. Middleton of Troy township gave a most interesting address which lasted for an hour or more. Mr. Middleton's speech was unusually interesting because of his detailed report on his experiences with the National Committee of Seventeen, of which Mr. Middleton was one of the most influential members. He reviewed the activities of the committee from the time of its organization to the present time when the organization work is being carried on in each of the grain belt states. His address was filled with experiences which show very clearly the influence which is being exercised by the farm bureau in bringing about a satisfactory system of marketing our grain crops. Mr. Middleton had just returned from Pierre, S. D., where he was called to talk on grain marketing at the South Dakota State Farm Bureau Federation conference and he reports an attendance of several thousand. Mr. Middleton is considered as an authority on co-operative grain marketing and the calls which are constantly coming in from all sections of the grain belt of the United States surely indicate that his services are in great demand. Indeed all farmers and all citizens of Wright county ought to be proud of Mr. Middleton and the active part which he has taken in establishing a satisfactory system for marketing our grain crop. We should realize the great sacrifices that are being made by Mr. Middleton in order to give his services for the interests of all farmers in the grain growing section of the United States. His life has become a very strenous one because of the irregularity of sleep, etc., in traveling to meet his appointments in various parts of United States.

After the speech of the evening ice cream and cake were in order and the happy crowd broke up at about midnight.

Lowering Transportation Rates

Farm bureau members and farmers in general should take note of the action which is being taken at the present time by the American Farm Bureau federation in an effort to have transportation rates reduced.

J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, in company with a national legislative committee of five men is now in Canada conferring with the Canadian government on a scheme for deepening the St. Laurence river so as to make possible the transportation of agricultural products from Canada and United States to the Atlantic sea coast at cheaper rates.

It is estimated that if our national legislature carries through this plan of deepening the St. Laurence river the transportation rates on our various grain crops will be reduced at least 10 cents per bushel. This indicates the steps which are being taken by the farm bureau in an effort to relieve the farmer from the high transportation rates.

Poultry Culling Giving Results.

The poultry culling demonstrations which are being conducted by the county agent are beginning to show results. To date over three thousand hens have been handled with a result that between twenty-five and thirty percent were culled out as non-laying hens. There seems to be no good reason why farmers should bear the expense of keeping these star boarders through the winter months.

All farmers who attend these demonstrations seem to be entering into the spirit of the work very nicely. Everyone comes in work clothes with a smiling face and an eagerness to learn the fundamental points in culling. The culling operation seems so simple that many farmers are wondering why they have not learned the method before.

Wool Pool July 28 and 29.

All wool growers of Wright county and surrounding territory, who expect to consign wool through the Wool Growers association, should bring their wool to the Rock Island depot Thursday or Friday, July 28 or 29. Wool should be tied with regulation wool twine and packed in regulation wool sacks, both of which can be bought at the county agents office.

The county agent will be at the Rock Island freight depot both days until eight o'clock p. m. to receive wool from those who are too busy with threshing to come during the day.

Up-to-Date Garment Club.

The newly formed garment club met at the home of Miss Thora Larsen Friday afternoon, July 15th. The name chosen by the girls was "Up-to-Date Garment club" and colors green and white. The following new members were present: Bernice Houland, Gladys Askelson, Irene Toresdahl. The next meeting will be held at the home of Norma and Mildred Klein, July 29th. Signed, Gertrude Roseland, Sec.

Pigs Will Sell at Fair.

Arrangements are being made by the fair association to auction the club pigs at 10 o'clock on the last day of the fair. Boys and girls who received pigs at the 1920 fair, also those who had pigs which were held over from the previous season, are asked to bring their litters to the fair on August 10th for exhibition.

Rural Children Underweight.

That rural children are more poorly nourished than children in cities and towns is the conclusion suggested by the facts in a number of recent surveys in different parts of the country, according to Miss Florence Busse, professor of household science at Iowa State college.

In spite of the fact that there is an abundance of milk and garden products available on the farm, the children in farm homes show a high percentage of malnutrition, says Miss Busse. One survey gives the following figures on malnutrition: city grade schools, 20 per cent of the children malnourished; large town grade schools, 31 percent; small town grade schools, 34 percent; rural schools, 35 percent. The average of the state in which these figures were secured is 30 percent.

"About one child in three in the rural districts is suffering from malnutrition," says Miss Busse. "The vegetable garden should furnish the minerals and growth substances needed to supplement a diet of meat, potatoes and sweets. The farmer has long known the reason for proper feeding of his cattle. It has taken longer for parents to take the same interest in making sure that their children are eating the proper foods."

Grant Ladies Meet.

The ladies of Grant township farm bureau will meet at the William Tucker home Friday afternoon, July 29th, for their regular monthly meeting.

The lady chairman of the farm bureau urges that every lady in the township attend this meeting.

Big Baby Crop.

Neither the hot weather or the drought seems to have effected the baby crop in Wright county as the following will testify:

In Grant township a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Cooper on July 15th.

A standard weight son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anno Terhart in Norway township on July 16th.

On July 18th a fine daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Klinger of Dayton township.

From Iowa township is received word of the arrival of a new daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lineaweaver on July 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Adams are the parents of a standard weight son, born July 23d.

A son was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Martin, who are employed on the J. E. Kirstein farm.

Ants Can be Eradicated.

The best method of eradicating ants from the household is to keep right after them at all times with a preventative, says the home economics department of Iowa State college.

Ants are known to be the most bothersome during summer months but they also appear in the winter in houses which are kept unduly warm.

Care should be taken to keep all unclean dishes washed up. Pantry shelves may be washed with gasoline and thus kept free from ants. Spices are often sprinkled around as they are not pleasant to the insects and they offer no danger of poisoning people.

Several patent remedies are available but many of these contain poisons which would be injurious to small children who might take them. A poisonous paper may be had at the drug stores which when distributed around the shelves in small pieces will give satisfaction. There is no danger of poisoning children with this.

GIVE PIGS FILL OF CORN

That the corn ration of weaning pigs on alfalfa pasture should not be limited is indicated by the results secured in experiments conducted by the animal husbandry department of the Iowa agricultural experiment station.

Six lots of pigs were taken shortly after weaning time. They weighed in the neighborhood of 55 pounds each and were fed until they weighed 225 pounds. One group was fed in a dry lot as a check. The other groups were fed different amounts of corn and tankage and were allowed to run on alfalfa. Only one of these groups was self fed "free choice" style both tankage and corn.

The free choice group required less corn and tankage per 100 pounds of gain and required a smaller number of days to reach 225 pounds than did the other groups. The more the corn ration was limited on alfalfa the more tankage was required for 100 pounds of gain. With corn at 55 to 60 cents a bushel and tankage at $60 a ton, tankage is about three times as expensive as corn.

LAND OWNERS AND TENANTS HOLD BIG MEETING

Hampton Chronicle—The landlord-tenant meeting held at the court house in Hampton Tuesday evening was largely attended, the court room being "packed" and the "standing room only" cards had to be displayed. The meeting was in charge of County Agent Morris McNie.

The object of the meeting was to discuss the form of lease best suited to this part of the country, and also something that will preserve the fertility of the rich soil of this state. John C. Galloway, of Ames, was the principal speaker on the program, and gave a mighty fine talk on the subject, and urged the co-operation of land owner and tenant, because we need both of them. He also explained the various kinds of leases, but made it plain in a general way farm leases could not be entirely uniform, they had to be made to fit each particular case, as landlord and tenant could best agree.

Several speakers added to the interest of the meeting and the whole trend of thought was that the "golden rule" should be the guide of everybody, whether he be a tenant, landlord, banker or business man. G. E. Van Wert who is a tenant, was one of the interesting talkers of the evening, and he urged every tenant to do the right thing, pay his rent if he could without a kick. On the other hand, every landlord with a heart should not insist on the last pound of flesh when he was able to get along with less of it. W. L. Robinson, R. T. Garrison, C. F. Johnston and William Savidge also gave interesting talks, and the sentiment of everybody present seemed to be that everybody should boost and do the best he could under present conditions. Higher prices are hoped for, and it seems if they have to come later on, but of course some folks are going to get pinched while the reconstruction period is with us.

There are two classes of landlords, the man who owns his farm at $100 an acre, or even less, or at $150 an acre, and the land owner who paid $300 or more on acre. The fellow who owns the land at the old price can afford to do lots more "discounting" of rent than can the man who paid the high price. The man with the high price land on his hand, with a big mortgage hanging on it, is worse off than the tenant, because those fellows back east who hold the mortgage do not have any hesitancy in demanding their interest money when it is due.

The conditions are not pleasant just now, but they will work out all right if everybody will pull and boost. Don't rock the boat!

Belmond Local News

Miss Harriett Wolcott of Des Moines came last week for a few days visit in Belmond and Kanawha at the homes of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Fred Cloud and daughter Maude, of Caldwell, Kansas, arrived last week for a visit at the home of Mrs. Cloud's sister, Mrs. T. D. Rankins.

The editor of the Goldfield paper has been having a little mix up with some of the citizens over there, who have been trying to tell him how to run his paper and have endeavored to "censor" the columns of his sheet. In his recent issue Editor Sherman reads these folks the riot act, and invites them to start something any old time they feel like it.

Kenneth Ballou of Rowan, a former Belmond boy, was greeting old friends here of Friday of last week.

Miss Della Bayliss was greatly surprised when she went home Friday afternoon and found a group of girl friends assembled at her home. They were all ready for the woods for a surprise party on Miss Della. A very enjoyable time was had by the party.

Mrs. Bayliss, who was bitten some time ago, is still quite ill from the effects of the bite and as yet unable to use her foot much.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinlicht and family were visitors Sunday at the home of friends in Kanawha, and spent part of the day at the lake.

Thos. Tyrrell has been making an improvement on his residence property by reshingling the roof.

Chris Sorenson has disposed of his residence property here, and it is reported contemplates moving to South Dakota in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Gowdy and family drove to Corwith Monday of this week where they spent the day at the home of Mrs. Gowdy's brother, Mr. Gaskel. They returned home that same evening.

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

When Saturday Night Comes---

Lay away a portion of your pay and bring it around on Monday. No matter if it is only a dollar, it will be a nest egg, a foundation for your future independence. We pay 5 per cent interest on savings accounts. It will pay you to make this beginning now.

BELMOND SAVINGS BANK

Saw Wood

Your Business, no matter how good, can be increased by CONSISTENT ADVERTISING. This is an undeniable fact, and the best and safest way to gain this end is to advertise in Belmond's livest newspaper---the

Belmond Independent

REAL NEWSPAPERS think less of their rights and more of their duties. Softsoapers play to the grandstand. The BELMOND INDEPENDENT tells all the news and its circulation continues to grow!

THEREFORE, as an advertising medium, merchants obtain the best results in the

Belmond Independent

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

By IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 16 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI. — Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Bim Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Bim's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Bim confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

CHAPTER IX.—Biggs comes back to the village and he and Bim elope. Harry learns of it on his way home from the "war." Lincoln's advice and philosophy sustain him in his grief.

CHAPTER X.—Lincoln, defeated in his candidacy for the legislature, forms a partnership with "Bill" Berry in the grocery business. Biggs sends a gang to burn Traylor's house, but the New Salem men are warned and the raiders worsted.

CHAPTER XI.—Lincoln, now postmaster, decides to run again for the legislature. Ann Rutledge is openly in love with John McNeil. He leaves for his home in the East, promising to return soon and marry Ann. Lincoln accepts his defeat manfully. No word coming from McNeil, Ann confesses to Abe that his real name is McNamar, and her fears that he will not return. Lincoln in his deep love endeavors to reassure her, though he shares her misgivings. Lincoln wins his seat in the legislature.

CHAPTER XII.—Ann hears from McNamar, but his letter is cold and she is convinced he does not love her. She tells Abe of her doubt, and he confesses his love and asks her to marry him. Ann declares she does not yet love him, but will try to. With that promise Lincoln sets out for Vandalia and his legislative duties.

CHAPTER XIII.—Inspired by Elijah Lovejoy, Traylor arranges on his farm a hiding place for runaway slaves, a station on the "Underground Railroad."

CHAPTER XIV.—Ann agrees to marry Abe, but her health is wrecked. Three runaway slaves seek Traylor's help in escaping. They belong to Biggs and he comes in pursuit of them. Threatened with arrest for inciting the raid on Traylor, he flees. One of the fugitives is Bim in disguise. She has fled from her husband's cruelty.

CHAPTER XV.—Dying, Ann Rutledge calls for Abe, and he bids her farewell at her bedside. Following her demise a settled sadness descends on him. He is no longer "Abe," but "Abraham Lincoln."

CHAPTER XVI.—Overcoming his despondency, Lincoln returns to his work. Abolition sentiment is crystalizing and he throws himself into the movement.

"Vandalia is a small, crude village. It has a strong flavor of whisky, profanity and tobacco. The night after I got there I went to a banquet with Abe Lincoln. Heard a lot about the dam nigger-loving Yankees who were trying to ruin the state and country with abolition. There were some stories like those we used to hear in the lumber camp, and no end of powerful talk, in which the names of God and the Savior were roughly handled. A few of the statesmen got drunk, and after the dinner was over two of them jumped on the table and danced down the whole length of it, shattering plates and cups and saucers and glasses. Nobody seemed to be able to stop them. I hear that they had to pay several hundred dollars for the damage done. You will be apt to think that there is too much liberty here in the West, and perhaps that is so, but the fact is these men are not half so bad as they seem to be. Lincoln tells me that they are honest, almost to a man, and sincerely devoted to the public good as they see it. I asked Abe Lincoln, who all his life has associated with rough-tongued, drinking men, how he managed to hold his own course and keep his talk and habits so clean.

"'Why, the fact is,' said he, 'I have associated with the people who lived around me only part of the time, but I have never stopped associating with myself and with Washington and Clay and Webster and Shakespeare and Burns and DeFoe and Scott and Blackstone and Parsons. On the whole, I've been in pretty good company.'

"He has not yet accomplished much in the legislature. I don't think that he will until some big issue comes along. 'I'm not much of a hand at hunting squirrels,' he said to me the other day. 'Wait till I see a bear.' The people of Vandalia and Springfield have never seen him yet. They don't know him as I do. But they all respect him—just for his good-fellowship, honesty and decency. I guess that every fellow with a foul mouth hates himself for it and envies the man who isn't like him. They begin to see his skill as a politician, which has shown itself in the passage of a bill removing the capital to Springfield. Abe Lincoln was the man who put it through. But he has not yet uncovered his best talents. Mark my word, some day Lincoln will be a big man.

"The death of his sweetheart has aged and sobered him. When we are together he often sits looking down with a sad face. For a while not a word out of him. Suddenly he will begin saying things, the effect of which will go with me to my grave, although I cannot call back the words and place them as he did. He is what I would call a great captain of words. Seems as if I heard the band playing while they marched by me as well dressed and stepping as proud and regular as the Boston Guards. In some great battle between Right and Wrong you will hear from him. I hope it may be the battle between Slavery and Freedom, although at present he thinks they must avoid coming to a clinch. In my opinion it cannot be done. I expect to live to see the fight and to take part in it."

Late in the session of 1836-1837 the prophetic truth of these words began to reveal itself. A bill was being put through the legislature denouncing the growth of abolition sentiment and its activity in organized societies and upholding the right of property in slaves.

Suddenly Lincoln had come to a fork in the road. Popularity, the urge of many friends, the counsel of wealth and power, and public opinion, the call of good politics pointed in one direction and the crowd went that way. It was a stampede. Lincoln stood alone at the corner. The crowd beckoned, but in vain. One man came back and joined him. It was Dan Stone, who was not a candidate for re-election. His political career was ended. There were three words on the sign-board pointing toward the perilous and lonely road that Lincoln proposed to follow. They were the words Justice and Human Rights. Lincoln and Dan Stone took that road in a protest, declaring that they "believed the institution of slavery was founded upon injustice and bad policy." Lincoln had followed his conscience, instead of the crowd.

At twenty-eight years of age he had safely passed the great danger point in his career. The declaration at Decatur, the speeches against Douglas, the miracle of turning 4,000,000 beasts into 4,000,000 men, the sublime utterance at Gettysburg, the wise parables, the second inaugural, the innumerable acts of mercy, all of which lifted him into undying fame, were now possible. Henceforth he was to go forward with the growing approval of his own spirit and the favor of God.

BOOK THREE

CHAPTER XVII.

Wherein Young Mr. Lincoln Betrays Ignorance of Two Highly Important Subjects.

There were two subjects of which Mr. Lincoln had little understanding. They were women and finance. Until they had rightly appraised the value of his friendship, women had been wont to regard him with a riant curiosity. He had been aware of this, and for years had avoided women, save those of old acquaintance. When he lived at the tavern in the village, often he had gone without a meal rather than expose himself to the eyes of strange women. The reason for this was well understood by those who knew him. The young man was an exceedingly sensitive human being. No doubt he had suffered more than any one knew from ill-concealed ridicule, but he had been able to bear it with composure in his callow youth. Later nothing roused his anger like an attempt to ridicule him.

Two women he had regarded with great tenderness—his foster mother, the second wife of Thomas Lincoln, and Ann Rutledge. Others had been to him, mostly, delightful but inscrutable beings. The company of women and of dollars had been equally unfamiliar to him. He had said more than once in his young manhood that he felt embarrassed in the presence of either, and knew not quite how to behave himself—an exaggeration in which there was no small amount of truth.

In 1836 the middle frontier had entered upon a singular phase of its development. Emigrants from the East and South and from overseas had been pouring into it. The summer before the lake and river steamers had been crowded with them, and their wagons had come in long processions out of the East. Chicago had begun its phenomenal growth. A frenzied speculation in town lots had been under way in that community since the autumn of '35. It was spreading through the state. Imaginary cities were laid out on the lonely prairies and all the corner lots sold to eager buyers and paid for with promises. Millions of conversational, promissory dollars, based upon the gold at the foot of the rainbow, were changing hands day by day. The legislature, with an empty treasury behind it, voted twelve millions for river improvements and imaginary railroads and canals, for which neither surveys nor estimates had been made, to serve the dream-built cities of the speculator. If Mr. Lincoln had had more experience in the getting and use of dollars and more acquaintance with the shrinking timidity of large sums, he would have tried to dissipate these illusions of grandeur. But he went with the crowd, every member of which had a like inexperience.

In the midst of the session Samson Traylor arrived in Vandalia on his visit to Mr. Lincoln.

"I have sold my farm," said Samson to his old friend the evening of his arrival.

"Did you get a good price?" Mr. Lincoln asked.

"All that my conscience would allow me to take," said Samson. "The man offered me three dollars an acre in cash and ten dollars in notes. We compromised on seven dollars, all cash."

"What are you going to do now that you have sold out?"

"I was thinking of going up to Tazewell county."

"Why don't you go to the growing and prosperous town of Springfield?" Mr. Lincoln asked. "The capitol will be there, and so will I. It is going to be a big city. Men who are to make history will live in Springfield. You must come and help. I shall need your friendship, your wisdom and your sympathy. I shall want to sit often by your fireside. You'll find a good school there for the children. If you'll think of it seriously I'll try to get you into the public service."

"We need you plenty," Samson answered. "We kind o' think o' you as one o' the family. I'll talk it over with Sarah and see. Never mind the job. If I keep you behavin' yourself, it'll be job enough. Anyway, I guess we can manage to get along."

"I've had a talk with Stuart and have some good news for Harry and Bim," said young Mr. Lincoln. "Stuart thinks she can get a divorce under the law of 1827. I suppose they are still interested in each other?"

"He's like most of the Yankees. Once he gets set, it's hard to change him. The Kelsos have moved to Chicago, and I don't know how Bim stands. If Harry knows, he hasn't said a word to us about it."

"I'm interested in that little romance," said the legislator. "It's our duty to do what we can to secure the happiness of these young lovers. Tell Harry to come over here. I want to talk with him."

CHAPTER XVIII.

In Which Mr. Lincoln, Samson and Harry Take a Long Ride Together and the Latter Visit the Flourishing Little City of Chicago.

Mr. Lincoln had brought the papers which Harry was to take to Bim, and made haste to deliver them. The boy was eager to be off on his mission. The fields were sown. The new buyer was coming to take possession in two weeks. Samson and Harry had finished their work in New Salem.

"Wait till tomorrow and maybe I'll go with ye," said Samson. "I'm anxious to take a look at that little mushroom city of Chicago."

"And buy a few corner lots?" Abe asked, with a smile.

"No; I'll wait till next year. They'll be cheaper then. I believe in Chicago. It's placed right—on the waterway to the north and east, with good country on three sides and transportation on the other. It can go into partnership with Steam Power right away and begin to do business. Your grain and pork can go straight from there to Albany and New York and Boston and Baltimore without being rehandled. When railroads come—if they ever do—Steam Power will be shoving grain and meat and passengers into Chicago from every point of the compass."

Abe Lincoln turned to Sarah and said: "This is a growing country. You ought to see the cities springing up there in the legislature. I was looking with great satisfaction at the crop when Samson came along one day and fell on it. He was like a frost in midsummer."

"The seed was sown too early," Samson rejoined. "You and I may live to see all the dreams of Vandalia come true."

"And all the nightmares, too," said the young statesman.

"Yes, we're going to wake up and find a cold morning and not much to eat in the house and the wolf at the door, but we'll live through it."

Then the young statesman proposed: "If you are going with Harry, I'll go along and see what they've done on the Illinois and Michigan canal. Some contractors who worked on the Erie canal will start from Chicago Monday to look the ground over and bid on the construction of the southern end of it. I want to talk with them when they come along down the line."

"I guess a few days in the saddle would do you good," said Samson.

"I reckon it would. I've been cloyed on house air and oratory and future greatness. The prairie wind and your pessimism will straighten me up."

"I've Been Cloyed on House Air and Oratory and Future Greatness."

Harry rode to the village that afternoon to get "Colonel" and Mrs. Lukins to come out to the farm and stay with Sarah while he and Samson were away.

Josiah, now a sturdy boy of thirteen, stood in the dooryard, holding the two saddle ponies from Nebraska which Samson had bought of a drover. Betsey, a handsome young miss almost fifteen years old, stood beside him. Sarah, whose face had begun to show the wear of years full of loneliness and hard work, was packing the saddle-bags, now nearly filled, with extra socks and shirts and doughnuts and bread and butter.

They met Abe Lincoln at the tavern, where he was waiting on a big horse which he had borrowed for the trip from James Rutledge. Without delay, the three men set out on the north road in perfect weather. From the hill's edge they could look over a wooded plain running far to the east.

As they rode on, the young statesman repeated a long passage from one of the sermons of Dr. William Ellery Channing on the "Instability of Human Affairs."

"I wish that I had your memory," Samson remarked.

"My memory is like a piece of metal," said the young legislator. "Learning is not easy for me. It's rather slow work—like engraving with a tool. But when a thing is once printed on my memory it seems to stay there. It doesn't rub out. When I run across a great idea, well expressed, I like to put it on the wall of my mind where I can live with it. In this way every man can have his own little art gallery and be in the company of great men."

They forded a creek in deep water, where a bridge had been washed away.

As they came out dripping on the farther shore, Lincoln remarked: "The thing to do in fording a deep stream is to keep watch o' your horse's ears. As long as you can see 'em you're all right."

"Mr. Lincoln, I'm sorry—you got into a hole," said Samson.

"I don't mind that, but while we're traveling together, please don't call me 'Mr. Lincoln.' I don't think I've done anything to deserve such lack of respect."

Samson answered: "If you're nice to us, I don't know but we'll call ye 'Abe' again, just for a few days. You can't expect us to go too far with a man who associates with judges and generals and governors and such trash. If you keep it up, you're bound to lose standing in our community."

"I know I've changed," said Abe. "I've grown older since Ann died—years ago—but I don't want you fellows to throw me over. I'm on the same level that you are and I intend to stay there. It's a fool notion that men go up some heavenly stairway to another plane when they begin to do things worth while. That's a kind of feudalistic twaddle. The wise man keeps his feet on the ground and lifts his mind as high as possible. The higher he lifts it, the more respect he will have for the common folk. Have either of you seen McNamar since he got back?"

"I saw him the day he drove into the village," Harry answered. "He was expecting to find Ann and make good his promise to marry her."

"Poor fool! It's a sad story all around," said Abe Lincoln. "He's not a bad fellow, I reckon, but he broke Ann's heart. Didn't realize what a tender thing it was. I can't forgive him."

In the middle of the afternoon they came in sight of the home of Henry Brimstead.

"Here's where we stop and feed, and listen to Henry's secrets," said Samson.

The level fields were cut into squares outlined by wooden stakes.

Brimstead was mowing the grass in his dooryard. He dropped his scythe and came to welcome the travelers.

"Say, don't you know that you are standing in the center of a large and promising city?" he said to Samson. "You are standing at the corner of Grand avenue and Empire street, in the growing city of El Dorado, near the great water highway of Illinois," Brimstead declaimed.

"Where's the growin'?" Samson demanded.

Brimstead came closer and said in a confidential tone: "If you stand right where you are an' listen, you'll hear it growin'."

"It sounds a good deal like a turnip growin' in a garden," Samson remarked, thoughtfully.

"Give it a fair chance," Brimstead went on. "Two cellars have been dug over there in the pasture. One is for the town hall and the other for the university which the Methodists are going to build. A railroad has been surveyed and is expected this summer. Every corner lot has been sold and paid for, half cash and half notes."

"The brokers in Chicago got the cash and you got the notes?"

"You've said it. I've got a drawer full of notes."

"And you've quit farmin'?"

"Say, I'll tell ye the land has gone up so it wouldn't pay. Peasley an' I cal'ate that we're goin' to git rich this summer sellin' lots."

"Wake up, man. You're dreamin'," said Samson.

Henry came close to Samson and said in a confidential tone: "Say, mebbe the whole state is dreamin' an' yellin' in its sleep 'bout canals an' schools an' factories an' mills an' railroads. We're havin' a good time, anyway."

This reminded Abe Lincoln of the story:

"There was a man in Pope county who came home one evening and sat down in the middle of the barn floor and began to sing. His wife asked him:

"'Are you drunk or crazy or a fool?'"

"'I don't know what you'd call it, but I know I ain't got a darn bit to spare,' he answered, with a whoop of joy."

"You're all goin' to roll out o' bed and hit the floor with a bump," said Samson.

Brimstead declared in his usual tone of confidence:

"The worst part o' bein' a fool is lonesomeness. I was the only one in Flea valley. Now I shall be in the company of a governor an' dozens o' well known statesmen. You'll be the only lonesome man in Illinois."

"I sometimes fear that he will enjoy the loneliness of wisdom," said Honest Abe.

"In some parts of the state every farmer owns his own private city," Samson declared. "I hope Henry Brimstead does as well raising cities as he did raising grain. He was a very successful farmer."

"I knew you'd make fun o' me but when you come again you'll see the towers an' steeples," said Brimstead. "Put up your horses and come into the house and see the first lady of El Dorado."

Mrs. Brimstead had their dinner cooking before the horses were cared for. "Well, what do you think of Henry's plans?" she asked.

"I like the farm better."

"So do I," the woman declared. "But the men around here have gone crazy with dreams of sudden wealth."

"I've only a word of advice about it. If those Chicago men sell any more of your land make them take the notes and you take the money. Where is Annabel?"

"Teaching the school at Hopedale."

"We're going up to Chicago to see the Kelsos," said Samson.

"Glad you are. Some rich feller up there by the name of Davis has fallen in love with Bim an' he don't give her any peace. He left here last night goin' north. Owns a lot o' land in Tazewell county an' wears a diamond in his shirt as big as your thumb nail. Bim has been teaching school in Chicago this winter. It must be a wonderful place. Every one has loads of money. The stores an' houses are as thick as the hair on a dog's back—some of 'em as big as all outdoors."

Abe Lincoln and Harry entered with their host and the travelers sat down to a luncheon of pudding and milk and doughnuts and pie.

"How far do you call it to the sycamore woods?" Lincoln asked as they rose from the table.

"About thirty mile," said Brimstead.

"We must be off if we are to get there before dark," the young statesman declared.

They saddled their horses and mounted and rode up to the door. After their acknowledgments and farewells Brimstead came close to Samson and said in confidence: "I enjoy bein' a millionaire for a few minutes now an' then. It's as good as goin' to a circus an' cheaper."

"The feelings of a millionaire are almost as good as the money while they last," said Abe Lincoln with a laugh.

At early candlelight they reached the sycamore woods very hungry. It was a beautiful grovelike forest on the shore of a stream. The crossing was a rough bridge of corduroy. A crude log tavern and a cruder store stood on the farther shore of the creek. The tavern was a dirty place with a drunken proprietor. Three ragged, shiftless farmers and a half-breed Indian sat in its main room in varying stages of inebriacy. A well-dressed, handsome young man with a diamond in his shirt-front was leading a horse back and forth in the stable yard. The diamond led Samson to suspect that he was the man Davis of whom Mrs. Brimstead had spoken. Our travelers, not liking the look of the place, got some oats and rode on, camping near the farther edge of the woods, where they built a fire, fed and tethered their horses and sat down and ate from the store in their saddle-bags.

Then with their knives Abe and Samson cut big armfuls of grass from the near prairie for the horses and a bed upon which the three man lay down for the night.

Samson had that gift of "sleeping with one eye open" which the perils of the wilderness had conferred upon the pioneer. He had lain down on the side of their bed near the horses, which were tethered to trees only a few feet away. He had gone to sleep with his pistol under his right hand.

"Hold Up Your Hands," Samson Shouted.

Late in the night he was awakened by an unusual movement among the horses. In the dim light of the fire he could see a man in the act of bridling Abe's horse.

"Hold up your hands," Samson shouted as he covered the man with his pistol. "If ye stir a foot I'll bore a hole in ye."

The man threw up his hands and stood still.

In half a moment Abe Lincoln and Harry had got up and captured the man and the loosed horse.

This is part of the entry which Samson made in his diary a week or so later:

"Harry put some wood on the fire while Abe and I led him up into the light. He was one of the dirty white men we had seen at the tavern.

"'I'll give you four hundred dollars for a hoss in good Michigan money,' he said.

"'If ye can't steal a horse you're willin' to buy one,' I says.

"'No, sir, I only come to buy,' says he.

"I flopped him sudden and asked him why he was putting on the bridle.

"He owned up then. Said a man had hired him to steal the horse.

"'That man has got to have a hoss,' he said. 'He'll give ye any price ye want to ask. If you'll give me a few dollars I'll take ye to him.'

"'You go and bring him here and I'll talk to him,' I said.

"I let the feller go. I didn't suppose he'd come back, but he did. Came a little before sunrise with that well-dressed feller we saw at the tavern.

"'What's your name?' I says.

"He handed me a card on which I read the words Lionel Davis, Real Estate, Loans and Iusurance, 14 South Water Street, Chicago, Ill.'

"'There's one branch o' your business that isn't mentioned on the card,' I says.

"'What's that?' says he.

"'Horse-thief,' says I. 'You sent that feller here to steal a horse and he got caught.'

"'Well I told him if he'd get me a good horse I'd give him five hundred dollars and that I didn't care how he got him. The fact is I'm desperate. I'll give you a thousand dollars for one of your horses.'

"'You couldn't buy one of 'em at any price,' I said. 'There's two reasons. I wouldn't do business with a horsethief and no money would tempt me to sell an animal to be ridden to death.'

"The two thieves had had enough of us and they got out."

That night our party camped on the shore of the Kankakee and next day they met the contractors. Lincoln joined the latter party and Harry and Samson went on alone. Late that afternoon they crossed the nine-mile prairie, beyond which they could see the shimmer of the lake and the sunlit structures of the new city.

"There it is," said Samson. "Four thousand, one hundred and eighty people live there. It looks like a sturdy two-year-old."

The houses were small and cheaply built and of many colors. Some were unpainted. Near the prairie they stood like people on the outer edge of a crowd, looking over one another's shoulders and pushing in a disordered mass toward the center of interest. Some seemed to have straggled away as if they had given up trying to see or hear. So to one nearing it the town had a helter-skelter look.

(Continued next week)

FORD CLEARS $65,000,000 IN PAST SIX MONTHS

A six month's history of the workings of the Henry Ford automobile plant to show how Ford got on his feet and cleaned up a debt of $85,000,000 without borrowing a cent was made public last week.

"Little more than six months ago," the report says, "Henry Ford had all but completed arrangements for borrowisg $75,000,000 in the face of what appeared to be a desperate necessity. His plants were closed; there was but little demand for his cars. Ford owed the government $55,000,000 in taxes. Notes for nearly $33,000,000. Unsold cars were piled high in the factory and choking salesrooms over the country. The public was not buying automobiles of any kind.

"Yet, Ford did not borrow from the banks but paid them up, and today his sales are the greatest in history How was the corner turned?

It was turned by transferring the loads. Marvelously recuperated markets completed the process. Ford pushed his 125,000 surplus automobiles over the world to willing and unwilling consignees and drew against them. The tide of cash returned—$60,000,000 before April 1.

"He also gave notes or acceptance to some extent for supplies and parts furnished when he started up.

"Ford came East and found $91,000,000 in 'frozen' cars and parts in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Changes in personnel followed and others were threatened. The cars began to move out.

"An Indian dealer had his floor full of Fords. Imagine his consternation when a trainload rolled unordered into the city. His business future was a stake. He must, and did stand the draft, but he did not pay for the cars. A former disgruntled Ford dealer with superior resources. bought the trainload at wholesale and startled the countryside by advertising a bargain sale of Fords.

"In other cities and towns the dealers went in their banks and borrowed on the cars. Shipments averaged about a tenth of a year's business and the credit was quickly obtainable. The cash flowed back into Detroit and by the middle of April Ford had not only paid up the current quarter's federal taxes, but had anticipated payment on the remaining $26,000,000 of his purchase notes.

"The unloading plan was a success, because it was economically sound and ruthlessly applied. Agents were bluntly told they were indebted to the strongest proponents of the Ford methods.

"Almost overnight the public began buying and surplus cars were turned into unparalleled profits.

"At the end of April Ford's inventory had been reduced from $105,000,000 to $63,800,000. He had been manufacturing his inventory, including spare parts, into finshed car shipments to dealers which went out with drafts attached. At the above date there was reported due him more that $40,000,000, representing finished cars, probably 80,000 of them shipped out, and accepted by dealers and carried on the company's books as an asset. This item increased $28,000,000 from the first of the year.

"Of his Massachusetts statment as of April 30, cash, bonds and receivables aggregated $96,000,000 or $16,000,000 more than the previous year. Securities decreased $8,000,000 reflecting the sale of Liberty bonds, to whittle down the purchase notes before the shipping out policy got in full swing.

"Since April a futher remarkable spurt in Ford business has taken place. Cash the first of June was around $36,000,000 and there were no rent merchandice acceptances. The measure of sales since that time and now is factory capacity and not merchandising efforts.

"The Ford recovery was probably the most inspiring event possible to the motor industry and the manner in which it was accomplished was most salutary to the Ford organization. Had Ford been able to obtain the desired $75,000,000 without restrictions as to who should be his treasurer, company extravagences might have continued. Angered at banker 'dictation' on one hand, and advised by banker friends on the other, he decided to go it alone. To make the hill he had to economize.

"As a result, Ford combed his entire organization and there is probably no more efficient industrial unit in the country today. Where he formerly employed 60,000 men to produce an average of 4,000 cars daily, he now obtains an output of 4,500 daily with 45,000 men. The $6 minimum wage has been retained, but foreman have been put to work, tasks doubled up and adjustments averaging 20 to 25 per cent reduction made in wages.

"One worker who formerly tightened a tap on the Ford assembly line now tightens two taps. As he rushed back and forth tearing after the automobiles that came unceasingly forward at the rate of nine a minute, he yelled to a fellow-worker that the next step would be to fasten a broom to his waist so he could sweep the floor as he dashed from car to car.

"For's net taxes before profits are now understood to be at the rate of nearly $20,000,000 monthly, or about $190 profit per car. More than half the Ford cars sell above the minimum price of $415.

"Ford's only financial problem seems to be to retain sufficient cash under his expansion program to pay federal taxes. On the corporation's returns alone there were more than $40 a car in 1920. Sales now show no signs of let-up. When resistance comes Ford expects to be in a position again to shut down and avoid the disproportionate operating costs of limited production."

Six young men of Hampton, Greeks who run the candy kitchen at that place, were in an auto accident at Hampton on Sunday evening which resulted in serious injury to one of them. They were driving a new car, a Paige, and were traveling about forty miles an hour when they hit some loose sand. The car turned over three times and threw the occupants out. One of them, a lad of eighteen years, was quite badly hurt and was taken to the hospital for treatment. Three of the men are in the hospital more or less badly bruised up.

A $500 AN ACRE FARM

A 400 acre farm in Shelby county was sold the other day for an even $200,000, at the rate of $500 an acre. The seller was Joseph Michener of Council Bluffs. The price however was not wholly in the land. The farm has been the home of one of the finest herds of Aberdeen Angus cattle in the world and to accommodate them there are buildings of the finest design. The buildings and equipment have carried an insurance of $41,000, or an amount equivalent to $100 an acre of the $500 paid, but even the remaining $400, or make it $350 an acre for the land is a significant price at the present time.

But the truth is that while there have been many discouragements on the farms, it is not true that land prices have slumped very much from the normal war prices. A few pieces were sold two years ago at speculative prices, but on the whole land values have remained very steady although there has been less land sold. Those who have it are not offering it at bargain prices.

Belmond Local News

Bernetas Wolle returned the first of the week from Okoboji, where she attended the Epworth League meeting held at that place, and enjoyed the pleasures of the summer resort at the lake. She reports a very interesting meeting and a fine time.

Belmond people who were abroad at about ten o'clock Tuesday night wondered what was the cause of the red sky northeast of town. It was caused by the burning down of a large barn on the West farm, northeast of Meservey. The barn was totally destroyed.

Master Edward Miltner of Iowa City is visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs M. C. Barry, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Ramsey of Latimer are the parents of a baby boy, born the 20th of this month. Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey were former residents of this place.

Mrs. Ray L. Jaeger of Tulsa, Oklahoma, is the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barry. Mrs. Jaeger was a schoolmate of Mrs. Barry's at the Iowa University.

New Victor and Edison Records for August on sale at Schultz Drug Co.

Announcing our new International line of Men's Fall Suits, the all-wool line. Suits $25 and up. Prices have been reduced and quality doubled. See them at the New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of hotel.—F. J. Tuffree.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Packard drove to Nevada, Iowa, last week Friday to spend the week end at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Carl Wolle, and family. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. R. G. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo Hake entertained Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cooper from Madison, Wisconsin, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Rathburn have returned from their trip to South Dakota, where they have spent the past few weeks visiting reatives and friends

Two second-hand kerosene stoves for sale. Also two second-hand washing machines, which can be equipped for power.—Townsan Hardware.

INDEPENDENT WANT ADS

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

A few second hand Fords at real bargains. In first class running order.—Belmond Auto Co.

Chambermaid wanted, to assist in dining room during meals.—Hotel Case 1t*

Found—Automobile tool kit containing tools. Owner can have same by proving property. Call at Independent.

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

A few second hand Fords at real bargains, in first class running order. —Belmond Auto Co.

Poultry Raisers' Attention

Be your own Business Manager. Ship your own Poultry to Chicago and get the HIGHEST Market Prices. Low Express Rates on Live and Dressed Poultry and Veal.

If you haven't coops for your poultry, let us know and we can furnish them.

Call or Phone 272 and get the particulars.

J. S. WHITE, Agt.

AMERICAN RAILWAY EXPRESS COMPANY

The Belmond Independent Job Department

Does all kinds of first-class Job Work at reasonable prices.

See Us For

Stock Catalogues, Letter Heads, Envelopes, Wedding Stationery, Circulars of all grades and kinds, and all Fine Printings. - - - - - - -

The Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS, Proprietor

Belmond, Iowa Phone 115

Bigger and Better Than Ever

The Wright County ..FAIR..

August 10, 11 and 12

A BIG LIVESTOCK SHOW

$3,000 RACE PROGRAM

New Acts Carnival Attractions Night Fireworks

A Day and Night Show for All

Announcement

- I Have Opened A -

Carpenter Repair Shop

On the Belmond Lumber Company Grounds, and am equipped and ready at all times to do any repair work of any kind that you may have. Good workmanship and satisfaction guaranteed.

If you have a door to be fitted, windows to be put in; if your roof needs shingling or you need carpenter repairs of any kind, call on

R. D. Kenefick

Phones 101 and 277 Belmond, Iowa

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 | BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 4 1921 | 8-6-30 | NO. 37

OFFICIALS CAPTURE 180 GALLONS HOOTCH

Cornelia Ball Park Opened Sunday; Belmond Wins

First Game At New Park Is A Wild and Wooly Affair of Errors and Hits

"SMILING" BECKER OUSTED

The new ball park at Lake Cornelia was opened Sunday by a game between Ryder's Independents of Rowand and the Belmond nine, and the outcome resulted 15 to 6 in favor of Belmond.

Ryder's team was composed of a number of players from the towns around, Rowan, Dows, Goodell, Garner and Des Moines being represented. There were some good players represented on the team, but they had never played together before, they were sadly lacking in team work, and they made errors by the dozen. Becker of Garner, and who has been with the salaried outfit from Kanawha, and the man who pitched against Belmond at Clarion the Fourth, was on the mound for the Independents, and was battered all over the lake. In the six innings in which he threw, Belmond pounded his offerings for thirteen safe hits, six of which were for two bases. In the sixth Manager Ryder jerked him and put in Earl Clark of Goodell, who was somewhat better but who was batted freely just the same. In the entire game, Belmond secured something like sixteen safe hits, of which nine were two-baggers. Pillmer was nicked for about seven safe ones by the Independents, Clark of Goodell being the star hitter for the Independents. Everybody on the Belmond team secured one or more hits, scoring in nearly every inning.

Errors were plentiful on both sides, but owing to the condition of the field this was to be expected. The grounds were newly scraped, and the surface was loose; a ball would not roll much over ten feet after it hit. When the diamond at the lake has had a chance to settle and become packed it will be a good one, and it lies on the north side of the lake in a good position.

Quite a large crowd was out to see the opening game, and had a good time.

JOEL MARTIN DOMINY

Joel Martin Dominy was born in Beekmantown, New York, March 6, 1836, and died at his home near Goodell, Iowa, July 28, 1921, at the age of 85 years, four months and 22 days.

He was married to Rebecca Miller of LaSalle county, Illinois, in 1868. To this union were born seven children, all of whom are living, Cora J. Rea of Beekmantown, New York, John M. of Goodell, Iowa, William S. of Calhoun, Missouri, Jessie M. Parr of Sheridan, Illinois,, Rosa A. Woods and Harry L. both of Estherville, Iowa, and Francis C. of Goodell, Iowa.

Mr. Dominy came from New York to Illinois in 1860 where he lived until 1902 when he moved to Goodell, Iowa, where he has since made his home.

"Dearest father we miss you,
Miss your kind and loving care;
But we all do hope to meet you,
In a land that's bright and fair."

Mr. Dominy was a member of the King Solomon Lodge of Masons of Belmond and they had charge of the services which were held at the home on last Saturday morning, Rev. S. U. Leinbach, pastor of the Congregational church of Belmond delivering the address, after which the body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Goodell.

Threshing Crew Sets Record

The Blue Mound Threshing Co. with G. J. Tegland as engineer and B. T. Benson as separator man, made a record for this year at the Martin Hill farm west of town on Saturday afternoon, threshing 2,000 bushels of oats in five hours.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Belmond, Iowa, Aug. 1, 1921

Regular meeting of Town Council held in Town Hall, Mayor Barry presiding.

Members all present.

Clerk's financial report received and read.

Moved and carried that the town subscribe for the publication known as American Municipalities for one year, and pay dues for membership.

Moved by Gfeller and seconded by Greenlander that the following tax levy for the various funds be made and the Clerk instructed to certify same to the County Auditor. Motion carried.

Funds	Mills	Amount not including M. & C.
Corporation	10	$2,941.00
Grading	3	882.00
Improvement	5	1,471.00
Sewer	1	294.00
Library as authorized by Library Board	4	1,326.00
Light	5	1,471.00
Band	5	1,471.00
Fire	2	588.00
Corp. Road on unplatted land in excess of 10 acres	5	186.00
Total	40

J. N. Johnson presented Ordinance No. 122. An Ordinance To Promote The Production and Distribution of Sanitary and Healthful Milk and Providing Penalty for Violation Thereof.

Moved by Thompson and seconded by Wright that Ordinance No. 122 be read the first time.

Ayes: Johnson, Gfeller, Greenlander, Thompson, Wright. Nays: None.

Moved by Greenlander seconded by Gfeller that the rules be suspended and that Ordinance No. 122 be passed by one reading.

Ayes: Johnson, Greenlander, Gfeller, Thompson, Wright. Nays: None.

Moved by Gfeller and seconded by Wright that Ordinance No. 122 be placed upon its passage.

Ayes: Johnson, Greenlander, Gfeller, Thompson, Wright. Nays: None.

Moved by Thompson, seconded by Johnson, that Ordinance No. 122 do now pass.

Ayes: Johnson, Greenlander, Gfeller, Thompson, Wright. Nays: None.

Mayor Barry declared Ordinance No. 122 duly passed.

The bill of John A. Anderson was tabled.

The following bills were audited and allowed:

W. O. Eaton, labor at pump station	(W)	$ 3.00
Sam Smith, shoveling gravel	(G)	1.20
Harm Starnberg, mowing with team	((I)	5.00
Earnest Stadtlander, labor on street with team	(I)	3.00
Ben Smith, labor on street with team	(I)	18.75
M. A. Houltzbauer, labor and material	(I)	74.42
M. A. Houltzbauer, labor and material	(W)	29.97
W. A. Dittmer, blacksmith work	(I)	8.57
League of Iowa Municipalities, dues	(C)	10.00
Belmond Prtg. & Pub. Co. printing	(C)	13.40
F. P. Dibble, draying	(I)	16.00
Iowa Falls Electric Co., July lights	(L)	133.98
Iowa Falls Electric Co., July power	(W)	43.74

On motion and second council adjourned.

GUY BYERS, Clerk.

Boy Fatally Injured By Fall

A sad accident happened Saturday in the Harvey neighborhood when Wilbur Wason, the 12-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wason, fell from a load of oats and was fatally injured. He was riding with another boy and when they came to a ditch the other boy got down to lead the horses. Wilbur fell behind the horses and they stamped on him, injuring him so that he died Saturday afternoon. Funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon, and the remains taken to Illinois for burial. Mr. and Mrs. Wason have the sympathy of the community in their great bereavement.—Rowan Correspondent.

West Bend Grotto Wonderful Piece of Art and Beauty

"Grotto of the Redemption" Is One of Wonders of the World In Beauty

EVERYTHING IS HAND-MADE

The writer had the privilege last Friday of seeing the much-talked of "Grotto of the Redemption" at West Bend, and to any Belmond people who may get the chance to see it, we would say: By all means do.

Anyone who has not seen the grotto cannot imagine what it is or what it looks like. To attempt to describe the natural charm of the structure is as useless as attempting to describe the grand canyon.

The grotto is the work of a Catholic priest at West Bend, who has been working on it since 1912, and does not expect to complete it until 1925. The grotto is composed of countless thousands of stones, rocks, lava formations, shells, petrified wood and similar natural materials brought from all over the United States, and the priest has traveled so far something like sixty thousand miles to secure the material that has been used in the construction of the grotto to date. When all the material necessary is secured, he states that he will have to travel about forty thousand miles more. When completed, it will represent a commercial value of one hundred and sixty thousand dollars.

The whole structure looks like nature; there is not a false or unnatural color, everything is just as nature made it. And therein lies the exquisite charm of the grotto.

The following article, taken from The Iowa Magazine, will give the reader an idea of what the grotto is like but it cannot convey in any way the beauty of it; it must be seen to be appreciated. The Iowa Magazine says in part:

If you must be a slave to your daily task and cannot spend a vacation in some famous summer resort, get into your car and slip over the road into a little country village called West Bend, and be treated to the sight of an original structure now in the course of construction, a grotto, as it is called, that has already attracted thousands by is charm of beauty as well as its originality. There a humble village pastor has been busy for the last four years or so to construct a grotto of his own unique design which when finished will be a gem f grottos. The good priest proposes to finish it in four years more. All material he gathers personally in the different states of the Union and he tells us that when finished this grotto will exhibit a collection quite complete of precious stones, minerals, ores, fossils, petrifications from every state in the Union and of shells and corals gathered from the rivers and seashores of the states.

With the patience of Job he daily works this material with artistic hands into most beautiful designs and clusters and the many richly colored stones make in their setting a most pleasing effect amounting to a real charm.

This grotto . . . is to be the monumentizing of Christ's redemption. If you wish to see finely polished marble or granite blocks, go to your city or village graveyards. But for a work of art that comes near to God's nature, motor to West Bend and see this grotto.

The structure when finished will be 44 feet high. One section of it will be symbolic of the fall of man in the once beautiful garden of Eden. Adam and Eve of choice Carrara (Italian) marble are to stand under the fatal tree worked in stone looking up to the fatal apple. The scriptural serpent of green copper ore wil be shown creeping along the wall of the grotto slinking in artistic winding

(Continued on page 8.)

COURT ITEMS OF INTEREST

District court business picked up considerably the past week, a number of suits and appeals having been filed in Clerk Goslin's office.

The Huntington State bank of Huntington, Iowa, is suing O. L. Lein and Helen M. Lein and K. A. Lein to recover on a note for $4,147.80, dated March 17, 1920, on which $1,000 has been paid. Originally the note was made out to K. A. Lein, who endorsed it and sold it to the bank. There is $3,648.86 due now, and the bank asks judgement for this sum, with interest at 8 per cent and costs.

J. D. Cline is suing W. L. Kent for $1,000 with interest and costs. He alleges Kent traded him a Wright county farm, in sections 31-30 92 23, representing there was no other obligation against it other than a $20,000 loan, but as a matter of fact, the First National Bank of Belmond held a $1,000 judgement for this amount, with interest and costs of suit, and also institutes attachment proceedings to protect his claim.

W. W. Frakes is suing Amos Thompson, M. A. Thompson and H. A. Okdale to collect on a note on which $1,595.86 is due. He asks judgement for this amount, plus interest and costs.

B. F. Hall is suing Amos and M. O. Thompson to collect an unpaid balance of $230.26 on a note originally for $500, a part of which has been paid.

Annie C. Danielson is suing Geo. Moore and wife and T. F. Moore, alleged wrongful holder of a chattel mortgage against personal property owned by the man and wife, to collect $543.80 due on the lease of the plaintiff's Humboldt county farm. She rented the place for a cash rental of $1,400 for the year 1920, and $856.20 has been paid. She claims she legally has a landlord's lein against the personal property of the first two defendants, but they gave T. F. Moore a chattel mortgage against the property to evade the payment of the rental. She asks that the court confirm her right to the lein, and that the property be sold to satisfy the judgement asked, together with interest and costs.

The Seig Co., a foreign corporation, sues the Iowa Valley Sugar Co. to recover on a note for $220.04, plus interest and costs.

The Independent Grain & Lumber Co. of Eagle Grove is suing Amos and T. A. Thompson and H. A. Okdale to collect $312 plus interest and costs, alleged to be due plaintiff.

The joint drainage ditches of Wrigt and Franklin counties, No. 7-146, have run up against a snag in the assessments, several property owners appealing to district court from the awards. The hearing has been set for October 3, 1921, at which time the property owners and counties will battle the matter before the court.

The plaintiffs in the appeal have secured the same attorneys to prosecute their action against the drainage distrists and counties.—News.

COMMUNITY WELFARE CLUB

The Community club meeting last Friday was presided over by Mrs. Rosecrans in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. Herman Schultz.

A large number of members were present to enjoy the splendid patriotic program prepared by the leader, Mrs. E. F. Bailey. Mrs. Edge, substituting for Miss Gladys Barry, gave a patriotic reading.

The community room was very prettily decorated with flags, bunting and bouquets of red, white and blue flowers.

The serving committee with Mrs. H. F. Luick as chairman served dainty refreshments which represented the patriotic colors.

The financial committee reported that plans are being made on a big "Community Day" to be held some time the middle of this month. The plans are not yet complete but there will be a base ball game in the afternoon, and vaudeville by home talent and many other attractions in the evening. It will be a big day, every minute filled with fun and laughter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Church have been enjoying a visit the past week from a niece who lives in Des Moines.

RAIDS WEDNESDAY RESULT IN VERY LARGE HAULS

Make Raid On Johnson Farm West of Town and Get Large Quantity

TWO RUSSIANS GET AWAY

Make Escape In Corn Field ;But Officers Are Hot On Their Trail

Deputy Sheriff Denger of Clarion and Marshal Rierson of Belmond captured 180 gallons of mash and a gallon of corn whiskey in a raid made on two Russian beet weeders on the Nick Johnson farm west of town yesterday. The Russians got awoy into a corn field, and as the Independent goes to press they had not been captured. The raid was made at 11:00 o'clock yesterday morning, and at six o'clock last evening the two Russians had not been found, alto the deputy and marshal were still on their trail.

The city authorities had been on the watch for some time for the parties who were manufacturing the "hootch," and swooped down on them yesterday without warning. The two foreigners managed to make their getaway at the time, but there is no doubt but what they will be apprehended.

In an investigation of a farm east of town also yesterday, the deputy and marshal found one Norman Fry, who had been suspected of peddling booze for some time. The officers took him in tow and upon being questioned he admitted that he had done more or less bootlegging in the vicinity. His offenses had been committed in Hancock county, however, and he was turned over to the sheriff from that county who came after him esterday.

This is one of the largest hauls of "hootch" that has been made in this vicinity for some time, and will doubtless put a crimp in the operations of the bootleggers hereabouts for a considerable time.

THOMPSON CAFE SOLD TO WATERLOO MAN

W. A. Thompson closed a deal the first of this week whereby he disposes of his restaurant business here to Mr. L. M. Foster of Waterloo, the consideration being some five thousand dollars. Mr. Thompson traded the restaurant in on one hundred and sixty acres of land in northern Minnesota, and went up last week to look the land over. It is composed mostly of timber, the largest share of it being Spruce, which Mr. Thompson expects to sell for paper purposes to the paper mills in that part of the country. Mr. Foster took possession of the business at once, and is now operating the restaurant, which is to be known as Foster's Cafe. The announcing ad of the new concern appears in this issue of the Independent. Mr. Foster comes highly recommended as a business man and will doubtless enjoy a good patronage.

As will be noticed elsewhere in the Independent, there will be a meeting on Friday afternoon of this week at the American Legion club rooms of the mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of Legion men, for the purpose of organizing a woman's auxiliary to the local post of the Legion.

All ladies who are eligible to the proposed organization are urged to be present and assist in the organizing of the auxiliary. These auxiliaring of the auxiliary. These auxiliar- and have always been of interest and entertainment to the feminine relatives of the ex-service men.

BELMOND LOSES TO WEST BEND 5 TO 3

Friday of last week at West Bend the ball team met with one of the worst deals it has handed to it all summer. The boys went up there to play the West Bend bunch, and found themselves playing against the best men from LuVerne and Algona's disbanded teams, with a few more from other places, and one or two of the regular West Bend team noticed in the game.

Even at that, Belmond had them beaten three to two in the seventh inning, when the West Bend umpire commenced to get in his work. He had been exceedingly rank during the forepart of the game, but when Belmond went ahead, and appeared to have the game pretty well sewed up, he became something awful. His decisions on balls and strikes simply won the game for West Bend, and won it right. Strikes down the center of the plate, belt high, were classed as balls by the eagle-eyed ump, who, however, had better vision when the West Bend pitcher was in the box.

However, Belmond expected to get trimmed at this game; they had been warned before hand, and were given another warning when they passed thru LuVerne, that they didn't have a chance to win. In the first game between the two teams, played here in the early part of the season, the result was 12 to 0 for Belmond, the West Bend bunch never getting beyond second base. Evidently they intended to do something of the same kind to Belmond last Friday, but a couple of heavy hits in two different innings, combined with a few errors, would have given the game to Belmond except for the umpire.

ACKLEY MAYOR HAS SHOWER OF EGGS

Ackley is said to have several rival factions in the town which bid fair to keep things moving lively down that way for some time to come, and in the meantime the opinion is general that these factions always help to kill any town.

It is reported that at the recent drowning of an Ackley girl at Cedar Falls there was rivalry concerning the raising of a fund to assist in finding the girl's body, which was in the water several days, and the subsequent erection of a monument to the Cedar Falls young man who lost his life while trying to save the girl from a watery grave.

Recently Mayor Brenimen, who is at the head of one of the factions, got busy in an effort to enforce the automobile laws, and according to members of another faction the mayor and his crowd was getting too officious, and they gathered up a lot of decayed eggs and used them in their work of decorating the mayor's office.

In an interview E. M. Breniman, mayor of Ackley, says the Chronicle of Hampton, characterized the acts of the mob of young men who staged a demonstration against him on the streets of Ackley as disgraceful, throwing stale eggs and running him off the streets. The ring leaders of the mob, the mayor said, were those who were against the enforcement of the laws.

The mob gathered Sunday evening as Mayor Breniman was inspecting automobiles standing along the curb. The official stated that he has been having considerable trouble in getting the automobile laws enforced there and was seeking evidence of violations in order to secure a more strict enforcement of the ordinances.

The gang had secured a quantity of eggs from the rear of a grocery store and started an effective barrage in the direction of the city's chief executive. The mayor retreated to his office on Main street and the gang then proceeded to plaster the walls of the building with the rotten eggs.

Mr. Breniman called the sheriff's office at Eldora and asked for help. He took the matter up with the county attorney and found that he was entirely within his jurisdiction in thus seeking to enforce the laws.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

The Cool Minnesota Lakes For You

Ten thousand of them—clear, cold, sky blue, fringed by balsam and spruce. The picturesque shore lines are broken occasionally by clean, sandy beaches. Lake after lake is connected by winding channels or portages. Each succeeding scene seems more and more exquisite. An endless panorama of natural beauty. Minnesota is the place for you.

Every recreation: Fishing (mighty muskie, gamy bass and northern pike), sailing, motor boating, canoeing, swimming, golf, tennis, woodland hikes.

Free Camp Sites

Choice of luxurious hotels, cottages, log cabins or boarding houses. Accommodations good and prices reasonable. Descriptive and illustrated folder, "THE MINNESOTA LAKES" is yours for the asking.

Two fast steel trains to St. Paul and Minneapolis, daily

Make a complete change this year—GO TO MINNESOTA. Inquire about fares—they are reduced if you buy round trip tickets.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD

Apply Ticket Agent C. G. W. R. R.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

PAGAN SELFISHNESS VS. SERVICE.

(An editorial by Rev. J. H. Edge. Written by request.)

In a recent article in The World's Work Mr. Charles M. Schwab is reported as saying: "The aristocracy of the future will not be the aristocracy of birth or of wealth, but of men who serve, who do things for their country and their fellow-men." Words like these from the outstanding business men of the day afford much food for thought; not that the thought is new, but the source from which it came gives it added significance.

The basis of every good, honorable and respective business or profession is SERVICE. That man does not have a true conception of life and work who does not think in larger terms than the attainment of a purely personal ambition or the accomplishment of a single task. To lose sight of, place last, or anywhere but first, the ideal of service, is a perversion of the primary purpose of commercial political, professional and social relationships. The ideal of the soldier is to serve his country by defending it and its ideals; the preacher's ideal is to serve by teaching the fundemental truths as a basis for all life; the doctor's ideal is to serve by restoring and maintaining the best possible health conditions; the merchant's ideal is to serve by providing the commodities of life. Each man is entitled to a fair renumeration for the service rendered, but no man has a legal or moral right to more than that. It is true that traitors get into the army, hypocrites are found in the ministry, quacks in medicine dole out their "cures" to the innocent invalid, and there are merchants who have lost sight of their function as loyal servants of the common good as providers of the necessities of their fellow-men. To look at business, of what-so-ever kind it may be, as primarily a means of making wealth for individuals is a contradiction of Christian ethics, which is the basis of our modern civilization. A man's business, profession, occupation or daily work is primarily a service rendered to the community.

Until the idea and ideal of service more thoroughly permeates our common, ordinary social and business relationships we are a long way from such a transformation of our international aims and ideals as would mean the adoption of this ideal of service in these larger relationships. Not until the determining factor in our daily activities becomes a matter of principle instead of "business necessity", can we epxect "diplomatic necessities" to be displaced by the more worthy and more enduring ideals of faith and integrity, peace and prosperity, in our larger relationships.

Pretty Dry

"We've had a mighty dry summer," said the senator from Minnesota, who was exhibiting at the National.

"Dry summer?" asked Falfurrias Ed, who lives in the state of Texas. "Man, you ought to come down to my country. Why, we have bullfrogs down there eight years old that haven't yet learned to swim!"

Gentle in Effect.

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so mild and gentle that you can hardly realize that it has been produced by a medicine.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.

Do you know why it's toasted?

To seal in the delicious Burley flavor.

It's toasted.

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTE

Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co.

CLIPPINGS

Last Friday evening as Mrs. Roy Stevens was driving her automobile out of a lane onto the highway at the Chris Ault home just west of Corwith her car was struck by a car driven by Con Brown, a young Corwith boy. The Stevens car was struck amidship by the Brown car and Mrs. Stevens and her three children were thrown out and painfully but not seriously bruised. The doctor was called and had to take several stitches to close a cut on Mrs. Stevens' knee and the bruises on the children were looked after. The Stevens car was not badly smashed but the boy's car was pretty badly wrecked. Youngsters are apt to risk too much and not exercise due caution.—Corwith Hustler.

Dr. Sams reports a case of infantile paralysis in the Anno Terhark home in Norway township, their 20-months old child having had a serious attack, but with prospects good for recovery, altho the extent of the affliction cannot yet be fully determined.—News.

Miss Iris Trumbell and Miss Lodie Frohling from Belmond were callers here last Friday.—Times.

Miss Marian Luick came from Belmond, Monday, for a visit at the home of Mrs. Mille Smith.—Times.

Mr. Kaiser of Belmond was here this week doing some sign painting for Art Wellemeyer.—Times.

Tuesday an auto party consisting of Mrs. Gittie Finch, Mrs. W. S. Pritchard and family, Mrs. C. E. Barnes, Miss Nell Sullivan and Miss Mary Wallace, the latter two ladies from Belmond, made the pilgrimage to West Bend to view the Grotto. Rev. Father Dobberstein, the Catholic priest of that place, who is the designer and builder of this wonderful piece of art, has been the means of attracting thousands of visitors to West Bend.

Miss Mary Wallace of Belmond was a guest at the home of her friend, Mrs. C. E. Barnes, the first of the week.—Garner Leader.

George Pearl's son, while out fishing in White Fox Saturday, spearing fish with a pitchfork, accidently speared his own foot, and a nasty flesh wound resulted. The boy was taken to a physician for emergency treatment and it is hoped the soreness will be the only thing he will have to combat.—News.

Mrs. H. F. Reif went to Belmond last Thursday to visit her cousin, Mrs Wm. Eimbrink and family. She returned home Sunday.

Realizing that because of the existing economic conditions it will be impossible for their tenants to anywhere near play even with their expenses this year, many landlords in this section have voluntarily reduced the rents. Many of them who have had leases of some year's standing upon a cash basis are now making new leases and changing from a cash to a share rental basis. Those who have been renting for $10 and more per acre are renewing their leases with their present tenants at $7 and $8.—Cedar Falls Item.

The directors of the First National bank held a meeting here last Thursday. Messrs. Wickman and Hanson from Garner, Yeakel from Ames and Anderson from Belmond were among those present.—Kanawha Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom McNulty, Jr., and son of Belmond were Klemme visitors last Wednesday.—Times.

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.

Preaching services at 11:00 a. m.

Epworth League devotional meeting seven p. m.

The Sunday school picnic will be held at the grove on Friday afternoon, August 5th. It is hoped that every member of the Sunday school and their entire families will be present. Meet at the church at 2:30 and means of conveyance will be provided for those who have none.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society will meet with Miss Hazel Hemdt Thursday afternoon. Cars will be at the church at 2:30 o'clock to take them out.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference will be held Tuesday evening, August 9th.

There will be no preaching services at our church Sunday, August 14th, as the pastor will be away at that time. Let's have a good attendance at the services next Sunday.

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

Services for next Sabbath as follows: Bible school at 10:00 a. m. The morning worship at 11:00 and the evening services at 8:00. The evening services will be held at the home of Mr. Geo. Hardwick and Miss Esther Hardwick is the leader.

The threatening weather kept some away last Sunday night but we still had over sixty present. We ought to make next Sunday a great day of praise for the wonderful rain which has quenched the thirst of the ground and caused it to be covered with newness of life.

ST. OLAF LUTHER LEAGUE

A very good program has been arranged for the St. Olaf League which will be held next Sunday evening, August 7th., beginning at 8:00 o'clock. Mr. Robert Howland of Kanawha, a ily of Hayfield, Minn., are visiting speaker, will adredss the people that evening.

Everybody come and receive the benefit of this program.

CHRISTIANITY

is for All Men and for All of A Man. Go to Church next Sunday and find out.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

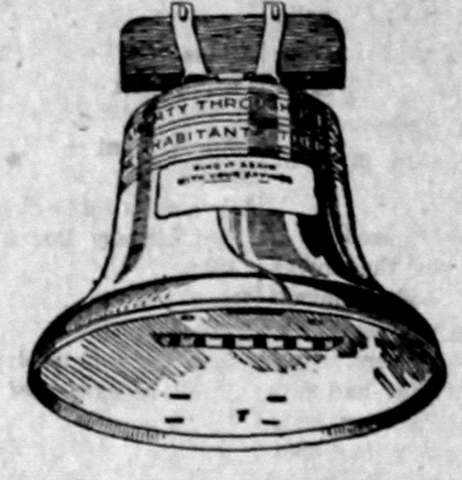
STRENGTH SERVICE

Teach Your Children To Save

Your children will learn more of the value of money through having a bank account than by any other means.

It encourages them to see the amount increase, and at 5 per cent interest compounded semi-annually, it doesn't take long to save large sums.

Why not start an account for them now---the ultimate benefits will be inestimable. One dollar is sufficient to open a Term Savings Account.



Get one of these miniature Liberty Bells to drop your pin money in at home---it counts fast towards success.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

New Prices
on Titan and International Tractors
Now Lowest Ever Quoted

EFFECTIVE immediately, we make another big reduction in the prices of Titan and International tractors. These reductions wipe out all former advances and place Titan and International tractors at the lowest prices at which they have ever been sold.

International 8-16
$900

This price is about one-fourth less than the price at which the 8-16 sold prior to March of this year. The new figure is the lowest at which it was ever sold. The new price includes all the necessary equipment—platform, fenders, governor, belt pulley—features which must be paid for extra on some tractors.

Titan 10-20
$900

This is the lowest price ever quoted on the Titan, considering the equipment now included (formerly sold extra). Up to March of this year the price was $1,200—today it is $900. At this figure the Titan 3-plow tractor is the best value in the farm power field.

The International 15-30 has been reduced to $1,750—lower than it has ever been before. The man who needs a 4-plow tractor cannot find a better investment than the 15-30 at this price. (All prices f. o. b. Chicago.)

Considering quality, power, equipment, and the service which follows every machine, Titan and International tractors at these new low prices are unquestionably the best buy in the tractor market.

As these prices have been made regardless of manufacturing costs, we do not guarantee to maintain them.

These prices certainly justify the immediate purchase of a tractor. Put it at the horse-killing work of hot weather plowing, and your fall and winter belt work.

See our tractor dealer for full information on deliveries and terms.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER COMPANY
CHICAGO OF AMERICA (INCORPORATED) USA
92 Branch Houses and 15,000 Dealers in the United States

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Congregational Church Notes

Morning service, 11:00.
Sunday School, 12:00.
Evening Worship, 8:00.

This will be a Union service of both churches. Be sure and take in these services Sunday as there will be special music and addresses for the occasions.

The Christian Endeavors of the Congregational church will have their meetings at 7:30 a. m. during the hot weather of August.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Berger Friday afternoon. Everybody come.

The Monthly Christian Endeavor meeting and social time will be held at the home of Mrs. Kieth Thursday, August 4th.

The Woman's Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Jennie Rowan Thursday, August 4th. After the meeting a picnic supper will be served. Each one bring a basket of supper. Everyone cordially invited. Come.

The Sheldon and Tomkinson families returned last Tuesday from a leasant trip thru Minnesta and Wisconsin. Among the important places which they visited were Lake Minnetonka and Minnehaha Falls, and Rice Lake in Wisconsin. They also visited the cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis and Duluth in Minnesota, and Eau Claire, LaCrosse and Prairie du Chien in Wisconsin. They had a delightful time and were well satisfied with the trip.

The local tennis club has entered four members for the Wright County Tennis Tourament at Eagle Grove next Thursday.

M. E. Church Notes

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the M. E. church will be held next Friday, August 5th, at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Busnell, District Superintendent of the Algona District will preside. Will the heads of the different departments kindly bring in their reports.

Services in the M. E. church will be resumed next Sunday at 10:30 in the morning, and 8:00 o'clock in the evening. The pastor will speak in the morning on the subject, "The Beauty of the Lord," and at the union service at night on "The Three Cries." The church, which has been renovated. presents a pleasing and an attractive appearance. The officials have spared no pains in making the "House of God" what it ought to be, a place of beauty. The pastor extends an invitation to the people for Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham and Mrs. Lizzie Lawson visited in Hampton Tuesday at the home of Mr and Mrs. J. H. Dix.

Carley Rowen was a county seat visitor Tuesday.

S. A Ferguson was a Clarion business caller Tuesday

Mrs. Hannah Whitten was called to Latimer Tuesday to help care for the little daughter, LaVonne, of Mr. and Mrs. Milt Ramsey, who was very ill with cholera infantum. Three other chidren are sick but are on the mend. Mrs. Whitten returned home for over Sunday but went back the first of the week.

Miss Frieda Whitten was a Hampton shopper Wednesday.

The Misses ilda Whitten and Dolly Riley were in Clarion Wednesday and Thursday taking teachers' examinations. Mrs. J. A. Whitten and Billie accompanied them Thursday.

Messrs. Roy and Ben Stout, of Thompson, spent the week end last week at the home of the former's brother. Sim Stout. Mrs. Ben Stout and baby who have been visiting there for a week returned home with them.

Miss Ardahl and Clifford Larson, who have been visiting at the home f Mr. and Mrs. Ed Underdahl and helping to care for the new son at that place. returned to their home at Rake Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bingham and Mrs. Lizzie Lawson spent Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brooks at Belmond.

J. F. Howell and Harvey Lineweaver were Hampton business callers Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks and Mrs. Herb Hadley motored to Clarion Thursday. Mrs. Hadley had her broken arm dressed. It is doing as well as could be expected.

Kenneth Ballou went to Chicago Monday night of last week to visit for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. D A. French and Miss Grace Dayton were Dows shoppers Friday.

Marion Smith, of Clarion and Catherine Smith, of Dubuque, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks returned to Clarion Friday.

Mrs. Fred Welch was a Clarion visitor Friday.

Mrs. D. E. Harris was visiting in Belmond Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otho Ballou, of Center Point, motored to Rowan Saturday to visit relatives for a short time. They were accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Mary Ballou, who will visit here for a short time and then visit her son. Cliffod and wife. at Ft. Dodge, and her daughter, Mrs. Cate, of Anita.

Mrs. Mary Everets, of Williams, s visiting her niece, Mrs. W. A. Hoke this week.

Mrs. Archie Nelson and Mrs. Bert Hyde returned to their homes in Ft. Dodge Friday after a week's visit at the home of their aunt and sister, respectvely, Mrs. Charley Grover, south of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Sullivan, of Ft. Dodge, came Thursday to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher, returning to their home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitten were Dows business callers Friday night.

Miss Myrtle Swanson, of Crystal Lake, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Alfred Davis.

Mrs. Herb Hadley and children went to Popejoy Thursday to visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bert Truesdale over the week end. Herb went down Saturday to spend Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralston and son who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Myers returned to their home at Lacona Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Beck of Des Moines came Saturday to spend the week end at the home of Mr and Mrs. Ed. Miller.

Mrs. Rush Gabrielson and children of Crystal Lake came Friday to visit at the home of her brother Alfred Davis. Mr. Gabrielson and his father and mother motored after them Sunday.

Mrs. Guy Stumph was a Dows caller Saturday. Mrs. Roscoe Robinson returned home with her.

George Miller of Hampton visited at the home of his brother Ed. Miller and family over the week end.

Will Schreck stopped off between trains here Tuesday to visit relatives here, enroute from Blythedale, Mo., where he has been making an extended visit with relatives. He went on to his home at Hayfield Wednesday.

Bernice Bailey went to Conger, Minn., last week to visit her sister, Mrs. Casper Reasoner.

Carl Kalvig went to Clarion on Monday to start his new duties as yard foreman. George Wessels came here Monday to take the section at this place.

D. E. Harris was a business caller at Clariocn Monday.

Mrs. Carl Steffens went to Stilson last Friday to visit a cousin. She met two more cousins at that place and they enjoyed a family reunion. One cousin, Mrs. Eva Richardson and two daughters from Secor, Ill., whom Mrs. Steffens had not seen for 22 years, returned home with her to make her a visit for a while.

Maxine Sheldon is spending the week in Clarion at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schroeder.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hoke expect to leave for Marshall, Minn., to work on a road graveling outfit for a contractor from Humboldt named Miller.

The Ryder Independent ball team played the Belmond team at Lake Cornelia last Sunday, being defeated 15-6.

Rev. Harold Tomkinson of the M. E. church was unable to fill the pulpit last Sunday on account of illness. He is some better at present so that he is able to be around. He was confined to his bed the latter part of last week.

Chautauqua started Monday and on account of the rain it was impossible to hold the programs in the tent. The Congregational church threw open its doors and four fine programs were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler f Delta, Ia., visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ben Hackley, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Benson and Floyd Benson also of Delta visited there also. They were enroute to Watertown, S. D.

W. A. Hoke, J. F. Howell and little daughter Clara Jane motored to Humboldt Saturday on business and also visited at the home of Rev. and Mrs. N. Howell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lent and children, of Vinton, spent a couple of hours renewing old acquaintances Friday afternoon. They were returning home by auto from a visit with Mrs. Lent's parents at Southerland. Mr. Lent owned a drug store here about nine years ago.

The Misses Wilda and Frieda Whitten left Monday night of this week for a visit with relatives at Toronto, Canada. They expect to spend a day of sight seeing in Chicago and expect to visit Niagara Falls before their return.

Miss Grace Dayton, who has been spending her vacation at the home o fher sister, Mrs. D. A. French, returned to Cedar Rapids Monday of this week.

D. W. Whitten and children and Miss Angie Baines went to Latimer Friday to see their niece who was ill.

Miss Harriet Polman, of Galt came Frday to visit at the home of Mr and Mrs. Herb Lester.

Mr. John Hansen and Mr and Mrs. H. O. Hansen, of Coulter visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Hansen Friday.

Mr and Mrs. L. D. Bingham, of Iowa Falls spent Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. H. Fowler.

Mrs. Milton Brown, of Meringo, came Wednesday to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H Fowler.

Mrs. Viola Tibbets, of Dows, spent Sunday at the home of her brother, O. E. Ballou and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tressider went to Clarion Sunday to spend the day with their son, Howard, and family

Harry Harris spent Sunday with the home folks, returning to his work at Goldfield Monday.

Mr. Carl Smith, of Boston, came Friday to spend the week end with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred Kerchival. Mr. Smith is dean of a Y. M. C. A. college in the east.

Miss Ella Couchman came Saturday night from her home in Des Moines to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Kieth. Her father was pastor of the Congregational church at this place a few years ago. Ella reports the family as well.

Mrs. Frank Kercheval had the misfortune to fall on a polished floor and hurt her knee very much. It has caused her a great deal of trouble.

Frances Farren was on the sick list the latter part of the week suffring from neuralgia in her neck.

Word was rceived Saturday by relatives that Mrs. George Prithcett, who went to Rochester, Mnnesota, last Monday for medical help had an operation Saturday and wos getting along as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Sarar Moon was a Belmond caller Saturday.

The Misses Wava and Erdena Unger. of Dows are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. aMry Braden, and attending Chautauqua this week.

(Continued on page four.)

It's Inviting

TO LUNCH AT THE BELMOND CANDY KITCHEN—THE CAFE WITH THAT RESTFUL, HOMELIKE ATMOSPHERE. WARM LUNCHES, HOT DRINKS—MUSIC TO ENTERTAIN—ALTOGETHER A MOST PLEASANT PLACE TO ENTERTAIN YOUR FRIENDS.

THEN THERE ARE HOME-MADE CANDIES, CIGARS, ICE CREAM, SODAS, SUNDAES--IN FACT MOST ANYTHING YOUR APPETITE DESIRES.

BELMOND CANDY KITCHEN

Steve Antonio, Prop.

CONFESSION

W. J. Bryan's father once missed several large hams that had been hanging in the barn loft. He suspected that the thief did not live many miles away bnt he made no direct charge against anyone; in fact he refrained from mentioning his loss to a single soul. A few days later his neighbor called. "Say Judge," said the man, "I heard you had some hams stole the other night."

"Yes," said the Judge very confidentially, 'but don't tell anyone. You and I are the only ones who know about it!"

And That's That

In reply to a dunning letter sent by a Washington firm, a Georgia customer wrote: "Now be pashent. I ain't forgot you, and as soon as folks pay me I'll pay you, but if this was the judgment day and you were no more prepared to meet your God that I am to meet your account, then you sho nuff goin' to hell. Good buy."

The Beneficiary

Mrs. Goodsole—"I am soliciting for the poor. What do you do with your cast-off clothing?"

Mr. Longsufferer—"I hang them up carefully and put on my pajamas. Then I resume them in the morning." —Boston Globe.

EARLIER THIS YEAR

OUR new Fall footwear is arriving earlier this year---for two reasons. The weather man says we'll have an early Fall and these new styles are such that you will want them earlier.

Real "Spiffy" Oxfords for both men and women. ---See them.

- PRICES ARE RIGHT -

Woodruff Shoe Co.

115 N. Federal Mason City, Iowa

Saw Wood

Your Business, no matter how good, can be increased by CONSISTENT ADVERTISING. This is an undeniable fact, and the best and safest way to gain this end is to advertise in Belmond's livest newspaper---the

Belmond Independent

REAL NEWSPAPERS think less of their rights and more of their duties. Softsoapers play to the grandstand. The BELMOND INDEPENDENT tells all the news and its circulation continues to grow!

THEREFORE, as an advertising medium, merchants obtain the best results in the

Belmond Independent

KANAWHA NEWS ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Olsen and family of Hayfield, Minn., are visiting relatives and friends here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nelson of Algona were greeting friends here Sunday.

Mrs. Abe Shaw and children who came Monday evening to attend the funeral of Mrs. Shaw's brother, Sanford Severson, returned to their home at Hayfield, Minn., Thursday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kalvig and daughters returned home Sunday after a two weeks outing at Lake Okoboji.

Viv Benzer of Britt was a caller here Tuesday.

Thos. Thompson of Miller was a caller here with old friends on Monday.

Frank Andrews of Eagle Grove was a business caller in our city on Thursday.

Mrs. Peter Knudsen returned home from Des Moines, Thursday, where she has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Baker.

Messrs. Bush and Lucas were callers at Clarion, Friday.

Messrs. Davis and Eyler of Clarion were business callers here Friday.

ALEXANDER NEWS ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johanneson and son Evanel were callers at Hampton Saturday.

Henry Schulte was a caller at Des Moines last Thursday.

Miss Anna Beenen spent the past week with friends at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ostendolph and Mrs. Anna Bonte and baby of Meservey were week end guests of Alexander relatives.

Clifford and Leslie Bobst and Russel Lindsey were at Des Moines on business the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pals and two children Henrietta and Joe and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Buss were callers at Mason City last Thursday.

Rudolph Beenen has purchased a fine new Maynard piano.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Miss Jessie Bell and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Greenfield and son visited friends at Latimer, Sunday.

Mrs. Charley Seegar and daughter Miss Joyce left Sunday for Ventura where they expect to remain for a while with the former's daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Meyers and children of Latimer attended the show here last Saturday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Mohr and son Arthur and Mrs. Ellen Pech left the first of the week for Illinois where they will visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Van Horn, Miss Emma Van Horn and Fred. Julius and Minnie Kausian of Dumont spent Sunday at the Will Ammerman home.

Will Potter of Latimer was a business caller intown one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd. Richards have spent the past week at Sheffield.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell and children were Belmond callers last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Larsen and children visited at the Edd. Miles home near Ventura last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Aldinger and two sons were Sunday visitors at Hampton.

Among the Clear Lake callers last [illegible] were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder, Mr. and Mrs. Hilko Pals, Nellie Bell, Arthur Winwood, Carl Bohlen, Norman Bohler, Sina Vierkant, John Wenzel and John Bohlen.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Finkle and daughter Leona of Hampton were visitors at the Nels Larson home last Sunday.

Mrs. E. E. Butler and two sons of Hampton spent several days last week with relatives and friends at this place.

Fred L. Greenfield was a business caller at Hampton last Thursday.

Harry Hardy of Hampton was a caller at Alexander Thursday.

Mrs. Will Aldinger and two sons visited with relatives at Hampton the last of the week.

Lewis Bell and Fred Greenfield called at Latimer Monday evening.

A. A. Williams of Rowan was doing some painting at Alexander last week.

Jack Kew of Dows was a caller in town last Friday.

G. S. Yaw of Iowa Falls was a business caller in town the first of last week.

The many friends of Adolph Eden are glad to learn that he is somewhat improved after the past several weeks of illness.

Mrs. Clarence Murphy and son Raymond, and Mrs. Leslie Reed and baby were callers at Hampton last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arends and children were visitors at Hampton on Friday.

The Methodist church is being improved by a coat of paint on the floor. L. C. Peters is doing the work.

Mrs. James Moore has been enjoying a visit from her mother, Mrs. Oscar Walsh, of Hampton.

Miss Nettie Benson of Belmond is spending several days in Alexander at the home of her uncle, Wm. Foughty.

Oscar Hensel was a business caller at Coulter last Thursday.

Aldrich Beenen was a business visitor at Des Moines last Thursday.

Miss Loraine Cerley of Dows is visiting at the L. C. Peters home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Greenfield and son and Miss Jessie Bell were visitors at Belmond last Friday evening.

Mrs. Aldrich Beenen and two children and Miss Edith Beenen were visitors at Dows, Friday.

The Dorcas society will be entertained at the home of Mrs. John Arends next Wednesday afternoon, August 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stoffer and children visited with relatives at Belmond last Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Roed and two daughters who have been living at Duncomb moved their household goods here and have located on the Hans Barkema farm south of Alexander.

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page 3.)

Wes Azeltine was a Ft. Dodge caller Monday of this week.

Linden Whitten has been sick the past week.

Mrs. Clifford Bachman, of Dows daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hackley, of this place is very ill with typhoid fever.

Sofia Eson was at Belmond last Wednesday having some dental work done.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Steffens Wednesday, July 27th. The little ne did not survive. Mrs. Steffens has been very ill following the birth of the baby but is thought to be gaining a little. For a few days her life was despaired of. Miss Pearl Mickelson, of Clarion has charge of the case. Mrs. Steffens has the sympathy of the community in their time of trouble.

Clarence Williams, who has been spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Williams, returned to his home and work in Washington, D. C. Friday night.

Miss Nora Shafer is having quite a siege of rheumatism. She is able to be about the house most of the time but is under the doctor's care.

A large number of the Rowan young people attended the dance at Cornelia Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Toyne and children and Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCallum returned from their vacation trip Saturday night.

Miss Mildred Duffy has resigned her position as clerk in the Theo. Hansen store. She will go to Cedar Falls to school this fall.

Fred Williams went to Hayfield one day last week to make arrangements for moving there some time in August. He will work for Peter Schreck on the farm as Mr. Schreck is moving to town having procured the janitor work at the school house at that place.

Walter Myers came home Sunday night from Lacona where he has been working in the drug store since June.

W. A. Duffy's received word from Bert McKinstrey concerning his injury several months ago caused from falling from a building on which he was working. His ankles were crushed but the letter stated he was well enough now to walk without his crutches most of the time.

Mrs. R. H. Keith and children were Dows callers Saturday.

Last Tuesday the following people enjoyed a picnic supper at Lake Cornelia: A. H. Emerson and wife, Stella and Carl, Ruth and Esther Emerson, Frances Farren, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fanselow and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hiams and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Heath and Mrs. Howard Box, all of Rowan, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Chassell of Belle Fouche, So. Dak., Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Church of Belmond and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Church of Garner.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hadley enjoyed a picnic at Silom Springs near Iowa Falls. Between 50 and 60 persons were present at the picnic.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Chassell and family went to Des Moines Thursday to visit relatives of the doctor.

Mrs. Marsa of Rake came last week to help care for her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Underdahl, and her new grandson.

The Willard Sign

The red Willard sign marks the place where you can get authorized Willard Service—and buy the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

We're here on the job to see that you get the full satisfaction and service you are entitled to as the user of a Willard Battery.

We're authorized Willard Dealers completely equipped for battery recharging, repairing and full Willard Service.

Come in and we'll tell you how Threaded Rubber Insulation saves you money and worry.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

Willard Batteries

ORDINANCE NO. 122

AN ORDINANCE TO PROMOTE THE PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION OF SANITARY AND HEALTHFUL MILK AND PROVIDING PENALTY FOR VIOLATION THEREOF.

The Town Council of the Town of Belmond, Iowa, does ordain as follows:

Section I. All individuals, partnerships, associations and corporations engaged in the distribution or sale of milk within the Town of Belmond shall be required to obtain a milk license from the Dairy and Food Commision of the State of Iowa. They shall also register with the Clerk of the Town of Belmond.

Section II. For the purpose of this ordinance, milk, cream and skimmilk shall comply with the definitions and standards of Section 2, Chapter 206, Acts of the 38th General Assembly.

Section III. For the purpose of this ordinance, milk, cream and skimmilk shall be considered adulterated, as provided in Section 2, Chapter 206, Acts of the 38th General Assembly, and the same shall be deemed a violation of this ordinance.

Section IV. For the purpose of this ordinance, milk, cream and skimmilk shall be considered to be misbranded and deemed a violation of this ordinance:

If it is labeled or branded so as to deceive or mislead the purchaser or if the package bears any statement, design or device which is false or misleading in any particular.

Section V. All milk intended for delivery to consumers shall be bottled except in the case of consumers taking two gallons or more at one delivery, and shall be delivered in the original bottle. (If desired,—Nothing within this section shall be construed as applying to hotels, restaurants, or other eating houses.) Milk shall not be bottled on any delivery wagon or at any other place than in the milk house or milk plant.

Section VI. No dirty, unwashed bottles shall be returned to a delivery man or store. Persons engaged in selling or distributing milk are forbidden to receive or have in their possession dirty or unwashed bottles or containers. Milk bottles, milk cans, or other containers for milk shall not be used for any other purpose than containing milk or milk products. Milk bottles shall be thoroughly rinsed with clean, cold water immediately after being emptied. Dairymen shall not leave bottles at any dwelling or other building under quarantine so long as the quarantine is maintained. Persons desiring milk at such places must provide a receptacle into which the milk may be emptied.

Section VII. No raw milk shall be sold, exchanged or exposed for sale or exchange or delivery or brought to another for domestic or potable use except that produced from a healthy cow or herd of cows as determined by a physicial examination, and produced from a cow or herd of cows which have been placed and maintained under State or Federal supervision for the eradication of tuberculosis, provided that, a cow or herd of cows shall be considered under such supervision when there is on file in the office of the Iowa Commission of Animal Health an application for such supervision, or which have been tested and found free of tuberculosis by an "accredited" practicing veterinarian. A cow or herd of cows other than those placed under State or Federal supervision shall be tested for tuberculosis at least once a year, and where reactors are found, they must be removed and a retest conducted within six months. No cow or cows shall be allowed to associate with or added to a cow or herd of cows which have been found to be free from tuberculosis, as above provided, except such cow or cows as have been free of tuberculosis as above provided. For the purpose of this ordinance, an "accredited" practicing veterinarian is one who has successfully passed an examination of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Commission of Animal Health of this State and is authorized to make tuberculin tests of accredited herds of cattle under the provisions of section six (6) of the Uniform Methods and Rules governing accredited herd work which was approved by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture, December 6, 1920. Such tuberculin test of a cow or herd of cows, whose milk is or shall be sold or offered for sale, may be applied at any time within six (6) months from the date of the passage of this ordinance. Every operator of a dairy farm shall, within twenty-four (24) hours, notify the Health Department havng jurisidiction over his milk, of the presence of any disease among his cows.

Section VIII. No milk except that produced from a cow or herd of cows provided for in Section VII, shall be sold, exchanged or exposed for sale or exchange or delivery or brought to another for domestic or potable use except it shall first have been efficiently pasteurized. Milk shall be deemed to have been efficiently pasteurized when it has been subjected to a temperature of approximately 145 degrees Fahrenheit, and not less than 142 degrees, and held at this temperature for at least twenty-five (25) minutes. Every pasteurizing apparatus shall be equipped with a standard type automatic time and temperature recording device which shall be attached, adjusted and used in a manner prescribed by the Board of Health. The recording chart shall be dated and filed at the pasteurizing plant and be available for inspection by the Board of Health. No milk produced by a cow or cows which have reacted to the tuberculin test shall be pasteurized and sold as fluid milk.

Section IX. Barns in which milk is produced shall be clean, well lighted and ventilated, and shall have floors constructed of cement or other imperious material. Manure shall not be allowed to accumulate within fifty (50) feet of the barn. Cows shall be clean and free from visible dirt at all times. Milking shall be done with clean, dry hands into some form of small top pail with smooth seams, or with a properly cleaned and sterilized mechanical milker.

Milk shall be removed from the barns immediately after milking to a clean place and strained through a new cotton or other clean, efficient strainer. Milk shall be cooled immediately after milking to a temperature approximating that of well water or less and maintained at that temperature until delivered, except during the process of pasteurization.

All milk houses, milk depots, milk plants and milk distributing vehicles shall be kept in a clean and sanitary condition at all times, as provided in the State Sanitary Laws.

All utensils which come in contact with milk shall be thoroughly washed and sterilized with live steam or boiling water or by other effective and harmless method of sterilization approved by the enforcement officer.

Section X. All persons engaged in the production, handling and distribution of milk, shall be free from all cummunicable diseases and from contact with any communicable disease. Every operator of a dairy farm, milk depot, milk distributing plant or milk delivery wagon shall within twenty-four (24) hours notify the Health Department having jurisdiction over his milk of the presence of any communicable disease on his farm, among his employees or the families of his employees.

Section XI. It shall be the duty of the Board of Health to cause all daries, pasteurizing plants and other places, where milk intended for sale in the Town of Belmond is produced or handled, to be inspected for the purpose of determining whether such places are equipped and operated as required by this ordinance.

The Town Council shall appoint a suitable person to be known as the "Town Dairy Inspector" who shall have charge of the inspection and supervision of the production, sale and distribution of milk, under rules and regulations prescribed or adopted by the Board of Health or the Town Council, and shall perform such other similar duties as may be assigned to him.

The Town Dairy Inspector or his assistant or any other properly designated employee of the Board of Health, may investigate and take samples of milk and cream to determine the quality and wholesomeness of the same, and they shall make or cause to be made an examination of the same to determine whether or not said milk or cream complies with the provisions of this ordinance. The Town Dairy Inspector shall inspect or cause to be inspected as often as he deems necessary, all producing and distributing agencies supplying milk or cream to the inhabitants of Belmond, and the places where milk or cream is stored or offered for sale. A complete record of conditions found, with the results of the analysis shall be kept in the office of the Board of Health.

Section XII. PENALTY. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of misdomeanor and for each offense shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or imprisoned not more than thirty (30) days.

Approved by Dairy and Food Commision.

M. C. BARRY, Mayor.

Attest: Guy Byers, Clerk.

Fort Dodge Business College

...Announces...

FALL TERM SEPTEMBER 6

New Classes In All Departments

Write for Free Catalog

Address: W. F. McDaniel, Principal
Fort Dodge, Iowa

ROBINSON'S

Bread, three 10c loaves 25c
Black Tea, per lb. 40c
Spaghetti and Macaroni, 2 lbs. for - 25c
Rolled Oats, lb. - 5c
Rice, 5 lbs. for - 25c
Corn and tomatoes, per can - 10c
Evaporated Pears, lb. 25c
Coffee - 15c
5 bars Kirk's Flake White and 1 bar Jap Rose Soap for - 35c

Home Baking at the Woman's Exchange

Homemade Bread, per loaf	15c
Nut Bread, per loaf	35c
Pies, each	40c
Devil's Food Cake	40c
White Cake	40c
Spice Cake	40c
Nut Cake	50c
Sunshine Cake	50c
Angel Food Cake, large size	$1.00
Doughnuts, per dozen	20c
Ginger Creams, per dozen	25c
Plain White Sugar or Ginger Cookies, dozen	20c
Drop Cookies, dozen	25c
Baked Beans, pint	20c

Phone your order at any time and in any quantity.

Bring in your needlework or anything you have to sell. I charge 20 per cent.

MARY GEALOW

Phone 316 Belmond, Iowa

COUNTY FAIR COMING IN FINE SHAPE

The annual Wright county fair is due next week, and things are being lined up for the main event of the summer season in Wright county.

The exhibits are commencing to be entered, and the indications are that the fair this year will be by far the most attractive of history in the way of exhibits of all kinds. Those in the livestock department are being rapidly entered, and so many exhibits of swine are being entered that the question of housing all of them is becoming serious. A number of the biggest raisers of purebred cattle in the county are preparing to have the best samples of their stock at the fair this year, and equal exhibits are expected from poultry and horses.

The community tent is to be one of the features of the fair this year. The township clubs are preparing their displays and exhibits.

Fair officials are advertising the fair extensively, placing advertisements in all the surrounding papers and making a tour of the towns in Wright and adjacent counties, as far away as Iowa Falls. Reports from the towns visited indicate that there will be a record attendance.

The fair dates are August 10, 11 and 12. Some of the banners on the cars were dated wrong, leading some people in Belmond to become mixed on the dates. It is probable that a large number will attend from here.

The News states that it is probable that a series of games between Clarion, Kanawha, Dows and Belmond will be staged at the fair. The band from Belmond will play at the fair on Friday, August 12, the Clarion and Goldfield bands furnishing the music the other two days.

Belmond Local News

The freight on the Great Western managed to ditch a gravel car at the crossing west of town Wednesday morning, and delayed things for a short time until the car of gravel could be gotten back on the track.

Pearl Rierson returned on Monday from her trip to Minnesota, where she spent the past four weeks visiting relatives at Ruthtown and Winthrop.

The county tennis tournament will be held at Eagle Grove next week on Thursday. It is not known whether a team from Belmond will participate or not.

Dorothy Purcell was a visitor at Clarion Friday at the home of her cousins, Floyd Bailey and wife.

Raymond Walton of Iowa Falls was visiting relatives here on Sunday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thayne Bailey and Mrs. Purcell drove to Thornton on Wednesday evening of last week to hear the Coe College quartette. The boys gave the evening's program on the Thornton chautauqua course. The entertainment was greatly enjoyed.

Miss Minnie Luick accompanied Mrs. Bras home to Winnipeg, Canada, the first of the week, where she will visit for a while. Later Mr. and Mrs. Bras and Miss Luick expect to make a tour of the country, going from coast to coast.

Art Cuppett left Monday afternoon of this week for northern Minnesota, where he intends to purchase a two hundred acre farm. He was up there last week to look the land over, and finding a splendid bargain decided to take advantage of it.

The fire company desires the public to be informed that during a fire all water faucets in the city must be turned off, and all water connections in the homes shut. There is an ordinance to this effect, stating that all faucets must be shut while the company is engaged in fighting fire. The loss of water with many faucets going at the same time during a fire might cause such a drain on the water supply as to seriously hinder the department in their work.

The city council met on Monday evening of this week and passed the odinance regarding the sale of milk in the town of Belmond. The ordinance may be found on another page of the Independent.

Mrs. Fred Cloud and daughter Maud returned to their home at Caldwell, Kansas, Tuesday evening, after a two weeks visit at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. T. D. Rankins.

Earl Bryan of Hampton was a visitor here Thursday of last week with friends. He is the ice cream manufacturer of that place.

Let us do your fancy dry cleaning and pressing. Having added new equipment we are prepared to handle rush orders. Satisfaction guaranteed. —New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of Case Hotel. Phone 28.

Miss Helen Harberts returned on Monday from Alexander where she has been nursing the past week or two.

Miss Mildred Lockwood of Clarion was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Morse.

Mrs. Davis and children from Des Moines have been visiting at the R. C. Morse home.

Miss Mary Reese of Waterloo has been spending the past week visiting at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Baldridge and at the home of other relatives in this vicinity.

Carl Snyder drove up from Newton last Saturday to meet his wife, who returned to this place after spending a few weeks visiting her folks in Minnesota. They returned to Newton the first of the week.

Every sack of Peacock Flour is now guaranteed to give satisfaction. $2.10 per sack—why pay more?—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

Miss Doris Bailey went to Charles City on Thursday of last week where she spent a few days visiting at the home of Mrs. Satter, formerly Miss Randall, the music teacher of the Belmond school.

Mrs. Wallace Ramsay and daughter Ruth spent a few days last week at the Stebbleton home in Britt.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Joy of Alden returned home the first of the week after a visit here with friends the past week.

Let us do your developing and printing. Prints reduced or developing to 10 cents a roll.—Schultz Drug Co.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Shaffer and Mrs. John Balridge were called to Nevada, Iowa, last week by the death of a relative at that place.

The county fair looms up in fine shape, the program being practically arranged for the three big days.

Two second-hand kerosene stoves for sale. Also two second-hand washing machines, which can be equipped for power.—Townsan Hardware.

The Hampton-Algona game on last Thursday was won by the latter team 5 to 4.

Harry Pergakes and wife of Iowa Falls were in town Wednesday of this week, looking after business interests here. Mr. Pergakes is one of the company who own and operate the Candy Kitchen.

Miss Jennie Gealow was on the sick list yesterday.

Rev. Sheveland of Kenyon, Minnesota, was in town last week, called here by the funeral of Mr. Sheveland held at the St. Olaf church last week Tuesday.

The Algona ball team has gone the way of the LuVerne and Charles City salaried teams, and disbanded for the lack of funds.

Threshing has been going on in this vicinity the past week, and the reports of the yield are that oats are running very light and are of but mediocre quality. One famer reports 23 bushels to the acre, while another says that his went 46, which is remarkably good this year.

J. J. Flynn had a slight accident with his car last week, when the thing became balky and ran up over the sidewalk and into the billboard east of the opera house.

Miss Josie Gealow arrived the first of the week from Washington, D. C., for a couple weeks visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gealow. She is employed by the government in the income tax department.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jorgenson left last week for Ryan, Iowa, where Mr. Jorgenson will be employed on the big ditch recently secured by C. N. Hildebrand of this place. Ryan is near Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker left last week for Illinois were they will spend the next month visiting relatives and friends.

Wm. Harbison has accepted a position in the Cash Market.

J. S. White received a call last week from the express department head at Albert Lea, asking to take a run on one of the thru trains in Minnesota for ten days. As the run is an important one and not entrusted to any but experienced expressmen, Joe is to be complimented upon receiving the offer.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barry drove to West Bend last Friday to see the grotto at that place and to take in the ball game.

This vicinity was visited by a regular honest-to-gosh soaker of a rain on Sunday night and Monday, which was worth millions of dollars to the farmers of northern Iowa. The rain was about three weeks too late to save the potatoes, but the corn and sugar beets received an immense amount of benefit. It was the first real rain Belmond had had in about two month, or since the first week in June.

Mrs. Duncan and daughters Nellie and Myrtle of Kanawha were visitors here with friends on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. E. J. Theel of Clarion was a guest of friends here on last week Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Johnson entertained their son and wife and family from Huxley on Sunday.

Mr. Wallace Ramsay, editor of the Herald-Press, spent Sunday at Britt, where he joined his wife and daughter Ruth who were visiting at the Stebbleton home.

Mrs. John Christie of Garner was a visitor last week at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robbins at this place.

Mrs. G. F. McBurney and Coetta Foster went to Cedar Rapids on last Friday, Dr. McBurney driving down after them the first of the week.

Mrs. Mortimer and son George visited a few days last week with relatives and friends at Minneapolis.

Miss Marion Arnold of Garner was the guest of her friend Marjorie Purcell on Friday of last week.

The W. F. M. S. of the M. E. church will be entertained at the home of Miss Hazel Hembd today.

J. D. Walton was a visitor at the county seat town last week Thursday at the homes of Steve Hill and Lima Perry.

The Misses Gladys and Pearl Barry are spending a few weeks vacation at the home of their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Wash Harris and daughter Leota, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mantz drove over from West Bend Sunday morning and spent the day with Rev. Leinbach and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Sorenson arrived home last week from Clear Lake after three weeks at that place. They visited their son Bert at Buffalo Center, and Mrs. Chas. Meacham at Titonka.

A farmer residing near Belmond came to town one night recently in his Henry, and immediately became the center of attraction. Various remarks and the interested looks of the bystanders directed his attention to the top of his car, where he found one of his hens roosting and holding on for dear life. The last seen of the young man he was cutting the dust for home, with the hen sounding the Klaxon at every bump.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Curtis of Canon City, Colorado, started for their home yesterday after a visit of several weeks at the home of relatives and friends here.

The M. E. Sunday school picnic will be held Friday afternoon at the grove south of town. All members and their families are invited to be present.

Miss Margaret Karney of Louisville, Montana, former trimmer at the Barry Sisters' millinery shop, has been visiting at the Barry home here the past week.

Sam Lieuwen was among the local people who were at West Bend last week Friday. Sam was formerly a resident of that place, and was greeting numerous old friends during his stay there.

Roy Ryder of Rowan was in town last week Friday evening on some business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosecrans spent a couple of days at Garner last week, at the home of relatives and friends there.

Mrs. Wm. Meyers of Chicago has been a guest the past week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ben Smith.

Leo Kenefick left Wednesday afternoon for Denver, Colorado, and other western points. He expects to remain in the west for several months.

Tuesday night about 10:30 some body tried to work the tire-in-the-road stunt on some young men from Belmond, but with very poor success. Leland Finn, Adolph Rierson, Carl Wenzel, Henry Luick and Archie Rierson were driving by the dumping grounds north of town when they saw the tire lying in the road. Instead of stopping they drove on to the Great Western tracks, turned around, and with wrenches and other tools handy went back. Luick saw two men in the weeds. The boys came to town, got the nightwatch and Ray Morris, and went back. They found where the men had been in the weeds, but there was no trace of the men. If a kid trick the ones guilty can congratulate themselves over their lucky escape, and if meant in earnest by robbers their trouble went for nothing.

LEGION AUXILIARY

There will be a meeting of the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of ex-service men held in the Legion club rooms Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing of the Legion. All those eligible are urged to attend.

Miss Mary Wallace spent a few days last week visiting at the home of her friend, Mrs. Barnes at Garner. While there she made a trip to West Bend to see the grotto at that place.

Miss Mable Adams of Havelock who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Adams the past week, returned to her home on Thursday.

Mrs. Jaeger of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who has been visiting at the M. C. Barry home, returned to her home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Bohning and Miss Leona Jacobs expect to leave the last of this week for California, where they will make their future home.

The Great Western freight Sunday afternoon set fire to a field of stubble on the old Man Luick farm south of town, and several acres of the stubble were burned, but with no damage.

Mrs. Hans Hanson has been on the sick list the past week, but is reported better at this writing.

James Kenefick was a business caller last week in Minnesota. He says the crops up there are fine.

The district Epworth League Cabinet meeting, the first of the year, is to be held here today at the home of the district secretary, Mrs. J. S. White.

Mrs. Anderson of Great Falls, Montana, returned to her home the first of the week. She had been visiting her mother, Mrs. Rena Bailey, and will be remembered by Belmond people as Miss Geraldine Brewsaugh.

Miss Charlotte Claussen and Miss Frances Leach, of Rainer, Washington, are guests at the home of the former's brother, H. C. Claussen, this week.

N. M. Wolcott of Des Moines was in town on Thursday of last week, enroute home from Fort Dodge where he had been visiting at the home of his son Lon, and a few days visit here with friends and on business matters.

Mrs. T. A. Townsan and little daughter have been visiting relatives at Carrol, Iowa, the past week.

Herman Schultz was a business visitor last week at points in Minnesota, looking after real estate interests there.

INDEPENDENT WANT ADS

WANTED—Plowing and road grading with tractor. Phone 310. 23tfc

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

A few second hand Fords at real bargains. In first class running order.—Belmond Auto Co.

Found—Automobile tool kit containing tools. Owner can have same by proving property. Call at Independent.

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

Have you any tires that need repairing? I will fix them, buy them or you may trade them in on new tires. —Christ Rise, Phone 85.

A few second hand Fords at real bargains, in first class running order. —Belmond Auto Co.

Lost—Child's black coat with tan collar, between Glen Baker farm and my place. Finder please return to J. J. Sloan, Phone 2909. 1tp

For Sale—Three well-bred Durham bulls.—M. G. Luick, Phone 3506. 2t.c

Next Week's Dance Program
AT Lake Cornelia

Tuesday & Friday
August 9th and 12th

Our dances are going good now, since the weather has settled a little. Large and enthusiastic crowds are coming out, from the towns all over the county. Everyone is having a good time dancing in this modern dance pavilion, where good order is maintained and the best people are congregating, attracted by the splendid music of one of Iowa's good dance orchestras and the popular prices. If you haven't visited our pavilion, by all means arrange to attend one of these dances. Your pleasure and comfort is assured.

A Place for Ladies & Gentlemen

Specials

20 per cent discount on Voiles, Ladies' and Men's Underwear.

Men's Overalls	$1.25
55c worth of Kirk's Flake White and Jap Rose Soap for	35c
50c Pillsbury's Pancake Flour for	40c
50c bottle Nector for	40c
4 lbs. fancy Whole Rice or Navy Beans	25c

W. A. Parsons & Co.

We Deliver Phone 30
We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

WRIGHT COUNTY FAIR

Encouraged by the generous support of the public last year, the fair officials have arranged for a still bigger and better fair this year. More and better acts; more elaborate fireworks displays at night; faster races, with a large number of entries, and an attempt to lower the track record of 2:10; a greater live stock show; an enlarged exhibit of agricultural, horticultural, and handiwork, with special displays by township clubs; a real fair in one of Iowa's best counties---that's exactly what you will see this year.

Fireworks Each Night
Free Community Tent
Carnival Shows---Free Acts
Fast Races for Big Purses
Music by Three Bands
Baseball Thursday and Friday
Kanawha, Clarion and Hampton Teams
Aeroplane Rides $5.00
Scores of Attractions for Everyone

It's going to be a great fair. Remember the dates and come every day. Everything points to the best fair ever held in Wright.

CLARION, IOWA
August 10, 11 and 12

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

POULTRY CULLING HALTED

The threshing season which came about two weeks earlier than usual this year has interfered with the poultry culling schedule. The work as planned would have been completed by August 8, but several townships have decided to postpone this important work until the rush of the threshing season is over. The schedule as rearranged will be as follows:

Dayton, August 3—Harry Poundstone 9:30; Issac Knutson 1:00; T. L. Thompson 3:30.

Lake, August 4—O. J. Lewis 9:30; Wm. Stecher 1:00; Clarence McBride 3:30.

Grant, August 5—Harry Brooks 9:30; Harry Woodley 1:00; E. A. Poulson 3:30.

Lincoln, August 8—Homer Lord 9:30; Ray Wharton 1:00; Harry Sweet 3:30.

Eagle Grove, August 15—Will McCutcheon 9:30; Will Byro 1:00; D. D. Paine 3:30.

Liberty, August 16—Roy B. Martin 8:30; Robert Lester 10:00; Frank Bjornson 1:00; J. B. Rasmussen 3:30.

Boone, August 17—Engh Bros. 9:30; Everret Nelson 1:00; W. H. Heimke 3:30.

Norway, August 18—E. N. Erickson 9:30; Philip Veldhouse 1:00; Thor Wicks 3:30.

Troy, August 19—Places for demonstration not sent in.

FARM BUREAU AT THE STATE FAIR

Monday August 29 will be farm bureau day at the state fair. Such is the official announcement by the fair management, co-operating with federation officials, and the program for that day is being shaped with especial regard for the interests and developemest of the organization.

So far as the Federation's share in the day is concerned, plans for entertainment are not yet sufficiently matured for publication. But they are well under way and will be announced at an early date. Speakers of national prominence will be secured and everything possible be done to make the occasion a noteworthy one. The state fair management will erect a big tent near the agricultural building—which is centrally located and in which the federation will maintain headquarters thruout the day—and provide a band for the day.

In this connection it might also be stated that the fair management has set aside a large tract in the most desirable part of the camp grounds for the use of farm bureau members, in order that all who belong to the organization may be together. It is not only convenient to the tent where the big meetings will be held but to all other attractions of interest.

"AS OTHERS SEE US"

"The farmer is willing to walk the deflation pike back to normal and he is walking it—but he is determined that others must walk with him or he will turn around and go in the other direction. He is organized and awake. The Illinois Agricultural association, for example, has 108,000 members who pay dues of firteen dollars a year. Other states are similarly organized. The state farm bureaus in Iowa, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Texas have more than 100,000 members each, and the American Farm Bureau federation has more than 1,000,000 members and is increasing at a rate of 50,000 a month. These organizations command a high order of talent. They are well advised and they are determined. The very fact that they are not asking for class legislation inspires confidence in their counsel. (From an article by Forrest Crissey in the Saturday Evening Post July 16, 1921, page 79.)

"I have met many of the leaders of the new farm movement and I testify in all sincerity that they are endeavoring to deal with their problems, not as promotors of a narrow class-interest, not as exploiters of the hapless consumer, not as merciless monopolists, but as honest men bent on the improvement of the commonwealth.

"We can and must meet such men and such a cause half way. Their business is our business—the nation's business." (Statement by Bernard M. Baruch in "Some Aspects of the Farmer's Problems." The Atlantic Monthly July 1921, page 120.)

"But it is not in co-operative that the most significant phase of the new agrarianism is to be found. That phase is the organization of the modern farmer group. After a long and costly process of trial and failure which led many men to believe that the farmers could never be organized, what once seemed so difficult has been accomplished so quietly and so quickly that even the farmers themselves scarcely realize the significance of what has happened. Almost over night, the Farm Bureau has become a factor of major national importance. Thereare active survivals of earlier organizations of which the Grange is probably the most powerful and useful. Furthermore there are organizations of specialists within the agricultural field such as the Dairymen's League and the National Wool Growers' association. The center of this complex of organizations hohwever is to be found in the farm bureau." (From "The Farmer" in the Commonwealth, by Ralph Gabriel, Yale University, in the North American Review for May 1921.)

TOMLINSON TO JUDGE LIVESTOCK

Paul C. Tomlinson, county agent of Poweshiek county, with headquarters at Malcom, Iowa, will judge the livestock at the Wright county fair this year. Mr. Tomlinson comes to Wright county as a competent judge of livestock, having judged at the various county fairs in all parts of Iowa.

LIVESTOCK AT THE FAIR

From all indications more livestock will be exhibited at the country fair this year than ever before in the history of the local fair. Entries have been made in the swine department and the superintendent of that department is beginning to wonder where he will keep all the swine.

A good showing is assured in the cattle department as a number of the leading purebred breeders of the county are planning to show their purebred stock this year. The livestock exhibit this year is sure to be "humdinger" and every livestock farmer in Wright county is earnestly urged to give his support and co-operation in making this the best fair ever.

DAYTON CLUB FEDERATED

The "Live Wires" sewing club in Dayton township met at the home of Marjorie Miller on Wednesday afternoon, July 27.

Miss Spencer was present and the club was federated.

There are twelve members and the colors are purple and gold.

The following officers have been chosen: President, Amy Benson; secretary and treasurer, Fern Watts; club reporter, Bertha Benson; club leader, Amy Benson.

We are planning a booth and demonstration at the Wright county fair. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Alice Whitty, August 17.

Club Reporter.

COUNTY WOOL SHIPMENT

The wool growers of Wright county pooled their wool for shipment at Clarion, July 28 and 29 with a result that 8229 pounds were brought in for shipment to the wool warehouse at Chicago.

A great number of wool consignors have indicated their desire to have their virgin wool made up into woolen blankets. The shipment of blankets which was received at the county agent's office a short time ago has been distributed and each farmer who ordered his wool made into woolen blankets was highly pleased with the quality of the woolen blankets.

GRANT LADIES MEETING

The ladies of the Grant township farm bureau held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Wm. Tucker, Friday afternoon, July 29. A most interesting program furnished from talent within the township was given at this meeting.

Miss Kate Liddle, county health nurse, gave some valuable hints on "Better Health for School Children." Those who have been watching the work of the county health nurse know the wonderful good which has been accomplished by Miss Liddle with the school children of the county. Indeed, the parents are beginning to realize that better babies and healthier children are quite as important as better livestock.

Pearl Woodley, member of the Grant township Girls' club, gave a demonstration on "Bathing the Baby." This would indicate that the work in the girls' club is of practical nature and should be helpful to any girl who is interested.

Mrs. J. H. Munnis gave a most interesting talk on "Indications of Sickness," and her remarks seemed to indicate that she had made a thoro study of this subject.

We understand plans were made at this meeting for a Grant township picnic which is to be held at Pikes Timber August 24. The officers announce that no program will be arranged and that this picnic will be strickly a social affair and it is hoped that everyone will come prepared to have a good time.

WALL LAKE SOCIAL

The regular monthly meeting of the Wall Lake township Farm Bureau was held at the Eugene Wasson home near the Center School Friday evening, July 29, and was attended by a goodly number of the farmers of this township.

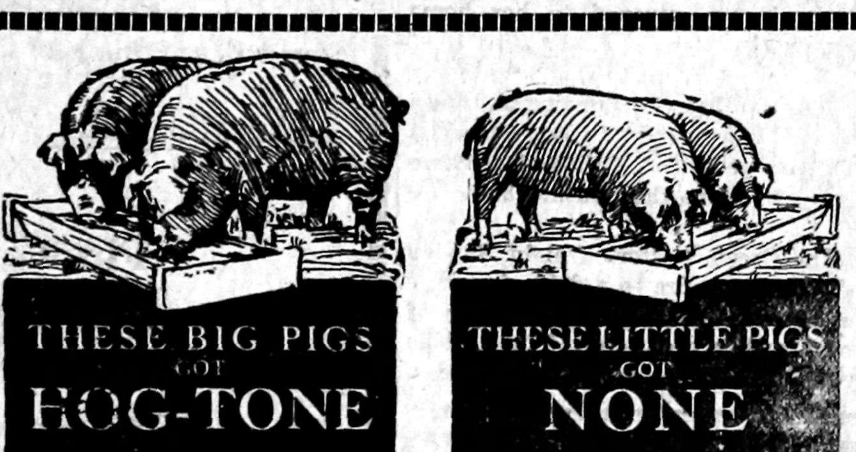
No special program was arranged before hand on account of sickness in the home of the chairman of the program committee, also because the members of the program committee were too busy with the harvesting work.

The county agent was present and gave a short talk on general activities of the farm Bureau. He spoke in particular of the action which has been taken by the National Farm Bureau federation during the past few months in matters relating to the National Legislative program for agriculture. He urged upon the members the necessity of standing by their organization and being loyal to their working machine which is their only hope for relief from the present strained conditions.

After the county agent's talk the remainder of the evening was spent in a social mix of the good people of the community. Ice cream and cake were enjoyed by all before the meeting broke up.

Evils of Constipation

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.—For sale by Adams Pharmacy.



G. R. Ogden, of Shinnston, W. Va., says: "I have used AVALON FARMS HOG-TONE 56 days and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I have two pigs 4 months and 3 days old that weigh 360 pounds, one 6 pounds heavier than the other. They are 100 pounds heavier than my neighbor's 2 of the same litter and feed."

This is the experience of a typical user of Hog-Tone. There are hundreds and hundreds of letters on file at the Avalon Farms Company's office from nearly every state in the Union, all telling of big improvement in hogs and in hog profits through the use of Hog-Tone, the scientifically prepared Hog Conditioner, Fattener and Worm Remover. Hog-Tone is sold on 60 days' Free Trial under an absolute money-back guarantee. Come in the store and tell us how many hogs you have in your herd and we will give you enough Hog-Tone to treat all of them 60 days. You don't have to pay for it unless you are absolutely satisfied. The decision is left entirely to you.

IT COSTS YOU NOTHING NOW TO TRY 60 DAYS' TREATMENT OF

AVALON FARMS HOG-TONE

— THE LIQUID HOG FATTENER, CONDITIONER AND WORM REMOVER —

FOR ALL YOUR HOGS

—FOR SALE BY—

SCHULTZ DRUG CO.

Belmond Local News

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams are the parents of a baby girl, Elizabeth Joy, who arrived at their home in Iowa City on July 6. Mrs. Williams will be remembered by Belmond folks as Miss Ruth Huntington.

Tom Maitand has purchased a restaurant near Fort Dodge, and this week began moving his household furniture to his new home.

Mrs. Ed. Webb spent a few days last week at Estherville, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Riggs.

Mrs. Webb spent a few days last week at Wallingford, visiting with her son Harry, who was recently appointed the pastor of the church at that place. Harry is coming along in nice shape with his new charge.

The Clarion News is still fighting the ball game played at Clarion recently between Clarion and Belmond and last week used about two colmuns of solid type to rehash the affair. Go to it, Brother, we'll settle the affair Friday.

W. C. Tyrrell, Sr., returned last week to his home at Beaumont, Texas, after a few weeks vacation here and at Wisconsin.

D. E. Harris of Rowan was a visitor here one day last week, he and his wife driving up.

Julius Gealow of LaSalle, Ill., came last week to spend a few days here with relatives.

The Independent is indebted to the Monitor and News of Clarion for the loan of type and setting of some last week. The linotype of the Independent went on the bum and it was necessary to have the type secured from away for a day or two.

Watch Our Window

For Bargains In Aluminum Ware

ALL THIS WEEK

You cannot afford to miss getting in on this exceptional offer for THIS WEEK ONLY

Yours for Bargains,

Johnson & Wright

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

The

APPEARANCE

of your printed stationery reflects the character of your business

First impressions are usually lasting, and you should no more think of representing yonr business with ill-arranged, poorly printed stationery than with an uncouth, inexperienced salesman. The psychological effect would be the same.

If IT'S PRINTED WE CAN DO IT.

The Snap and vitality of our "distinctive,, printing registers instant approval. Ask a user.

Shift your printing troubles over to our shoulders--they are a burden to you--a pleasure to us.

ALL OUR PRICES ARE BASED UPON THE STANDARDIZED Franklin Printing Price List "ONE PRICE ON EVERYTHING MARKED-IN-PLAIN-FIGURES"

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

Distinctive Printers

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

by IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the County of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 18 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI. — Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Bim Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Bim's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Bim confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

CHAPTER IX.—Biggs comes back to the village and he and Bim elope. Harry learns of it on his way home from the "war." Lincoln's advice and philosophy sustain him in his grief.

CHAPTER X.—Lincoln, defeated in his candidacy for the legislature, forms a partnership with "Bill" Berry in the grocery business. Biggs sends a gang to burn Traylor's house, but the New Salem men are warned and the raiders worsted.

CHAPTER XI.—Lincoln, now postmaster, decides to run again for the legislature. Ann Rutledge is openly in love with John McNeil. He leaves for his home in the East, promising to return soon and marry Ann. Lincoln accepts his defeat manfully. No word coming from McNeil, Ann confesses to Abe that his real name is McNamar, and her fears that he will not return. Lincoln in his deep love endeavors to reassure her, though he shares her misgivings. Lincoln wins his seat in the legislature.

CHAPTER XII.—Ann hears from McNamar, but his letter is cold and she is convinced he does not love her. She tells Abe of her doubt, and he confesses his love and asks her to marry him. Ann declares she does not yet love him, but will try to. With that promise Lincoln sets out for Vandalia and his legislative duties.

CHAPTER XIII.—Inspired by Elijah Lovejoy, Traylor arranges on his farm a hiding place for runaway slaves, a station on the "Underground Railroad."

CHAPTER XIV.—Ann agrees to marry Abe, but her health is wrecked. Three runaway slaves seek Traylor's help in escaping. They belong to Biggs and he comes in pursuit of them. Threatened with arrest for inciting the raid on Traylor, he flees. One of the fugitives is Bim in disguise. She has fled from her husband's cruelty.

CHAPTER XV.—Dying, Ann Rutledge calls for Abe, and he bids her farewell at her bedside. Following her demise a settled sadness descends on him. He is no longer "Abe," but "Abraham Lincoln."

CHAPTER XVI.—Overcoming his despondency, Lincoln returns to his work. Abolition sentiment is crystalizing and he throws himself into the movement.

CHAPTER XVII.—Traylor sells his farm and moves to Springfield. Lincoln plans to secure a divorce for Bim in order that she may marry Harry Needles, whom she has always really loved. McNamar returns to New Salem, too late.

Our travelers passed rough boarded houses with grand-looking people in their dooryards and on their small porches—men in broadcloth and tall hats and ladies in silk dresses. It was six o'clock and the men had come home to supper. As the horsemen proceeded larger buildings surrounded them, mostly two stories high. There were some stores and houses built of red brick. Beyond the scatter of cheap, wooden structures they came to streets well laid out and crowded and busy and "very soft" to quote a phrase from the diary. Teams were struggling in the mud, drivers shouting and lashing. Agents for hotels and boarding houses began to solicit the two horsemen from the plank sidewalks. The latter were deeply impressed by a negro in scarlet clothes, riding a horse in scarlet housings. He carried a scarlet banner and was advertising in a loud voice the hour and place of a great land sale that evening.

A sound of many hammers beating upon boards could be heard above the noises of the street and behind all was the constant droning of a big steam saw and the whir of the heavy stones in the new grist mill. It was the beginning of that amazing diapason of industry which accompanied the building of the cities of the West.

They put out in the livery stable of the City hotel and at the desk of the latter asked about the price of board. It was three dollars a day and no politeness in the offer.

"It's purty steep," said Samson. "But I'm too hungry for argument or delay and I guess we can stand it to be nabobs for a day or so."

The hotel clerk had a Register of the Residents of the City of Chicago wherein they found the name and address of John Kelso. They went out to find the house. Storekeepers tried to stop them as they passed along the street with offers of land at bargains which would make them millionaires in a week. In proceeding along the plank sidewalks they were often ascending or descending steps to another level.

On La Salle street they found the home of Jack Kelso. It was a rough boarded small house, a story and a half high. It had a little porch and dooryard enclosed by an unpainted picket fence. Bim, in a handsome, blue silk gown, came running out to meet them.

"If you don't mind I'm going to kiss you," she said to Harry.

"I'd mind if you didn't," said the young man as he embraced her.

"We must be careful not to get the habit," she laughed.

"I'd enjoy being careless for once," said Harry.

"Women can be extravagant with everything but carelessness," she insisted. "Do you like this gown?"

"It is lovely—like yourself."

"Then perhaps you will be willing to take me to the party tonight. My mother will chaperon us."

"With these clothes that have just been hauled out of a saddle bag?" said Harry with a look of alarm.

"Even rags could not hide the beauty of him," said Kelso as he came down from the porch to greet them. "And look at her," he went on. "Was there ever a fairer maid in spite of all her troubles? See the red in her cheeks and the diamond glow of youth and health in her eyes. You should see the young men sighing and guitaring around her."

"You'll hear me tuning up," Harry declared.

"That is father's way of comforting my widowhood," said Bim. "He has made a wonderful beauty mask and often he claps it on me and whistles up a band of sighing lovers. As a work of the imagination I am a great success."

"The look of you sets my heart afire again," the boy exclaimed.

"Come—take mother and me to the party at Mrs. Kinzie's," said Bim. "A very grand young man was coming to take us in a wonderful carriage, but he's half an hour late now. We won't wait for him."

So the three set out together afoot for Mrs. Kinzie's, while Samson sat down for a visit with Jack Kelso.

The Kinzies' house was of brick and larger and more pretentious than any in Chicago. Its lawn, veranda and parlor were crowded with people in a curious variety of costumes.

Nearly all the festive company wore diamonds. They scintillated on fingers; some of which were knotted with toil; they glowed on shirt bosoms and morning as well as evening gowns; on necks and ears, which should have been spared the emphasis of jewels.

Col. Zachary Taylor, who had just arrived from Florida and was presently returning with a regiment of recruits for the Seminole war, was at Mrs. Kinzie's party. He remembered Harry and took him in hand and introduced him to many of his friends as the best scout in the Black Hawk war, and, in spite of his dress, the young man became one of the lions of the evening.

After refreshments the men went outside to smoke and talk—some with pipes—of canals, railroads and corner lots, while the younger people were dancing and being proudly surveyed by their mothers.

As Harry and the ladies were leaving Col. Taylor came to them and said:

"Young man, I am the voice of your country. I call you to Florida. Will you go with us next week?"

Harry looked into Bim's eyes.

"The campaign will be over in a year, and I need you badly," the Colonel urged.

"I can not say no to the call of my country," Harry answered. "I will join your regiment at Beardstown on its way down the river."

That night Harry and Bim stood by the gate talking, after Mrs. Kelso had gone into the house.

"Bim, I love you more than ever," said the boy. "Abe says you can get a divorce. I have brought the papers for you to sign. They will make you free. I have done it for your sake. You will be under no obligation. I want you to be free to marry whom you will. I would be the happiest man in the world if you were to choose me. I haven't the wealth of some of the city men. I can only offer you my love."

"Be careful and, please, let go of my hand," she said. "I'm not going to say a word of love to you. I am not free yet. We couldn't marry if we wanted to. I wish you to be under no sense of obligation to me. Many things may happen in a year. I am glad you are going to see more of the world before you settle down. It will help you to be sure to know yourself a little better and to be sure of what you want to do."

"I think that I know myself fairly well," he answered. "There are so many better men who want to marry you! I shall go away with a great fear in me."

"There are no better men," she answered. "When you get back we shall see what comes of our little romance. Meanwhile I'm going to pray for you."

"And I for you," he said as he followed her into the house, where the older people sat waiting for them. Harry gave the papers to Bim to be signed and attested and forwarded to Mr. Stuart in Springfield.

On their way to the hotel Samson said to Harry:

"I don't believe Bim is going to be carried away by any of these high-flyers. She's getting to be a very sensible person. Poor Jack has caught the plague. He has invested in land. Thinks it will make him rich. He's in poor health, too—kidney trouble—and Bim has a baby with all the rest—a beautiful boy. I went upstairs and saw him asleep in his cradle. Looks like her. Hair as yellow as gold, light complexion, blue eyes, handsome as a picture."

That night, in the office of the City hotel, they found Mr. Lionel Davis in the midst of a group of excited speculators. In some way he had got across the prairies and was selling his land and accepting every offer on the plea that he was going into the grain business in St. Louis and had to leave Chicago next day. He choked the market with bargains. The buyers began to back off. Mr. Davis closed his carpet bag and left.

"It was a kind of horse stealin'," said Samson as they were going to bed. "He got news down there on the main road by pony express on its way to St. Louis. I'll bet there's been a panic in the East. He's awake and the others are still dreamin'."

CHAPTER XIX.

Wherein Is One of the Many Private Panics Which Followed the Bursting of the Bubble of Speculation.

Samson and Harry saw the bursting of the great bubble of '37. Late that night, Disaster, loathsome and thousand-legged, crept into the little city. It came on a steamer from the East and hastened from home to home, from tavern to tavern. Great banks had suspended payment; New York had suffered a panic; many large business enterprises in the East had failed; certain agents for the bonds of Illinois had absconded with the state's money; in the big cities there had been an ominous closing of doors and turning of locks; a great army of men were out of employment. The little city was in a frenzy of excitement. The streets were filled with a shouting, half-crazed throng. New fortunes had shrunk to nothing and less than nothing in a night. Lots in the city were offered for a tithe of what their market value had been. Davis had known that the storm would arrive with the first steamer and in the slang of business had put on a life-preserver. Samson knew that the time to buy was when every one wanted to sell. He bought two corner lots in the city and two acres on the prairie half a mile from town. They got their deeds and went to the Kelsos to bid them good-by.

After hearty farewells Samson and Harry set out for their home. They were not again to see the gentle face and hear the pleasant talk of Jack Kelso. He had once said, in the presence of Samson, that it is well to remember, always, that things can not go on with us as they are. Changes come—slowly and quite according to our calculations, or so swiftly and unexpectedly that they fill us with confusion. Learned and wise in the weighty problems of humanity he had little prudence in regulating the affairs of his own family.

Kelso had put every dollar he had and some that he hoped to have into land. Bim, who had been teaching in one of the schools, had invested all her savings in a dream city on the shore of an unconstructed canal.

Like many who had no experience with such phenomena they underestimated the seriousness of the panic. They thought that, in a week or so, its effect would pass and that Illinois would then resume its triumphal march toward its high destiny. Not even Samson Traylor had a correct notion of the slowness of Time.

The effect of the panic paralyzed the city. Men whose "red-dog money" was in every one's pocket closed their shops and ran away. The wild adventurers cleared out. Their character may be judged by the words of one of them reported by the editor of the Democrat:

"I failed for a hundred thousand dollars and could have failed for a million, if Jackson had kept his hands off."

Hard times hung like a cloud over the city. Its population suffered some diminishment in the next two years, in spite of its position on the main highway of trade. Dream cities, canals and railroads built without hands became part of the poetry of American commerce.

That autumn, men and women who had come to Mrs. Kinzie's party in jewels and in purple and fine linen had left or turned their hands to hard labor. The Kelsos suffered real distress, the schools being closed and the head of the house having taken to his bed with illness. Bim went to work as a seamstress, and with the help of Mrs. Kinzie and Mrs. Hubbard was able to keep the family from want. The nursing and the care of the baby soon broke the health of Mrs. Kelso, never a strong woman. Bim came home from her work one evening and found her mother ill.

"Cheer up, my daughter," said Jack. "An old friend of ours has returned to the city. He is a rich man—an oasis in the desert of poverty. He has loaned me a hundred dollars in good coin."

"Who has done this?" Bim asked.

"Mr. Lionel Davis."

"We must not take his money," said Bim.

"I had a long talk with him," Kelso went on. "He has explained that unfortunate incident of the horse. It was a bit of offhand folly born of an anxious moment."

"But the man wants to marry me."

"He said nothing of such a purpose."

"He will be in no hurry about that," said Bim. "He is a shrewd operator. Every one hates him. They say that he knew what was coming when he sold out."

That evening Bim wrote a long letter to Samson Traylor, telling him of the evil days which had come to them. This letter, now in possession of a great grandson of Samson and Sarah Traylor, had a singular history. It reached the man to whom it was addressed in the summer of 1844. It was found with many others that summer in Tazewell county under a barn which its owner was removing. It brought to mind the robbery of the stage from Chicago, south of the sycamore woods, in the autumn of '37, by a man who had ridden with the driver from Chicago and who, it was thought, had been in collusion with him. A curious feature of the robbery had been revealed by the discovery of the mail sack. It was unopened, its contents undisturbed, its rusty padlock still in place. The perpetrator of the crime had not soiled his person with any visible evidence of guilt and so was never apprehended.

Then for a time Bim entered upon great trials. Jack Kelso weakened. Burning with fever, his mind wandered in the pleasant paths he loved and saw in its fancy the deeds of Ajax and Achilles and the topless towers of Ilium and came not back again to the vulgar and prosaic details of life. The girl knew not what to do. A funeral was a costly thing. She had no money. The Kinzies had gone on a hunting trip in Wisconsin. Mrs. Hubbard was ill and the Kelsos already much in her debt. Mr. Lionel Davis came.

He was a good-looking young man of twenty-nine, those days, rather stout and of middle stature, with dark hair and eyes. He was dressed in the height of fashion. He used to boast that he had only one vice—diamonds. But he had ceased to display them on his shirt-front or his fingers. He carried them in his pockets and showed them by the glittering handful to his friends. They had come to him through trading in land where they were the accepted symbol of success and money was none too plentiful. He had melted their settings and turned them into coin. The stones he kept as a kind of surplus—a half hidden evidence of wealth and of superiority to the temptation of vulgar display. Mr. Davis was a calculating, masterful, keen-minded man, with a rather heavy jaw. In his presence, Bim was afraid of her soul that night. He was gentle and sympathetic. He offered to lend her any amount she needed. She made no answer, but sat trying to think what she would best do. The Traylors had paid no attention to her letter, although a month had passed since it was written.

In a moment she rose and gave him her hand.

"It is very kind of you," said she. "If you can spare me five hundred dollars for an indefinite time I will take it."

"Let me lend you a thousand," he urged. "I can do it without a bit of inconvenience."

"I think that five hundred will be enough," she said.

It carried her through that trouble and into others, of which her woman's heart had found abundant signs in the attitude of Mr. Davis. He gave the most assiduous attention to the comfort of Bim and her mother. He had had a celebrated physician come down from Milwaukee to see Mrs. Kelso and had paid the bill in advance.

"I cannot let you be doing these things for us," Bim said one evening when he had called to see them.

"And I cannot help loving you and doing the little I can to express it," he answered. "I would like to make every dollar I have tell you in some way that I love you. That's how I feel and you might as well know it."

"But I do not love you, Mr. Davis."

"Let me try to make you love me," he pleaded. "Is there any reason why I shouldn't?"

"Yes. If there were no other reason, I love a young soldier who is fighting in the Seminole war in Florida under Col. Taylor."

"Well, at least, you can let me take the place of your father and shield you from trouble when I can."

"You are a most generous and kindly man!" Bim exclaimed with tears in her eyes.

So he seemed to be, but he was one of those men who weave a spell like that of an able actor. He excited temporary convictions that began to change as soon as the curtain fell. He was no reckless villain of romance. If he instigated the robbery of the south-bound mail wagon, of which the writer of this little history has no shadow of doubt, he was so careful about it that no evidence which would satisfy a jury has been discovered to this day.

On account of the continued illness of her mother Bim was unable to resume her work in the academy. She took what sewing she could do at home and earned enough to solve the problems of each day. But the payment coming due on the house in December loomed ahead of them. It was natural, in the circumstances, that Mrs. Kelso should like Mr. Davis and favor his aims.

Mrs. Kelso's health had improved slowly so that she was able then to spend most of each day in her chair.

One evening when Davis sat alone with her, she told him the story of Bim and Harry Needles—a bit of knowledge he was glad to have. Their talk was interrupted by the return of Bim. She was in a cheerful mood. When Mr. Davis had gone she said to her mother:

"I think our luck has turned. Here's a letter from John T. Stuart. The divorce has been granted. I am going to write to Harry and tell him to hurry home and marry me if he wants to. Don't say a word about the divorce to our friend Davis. I want to make him keep his distance. It is hard enough now."

Before she went to bed that night she wrote a long letter to Harry and one to Abe Lincoln, thanking him for his part in the matter and telling him of her father's death, of the payment due and of the hard times they were suffering. Two weeks passed and brought no answer from Mr. Lincoln.

The day before the payment came due in December, a historic letter from Tampa, Fla., was published in the Democrat. It was signed "Robert Deming, private, Tenth cavalry." It gave many details of the campaign in the Everglades in which the famous scout, Harry Needles, and seven of his comrades had been surrounded and slain. When Mr. Davis called at the little home in La Salle street that evening he found Bim in great distress.

"I throw up my hands," she said. "I cannot stand any more. We shall be homeless tomorrow."

"No, not that—so long as I live," he answered. "I have bought the claim. You can pay me when you get ready."

He was very tender and sympathetic.

When he had left them Bim said to her mother: "Our old friends do not seem to care what becomes of us. I have no thought now save for you and the baby. I'll do whatever you think best for you two. I don't care for myself. My heart is as dead as Harry's.

CHAPTER XX.

Which Tells of the Settling of Abe Lincoln and the Traylors in the Village of Springfield and of Samson's Second Visit to Chicago.

Bim's judgment of her old friends was ill founded. It was a slow time in which she lived. The foot of the horse, traveling and often mired in a rough muddy highway, was its swiftest courier. Letters carried by horses or slow steamboats were the only media of communication between people separated by wide distances. So it is easy to understand that many who had traveled far were as the dead, in a measure, to the friends they had left behind them and that those separated by only a hundred miles had to be very enterprising to keep acquainted.

In March Abe Lincoln had got his license to practice law. On his return from the North he had ridden to Springfield to begin his work as a lawyer in the office of John T. Stuart. His plan was to hire and furnish a room and get his meals at the home of his friend, Mr. William Butler. He went to the store of Joshua Speed to buy a bed and some bedding. He found that they would cost seventeen dollars.

"The question is whether you would trust a man owing a national debt and without an asset but good intentions and a license to practice law, for so much money," said Honest Abe. "I don't know when I could pay you."

Speed had heard of the tall representative from Sangamon county.

"I have a plan which will give you a bed for nothing if you would care to share my room above the store and sleep with me," he answered.

"I'm much obliged, but for you it's quite a contract."

"You're rather long," Speed laughed.

"Yes, I could lick salt off the top of your hat. I'm about a man and a half but by long practice I've learned how to keep the half out of the way of other people."

"I'm sure we shall get along well enough together," said Speed.

Mr. Lincoln hurried away for his saddle-bags and returned shortly

"There are all my earthly possessions," he said as he threw the bags on the floor.

So his new life began in the village of Springfield. Early in the autumn Samson arrived and bought a small house and two acres of land on the edge of the village and returned to New Salem to move his family and furniture. When they drove along the top of Salem hill a number of the houses were empty and deserted, their owners having moved away. Two of the stores were closed. Only ten families remained. They stopped at Rutledge's tavern, whose entertainment was little sought those days. People from the near houses came to bid them good-by.

Pete and Colonel, invigorated by their long rest, but whitened by age and with drooping heads, drew the wagon. Sambo and the small boy rode between Sarah and Samson. Betsey and Josiah walked ahead of the wagon, the latter leading a cow. That evening they were comfortably settled in their new home. When the beds were set up and ready for the night Sarah made some tea to go with the cold victuals she had brought. Mr. Lincoln ate with them and told of his new work.

Betsey was growing tall and slim. She had the blond hair and fair skin of Samson and the dark eyes of her mother. Josiah had grown to be a bronzed, sturdy, good-looking lad, very shy and sensitive.

"There Are All My Earthly Possessions," He Said.

"There's a likely boy!" said Samson as he clapped the shoulder of his eldest son. "He's got a good heart in him."

"You'll spoil him with praise," Sarah protested and then asked as she turned to the young statesman, "Have you heard from Bim or any of the Kelsos?"

"Not a word. I often think of them."

"There's been a letter in the candle every night for a week or so, but we haven't heard a word from Harry or from them," said Sarah. "I wonder how they're getting along in these hard times."

"I told Jack to let me know if I could do anything to help," Samson assured them.

Late in November Mr. Lincoln went out on the circuit with the distinguished John T. Stuart, who had taken him into partnership. Bim's letter to him bears an indorsement on its envelope as follows:

"This letter was forwarded from Vandalia the week I went out on the circuit and remained unopened in our office until my return six weeks later. —A. Lincoln."

The day of his return he went to Sarah and Samson with the letter.

"I'll get a horse and start for Chicago tomorrow morning," said Samson. "They have had a double blow. Did you read that Harry had been killed?"

"Harry killed!" Mr. Lincoln exclaimed. "You don't mean to tell me that Harry has been killed?"

"The Chicago Democrat says so, but we don't believe it," said Samson. "Here's the article. Read it and then I'll tell you why I don't think it's so."

Abe Lincoln read the article.

"You see it was dated in Tampa, November the fifth," said Samson. "Before we had read that article we had received a letter from Harry dated November the seventh. In the letter he says he is all right and I calculate that he ought to know as much about it as anyone."

"Thank God! Then it's a mistake," said Lincoln. "We can't afford to lose Harry. I feel rather poor with Jack Kelso gone. It will comfort me to do what I can for his wife and daughter. I'll give you every dollar I can spare to take to them."

Samson hired horses for the journey and set out early next morning with his son, Josiah, bound for the new city. The boy had begged to go and both Samson and Sarah thought it would be good for him to take a better look at Illinois than his geography afforded.

Joe and his father set out on a cold clear morning in February. They got to Brimstead's in time for dinner.

Henry put his hand on Samson's pommel and said in a confident tone: "El Dorado was one of the wickedest cities in history. It was like Tyre and Babylon. It robbed me. Look at that pile of stakes."

Samson saw a long cord of stakes along the road in the edge of the meadow.

"They are the teeth of my city," said Brimstead in a low voice. "I've drawed 'em out. They ain't goin' to bite me no more."

"They are the towers and steeples of El Dorado," Samson laughed. "Have any of the notes been paid?"

"Not one and I can't get a word from my broker about the men who drew the notes—who they are or where they are."

"I'm going to Chicago and if you wish I'll try to find him and see what he says."

(Continued next week)

GARNER GIRL NEAR DEATH FROM TORCH

Miss Frances Livermore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Livermore, came near being burned to death last Thursday afternoon, says the Garner Signal. She was at the home of Mayor Zeiger and she and she and Audrey were playing with a cat-tail torch. They had poured kerosene on the cat-tail and set afire to it. Audrey had the torch and in handing it to Frances, Frances' clothes caught fire. Frances is just recovering from a broken arm and her arm is not well enough so she can use it very much, so she took the torch in her left hand. She is clumsy with her left hand and that probably accounts for her catching fire.

Her left sleeve caught on fire first, and in putting this out it is supposed that she set her dress afire. She ran to the sink and jumped into it. She turned on three water faucets. When she saw she could do nothing in this way she jumped from the sink. Audrey in the meantime got a heavy sweater and calling to Frances to stand still she wrapped the sweater about her and smothered the fire.

Frances burned her hand in trying to put out the fire on her sleeve, but was burned more seriously on her back and left side from the hip to the shoulder. In places the burns are not so serious, but in places where her clothing was heaviest and fit tight she was very badly burned. About the waist where a rubber band fit tight she has the worst burn. She was dressed in light cloting, wearing but a gngham dress and light undergarments.

She is confined to her bed and will be for some days. She is compelled to lie on her right side and it becomes very tiresme, as her arm was broken a short time ago and she has but recently taken it out of sling. It is not thought there are any burns but what will heal in a short time.

But for the level-headed work of her playmate Audrey Zeiger, the story might have been much worse. Audrey did all that anyone could do in such circumstances and certainly did a heroic deed in saving Frances from a more serious accident.

PILOT KNOB NEAR GARNER TO BE STATE PARK

Success has at last attended the efforts of those interested in setting aside Pilot Knob and additional land in that neighborhood for a state park, according to a Forest City item. The report states that several men from that city drove to Des Moines where they had an interview with several of the members of the state board of conservation, and arranged for a formal hearing, when the same gentlemen again went to Des Moines and placed the matter before the board in all its aspects.

The state board of conservation recommended the project, and the executive council by a unanimous vote decided to acquire Pilot Knob and the land in the vicinity for a state park, a committee being appointed to represent the state and to work with the local committee in arranging for the purchase of the land.

Owing to the limited amount of money which the state has available, for the numerous desirable sites in Iowa suitable for state parks, as large an amount of ground will not purchased at this time as was hoped, but under the action of the executive committee there will be acquired at this time in the neighborhood of 225 acres, which will include Pilot Knob and the most desireable land in the vicinity for park purposes.

When is Belmond going to have Morse Lake made a state park?

GERM CAUSES ROPY BREAD

Have you ever made bread that became ropy, stringy and sticky on the inside of the loaves from 24 to 48 hours after it was baked?

If you have had this experience perhaps you do not know that the cause of the trouble is a tiny heat resisting organism, a common germ which floats around in the air. This organism sometimes causes slimy coating to form on boiled potatoes which have been put away in the cupboard and it is often called potato bacillus.

According to Dr. R. E. Buchanan, head of the bacteriology department of the Iowa State college, potato bacillus causes ropy bread during the hot months of July and August. Dr. Buchanan says there are three precautions to be taken against this trouble. First: be certain that clean flours are more likely to contain the germs than others. Second: sufficient time should be allowed for the bread to raise as well as this will allow time for formation of the lactic acid in large enough quantities to check the action of the germ. Third: bread should always be kept in a cool place. High temperature incourages the bacterial growth.

CLARION MOTHER DEFENDS SON WHO TOOK CAR

Arthur W. Rasmussen, twenty-five, accused by his father of stealing the family automobile and running away with it several months ago, is facing indictment by the October grand jury, and is out on $1,000 cash bond furnished by his mother. The father, Carl Rasmussen, swore to the information charging the son with the theft, and his decision to have the young man prosecuted apparently came after a several days' study of the matter and, we understand, he has given the county attorney his word that he will not fail to prosecute the case.

Young Rasmussen was brought up from Omaha last week. He had been working in that vicinity a part of the time since the automobile was stolen several months ago. People knowing him there offered to go on his appearance bond, but not being residents of the state, could not qualify. His mother, however, came to the clerk of court's office with $1,000 in cash and he was released.

The Rasmussen automobile was taken from the garage on the farm near Florence several months ago. The car was insured against theft and when it was not found the insurance company paid the loss. The car was finally located in the Omaha vicinity and Rasmussen connected with the theft.

A neighbor's son was either implicated with him or accompanied him. Two weeks ago the young men returned to Clarion and an attempt was made to steal the Franklin car. The mother heard the car leave the garage and aroused her husband. He made an effort to stop it, but was too late, the car getting into the road before he could get close enough to shoot at the robbers. He notified Sheriff Lang, and Mr. Lang in turn notified the police authorities of neigh bring towns, and the boys were captured at Fort Dodge.

When Mr. Franklin learned it was his own son implicated he declined to prosecute, paid the expenses incident to the recovery of the car, and took the car home. It is "talk" the Franklin boy was persuaded to start home with his father, but on the road he gave him the slip and made a getaway. Sheriff Lang states that his office is not interested in the young man at this time, and he doesn't know where he is.

In addition to the automobile escapades, the boys are alleged to have circulated some checks locally and one or more were declared to have been forgeries. The Franklin boy's folks, however, deny that he had anything to do with the checks.—News.

THINGS TO BE DONE IN AUGUST

Green feeds for milk cows—Cut a little green corn fodder each day and haul it up for the milk cows. They need green feed to supplement the drying pastures. A few minutes a day at this job yields returns in the form of a large cream check.

Prepare for school year—Final preparations for sending the young people off to school should be made in August. Send for college catalogues, select the school and help son or daughter to pick out the proper courses. A college education is a paying proposition for young people who expect to stay on the farm. Of 409 farmers in ebraska, those who had attended high school made 32.1 per cent more money than those who had only a common school course. Men who attended college made 19.7 per cent more than the high school men, giving the college man an advantage over the common school man of 51.8 per cent.

Give the silo the once-over—Remove rotted silage and water from the silo and see that necessary repairs are made preparatory to filling. If a stave silo, draw the hoops snug before filling. Be sure that none of the silo doors are missing or off their hinges. Have a supply of building paper or old newspapers on hand to seal the doors. Attention to details about the silo now will save many a valuable minute after the filling crew arrives.

Cull the flock—The natural laying season of the hen in this locality is April, May and June, unless she has been bred for production in which case the laying period begins earlier and lasts much longer. Because this is true, July and August is the time to do the first culling of the flock, for the hens that begin to moult now are the biggest slackers and should be sold while the market price is good. At this time it is well to cull out the hens with low vitality, poor feet, small snaky heads; the old, over-fat and diseased ones. It will reduce the feed cost and will get the flock in better shape for winter, besides giving more room for the young chicks which should have every chance to make a quick growth.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING PLANS MUST BE SOUND

In an address delivered at Hot Springs, Va., last month, George Livingston, former chief of the U. S. Bureau of Markets, in toucing upon co-operative marketing of farm products with reference to a national marketing program, said "Farmers' co-operative marketing organizations are a permanent economic institution and are destned to have a far-reaching effect upon the farmer and the general public. They enable the farmer to participate in the profits of distribution and at the same time open up a more direct road from producer to consumer. But developement in this direction must be based on the safe foundation of economic laws. Plans must be sound and workable. It is easy to draw up an ideal co-operative marketing plan on paper. It is quite a different matter to put it into successful peration. Success in co-operative marketing depends quite as much upon capable management and competent leadership as upon the plan of the organization."

There are several examples of successful and efficient farmers' co-operative marketing organizations in operation in different sections of the country today, which comply with Mr Livingston's requirements.

"Sic 'Em!"

A parrot who had been taught to say "Sic 'em" had escaped from his cage and was perched in the upper branches of a tree when two dogs came along. The parrot said "Sic 'em," and the dogs began to fight. Pleased with the result, he kept on saying "Sic 'em," and climbed down the tree to get a better view of the fracas. Finally he got down to the ground and said, "Sic 'em" again. One of the dogs suddenly turned his attention to the parrot and shook a few thousand feathers out of him. The parrot climbed back into the tree and thoughtfully remarked to himself: "The trouble with me is I talk to damn much."

WEST BEND GROTTO WONDERFUL PIECE OF ART AND BEAUTY

(Continued from page 1.)

around the trunk of the tree, mouth open for the apple which the tempter suggested to the first parents to eat against the decree of God. An inscription beneath the tree will read "Paradise Lost." The walls of this enclosure are being trimmed with a beautifu gallery of assorted stones and molded into a trough-like fashion to be filled with earth and choice flowers symbolic of the original state of paradise. The gate of paradise and the angel guarding it will be shown above these walls.

Next to this comes the grotto itself with a beautiful archway or entrance. The interior is shaped in clover-leaf form symbolic of the Trinity. The rounding walls exhibit in the east half circle a stained glass window, "The Annunciation," showing the Blessed Virgin, to whom the Archangel Gabriel carries the message that she has been chosen to be the mother of His Only Divine Son. The second half round to the south shows in purest Carrara marble Mary, the mother of Christ, presentin her arms to the world the Christ Child with arms outstretched. This figure stands in a niche with a gentle green background of New Mexico copper ore trimmed with pillars and arch of calcite crystals. (Editor's note: In this arch there by actual count over eighteen thousand six hundred small white stones).

Over the arch of this niche appears the Star of Bethlehem with a comet's tail in the ceiling. At the end of this tail is shown in three significant letters the word "Ave" turned upside down or rather pointing to heaven to remind that it was God first, not man, who addressed the Virgin "Hail Mary." This "Ave" means the wman of Redemption who as an Instrument of God gave to the world a Savior. The word "Ave" read backwards means "Eva," the woman, a tool of Satan, who led the first parents into sin.

Along the walls of this niche the water courses down in two cascades symbolic of the two natures in Christ human and divine, and of the graces of Redemption ever handed out to man thru the church founded by Christ. From these cascades the water is channeled in a winding course into a crystal fountain beneath the statue. This second section shows the birth of Christ.

In the third half cirlce is inclosed in a niche beautifully worked out of crystal, the cross of Christ, standing and beside it the emblems of the cruifixion: The hammer, the three nails, the tongs, the lance, the stick with the sponge and above the Cross the Roman or Latin inscription: I. N. R. I., "Jesus of Nazareth King of the Jews." Below the Cross is inscribed I. H. S., the Constantinian motto: "By this sign shalt thou conquer," meaning the spiritual victory thru the Cross. Over the niche of the Cross appears the figure of the sun: "Christ the Sun of Justice."

On the opposite side of the cross over the niche of the window is shown the Crescent of the moon, St. John comparing the mother of Christ to the brightness of the moon, symbolic of her immaculate conception. These three half cirlces of the grotto are in a height of 18 feet now to be crowned with a beautiful dome to rise 26 feet high, symbolic of the Unity of the Deity.

The mysteries of grace are shown over the walls. The two matrimonial rings are shown over two pillars under the dome: "Matrimony the pillar of society carrying the load of humanity." Near the entrance is shown the last supper, the symbolism of wheat and grape vine, the cup and bread. Below this are symbolized the keys of heaven.

Over the entrance of this grotto is to be placed in an open gate of stone in Carra marble of "Jesus Pleading" inviting the world unto Hismself. Beside Him on the pillars of the entrance are the life size figures of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Back of this grotto will be shown beautifully worked out in crystals the open tomb of Christ with the stone cover of the tomb lying at the side and an angel sitting at one end of the tomb and the life size figure of Christ standing on a projecting k proclaiming his victory over death and sin in his resurrection.

Over the archway of this group will be shown, of petrified wood, the Cross of Christ and the two thieves crucified at each side of him; this will bear an inscription of crystal stone "Calvary."

Four years more of patient work will be spent by the builder to realize or put into execution the entire plan. The most charming feature of this work lies not only in the delicacy with which the collection of stones is arranged but especially in the fact that nature here repeats itself.

The parish pastor invests all his spare hours in this life work. The grotto stands on a piece of church ground which the pastor has turned into a handsome little park. This piece of ground was years ago an unsightly slough, but he has redeemed it by digging a lagoon 15 feet deep to gain the ground with which to grade the balance of the park. It is now covered with stately trees and affords a much sought place of recreation.

The pastor has generously opened this piece of ground to all visitors and welcomes them with no charge for viewing the grotto. What he can save of his salary is invested in this shrine, the grotto. Still he calls himself rich.

Anxious

"It is an established fact," said the lecturer, "that the sun is gradually but surely losing its heat and in the course of 70,000,000 years it will be exhausted; consequently this world of ours will be dead, and, like the moon, unable to support any form of life."

The head and shoulders of an exmember of the audience rose above those of his fellows. "Pardon me, professor!" he cried, "how many years did you say it would be before this calamity overtakes us?"

"Seventy millions, sir," said the professor.

"Thank heaven!" gasped the interrogator, sinking back exhausted into his seat. "I thought you said 7,000,000."

Poultry Raisers' Attention

Be your own Business Manager. Ship your own Poultry to Chicago and get the HIGHEST Market Prices. Low Express Rates on Live and Dressed Poultry and Veal.

If you haven't coops for your poultry, let us know and we can furnish them.

Call or Phone 272 and get the particulars.

J. S. WHITE, Agt.

AMERICAN RAILWAY EXPRESS COMPANY

Opening Display of Fall Fabrics and Models

YOU are respectfully invited to review our rich display of pure wool fabrics---with the idea of selecting one for your Fall and Winter

Suit or Overcoat

The designs will delight you and the Values will appeal to your ideas of economy.

They run from $25.00 to $60.00 with the biggest range at $35.00 and $45.00. Made-to-measure only.

W. L. WILSON

Star Cleaner

Cigars Ice Cream Candies

Announcement

We wish to announce that we have purchased the Thompson Cafe, which will hereafter be known as Foster's Cafe.

We will aim to give you the high class service that you should expect of a first-class cafe, and solicit a share of your patronage. Come in and make yourself at home.

Yours for business,

FOSTER'S CAFE

L. M. Foster, Prop.

BELMOND, IOWA

Lunches Fruit Soft Drinks

Young O 12-21*

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 | BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 11 1921 | 8-13-81 | NO. 38

BIG COMMUNITY PICNIC IS BEING PLANNED

Clarion Loses To Belmond Friday In Hot Game

Dispute Between Two Towns Is Settled When Belmond Wins Game 9 To 8

GAME GOES 10 INNINGS

In what was decidedly the most thrilling, nerve-racking and hotly contested game that has been played on the local grounds this summer the Belmond ball team defeated the county seat bunch last Friday by 9 to 8 in ten innings.

It was red hot from the word go, with both teams fighting tooth and toenail and taking advantage of every break. Clarion came all loaded up, their team was completely reorganized last week with a change in managers, and they started the battle in the early part of the game when they scored four times in the third inning. Four to nothing certainly looked like Dennis for the Belmond bunch, but in thier half of the third they pounded the pill hard, and when the dust had lifted the score board showed four and four, even—Stephen.

After that, the game was nothing to nothing in more runs for a couple of innings, when Clarion again scored, pushing two runs over by a combination of hits and errors.

The Belmond boys couldn't make it around the four bases and Clarion remained ahead, 6-4. Then to add more misery, Clarion scored twice more, one run in each of two innings, making the score 8 to 4 for the "coal heavers." The "beet weeders" couldn"t see the plate and the game went into the ninth 8-4, with Clarion happy and Belmond gloomy but determined.

And then, boy howdy, that ninth inning! After one man was down, Belmond began pounding the ball, and they pounded it hard and often. The outfield were chasing all over the lot, while Belmond runners were going round the bases like butter on a hot plate. When the third out was made, the result loomed up 8 to 8, with both teams and the spectators up on their toes and struggling for breath.

The tenth began with everybody on the grounds pulling their little finger for luck. Clarion got a man on, and pushed him almost around, but the third out came in the nick of time to save a run for the County Seaters. Belmond began their half in sickening fashion, when the first man was out. But the next one got on, was advanced to second, and then comes "Tommy" with the big stick. After two strikes and three balls were called on him, and there were two men out, he met the ball square and drove a smashing two-base hit into deep center, bringing home the winning run for Belmond.

You could hear the crowd draw its breath, like a breeze sighing down the valley, when Tommy hit that ball and they saw it was going to be a clean hit.

But Belmond can call themselves somewhat lucky over that game. They bunched their hits, that explains it. Clarion secured more hits, getting 12 to Belmond's 9, and 8 of the 12 were for extra bases, while Belmond got 6 for extra sacks. They made less errors, and ran the bases better. Strong, pitching for Belmond, fanned 21 men, which explains the deal somewhat. McGrath for Clarion had four strike outs. In the third inning Pillmer drove one for three bases while all three sacks were filled, giving the locals three runs.

It was certainly some game, and one that gave the fans the worth of their money and time. Each pitcher hit three men and walked two, one Clarion player who was hit by a pitched ball having his arm fractured.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Sorenson, who have been visiting their son Harry Sorenson at Owatonna, Minnesota, returned last week. They stopped at Clear Lake to take in the big day last Thursday.

COURT NEWS OF INTEREST

Sheriff Lang has received notice that a Ford car owned by Willie Wiggins of Goldfield was stolen at Eagle Grove last Saturday evening.

Louis Sheppler has brought action against Stewart Smith for $127.50 and costs which he claims is due him for hay purchased during the latter part of last winter.

Huntington Savings Bank vs. C L. Lein, Helen M. Lein and K. A. Lein is in acton recently filed asking judgment no a promisory note in the sum of $3,648.86 with intrest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent together with cost of action and a statutory attorney's fee.

Judgement is asked by the farmers Savings Bank of Goldfield against Amos Thompson and Katherine Thompson in the sum of $872.97 with interest at the rate of 8 per cent from October 4, 1921, together with costs of action and attorney's fee. Plaintiff claims the above amount due them on two promissory notes.

Marriage License

Only one marriage license was issued during the week, Warren Cleaver Hamilton and Eva Alberta Cressey, both of Clarion.

Births

July 28, 1921—Mr. and Mrs. Otis Tendall, of Clarion, a daughter, Carol Marcena.

July 29, 1921—Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dunn, of Clarion, a son, William Edward Dunn, Jr.

July 29, 1921—Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Holm, of Kanawha, a son.

July 30, 1921—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nichols, of Clarion, a daughter, Della May Nichols.

July 30, 1921—Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Braun, of Alexander, a daughter, Maria Doretha Braun.

July 31, 1921—Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Ziegler, of Clarion, a daughter, Janice Ardell Ziegler.

July 31, 1921—Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Campbell, of Clarion, a son, Richard Clifton Campbell.

Board of Vital Statistics

A board of vital statistics, specified under a new state law, has been created for Wright county by the board of supervisors who organized the county into six districts and appointed registrars as follows:

District No. 1—Boone and Liberty; W. M. Cons, Goldfield, registrar.

District No. 2—Eagle Grove and Eagle Grove township; J. K. Baker, Eagle Grove, registrar.

District No. 3—Troy and Woolstock; D. H. Huff, Woolstock, registrar.

District No. 5—Pleasant, Belmond, Norway and Iowa; Guy Byers, Belmond, registrar.

District No. 6—Lake Dayton, Lincoln, Grant; Clarion and Wall Lake; R. V. Goslin, Clarion, registrar.

The duties of the registrars will be to record all births, deaths, etc., for their respective districts and physicians will file reports with them instead of reporting to the office of the district court.

HAMPTON OUTPLAYS LOCAL TEAM AND WIN 10-5

Last Wednesday the local aggregation of ball tossers went to Hampton where they met that team for the fourth time, and also met defeat to the tune of 10 to 5. It was just a case of being outplayed. The Hampton pitcher, Wilson from Clarion, struck out 15 Belmond batters, while Pillmer caused nine to fan the breeze. Belmond secured five hits to Hampton's three, but Hampton's counted for more and were combined with some exceedingly costly errors on the part of Belmond. Errors were plentiful on both sides, but the Belmond errors came at the opportune times for the Franklin county swatters and they took advantage of them. Hampton took the lead in the early part of the game, and held it to the end, the Belmond boys never having much of a chance to overcome it. Two costly errors were responsible for five of Hampton's runs, according to report. It was just a case of being beaten by better ball playing, and the Franklin county aggregation deserved the game.

Martial Holtzbauer had his tonsils and adenoids removed at Dr. Steele's hospital Tuesday.

Sunday School Picnic Friday Big Event

Single Ladies And Married In Big Ball Game With Married Ones Victors

PLENTY OF FINE EATS

The Methodist Sunday School picnic held at Franklin Grove last week Friday afternoon was one of the most enjoyable events held this summer, and the source of much fun and amusement, as well as the source of a bountiful lot of fine eats. As a sample of the latter, one of those present reports that he consumed:

Five sandwiches,
Two pieces of Angel Food coke.
Two pickles,
One piece of apple pie,
One piece of Fudge cake,
Two different salads,
One big dish of baked beans,
One big cup of coffee,
And some ice cream, the "some" being an unknown quantity.

The older men at the picnic had a horse shoe pitching contest, possibly polishing up for the North Iowa Fair contest or the county championship. The big feature of the afternoon's program, however, was a baseball game between the married and single ladies, wherein the former brot home the bacon by a 13 to 11 score after five innings of sensational playing in which the married ladies and the single ones were about equally classed.

J. S. White did the catching for the married team, while Albert Chamberlain was with the singles. Mary Thompson was in the box for the singles, with Mrs. Otto Hanson doing the heaving for the married team. Both pitchers had about an equal number of strikeouts, reported as 12 in number, or thereabouts, while the hits, about 15, were as equally divided, both catchers getting home runs and Mrs. Ray Klemme and Mrs. J. S. White featuring with a two-base hit apiece. B. B. Strieby was the ump and coach for both sides. The lineup was as follows:

SINGLES		DOUBLES
Mary Thompson	p	Edna Hanson
A. Chamberlain	c	J. S. White
Henriette Jenison	1b	Mrs. J. S. White
-------------	2b	Mrs Stapley
Charlotte Claussen	3b	Mrs. R. Morris
A'pha Bayliss	lf	Mrs. Strieby
Miss Kurtz	cf	Mrs. Ray Klemme

Two fielders were all that were needed. But one walk was granted by the pitchers, Thompson giving one, and one player was hit by a pitched ball, which record outclasses the pitchers in the town game the same day. As a fun-producer the game is reported the biggest hit of the season.

About 100 were present at the picnic and everyone is enthusiastic over the good time they had.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU SOCIAL THE 16TH.

The Pleasant Township Farm Bureau will hold a lawn social on Tuesday evening of next week, August 16th, at the home of O. D. Jenison. Ice cream and cake will be served, and a home talent play, the feature of the evening's program, will be given by the teachers of the township. Everybody is invited, both the Farm Bureau members and the people from town.

The county fair is on this week, and the reports of the first day's attendance are good, with a large crowd for opening day present. The fair this year is better than ever before and the exhibits are reported as being the best ever, the attractions beyond previous years, and the whole fair in general the best yet. Quite a number of Belmond people were at the opening day. Friday the local band will furnish the music at the fair.

JENISON-HOGENSON

On Wednesday, August 10th, occurred the the marriage of Miss Henriette Alvina Jenison to Mr. Ben B. Hogenson, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Jenison, at 10:00 o'clock in the morning, the Rev. J. H. Edge, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, of Belmond, officiating. The wedding was very quiet, only the immediate relatives being present.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom left for a short honeymoon trip to Minneapolis, where the groom has a brother residing.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hogenson will reside for the present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Jenison, on east Spruce street, pending the completion of their own home, now under course of construction on the lot just west of the Earn Luick home, which they recently purchased. They expect their new home to be ready for occupancy about Thanksgiving.

The bride is one of Belmond's best known and popular young ladies, with a host of friends who wish her the best of happiness in her new life. She was born on the farm near Belmond, and has lived all her life in this vicinity. She has attended various summer schools and undertaken privately studies which would fit her for her chosen profession, teaching, and has taught in a number of country schools, the consolidated school at Alexander. and for four years in the Belmond schools, holding a First Grade certificate.

Mr. Hogenson is a young man of splendid character, and while as yet not very well known in Belmond, has made many friends among those whom he has met. He was born in Norway, and came to America about five years ago. He resided in Seattle for a couple of years, and the past two years has made his home in the vicinity of Belmond most of the time. He is an industrious young man, and a carpenter by trade. His parents are dead, one brother residing in this country, and three sisters in the old country.

The Independent takes pleasure in joining with the friends of this young couple in extending congratulations and best wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

SCHWICHTENBERG-JONESON

Friday evening, August 5th, at the home of Henry Greffen, near Goodell, occured the marriage of Miss Vera Schwichtenberg and Roy Joneson, the Rev. J. H. Edge, pastor of the Methodist church of Belmond, officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. J. H. Schwichtenberg living near Goodell and the groom is from Illinois. They left via auto Monday morning for Morriss, Illinois, where they will make their home.

The couple had secured their license in Hancock county, and after coming to Belmond to have the ceremony performed had to go back to Goodell in order to have the marriage take place in the same county in which the license was secured.

GEE! MEBBE WE'LL BE IN THE PICHERS!

Clarion is going to get some movie publicity, it is predicted, as a result of the storm sewer project. The reason for this lies in the fact that the project calls for the use of the largest cement tiles heretofore constructed on a sewer job, and the cement manufacturers supplying the cement for the Belmond Construction Co. recognize in this a chance for some excellent advertising. It is understood that the reinforcing used is on a scale heretofore considered more or less impossible, but American ingenuity always rises to the occasion and the tiles, almost six feet in diameter, are being made perfectly.

Several carload were unloaded here Sunday. At that time all the tile on the ground had been laid. There are around eight to the load.

The movies of the project will include pictures taken in the Belmond plant where the tiles are being made. Then will come the hauling to Clarion, the unloading by the huge cranes and then the actual placing of the tiles. Maybe the best looking of our county and city officials will get in on the pictures, and perhaps Clarion's business section.

FOUR TOWNSHIPS ASK CITY TO PARTICIPATE

Belmond, Pleasant, Grant And Iowa Township Farm Bureaus To Have Big Time

PICNIC HELD IN GROVE

To Ask Chamber Of Commerce To Participate --- Belmond Band To Furnish Music

A committee consisting of the chairman and a number of representatives from each of the four townships in the northeast section of Wright county met at the home of J. H. Munnis, on Thursday evening, August 4th, for the purpose of planning and organizing a joint picnic of Grant, Iowa, Pleasant and Belmond townships.

It was suggested that we invite the city of Belmond to participate in this community affair and a committee was appointed to present this proposition to the commercial club of Belmond.

The following committees were named to make all necessary plans for a good community picnic:

J. E. Miller, president of the day.

Program committee: M. G. Luick, chairman, Belmond; Violet Lukens, Grant; J. E. Miller, Iowa; Grace Gartz, Pleasant.

Athletic committee: T. S. Streveler, chairman, Iowa; Harry Woodley, Grant ;Win Dziewanowski, Pleasant; A. E. Martin, Belmond.

Finance committee: R. E. Lee Aldrich, chairman, Iowa; J. E. Lamb, Grant; J. F. Henn, Pleasant; G. C. Baker, Belmond.

Grounds committee: Chester Luick, chairman, Pleasant; Harry Brooks, Grant; Leo Veeder, Iowa; A. Thompson, Belmond.

Committee to interview Belmond Commercial Club: Mrs. J. E. Miller, chairman, Iowa; Mrs. A. E. Martin, Belmond; Mrs. A Meinders, Pleasant; Mr. Lee G. Hill, Grant.

The picnic will be held at the Franklin grove near the Tyrrell farm all day Wednesday, August 24th.

ANDERSON-EDGE

On Thursday, August 4th, occured the marriage of Miss Maria Elizabeth Edge of Humboldt to Mr. Edward Carl Anderson of Fort Dodge, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's brother, Rev. J. H. Edge, pastor of the Methodist church of Belmond, Rev. Edge performing the ceremony.

Following the ceremony, a three-course wedding dinner was served, the couple leaving for a short honeymoon trip to Minneapolis and points in Northern Michigan.

They will reside in Fort Dodge, and will be at home after September 1st.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Edge, Sr., of Boulder, Colorado, who were present at the ceremony. She is a graduate of the State University of Iowa, and since her graduation has taught in the schools at Truro and Burt, Iowa.

The groom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, of Monitisque, Michigan, is an ex-service man, and since his discharge from the service has been employed with the M. & St. L. railroad as fireman, with headquarters at Fort Dodge.

The Independent joins with the friends here of the couple in extending best wishes.

GOT A FARM TO RENT?

Have you got a farm to rent, of from 80 to 160 acres, near Belmond, or in this vicinity? If you have, call at the Independent office and you will be put in touch with a man who is looking for one. Nothing over 160 acres will be considered, as the man wants to farm alone. Renter wants to go on farm this fall.

CORNELIA LAKE LOOKS LIKE FUTURE RESORT

Lake Cornelia, south of Belmond, apears to be coming along in somewhat swift fashion as a summer resort. The latest reports state that a man from that place, who owns ground abutting the lake, has been in touch with concessions at Lake Okoboji and that these concessions may change from Okoboji to Cornelia next year. One of the concessionaries at Okoboji is reported as desiring to secure ten acres adjoining the lake at Cornelia and bring to that place concessions that will make the place the most popular resort in this section of the country.

Roy Ryder, of Rowan has secured several acres on the north side of the lake, where he has laid out a ball diamond and will stage games every Sunday between the best teams in the surrounding country. Clarion and the Mason City Independents played there this week Sunday.

It is also reported that efforts may be made to have the power lines extended north from Clarion to Cornelia, to serve the cottagers there and the farmers along the way. The country club is understood to highly favor this effort. Dr. Best, of Clarion, who owns a farm adjoining the lake, is reported as figuring on a fresh-water storage tank to be located on his farm, and piped to supply the cottages along the lake so that the summer resorters there may have both electric lights and running water in their cottages. Property in Cornelia is quite active for cottage sites, and should the power line be extended, the water piped down, and the concessions brought in, Lake Cornelia will undoubtedly become one of the most popular resorts this side of Clear Lake. It would seem, however, that one of the first and biggest things they will have to do there will be to dredge out the lake and make it more attractive as a bathing and fishing place, for the scum of weeds and rushes greatly interferes with it now.

DOUGHTERY DEFEATS BELMOND

Sunday at Dougherty the Dougherty team smeared the local ball team by a score of 8 to 7 in ten innings. After they had the game won six to nothing, the locals blew up, the pitcher got wild, and with about a dozen errors more or less and some good safe swats the Irish brought home the bacon by scoring six runs in the sixth and one in the tenth to win. It was a featureless game, with little interest except in the sixth, when Belmond scored five and Dougherty six. A pitcher from Webster City pitched for the locals, and was wild, used an "Emery" ball, and generally proved he wasn't wanted. Quite a number of local people drove up to see the game.

REGISTRARS FOR VITAL STATISTICS NAMED

Registrars for Wright county were named by the Board of Supervisors last week. These men will keep the records of the births and deaths in the various districts in the county, and these records will be sent to the state department at Des Moines.

Under the new law passed in the last legislature, the records of births and deaths in the various districts must be reported to the registrars for the respective districts. Blanks will be furnished for the purpose. Certificates for burial, or for the removal of the dead, must also be obtained from the registrars. These registrars may appoint deputies in the townships if they feel that such help is needed.

The registrar for the local district is G. J. Byers, who has under his jurisdiction the townships of Belmond, Norway, Pleasant and Iowa. Clerk Goslin has the largest territory of any of the registrars, having on his list five townships. The new law requiring the registration of births and deaths by districts is generally condemned by physicians, it is understood, in that it scatters the registration over the county instead of centralizing it under one head at the county seat, as the records have been kept for years.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

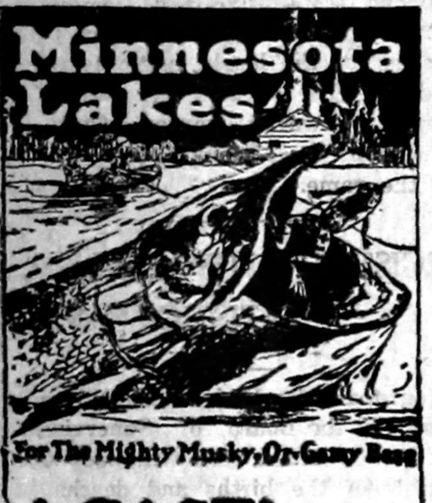
DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches.—For sale at Adams Pharmacy.

Minnesota Lakes



For The Mighty Musky, Or Gamy Bass

ACAST!
ASTRIKE!
HE'S ON!

The Reel Spins
The Line Sings
The Fight Is On

This is the place for you! 10,000 lakes. Fish for the mighty musky, gamy bass or northern pike. Swim in lakes with clean sand beaches. Motor-boat to some distant island and spend the day. Surf-ride on the waves to your heart's content. Canoe through the winding channels. Hike in the big forests where hay fever is unknown. Golf on the green links surrounded by lakes and big woods—in fact, do anything but work.

Write, phone, or call for information regarding our splendid service to St. Paul and Minneapolis. A copy of our illustrated folder, "The Minnesota Lakes," is yours for the asking.

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD

Apply Ticket Agent C. G. W. R. R.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

THE FARM BUREAU

For the first time in history, the man who tills the soil has been thoroly organized with his neighbor and has a word to say in the disposal of his poduct and the making of those laws and rules which effect his business.

It is so because of one thing, the American Farm Bureau Federation, an organization of, for and by the farmers of America. The need of such an organization; one in which the farmer could join with his fellow agriculturist and demand a part in the making of laws, the levying of taxes and the marketing of grains and live stock, was seen many years ago. Many attempts were made to form and perfect such an organization, but altho a number were formed, none of them seemed to stick, to fill the purpose for which they were created. Meanwhile the farmer went along taking his medicine and what he could get, which was far from a square deal, until, a few years ago, the Farm Bureau began to come to the front.

And the way the Farm Bureau has come forward, solidified the farmers into a unit that grows every day into a more determined and formidible demander and defender of the rights and privileges of the farmer, and an organization which daily becomes one of the most important factors of the American national life.

There were some who said that it couldn't be done; that the farmer could never be organized and made to stick; that he wouldn't obide and couldn't be made to stick, to any sort of an agreement whereby he would have to do as the majority wished, regardless of what he wanted to do himself. It must give those people considerable thought as they see the farmers organized now into one of the strongest brotherhoods in the history of Amerìean labor. And that is what the Farm Bureau is today, an organization that stands on a par with the American Federation of Labor, with men at its head who know the national life and needs, who are hardheaded, practical men with a thoro knowledge of agriculture, the needs and rights of the man who raises the nation's food stuffs, and who are at all times on the job seeing that these rights and needs are met.

It is a good thing, and about time, that the farmer has come to have a say in what shall be done. For too many years the farmer has had to take what he could get, with some one else regulating the price of his labor and product for their own ends and with little or no thought of what was due the man who produced. It is within the knowledge of every man today of the time when to be a farmer was to be ridiculed, called hayseed and hick and any other "appropriate" name which designated the backwoods and the tall timber. Do you hear it today? You do not not. Instead you hear the farmer spoken of in a tone so far different that it seems as tho it was ever thus: Instead of being ridiculed he is envied; where once was ribald laughter now is respect. The old idea of a rag-tailed-shirted long, lean, lanky and bewhiskered person who chewed straw and said "b'gosh" and "by heck" and who ate with his knife and lived on potatoes and skim-milk gravey seems to have disappeared, somehow, and when you consider the straight-forward man, dressed as neatly and sensibly as any city dude, who knows the whys and wherefors of any company, can you wonder?

And the reason of the farmers' self-respect today lies largely in the Farm Bureau. He is no longer alone, an atom in the midst of the ocean, but he is instead a unit, with a voice in the affairs that concern him, and a voice that daily grows more powerful and compelling. The Farm Bureau, if it has done nothing else, has been worth while because it has given the farmer the iniative and the opportunity to demand his just dues.

LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"
Cigarette
Flavor is sealed in by toasting
Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co.

CLIPPINGS

This is the time to advocate the paving of our streets. You will have a little money left after paying your sewer tax so trot it out and be ready to spend it for paving. It is the duty of each patriotic citizen to smooth down the streets in front of his lot and to see that the ground is nice and level and in proper condition to receive the brick or concrete.—Corwith Hustler.

Sometimes we hear the wise ones say that these Ames experts don't know their business and that their testing of cattle for tuberculosis is all guess work. Possibly it is, we are not qualified to say. But here is an instance where an Ames man made a good guess at least. Recently an expert on hens was culling flocks in this neighborhood. At the County Home he culled 87 hens as not worth their keep. Supt. "Bob" put these 87 hens in a pen by themselves for ten days and in that time they laid two eggs. At Earl Terwillger's he culled 36 hens. Earl put these hens in a pen by themselves and in ten days got one egg. The expert was about right, wasn't he?—Klemme Times.

Mrs. W. R. Ramsay of Belmond came last Wednesday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. R. Stebbleton and family. Mr. Ramsay and daughter motored up Sunday and the Ramsays' and the Stebbletons all motored over to Clear Lake to spend the day with Mrs. T. J. Pierce and the six Britt girls who are camping at that place.—Britt News-Tribune.

Mrs. Chamberlain and son of Belmond were Klemme visitors yesterday.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Forrestal of Belmond were Klemme visitors Tuesday.—Times.

Mr. Fred Rathburn of Belmond was a business caller here Wednesday of last week.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Papousek of Belmond were Sunday guests of Mrs. Papousek's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Jocobs. They and the Cobbs family autoed to West Bend Sunday to visit the grotto.—Garner Signal.

Miss Leoda Smith went to Belmond last Friday evening and from there she went on to Mason City.—Times.

Mrs. Wallce Ramsay of Belmond visited the Garner Ramsays last week and on Thursday went to Britt to visit relatives.—Garner Leader.

Joe Starnes and family spent Sunday at Belmond visiting relatives and friends.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Will Lesher, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Pierce of Belmond, Mrs. Joe White and Miss Jennie Stella were auto visitors at West Bend Sunday. They went to view the beautiful grotto there. They also stopped at Humboldt to see the fountain that was built by the same priest. Hundreds of visitors were at the grotto Sunday.—Garner Signal.

Miss Beatrice Leavy from Belmond has been visiting her friend, Miss Anna May Aldrich, the past week.—Monitor.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stacy of Belmond drove over Sunday for a visit with their Hampton friends and relatives. Mrs. Stacy remainded for a several days' visit but Mr. Stacy returned home Sunday night. He is now assistant manager and general all round handy man for the Belmond Independent.—Hampton Chronicle.

Master Coolidge Lieuwen of Belmond, a nephew of Mrs. M. L. Baker, is a guest ot present at the Baker home.—Kanawha Reporter.

Harry Pritchard had an unusual accident Sunday. He was at the home of his uncle and aunt, near Belmond. He was sitting on the ground with his hands behind him, and a hog came up behind him and bit one of his arms. It was not a serious wound but as given him more or less pain.—Garner Leader.

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. next Sunday.

Owing to the pastor being away there will be no preaching services at our church next Sunday. The Sunday school will meet as usual. There will be no Epworth League service.

Sunday morning, August 21st, the Rev. M. O. Insko, manager of the Methodist Publishing House at Lucknow, India, will be with us and give the address. Rev. Insko has been in India the past five years and will have a message of information and inspiration to all who hear him. Remember the date, August 21st.

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

Last Sunday night was the banner night for attendance, at the out-door services. There were 93 present and the meeting was full of inspiration.

Next Sunday evening at Mr. Ralph Christies' we hope to pass over the 100 mark. We believe not only that it can be done but that it will be done. The attendance at all the services of the church have been excellent all summer. Let us keep the good work going by being faithful ourselves and getting others who are not enlisted in the Lord's work to come and worship with us.

Services next Sunday, Bible school at 10:00 a. m., morning worship at 11:00, and the evening services at Mr. Ralph Christies' at 8:00. Mrs. Christie is the leader.

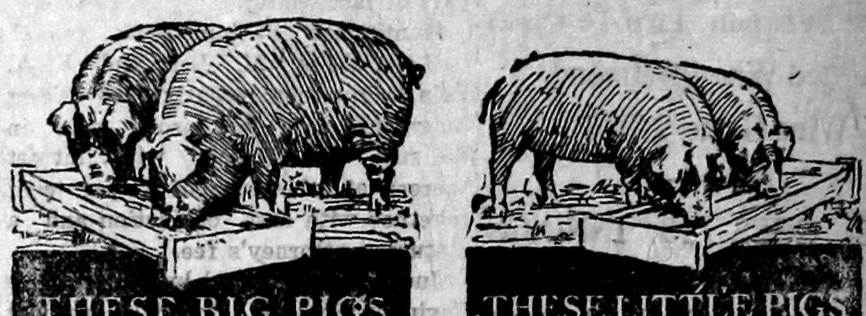
An important business meeting of the Aid society will be held in the parlors of the church on Thursday afternoon. Every member is requested to be pesent.

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.



THESE BIG PIGS GOT HOG-TONE
THESE LITTLE PIGS GOT NONE

G. R. Ogden, of Shinnston, W. Va., says: "I have used AVALON FARMS HOG-TONE 56 days and I think it is the best medicine I ever used. I have two pigs 4 months and 3 days old that weigh 360 pounds, one 6 pounds heavier than the other. They are 100 pounds heavier than my neighbor's 2 of the same litter and feed."

This is the experience of a typical user of Hog-Tone. There are hundreds and hundreds of letters on file at the Avalon Farms Company's office from nearly every state in the Union, all telling of big improvement in hogs and in hog profits through the use of Hog-Tone, the scientifically prepared Hog Conditioner, Fattener and Worm Remover. Hog-Tone is sold on 60 days' Free Trial under an absolute money-back guarantee. Come in the store and tell us how many hogs you have in your herd and we will give you enough Hog-Tone to treat all of them 60 days. You don't have to pay for it unless you are absolutely satisfied. The decision is left entirely to you.

IT COSTS YOU NOTHING NOW TO TRY
60 DAYS' TREATMENT OF
AVALON FARMS HOG-TONE
— THE LIQUID HOG FATTENER, CONDITIONER AND WORM REMOVER —
FOR ALL YOUR HOGS
—FOR SALE BY—
SCHULTZ DRUG CO.

Saw Wood

Your Business, no matter how good, can be increased by CONSISTENT ADVERTISING. This is an undeniable fact, and the best and safest way to gain this end is to advertise in Belmond's livest newspaper---the

Belmond Independent

REAL NEWSPAPERS think less of their rights and more of their duties. Softsoapers play to the grandstand. The BELMOND INDEPENDENT tells all the news and its circulation continues to grow!

THEREFORE, as an advertising medium, merchants obtain the best results in the

Belmond Independent

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Rowan Attends the First Wright County Tennis Tournament At Eagle Grove, August 4th, 1921.

Those attending were Rev. Harold Tompkinson and wife, William Rietz and wife, Donald McCallum, Henry Williams, Guy R. Sheldon and wife, Donald Farran and Miss Mildred Azeltine.

D. W. Farran and William Rietz were defeated in the preliminaries, the former being matched with Andrews of Eagle Grove and the latter with Whitman of the same city.

Tompkinson and Sheldon went into the second bracket, being matched with each other. Tompkinson was the winner in this match but was defeated in his next set of games by Whitman

Andrews defeated Whitman but forfeited his right to the title by dropping out and allowing Whitman to assume his place.

Tompkinson and Rietz, in the doubles, went to their second bracket and were defeated there.

Sheldon and Farran lost their first set of games.

Everyone from Rowan voted Eagle Grove the best bunch of goodfellows met up with in many a day. The entire tournament was satisfactory from any point of view and it is hoped that we may make this an annual event in the county. Eagle Grove seems to be the ideal place to hold it.

Union Sunday School Picnic August 18th, for Rowan M. E. and Congregational Churches, At Lake Cornelia.

All the folks are requested to meet at your church Sunday School not later than 9:00 o'clock a. m., Thursday morning, August 18th, and then when all is ready we will proceed to the lake.

This picnic is for all who are interested in either of those Sunday Schools, or any other departments of those two churches. We want the parents to set this day apart so that we can all spend the day together with your children and friends.

There will be games for the young and the old, also baseball, which will begin at 1:00 o'clock, and horse-shoe games.

There will be all kinds of races, and a "Royal Good Time."

Let us prepare for this day with our filled baskets, with some homemade candy in one corner for the children.

Dinner at 12:00 a. m. Remember the day, August 18th.

We will need cars for the children. Men, we are depending on you to help us with your cars on this day.

Let's go, August 18th.

Rowan M. E. Sunday School.
Rowan Cong's Sunday School.

Mr. McCutcheon, of Goldfield spent several days of last week at the home of his brother-in-law, R. H. Kieth and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hackley were Dows visitors Monday at the home of their sister, Elva, who is still very sick. She is reported a little better

Mrs Herb Hadley and children spent a few days of last week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Pascoe, at Eagle Grove.

Mrs. Roy Fitz, of Clarion, spent the first of last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gay Fletcher, and attended Chautauqua.

Mr. Carl Kalvig, who is working in the yards at Clarion came Saturday night to spend Sunday with his family.

Mrs Sarah Moon had a narrow escape last week from what might have proven a very serious accident when an old sheep knocked her down and wouldn't let her get up again. Mr. and Mrs. Sim Stout, hearing the call for help went down right away and drove the sheep off. Mrs. Moon is very lame since the accident.

The foreman of the bridge gang on the new state road had the misfortune to break his leg Monday. This is indeed a misfortune at this time of year.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheldon, Mrs. Guy Sheldon and children visited relatives at Iowa Falls Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller and Mrs. Blanche Jennings and Mrs. Hugh Whitten were at Clarion Monday decorating the booth for Iowa township for the Fair.

Congregational Church Notes

Morning service, 11:00.
Sunday School, 12:00.
Evening service, 8:00.

Rev. Tomkinson and Rev. Nye will give addresses fitted for the occasion including special music.

The Christian Endeavor will have their service at 7:30 Sunday morning.

The Junior Endeavor will meet next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the church.

The Mid-week prayer meeting will be Wednesday evening at 8:00.

M. E. Church Notes

The Rev. Harold Tomkinson will conduct the service in the M E. church next Sunday morning and will use for his subject, "The Beauty of the Lord."

The Union Service will be held at the Congregational church Sunday evening, when Rev. H. Tomkinson will speak on "The Church—the enemy of Progress." This sermon will be an answer to an address given recently by a Chautauqua lecturer. Come and hear the other side.

Mrs George Whitten, Mrs. Charles Peddle, Miss Vinnie Whitten, and little Ivan Williams were Hampton callers Saturday having dental work done.

Mrs. Alvin Haupt, of Clarion, spent several days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Walters. Mr. Haupt came Saturday to spend over Sunday with them. He returned home Monday but Mrs. Haupt stayed longer.

Mrs. S. E. Hearn, of Dumont, spent several days at the C. E. Johnson home Mr. and Mrs. Hearn returned to their home in Dumont Saturday evening. Mr. Hearn has been working for Mr. Huntington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnson went to Bristow Saturday night to visit relatives at that place and also at Allison over the week-end

Mrs. Dan Fletcher and her uncle, Fred Clark, returned Saturday from their visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tim Weld and family at Bruce, Wisconsin.

Little Ruth Brinkman, of Coulter, has been visiting at the homes of her cousins, Gladys and Evelyn Whitten the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fletcher and son, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stahl and daughter, of Renbieck, spent Saturday night at the home of their sister, Mrs Will Whitten and family. They were enroute to Pomeroy to visit another sister, Mrs. Clifford Snow.

Mrs. Hannah Whitten returned Saturday from Latimer where she has been caring for the children of Mr. and Mrs. Milt Ramsey who have been sick. She returned to Latimer again Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. C Box and daughter, Blanch, Mrs. Jessie Agnew and children visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Box, at Clarion, Saturday.

Miss Jennette Kerkvink, a former teacher of this place, has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ryder the past week and canvassing Morgan township selling books.

Word received by relatives that Mrs. Bert Pierce, nee Zetta Stout, of Thompson, was operated on Monday of last week at Albert Lea, Minnesota, the trouble being appendicitis. She is reported as doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs, of Goodell, motored from Goodell Saturday evening to spend over Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. L. W. Rooney and two daughters, Alice and Doloris, of Sioux City, came Thursday to visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Leslie Andrews. Mrs. Rooney will be remembered as Minnie Bohlen.

Perle LeGue had the misfortune to injure one of his eyes Wednesday when a piece of emery stone with which he was sharpening a scythe flew into it. He went to Dows Thursday where he had the eye ball scraped and it is doing nicely now.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ferguson and Mr. and Mrs. Will Ferguson were Belmond callers Wednesday, where Mrs. Will Ferguson had some dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller represented the Iowa Township Farm Bureau at a committee meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Munnis Thursday evening. Plans were made for a union picnic of Iowa, Belmond, Grant and Pleasant townships to be held August 24th. More definite announcements will be made later.

Remember the box social which the Iowa Farm Bureau Community Club will hold at the school house August 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Tice Streveler were Clarion callers Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Kiar and family were Hampton callers Saturday.

The Misses Clara Andrews and Helen Newlin, of Coulter, visited at the home of their cousin, Bernice Hansen, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tresidder went to Clarion Tuesday to help their son, Howard and family get settled in their new home which they have just purchased. Mr. Tressider stayed the rest of the week helping his son in his draying business, returning home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey visited Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Bailey in Belmond.

Mrs. Kiefe, of Hampton, visited the latter part of the week at the home of her brother, Mr. Fred Weber. Mr. and Mrs. Weber and family motored to Hampton with her Sunday and spent the night with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Whitten and daughter Gladys, motored to Pomeroy Sunday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snow

Mr and Mrs. Al Nelson and children, of Ellendale, Minnesota, motored to Rowan Saturday to visit at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Olsen and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitten and other old friends. They were former residents of Rowan. They returned to their home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Anderson went to Ellsworth Sunday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hansen, parents of Mrs. Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Fletcher spent Sunday in Clarion at the parental Fitz home.

Mrs. Lizzie Lawson, of Wessington Springs, South Dakota, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Bingham, returned to her home Monday of this week.

Mr. J. S. Farren, and sons Douglas and Bobby spent Sunday at Lanesorbo at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynch.

Duncan Farren spent Sunday with friends at Belmond.

Theo Hansen is having the excavating done for the basement to his new store building which he will erect east of the State Bank. It will be 22 x 80 feet and will make a fine addition to the buildings of the town.

Mr. J. L. Sinclair, of Clarion, will put in a stock of goods in the building now occupied by Mr. Hansen.

Earl Bailey was a Clarion caller Monday of this week.

Gay Fletcher took a load of show hogs to Clarion Monday to enter at the Fair for Roland Harris.

Mrs. Otto Jensen and baby were Clarion visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Bailey of Belmond spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey.

Mrs. Hugh Whitten went to Latimer Saturday to spend the week-end at the Ramsey home and help care for the sick. They are reported a very little better.

L. A. McCallum was at Galt last Wednesday doing some electrical repair work.

Mrs. Inga Groen was a Clarion shopper between trains Saturday.

Little May Hyde who had her tonsils removed at Belmond last week is getting along very well.

Word received Monday of this week states that Mrs. George Pritchett is able to leave the hospital but will not be home for a short time.

Jesse Steffens has improved so much in health that the nurse, Miss Pearl Mickelsen of Clarion left last Thursday.

Mrs. Milton Brown, who has been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Fowler, returned to her home at Meringo Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Huey are the proud parents of a fine baby boy since last Saturday. Mother and baby are doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sinclair came Wednesday from Clarion to visit at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fowler. Mr. Sinclair returned home the same day but Mrs. Sinclair remained until Friday when her son, Russell, motored after her.

The residence owned by A. C. Rietz and occupied by Charles Emerson has been much improved in appearance the past week by a coat of paint. Frank Kercheval did the work.

Theo Hansen and J. F. Howell were Mason City business callers Wednesday.

Frank Snyder met with quite a loss this week when his Ford car was stolen at Clear Lake last Thursday. He has not got any track of it yet. Mr. Sim Stout found some fellows at work on his car but they got away before he could get up to them. They had it wired ready to go.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard McCallum, of Waterloo motored to Rowan Wednesday to visit at the home of Mrs. McCallum's brother, Dick Virden and family.

Mrs. Mary Ballou, who visited at the home of her brother, O. E. Ballou over Sunday of last week, went to Anita Wednesday to visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cate.

Miss LaVonne Ballou went to Dows Tuesday evening to visit at the home of her cousin, Miss Alice Kent. She returned home Monday of this week.

Messrs. Will Bailey Sr. and Arthur Emerson were Dows callers, Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Jensen was a Carion visitor Friday.

Mrs. Moon was a Clarion caller, Thursday.

George Pritchett returned from Rochester Tuesday but went back again Thursday.

Mrs. Bert Barker and daughter, Bonneta, of Hampton, spent the past week at the parental Barker home.

D. A. French was a business caller at Ft. Dodge, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs W. A. Hoke left Friday for Marshall, Mnnesota, where he will work on a road graveling outfit and Mrs. Hoke will cook for the men.

Russell Bailey has been visiting at Dows several days the past week.

George Pritchett was a Coulter caller between trains Thursday morning.

This has been a week of social gatherings. Friday forenoon Mrs. A. H. Emerson entertained a dozen little boys in honor of her son, Edward's birthday. Refreshments were served at noon and all the little chaps enjoyed themselves very much.

Thursday evening the Christian Endeavor held their regular social time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Kieth. About thirty-five young people were present. The evening was spent in music and games after which the hostess served ice cream and cake. Everyone voted a very pleasant evening.

The following young ladies went from the Endeavor social to the home of Miss Stella Emerson where they held a slumber party complimentary to Miss Ella Couchman, of Des Moines. Misses Izetta Fletcher, Mildred Ducy, May Virden, Ruth Emerson, Frances Farren, and Ella Couchman. One guest reported refreshments at 2:00 a. m. and the slumber part from 2:30 to 5:30. About six a. m. they all went to the home of Miss Milldred Duffy for a breakfast party. It seems needless to say they enjoyed these parties very much but were very sleepy the next day.

Another gathering in town Thursday evening was at the home of Mrs. Ben Hadley in honor of Mrs. J. L. Sinclair, of Clarion. The following ladies were present: Mesdames C. W. Fowler, F. H. Fowler, F. M. Myers, A. H. Emerson, J. L. Sinclair and Fred Brooks The hostess served ice cream and cake and a very pleasant evening is reported.

Friday evening about forty young people of the neighborhood met at the Hinkley home for a social time. Dainty refreshments were served and a fine time is reported.

Wednesday Mrs. Harold Gates entertained at a 12:00 o'clock dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Beck, of Des Moines. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph and family, Mrs. Blanche Jennings, Miss Marjorie Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Beck and baby, and Edgar Mantle. The last six mentioned drove to Goodell in the afternoon where they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs.

Monday morning Albert Emerson Fred Brooks, and son George, and Ray Harson left for Minneapolis where they will spend several days on business and then motor to the lakes in the northern part of Minesota for a short fising trip.

Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ryder Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCallum and Miss Jeanette Kervink motored to Lake Cornelia where they camped out over night and spent Sunday at the lake.

Last Thursday a great many of our people attended the Legion Day at Clear Lake. Eight Legion members from the Andrew Whitten Post of this place attended. Albert Moeller ing took the 40-8. Among others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Will Bailey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kruger, Frank Snyder, Guy Stumph, Leonard McCallum, Will Whitten, Charley Moon, Frank Sorensen, Mr. and Mrs. Sim Stout, Mr. and Mrs. George Whitten, Miss Vinnie Whitten, Mrs. Charles Peddle and Mrs. Mary Williams and small son, Ivan.

The Congregational Ladies' Aid Society met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charley Burger. A good crowd attended and a nice lot of work was accomplished.

The ladies of the M. E. church met Friday and cleaned the church and put down the new carpet. The church looks very nice since it is redecorated. They served picnic dinner in the basement.

Sunday Ryder's Independents played ball at Lake Cornelia against Clarion. The score stood 6-4 in favor of the Independents. They played eleven innings.

Lowell Hoken will make his home with his sister, Mrs. Darrell Stout while his parents are in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Kapps, of Ft. Atkinson came Monday to visit at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. George Liming. They were accompanied by the former's brother, Vincent, and sister, Minnie.

There was a large attendance at the Missionary Meeting last Thursday afternoon which was held at Mrs. Jennie Rowan's. The lesson was followed by a picnic supper on the lawn which was thoroly enjoyed by about fifty people.

The Young Ladies' Mission Study Club of the Congregational Church will hold their last picnic of the season Tuesday afternoon, August 16th. Now keep this date in mind and be sure to come with your dishes. We have a good lesson and a fine time.

The Rev. H. Tomkinson was unable to fill his pulpit last Sunday as he was confined to his bed with inflammatory rheumatism. He is much better at the present writing. A Mr. Bradshaw, from Ft. Dodge supplied the pulpit for both morning and evening services.

Mrs. Lem Rowen is much improved since her recent operation at the Steele hospital at Belmond.

Chautauqua was well attended this year and the programs were enjoyed very much. It paid out all right.

Why Don't You Use Our Mail Order Department

??

It is service that can mean so much to you. The new season is now about to open and there is no end to the things that you will want to know about.

A LETTER TO US OPENS THE DOOR OF EVERY STORE IN MASON CITY.

We have an experienced shopper that will visit this market and buy for you the things that we do not have. Write us often. Ask us about your apparel problems. Send for samples. We fill every order the same day we receive it and every order is guaranteed.

STERLING

Mason City, - Iowa

Going To the Fair?

Need Clothes?

Here's your chance!

This store will present customers with tickets to the North Iowa Fair on the following basis:

For every $10 a customer spends at this store from Saturday, August 13th to Saturday, August 20th inclusive we will give an admission ticket to the fair or amphitheatre, which ever he wants.

For instance if he buys a forty dollar suit he will get two tickets to the Fair and two to the Amphitheatre—or four tickets to the Fair, at his option, etc.

New Fall Goods Are Here

You'll find many chain store values at special prices.

Get to know

GILDNER BROS.

Iowa's Largest Clothiers
Mason City, Iowa
Home of Hrrt Schaffner & Marx Clothes

YOUNG EAGLE GROVE BOY KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Eagle.—Kent Withers was instantly killed Saturday afternoon when the car in which he was riding turned turtle on the road east of town. It was the Albert Lamfers car and Mrs. Lamfers was driving. The car struck some loose gravel in the road just east of the Mrs. Wm. Pletcher farm home, where Albert Klein now lives. The car turned over several times, throwing both Mrs. Lamfers and Kent Withers clear of the wreckage. Young Withers skull was fractured and the back part of his head was crushed. Mrs. Lamfers sustained minor bruises about the shoulder and knee. Mrs. A. B. Klein and Mrs. Roy Comstock were sitting on the porch of the Klein home and witnessed the accident. They carried Mrs. Lamfers and the fatally injured lad into the Klein home and summoned assistance. Mr. Withers was located by telephone at the Martin grocery. Mrs. Withers was taking care of Mrs. Lamfers' two children at their former home on the Smith farm about a mile east of Al Watkins'.

Father Knew

"Papa," asked little Willie, "why do they call it the mother tongue?"

"Willie," answered father, "who uses it the most?"—Allith Bulletin.

Same Old Story But a Good One.

Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and retold by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlian's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

VICTORY FOR FARMING INTERESTS.

Valuation of Iowa land for purposes of taxation will not be raised at this time, but will remain upon the 1919 basis, according to a recent decision of the executive council of Iowa. This decision was announced after a hearing in which the Iowa Farm Bureau federation presented arguments against any program of advancement calculated to add to the present tax burdens of farmers.

The hearings occupied several days. Besides the federation, representatives of the railroad, telephone companies, express companies, public utilities and various other business interests were given opportunity to present their respective claims. The federation, speaking in the interest of the farmers of Iowa, was represented by Attorney J. G. Mitchell, President Hunt and members of the committee on taxation.

Mr. Mitchell had fortified his position by a searching survey of agricultural conditions covering every county in the state.His evidence and "exhibits" were incontrovertible, and he was able to present the case of the farmers in a sane, businesslike manner never attempted before in connection with the problem of tax equalization.

The decision of the council is a distinct victory for the federation in particular and the farmers in general. The trend of the times is unquestionably toward boosting values with the idea of keeping the levy down. Valuations of railroads, public utilities and some other kinds of property were materially increased and there is every reason to assume that land values would have been advanced if the federation had not made such a convincing showing to the effect that farm lands are already carrying a disproportionate share of the burden Incidently it adds another item to the growing list of things accomplished by the federation for the farmers of Iowa.

OFFICIALS WILL VISIT IOWA STATE FAIR.

Arrangements for the special Farm Bureau Day, Monday, August 29th., have been completed. Needless to say that everybody is invited and will be welcome. Farm Bureau headquarters will be maintained in the agricultural building thruout the fair. A big tent, located convenient to headquarters, will be provided for the program of music and speaking on the special day.

President Hunt of the Iowa federation will preside at the meetings. Jim Howard and John Coverdale have promised to come out from Chicago and take part in the speaking program. Standing as they do, upon the high point of federation activities they will speak of matters of nation-wide importance. Beyond that these men need no introduction in Iowa.

Mrs. Florence Richardson of Mahaska county will speak on farm bureau topics from the standpoint of the farm women. Senator Capper has agreed to come out from Washington if he can manage to break away from the grind under the capital dome long enough to make the trip. Secretary Henry C. Wallace can be counted on for nothing short of physicial disability or a jail sentence could keep him from attending the Iowa state fair.

The program will include a round-table discussion, in which everybody is invited to participate. The state fair management will furnish a band for the day and there will be other music, vocal and instrumental suitable to the occasion.

PICNIC AT TYRRELL GROVE

A committee consisting of the chairman and a number of representatives from each of the four townships in the northeast section of Wright county met at the home of J. H. Munnis, on Thursday evening, August 4th, for the purpose of planning and organizing a joint picnic of Grant, Iowa, Pleasant and Belmond townships.

It was suggested that we invite the city of Belmond to participate in this community affair and a committee was appointed to present this proposition to the commercial club of Belmond.

The following committees were named to make all necessary plans for a good community picnic:

J. E. Miller, president of the day.

Program committee: M. G. Luick, chairman, Belmond; Violet Lukens, Grant; J. E. Miller, Iowa; Grace Gartz, Pleasant.

Athletic committee: T. S. Streveler, chairman, Iowa; Harry Woodley, Grant :Win Dziewanowski, Pleasant; A. E. Martin, Belmond.

Finance committee: R. E. Lee Aldrich, chairman, Iowa; J. E. Lamb, Grant; J. F. Henn, Pleasant; G. C. Baker, Belmond.

Grounds committee: Chester Luick, chairman, Pleasant; Harry Brooks, Grant; Leo Veeder, Iowa; A. Thompson, Belmond.

Committee to interview Belmond Commercial Club: Mrs. J. E. Miller, chairman, Iowa; Mrs. A. E. Martin, Belmond; Mrs. A Meinders, Pleasant; Mr. Lee G. Hill, Grant.

The picnic will be held at the Franklin grove near the Tyrrell farm all day Wednesday, August 24th.

ORGANIZE GIRLS SEWING CLUB

With the help of Miss Hazel Spencer the "Wall Lake Willing Workers" have organized a girls sewing club. The meeting was held at the home of Miss Golda Smith and the officers were elected.

Miss Gladys Smith and Miss Nessa Howieson will act as club leaders, Velma Mosher president, Myrl Mosher vice president, Golda Smith secretary, Mildred Mosher treasurer. Leona Mosher, club reporter. The other members are Margurite McHale, Mildred Schroeder, Velma Schroeder and Virginia Schroeder.

Green and white were selected as our colors and three leaf clover for our emblem. Plans were made to have a booth at the Wright county fair.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. Our next meeting is to be at the home of Miss Mildred Schroeder with Miss Margurite McHale assistant hostess on August 19th.

Leona Mosher, Club Reporter.

WATCH OUT FOR THIS RUG MAN!

Wallace's Farmer.—We believe in giving a man a chance, but there is a limit to anyone's patience. C. H. Yaham, 1504 Eleventh street, Des Moines, Iowa, who sells rugs under the name of the Yarham Advertising Rug company, no longer deserves our patience.

Last May the first complaints relative to his work began to arrive from Calhoun county, Iowa. We took these up with him by letter at the above number, which is a dwelling house and not a factory. We received no reply. We phoned, and were informed that Mr. Yarham was out of town. We requested an appontment, and received an indication that we would receive one in a short time, but had no further response. More inquiries continued to arrive, until we finally, turned the matter over to our attorney for investigation. Our attorney has received two promises that Mr. Yarham would meet him, but so far he has not arrived.

Here are a few of the complaints. One lady says:

"I am going to ask you to help me collect a debt. You can see by the enclosed checks that I have bought and paid for a couple of rugs. They were nothing to compare with the samples I ordered from. In fact they were not worth having. So I sent them back to the company C. O. D., May 19, 1921. If you can help me colloect this, I would appreciate it, but I would be glad to give the small amount to see this fellow behind the bars. He is simply robbing the people and has gotten a number around here in deeply."

One of the best complaints from the standpoint of showing the method of the company and agents in doing business is from a man, who writes as follows:

"Enclose find statements and copy of order for rug. About Feb. 1 I canceled the order, which they refused to do. They claim that I signed a note, which I never did, unless it was a copy note the same as the order blank. He refuses to send the old carpet. Our rug was not to be made until they received the old carpet. The agent took along 64 pounds of old rubber the day he took the order."

The collection method which the Yarham Advertising Rug company used is gleaned from the letters which this man sent us. The first statement sent out put the cost of the rugs at $66.35 and gaye credit of $16.40 for the old carpet which was to be sent, making the net cost $49.95 less the credit for the carpet.) The next statement includ ed an additional charge of 65 cents as interest on note and other expenses. The third statement called attention to interest on note and other expenses of $1.40. The fourth statement included as interest and storage, $2.40.

The fifth statement, which finally aroused the ire of our subscriber and led him to send the complaint to us, gives an additional charge of $5.40 for interest, cost of collection, storage, etc., and had the following written in pencil across the printed form: "Eventually you must pay; why not now? We have over 29 years yet to collect. As you are the man to pay the expenses, it's up to you to pay and stop them."

Just as we are writing this report so as to protect our subscribers, still another statement was forwarded to us which asks $10.40 for interest, storage and collection, and which states in pencil, "We will return your note with your rugs. Better keep your contract and ship your stuff in—or we charge you $12 for your keeping it." This sounds like old-time stuff. We are writing for our Service Bureau member to tell Mr. Yarham to see our attorney. If he does there should be some interesting developements, for there are several things that he will be asked to settle.

We advise our subscribers to be on the lookout for any man of this type or calibre. Prevention is easier than cure and always more satisfactory. Be sure an agent deserves your confidence before doing business with him.—From the Service Bureau department, Wallaces' Farmer, August 5, 1921.

The agent referred to, Mr. Yarham, has been a more or less frequent caller at Belmond, and the Independent reprints the foregoing article for what it may be worth to our subscribers.

Hot Weather Diseases.

Disorders of the bowels are extremely dangerous, particulary during the hot weather of the summer months, and in order to protect yourself and family against a sudden attack, get a bottle of Chamberlain Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. Itcan be depended upon. Many have testified to its excellence.

STRENGTH SERVICE

How About Your Family?

The Savings Account means more for the future of the family than almost all the advice the world can offer. It means a right start upon the right course. Give your family the assurance of permanent financial protection by opening a Term Savings Account paying 5 per cent interest annually, with us. One dollar will do it.

A little Liberty Bell Bank to put your little savings in is yours with a Savings Account.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

No wonder the fat man chuckled

I SWELLED with pride.
THE FAT man next to me.
WAS READING one.
OF MY cigarette ads.
AND I felt him chuckle.
NOW NO one had ever.
PRAISED THAT ad.
SO I had to ask.
IF HE liked it.
AND HE said, "Sure."
AND LAUGHED some more.
THEN HE said.
"LOOK HERE" and pointed.
AND WHERE I'd written.
"PURE TOBACCO."
THE PRINTER had set.
"PURE TABASCO."
AND THAT'S why the man.
THOUGHT MY ad.
WAS HOT stuff.
BUT THEN he said.
"FORGET THE ads.
I NEVER read 'em.
BUT LEMME tell you.
SOMETHING DIFFERENT.
THEY OUGHT to say.
ABOUT THAT cigarette.
AND THAT is this.
THEY SATISFY."
AND DARNED if I don't think.
HE REALLY believed.
HE WAS giving me.
SOMETHING NEW!

YOU can blame it on the printer if you don't see "They Satisfy" in a Chesterfield advertisement. But be sure of this—you'll find it in the cigarette every time. Wonderful Turkish and Domestic tobaccos, wonderfully blended—it sounds easy. But you'll find nothing else like Chesterfields. That blend can't be copied.

Air-Tight Tins of 50
Ask your dealer to show you the new vacuum-sealed tins of 50 Chesterfields. A compact, convenient and absolutely AIR-TIGHT packing—the cigarettes keep fresh indefinitely.

They Satisfy
Chesterfield
CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

The APPEARANCE

of your printed stationery reflects the character of your business

First impressions are usually lasting, and you should no more think of representing yonr business with ill-arranged, poorly printed stationery than with an uncouth, inexperienced salesman. The psychological effect would be the same.

If IT'S PRINTED WE CAN DO IT.

The Snap and vitality of our "distinctive,, printing registers instant approval. Ask a user.

Shift your printing troubles over to our shoulders--they are a burden to you--a pleasure to us.

ALL OUR PRICES ARE BASED UPON THE STANDARDIZED Franklin Printing Price List "ONE PRICE ON EVERYTHING MARKED-IN-PLAIN-FIGURES"

BELMOND INDEPENDENT
Distinctive Printers

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

by IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the County of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 16 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI. — Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Bim Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Bim's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Bim confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

CHAPTER IX.—Biggs comes back to the village and he and Bim elope. Harry learns of it on his way home from the "war." Lincoln's advice and philosophy sustain him in his grief.

CHAPTER X.—Lincoln, defeated in his candidacy for the legislature, forms a partnership with "Bill" Berry in the grocery business. Biggs sends a gang to burn Traylor's house, but the New Salem men are warned and the raiders worsted.

CHAPTER XI.—Lincoln, now postmaster, decides to run again for the legislature. Ann Rutledge is openly in love with John McNeil. He leaves for his home in the East, promising to return soon and marry Ann. Lincoln accepts his defeat manfully. No word coming from McNeil, Ann confesses to Abe that his real name is McNamar, and her fears that he will not return. Lincoln in his deep love endeavors to reassure her, though he shares her misgivings. Lincoln wins his seat in the legislature.

CHAPTER XII.—Ann hears from McNamar, but his letter is cold and she is convinced he does not love her. She tells Abe of her doubt, and he confesses his love and asks her to marry him. Ann declares she does not yet love him, but will try to. With that promise Lincoln sets out for Vandalia and his legislative duties.

CHAPTER XIII.—Inspired by Elijah Lovejoy, Traylor arranges on his farm a hiding place for runaway slaves, a station on the "Underground Railroad."

CHAPTER XIV.—Ann agrees to marry Abe, but her health is wrecked. Three runaway slaves seek Traylor's help in escaping. They belong to Biggs and he comes in pursuit of them. Threatened with arrest for inciting the raid on Traylor, he flees. One of the fugitives is Bim in disguise. She has fled from her husband's cruelty.

CHAPTER XV.—Dying, Ann Rutledge calls for Abe, and he bids her farewell at her bedside. Following her demise a settled sadness descends on him. He is no longer "Abe," but "Abraham Lincoln."

CHAPTER XVI.—Overcoming his despondency, Lincoln returns to his work. Abolition sentiment is crystalizing and he throws himself into the movement.

CHAPTER XVII.—Traylor sells his farm and moves to Springfield. Lincoln plans to secure a divorce for Bim in order that she may marry Harry Needles, whom she has always really loved. McNamar returns to New Salem, too late.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Traylor and Harry Needles visit the "boom" city of Chicago, where Bim, now the mother of a son, is living with her parents. She has her divorce. Harry leaves for the Seminole war. An unscrupulous, rich speculator, Lionel Davis, desires to marry Bim, but she repulses him.

CHAPTER XIX.—Ruined by the panic of '37, Kelso dies and Bim and her mother are left penniless. Davis presses his suit, and, made desperate by the news of Harry's death, Bim almost makes up her mind to marry him.

CHAPTER XX.—Lincoln is admitted to the bar. Traylor ascertains that the report of Harry's death is false. He hurries to Chicago. Davis has swindled Brimstead, a friend of Traylor's, in real estate deals, and Traylor seeks to collect the money. Smallpox breaks out at Honey Creek, and Bim goes there as a nurse.

"That's just what I wish," said Brimstead. "His name is Lionel Davis. His address is 14 South Water street. I sold him all the land I had on the river shore and he gave me his note for it."

"If you'll let me take the note I'll see what can be done to get the money," Samson answered.

"Say, I'll tell ye," Brimstead went on. "It's for five thousand dollars and I don't suppose it's worth the paper it was wrote on. You take it and if you find it's no good you lose it just as careful as you can. I don't want to see it again."

They had a happy half-hour at the table, Mrs. Brimstead being in better spirits since her husband had got back to his farming. Annabel, her form filling with the grace and charm of womanhood, was there and more comely than ever.

They had been speaking of Jack Kelso's death.

"I heard him say once that when he saw a beautiful young face it reminded him of noble singing and the odor of growing corn," said Samson.

"I'd rather see the face," Joe remarked, whereupon they all laughed and the boy blushed to the roots of his blond hair.

"He's become a man of good judgment," said Brimstead.

Annabel's sister Jane, who had clung to the wagon in No Santa Claus Land, was a bright-eyed, merry-hearted girl of twelve. The boy Robert was a shy, good-looking lad a little older than Josiah.

"Well, what's the news?" Samson asked.

"Nothin' has happened since we saw you but the fall of El Dorado," Brimstead answered.

"There was the robbery of the mail stage last summer a few miles north of here," said Mrs. Brimstead. "Every smitch of the mail was stolen. I guess that's the reason we haven't had no letter from Vermont in a year."

"Maybe that's why we haven't heard from home," Samson echoed.

"Why don't you leave Joe here while you're gone to Chicago?" Annabel asked.

"It would help his education to rassle around with Robert an' the girls," said Brimstead.

"Would you like to stay?" Samson asked.

"I wouldn't mind," said Josiah, who, on the lonely prairie, had had few companions of his own age.

So it happened that Samson went on alone. Near the sycamore woods he came upon a gray-haired man lying by the roadside with a horse tethered near him. The stranger was sick with a fever. Samson got down from his horse.

"What can I do for you?" he asked.

"The will of God," the stranger feebly answered. "I prayed for help and you have come. I am Peter Cartwright, the preacher. I was so sick and weak I had to get off my horse and lie down. If you had not come I think that I should have died here."

Samson gave him some of the medicine for chills and fever which he always carried in his pocket, and water from his canteen.

"Is there any house where I could find help and shelter for you?" he asked presently.

"No, but I feel better—glory to God!" said the preacher. "If you can help me to the back of my horse I will try to ride on with you. There is to be a quarterly meeting ten miles up the road tonight. Nothing shall keep me from my duty. I may save a dozen souls from hell—who knows?"

Samson was astonished at the iron will and holy zeal of this iron-hearted, strong-armed, fighting preacher of the prairies of whom he had heard much. He lifted him and set him on the back of his horse.

"God blessed you with great strength," said the latter. "Are you a Christian?"

"I am."

They rode on in silence. Presently Samson observed that the preacher was actually asleep and snoring in the saddle. They proceeded for an hour or more in this manner. When the horses were wallowing through a swale the preacher awoke.

"Glory be to God!" he shouted. "I am better. I shall be able to preach tonight. A little farther on is the cabin of Brother Cawkins. He has been terribly pecked up by a stiff-necked, rebellious wife. We'll stop there for a cup of tea and if she raises a rumpus you'll see me take her by the horns."

Mrs. Cawkins was a lean, sallow, stern-faced woman of some forty years with a face like bitter herbs; her husband a mildmannered, shiftless man who, encouraged by Mr. Cartwright, had taken to riding through the upper counties as a preacher—a course of conduct of which his wife heartily disapproved. Solicited by her husband she sullenly made tea for the travelers. When it had been drunk the two preachers knelt in a corner of the room and Mr. Cartwright began to pray in a loud voice. Mrs. Cawkins shoved the table about and tipped over the chairs and dropped the rolling-pin as a counter demonstration. The famous circuit rider being in no way put out by this, she dashed a dipper of cold water on the head of her husband. The praying stopped. Mr. Cartwright rose from his knees and commanded her to desist. On her declaration that she would not he laid hold of the woman and forced her out of the door and closed and bolted it and resumed his praying.

Having recorded this remarkable incident in his diary, Samson writes:

"Many of these ignorant people in the lonely, prairie cabins are like children. Cartwright leads them on like a father and sometimes with the strong hand. If any of them deserve a spanking they get it. He and others like him have helped to keep the cabin people clean and going up hill instead of down. They have established schools and missions and scattered good books and comforted sorrows and kindled good desire in the hearts of the humble."

As they were leaving, Mr. Cawkins told them that the plague had broken out in the settlement on Honey creek, where the quarterly meeting was to be held, and that the people had been rapidly "dyin' off." Samson knew from this that the smallpox—a dreaded and terrible scourge of pioneer days—had come again.

"It's dangerous to go there," said Cawkins.

"Where is sorrow there is my proper place," Cartwright answered. "Those people need comfort and the help of God."

"I got a letter from a lady there," Cawkins went on. "As nigh as I can make out they need a minister. I can read print handy but writin' bothers me. You read it, brother."

Mr. Cartwright took the letter and read as follows:

"Dear Sir: Mr. Barman gave me your name. We need a minister to comfort the sick and help bury the dead. It is a good deal to ask of you but if you feel like taking the chance of coming here I am sure you could do a lot of good. We have doctors enough and it seems a pity that the church should fail these people when they need it most. If you have the courage to come you would win the gratitude of many people. For a month I have been taking care of the sick and up to now no harm has come to me.

"Yours respectfully,

"BIM KELSO."

"'A man's heart deviseth his way but the Lord directeth his steps,'" said Cartwright. "For three days I have felt that He was leading me."

"I begin to think that He has been leading me," Samson declared. "Bim Kelso is the person I seek."

"I would have gone but my wife took on so I couldn't get away," said Cawkins.

"I'll come back some day soon and you and I will pry the devil out of her with the crowbar of God's truth and mercy," Cartwright assured him as he and Samson took the road to the north.

On their way to the Honey creek settlement the lion-hearted minister told of swimming through flooded rivers, getting lost on the plains and suffering for food and water, of lying down to rest at night in wet clothes with no shelter but the woods, of hand-to-hand fights with rowdies who endeavored to sell drink or create a disturbance at his meetings. Such was the zeal for righteousness woven by many hands into the fabric of the West. A little before sundown they reached the settlement.

Samson asked a man in the road if he knew where they could find the nurse Bim Kelso.

"Do ye mean that angel o' God in a white dress that takes keer o' the sick?" the man asked.

"I guess that would be Bim," said Samson.

"She's over in yon' house," the other answered, pointing with his pipe to a cabin some twenty rods beyond them. "Thar's two children sick thar an' the mammy dead an' buried in the ground."

"Is the plague getting worse?" Cartwright asked.

"No, I reckon it's better. Nobody has come down since the day before yestiddy. Thar's the doctor comin'. He kin tell ye."

A bearded man of middle age was approaching them in the saddle.

"I am Peter Cartwright—the preacher sent of God to comfort the sick and bury the dead," said Samson's companion.

"We welcome you, but if you stop here you will have to stay until the epidemic is over."

"That I am prepared to do."

"Then I shall take you where you can find entertainment, such as it is."

"First, this man wishes to speak to Miss Kelso, the nurse," said Cartwright. "He is a friend of hers."

"You can see her but only at a distance," the doctor answered. "I must keep you at least twenty feet away from her. Come with me."

They proceeded to the stricken house. The doctor entered and presently Bim came out. Her eyes filled with tears and for a moment she could not speak.

"Why didn't you let me know of your troubles?" Samson asked.

"Early last summer I wrote a long letter to you," she answered.

"It didn't reach me. One day in June the stage was robbed of its mail down in Tazewell county. Your letter was probably on that stage."

"Harry's death was the last blow. I came out here to get away from my troubles—perhaps to die. I didn't care."

"Harry is not dead," said Samson.

Her right hand touched her forehead; her lips fell apart; her eyes took on a look of tragic earnestness.

"Not dead!" she whispered.

"He is alive and well."

Bim staggered toward him and fell to her knees and lay crouched upon the ground, in the dusky twilight, shaking and choked with sobs, and with tears streaming from her eyes but she was almost as silent as the shadow of the coming night. She looked like one searching in the dust for something very precious. The strong heart of Samson was touched by the sorrowful look of her so that he could not speak.

Soon he was able to say in a low, trembling voice:

"In every letter he tells of his love for you. That article in the paper was a cruel mistake."

After a little silence Bim rose from the ground. She stood, for a moment, wiping her eyes. Her form straightened and was presently erect. Her soul resented the injustice she had suffered. There was a wonderful and touching dignity in her voice and manner when she asked: "Why didn't he write to me?"

"He must have written to you."

Sadly, calmly, thoughtfully, she spoke as she stood looking off at the fading glow in the west:

"It is terrible how things can work together to break the heart and will of a woman. Write to Harry and tell him that he must not come to see me again. I have promised to marry another man."

"I hope it isn't Davis," said Samson.

"It is Davis."

"I don't like him. I don't think he's honest."

"But he has been wonderfully kind to us. Without his help we couldn't have lived. We couldn't even have given my father a decent burial."

"Has he been out here to see you?"

"No."

"And he won't come. That man knows how to keep out of danger. I don't believe you'll marry him."

"Why?"

"Because I intend to be a father to you and pay all your debts," said Samson.

The doctor called from the door of the cabin.

Bim said: "God bless you and Harry!" as she turned away to take up her task again.

That night both of them began, as they say, to put two and two together. While he rode on in the growing dusk the keen intellect of Samson saw a convincing sequence of circumstances—the theft of the mail sack, the false account of Harry's death, the failure of his letters to reach their destination, and the fact that Bim had accepted money from Davis in time of need. A strong suspicion of foul play grew upon him and he began to consider what he could do in the matter.

Having forded a creek he caught the glow of a light in the darkness, a little way up the road. It was the lighted window of a cabin, before whose door he stopped his horse and hallooed:

"I am a belated and hungry traveler on my way to Chicago," he said to the man who presently greeted him from the open doorway.

"Have you come through Honey Creek settlement?" the latter asked.

"Left there about an hour ago."

"Sorry, mister, but I can't let you come into the house. If you'll move off a few feet I'll lay some grub on the choppin' block an' up the road about a half-mile you'll find a barn with some hay in it, where you and your horse can spend the night under cover."

Samson moved away and soon the man brought a package of food and laid it on the block and ran back to the door.

"I'll lay a piece of silver on the block," Samson called.

"Not a darned cent," the man answered. "I hate like p'ison to turn a feller away in the night, but we're awful skeered here with children in the house. Good-by. You can't miss the barn. It's close ag'in' the road."

Samson ate his luncheon in the darkness, as he rode, and presently came upon the barn and unsaddled and hitched and fed his horse in one end of it—the beast having drunk his fill at the creek they had lately forded—and lay down to rest for the night, with the saddle blanket beneath him and his coat for a cover. A wind from the north began to wail and whistle through the cracks in the barn and over its roof, bringing cold weather. Samson's feet and legs had been wet in the crossing, so that he found it difficult to keep warm. He crept to the side of his horse, which had laid down, and found a degree of comfort in the heat of the animal. But it was a bad night, at best.

"I've had many a long, hard night, but this is the worst of them," Samson thought.

There's many a bad night in the history of the pioneers, its shadows falling on lonely, ill-marked roads, cut by rivers, creeks and marshes and strung through unnumbered miles of wild country. Samson was up and off at daylight in a bitter wind and six inches of snow. It was a kind of work he would not have undertaken upon any call less commanding than that of friendship.

He reached Chicago at noon, having had nothing to eat that day. There was no such eager, noisy crowd in the streets as he had seen before. The fever of speculation had passed. But there were many people on the main thoroughfares, among whom were Europeans who had arrived the autumn before. They were changing but the marks of the yoke were still upon them. In Chicago were the vitals of the West and they were very much alive in spite of the panic.

Samson bought some new clothes and had a bath and a good dinner at the City hotel. Then he went to the office of Mr. Lionel Davis. There to his surprise he met his old acquaintance, Eli Fredenberg, who greeted him with great warmth and told of having settled in Chicago.

A well-dressed young man came out of an inner office.

"I'd like to see Mr. Davis," said Samson. "Tell him that I've got some money that belongs to him and that I'm ready to deliver it."

The young man disappeared through the door of the private office and soon returned and conducted Samson into the presence of Mr. Davis. The two men recognized each other.

"Well, sir, what is it about?" the young speculator demanded.

"The daughter of my old friend, Jack Kelso, owes you some money and I want to pay it," said Samson.

"Oh, that is a matter between Miss Kelso and me," Mr. Davis spoke politely and with a smile.

"Not exactly—since I knew about it," Samson answered.

"I refuse to discuss her affairs with you," Davis declared.

"I suppose you mistrust me," said Samson. "Well, I've offered to pay you and I'm going to make it plain to them that they don't have to worry any more about the money you loaned them."

"Very well, I bid you good morning."

"Don't be in a hurry," Samson answered. "I have a note of five thousand dollars against you. It is indorsed to me by Henry Brimstead and I want to collect it."

"I refuse to pay it," Davis promptly answered.

"Then I shall have to put it in the hands of a lawyer," said Samson.

"Put it where you like but don't consume any more of my time."

"But you'll have to hear me say that I don't think you're honest."

"I have heard you," Davis answered calmly.

Samson withdrew and went to the home of Mrs. Kelso. He found her with Bim's boy in her lap—a handsome little lad, then a bit over two years old—at the house on La Salle street. Samson told of the failure of Bim's letter to reach him and of his offer to return the money which Davis had paid for their relief.

"I don't like the man and I don't want you to be under obligation to him," said Samson. "The story of Harry's death was false and I think that he is responsible for it. He wanted her to marry him right away after that—of course. And she went to the plague settlement to avoid marriage. I know her better than you do. She has read him right. Her soul has looked into his soul and it keeps her away from him."

But Mrs. Kelso could believe no evil of her benefactor, nor would she promise to cease depending on his bounty.

Samson was a little disheartened by the visit. He went to see John Wentworth, the editor of the Democrat, of whose extreme length Mr. Lincoln had humorously spoken in his presence. The young New Englander was seven feet tall. He welcomed the broad-shouldered man from Sangamon county and began at once to question him about Honest Abe and "Steve" Douglas and O. H. Browning and E. D. Baker and all the able men of the middle counties. At the first opportunity Samson came to the business of his call—the mischievous lie regarding Harry's death which had appeared in the Democrat. Mr. Wentworth went to the proofroom and found the manuscript of the article.

Samson told of the evil it had wrought and conveyed his suspicions to the editor.

"Davis is rather unscrupulous," said Wentworth. "We know a lot about him in this office."

Samson looked at the article and presently said: "Here is a note that he gave to a friend of mine. It looks to me as if the note and the article were written by the same hand."

Mr. Wentworth compared the two and said. "You are right. The same person wrote them. But it was not Davis."

When Samson left the office of the Democrat he had accomplished little save the confirmation of his suspicions. There was nothing he could do about it.

He went to Eli Fredenberg. "What has Davis done to you?" Samson asked, recalling where he had met Eli that morning.

Eli explained that he had borrowed money from Davis to tide him over the hard times and was paying 12 per cent for it.

"Dis morning I get dot letter from his secretary," he said as he passed a letter to Samson.

It was a demand for payment in the handwriting of the Brimstead note and had some effect on this little history. It conveyed definite knowledge of the authorship of a malicious falsehood. It aroused the anger and sympathy of Samson Traylor. In the conditions then prevailing Eli was unable to get the money. He was in danger of losing his business. Samson spent the day investigating the affairs of the merchant. His banker and others spoke well of him. He was said to be a man of character and credit embarrassed by the unexpected scarcity of good money. So it came about that, before he left the news city, Samson bought a fourth interest in the business of Eli Fredenberg. The lots he owned were then worth less than when he had bought them, but his faith in the future of Chicago had not abated.

He wrote a long letter to Bim recounting the history of his visit and frankly stating the suspicions to which he had been led. He set out on the west road at daylight toward the Riviere des Plaines, having wisely decided to avoid passing the plague settlement.

CHAPTER XXI.

Wherein a Remarkable School of Political Science Begins Its Sessions in the Rear of Joshua Speed's Store. Also at Samson's Fireside Honest Abe Talks of the Authority of the Law and the Right of Revolution.

The boy Joe had had a golden week at the home of the Brimsteads. The fair Annabel, knowing not the power that lay in her beauty, had captured his young heart scarcely fifteen years of age. He had no interest in her younger sister, Mary. But Annabel, with her long skirts and full form and glowing eyes and gentle dignity, had stirred him to the depths. When he left he carried a soul heavy with regret and great resolutions. Not that he had mentioned the matter to her or to any one. It was a thing too sacred for speech. To God, in his prayers, he spoke of it, but to no other.

He asked to be made and to be thought worthy. He would have had the whole world stopped and put to sleep for a term until he was delivered from the bondage of his tender youth. That being impossible, it was for him a sad, but not a hopeless world. Indeed, he rejoiced in his sadness. Annabel was four years older than he. If he could make her to know the depth of his passion, perhaps she would wait for him. He sought for self-expression in The Household Book of Poetry—a sorrowful and pious volume. He could find no ladder of rhyme with an adequate reach. He endeavored to build one. He wrote melancholy verses and letters, confessing his passion, to Annabel, which she did not encourage, but which she always kept and valued for their ingenuous and noble ardor. Some of these Anacreontics are among the treasures inherited by her descendants. They were a matter of slight importance, one would say, but they mark the beginning of a great career. Immediately after his return to the new home in Springfield, the boy, Josiah, set out to make himself honored of his ideal. In the effort he made himself honored of many. His eager brain had soon taken the footing of manhood.

A remarkable school of political science had begun its sessions in the little Western village of Springfield. The world had never seen the like of it. Abraham Lincoln, Stephen A. Douglas, E. D. Baker, O. H. Browning, Jesse B. Thomas, and Josiah Lamborn—a most unusual array of talent as subsequent history has proved—were wont to gather around the fireplace in the rear of Joshua Speed's store, evenings, to discuss the issues of the time. Samson and his son Joe came often to hear the talk. Douglas looked like a dwarf among those long-geared men. He was slight and short, being only about five feet tall, but he had a big, round head covered with thick, straight, dark hair, a bulldog look and a voice like thunder. Douglas and Lincoln were in a heated argument over the admission of slavery to the territories the first night that Samson and Joe sat down with them.

"We didn't like that little rooster of a man, he had such a high and mighty way with him and so frankly opposed the principles we believe in. He was an out-and-out pro-slavery man. He would have every state free to regulate its domestic institutions, in its own way, subject only to the Constitution of the United States. Lincoln held that it amounted to saying 'that if one man chose to enslave another no third party shall be allowed to object.'"

In the course of the argument Douglas alleged that the Whigs were the aristocrats of the country.

"That reminds me of a night when I was speaking at Havana," said Honest Abe. "A man with a ruffled shirt and a massive gold watch chain got up and charged that the Whigs were aristocrats. Douglas in his broadcloth and fine linen reminds me of that man. I'm not going to answer Douglas as I answered him. Most of the Whigs I know are my kind of folks. I was a poor boy working on a flatboat at eight dollars a month and had only one pair of breeches and they were buckskin. If you know the nature of buckskin, you know that when it is wet and dried by the sun it will shrink and my breeches kept shrinking and deserting the sock area of my legs until several inches of them were bare above my shoes. Whilst I was growing longer they were growing shorter and so much tighter that they left a blue streak around my legs which can be seen to this day. If you call that aristocracy I know of one Whig that is an aristocrat."

"But look at the New England type of Whig exemplified by the imperious and majestic Webster," said Douglas.

"Webster was another poor lad," Lincoln answered. "His father's home was a log cabin in a lonely land until about the time Daniel was born, when the family moved to a small frame house. His is the majesty of a great intellect."

There was much talk of this sort until Mr. Lincoln excused himself to walk home with his two friends who had just returned from the North, being eager to learn of Samson's visit. The latter gave him a full account of it and asked him to undertake the collection of Brimstead's note.

"I'll get after that fellow right away," said Lincoln. "I'm glad to get a chance at one of those men who have been skinning the farmers."

They sat down by the fireside in Samson's house.

"Joe has decided that he wants to be a lawyer," said Samson.

(Continued next week)

CLASS OF 1915 HOLD REUNION PICNIC

Enjoyable Time Is Had By Members Of Class On Sunday At Franklin Grove

Last Sunday the Class of 1915 packed their lunch baskets and hied to Franklin grove via auto (Ford and otherwise), to again unite in living over those glorious old school days when no new building stood in all its grandeur, but just that good old substantial one, with Prof. Scarbro's jovial face peeping around the corner and Miss White was so shocked at "those Seniors."

A bountious picnic dinner was partaken of in true picnic fashion in that picturesque little spot near the flowing well, and even tho all were not present their voices were heard and we felt them near—memories of other picnics held at this same spot.

A very interesting message was read from our classmate, Bernice Butts, who is enjoying sunny California. Agnes Enger, another classmate, in Colorado, sent us her well wishes. A very pleasant afternoon was spent in talking over old times and playing base ball.

Just as King Sol was sinking behind the western hills in all his splendor we partook of a bounteous supper and then bid each other farewell until next year, then we hied back to the busy world again, each one feeling better for having spent this day with old friends.

Those present were: Iris Trumbell, Goldie Christie, Cecelia Barry, Mrs. J. S. White, Jos. White, Jasper M. Johnson of Belmond, Clifford Hanson of Alexander, Marie Smith of Goodell, and Jos. O. Hanson of Rowan.

USE POOR APPLES FOR VINEGAR

Instead of letting the low grade apples in the orchard decay after the good apples have been selected and stored, why not borrow your neighbor's press and produce some home-made vinegar?

Apples which contain 10 per cent sugar should be used for this purpose. The Early Harvest, Yellow Transparent, Baldwin, Ben Davis, Jonathon and Russett usually contain more than ten per cent.

The following rules may be followed advantageously in vinegar making: Never use green apples, for they are deficient in sugar. Dirty or decayed apples contain foreign elements and should never be used. After pressing, the juice should be run into kegs or barrels. These receptacles should be sterilized with scalding water before they are used. The vinegar should be kept in a temperature ranging between 45 and 60 degrees. Nothing should be added to the vinegar during the first period of fermentation, in which the sugar in the apples is being converted into alcohol. This fermentation will be completed in from two to six months, at which time the bubbles of gas are no longer given off.

The clear liquid should now be poured off into new barrels. The acetic acid fermentation, which completes the vinegar making process, will now set in. Normally it will be completed in from 16 to 20 months. The acid fermentation may be hastened by adding to each barrel one or two gallons of pure cider vinegar containing mother. At no time should the barrels be more than three-quarters full.

FOURTH SPRAY IMPORTANT

Due partly to the early frosts and partly to the fact that uncared for orchards bear heavy one year and lightly the next, the Iowa apple crop is doomed to be small and according to the promology section of the Iowa Experiment station, it will be even smaller if the fourth spray is not applied.

This year there are more scab and more codling moth than in the ordinary season, the former appearing most frequently in the northern parts of the state and the latter in the central and southern parts.

The fourth spray is due from July 20 to July 30. It should be made up as follows: Four quarts of lime sulphur to 50 gallons of water or bordeaux 4-4-50. Add one pound of lead arsenate powder to either of these mixtures.

ANNOUNCE DATE FOR OLD SETTLERS' ANNUAL PICNIC

W. V. Palmer, secretary of the Boone Valley Old Settlers' Association, this week announces the date for the annual picnic at Riverside Park, Goldfield, which will be held Friday. September 2nd. The usual basket dinner will be a feature of the day, and the public is urged to participate and help make this one of the biggest events in the association's history.

SCORES AT LEAST 100 PER CENT

Secretary Charles Barber, of the North Iowa Fair, has been swamped with letters for the past few days by prospective exhibitors desiring information governing rules of entry. One letter in particular, is a knockout. It is reprinted here so that the readers may enjoy it.

Deer Sekretary:

Will you please give me some informashion on the koming North Iowa Fair, Mason City, August 13 to 19? I have never kompeted in a fair but I have a cow which I am willing should swing tailes with any other cow I ever saw.

have herd several of my naybors tell how they're goin to sweep the boards at the fair but you can bet your sweet life Sek, they're going to get fooled. The only thing they're going to sweep is chimpneys. I haven't been braggin to my naybors about this cow of mine but I have been keeping close tab of her milk supply. She is a wonder. She is the only pure-bred cow I've got but wait until next summer. Nancy, as I affecshionately call her, is such a outstanding cow compared with all the scrubs. I wouldn't have any but pure-breds. She gives as much milk at times as my other eight cows put together. I bought her on recommendashion of the county agent, and let me tell you, Sek, these county agents knows ther business, too. It was the county agent who said that I should bring my cow to the fair, so I am takin this tip and riting to you for the necessary informashion. I have never entered any conest that I did not score at least 100 per cent. The past prize I won was in a horse-shoe pitchin contest in our town. They had several slikkers from the city entered and they though they would win in a walk, but they didn't figure on Old Bill. I tuk everything they had ecxept their return tickets, for they were pretty chesty, and wanted to bet. You know how smart those alecks from the city are. Well I got seven watches, and carry three of them at all times, one in my vest, one in my overalls, and one in my coat, so I can tell time if any tow of them happens to stop, which they doesn't. Well, if you write and give me the dope on the fair I'll be much obliged.

Yours truly,
BILL SMITH, R. F. D. 2.
—Globe Gazette.

FIFTY PER CENT LESS APPLE TREES NOW THAN IN 1910

What has become of Iowa as a fruit growing state?

According to the census report recently issued, there are only about 42 per cent as many fruit trees in the state as there were ten years ago.

The number of apple trees alone has been reduced about 50 per cent. In 1910 there were 5,847,034 trees, while in 1920 there were only 2,996,469. The figures show that there are now only about one third as many young trees not bearing as there were 10 years ago.

The falling off of the fruit production is marked on the case of every fruit with the exception of strawberries, which have shown a small increase.

In 1920, 61.7 per cent of the farms in Iowa reported bearing apple trees while in 1910 68.5 per cent reported. There are 131,791 farms in Iowa having orchards. It is estimated that 10,000 orchards were sprayed this year as compared with 3,000 last year. In this respect orcharding conditions are on the upgrade and the increase in spraying somewhat offsets the disease in the trees.

Since spraying orchards as a rule do not produce enough for consumption in the home, these figures show that Iowa does not produce enough fruit for her own needs. Last year it was estimated that 2,000 carloads of apples were shipped into Iowa from outside points. In addition to the large shipments last year, Iowa produced more apples than in any year for the past four. There is no basis, says the extension department at Iowa State college, for the belief that apples raised in Iowa can not be sold. The difficulty in Iowa is that the apples are not cared for, and therefore cannot compete with those which are shipped in free from insect and disease injury.

KEEP FLOCKS AT SUMMER GAIT

How can Iowa farm flocks be kept up to a 50 per cent egg production during the summer months?

"Cull them out," is the answer H. A. Bittenbonder, head of the poultry husbandry department of the Iowa State college, gives to this question. If the flock consists of a good egg laying strain and is properly managed, the birds should maintain an average production of an egg every other day, he says. If flocks fall below this average, it is probable that some of the hens are not laying or there is disease in the flock.

In either case the loafers should be gotten rid of if the flock is to produce what it should.

BRIGHT LIGHTS MUST GO BY SEPTEMBER 1ST IS ORDER

Statewide enforcement of the outomobile headlight law will be undertaken September 1st.

Within the last few days every county treasurer in Iowa has received from the state department notice to this effect, together with the list of lenses which the state highway commission has thus far passed on and approved.

The first list of approved lens for the automobile which is required by the provisions of this state law which went into effect July 1st, arrived at the county treasurer's office last week and names eight lenses on the list. A few lenses have passed the state highway commissioner at Ames as complying with the new state law.

The dimmer requirements are set forth in section 25 of the motor vehicles law. The section on dimmers was revised somewhat by the last legislature. It now declares that lights shall be of sufficient illuminating power to be visible at a distance of 500 feet and to reveal any persons, vehicles or substantial objects 75 feet ahead of the lamps."

Other provisions of the law include:

"It shall be unlawful to use on a vehicle of any kind any lighting device of over 4 candle power, equipped with a reflector, unless the same shall be so designed or so arranged that the directly reflected and undiffused beam of such light when measured 75 feet or more ahead of the light shall not rise 42 inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands under all conditions of load.

"If a spotlight is used on a motor vehicle it shall be unlawful for any person to direct its rays toward the eyes of the driver or occupants of an approaching vehicle, or to the left of the center of the traveled way when meeting another vehicle.

"No person shall operate a motor vehicle on any public highway of this state equipped with an electrict bulb or other lighting devices of a greater caacity than 32 candle power, no matter how the same may be shaded, covered or obscured.

"Any person who shall turn all or any of his motor vehicle's lights off for the purpose of avoiding arrest or identification, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction subject to a fine of $100 or imprisonment for a period of not to exceed thirty days or both fine and imprisonment."

Hunger, the Best Sauce.

Sauce is used to create an appetite or relish for the food. The right way is to look to your digestion. When you have good digestion you are certain to relish your food. Chamberlain's Tablets improve the digestion, create a healthy appetite and cause a gentle movement of the bowels.

FARMERS' MARKETING ORGANIZATIONS SOUND

Reports that the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' federation is nearly bankrupt have been given considerable circulation. However, Henry Krumrey, president of that organization, says, thru the columns of Hoard's Dairyman, that the federation does not owe any bank a dollar and that the members are now financing their own orgnization with their product and are saving thousands of dollars in interest.

This is but one of the many schemes resorted to by the enemies of co-operative effort to make it difficult for co-operative marketing companies to carry on their work.

ROBBERS VISIT COULTER AGAIN

Hampton Chronicle—The meat market of C. C. Williams at Coulter was broken into last Tuesday night and a good sized haul of fresh and canned meats was taken. The loot consisted of about 100 pounds of bacon, three or four big hams and several cans of salmon and dried beef. Entry was made thru the back door, the screen of which had been cut to allow the thief to work on the lock. From all appearances the man must have been frightened and made a hurried exit, as he made no attempt to conceal his act, leaving the ice box open and the back door also open.

As soon as the theft was discovered Sheriff Atkinson was notified and the bloodhounds were called for from Waterloo. No clue was fund that would give the authorities any lead at all, and when the hounds arrived at noon the scent had become so faint that they were unable to pick it up.

Altho the authorities have not as yet been able to find any clue which would lead to the capture of the thief they are still at work on the case, and are making every attempt to locate the culprit.

A PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF IOWA:

The management of the State Fair will again offer from August 24th to September 2nd inclusive the greatest exhibition of its character that will be assembled in the United States during the year. Agriculture, manufactures, science, industry, art, literature, all the diversified departments of human activity, will contribute their highest achievements for the entertainment, the instruction, and the improvement of the public. The exposition will be a liberal education in itself, and every man, woman and child in the Commonwealth should embrace the invaluable advantages there rendered available. Everywhere thruout the country it is recognized as occupying the foremost position among similiar enterprises, and the loftiest ambition of our sister States is to approximate in some measure to the unrivaled eminence it has attained.

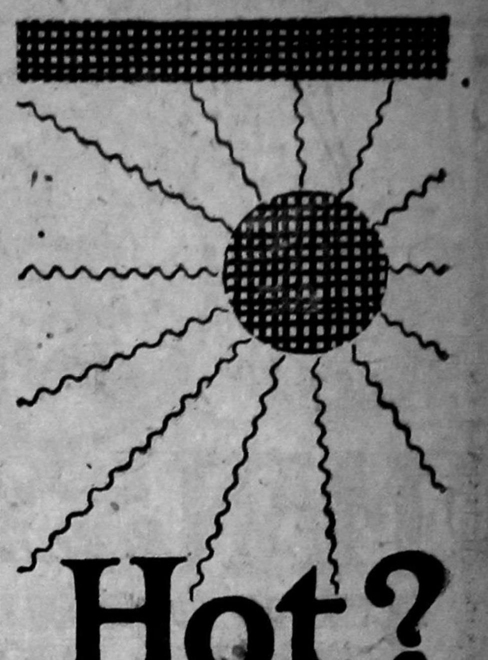
The Fair is the common property of all our people, and it is as essentially an institution of the State as the College at Ames or the University at Iowa City. Every citizen must experience a genuine interest in its prosperity, and a profound satisfaction in its progress. I invite all loyal Iowans to manifest that interest by visiting the exhibition and to enhance that satisfaction by enjoying its excellence.

"O all that is good, Iowa affords the best."

N. E. KENDALL
Governor.

Cause of Appendicitis

When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or larges intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known asappendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis.



Hot?

You know how much easier it is for you to overheat after you have overeaten.

Batteries are almost human.

The battery that overheats and puts you to a lot of trouble, due to warped or buckled plates, is the battery that has been allowed to over-charge.

There is a mighty simple remedy for overheating of batteries. If you haven't tried it you'll be surprised to find how well it works. Here it is:

TURN ON YOUR HEADLIGHTS THE REST OF THE DAY WHILE DRIVING.

We can tell you some other things about batteries that will save you trouble and expense.

Come in anytime.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

THREAD-RUBBER Willard STORAGE BATTERY INSULATION

This trademark, stamped in red on the case, identifies the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

Willard Batteries

Watch Our Window

For Bargains In Aluminum Ware

ALL THIS WEEK

You cannot afford to miss getting in on this exceptional offer for THIS WEEK ONLY

Yours for Bargains,

Johnson & Wright

Your Credit and Our Furniture Both Good

- ATTEND OUR -

August Furniture Sale

Big Values

We Pay the Freight

- With -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER OR MOMEY REFUNDED

With Plenty of Time To Pay

We Make the Terms To Suit You. Convenience

THE HOME FURNITURE CO. OF FORT DODGE

Ft. Dodge Sioux Falls. S. D. Aberdeen, S. D. Waterton, S. D. Huron, S. D. Canton, S. D.

Opposite Boston Store - 808 Central Avenue

Pay a little now and a little each week, extending the payments over a period of months.

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 18 1921 NO. 39

PROGRAM FOR BIG PICNIC IS NOW READY

Kanawha Wins By 3 To 2 In Eleven Innings

Belmond Gives Ancient Enemy The Toughest Battle Of The Season

TO MEET AGAIN SUNDAY

There have been some hard-fought ball games played here this summer, with some closely contested scraps, but the supreme game of them all for fight and terrific playing occured here Sunday when Belmond went down in defeat before the swatters from Kanawha by the score of three to two after eleven innings of the most grueling base ball that local fans have seen all summer.

Belmond was beaten by better playing, but the margin was so small that it was hardly noticeable. Both teams made four errors, both had four hits, and while McCauley had 12 strike-outs to Pillmers' nine, Belmond had eight men left on bases to Kanawha's five.

Belmond held the enemy to second base the first inning, and then when the local boys came to bat in their turn the first man up, Corcoran, hit the first ball pitched for a clean single between short and third. The second man sacrificed, and Houge, the third up, drove a pretty hit over the second baseman and Belmond had two runs.

Kanawha couldn't score until the third, when a single combined with a couple of errors gave them a run. In the four and fifth neither side saw the plate, Kanawha scoring one run in the sixth.

From that on up to the eleventh it was the prettiest ball game ever, with neither side having a bit the best of the argument. In the tenth Belmond managed to get as far as the third sack, but there they died.

Then in the eleventh the Kanawha team came to bat and the first man had the luck to soak one for four sacks, and thereupon the rooters from the lakes went bugs. Up to that time they had been very quite, considering, but when that four-sacker came round they had cause to rejoice, for it won the game for them, Belmond could not negoiate the circuit in their half of the eleventh.

All things considered, Belmond can feel proud of that game. They were against what is universally conceded to be one of the strongest aggregations in northern Iowa; Kanawha has beaten Mason City, West Bend, Algona, Clarion, and at the fair on last Thursday never let a Hampton batter reach first base in the whole game, and trimmed Webster City the next day. The fact that the Belmond boys would have won Sunday but for one or two critical errors, and the fact that it took Kanawha eleven innings of the hardest ball they have had to put up this year to turn the trick, is enough to show that Belmond was putting up a brand of base ball that was a credit.

Sensational catches by Ray. Dillon and Houge, the local outfield, and two spectacular stops and put-outs by Pillmer, featured the fielding part of the game. Pillmer pitched a magnificent game, striking out Locke, the "home-run king" of the Kanawha aggregation, nearly every time he came to bat, and allowing but the four hits, three of which were but the merest scratches.

McCauley was also there, and was in tip-top shape. Belmond's hits off his delivery, however, were clean, solid hits and could not be fielded.

An immense crowd witnessed the game, estimated at between six and seven hundred, and the grounds were packed with cars. Mayor Barry and the police authorities maintained perfect order, and there was not one particle of rag-chewing and milling over the diamond which has disgraced a number of games around. They are to be commended for the excellent

(Continued on page eight.)

COURT NEWS OF INTEREST

Garner Investment Co, Des Moines, is suing E. A. Patton of Rowan on two notes given the Gibford Chemical Co. in the sum of $2350. A similar is that of the Bond and Mortage Co. of DesMoines, which is suing the above defendant for $1175. In both cases plaintiff claimed to have purchased the notes in question from the chemical company. A third case is brought by O. J. Sweet of DesMoines, also for $1175.

County Attorney Rogers and Sheriff Lang called at Galt Tuesday in an official capacity. Poke Johnson and Ben Cain became involved in a mixup Saturday night in which a jack knife and a razor played a prominent part Neither was badly hurt and both were fined about $25 including costs.

County officials with exception of county superintents from all over the state will be in session Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week at Fort Dodge. All of the Wright county officials are expecting to attend one or more days of the session.

Marriage licenses for the past week Ewd. Carl Anderson and Marie E. Edge, Harlely R. Muhm and Nellie M. Kelling, Ben B. Hogenson and Henrietta Jenison, Wm. K. Speicher and Julia Lusthoff, Eugene Henely and Louise McCoy.

Louis Sheppler has filed a petition in the district court asking $127.50 damages from Stewart Smith, who he alleges sold him a stack of hay, very much of which was rotten.

The board of supervisors met last week and confirmed the assessments made in drainage district No. 183 in Dows. The rehearing on No. 192 was continued to August 24th.

A complete list of county recorders of the state was recently received by Recorder Edith Vaughn showing out of the ninty-nine recorders, 41 are ladies.

The Fair store of Chicago has begun suit against H. F. Davidson and wife of Eagle Grove to collect $333.24 for merchandise sold.

Lars Jonson of Eagle Grove alleges his wife has deserted him and for that reason wants a divorce.

First National bank of Eagle Grove brings suit against Louis Scheppler on his note for $225.

The Bank of Galt is suing John Cartney on his note for $64.95.

News: Louis Scheppler is suing Stewert Smith to recover $127.50, alleeged to have been paid in advance as the purchase price of a certain haystack, containing eight and one-half tons, and represented to be first class quality hay. Scheppler states in his petition filed in district court that he bought the hay on the represention of Smith that it was good hay. Fifteen dollars per ton was the agreed price. But when he went to get the hay he alleged he found it to be poor quality rotten and worthless to a great extent, and on finding this condition to exist he went to Smith and demanded the return of his money. Smith refused to return the money, hense the suit. He asks judgment for the full amount, plus costs.

The Farmers Savings bank of Goldfield is suing Amos and Katherine Thompson to recover $872.97, due on two notes that defendants issued in favor of the plaintiff.

Nothing more is doing in district court this week.

Monitor: Frank Bessman seeks to have the court quiet title to a certain lot in Smith's addition to Dows.

R. S. Woodard of Eagle Grove is defendant in a suit brought by the First National bank of that city to collect the sum of $1607.26 on two promisory notes.

John Brooks Hogan has filed suit against Thomas Brooks et al for the possession of 52 acres of land at Cornelia, which he alleges his grandmother, Mrs. James Books, left him on her death. In case defendants fail to transfer said land plaintiff asks judgement for $15,000.

Monday the board of supervisors awarded the contract of placing the gravel on the road west from Goldfield to a Mr. McDaniels of Fort Dodge. The county will provide gravel for the job from local pits. Engineer Hilton says work will begin at once and he hopes to have the road ready for travel yet this fall.

Mary Madigan et al have petition-

(Continued on page eight.)

County Fair Is One Of The Best Ever Held

Exhibits And Attractions Are Pronounced By All To Be Best Yet

LARGE CROWDS EACH DAY

The Wright county fair held last week is almost universally conceded to be one of the best that has been held so far. The three days of the fair last week drew large crowds every day, and there was something doing all the while. The exhibits were by far the best that have yet been shown, those of stock especiall being excellent, while the club girls of the county had some splendid showings. The attractions at the fair were the best that the management has yet secured, and they were commented upon largely by the visitors. The races were the fastest the track there has seen for many a day, some excellent horses being entered, and they stepped it off in some style. The two ball games were interesting, but the one Friday was marred by the time spent in chewing the rag and kicking on everything kickable. The carnival at the fair was one of the best things that helped to make the fair a success as the attractions offered were clean, wholesome and good. The police on duty were sufficiently large in numbers to keep order and handled the crowd in nice shape. The fireworks in the evening were by far the best that have been shown at a fair in this county, or in any county fair around, for that matter, and they were certainly fine. At this writing the financial end of the fair has not been fully figured up, but it is admittedly a financial success and it is expected that the fair association will have a surplus after all bills are paid of close to one thousand dollars. The attendance during the three days is estimated to have been in the close neighborhood of seventeen thousand. 2,500 the first day, 8,000 the second day, and 6,000 or better on the last day.

CLARION LEGION PLANS "40 AND 8" DAY SOON

News: The American Legion boys of Clarion are taking steps to put on a "40 and 8" initiation in this city early in September. The matter is now being taken up by the Post with Chaplain Tom Roberts, who is in this branch of the Legion work, and as soon as a date is fixed, local committees will be selected to push the proposition.

At the Legion meeting Friday evening the matter was thoroughly discussed, and it was the opinion that to make the day a real day the community would be asked to get behind it and help with the plans for entertaining the crowd expected.

The local post will invite neighborhood towns to join in this celebration. Dows, Belmond and Rowan will furnish candidates for the initiation beyond a doubt. Seventeen candidates filed aplication for the degree Friday night. Fifty are required to establish the chapter here. It is not likely that the number to be initiated will fall below a hundred, once the date is fixed and applications are in order.

Delegates to the state convention at Spirit Lake September 1-2-3 were appointed in part, Commander Campbell and Adiutant Hill being elected, and Commander Campbell authorized to select four other delegates, six in all being the Clarion Post's quota.

The Belmond band furnished the music at the fair the last day and the commentes on their playing was vey favorable. The local band is one of the best in the country and the town can well feel proud of it.

TYRRELL-EMERY

On Saturday, August 6th, occured the marriage of Mr. Harry F. Tyrrell to Miss Ruth Emery the ceremony being peformed at the Methodist parsonage in Iowa City, the Rev. Ellis of the Methodist church officiating.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emery of Ottumwa, and is a graduate of the Ottumwa high school, a very pleasing young lady with many talents and accomplishments. She has been attending the state university at Iowa City.

The groom is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell of this city, is a graduate of the local high school and has been attending the state University the past few years.

The marriage came as a surprise to the many friends here, but they extend their congatulations and best wishes all the more heartily for a long and prosperous life.

FARMER KILLED IN THRESHING MACHINE

Gut Wudtke of Bancroft fell into the self feeding attachment to his theshing machine and was so badly cut up that he died shortly afterwards. He was on top of the machine when it was being located and a jolt caused him to fall into the self feeder. The large knives used to cut the tw[illegible] and push the grain in the cylinder lacerated one of his legs and hips so badly that he bled to death in less than half an our.

BARN AND CONTENTS AT MENNENGA FARM BURNED

On Monday morning, between seven and eight o'clock, the large barn on the H. H. Mennenga farm was discovered to be on fire, and despite the most heroic efforts the barn and all contents except the stock was destroyed. The Mennenga family were just getting ready to drive to the North Iowa Fair at Mason City when Mr. Mennenga noticed a wisp of smoke coming from the cupalo. He at once summoned help, the fire truck from town going out, and a large number of neighbors and friends appeared, to help, but the blaze, supposedly starting in the hay in the mow, spread too rapidly and nothing was saved of the contents. A large hay stack next to the barn was also destroyed, so that Mr. Mennenga, who had his hay all put up and stored in the barn and this stack, is left without any for the coming winter. He had just built the barn about two years ago, at a cost of approximately $3,500, and this, with the contents burned places his loss at about $5,000, a serious consequence in these times. Mr. Mennega is very appreciative of the help rendered by those present in assisting to fight the fire, and wishes, thru the columns of the Independent to thank them all for the help they gave.

BIG TIME PLANNED FOR 88TH REUNION

Camp Dodge, the famous cantonment where thousands of men from this state were trained during the war, is to be revived for the 88th division reunion to be held in Des Moines August 26 to 28, according to the recent press reports.

A mammoth tent city, re-named for the old cantonment where the 88th was trained, is to be erected at Des Moines on the state fair grounds and will be used for housing the veterans for the period of the reunion. Major H. H. Polk of Des Moines, general chairman for the reunion, has received formal notice from General Bundy of the Seventh Corps that the government will provide tents sufficient to house 10,000 men. Quarters will be furnished free of charge to all [illegible]th veterans attending the gathering. The big tent city will be put up immediately before the opening of the Iowa State Fair on Aug. 26. It will be divided into regimental sections along the same lines as Camp Dodge.

This will be the first time the veterans of the division have been assembled at their old training grounds since the close of the war. Practically every state in the mid-west will be represented among the 6,000 to 10,000 delegates who are expected to attend.

BIG TIME TO BE HAD AT GROVE NEXT WEEK

Farm Bureaus Of Belmond, Iowa, Pleasant And Grant Townships To Picnic

TOWN TO JOIN WITH THEM

Hon. E. G. Dunn To Speak. Program Of Music, Readings And Sports To Be Held

The program for the big picnic and all-round good time to be held here on August 24th has been completed, and every indication points to a rousing big day for the members of the Farm Bureau in Belmond, Pleasant, Iowa and Grant townships, and the people of Belmond and vicinity. For everybody is invited to come out and have a good time on that day; the picnic, while essentially a Farm Bureau one, has been extended to the town and entire community and the Chamber of Commerce of Belmond has co-operated with the committees of the various township Farm Bureaus to make the day one to be remembered.

The Chamber of Commerce band of Belmond will be on the job all day to furnish plenty of music for the occasion, and a splendid program has been arranged, composed of music, an address, base ball games, readings, recitations and the like which will make it universally appealing.

Hon. E. G. Dunn of Mason City has been secured to deliver the address of the day, and to Belmond people and those others who heard him at the Fourth of July celebration here last year, that will be sufficient, for Mr. Dunn ranks as one of the most polished orators and at the same time one of the most forceful and emphatic speakers in the state of Iowa. He is very familiar with the troubles and difficulties of the farmer, and in various capacities has been instrumental in bettering agricultural conditions and life. His address alone will be worth coming a long way to hear.

The program for the day as arranged will be as follows:

Opening at 10:00 o'clock sharp, at the Tyrrell farm two miles south of Belmond, and in Franklin Grove the pogram will be as follows:

Music by the band.
Opening Song—America.
Cornet Solo.
Recitation—James Kehler.
Reading—Miss Virgie Jenison.
Solo—Ralph Baker.
Music by the band.
Reading—Miss Hazel Spencer.
Solo—Mrs. Howard Wooden.
Solo—Herbert Nelson.

The program as announced will be completed about 11:00, and from 11:00 to 12:00 Hon. E. G. Dunn will address the audience.

At 12:00 those present will partake of one of the biggest "feeds" that they have ever sat down to, for there will be a wide variety of good things on hand.

The program of sports will commence after dinner and will be as follows:

Races—

Boys under 12, 1st prize $1.00, 2nd .50c.

Boys under 16, 1st prize $1.00, 2nd. 50c.

Girls under 12, 1st prize $1.00, 2nd 50c.

Free for all, 1st prize $2.00, 2nd. $1.00.

Sack race, 1st prize, $2.00, 2nd, $1.00.

Fat mans race, 1st prize $2.00, 2nd $1.00.

Three-legged race, 1st prize $2.00 2nd. $1.00.

Tug of War: Belmond and Pleasant vs. Iowa and Grant, prize $5.00.

Ball game: Iowa and Pleasant vs.

(Continued on page eight.)

FREE AIR!

After having had a couple of weeks' rest from the air, perhaps you will now be in the mood for it again.

Perhaps. We are just taking the chance that you are; if you aren't, we shall probably hear about it; we seem to have, heretofore.

We are going to make a proposition to you: We want some of you to try your hand at writing the Air, and to make it worth while, we will give one dollar, one hundre cents, in honest-to-goodness E Pluribus Unum, to every one who submits a column that is printed. One dollar is all it's worth—at any rate so far—and we expect to be flooded with replies.

You can choose your own subject, your own style, and your own words. We'll put it in type, and let the rest of the bunch be the judges. All we ask is that you keep away from two things: Politics and Religion. Ahem. They are the two things which no small-town newspaper cares to monkey with, and which every newspaper steers a wide path from.

Outside of that your field is unlimited. You can criticise the town, the country, the people, fashions, customs or the Independent: we'll print it if it's printable. You don't have to have your name printed, but YOU DO HAVE TO SIGN IT.

All set, let's go! Who's first?

You know you won't have to travedl far nor fast to equal the record so far.

A local farmer the other day, in speaking of his crops, said he had a good crop of corn, and he thought it would run pretty close to twenty gallons per acre.

Since the recent rain he probably will figure it closer to twenty-five.

And at the prevailing price of corn—he ought to make good money on the farm this year; he said he had 80 acres.

We've often wondered why the express companies make their agents lug a gat around, but recently we found out the reason, figured it out in our own mind, that is, and at that and in spite of miscalculations, we'll bet we're pretty nearly correct.

The local express office had five gallons of six-year-old bottled-in-bond stuff that was priceless, worth its' weight in gold—or mud, just as you figure—consigned to a local man.

It was to a doctor, so don't get excited.

Figuring that for 90 cents you can feel like a millionaire, and that you wish you were a giraffe so that you could taste it all the way down your throat, how many headaches were contained in each gallon? And if it has that many, how many are there in four quarts of hootch?

You'll notice we said 90 cents a few lines back; it used to be said that for thirty cents you could feel like a millionaire, but you must remember that prices have risen in the past couple of years. It's more expensive to be a millionaire nowadays.

A recent fashion note says that the latest style will call for the ladies to cover up their ears with earlaps. Either Iowa has been ahead of the styles or else the styles are patterning after Iowa, because it has been our observation that the ears have been pretty well covered this summer.

DID YOU?

Did you ever sit in your car on the street or on your porch or lawn, during an evening and count the autos that pass and note the number that are not complying with the law. Autos driving like the wind, careless and reckless driving, cutout wide open, one light, no front lights at all, no tail light, wrong side of the road, and many other law breaking acts. No regard whatever for the safety of others, or for those who are lying sick and helpless in bed. Auto drivers simply run wild and do as they please, no restraints whatever. We have state laws and city ordinances, if they are good why not enforce them; if they are no good burn them up and pass some that will stick and do the business. If the auto drivers who violate the laws in this town during one week were pinched and fined as they should be we could buy a street sprinkler and the fines coming in every week would maintain it. All in favor say aye.—Renwick Times.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERNARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly
day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.

IF—
We Lost Your Good Will

If our service station burned down we'd get the insurance.

If burglars stole our cash, we could borrow some.

But if we lost that part of our business called GOOD WILL, we could get it back again only through months, or possibly years, of the hardest kind of work.

That's why we say GOOD WILL is the most valuable thing we own.

Our promptness and thoroughness will show you, if you come in, how much we value your GOOD WILL.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

THREAD-RUBBER Willard INSULATION

This trademark, stamped in red on the case, identifies the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

Willard Batteries

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year

Entered as second-class matter Nov 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

IF YOU ENJOY THE BAND, SAY IT

The Independent was struck by one thing Saturday evening at the band concert, something which, had it been considered before, would have been given attention, and that was, that the crowd did not seem to appreciate the efforts of the band boys, with but few exceptions.

If you enjoy the band, the efforts of the home boys to give you entertainment that is clean, wholesome and elevating, why not say so? Why not, when they have rendered some especially good selection, show your appreciation and approval? The boys in the band are no more than human, and an expression of approval would not be taken amiss.

Last Saturday evening there were a few, a very few, who seemed inclined to show that they heard the music, enjoyed it, and appreciated it. The Belmond band is an organization of which every local citizen can be justly proud; it is among the best amateur bands in northern Iowa, and has that reputation; so why not let those who compose it known t at we appreciate and enjoy their efforts?

The Independent suggests that on next Saturday evening, the Belmond people give the band boys an expression of approval and appreciation after the first selection. All in favor signify by doing it.

GIVE THEM CREDIT

It is a job that nobody really has any great desire for, this being a small town official, and when it so happens that a town is fortunate enough to have some who do their duty as they see it, and endeavor to enforce the laws and keep things straight, give them credit for it.

Instead of knocking, condemning and cussing the town's authorities, because they are enforcing the laws which you wanted, helped to make and do not want repealed, give them credit for doing their duty. The big trouble with the small town is that it considers things too much from the personal viewpoint and not enough from the public. The enforcement of a certain law makes one man peevish. and he gives the authorities responsible for enforcing it a blackeye to everyone he can, without considering the fact that the law is there, that it was put there for a purpose, was meant to be enforced, and would be a joke witout being enforced. Because it may have interfered with him, with his personal ideas and beliefs, has nothing to do with the case; it is there, and the officials' duty is to see that it is kept. If they didn't see to it, we would all unite in roasting, calling them spineless, easy, good ornaments but poor for use, and so on.

Enforcing the law in the big place, where the authorities are strangers to 95 per cent of the population, is an entirely different proposition than enforcing it in the town where everybody knows the authorities by their "first" names and call them so. The one deals with people whom the officer has no personal interest in or regard for, while the other deals with the people whom the officer meets every day, with his neighbors and his friends. When such an officer has the nerve to do his duty, don't cuss him or "bawl him out"; give him credit. Would you want one who wouldn't enforce them?

Did you ever pause to consider, that if every man was in jail who has broken the law, there would be no-one outside to turn the key?

CLIPPINGS

CHICKEN THIEVES AT BRITT

Chicken thieves are getting in their work again this season. One night recently they went to the Charles Gault farm two miles south of town and stole nearly all their flock of young chickens. The few left are probably those that sulked away in the dark and the thieves failed to notice them. Other chicken thefts have been reported in the country nearby. We believe some sawed off shotguns in the hands of the farmer would be a good protection against these marauders. If a man comes home to his family with the seat of his pants resembling a milk strainer there is no amount of explaining that will convince the women and children that he is ot a thief. The shot would pierce his hide and after his neighbors learned of his plight his conscience would sting ten times harder than the shot stings when it strikes. Usually the women of the farms have the labor and worry of caring for the poultry flocks, and it is a mean man, indeed, who will rob a woman. - Britt News-Tribune.

The Nihoof brothers, of Belmond were Klemme visitors Saturday. The brothers in this ecase arealsetwins. —Times.

Warran Brand suffered a broken arm, just above the wrist joint, while playing ball with the Clarion team at Belmond Thursday Warren was at bat and the pitcher mistook his wrist for home plate—anyway Brand said the pitcher sure had some steam.—Monitor.

If the sample ear left at this office the other day by R. E. Lee Aldrich is a fair average Iowa township will have a bumper corn crop this fall. The ear from Mr. Aldrich's farm measured eleven inches in length and the kernels were well filled for this time of the year.—Monitor.

Thirty new steel coaches of the latest construction and five steel chair cars have been purchased by the Rock Island railroad and will be put into sevice on the company's lines in Iowa. Innovations on the new coaches are free drinking cups, hat rack holders and windows directly opposite each seat.—Hampton Recorder.

Miss Laura Brooks, Mrs. J. W. Brooks, Mrs. Stearnes and Mrs. Howard Doyle, were all calling on friends in Belmond last Thursday.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Blank and daughter, Marie, and Minnie, took in the band concert at Belmond Saturday evening.—Times.

Tuesday, while Henry Thorsen was riding in an auto near Britt the wind blew his hat off and he got out of the car and went back to get it. While walking a car passed him so close that one fender hit him in the right leg and one wheel passed over his left foot. While he was not injured seriously it bruised him sufficiently to make navigation rather painful.—Reporter.

A few weeks ago T. T. Roosevelt, Jr., secured a goodly sample of the moss which grows soabundantly at Lake Cornelia and sent it to the department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C. for analysis Recently he received a report and classification and now an attempt will be made to find something that will counteract or wholly destroy this noxious weed, if it can be done without harm to the other vegetable and animal life of the lake. Every year from the first part of August until late this moss completely covers the lake and greatly hampers boating, bathing and all other aquatic sports.—Monitor.

There were seven revenue men in Klemme the fore part of the week. Don't get scared because of the great number as that is the way the birds travel now days—big numbers and quick clean up is their system. The Klemme ball team fell under their axe and had to come thru with 15 iron men for the privilege of playing ball. That is the first we knew that a ball team had to pay a revenue in order to play ball. One of the birds called on us to tell the latest fashion for printing show tickets.—Times.

Mrs. Missman and son, Bernes went to Belmond Saturday for an over-Sunday visit with Mrs. Missman's parents.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thayer, of Belmond were shopping in Klemme yesterday. —Times.

Mrs. G. R. Hill and sister, Miss Marie Joynson, of Belmond, returned home Sunday from their visit to a brother in Colorado. They had a very enjoyable outing while away.—Monitor.

TWO BRITT MEN HELD UP ON WAY HOME FROM GARNER

When R. F. Perry and Earl Carl both of Britt, were returning to their home from Garner, last Thursday night at 1:30 they were stopped by a blockade in the road near the M. and St. L. crossing a mile east of Britt. A masked bandit rushed up and placed a gun up to Mr. Perry's face and told them to throw up their hands, which they did. He searched both men and got about six dollars in change and a gold watch. Mr. Perry asked him to give him a locket that was attached to the watch chain as it was a present from his mother. The thief separated it from the chain and gave it back. When satisfied that he had all the money he could get, the thief ordered the men to turn around and go back east. They took a north road and circled the town coming in from the north. The town marshall was notified and went out with the boys to try and locate the men, but without avail. —Times.

Culinary Temperment.

Charlie dear, said young Mrs. Torkins, the new cook is going to leave unless you quit playing the phonograph.

Doesn't she like music.

Yes. But she says those jazz records set so rapid a tempo she forgets her self and works three or four times as fast as her wages call for.

Lady—You say your father was injured in an explosion? How did it happen? Child—Well, mother says it was too much yeast, but father says it was too little sugar.

Any citizen of Belmond can sit on his porch any night of the week, and watching the automobiles go by, pick a dozen in half an hour which are violating the law in some form or another.

The trouble is not that we have too slack enforcement of the laws, but that there are too many laws to be enforced. Less laws, better laws, and a strict enforcement of those laws is what is needed.

Hot Weather Diseases.

Disorders of the bowels are extremely dangerous, particulary during the hot weather of the summer months, and in order to protect yourself and family against a sudden attack, get a bottle of Chamberlain Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. Itcan be depended upon. Many have testified to its excellence.

CHURCH NOTES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

J. H. Edge, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.

Preaching services at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Epworth League at 7:00 p. m.

The Rev. M. O. Insko of Lucknow, India, will preach at the morning service. Mr. Insko has just returned to America after five years of missinary work in India. His message will be of interest to all who hear it.

CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

Last Sunday night was the banner night in attendance upon our outdoor services, there being 103 present. This makes our average attendance for the out-door services 80 1-3. Next Sunday night the services will be at Mr. Oscar Jenison's, and Miss Vida Jenison is the leader. We hope to make the attendance at least 110. Mr. Williams will be on the job to see that rigs are provided for all who are at the church not later than 7:30.

Sabbath school at 10:00 a. m. and we hope to see a fuller attendance than we had last Sunday. It has been a long time since we have fallen below the hundred mark and we hope all will put forth an effort to keep it much above that number.

The morning worship at 11:00 and the evening worship at 8:00 at Oscar Jenison's.

On Saturday night at 8:00 two Indians from our school in South Dakota will give an evening entertainment at the church. These are full blood Sioux Indians and come with the highest recommendation of being able to give a program that is worth while. There is no admission fee but we hope to receive a good offering which will go for the work among the Indians. Come and bring your friends.

Cause of Appendicitis

When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or larges intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known asappendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis.

LUCKY STRIKE cigarette

It's toasted

Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co.

READ THE ADS

AUCTION!

The Grosman Mercantile and Auction House will hold it's Fourth Gigantic Sale on Saturday, August 20

AT YOUR OWN PRICE!

All new furniture, rugs, (all sizes) lamps, mattresses, auto tires, auto accessories, and merchandise of all kinls on sale. COME and SAVE.

Private sale at wholesale price during week.

J. M. ROBERTSON, Auct,

Grosman Mercantile and Auction House

11-13 2nd St. N. W. South of Kirk Apts.
Mason City, Iowa

Saw Wood

Your Business, no matter how good, can be increased by CONSISTENT ADVERTISING. This is an undeniable fact, and the best and safest way to gain this end is to advertise in Belmond's livest newspaper---the

Belmond Independent

REAL NEWSPAPERS think less of their rights and more of their duties. Softsoapers play to the grandstand. The BELMOND INDEPENDENT tells all the news and its circulation continues to grow!

THEREFORE, as an advertising medium, merchants obtain the best results in the

Belmond Independent

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver and son Kenneth went to Clarion Tuesday to visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. Heathershaw.

Ella Couchman returned to her work in Des Moines after a two weeks' vacation at the home of Mrs. R. H. Keith and with former schoolgirl friends.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris went to Ft. Dodge Wednesday to attend a supervisors convention, returning to their home Friday.

S. A. Ferguson was a Hampton caller between trains Wednesday.

Theo. Hansen and J. F. Howell were Clarion business callers Tuesday.

Mrs. Esther Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Will Bailey, Jr., and children were Clarion shoppers Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Langdan were Dows callers Tuesday.

Brooks Heath of Mason City spent several days this week at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks.

P. W. Fortner was a Mason City visitor Wednesday.

The following people attended the big Legion Day at Iowa Falls: D. W. Whitten, Peter Mathiason, C. W. Fowler, F. M. Myers, F. H. Fowler, Ray Azeltine, Chas. Aldinger and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ryder They report a fine time.

The Kalvig family, who have been living in the residence which was vacated by Dr. Gordon, moved their household goods to Clarion last Friday. Mrs. Kalvig and family went Wednesday evening, Mrs. Kalvig returning between trains Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howell are moving in the place vacated by the Kalvig family.

Mrs. Mary Braden went to Cedar Rapids Friday to visit a sister-in-law, Mrs. Carsner, who is very ill.

Mrs. Fred Welsh and Mrs. Fred Jensen were Clarion visitors Friday and also attended the fair.

Mrs. Vaughn went to Danville, Ill., Friday night to visit her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Vaughn. She has not seen her son, who was in the war, since his return from overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moellering, son Fred, and three daughters left Friday by auto for several weeks trip thru Illinois. They will visit relatives at Joliet, Chicago, Peoria and LaSalle.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fanselow and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Payton were Hampton callers Monday.

The Misses Mildred and Cleo Duffy went to Faribault, Minn., Friday, to visit at the home of their uncle, Art Walker, and family.

Mrs. J. B. Simons and two grandchildren of Eagle Grove came Thursday to visit at the home of her son, Joe Simons.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ferguson of Eagle Grove came Saturday to visit at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Joe Simons.

Mrs. D. E. Packard of Belmond visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Steffens Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen were at Coulter Saturday where they attended a party in honor of Mrs. Hansen's father's 80th birthday.

Mrs. Earl Jacobs of Goodell spent Sunday night and Monday at the H. Gates home.

Mrs. Maude Keheler and son who have been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harold Steffens, returned home to LaPorte Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whitten of Clarion spent Sunday at the parental Whitten home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Patton went to Belmond Saturday where Earl consulted Dr. Steele concerning his foot in which he ran a nail. It was necessary to open it as blood poisoning had set in.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kuns of Forest City came Wednesday to visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Earl Patton, returning home Friday.

Mrs. Willard McCallum was very ill last week, suffering from gall bladder trouble. She is able to be about again at the present writing.

Last week the school board hired Miss Kervink to teach in the Rowan school the coming year.

Fred Brooks and son George returned from their trip to Minneapolis where Mr. Brooks purchased a car load of fine cattle, Holsteins. He expects to put these cattle on his farm in the spring.

A. E. Emerson and Ray Harson returned from Minnesota Thursday. They report the potatoe crop in the part of Minnesota where they wete as very poor.

Mrs. H. J. C. Box and daughter Blanche visited at the Arthur Box home in Clarion Friday.

Mrs. Viola Tibbets of Dows visited at the home of her brother, O. E. Ballou, Friday. She and Mrs. Ballou spent the day in Clarion attending the fair.

Miss Nellie Hackley returned from her visit with her sisters at Sioux Falls, S. D., Wednesday. She spent last week with her sister Elva at Dows, who has been ill. Miss Nellie reports her as some better.

Mrs. Jesse Agnew and children have been visiting at the home of her brother Arthur Box, at Clarion the past week.

L. N. Johnson of Sioux Falls visited at the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Fowler, Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Marsas of Rake who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs Ed. Underdahl and helping care for the new son at that place, returned to her home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Reeding and two grandsons of Churdan visited at the home of their granddaughter, Mrs. Gay Fletcher, Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Fitz of Clarion also visited at the Fletcher home Monday.

Fred Clark, who has been visiting his niece, Mrs. Dan Fletcher, went to Estherville Saturday to visit at the home of his nephew, Dave Frizzell and family.

George Wessels spent Sunday with his family at Thornton.

Miss Janice Rowen of New Rockford N. D. came Thursday to visit relatives here. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowen formerly of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Edgerley, their daughter Neva, and son Kenneth and wife of Grandville, Ill., were calling at the home of old friends here on Saturday.

Mrs. Geo. Whitten, Miss Vinne, and little Ivan Williams were Hampton dental callers Saturday.

Miss Elenor Stebe of Alden is visiting at the home of her friend, Miss Marie Hinkley.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hubbel and family motored to Ellendale, Minn., last week to visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Lester Crabtree.

Mrs. Will Ferguson spent Thursday and Friday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Farmer of Clarion and attended the fair.

Last Tuesday night the Young Ladies Mission study club gave a farewell party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ballou. About fifty were present and the evening was spent in games, music and various stunts. Refreshments were served on the lawn and the guests departed at a late hour wishing Fred's much success in their new home at Hayfield, but regretting the loss from our midst very much. They moved their household goods by auto truck the last of the week, Fred going with the goods. Mrs. Williams and children remained with friends and relatives until Tuesday.

Harry Steffens, the older son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Steffens, was very sick the past week. He was threatened with typhoid fever but is thought to be better at the present writing.

Mrs. Chas. Lynch and two children of Lanesboro, visited the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Farren, returning home Sunday.

Jesse Steffens and Donald Farren attended the C. G. W. employers' picnic at Council Bluffs Sunday.

Little Clara Jane Howell was on the sick list a couple days.

The Cong. Ladies' Aid society will meet with Mrs. Chas. Burger Friday afternoon August 19th. All the ladies are requested to be present as there is lots of work to do.

Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Britson of Roland were calling on Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Nye Thursday. Rev. Nye baptised their youngest son, Severt Virgel. Mr. and Mrs. Britson lived near Rowan a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Brooks of Waverly visited at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks, last Sunday.

Miss Charter of Hampton spent Sunday at the A. C. Rietz home. At the evening church service she favored the congregation with a violin solo which was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and their children of Clarion were calling on relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sinclair of Clarion were visitors here with friends Sunday.

J. D. Pritchett traded some of his land to Fred Brooks for one of his store buildings now occupied by Theo. Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Barzon of Chicago visited at the home of the latters' sister, Mrs. Carmon, the past week.

Mrs. Jennie Brown of St. Paul, is visiting at her sisters', Mrs. Fred Williams.

Mrs. J. M. Stroud and three children of Wyanet, Ill., came Wednesday for a visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen.

Miss N. Hansen of Chicago, who has been visiting at the home of her brother, Peter, returned to her home Sunday.

Leone and Vernard Pepper of Dows visited at the home of their aunt, Mrs. John Keheler, last week. Their parents motored up Sunday to accompany them home. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardener of Wichita, Kan., also visited at the Keheler home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tresidder went to Clarion Saturday to visit their son Howard and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Richards of Alexander were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tresidder.

Mrs. Archie McCallum and children of Thornton visited Friday at the Wm. Bingham home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sim Stout were called to Albert Lea Saturday by the serious illness of Mrs. Bert Pierce, their niece, who has had several operations and failed to rally from the last one as well as expected. Mr. Stout returned Monday, reporting her no better.

Mrs. Bert Barker, who has been visiting at the parental Barker home, was called home to Hampton by the death of an aunt.

Mrs. Edwin Nelson went to Hampton last week for an examination by the clinic of the hospital there.

Lewie Winkleman and family came Sunday to visit friends here. They were accompanied by the Chester Bailey family to Mason City Monday. They returned to their home at Wall Lake Tuesday.

Frank Snyder went to Clear Lake Monday after his Ford which was stolen at that place the time of the Legion Day. He returned with it on Monday.

Dick Virden and daughters May and Frances motored to Waterloo on Friday to visit relatives over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Olsen were Clarion callers Monday afternoon.

Last Monday the following people enjoyed a picnic dinner at Silom Springs, near Iowa Falls: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sinclair of Clarion, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French, and Mrs. Fred Brooks. They report a fine time with lots of good things to eat.

Mrs. Gay Fletcher spent Sunday in Clarion at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitz.

Mrs. Wm. O'Laughlin of Kalona, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French.

Matt Virden of Minneapolis visited at the home of his uncle, Dick Virden, this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harris of Thornton visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stevenson, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Kellog of Goldfield visited several days the past week at the Ed. Miller home.

Charley Groft of Goodell visited at the Guy Stumph home last week.

Geo. Miller of Hampton was a caller at the home of his brother, Ed., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller, Mrs. Blanch Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gates and Mr. and Mrs. Art Kelling spent Sunday at the home of Earl Jacobs at Goodell.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewie Winkleman and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bailey were Belmond visitors Sunday.

Chester Bailey was dismissed from the doctor's care with his broken hand and started work again on the R. I. section.

Little Donald Laurence, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John McAlpine, was born May 16th, 1921, and died August 13th, 1921, age nearly three months. The little fellow was taken sick a week ago Sunday and suffered very much. Funeral services were held at Belmond at the St. Francis' church, and he was laid to rest in the cemetery there. The parents have the sympathy of their friends in this time of sadness.

Mrs. L. A. McCallum, who has been visiting her mother at Dubuque, has gone to Chicago to visit her son Verni and wife for a short time.

The Andrew Whitten Post No. 159 American Legion, met in regular session Monday evening. O. F. Braden, Harvey Lineweaver and Rev. Tomkinson were elected as delegaets to attend the state convention which will be held at Spirit Lake Sept. 1, 2, 3. Guy Toyne, Albert Moellering and Jim Rowen were chosen as alternates.

ROWAN CONG. CHURCH NOTES

Morning worship—11. Come with your friends.

Sunday school -12:00. We want you in our Sunday school this Sunday.—Come.

Union service in the M. E. church 8:00 p. m.

The Christian Endeavor will have their service at 7:30 a. m. Sunday morning the 21st of August.

The Junior Endeavor will meet on each Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the church.

The mid-week meeting will be held at the church Wednesday evening at 8:00.

Be sure and hear Rev. Nye next Sunday evening at the Union services at the M. E. church. He will have a message that will be educational, spiritual and an uplift. Don't miss these union services. They are worth your time as there will be good sermons and music.

The officers and members of the Cong. church invite you and your many friends to attend our services on Sundays and during the week. If you have no church home we invite you to come with us and you will find that our church will make you feel at home and ready to help you whenever possible. Let us be of service.

Rev. Nye will deliver an address on a question that is worthy of your attention at the union services at the M. E. church Sunday evening. He will talk on the question "Let Us Take Christ Out of the Bible." Good music—come. Services begin at 8:00.

ROWAN M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Services will be held in the M. E. church as usual next Sunday, when the pastor will speak on "Hopeful Signs in Several Skies." Union service will be held in the M. E. church in the evening. Rev. Nye will deliver the sermon.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church will hold their annual meeting for the election of officers at the home of Mrs. Guy Stumph next Tuesday afternoon.

The Rev. Harold Tomkinson, pastor of the M. E. church, after an absence of four weeks occupied the pulpit last Sunday and spoke on two vital themes, "The World Beautiful", and "The Ideal Church." The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the church was held last Friday and presided over by Dr. J. J. Bushnell of Algona. A unanimous invitation for a third year's pastorate was extended to Rev. H. Tomkinson. The district superintendent promised to use all his influence in having Mr. Tomkinson returned.

The Eagle Grove "Eagle" in reporting the Wright County tennis tournament paid a high tribute to the ability and sportsmanship of the Rowan players. Three of the Rowan players reached the third round in the singles, and two in the doubles, and two of the Rowan players reached the semi-finals in both singles and doubles. The Rowan team are planning a local tournament in which a free-for-all competition will be arranged.

Same Old Story But a Good One.
Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experence, the like of which has happened in almost every neighhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlian's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."

Only 80c
---TO---
MASON CITY and Return
Lower Than the One Way Fare
On Special Trains via
CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN R. R.
SUNDAY, AUGUST 21ST

Leave Belmond 8:22 a. m
Arrive Mason City 9:30 a. m.
Returning leave Mason City 6:30 p. m.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS
Beautiful Clear Lake. Boating, Fishing and Other Attractions. No reduction for Children. No baggage checked. For detailed information consult TICKET AGENT, C. G. W. R. R., Belmond, Iowa

Now for the Youngsters

SCHOOL TIME is not far away and those youngsters are going to need a pair of "Sturdy Shoes" that'll stand the hard knocks. Remember too ---the young foot is the most delicate and must be fitted right. We can do it.

We have a dandy lot of new school shoes ready for your selection.
The price will please you.

WOODRUFF'S
115 N. Federal Mason City, Iowa

Every man in the class knew the answer

PROFESSOR HASKINS.
WAS A kindly soul.
BRIGHT ON some subjects.
BUT SO absent-minded.
THAT ONE day at the barber's.
HE TOOK off his collar.
TO GET shaved.
AND FORGOT where he was.
AND KEPT right on.
TILL THE cash-girl screamed.
AND A barber stopped him.
HE WAS a great smoker.
BUT HE'D often put.
THE BURNT match in his mouth.
AND THROW away.
THE CIGARETTE.
HIS STUDENTS loved him.
HE WAS so full.
OF FUNNY surprises.
ONE DAY he had a tube.
OF RADIUM and he told.
THE STUDENTS all about it.
AND FINALLY, by mistake.
INSTEAD OF the tube.
HE PULLED out one.
OF HIS cigarettes.
AND ASKED the class.
"WHAT IS the one thing.
WHICH DISTINGUISHES.
THIS MARVELOUS substance.
FROM ALL others on earth?"
AND THE class roared.
"THEY SATISFY."

Air-Tight Tins of 50
Ask your dealer to show you the new vacuum-sealed tins of 50 Chesterfields. A compact, convenient and absolutely AIR-TIGHT packing—the cigarettes keep fresh indefinitely.

WHAT is it you've always wanted a cigarette to do? You know the answer. Chesterfields do it—they not only please your taste, they satisfy! It's all in the blend—a secret blend of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos. It puts Chesterfields where none can touch them for quality and value.

They Satisfy
Chesterfield
CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

ALEXANDER NEWS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Green were callers at Hampton last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen were business callers at Fort Dodge last Friday.

Fred Greenfield was a Hampton caller Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Larsen were Sunday visitors with relatives at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rodemeyer and children were Iowa Falls visitors last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludwick of Sheffield visited at the John Bell home last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilko Pals and Mr. and Mrs. Meno Frohling of near Belmond autoed to Osterdock last week and visited at the Will Tinkey home.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kieslich and Elmer and Blanche were visiting with relatives at Geneva last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and the Misses Nellie and Jesse Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son were visitors at Kanawha last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Winwood visited at the George Yaw home at Iowa Falls Sunday.

Archie McCallum of Thornton was a visitor in town the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Green of Hampton visited at the Lloyd Green home Sunday.

Christopher McCallum of Rowan is visiting at the home of his son Bernard this week.

The Dorcas society will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Otto Kieslich next Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 24th. All ladies are invited to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Larson and children visited at the Edd Miles home at Ventura last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arends and family were Belmond callers Saturday.

The following persons attended the Wright county fair at Clarion last Friday: Mr. and Mrs. Will Ammerman and son Alfred, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kieslich and children Elmer and Blanche, Will Foughty, Bert Kieslich, Mrs. John Bell, Miss Jessie Bell, Mr. and Mrs. John Arends and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Croft and daughter Alice.

OLAF NEWS ITEMS

Geo. Thompson worked at the elevator Saturday and Monday during the absence of Geo. Baxter.

On Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kessler drove up from Iowa Falls, and on Friday they drove on to Armstrong, accompanied by Geo. Baxter, wife and baby. They will spend several days at the lakes in southern Minnesota, but Mr. and Mrs. Baxter will return Monday.

Farmers seem to be rushing the shelling of corn, the last few days.

Frank Miller of Belmond will plow for Fred Lynch on the farm rented by Julius Johnson the past year.

A number have been ailing of stomach trouble which seems quite prevalent this year.

G. Halverson and family will start on their vacation trip this week and were gone they will visit relatives at Grove, in Story county, and will also attend the state fair.

THE REWARD OF MERIT

The young man who always has the interest of his employer at heart seldom fails. The young man who is willing to come to work early and to stay late has very little trouble with his employer. The man who takes an interest in his work eventually has an interest in his company. The man who continually dreads to do his task is doing an injury not only to his employer but to himself as well. The clock watcher, who sees how much longer he must work before he can go home sometimes gets to stay at home. The clock watcher who sees how much longer he can work before he must go home has no difficulty in making good in business. If you do not do more than you get paid for you will never get paid for more than you do. ***

PICNIC SUPPER

A picnic supper will be given in the park by the June and July committee of the Rosary society, Thursday afternoon, August 18th. Members of the society are urged to come and bring their family and friends. Bring plates, forks, spoons and cups. If the weather is unfavorable the meeting will be held in the basement of the library.

WRIGHT COUNTY FAIR NOTES

(From the Monitor.)

It is the general concensus of opinion that the Wright county fair of 1921, held last week, was the best all around exhibition ever given by that society. The exhibits of horses, cattle, hogs and poultry were not only much larger, but excelled in quality any previous attempts in that line. For the most part the same can be said of the floral hall. To the untiring efforts of Secretary Moore and President Wilson, who worked early and late, in rain and sunshine, is largely due the sucess of the fair. They are receiving deserved praise from all quarters. The fair was a financial success also it being estimated that not far from $1,000 will be the surplus this year. Some new improvements have have been made and paid for and some old accounts wiped from the slate. A full accounting of receipts and disbursements will be made later. Secretary Moore expects to be ready to pay all premiums by the last of the week, when checks will be mailed.

There has been considerable talk since the fair relative to forming a new stock company and purchasing the grounds. This has been done in other localities and the proposition made to pay a good return on the investment. The Farmers Elevator Co. will have a clear title to the property in December, a year from the time same was sold at Sheriff's sale.

The attendance on Thursday was nearly 8,000 people, while about 6,000 came the last day. Probably 2500 would cover the crowd on the first day.

The American Legion drill pleased the crowd, altho it was not up to the expectations of the boys themselves. Their Ford car was given to Kenneth Davies of this city. The legion treasury was enriched $700 by the sale of tickets.

The stock parade in charge of O. J. Pardun won the applause and admiration of several thousand people. While the numbers might be larger, few county fairs in Iowa can excell the quality of stock shown in the parade.

The gentlemen from Muscatine did a big business in watermelons, selling 1,200.

A total of sixty-eight race horses were on the grounds and all but five or six were in one of the several races. 2:12 1-4 was the best time made. The track record is 2:10. It was a good showing considering the condition of the track.

The ball games were hardly up to the expectations of the crowd—too much rag chewing. In the first game Kanawha defeated Hampton by a 8 to 0 score. The same club won from Webster City something like 15 to 8. Kanawha has the best team in this section.

The Clarion Women's club reports a surplus of $345 from sales at their stand.

The free acts were the best obtainable and they were pronounced first class by all. The carnival shows were clean.

The music by the Clarion, Goldfield and Belmond bands was enjoyed and appreciated by all. Next year Eagle Grove should be invited and the four bands give a concert.

The Dayton township ladies carried off first honors for the finest booth. Lake second, Lincoln third and Boone fourth. The display and general arrangement of the booths was a credit and honor to each contestant.

The community tent was patronized beyond expectations, 318 babies being weighed, measured and tagged.

Miss Kate Liddle county nurse, was in charge. She was ably assisted by Mrs. George Barnes of Clarion. Of the total number of babies 180 were found under weight. The ladies also cared for an average of a dozen babies while the mothers did the fair. Someone brought a baby to the tent from out side the grounds, where it was found in an automobile, crying lustily. Some time later the mother made casual inquiry as to whether or not they might have an extry baby on hand. Some people are pretty careless with their babies. The demonstration of bathing the baby was in charge of four girls, a large doll being used. The girls were Isabelle Weber, Pearl Woodley, Daisy Lesher, Velda Hill.

The Hampton canning factory began operations this week. The run this year will not be as long as former runs owing to the decreased acreage put out this year. The factory is paying $10 a ton for corn.

Hunger, the Best Sauce.

Sauce is used to create an appetite or relish for the food. The right way is to look to your digestion. When you have good digestion you are certain to relish your food. Chamberlain's Tablets improve the digestion, create a healthy appetite and cause a gentle movement of the bowels.

Belmond Local News

For good milk and cream, call the Ash Grove Dairy. tf

Mrs. Ed Jenison and daughter, Gladys and Iola, of Belmond were Klemme callers yesterday.—Times.

Dining room girl wanted.—Hotel Case.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bohning are the parents of a baby boy, born on August 11th.

Sugar Dale Dairy fresh milk eight cents a quart, and cream 30 cents a pint, at the Cash Meat Market. Phone 60. 2tc

Belmond, compared to many of the towns around, observes the automobile laws better than its neighbors in most particulars. There have been very, very few accidents, of either serious or minor consequences, in Belmond caused by careless driving.

Fresh Bread on Sunday at the Belmond Bakery. tfc

Mr. and Mrs. George Elder and family were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Spooner at Storm Lake.

Mrs. Furuseth went to Rochester last week where she consulted medical authorities at the Mayo hospital in regard to her health. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. O. T. Jacobson.

Miss Gilda Nelson was a visitor with friends at Eagle Grove last week one day.

Rev. Meier of Manson, formerly of this place, has been spending his vacation visiting at the Friesleben home here.

Mr. Foster, the new restaurant man, is advertising a sale of 500 pounds of mixed candies for 25 cents a pound. See his ad in this issue of the Independent.

Miss Marie Kendall of Kanawha underwent an operation at the hospital here on last week Saturday for acute appendicitis, the appendix being ruptured when the operation took place. The patient is reported as recovering nicely.

Randall Klemme underwent a minor operation at the local hospital last week for the removal of his tonsils.

Uneta Packard had her tonsils removed at the hospital the first of the week.

For Sale—A I farmer's note for $1,500, 10 months, 8 per cent. Inquire at Independent. 1t*

C. C. Christie, the new agriculture teacher in the local school, is a son of Marvin Chistie of this place, and well known to all Belmond people.

Ronald Pucell is attending the fair at Waverly this week, with his cousin, Raymond Walton, who is running a stand there.

Miss Gladys Kimmel of Manly was visiting old friends here one day last week. She is a former resident of this place.

HOW FAR IS IT TO —?

So many people who own a car do not know how far it is to the towns around Belmond, and when they want to make a trip have to chase around asking the distance, that the Independent hopes the milage list printed below will be of service and value to its readers. The milage as given is as near correct as could be secured, and if wrong the Independent would appreciate it if corrections will be pointed out. Distances given are by road from Belmond.

The distance from Belmond to—

Town	Miles
Goodell	06
Klemme	12
Garner	19
Forest City	33
Lake Mills	49
Galt	12
Rowan	10
Dows	20
Clarion	14
Goldfield	24
Eagle Grove	28
Fort Dodge	53
Kanawha	14
Algona	47
West Bend	52
Meservey	12
Clear Lake	33
Sheffield	22
Mason City	43
Iowa Falls	48
Ackley	50
Des Moines	90
Alexander	16
Hampton	28
Thornton	18
Britt	29

INDEPENDENT WANT ADS

Every sack of Peacock Flour is now guaanteed to give satisfaction. $2.25 per sack—why pay more?—T. S. Wallace & Co. tfc

Two second-hand kerosene stoves for sale. Also two second-hand washing machines, which can be equipped for power.—Townsan Hardware.

New and second-hand tires at very reasonable prices.—Christ Rise, Phone 85.

Wanted—A girl for general housework.—Phone 73. 1tc

Found—Lady's coat, west of the Harry Bamford farm. Owner can secure same by proving property and paying costs. Inquire at Independent office. 2tc

Found—Automobile tool kit containing tools. Owner can have same by proving property. Call at Independent.

For Sale—Three well-bred Durham bulls.—M. G. Luick, Phone 3506. 2tc

For Sale—Two tractors, complete: One Titan with three-bottom plow, One Sampson with two-bottom plow. Also five head of work horses and two mules, one gang plow, one four-section steel drag, and one heavy Studebaker wagon. Inquire at the State Bank. 2tc

Ask Your Grocer For

BELMOND BAKERY

BREAD

BELMOND BAKERY BREAD IS SOLD BY THESE GROCERS:
W. W. GOETZ
B. K. KINSETH & SON
C. G. JOHNSON
ADAM HOLLMAN
LUTZ GROCERY

We can honestly tell you that our bread is becoming more popular every day. We want to win your patronage by baktng good bread. Ask your grocer for it next time.

BELMOND BAKERY
P. BARBAN, Prop.
Phone 259 Belmond, Iowa

"The Way To Wealth"

Says Franklin, "is as plain as the road to the market. Our failures are not caused by not knowing what to do, or how to do it, but because of the lack of will to do what we ought—lack of determination. Every man knows that he ought to save—almost every man can save, but lacks the will to start saving. So he lives on, spending money as fast as he earns it—but he's nothing to show for it.

START A SAVINGS ACCOUNT TDAY!

We Pay 5 per cent Interest On Savings Accounts.

Belmond Savings Bank

Home Baking at the Woman's Exchange

Homemade Bread, per loaf	15c
Nut Bread, per loaf	35c
Pies, each	40c
Devil's Food Cake	40c
White Cake	40c
Spice Cake	40c
Nut Cake	50c
Sunshine Cake	50c
Angel Food Cake, large size	$1.00
Doughnuts, per dozen	20c
Ginger Creams, per dozen	25c
Plain White Sugar or Ginger Cookies, dozen	20c
Drop Cookies, dozen	25c
Baked Beans, pint	20c

Phone your order at any time and in any quantity.

Bring in your needlework or anything you have to sell. I charge 20 per cent.

MARY GEALOW

Phone 316 Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Local News

The American Legion at Dows is to stage a big day at that place on the 18th of the month, and had announcements of the affair distributed at the ball game Sunday.

Walt Ramsay, secretary of state for Iowa, was in town the first of the week visiting at the home of his twin brother, Wallace.

A. P. McGregor of Des Moines was in town the first of the week on combined business and pleasure, looking after land interests here and greeting old friends. He was formerly a resident of this place.

James Kenefick and a party of friends drove to West Bend Sunday to look over the grotto at that place. Jim pronounces it the finest piece of architecture he has seen in many a day, and says it is well worth the trip to see it.

The tax levies as printed in the Independent are said by Clerk Byers to be three and one-half mills lower this year than they were last.

Rev. Edge of the Methodist church is enjoying his annual vacation this week and next.

Next Sunday evening at the Congregational church two full-blooded Indians will give a program which will be of universal interest.

Henry Polmateer was at Goldfield on Sunday of this week where he went to see his brother William, who is very ill with heart trouble and dropsy. His brother was one of the old settlers of Belmond and vicinity and will be remembered by many of the older residents of the community.

Henry Polmateer was a recent visitor at Renwick at the home of his brother-in-law W. R. Benedict, who is very ill at this writing. Mr. Benedict underwent an operation at the Algona hospital last week, and is recovering very slowly.

A number of the ball fans from the county seat came over Sunday to see the game here between Belmond and Kanawha.

Theo. Lieuwen and family came over from Humboldt to spend the week end at the home of relatives here and visit with all friends.

Bernard Mennenga came down from Mason City the first of the week on business matters and to visit with old friends and relatives here. He was formerly a resident of Belmond.

The North Iowa Fair is on this week at Mason City, and a number in this locality have been in attendance the past few days. The reports of the fair are that it is very good with something doing all the time.

An airplane accident at Mason City last week resulted in the death of two people and the serious injury of another. Two young men were practicing a changing-in-mid-air stunt from one plane to another, by means of a steel-cable ladder, and the ladder became caught on the lower plane, both crashing to the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leonard and son Ralph of Swaledale were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Leonard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Rankins.

Wm. Trillit of Meservey died from the effects of the runaway in which he was injured last week Tuesday. He was loading sacks of grain on a wagon, and was throwing the last sack on the wagon when the horses started up, throwing him beneath their hoofs, so that they stepped on him, and the wagon passed over his body. Funeral services were held Sunday.

Fred Fulton was at Meservey Sunday where he had the Trillit funeral at that place that afternoon.

Revenue agents were here last week in regard to some of the taxes which ar imposed on luxuries and places of amusements.

A large delegation ofthe fans from Kanawha accompanied their team down here Sunday.

R. D. Kenefick was conducting a chance on a fine chair and table which he had made, Saturday, by selling chances to get the two articles of furniture. He had fifty numbers, and the holder paid the amount of the number drawn, getting a premium whether he won or lost. The lucky winner in the draw was Louie Foss, so Louie has a pretty fair start towards furnishing a home. The lucky number was five.

We pay the highest prices at all times for your chickens, eggs, butter and cream.—Grady Produce Company. 2tc

J. S. White spent last week Wednesday, Thursday and Friday assisting at the candy kitchen at Clarion during the county fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben B. Hogenson returned last Saturday from their wedding trip to Minneapolis, where they visited at the home of Mr. Hogenson's brother.

We buy your poultry, eggs, cream and butter and pay you the highest market prices.—Grady Produce Company. 2tc

Wanted—Family laundry and mending. Leave orders at this office. tfc

A number of local people attended the county fair held at Clarion last week, altho the number was not as large as former fairs have drawn. The almost universal opinion of local folks who were at the fair was that the fair was the best ever held in the county, with the best exhibits and the best attractions. The fair was largely attended.

Thornton will hold its big ox day this year on the 25th of August, and elaborate plans are being made to see that the day is the biggest and best ever. It is understood that the Belmond team will play the Thornton aggregation there that day.

Mrs. Clyde Jennings has returned from her recent visit with relatives at Cedar Rapids and Thornburg.

The past week and the first of this one saw practically the finish of the threshing season. The oats were very light in most places, altho there were occasional good yields. One farmer sold his oats for thirteen cents a bushel, as they were of such poor quality and so light that they went but eight bushels to the acre.

For Rent—Four room house, one block north of Community Service Station. Inquire F. C. Meacham.

Sugar Dale Dairy fresh milk eight cents a quart, and cream 30 cents a pint, at the Cash Meat Market. Phone 60. 2tc

The big community picnic with the Farm Bureaus from the four townships will be held the 24th and the program is now about completed.

Kanawha is planning on a base ball tournament to be held there on the 24th, 25th and 26th of this month, according to the Reporter last week.

Auto accidents of more or less serious consequences occured last week in which Kanawha and Klemme people figured, people from the former town having an accident at Algona and from the latter place at Jewel.

The Klemme Times last week agitates the passing at that place of a pure milk ordinance similar to the one passed here a few weeks ago.

The experience of the various towns around in the way of chautauquas this year has been almost universally one of loss. The only town around that has come anywhere near meeting the bill was Sheffield, which lost but $28 on the deal.

Eagle Grove won the tennis tournament recently held at that place, the Eagle entries taking both the singles and doubles.

The Great Western railroad has discontinued the running of the Motor on Sundays to Clear Lake, the officials finding that the traffic was not sufficient to make the motor pay on that day, the crowd using it being too small. Most people nowadays who go anywhere on Sunday use the family Lizzie, and the railroads seem to be out. A lower passenger rate might help the roads out some if they could see fit to make it.

Two Galt young men, one Ben Cain and Pope Johnson, got into an argument last week over some family affairs and used knives to settle it. The sheriff stepped in later and the cost of the party was $25 and costs apiece to the two men.

The Clarion Legion formed an auxiliary recently of the feminine relatives of the ex-service men.

Lee Stacy and wife and family drove to Waterloo Sunday to spend the day with relatives there. Lee reports Waterloo as being rather dead this summer. Probably due to the United Manufacturing Co. moving to Belmond.

Garner will hold a base ball tournament this year on September 6th, 7th and 8th, and the Garner papers announce that the teams to play will be Belmond, Dows, Lake Mills and Forest City. Thee will be purses aggregating $750.

The Legion at Clarion is planning a "40 and 8" day there in the near future, and expects to initiate candidates to the number of one hundred, some from the towns around.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ramsay entertained his father and mother from Garner, his brother Walter and family from Des Moines, and Sunday his brother and wife from the county seat drove over to spend the day at the Ramsay home.

Mrs. Wallace Ramsay and daughter Ruth accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ramsay and family to their home in Des Moines Monday where they will spend a few days visiting.

Miss Gertrude Ely is spending a few weeks vacation visiting at points in Canada.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pullin is under quarantine, Mrs. Pullin and the two children being the sufferers. The attack of the disease is very light, however.

Mrs. W. I. Rsecrans was a visitor last week with friends at Alden, Iowa.

Mrs. Ole Nelson, who has been on the sick list the past few weeks, is reported as still being very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Varland and family have returned from their vacation trip, spent at various points in northern Iowa.

Attorney W. E. Bullard made a trip to Lyle, Minnesota, last week, on some business matters connected with his profession.

Miss Erma Leese from Dumont has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pfaltzgraff the past week or so. She is a sister of Mrs. Pfaltzgraff.

Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell was elected as president of the Progress club at a recent meeting, taking the place of Mrs. E. W. Luick, who resigned.

Mrs. Randall came down from Mason City last week to spend a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. H. Klemme, and family.

Mrs. G. F. McBurney and Miss Coetta Foster have returned from their recent visit at Cedar Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs, E. S. Fyler returned last week from Inwood, Iowa, where they had been spending a week or so visiting with friends and relatives, and on last Friday left for Shellrock, Iowa, to spend a couple weeks visiting at the home of relatives there before the Professor's duties begin at the local school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flynn and family motored to West Bend on this week Sunday to see the grotto at that place.

While Jim Kenefick was returning from West Bend Sunday the lights on his car gave out. Jim stopped at Lu-Verne to have them repaired, but the flunky at the garage didn't know how to fix them, so Jim bought a big flash light and held that on the road all the way home. He says that it gave good service, too.

Another of those infrequent little rains visited this community on Monday night and Tuesday of this week, helping out a little. It was a cold, dismal rain, and felt more like October than August.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson and family from Huxley drove up the first of the week and visited a short time Monday at the home of Mr. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Johnson.

Good milk cow for sale, now fresh. —Sheriff Bros. 1t*

Mrs E Purcell was a visitor on this week Monday with friends and relatives at the county seat

Rev. Sauerman of Avoca, Iowa, a former pastor of the Congregational church here, filled the pulpit at that church Sunday He has been here the past week visiting old friends.

Mrs. E. F. Bailey returned from Iowa City on Friday of last week, to which place she recently accompanied J. D. Walton, who underwent an operation. Mr. Walton is reported as recovering nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Hill drove to Mason City last week Saturday where they are spending a few days at the home of relatives and attending the North Iowa Fair being held at that place this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hoffman and little son from Spencer were visitors a few days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bishop. Mrs. Hoffman is a sister of Mrs. Bishop.

Ronald Purcell went to Waverly last week to help his uncle, Raymond Walton, who had charge of a stand at that place during fair week.

The ladies of the Priscilla club were extended an invitation by Mrs. Duran Nagle of Clarion, complimentary to her mother, Mrs. Eugene Kinney, a member of the club, to spend Wednesday of this week at the Nagle cottage on Lake Cornelia. The ladies spent a very enjoyable time there last year.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Eaton entertained Mr. Eaton's parents from near Waterloo the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jenninggs spent Sunday of this week at Clear Lake, going up in their car.

Mr. and Mrs. Strieby entertained Mr. Strieby's brother and family from Garner over the week end.

It is reported that Bert Anfinson has purchased the Chas. Longley property in Belmond and will move into his new home as soon as some repairs can be made.

Sugar Dale Dairy fresh milk eight cents a quart, and cream 30 cents a pint, at the Cash Meat Market. Phone 60. 2tc

J. R. Larson and wife were guests at the W. O. Butterfield home on this week Sunday.

Mrs. J. E. Savogue and Mrs. Reed of Goodell were visitors at the W. O. Butterfield home recently.

Mrs. Glen Clark and Mrs. McNutt of Goodell were calling on friends here on Monday.

Miss McKorno from Fort Dodge was visiting friends here on Tuesday of this week.

Two slightly used suits of clothes for sale, size 38. Price reasonable. Call at the New Belmond Tailor Shop, south of the hotel. tfc

Miss Nellie Delaney was a recent guest at the home of Miss Marie Sullivan at Clarion.

ROBINSON'S

Bread, three 10c loaves	25c
Black Tea, per lb.	40c
Spaghetti and Macaroni, 2 lbs. for	25c
Rolled Oats, lb.	5c
Rice, 5 lbs. for	25c
Corn and tomatoes, per can	10c
Evaporated Pears, lb.	25c
Coffee	15c
5 bars Kirk's Flake White and 1 bar Jap Rose Soap for	35c
25c pkg. Golden Rod Washing Powder	15c
Two 1-lb. cans Salmon	25c

THE PLACE THAT'S BECOMING MORE POPULAR EVERY DAY---THE

Belmond Candy Kitchen

You Will Like Our Warm Lunches

- Try Our -
Home-made Candies

All-Wool Fabrics
Perfect Fit
Correct Style

We appreciate the fact that when a customer of ours purchases a suit or overcoat of us he must be satisfied.

Save This COUPON!
It is good for 25c credit on any suit cleaned and pressed and $2.00 on a new suit, at the new
Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. Tuffree, Prop.
South of Hotel
This Coupon Good Until Sept. 1st

IF you want to know the value of a "Dollar" try to borrow one.

If you want a Dollar to do it's duty, try it's purchasing power here.

Remember our line of fresh, smoked and salted meats, are the best obtainable and at all times sold at the lowest living prices.

FREE DELIVERY EVERY MORNING

Cash Market

Telephone 60 Belmond, Iowa

Fort Dodge Business College
...Announces...
FALL TERM SEPTEMBER 6
New Classes In All Departments
Write for Free Catalog
Address: W. F. McDaniel, Principal
Fort Dodge, Iowa

Specials

20 per cent discount on Voiles, Ladies' and Men's Underwear.

Men's Overalls	$1.25
55c worth of Kirk's Flake White and Jap Rose Soap for	35c
50c Pillsbury's Pancake Flour for	40c
50c bottle Nector for	40c
3 lbs. fancy Whole Rice or Navy Beans	25c

W. A. Parsons & Co.
We Deliver Phone 30
We Buy Eggs and Butter. Open Evenings

FARM BUREAU NEWS ITEMS

WATERWAY AID TO IOWA

"What is Iowa's interest in the success of the St. Lawrence deep waterway project?"

President J. R. Howard of the American Farm Bureau federation recently gave the answer, following his inspection trip over the proposed freighting route thru the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river to the ocean.

"This waterway," said Mr. Howard, "would bring ocean-going vessels to the harbors of Chicago, Duluth, Milwaukee, Detroit and Cleveland, and that would save the farmers of the middle west grain belt at least five cents a bushel on their surplus shipments, at the most conservative es timate. Those who are authorities say that this saving would be at least 16 cents a bushel.

TUBERCULOSIS IN WRIGHT COUNTY HERDS

Dr. Wall, one of the state veterinarians, from the Des Moines office, has just completed a series of tuberculin tests in the county with a result that out of fifty head of cattle tested eighteen reactors were found.

The following clipping taken from the Chicago Daily Drovers Journal shows how a dreadful disease like tuberculosis may be forced upon innocent children:

"Paris, Ill., July 21 (Special)— The residents of Edgar county are greatly aroused over an outbreak of tuberculosis which has recently occurred in a family in this vicinity, resulting from the use of milk from a reactor cow formerly owned by Robert Goben. The entire herd was tuberculin tested by a federal veterinarian two years ago. One cow eacted. She was tagged, branded and placed under quarantine by the Federal veterinarian acting as the representative of the Illinois state department of agriculture. The cow was suppsed to have been kept in seggregation on this farm under quarantine laws of the state until such time as she could be slaughtered.

"Because she was in good flesh and appeared healthy, Goben claimed she did not have tuberculosis and it was said boasted that he would be glad to have a whole herd like her. The government ear tag was removed and the cow was given to his farm hand, Robert Kelly, in lieu of money owed Mr. Kelly, it is charged. Kelly states that he took the cow to his home last spring. During the June following one of his girls, five years old, complained of a pain in her back. Dr. Martin, a local physician, was called and pronounced the case tuberculosis. Since then four other children have developed characteristic symptoms. These children range from 2 to 9 years of age. All have enlarged glands and nearly all have sores on the body. One is in a very serious condition because of the spine being affected.

"The cow was slaughtered at the local fertilizing plant yesterday and a post mortem was held by Dr. Brannigan, federal veterinarian employed by Edgar County Farm Bureau for the tuberculin testing of herds in this county. He was assisted in the autopsy by Dr. J. W. Martin, the attending physician of the family. The cow proved to have a generalized case and was condemned. The liver was considerably larger than normal and contained masses of tubercules. Tubercular lesions were found in both lobes of the lungs and in numerous glands of the body. The udder was also found to be affected with this disease. The examination was made in the presence of Mr. Crosby, county agent; H. R. Smith of the National Live Stock Exchange and Dr. Adams.

"There are seven children in the family and all but two contracted the disease. One girl, 11 years old, does not drink milk, and she seems to be perfectly healthy. This is also true of the six-month-old baby which has received no cow's milk.

"A pig which had been fed on this milk reacted to the tuberculin test and the family cat was found on post mortem examination to be affected with tuberculosis. Not only this, but a cow more recently purchased, kept with the condemned animal, has also reacted to the test and will be slaughtered during the next few days. It is a serious situation and the state's attorney has signfied his intention of prosecuting Goben on a criminal charge

CLUB GIRLS MAKE FINE SHOWING.

The Wright cunty girls clubs under the leadership of Miss Hazel Spencer f Grant township made a splendid showing with their club exhibits at the county fair last week.

The county exhibits consisting of sewing cooking, and canning products and it is interesting to know that all exhibits which were shown by the girls were of their own work and these girls who made such a splendid effort for a good exhibit at the fair should be congratulated upon the untiring efforts which were put forth.

The premiums as awarded to the club girls by the judge of this department were as follws: Grant "Tri-G" club, Wall Lake "Willing Workers," Dayton "Live Wires." The interest which is being taken by the girls of the county in this club work is gratifying to the officers and directors of the farm bureau because they realize the importance of this phaze of the farm bureau work and they realize the advantages which are to be obtained by training the minds of the girls for later work in the farm bureau.

READ AND REMEMBER HOW TO RESPECT THE FLAG

The following article, clipped from the Iowa Legionaire, should be read by every one and remembered:

The flag should be raised at sunrise and lowered at sunset. It may be raised at other times but should never be left out over night, except when it is under fire of an enemy. On Memorial Day the flag should be displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon, and at the peak from noon until sunset.

In raising the flag to half-mast, it should always be run to the peak and then lowered one breadth of the flag. In retiring it, it should first be run back to the peak, then retired. It should never be allowed to touch the ground.

When "The Star Spangled Banner" is played or sung, stand and remain standing at attention in silence until it is finished. When the flag is passing on parade or in review, if you are walking, halt; if sitting, rise, stand at attention, and uncover.

The flag should never be worn as the whole or part of a costume. As a badge it should be worn over the left breast. In decorating, the flag should never be draped or festooned, always hung flat. If hung so stripes are horizontal, the Union should be in the upper left corner. If hung perpendicularly, the Union should be in the right upper corner.

When the national flag and another flag fly by the same pole there should be double halyards, one for each flag. The flag should never be placed below a person sitting. It should never be used in such a way that it might become soiled. When carried in parade or when crossed with other flags, The Stars and Stripes should always be at the right, the place of honor.

When the flag is used in unveiling a statue or monument, it should never be allowed to fall to the ground but should be carried aloft to wave out, forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony. When the flag is placed over a bier or casket the blue field should be at the head. If used as an altar covering nothing should be placed on the flag except the Holy Bible, and the Union of the flag should face the altar.

THE BEST CROP OF ANY NATION

The best crop any nation or state can raise is a crop of just plain wholesome boys and girls. What would be the use of working hard to develope a fine country, unless there were some good dependable boys and girls to leave it to? But boys and girls are more difficult to raise than record-breaking cows or fine horses. Sometimes we get so interested in building up a fine farm, or a great city, that we forget to bring up the kind of children that can be trusted with these wonderful investments and enterprises. We cannot leave the boys and girls to grow up any more than a farmer can turn his cattle loose in the neighborhood and expect to have fine stock in the end. The youth must be given high ideals, and trained to be honest and dependable men and women, says Thrift Magazine. A healthy body can only produce a strong and vigorous mind. By constant effort on the part of parents and leaders, habits of thrift and industry are formed that will insure success. It takes time, trouble and money to raise a good crop of boys and girls, but it's worth it.

COMMITTEE OF 15 MEETS IN CHICAGO

The fifth meeting of the Farmers Livestock Marketing Committee of 15 was held at Chicago last week, on August 10. In addition to hearing reports of the various sub-commitees at that time, it was expected to perfect that plan for the establishment of co-operative live stock commission companies on the leading terminal markets.

MUST HAVE TICKETS FOR ALL ENTERTAINMENTS NOW

News: C. C. Sumners, with the Internal Revenue department, with charge of the Mason City offices, was in Clarion this week looking up unpaid taxes levied against amusement houses and also looking after the collection of luxury taxes, and he advises that there is a law which requires all public entertainments where there is a charge made for admission to have tickets printed in a regular form, stating plainly the place of entertainment, the price charged for admission, and the war tax. The official tickets must be somewhat like this:

ADMIT ONE
Oddfellows' Annual Ball
Oddfellows Hall, Clarion, Iowa
December 31, 1921

Admission	$1.00
Tax paid	.10
Total	$1.10

There is a $50 penalty attached to all amusement places which do not take out a special license, and another $50 penalty attached where tickets complying with the official froms are not used. All printers must make returns on all tickets printed, showing substantially the person for whom they were printed, the number printed, and a sample must be included. It is illegal to use a ticket that does not bear the date and place of entertainment.

Separate tickets must be provided for children, with the admission price and other information as on the adult ticket, with the extra information that it is for a child under 12 years of age.

STORE BUTTER FOR WINTER

"Even tho she does not have cold storage facilities every housewife can store butter now for use in winter months," says M. Mortensen, head of the dairying department of Iowa State College. "A brine method for storing butter gives satisfactory results and should be used now because butter now has better flavor and keeping qualities than that of some other months.

By putting butter away by this method it will be possible to have homemade butter during the winter months when there is shortage on the markets. There is usually a surplus about this time.

Butter which is to be kept for a long time should be firm when it is made, according to Mr. Mortensen. To have it in condition the cream should be quite cold before churning is started. The butter should be in small granules about the size of wheat kernels when churning is completed.

When the churning is finished the buttermilk should be removed from the churn and well washed from the butter with cold water. Then drain the butter and add the usual amount of salt before working it. After it has been worked sufficiently it is well to separate it in small rolls of one or two pounds each and wrap these in parchment paper or cheese cloth. A stone jar which has been properly washed and scalded will serve as a good container.

A brine of 35 pounds of salt to 10 pounds of water when poured over the butter will insure proper keeping.

It will be necessary to have a weight to hold the butter one inch below the surface of the brine. A cold cellar is the best place to keep the container. Brine will need to be added as the water evaporates.

$58,000PER MILE TOO HIGH

Fifty-eight thousand dollars is too high price to pay, for primary road paving in the opinion of the state high way commision. The commission has just disapproved contracts let by the Scott county board of supervisors for paving thirteen miles of the Davenport New London road and the Davenport-Gambril road with brick, bound with a bituminous filler.

As a futher reason for disapproving the contract the commission declares its belief that the levying of the special assessment of 25 percent of the construction cost against the adjacent property would prove a grave burden to property owners under pesent conditions. Further it is pointed out that in view of the heavy improvement program carried out during the past year by the county, in which over twenty miles of brick payments have been put down, the county would have to finance the proposed improvment entirely by means of bond issues and that, in the present condition of the money market bonds would undoubtedly have to be disposed of at a discount of from 6 to 7 percent. This would add several thousand dollars more per mile to the pavement construction cost.

There was filed with commission a petition from over seventy percent of the property owners in the assessment district asking that the pavement on on the proposed project be postpomed at least for a year or more. The commission has just written the Scott county board disapproving the two contracts and giving as its reason for the action, its belief that $52,000 to $58, 000 per mile is too much to pay for country highway paving at present and that the levying of 25 percent of the cost of such a priced road would work a hardship on the property holders.

U. S. GRAIN GROWERS SHIPS FIRST WHEAT

The first car lot of wheat consigned to the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., to leave North Dakota was shipped from Fairmont on August 2. It went to Zone Agency No. 2, St. Paul. The Fairmont shippers will receive at once seventy-five percent of the market value of the grain, the rest to be paid when the pool, of which the shipment was a part, is closed out at the end of the season.

North Dakota still leads all other states in membership in the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., for in addition to the 80 Equity elevators in that state, 101 local elevators and associations have been signed up by the growers' agency.

Over at Goldfield there is a man who believes everyone has the right to run their own business, and he proposes to run his as he wants to. He is Lou Sherman, editor of the Chronicle, and because he published the views of one D. M. Stevens, who is apposed to spending so much public money on roads, Editor Sherman was given a private lecture by some of the so-called "big-bugs" of that place, and warned and threatened to give Mr. Stevens the cold shoulder. Sherman promptly told the self-styled big-bugs where to head in at—and has the great majority of the town with him for it.

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles . Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

HUGE CHEESE PRODUCERS' FEDERATION PLANNED

What is said to be one of the largest combinations in the world for the purpose of handling cheese is being effected by representatives of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers federation and the Minnesota Cheese Producers association. When the agreements are completed and ratified by the respective organizations, the resulting federation will handle more than 20,000,000 pounds of cheese annually on a co-operative basis.

At a meeting held at Plymouth, Wisconsin, on July 26, the Wisconsin federation directors voted to admit the Minnesota producers upon the same terms as factories in Wisconsin. Thirty-three more factories will be added to the Wisconsin federation by the change, while Minnesota will be thoroly organized in the same manner. The factories which seek to affiliate with the Wisconsin federation control more than one-half of the cheese production of Minnesota.

Be photographed this year on your birthday.—Thoe Studio.

MOVEMENT OF STOCKERS AND FEEDERS BEGINS

With the arrival of late summer the movement of stockers and feeders from the West is beginning to make itself manifest at leading mid-west live stock markets. While present indications point to fewer numbers of such cattle in the country owing to restricted operations in certain cattle growing sections this year and the new tariff on Canadian cattle imports, this year promises to be one of the best in many for feed lot buyers to stock up to their full quota.

Stock and feeding cattle are comparatively cheap now, as is feed, and while they will go a little higher as the season advances, buyers, who purchase and feed wisely, are practically assurred a profit this coming year, according to one of the well known stockmen of the mid-west. He urges buyers to purchase only the medium-priced "well-doing" kind of cattle, for bitter expxerience in the past two years has shown that the extra good ones have been the heaviest losers.

The APPEARANCE

of your printed stationery reflects the character of your business

First impressions are usually lasting, and you should no more think of representing yonr business with ill-arranged, poorly printed stationery than with an uncouth, inexperienced salesman. The psychological effect would be the same.

If IT'S PRINTED WE CAN DO IT.

The Snap and vitality of our "distinctive,, printing registers instant approval. Ask a user.

Shift your printing troubles over to our shoulders--they are a burden to you--a pleasure to us.

ALL OUR PRICES ARE BASED UPON THE STANDARDIZED Franklin Printing Price List "ONE PRICE ON EVERYTHING MARKED-IN-PLAIN-FIGURES"

BELMOND INDEPENDENT
Distinctive Printers

A MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS of DEMOCRACY

By IRVING BACHELLER

COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois.

CHAPTER II.—At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Traylors. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young "Abe" Lincoln.

CHAPTER III.—Among the Traylors' first acquaintances are Lincoln's friends, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, 18 years of age.

CHAPTER IV.—Samson decides to locate at New Salem, and begins building his house. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies attempt to break up the proceedings. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Young Harry Needles strikes Bap McNoll, of the Armstrong crowd, and McNoll threatens vengeance.

CHAPTER V.—A few days later Harry, alone, is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and would have been roughly used had not Bim driven off his assailants with a shotgun. John McNeil, the Traylors' Niagara Falls acquaintance, is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so.

CHAPTER VI. — Traylor helps two slaves, who had run away from St. Louis, to escape. Eliphalet Biggs, owner of the slaves, following them, attempts to beat up Traylor and in a fight has his arm broken.

CHAPTER VII.—Waiting for his arm to heal, Biggs meets Bim Kelso, with whom Harry Needles has fallen in love. Biggs asks for Bim's hand, but her father refuses his consent. Biggs returns to St. Louis.

CHAPTER VIII.—Bim confesses to Harry that she loves Biggs, and the youth is disconsolate. Lincoln decides to seek a seat in the legislature. He and Harry volunteer for the Black Hawk war, and leave New Salem.

CHAPTER IX.—Biggs comes back to the village and he and Bim elope. Harry learns of it on his way home from the "war." Lincoln's advice and philosophy sustain him in his grief.

CHAPTER X.—Lincoln, defeated in his candidacy for the legislature, forms a partnership with "Bill" Berry in the grocery business. Biggs sends a gang to burn Traylor's house, but the New Salem men are warned and the raiders worsted.

CHAPTER XI.—Lincoln, now postmaster, decides to run again for the legislature. Ann Rutledge is openly in love with John McNeil. He leaves for his home in the East, promising to return soon and marry Ann. Lincoln accepts his defeat manfully. No word coming from McNeil, Ann confesses to Abe that his real name is McNamar, and her fears that he will not return. Lincoln in his deep love endeavors to reassure her, though he shares her misgivings. Lincoln wins his seat in the legislature.

CHAPTER XII.—Ann hears from McNamar, but his letter is cold and she is convinced he does not love her. She tells Abe of her doubt, and he confesses his love and asks her to marry him. Ann declares she does not yet love him, but will try to. With that promise Lincoln sets out for Vandalia and his legislative duties.

CHAPTER XIII.—Inspired by Elijah Lovejoy, Traylor arranges on his farm a hiding place for runaway slaves, a station on the "Underground Railroad."

CHAPTER XIV.—Ann agrees to marry Abe, but her health is wrecked. Three runaway slaves seek Traylor's help in escaping. They belong to Biggs and he comes in pursuit of them. Threatened with arrest for inciting the raid on Traylor, he flees. One of the fugitives is Bim in disguise. She has fled from her husband's cruelty.

CHAPTER XV.—Dying, Ann Rutledge calls for Abe, and he bids her farewell at her bedside. Following her demise a settled sadness descends on him. He is no longer "Abe," but "Abraham Lincoln."

CHAPTER XVI.—Overcoming his despondency, Lincoln returns to his work. Abolition sentiment is crystalizing and he throws himself into the movement.

CHAPTER XVII.—Traylor sells his farm and moves to Springfield. Lincoln plans to secure a divorce for Bim in order that she may marry Harry Needles, whom she has always really loved. McNamar returns to New Salem, too late.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Traylor and Harry Needles visit the "boom" city of Chicago, where Bim, now the mother of a son, is living with her parents. She has her divorce. Harry leaves for the Seminole war. An unscrupulous, rich speculator, Lionel Davis, desires to marry Bim, but she repulses him.

CHAPTER XIX.—Ruined by the panic of '37, Kelso dies and Bim and her mother are left penniless. Davis presses his suit, and, made desperate by the news of Harry's death, Bim almost makes up her mind to marry him.

CHAPTER XX.—Lincoln is admitted to the bar. Traylor ascertains that the report of Harry's death is false. He hurries to Chicago. Davis has swindled Brimstead, a friend of Traylor's, in real estate deals, and Traylor seeks to collect the money. Smallpox breaks out at Honey Creek, and Bim goes there as a nurse.

CHAPTER XXI.—Lincoln at Springfield enters into his life work. Harry Needles comes home and at once seeks Bim.

"Well, Joe, we'll all do what we can to keep you from being a shotgun lawyer," Abe Lincoln began. "I've got a good first lesson for you. I found it in a letter which Rufus Choate had written to Judge Davis. In it he says that we rightly have great respect for the decisions of the majority, but that the law is something vastly greater and more sacred than the verdict of any majority. 'The law,' he says, 'comes down to us one mighty and continuous stream of wisdom and experience accumulated, ancestral, widening and deepening and washing itself clearer as it runs on, the agent of civilization, the builder of a thousand cities. To have lived through ages of unceasing trial with the passions, interests and affairs of men, to have lived through the drums and tramplings of conquest, through revolution and reform and all the changing cycles of opinion, to have attended the progress of the race and gathered unto itself the approbation of civilized humanity is to have proved that it carries in it some spark of immortal life.'"

The face of Lincoln changed as he recited the lines of the learned and distinguished lawyer of Massachusetts.

"His face glowed like a lighted lantern when he began to say those eloquent words," Samson writes in his diary. "He wrote them down so that Josiah could commit them to memory."

"That is a wonderful statement," Samson remarked.

Abe answered: "It suggests to me that the voice of the people in any one generation may or may not be inspired, but that the voice of the best men of all ages, expressing their sense of justice and of right, in the law, is and must be the voice of God. The spirit and body of its decrees are as indestructible as the throne of Heaven. You can overthrow them but until their power is re-established, as surely it will be, you will live in savagery."

"You do not deny the right of revolution."

"No, but I can see no excuse for it in America. It has remained for us to add to the body of the law the idea that men are created free and equal. The lack of the saving principle in the codes of the world has been the great cause of injustice and oppression."

Honest Abe rose and walked up and down the room in silence for a moment. Then he added:

"Choate phrased it well when he said: 'We should beware of awaking the tremendous divinities of change from their long sleep. Let us think of that when we consider what we shall do with the evils that afflict us.'"

The boy Joe had been deeply interested in this talk.

"If you'll lend me a book, I'd like to begin studying," he said.

"There's time enough for that," said Lincoln. "First, I want you to understand what the law is and what the lawyer should be. You wouldn't want to be a pettifogger. Choate is the right model. He has a dignity suited to the greatness of his chosen master. They say that before a justice of the peace, in a room no bigger than a shoemaker's shop, his work is done with the same dignity and care that he would show in the supreme court of Massachusetts. A newspaper says that in a dog case at Beverly he treated the dog as if he were a lion and the crabbed old squire with the consideration due a chief justice."

"He knows how to handle the English language," Samson observed.

"He got that by reading. He is the best read man at the American bar and the best Bible student. There's a lot of work ahead of you, Joe, before you are a lawyer, and when you're admitted success comes only of the capacity for work. Brougham wrote the peroration of his speech in defense of Queen Caroline nineteen times."

"I want to be a great orator," the boy exclaimed with engaging frankness.

"Then you must remember that character is the biggest part of it," Honest Abe declared. "Great thoughts come out of a great character and only out of that. They will come even if you have little learning and none of the graces which attract the eye. But you must have a character that is ever speaking, even when your lips are silent. It must show in your life and fill the spaces between your words. It will help you to choose and charge them with the love of great things that carry conviction.

"I remember, when I was a boy over in Gentryville, a shaggy, plain-dressed man rode up to the door one day. He had a cheerful, kindly face. His character began to speak to us before he opened his mouth to ask for a drink of water.

"'I don't know who you are,' my father said. 'But I'd like it awful well if you'd light and talk to us.' He did and we didn't know till he had gone that he was the governor of the state. A good character shines like a candle on a dark night. You can't mistake it. A firefly can't hold his light long enough to compete with it.

"Webster said in the Knapp trial: 'There is no evil that we cannot either face or fly from but the consciousness of duty disregarded.'

"A great truth like that mak s wonderful music on the lips of a sincere man. An orator must be a lover and discoverer of such unwritten laws."

It was nearing midnight when they heard footsteps on the board walk in front of the house. In a moment Harry Needles entered in cavalry uniform with fine top boots and silver spurs, erect as a young Indian brave and bronzed by tropic suns.

"Hello!" he said as he took off his belt and clanking saber. "I hang up my sword. I have had enough of war."

He had ridden across country from the boat landing and, arriving so late, had left his horse at a livery stable.

"I'm lucky to find you and Abe and Joe all up and waiting for me," he said as he shook their hands. "How's mother?"

"I'm well," Sarah called from the top of the stairway. "I'll be down in a minute."

For an hour or more they sat by the fireside while Harry told of his adventures in the great swamps of southern Florida.

Harry Told of His Adventures in the Great Swamps.

"I've done my share of the fighting," he said at length. "I'm going north tomorrow to find Bim and her mother."

"I shall want you to serve a complaint on one Lionel Davis," said Mr. Lincoln.

"I have one of my own to serve on him," Harry answered. "But I hope that our case can be settled out of court."

"I think that I'll go with you as far as Tazewell county and draw the papers there," said Lincoln.

When the latter had left for his lodgings and Joe and his mother had gone to bed, Samson told Harry the details of his visit to Chicago.

"She may have taken the disease and died with it before now," said the young man. "I'll be on my way to Honey Creek in the morning."

CHAPTER XXII.

Wherein Abe Lincoln Reveals His Method of Conducting a Lawsuit in the Case of Henry Brimstead et al., vs. Lionel Davis.

They found many of Davis' notes in Tazewell county. Abe Lincoln's complaint represented seven clients and a sum exceeding twenty thousand dollars.

With the papers in his pocket Harry went on to the Honey Creek settlement. There he found that the plague had spent itself and that Bim had gone to a detention camp outside the city of Chicago. He was not permitted to see her, the regulations having become very strict. In the city he went to the store of Eli Fredenberg. The merchant received him with enthusiasm. Chicago had begun to recover from the panic. Trade was lively.

Harry spent the afternoon with Mrs. Kelso and Bim's baby boy. He wrote a very tender letter to Bim that day. He told her that he had come to Chicago to live so that he might be near her and ready to help her if she needed help. "The same old love is in my heart that made me want you for my wife long ago, that has filled my letters and sustained me in many an hour of peril," he wrote. "If you really think that you must marry Davis, I ask you at least to wait for the developments of a suit which Abe Lincoln is bringing in behalf of many citizens of Tazewell county. It is likely that we shall know more than we do now before that case ends. I saw your beautiful little boy. He looks so much like you that I long to steal him and keep him with me."

In a few days he received this brief reply:

"Dear Harry: Your letter pleased and pained me. I have been so tossed about that I don't know quite where I stand. For a long time my life has been nothing but a series of emotions. What Honest Abe may be able to prove I know not, but I am sure that he cannot disprove the fact that Mr. Davis has been kind and generous to me. For that I cannot ever cease to be grateful. I should have married him before now but for one singular circumstance. My little boy cannot be made to like him. He will have nothing to do with Mr. Davis. He will not be bribed or coerced. I saw in this a prophecy of trouble. I left home and went down into the very shadow of death. It may be that we have been saved for each other by the wisdom of childhood. I must not see you now. Nor shall I see him until I have found my way. Even your call cannot make me forget that I am under a solemn promise.

"I'm glad you like the boy. He is a wonderful child. I named him Nehemiah for his grandfather. We call him Nim and sometimes 'Mr. Nimble' because he is so lively. I'm homesick to see him and you. I am going to Dixon to teach and earn money for mother and the baby. Don't tell anyone where I am and above all don't come to see me until in good heart I can ask you to come.

"God bless you!

"BIM."

In a few weeks the suit came on. Davis' defense, as given in the answer, alleged that the notes were to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of lots and that in consequence of the collapse of the boom there had been no such proceeds. As to the understanding upon which the notes were drawn, there was a direct issue of veracity for which Abe Lincoln was exceedingly well prepared. His cross-examination was as merciless as sunlight "falling round a helpless thing." It was kindly and polite in tone but relentless in its searching. When it ended, the weight of Davis' character had been accurately established. In his masterly summing up Mr. Lincoln presented every circumstance in favor of the defendant's position. With remarkable insight he anticipated the arguments of his attorney. He presented them fairly and generously to the court and jury. According to Samson the opposing lawyers admitted in a private talk that Lincoln had thought of presumptions in favor of Davis which had not occurred to them. Therein lay the characteristic of Mr. Lincoln's method in a lawsuit.

"It was a safe thing for him to do, for he never took a case in which justice was not clearly on his side," Samson writes. "If he had been deceived as to the merits of a case he would drop it. With the sword of justice in his hand he was invincible."

A judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiffs for the full amount of their claim with costs. The character of Lionel Davis had been sufficiently revealed. Even the credulous Mrs. Kelso turned against him. Mr. Lincoln's skill as a lawyer was recognized in the north as well as in the middle counties. From that day forth no man enjoyed a like popularity in Tazewell county.

When Samson and Harry Needles left the courthouse, there seemed to be no obstacle between the young man and the consummation of his wishes. Unfortunately, as they were going down the steps Davis, who blamed Samson for his troubles, flung an insult at the sturdy Vermonter. Samson, who had then arrived at years of firm discretion, was little disturbed by the anger of a man so discredited. But Harry, on the sound of the hateful words, had leaped forward and dealt the speculator a savage blow in the face which for a few seconds had deprived him of the power of speech. That evening a friend of Davis called at the City hall with a challenge. The hot-blooded young soldier accepted it against the urgent counsel of Samson Traylor, Mr. Lincoln having left the city.

As to the details of the tragic scene that followed next day, the writer has little knowledge. Samson was not the type of man for such a chronicle. The diary speaks of his part in it with shame and sorrow and remorse. We know that it was at daybreak when he and Harry rode to a point on the prairie "something more than a mile from the city limits." There he tells us they met Davis and one friend of the latter and two surgeons. It is evident, too, that great secrecy had been observed in the plan and its execution and that, until some time after the last act, Lincoln knew nothing of the later developments in the drama of Davis' downfall. For the rest of the deplorable scene the historian must content himself with the naked details in the diary of a puritan pioneer.

"I went because there was no escape from it and with the shadow of God's wrath in my soul," Samson writes. "The sun rose as we halted our horses. We paced the field. The two men took their places twenty yards apart. The pistols rang out at the command to fire and both men fell. Davis had been hit at the left shoulder. My handsome boy lay on his face. The bullet had bored through his right lung. Before I could reach him he had risen to his feet to go on with the battle. Davis lay like one paralyzed by the shock of the bullet. His seconds declared they were satisfied. I saw them take the bullet out of Harry's back, where it had lodged under his skin. I helped them put the wounded men into the wagon and rode to the home of one of the doctors near the city wherein were rooms for the accommodation of critical cases, leading Harry's horse and praying for God's help and forgiveness. I took care of the boy until Steve Nuckles came to help me. Bim arrived when Harry was out of his head and didn't know her. She was determined to stay and do the nursing, but I wouldn't let her. She did not look strong. I loaned her the money to pay the debt to Davis and persuaded her to go back to her work in Dixon. She went and was rather heartbroken about it.

"The surgeon said that Harry would live if lung fever didn't set in. It set in, but he pulled through. He mended slowly. I had some fear of arrest, but the conspiracy of silence kept the facts under cover. It was partly due, I guess, to the friendship of John Wentworth for me and Honest Abe. He kept it out of the papers. There were no complaints and the rumors soon fell into silence.

"The boy, 'Mr. Nimble,' is a cunning little man. When he began to get better, Harry loved to play with him and listen to his talks about fairies. The young man was able to leave his bed, by and by, but he didn't get over his weakness and pallor. He had no appetite. I sent him with Nuckles into the Wisconsin woods to live in the open. Then I took the small boy to Dixon with me in the saddle. Bim had just got back to her work. She told me that Eliphalet Biggs had been there. He had heard of the boy and wished to see him and demanded to know where he was. For fear that Biggs would try to get possession of 'Mr. Nimble' I took him with me to Springfield in the saddle.

"I learn that Davis has recovered his health and left the city. A man can not do business without friends and after the trial Chicago was no place for him."

CHAPTER XXIII.

Which Presents the Pleasant Comedy of Individualism in the New Capital, and the Courtship of Lincoln and Mary Todd.

Samson, with "Mr. Nimble" on a pad stuffed with straw in front of him, jogged across the prairies and waded the creeks and sloughs on his way to Springfield. The little lad was in his fourth year that summer. He slept and talked much on the way and kept Samson busy with queries about the sky and the creeks and the great flowery meadows.

They camped the first night in a belt of timber and Samson writes that the boy "slept snug against me with his head on my arm. He went to sleep crying for his mother." He adds:

"It reminded me of the old days of my young fatherhood. 'Mr. Nimble' wanted to pick all the flowers and splash his bare feet in every stream. In the evening he would talk to the stars as if he were playing with them. He is like some of the grown folks in Chicago. He would sit hanging on to the reins, and talk to the horse and to God by the hour. He used to tell me that God was a friend of his and I think he was right. It was good luck to get back to Sarah and the children. They took the little stranger into their hearts. 'Heart room, house room' is the motto of this part of the country."

It was a new town to which Samson returned. The governor and the state officers had moved to Springfield. The new capitol was nearing completion. The hard times which had followed the downfall of '37 had unjustly diminished Mr. Lincoln's confidence in his ability as a legislator. He enjoyed the practice of the law, which had begun to turn his interest from the affairs of state. But the pot of political science boiled before the fireplace in the rear of Joshua Speed's store every evening that Lincoln and his associates were in Springfield. The wit and wisdom which bubbled into its vapors and the heat that surrounded it were the talk of the town. Many came to witness the process and presently it was moved, for a time, to more accommodating quarters. Before a crowd of people in the Presbyterian church Lincoln, Logan, Baker and Browning for the Whigs, and Douglas, Calhoun, Lamborn and Thomas for the Democrats, having assiduously prepared for the trial, debated the burning issues of the time. The effort of each filled an evening and Lincoln's speech gave him new hope of himself. Wise men began to have great confidence in his future. He had taken the style of Webster for his model. He no longer used the broad humor which had characterized his efforts on the stump. A study of the best speeches of the great New Englander had made him question its value in a public address. Dignity, clear reasoning and impressiveness were the chief aims of his new method, the latter of which is aptly illustrated by this passage from his speech in reply to Douglas in the debate mentioned:

"If I ever feel the soul within me elevate and expand to those dimensions not wholly unworthy of its Almighty Architect, it is when I contemplate the cause of my country deserted by all the world besides, and I standing up boldly and alone and hurling defiance at her victorious oppressors. Here without contemplating consequences before high heaven and in the face of the world I swear eternal fidelity to the just cause, as I deem it, of the land of my life, my liberty and my love."

In these perfervid utterances one may find little to admire save a great spirit seeking to express itself and lacking as yet the refinement of taste equal to his undertaking. He was no heaven-born genius "sprung in full panoply from the head of Jove." He was just one of the slow, common folk, with a passion for justice and human rights, slowly feeling his way upward. His spirit was growing. Strong in its love and knowledge of common men and of the things necessary to their welfare, it was beginning to seek and know "the divine power of words." Every moment of leisure he gave to the study of Webster and Burke and Byron and Shakespeare and Burns. He had begun to study the art of Irving and Walter Scott and of a new writer of the name of Dickens.

There were four men who slept with him in the room above Speed's store, and one of them has told how he used to lie sprawled on the floor, with his pillow and candle, reading long after the others had gone to sleep. Samson writes that he never knew a man who understood the art of using minutes as he did. A detached minute was to him a thing to be filled with value. Yet there were few men so deeply in love with fun. He loved to laugh at a story-telling and to match his humor with Thompson Campbell—a famous raconteur—and to play with children. Fun was as necessary to him as sleep. He searched for it in people and in books.

He came often to Samson's house to play with "Mr. Nimble" and to talk with Joe. Some of his best thoughts came when he was talking with Joe and some of his merriest moments when he was playing with "Mr. Nimble." He confessed that it was the latter that reminded him that he had better be looking for a wife.

But Lincoln was only one of many remarkable personalities in Springfield who had discovered themselves and were seeking to be discovered. Sundry individuals were lifting their heads above the crowd, but not with the modesty and self-distrust of Honest Abe. "Steve" Douglas, whom Samson had referred to as "that little rooster of a man," put on the stilts of a brave and ponderous vigor. His five-foot stature and his hundred pounds of weight did not fit the part of Achilles. But he would have no other. He blustered much with a spear too heavy for his hands. Lincoln used to call him a kind of popgun.

This free-for-all joust of individualism—one of the first fruits of freedom in the West—gave to the life of the little village a rich flavor of comedy. The great talents of Douglas had not been developed. His character was as yet shifty and shapeless. Some of the leading citizens openly distrusted him. Lincoln never liked this little man, in opposing whom he was to come to the fulness of his power on the platform. It is evident that Lincoln regarded him as an able advocate of small sincerity looking chiefly for personal advancement.

There is a passage in the diary which illustrates the character of Douglas and Lincoln's knowledge of it. The passage relates to a day in the famous debates of 1858. Lincoln had not reached Havana in time to hear the speech of his opponent. A great crowd had come by train and in wagons. Taking advantage of his absence, Douglas had called Lincoln "a liar, a coward and a sneak," and declared that he was going to fight him.

Lincoln heard of this and said in his speech:

"I shall not fight with Judge Douglas. A fight could prove nothing at issue in this campaign. It might prove that he is a more muscular man than I, or that I am a more muscular man than he, but this subject is not mentioned in either platform. Again, he and I are really very good friends and when we are together he would no more think of fighting me than of fighting his wife. Therefore, when the judge talked about fighting, he was not giving vent to any ill feeling, but was trying to excite—well, let us say, enthusiasm against me on the part of his audience."

Justice accomplished her ends now and then with comic displays of violence in the prairie capital. One night Abe Lincoln and certain of his friends captured a shoemaker who had beaten his wife and held him at the village pump while the aggrieved woman gave him a sound thrashing. So this phase of imperialism was cured in Springfield by "hair off the same dog," as Lincoln put it.

One evening, while E. D. Baker was speaking in the crowded village courtroom above Lincoln's office and was rudely interrupted and in danger of assault, the long legs of Honest Abe suddenly appeared through a scuttle hole in the ceiling above the platform. He leaped upon it and seizing a stone water pitcher defied any one to interfere with the right of free speech in a worthy cause.

So it will be seen that there were zestful moments in these sundry vindications of the principles of Democracy in the prairie capital.

About this time Miss Mary Todd, the daughter of a Kentucky banker, arrived in Springfield to visit her sister, Mrs. Ninian W. Edwards. She was a fashionably dressed, good-looking girl of blue-gray eyes and dark hair.

"Well, Mary, haven't you found the fortunate young man yet?" Mr. Edwards playfully asked the day of her coming.

"You know, my husband is going to be President of the United States and I hoped that I would find him in Springfield," Mary answered in a like vein.

"There's great fishing here," said Mr. Edwards. "I know the very man you are looking for. He has come up from the ranks and is now the most popular member of the legislature. He can make a stirring speech and they say he is going to be the President of the United States. He's wise and witty and straight as a string, but a rough diamond—big, awkward and homely. You're just the girl to take him in hand and give him a little polish and push him along. His name is Abraham Lincoln."

Speed knew the Todds. When he called upon Mary she asked about Mr. Lincoln and said she would like to meet him.

"She's just the girl for you, Abe," Speed said to him that evening. "She is bright and well educated and her family has influence. She could be a great help to you."

This interested the member from Sangamon county, who was indeed eager to get along. The companionship of a refined young lady was the very thing he needed.

(Continued next week)

KANAWHA WINS BY THREE TO TWO IN ELEVEN INNING

(Continued from page 1.)

way in which they handled a hard situation.

The line up of the two teams was as follows according to batting order:

Kanawha	Position	Belmond
Lewe	3b	Corcoran
Chapman	2b	Jones
J. Yepson	lf	Houge
Locke	c	Unger
Gilligan	rf	Ray
R. Yepson	ss	Baldridge
Harson	cf	Dillon
Deibler	1b	Christie
McCauley	p	Pillmer

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Kanawha	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1
Belmond	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

Summary: Hits—Kanawha 4, Belmond 4; errors: Kanawha 4, Belmond 4; left on bases: Kanawha five, Belmond eight; strike outs: McCauley 12, Pillmer 9: home run, Harson.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

(Continued from page one.)

ed the court for the appointment of a guardian for their mother Mrs. Bridget Madigan, who is seventy-four years of age and alleged to be of unsound mind. She is making her home with a son, Mike Madigan at Mason City. Her estate consists of money in bank, liberty bonds and a real estate mortgage, in all about $28,000.

Severe and Sams of Dows, have filed a replevin suit against J. A. Freese for the possession of a Poland China hog called "The Yank." Plaintiffs allege they sold the hog to defendant, reserving right to show him during the year 1921. When demand was made to take the animal to the Mason City fair defendant made refusal. Clerk Goslin issued writ of replevin as petitioned.

Sheriff Lang went to St. Paul last week and returned with Manuel Lopaz and Mrs. Nellie Tunnell of Iowa Falls, who were wanted on a statutory charge, the husband of the woman being the complaintant. Defendant was a cook in an Iowa Falls hotel where Mrs. Tunnel was also employed. The latter left her husband and came to Dows with the Mexican. Later they met at Clarion, where they are alleged to have registered as man and wife. They departed after a short stay and were next located in St. Paul, where defendant was employed as cook in a restaurant. A hearing was held at Dows Monday with County Attorney Rogers prosecuting the case. The man was held to the grand jury under $1,000 bond and the woman's bond was fixed at $500. Both are boarding with Sheriff Lang, being unable to secure bond.

HAMPTON CANNING FACTORY BEGINS OPERATIONS

Chronicle: The Hampton-Kelley canning factory will open next Monday to receive corn from the farmers, but will not start packing until Tuesday (this week) so those who are to haul in corn Monday can take notice. Employees will not begin work until Tuesday noon.

The acreage for the local factory is much smaller this year, so the packing season will not continue for a very long period. The corn in the field at the present time looks promising, but it is hard to tell just what the yield will turn out until the pack gets started. H. G. Kelley, manager of the factory, has made some investigation of the crops in the field, and he believes that a fair sweet corn crop is in sight.

Those who planted sweet corn last year raised a bumper crop in nearly every instance, and the large price received at that time proved to be a winner for the sweet corn grower. Those who failed to put in sweet corn acreage lost out considerably, because when the regular field crop was harvested the bottom had dropped out of the price.

WRIGHT COUNTY FEDERATION OF WOMENS' CLUBS TO MEET

The Wright County Federation of Womens' Clubs will hold their next meeting on August 23rd, in the woods at the J. D. McCumbers home, two and one-half miles northwest of Eagle Grove. There will be a picnic dinner and each club is asked to furnish their own sandwiches and a covered dish.

This is the annual business meeting with the election of officers, and a large attendance is greatly desired. The meeting will be called to order promptly at 10:00 a. m. and all delegates are urged to be there on time.

Belmond Local News

Rev. Sauerman of Avoca, who has been spending the past week here visiting old friends, returned to his home this morning. Rev. Sauerman was formerly pastor of the Congregational church at Belmond and now has charge of the church at Avoca. In addition, he has become somewhat of a poultry raiser, and states that he has some five hundred chickens at the present time. He has eight acres of ground on one of the main streets there, and has a lovely home.

Another good sousing rain happened on this vicinity Tuesday night and soaked things up generally, doing a great amount of good to the pastures.

The game between the teams from Belmond and Dows, scheduled to be played Tuesday at that latter place, was postponed on account of the wet weather.

Herschel LeBarron of Swea City, a cousin of ye ed, was in town a short time Tuesday evening. He is engaged in the barber business at Swea City.

Golf at the Country Club grounds appears to be becoming a popular pastime with a lot of local folks, and every afternoon and evening a bunch of bugs from Belmond drive down to tap the pill and then chase it. Matt Barry, describing the game, says that you see a couple, or three or four, fellows square themselves, give a little round pill a whack, and then spend the rest of the afternoon chasing over the surrounding vicinity looking for the pill. Must be that Matt has been having poor luck lately.

The noted, or notorious, Mr. Bliss had charge of the ball game at the county fair Friday, between Kanawha and Webster City, and proved up to the usual standard, as it was the most disgraceful and disgusting rag-chewing match seen this summer, both sides kicking and protesting from the start to the finish.

Frank Johnson, son of r. and Mrs. J. N. Johnson, who is receiving treatment in Colorado at a sanitorium, is getting along very nicely and is reported as gaining in strength and health every day, which will be good news to his many friends here.

Miss Lelia Jorgenson, of Delevan, has been the guest of Miss Alberta Pierce the past week. They were class mates at Mt. Saint Claire college at Clinton, Iowa, the past two years.

Mrs. D. H. Hake left this week for a trip to Minot, North Dakota, where she will visit at the home of her son. Dell, and family. She expects to be gone about two months.

Mrs. Del. Lobdell left recently for Sandwich, Illinois, where she will spend a few weeks visiting at the home of her sister-in-law and other relatives.

Mrs. Grace Aul has returned to her home in New York state after a visit of the past month or two at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hake, and other relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. Missman and child from Klemme were recent visitors at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ely.

The Kanawha and Belmond teams have met four times this year, with each team the victor in two games. On next Sunday, August 21st, they will meeting in the fifth and most grueling battle of the year at Lake View park. It certainly ought to be a game worth seeing.

Buy your fresh bread Sundays at the Belmond Bakery. tfc

Don't forget to attend the big picnic to be held next week Wednesday at Franklin grove. A big time is being prepared with a fine program and an excellent address, some fun-producing sports in the afternoon, and a lot of the finest eats. Everybody is invited to come out and have a good time. The local band will be on the job all day.

Sheffield Press: Members of our Merchants Protective Association answered a hurry up call to come to the Neuberger farm about midnight Monday. Two auto loads of men here and one from Chapin went to the place and found a large auto. When the owner was aroused he said that his car was disabled and he pulled ... er night.

BIG TIME TO BE HAD AT GROVE NEXT WEEK

(Continued from page 1.)

Grant and Belmond, prize $10.00.

Horse shoe pitching contests.

The doings will last all day, and will take place in a pasture just west of the Tyrrell residence, located in the midst of natural timber. A very large crowd is expected, and ample accomodations will be arranged for them all. If you want to have one of the best times ever, be at the Tyrrell farm on August 24th. The people of Belmond are especially urged to be present, for the picnic is to be a community affair and everybody is wanted. Come out everybody and enjoy the day with your neighbors.

NEW TEACHERS ELECTED

The following is the list of teachers in the Belmond school as reported for the coming year:

Maude Newgard—Sub primary.
Jane Ramsay—1st.
Rena Purdy—2nd.
Viva Rourk—3rd.
Bessie Quigley—4th.
Marie Leavy—5th.
Oralee Brooks—6th.
May Warnock—7th.
Inez Cockran—8th.
Harold Gruetzmacher—Science.
Grace Eastman—Commercial.
Edna Stedman—Domestic Science.
Mildred Baumgardner—Music.
Amy Peterson—English.
Hazel Thomas—Principal.
Claire Christie—Agriculture.
E. S. Fyler—Superintendent.
Adeline Sharon—Mathametics.
Ruth Dodd—Economics.

The American Legion post here at the recent meeting held for the purpose of organizing a woman's auxiliary, arranged to form the proposed auxiliary and officers were elected.

A recent letter received from Forrest Norem who is at Stevens Point, Wis., says that the potatoe crop in that state will fall far short of the usual run, estimates going from half to three-fourths of the usual crop. Pastures there are very dry, in places appearing to be burnt to the ground, the soil being very sandy. Gardens have been watered almost daily he states since the first of June. Corn there looks fine providing it is sweet or pop corn, and he says "I really cannot see what would ever bring an Iowa farmer to this place intending to farm with any success. For miles and miles there is nothing but sand."

Mrs. Maurice Dillon and daughter are spending the week with relatives at Mason City, and attending the North Iowa fair being held there this week.

Mrs. Henry Allen visited at the home of Mrs. Pat Dillon last week.

FARM BUREAU CUTS SALARIES OF GRAIN GROWER OFFICERS

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 11.—At a recent meeting of the United Grain Growers Incorporation, held in Chicago, a big reduction was made in the salaries of a large number of officials originally elected to manage the affairs of the company. The Farm Bureau, which is to be affiliated with the new incorporation, at once made a loud protest against the proposed salaries as were first announced, and the new company officials saw the handwriting on the wall and have announced substantial reductions in salaries.

At the meeting the executive committee of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., was asked concerning numerous rumors as to the activities which are afloat in various sections of the country. The committee was able to show that many of these rumors were false.

As a result of the meeting several recommendations were drawn up, the substance of which are as follows:

That the Farmers' Finance Corporation be reorganized so that a majority of its board of directors will be outside of the officers of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc. and that the scope of its activities be broadened to include all farm commodities. [illegible] means virtually that the corporation must stand upon its own feet as an organization and that the farmers' marketing committee now devising plans for the co-operative marketing of live stock, fruit, dairy products and other farm commodities will have something to say as to its management.

That the organization of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., in each of the separate states be placed in charge of the strongest farm organization in that state. In the majority of instances this means that the state farm bureau will have supervision.

That substantial cuts in salaries of officials of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., be made all along the line.

It is expected that the grain growers' organization will agree to these recommendations, altho since the meeting was brought about thru a special call, action could not be taken on any of these recommendations with the exception of salaries of officials.

The officials of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., have been considering the reduction of salaries for some time. The executive committee acted upon the matter and the salaries of th leading officers were reduced to $10,000 eac. The fomer salary of President Gustafson was $16,000; of Geneal Counsel Clifford Thorne, $15,000; Treasurer Eskhardt, $15,000, and Secretary Frank Myers, $12,000. The salaries of the heads of departments were reduced from $7,500 to $5,000 each; salaries of employees formerly $6,000 are now $4,500 and those formerly at $5,000 were cut to $4.000. The total reduction on the annual salaries of the ten leading officers amount to $29,700.

The contract between the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., and the Equity Co-operative Exchange [illegible] drawn up by the legal counsel for the two organizations called forth considerable discussion and numerous compromises were made necessary. Its final form is still unsettled. [illegible] there is every reason to believe that a contract reasonably satisfactory to both organizations will be completed and signed very soon.

Pesident J. R. Howard, of the American Farm Bureau federation, has been authorized by the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., to tell congress that the latter will gladly furnish a member of its staff to aid in the investigation of the "war chest" raised by the grain dealers at the Cincinnati meeting, as authorized by Senator Kenyon's esolution.

KEEP MILK OUT OF SUNLIGHT

If the housewife wants to keep milk and cream free of unpleasant flavors, she must not allow it to stand in the sunshine for any considerable time. Often milk stands in the sun on the back porch after the milkman has delivered it and many times its "off" or tallowy flavor is due to that fact.

Careful testing of the influence of sunlight on milk has recently been completed by B. W. Hammer of the dairy section of the Iowa Agricultural experiment station. He found that even ten minutes exposure to sunlight gave milk an "off" flavor and that 45 minutes was enough to make it taste tallowy.

Mr. Hammer recommends that every household provide a cool, shady box or other sheltered place into which the milk man may set the bottles of milk and creamy on delivery.

One of the latest additions to tourists' camping equipment is a goat for the furnishing at all times of a supply of fresh milk. Such a convenience was a part of the equipment carried on a tourist car which passed thru Atlantic. The goat was carried in a crate attached to the running board. When the tourists pitched their camp at noon or night, the goat was turned loose to browse, and, incidently, to furnish milk for the coffee and for the children of the party.

Hurrah! Hurrah!!

The Indians Are Coming To Town.

Next Saturday Night two full blood Indians will give a program at the Congregational Church

There will be no admission, but an offering will be taken up.

Be Sure and Hear These Men!

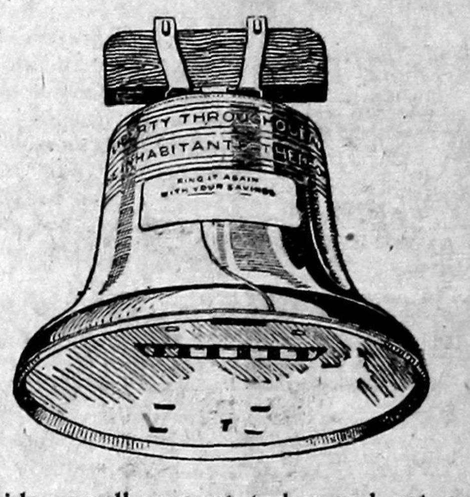
STRENGTH SERVICE

The Seed of Success

To save is the seed of success and the regular and systematic depositing of a little of all you earn is the cultivation of the fertile soil of incressed wealth and future financial independence.

Sow today and reap tomorrow.

Begin with as small an amount as $1 and open a Term Savings Account here that will pay you 5 per cent interest compounded semi-annually.



Lay a-ide a small amount today and get one of our Libeaty Bell Banks to save your spare change in.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Candy! Candy!

25c lb.

We have 500 lbs. of Fancy Mixed Candy which we are going to sell at this extra special price. This is your opportunity to buy real high grade candy at this extremely low price.

This candy will be on sale

Saturday and Sunday, August 20 and 21

FOSTER'S CAFE
Belmond, Iowa

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

VOL. 2 | BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 25 1921 | 8-27-81 | NO. 40

BIG PICNIC WED. DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Kanawha Wins Again Sunday By 7 To 4

Better Pitching By McCauley Tells The Sad And Pathetic Tale

TO PLAY HERE SUNDAY

The Belmond team went down in defeat again Sunday befoıe the hefty team from Kanawha by a score of seven to four after a hard fought and intensely interesting game at the Lake View park.

It was simply and solely a case of better pitching on the part of McCauley, the star southpaw of the Kanawha team. He outpitched Pillmer and that was the main reason. Pillmer was rather wild the first few innings and walked a couple of men who later scored on hits. The Kanawha batters found him for several good solid smashes in the first two innings, among them being a two-bagger by Chapman and one for three sacks by Gilligan, which, combined with the walks, gave Kanawha a four to nothing lead at the end of the second inning. Scoring three runs in the first inning, Kanawha started out to walk away with the whole shootin' match, and for the first four frames it looked as tho trey were going to get away with it, but after that, Pillmer tightened up and they never saw the pan after the fourth. But they had the game on ice anyway, and did not need any more to bring the bacon home.

Belmond never had a chance to cross the plate until the fifth frame, when they shoved three runs across making the score seven to four. In the next three innings they were held down, but in the ninth they staged a rally and for a little while it looked as tho they were going to cop that game sure.,With three straight errors on the part of Kanawha's infielders, the bases were loaded, with nobody out. But a strike-out was the first on the list, then an out at first which scored one run, and an easy out at second ended the agony.

So far as fielding was concerned. Belmond had the Kanawhites bested, making but two errors to the five for Kanawha. Belmond made seven hits to Kanawha's six, but Kanawha bunched theirs, and hit for more bases, making them count, while McCauley held the Belmond hits scattered and they accomplished little. Chapman of Kanawha got one two-base drive and Gilligan secured two for three sacks, all of Belmond's being singles. McCauley had 12 strikeout to the 9 for Pillmer, the latter walking two men and McCauley none. Both pitchers hit one man.

It was a good game and worth the seeing, and altho there were several kicks registered against the umpire—who was exceedingly rank at times on

Continued on page eight.

NO RECEIPTS NECESSARY FOR SPECIAL DELIVERIES

The local post office authorities received word last week that it would no longer be necessary to have the receiver of a special delivery sign a receipt for same. Heretofore, special deliveries have been delivered to the heuse or business, and a signed receipt taken, but henceforth they will be delivered without the receipt, according to the recent ruling of the postal department at Washington, D. C. The new ruling would seem to be the right idea, as receipting for a special delivery has been an unnecessary yard of red tape wound around postoffice clerks and postmasters, and accomplishing no necessary or desired purpose

OIL STATION RESUMES BUSINESS.

Recorder: The community oil company of Davenport, that started about two years ago and developed so rapidly that the organizers soon found themselves cramped for lack of capital with which to operate and procure sufficient merchandise to satisfy the increasing demands made upon them by their trade and were forced to close down temporarily several weeks ago. is now doing business. The local station in Hampton was opened again Monday by Sam Swearingen. the always accommodating station man, in chargt.

The corporation nas re-organized and the Midland Refining Company of El Dorado, Kansas, a $1,500,000 concern, has purchased a half interest which fact puts the Davenport community Service Station Company on a firm basis. It is said that the original stockholders are retaining their holdings in the company and many have invested consi erable additional capital in it.

"With the re-organization thus completed the company will have a paid up capital of $600,000" says the Davenport Times in its report of the affairs of the concern.

DOGS AT HIGH PRICE

Hampton Chronicle: Mrs. W. J. Keefe is beating the "tight times" and the poor returns from an oat crop. She has been breeding "German Police Dogs," a sort of a cross between a Shepherd and a wild dog, and they seem to be in much demand from those who are not worrying about the money stringency.

Several choice individuals have been shipped recently to various parts of the country, and this week Mrs. Keefe received an order for a male pup from a party in Kentucky, and another order for a pup from a party in Winnipeg and both of them were sold at fancy prices. A number of sales have been made at $100. The German Police Dog is said to be a very fine animal kind and gentle, but full of pep and a genuine watchdog.

GRAVELED ROADS TO SOLVE PROBLEM?

A year or so back, public opinion was turning toward pavement as a solution of our road problem. It was becoming to be a popular beleif that nothing but pavement could be permenently good road. It seems to us how, however, that the trend is back toward gravel again. Locally it seems to be in the case anyway. Men who were shouting strong for pavement a year ago, are now talking more mildly about it, or even open admitting their mistake and talking of gravel. The fine example of gravel roads built in recent years are probably bringing it about. Almost everbody will say they like the fine gravel roads east and west of Osage better than the Floyd county pavement. The gravel makes a beautiful smooth road, travelable in all weather. It costs about half as much and promises to be about as clean to maintain. Gravel can be spread out the full width of a wide grade, without prohibitive cost, but pavement is confined to a narrower width on account of the terrific expense. Its narrowness makes it dangerous. Our perdiction is that gravel, after all, will be the solution of our road problem.—Mitchell County Press.

TREESE-KASTLER

On last week Wednesday occured the marriage of Miss Edith Treese of Belmond to Mr. Louis Kastelr of Clarion, the ceremony taking place at the Methodist parsonage in Clarion the minister of that church performing the ceremony.

The bride has been making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Forristal of Belmond. The goom is engaged in the farming business near Clarion with his father, and next spring will take his bride to a farm which he will operate.

Both contracting parties are splendid young people and have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy and prosperous life together.

Jurors Picked For Fall Term Of District Court

List This Time Contains Only Male Voters From Belmond

TO REPORT ON OCT. 10TH

The list of jurors for the fall term of the district court in and for this county has been named, and of those who are chosen from Belmond, all are men, the ladies being ignored on this call.

The court will convene at Clarion on the first Monday of October, the third day, and jurors drawn are to report for duty on the second Monday of the term, or on October the 10th. Judge E. M. McCall of Nevada will preside at this term.

Those who have been drawn from Belmond are:

H. F. Luick
John Lundt
Howard Johnson
C. C. Griesy
Louis Dybdahl
Theo. Bonte
A. C. Mevers
Wm. Kruse
Ira Christie
Thos. Brooks
A. W. Leonard

EX-SERVICE MEN SHOULD FILE CLAIMS AT ONCE

Every ex-service man in possession of property subject to city, county and state taxes, should file claims with the county auditor under the state law which entitles veterans of the world war to $500 exemption. Under the new law the veterans are only allowed until September 1 to file their claims. Applications will be acted upon by the board of supervisors at its first session in September.

BERTHA ARLINE STOCKWELL

Bertha Arline Stockwell, daughter of Fred L. and Emma Stockwell, was born December 8, 1918, and died August 19, 1921, after an illness of three weeks of scarlet fever. To the sorrowing parents and relatives we commend these words of Longfellow:

THE REAPER AND THE FLOWERS

There is a Reaper, whose name is Death,
And, with his sickle keen,
He reaps the bearded grain at a breath
And the flowers that grow between.

"Shall I have naught that is fair?" saith he;
"Have naught but the bearded grain?
Tho the breath of these flowers is sweet to me,
I will give them all back again."

He gazed at the flowers with tearful eyes,
He kissed their drooping leaves;
It was for the Lord of Paradise
He bound them in his sheaves.

"My Load has need of these flowerlets gay,"
The Reaper said, and smiled;
"Dear tokens of the earth are they,
Where He was once a child.

"They shall all bloom in the fields of light,
Transplanted by my care,
And saints, upon their garments white
These sacred blossoms wear."

And the mother gave, in tears and pain,
The flowers she most did love;
She knew she would find them all again
In the fields of light above.

Oh, not in cruelty, not in wrath.
The Reaper came that day;
'Twas an angel visited the green earth
And took the flowers away.

A short funeral service was held at the cemetery on Friday morning, and was conducted by Rev. S. U. Leinbach.

OBITUARY

August Herman Prelipp was born March 10th, 1877, in Ball, Germany. With his parents he arrived in this country September 3, 1881, locating at Ft. Dodge at which place they lived eight years before coming to Meservey.

In 1895 during the labors of Re Sassman he was converted and joined the church, remaining a faithful member until the end.

He was married to Neeska Janssen on December 5, 1906. Three children were born to this union.

Last Tuesday evening while loading timothy seed he met with the accident which caused his death. Consciousness gradually returned after the accident and hopes for his recovery were held by all but the shock had been too severe. He remained conscious until the end came, Thursday, August 11th. He was taken in the very prime of life, having reached the age of 44 years, five months and one day.

He leaves to mourn his early departure, his sorrowing companion, two daughters, Mable and Ruth, and one son, Elmer (the only person who witnessed the accident); his father and mother; two brothers, Albert Schraeder, of Ogden and Wm. Prelipp, of Meservey; one sister, Mrs. Earnest Yahnke, of Long Prairie, Minnesota; besides many other relatives and friends.

He was a good husband, father, neighbor and citizen. We all regret his sudden departure. He has been called from his labors to his reward by the God in whose hands he had placed and entrusted all.

May we do likewise in this dark hour when we must live by faith in the wisdom of our Heavenly Father's dealings with us.

Brief funeral services were held at the home at 1:00 p. m. Sunday and later in the afternoon at the Evangelical church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Schlesselman.

Interment was made in the Meservey cemetery.—Meservey Register.

BROWN'S COLTS TRAMPLE NEIGHBOR BRADY'S MULES

Last Friday Neighbor Brady's Mules went over to Clarion to play with Farmer Brown's Colts, and the mean Colts trampled all over the innocent and good-hearted Mules, abusing them shamefully, stepping on their necks, kicking them in the slats, biting their ears, and ever'thing.

Farmer Brown, who is also a doc,—whether Veterianary or not we dunno—had had his Colts out on the race track at the fair ground, practicing them up, and had been feeding them a mash of oats and ground dynamite mixed with T. N. T. and some other stuff, and the Colts were feeling not only the oats but several things also. and they just wouldn't let the poor Mules have a look-in. Every time that Neighbor Brady's Mules wanted to play Farmer Brown's Colts would kick 'em in the ribs, and as a result the Mules went backwards every time they tried to go ahead—which is the Mule nature. And if the poor old Mules tried to stand still and behave themselves the ornery Colts came along and kicked 'em backwards. They gotta quit kickin' our Mules around. Neighbor Brady took his Mules over there for a social afternoon tea. and the Colts insisted on serving 'em coffee, strong coffee at that. When the Mules asked for hay they had to eat chaff; if they wanted oats they were given nubbins. Anyway, it was a good chance for Neighbor Brady to learn how to feed so as to make the largest gain. They say Colts and Mules never do get along together.

Seventy-three and a half persons saw the game. the half being a boy.

Awwnheehaw! It was 17 to 8.

A regular soaker came to town on Sunday night and as a result the roads in the country are mostly mud It was of vast benefit to the pastures which were more or less dry and much in need of the rain. A few of the vegetables will be benefiited but most of the growing things are too far advanced.

SPLENDID TIME ENJOYED BY MANY THEN

Program Of Readings, Musical Numbers And Vocal Selections Is Fine

E. G. DUNN GIVES TALK

Biggest And Best Picnic Ever Held Is Universal Comment

The big farm bureau picnic, of the four townships of Pleasant, Belmond, Iowa and Grant, and to which the town of Belmond was invited to participate, came off according to schedule yesterday and was a regular humdinger, both for attendance, program and entertainment.

An immense crowd was present at the picnic grounds, located on the Tyrrell farm south of town, and in the edge of the timber on the west side next to the river. The various committees who had the arrangements of the event in charge, had accomplished their work in splendid order, and had the grounds looking in ciptop shape with everything convenient.

The program began in the morning, and lasted all day, with everybody present enjoying themselves to the utmost. The program was somewhat delayed in getting started, but went thru in fine shape when it did. A splendid program of readings, vocal selections and musical numbers was enjoyed, and about noon the address of the day was given by Hon. E. G. Dunn of Mason City. Mr. Dunn gave a splendid address, one that will be numbered among the best ever given in the town. He dealt with the life of the American farmer, what he had to be thankful for, and what this country meant in the opportunities that it gives to its citizens.

Following the address, the crowd enjoyed a picnic dinner, each group or family bringing their own lunch.

After the dinner hour was a program of sports was held, in which races, both foot and stunt, were enjoyed, horseshoe pitching contests and featured by a baseball game between Grant and Belmond town... against Pleasant and Iowa townships the game being won by the former team, the score being seven to three. It was a good game, well played, and hotly contested thruout, but the west side of the road had the advantage in better playing and in the end took the victory.

The crowd dispersed about half past five in the afternoon, after one of the most enjoyable days that have occured here this summer. The picnic was an immense success from every angle, and the various committees who had the event in charge are certainly to be congratulated upon the successful conclusion of their plan The Belmond band furnished music for the occasion and added much to attractiveness of the program.

It is to be hoped that more of these community picnics will be held if they add much to the enjoyment and developement of community life.

The ladies of the Methodist church conducted a stand at the picnic ground and sold pop, and ice cream, the funds realized going for the benefit of the Franklin Grove cemetery. They had a very good day and realized a nice sum.

COMMUNITY WELFARE CLUB

The Community Welfare club will meet Friday afternoon, August 26th. The program will be "See America First. The leader will be Miss Ruth Klemme.

Serving Committee: Mesdames W. I. Rosecrans, Miss Ama[illegible]a Johnson. Miss Daisy Cameron, M[illegible] Gfeller, Geo. Elder, E. [illegible]. Ahltrom, W. O. Eaton, F. E. [illegible]r, J. H. Edge, Gus Larson and Miss Maye Tracy.

FREE AIR!

(Ladies and gentlemen: We present for your kind consideration this week the first installment of the Air pumped from outside, and with your kind permission we will make no comments, letting the colyum stand for itself. Thank you. One big round dollar to every colyum that sees the cold print. Who's next? Please write on one side of the paper only; if the "operator is in a rush he may not see both sides. Anything on anything but politics and religion. Hop to it. We have with us this week—)

Well Folks, here's another big fish trying to grab another dollar. That shows I'm true American. The Americans are forever being jollied about the Almighty Dollar, don'tcha know?

But one of the rules of the regulations is that I'm not to discuss politics so just forget I'm grabbing a dollar for this line of gab.

Well, here we are right in the most exciting time of the year; school time. Most of the kids are so anxious to get back and dig in that they stand with long faces, and a woe begone look, sort of like they had lost their last friend.

When you say "school" they either fly to pieces and cry or you can't see them for dust. (Mud this week.) Dad is all excited trying to figure a way to pay his for summer vacation, grocer and butcher bills and still have enough left from his summer's wages to buy little George a pair of school shoes. Maw is excitedly making school dresses for the baby who is to enter this year and the poor school teacher who boards with Maw has worn herself thin worrying over the baby beginning.

Some excitement.

There has been no report of raids on certain "stuff" (usually carried in the hip pocket when not in the cellar) lately but we still have evidence that there is some left. Last week we went to the fair. We saw everything going and then some. We also noticed that Mason has some hooch left unraided too. Cheer up, Holver; you're not alone.

The hardest thing is to paddle alone, you know, but if you have company it kind of helps.

From the looks of things we are now having the rainy weather we have longed for. Damp weather is sure the berries for marcel waves. Notice the girls. Not very many will you see standing in the rain. Why? They know the result on those marcels of theirs.

Well folks, hoary winter will soon be here and with it comes the realization of paw's fears, that he will not be able to pay for Sue's new winter furs and he asks her kindly to please wear her summer ones because he has just about paid the last installment on them.

The kids have noticed the call of winter and they climb almost without coaxing into their shoes and stockings.

Well, folks, I must ring off this foolish chatter because I simply refuse to edit the whole Independent. for a dollar. ***

(Now what d'ye s'pose they meant by those last two lines?)

DOWS MAN BADLY BURNED IN AUTO FIRE

A gentleman from Dows was probably fatally burned in an automobile accident last week Thursday evening, on a high grade about a quarter mile east of Dows. The grade there is extremely high, around seven to eight feet, and the car tipped over. The man was pinned beneath the car, the back of the front seat being across his chest, and he was unable to extricate himself. The car caught fire and the man was very badly burned from the chest down, his clothing being burned completely off. He was not found for some time, and laid there in awful agony for several minutes before he was discovered and released. He was taken to the hospital at Hampton, and at last reports was still alive, altho suffering intensely. The car was completely destroyed.

Business Directory

ATTORNEYS

W. E. BULLARD
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office hours 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 a. m.
1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

J M JENSEN
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Belmond, Iowa
Office Over State Bank of Belmond
Phone 86

PHYSICIANS

BELMOND HOSPITAL
DR. GEO. H. STEELE
Physician in Charge
Calls answered at all hours.
Telephone 14

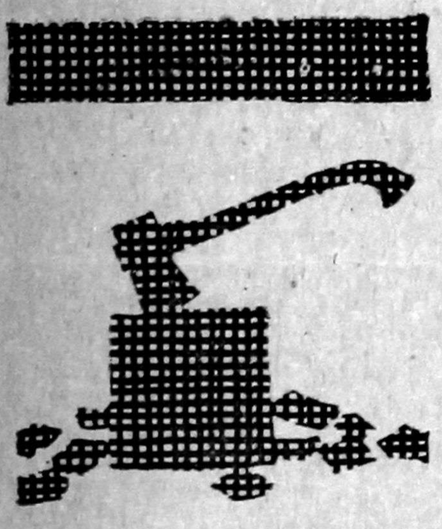
Real Estate and Insurance

At Your Service
WM. H. WOLLE
For accident, sickness, fire, tornado, grain protection.
Farm and Town Property, Owner's Price.
Belmond, Iowa.

VETERINARIAN

DR. A. W. RUSSELL
VETERINARIAN
Calls answered night or day.
Telephone, Residence, 62
Belmond, Iowa.

DR. R. G. BROWN
Graduate Veterinarian
Calls answered promptly day or night
Telephone 159
Belmond, Iowa.



We Like to Give Service

Or, to put it differently, has it ever struck you that it isn't the ease of the job, but your liking for it that makes it attractive?

We're in the battery business because we like it.

If we can give you service that you didn't know we had, we are particularly pleased. We don't stop with merely filling, charging and testing your battery, and selling you a new one when you need it. We're here to do everything we can to see to it that your battery gives most miles of uninterrupted service per dollar, and more satisfaction all around.

We like to be bothered. Come in anytime.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Phone 85 Belmond, Iowa

THREAD-RUBBER Willard INSULATION

This trademark, stamped in red on the case, identifies the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

Willard Batteries

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Subscription Price $2.00 Per Year
Entered as second-class matter Nov 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

"MAIN STREET"

The most bitter, biting and in a measure true indictment of the small town is contained in the book "Main Street," by Sinclair Lewis.

It is a story of "Gopher Prairie," a town of 3,000 people, in Minnesota, and includes in its scope the states adjacent. It deals with the life in that town of a doctor's wife, who came from the city, and the whole story is a sarcastic, biting indictment of the small town life, ideas and ideals. In a large measure it is only too true, disgustingly so; the characters in the story can be picked out in more than one instance from any small town, the episodes used have occurred in the memory of people in Belmond in many cases, while the narrow, restricted and selfish ideas that the author uses to bring out the strong points of his book are to be encountered readily in any small town, Gopher Prairie not being the exception.

No man could ever have written such a story unless he had lived in the small town; it is too true, too certain, to have been the result of imagination. But Sinclair Lewis has over-drawn the picture; he has exaggerated the town of his story into some thing that does not ring true in the whole. He has built his story in a town that is about 2,500 too large to have the scene natural. The mud and two-story frame shacks and the telephone poles and lay-out of his town do not fit in with the town of 3,000 today.

To Sinclair Lewis, there is nothing but ugliness, narrowness and an unprogressive spirit in the small town. His character, the physicians' wife, cannot see anything worth having or living for, in Gopher Prairie, whereas everything that makes life worth living, is right about her, but in looking for the "higher things" she misses the things that are.

There is as much, if not more, of friendliness and co-operation and helpfulness in the small town than in the city. Where people are folks and neighbors instead of roomers and chance acquaintances there is bound to be. But to Lewis there is nothing much of good, only much that is hateful and unbeautiful and narrow. His indictment must be admitted in a way, but to admit that "Main Street" as a whole is true to life is to admit something which cannot be proven. As there are such characters in "Main Street" so are there in "Broadway," and the small town has no monopoly on spiteful, narrow people, nor on things which are far from beautiful.

The shanties and shacks and the mud and tawdriness of Gopher Prairie car be met by the dirt and disease and the squalor and hideousness of the city's tenaments and "East Side." He who lives in the small town and then moves to the city is hurt by the callous disinterest and unfriendliness of the city dweller, after he has been used to the neighborly spirit of his small town home.

"Main Street" is a great story, a wonderful story, and must be read slowly to assimilate and appreciate it. It is a story that will not appeal to many people, and yet to the many whom it does it will become fascinating. It is real life, actual life, in a great many ways, and the reader who resides in a small town will pick from its characters many personalities whom he can reproduce in his own town, episodes which he can recall, and in the story he will become both intensely interested and absolutely disgusted: the one because it will be so true to life as he has himself seen it, and the other for the same reason.

Secure "Main Street" at the Belmond library, and take your time to read it thru. It will bring home to you as you have never had it brought before, the life that goes on about you in your own small town and will be both angry and astonished that the story can be so true to his own every day life.

HIRING A TEAM

The writer asked a citizen of Belmond whether he witnessed the ball game between Kanawha and Belmond, and he replied no, that they were hiring too many players to suit him and he wouldn't have anything to do with a hired team.

The Independent believes that he expressed the idea of most ball fans here. The support given the team this summer has been loyal and true, and one big reason has been because it was composed for the main part of home boys, and the public felt an interest in them which it could not feel in a hired bunch. Of course it is admitted that there must be a few employed men on the team, to fill gaps which cannot be successfully filled at all times by the local boys, and that there are occasions when all the home men cannot get away to play and their places must be filled, but an allsalaried, or even a two-thirds salaried, team will not draw the support or the approval of the public, for the public is going to consider that it is unfair to the local boys who have played and realized little or nothing from it. A team of home men—and the material is here for a good one—will go better than one of hired players.

THE NEW POSTMASTER

There have been very well grounded reports lately that a new postmaster will soon assume the duties of the local office. Politics must be served at every change of the national administration, and old employees, whether faithful, satisfactory and compitent, must go the way of all office holders who are not of the saving faith that is now engaged in saving the nation, whether that faith be one kind or another.

It is to be hoped that just consideration will be given to the applications on file before those who have the office in charge, and that politics will not play an unduly prominent part in the granting of position. Politics always has—and probably it always will—control the post office appointments, but it would seem that the time had about arrived when politics should consider, in the disposing of plums, which is the best qualified to fill the place to the best satisfaction of the public, and that the public—the "deer peepul" in the campaign of hot air, large promises and little results—was entitled to a say as to who should be their servants.

If the reports now circulating prove true, the Independent, for one, will be more than sorry to see the present post office force pushed out, for they have given a satisfaction and service that is seldom met with in the office of the small town.

CHURCH NOTES

CONGREGATIONAL
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

Eighty-three were at the services at Oscar Jenison's Sunday night. There were one hundred and four at Sunday school. That is getting dangerously near the hundred mark. Let's lift it higher next Sunday.

Sabbath school at 10:00 a. m. and the morning worship at 11:00. The evening services will be held at Mr. Henry Groen's and Miss Vida Jenison will be the leader. We hope to see over one hundred present at this the last of our out-door meetings.

St. Olaf Luther League

The Young Peoples' St. Olaf Luther League did not hold their regular meeting last Sunday, but will be held next Sunday evening, August 28th instead.

The choir will sing a number of good songs, a speaker will be arranged for, besides several other good numbers that will be rendered at this program.

Come and spend next Sunday evening at the St. Olaf church.

LUCKY STRIKE
Cigarette
To seal in the delicious Burley tobacco flavor.
It's Toasted
Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co.

CLIPPINGS

But Wasn't An Orderly Game?

We went to a ball game down at Belmond the other day and about every other man we met had a club tied to his right dumb waiter. Fact is we didn't know whether we were paying admission to a ball game or an inspection of a corporal's guard. It put us in mind of when we were a kid and they tied a rail fence around a cow's neck to keep her inside a fence that was in need of repairs. Had they fixed the fence the cows could have enjoyed life and no doubt gave sweeter milk. But we were just a kid then and didn't reason it out that way. Belmond doesn't need a standing army at a ball game. One good policeman can handle the whole works if they would gag and bind about a half dozen who always try to stir up trouble and they don't hail from Kanawha either. Do a little fixin' at the right time and Belmond and Kanawha will play as clean baseball as any two towns in this neck o' the woods.—Reporter.

Another mile of paving east of Garner was opened Sunday and the dirt cleaned off Monday. This makes two miles open—to Chris Nelson farm corner. This is quite a convenience, especially to the people who live along this two-mile stretch, who have been forced to go around for several weeks while the work was being done.—Garner Signal.

Dr. Morrison was robbed one night last week of all his gold—that is, all the gold he had in his office for dental work. About the same time two dental offices at Clear Lake were also robbed.—Garner Leader.

Mrs. Harold M. Williams, better known here as Miss Ruth Huntington, passed thru here Wednesday with her little daughter to her home in Belmond.—Advocate.

A Ford car containing a Belmond couple turned turtle a few miles west of Clarion Saturday night, landing the occupants in the ditch. Both were more or less cut and bruised and required the services of a physician. We did not learn their names. —Monitor.

Dows was well represented at Belmond last Sunday to witness the ball game between Kanawha and Belmond. Kanawha won the game in eleven innings, the score being 3 to 2. It certainly was a good game.—Advocate.

Report reached here last evening of the death of Mrs. U. B. Tracy in a hospital at Des Moines, at three-thirty in the afternoon. She is the wife of U. B. Tracy of the First National Bank.

Mr. Tracy received word in the morning that his wife was much worse but he was in Swea City at the time and the end came before he and his son, Albert, could reach the city. The remains were shipped over the Great Western today. Funeral services will be held at the Tracy home at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. The obituary will be given next week.

Rowan Auto Company

Automobiles Auto Repairing
Acetylene Welding
Tires Tubes Supplies

All Work Guaranteed

Carmon Bros. & Larson
Props.

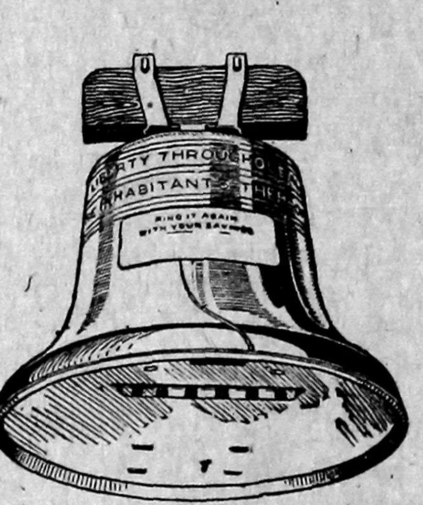
STRENGTH SERVICE

A REGULAR INCOME

From small beginnings, large fortunes spring---fortunes that pay regular incomes.

No matter how small, make your beginning immediately with this Bank and let us help you grow.

We pay 5 per cent interest on Savings Accounts, payable semi-annually. We provide security and service for you and our officers are ready to give financial service at any time.



Plant the seed of your fortune in a Liberty Bell Bank at home---we have one for you.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND ~ IOWA ~

---boys' school week at Gildners'

Now's the time to fit your boy out for school. The new fall togs are here, at new fall prices. You can buy from the largest selection now. Prices and qualities you haven't seen for years.

Boys' Suits	Boys Suits	Boys' Suits
(1 pants)	(2 pants)	(Double seat and knees)
$6.85 up	$8.85 up	$6.85 up

Children's Sweaters	Sweater Suits	Boys' Sweaters
(All wool)	(3 piece)	(All wool.)
$3.45	$5.45	$3.95

Buster Brown Stockings

Plain heavy rib	Double knee fine	Heavy double knee
25c	35c	45c

One lot Stockings 2 for 25c

One lot Boys' Overalls 85c

New fall arrivals are being shown in boys' and children's hats, caps, toques, knit caps, gloves, underwear, overcoats, top coats.

For true value, and attractive prices made possible by our buying power, see us before you buy.

Get to know
GILDNER BROS.
Iowa Largest Clothiers.
Mason City, - Iowa

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

Mrs. R .H. Kieth and daughter, Margeret, went to Goldfield wed. where they visited relatives for several days.

Mr. Wm. Tresidder was on the sick list the first of the week.

The Young Ladies mission study club met at the home of Miss LaVonne Ballou last Tuesday evening with Miss Francis Farren as leader. About a dozen were present and a very good lesson was enjoyed. This meeting was planned for a picnic but the rain made it impossible to carry out the plans. The hostess served home made candy and the evening was thoroly enjoyed.

Mrs. Mary Williams and son Ivan were Clarion callers Thursday.

Mrs. Morris Sullivan, of Ft. Dodge came Monday night to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher. She returned to her home Friday.

Mrs. Alfred Howorth returned to her home in Council Bluffs Thursday after a short visit with her sister Mrs. Burt Watt.

The firm at the Meat Market was changed this week when O. F. Braden sold his share of the business to Roscoe Robinson. Posession was given at once. "Ping" will go back to his mason trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pritchett arrived home from Rochester, Minn. Thurs. Mrs. Pritchett is doing nicely since her recent operation arriving home much stronger than was expected.

C. A. Dayton, of Estherville, spent Friday at the home of his sister, Mrs. D. A. French and also visited his father, who makes his home there. Mr. Dayton, Sr., has been in poor health the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hansen and children and Mr. Julius Christensen left Thurs. by auto for several weeks visit with relatives and friends at Sheffield, Wyanet and other points in Ill.

Mrs. Will O'Laughin, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French, went Thursday to visit friends in Hampton, Chapin and Sheffield. She returned to her home at Kalona Monday.

Mrs Bert Pelley and Miss Anna Rietz of Coulter called between trains Thursday.

Miss Francis Farren went to Hayfield Saturday to spend the week end with the Misses Lillian and Letha Schreck.

Mrs. Fred Smith and son Kenneth, of Clarion came Friday to visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. Snyder returning home Saturday.

Mrs. Viola Tibbets, of Dows was calling on relatives in town Saturday. She was on her way to Anita, to the home of herniece, Mrs. Harry Cate, to help care for a new ten pound son who arrived there Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Isaacson and two daughters were tran-ferreng in town Saturday and renewed old acquaintances. They were enroute to their home at Ft. Dodge from Dows where they had been attending the funeral of Mr. Isaacson's father.

Kenneth Ballou was a Clarion caller Saturday.

Miss Nora Shafer who has been to Hampton for several days taking treatment for rheumatism, returned home Saturday.

Mrs. Daisy Steffens visited Thursday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Packard of Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hearn of Bristow spent Sunday of last week at the home of their daughter. Mrs. C. E. Johnson. Her brothers Glen and Paul also visited her.

Fred Williams and son "Buddy" of Hayfield were Rowan callers between trains Saturday. He reports them as nicely settled in their new home.

Theo. Hansen was a business caller at Ft. Dodge Monday of this week to buy material for his new store building. The Masons are working on the wall now.

Mrs. L. A. McCallum returned on Monday from Chicago where she has been visiting her son Verni and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shier of Ft. Dodge spent last week at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ferguson and Will Ferguson and wife were Belmond callers Wednesday.

Mrs. L. W. Rooney, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Leslie Andrews, returned with her two daughters to her home at Sioux City Monday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bangasser of Ackley visited at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Leslie Andrews, Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Bangasser will be remembered as Miss Tata Pennings, formerly of this place.

Susan Duffy returned from her summer term of college at Cedar Falls Saturday. She reports a fine term only rather hot at first.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Andrews, Mrs. H. O. Hansen and Mr. John Hansen visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Hansen Friday.

Little Harry Steffens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Steffens, is very ill with typhoid fever. Dr. George has the case and it is thought he is doing as well as could be expected.

Wm. Tresidder spent several days the past week at Clarion helping his son Howard with his drayage business.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pooler of Ft. Dodge visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Smith.

Walter Berryhill of Wisconsin is visiting his cousin Wm. Duffy, Jr., and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith of Belmond spent Saturday night at the John Smith home.

Mrs. Sim Stout returned Saturday from Albert Lea where she was called by the serious illness of her niece, Mrs. Bert Pierce, who has had three operations at the hospital at that place. Mrs. Stout reports her as better but not out of danger.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleinschrodt of Belmond are visiting at the rome of her mother, Mrs. Joe Patton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Aldinger, Fred, Elsie and Mable left Thursday for Sioux Falls where they will visit relatives a short time.

Sunday about 30 relatives of Mrs. Jennette Patton surprised her in honor of her seventy-seventh birthday by bringing their well filled baskets and spending the day with her at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Hackley. A very pleasant day is reported and Mrs. Patton's many friends join with the children in wishing her many more happy birthdays.

John Bailey of Hampton spent the day Monday in Rowan with Miss Charter. He will play in the orchestra at the recital, the program of which you will find in this week's Independent.

The Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. Guy Stumph Tuesday afternoon. Mrs Sheldon was leader. At the business session Mrs. D. E. Harris was elected President, Mrs. F. B. Sheldon treasurer and Mrs. Guy Sheldon secretary. A very nice attendance is reported and a fine meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French and Mrs. Wm. O'Laughlin and daughter were Clarion shopperes Saturday.

Tom Ross spent the past week at Mason City attending the fair. He had stock there and received several prizes.

Little Varona Townsan of Belmond spent several days the past week at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris.

Leland Harris of Thornton remained with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stevenson last Sunday to stay a few weeks.

SCHOOL NOTES

Summer vacation is about over. School will begin Monday, Sept. 5. Will you be there the first day? Your classmates will be looking for you. Some of the happiest days are spent in the school. We will ever look back to those days with a sense of satisfaction. Our school life is preparing us for the great responsibilities of after years. Without this preparation we will be greatly handicapped. Many a person regrets that they did not make use of their school privileges. Prepare yourself and possibly your time will come as it did to others who got ready. We have splendid curriculum with electives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Friend of Bedford, Ind., who have been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harry Bohnett, spent Sunday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. H. J. C. Box.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Box of Clarion spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. C. Box.

Mr. and Mrs. Bunch of Waterloo and Mr and Mrs. Charley Robb of Dows called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten.

The Misses Wilda and Frieda Whitten returned Friday from their trip to Canada where they visited at Toronto, Bloomfield and Pickton also at Niagara Falls and spent two days of sight seeing in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stumph and children and Mrs. Earl Jacobs started Tuesday for Polo, Ill., where they will visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tourzek were callers at Dows Thursday.

Mrs. Fred Welsh and children visited relatives at Clarion Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Holiday and family arrived Saturday from Cedar Falls. He is superintendent of the Rowan schools for the coming year. The are located at the Will Azeltine house.

Saturday evening some of the girl friends of Mrs. Wm. O'Laughlin visited her at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French. A very pleasant evening was spent.

Prof. Smilie and wife of Dows were in town Saturday renewing old acquaintances. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Evans were with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Evans and daughters transferred in town Monday enoute to California to spend the winter.

Mrs. Hannah Whitten and Miss Angie Baines went to Spirit Lake on Thursday with Mrs. Whitten's brother, Will Baines, to visit relatives.

The following recital will be given by Miss Charter's music class in the Congregational church, Tuesday evening, August 30th. This finishes a very successful summer class and the pupils are a credit to their teacher.

1. Orchestra—Ventero March ------ Edris Mazurka.
2. Piano—Little Valse ------Marian Sellers.
3. Piano—Minuet in G--Nina Rietz
4. Violin—Over the Waves---Esther Emerson.
5. Piano—March in C------Loraine Liming.
6. Piano—Chasing the Butterflies-- Glayds Whitten.
7. Piano Duet—Blush Rose Waltz-- Anna and Nina Rietz.
8. Piano—Waltz in C-------Garnett Stumph.
9. Piano—A Joyous Youth----Lucile Nye.
10. Violin—My Old Kentucky Home ----Margaret Kieth.
11. Reading --------Francis Farren
12. Piano—A Nite In June-------- Bernice Hansen.

INTERMISSION

Orchestra—Romanza------Evergreen

14. Orchestra—Romanza--Evergreen Schottiche.
15. Piano—Le Secret------- Evelyn Whitten.
16—Violin—La Anquantaine---James Kercheval.
17. Cornet—Let the Rest of the World Go By —Kenneth Kieth. Silver Offering.
18. Piano—To A Wild Rose The Herdman's Cottage-- Anna Rietz.
19. Piano Duet—The Tread Mill Mabel and Gladys Cupp.
20. Piano—In the Swing ---Laverna Simons.
21. Violin—Mazureka ---------Fred Moellering.
22. Reading—Similar Caces-Kenneth Kieth.
23. Piano Trio—Taps ---Alta Allen, Anna Rietz, Bernice Hansen.
24. Orchestra—Nadine Waltz. Southern Belles.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and death of our little son, and for the floral offerings so kindly sent.

Mr. and Mrs. John McAlpine.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dray, of Grundy Center are the proud parents of a fine baby, their first born. Mrs. Dray will be remembered as Wava Fletcher, formerly of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fanselow took treir son, LeRoy to Hampton last week to have his tonsils removed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bailey and daughters, Bernice and Mrs. Casper Reasoner visited in Dows among relatives and friends over Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. I. N. Howell, Katherine and Lonnie, of Humboldt, and Mrs. George Watson and four children, of Winnebago, Minnesota, motored to Rowan Monday of this week to visit at the home of their son and brother, J. F. Howell and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sinclair, of Clarion spent Friday at the C. W. Fowler home.

Monday evening two full blood Indian boys from the Santee Mission School at Santee, Nebraska, gave a free entertainment in the Congregational church. The object of this entertainment was to show what Christianity is doing for the Red Man. The building was filled and all enjoyed a very fine program, which consisted of sacred songs, Indian songs and popular songs. The boys dressed in costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harris, of Thornton was called to Rowan last Friday by the illness of their son, Leland. Mrs. Harris remained to care for him. He is better at the present writing.

Word was received Monday of this week of the death of the little child of Mr. and Mrs. Sibert, of Belmond. Mrs. Sibert will be remembered as Jessie Teese.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society met last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charley Berger. The ladies have taken a contract for tying eighteen comforters for the D. W. Whitten General Merchandise Store.

The M. E. ladies had a special meeting at the basement of the church last Friday. This was a business meeting. A good crowd attended.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French and Mrs. Wm. O'Laughlin spent Sunday at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schreck went to Iowa City last Tuesday where Mrs. Schreck had an operation Friday. Mr. Scrheck stopped in Rowan between trains Monday of this week on his way home to Hayfield and reports her as doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Tourzek and Mrs. Fred Welsh were Clarion visitors on Monday.

Mrs. Ben Hackley went to Oskaloosa Friday of last week to visit relatives, returning home Saturday.

A. A. Williams is building a house 16x24 with a dining room and kitchen in the basement on Frank William's land in the grove. They expect to have it finished so they can move into it in about three weeks.

The union Sunday school picnic which was to have been held last week was postponed until Friday of this week no account of the rain. It is to be held in the grove next Friday and it is hoped the weather will be favorable and the community will turn

(Continued on page four)

AUCTION!

The Grossman Mercantile and Auction House will hold it's Fifth Gigantic Sale on Saturday, August 27th

At Your Own Price

All new furniture, rugs--all sizes, lamps, mattresses, auto tires, auto accessories and merchandise of all kinds on sale. COME and SAVE. Private sale at wholesale prices during week. Open evenings until 9:30.

J. M. Robertson, Auct.
Grossman Mercantile and Auction House
11-13 2nd St. N. W., South of Kirk Apts.
Mason City, Iowa

Hot Weather Diseases.

Disorders of the bowels are extremely dangerous, particulary during the hot weather of the summer months and in order to protect yourself and family against a sudden attack, get a bottle of Chamberlain Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. Itcan be depended upon. Many have testified to its excellence.

Cause of Appendicitis

When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or larges intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known asappendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis.

Halt! Read Every Word!

This Add Is Worth Dollars To YOU---
If A Renter or A Speculator Who Wishes A Home for His Loved Ones

Be your landlord---be your own boss. Was Darwin right when he said that without warning the finance would tumble---and take with it the Banker, Preacher, Doctor, Speculator and Wildcat Schemes, Stock and Bond Speculators. Did they get BUMPED? We need all of those men. They are useful to make people get sharper. However, we need more tillers of the soil.

We are selling the Soil---that is not Gold Bricks or Bonds, but the Earth itself---that makes the wheels of Commerce go---something that will produce the staff of life and plenty of it. If you have a few hundred dollars to pay down we will give you the ONLY CHANCE to make yourself independent. Look at the picture below---carefully.

Don't you think you can live on such as this? By paying a few hundred dollars down, and the balance in one-half crop payment yearly until paid.

Why pay high rent, and give the landlord six days of your work—Sunday thrown in?

SAMPLE OF THE FARMS WE SELL:

120 acres, three miles to market, about 60 acres cultivated, balance hay and timber; 5 room house, 16x24 barn for horses and other buildings. $800 cash, balance ½ crop payments. Get ready and go. We have 36 of those farms to sell. We want you as an owner of one. Pull the cash out of the old musty corner. Come let's talk it over, or write us your wants. You want the home—we need the money. Let's be partners. Be the owner of a farm. Take it.

Remember the only way you can get a Home is to work your own land.

Yours for a Great Big Bargain in Farm Lands. Insurance ONLY THE BEST.

WOLLE LAND AGENCY
Belmond, Iowa

But a good wheeze-I'll leave it to you

I LOVE the ladies.
BUT LIKE most men.
I OFTEN guess wrong.
ON WHAT will win.
A SMILE from them.
I ALWAYS say.
IT'S BETTER to laugh.
THAN EVER to worry.
SO ONCE, when.
THE DAM broke, and.
A FLOOD hit town.
I THOUGHT I'd just.
CHEER UP my wife.
AND SO I said.
"IF THE worst comes.
YOU CAN float down.
THE RIVER on.
THE FAMILY music-box.
AND I'LL accompany you.
ON THE piano."
WHICH WAS all wrong.
POOR HUMOR, she said.
WAS OUT of place.
IN TIME of danger.
SO KIPLING was right.
"A WOMAN is only.
A WOMAN, but a good cigar.
IS A smoke;" only.
HE SHOULD have made it.
MY CIGARETTES because.
YOU'RE BOUND to get.
A SMILE from them.
THEY ALWAYS "satisfy."

Air-Tight Tins of 50

Ask your dealer to show you the new vacuum-sealed tins of 50 Chesterfields. A compact, convenient and absolutely AIR-TIGHT packing—the cigarettes keep fresh indefinitely.

TAKE the silky, tender leaves of choicest Turkish; blend them with the best Domestic tobacco that money can buy—blend them in the exclusive, can't-be-copied Chesterfield way—and you get a "smoke." Yes, and something more—you get a cigarette that honestly "satisfies."

They Satisfy
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

OLAF NEWS ITEMS

Among those who shelled corn last week were J. C. Johnson, Tom Lundy, E. N. Ericson, Wm. Johnson, John Eliason expects to shell about seven thousand bushel this week.

Julius Johnson is plowing on the Nels Stockseth farm, which he has rented for next year. Gunder Gunderson lived on this farm for the past five years.

A number from here attended the Sondharland Lagot held at Eagle Grove, last week.

John Whitsell and family of Armstrong spent a few hours at the S. O. Windecker home Friday. They were enroute to Iowa Falls and Des Moines

Geo. Thompson and family of Palsville spent Sunday at the Henry Lein home.

A force of men have been working at the beet dump the past week, getting everything in good shape for the harvest of beets. A carload of cinders will be unloaded and the bad places filled, so that the trouble of getting stuck in the mud, with a load of beets, will be less frequent.

Mrs. W. J. Morse and little granddaughter Muriel Bohning, spent last week at the Orpha Anderson home.

Miss Carrie Baxter spent part of last week at the Geo. Baxter home. She will soon return to Milwau- to resume school work.

Mrs. Clarence Scott was a Belmond visitor Saturday.

Arthur Nelson of Mason City is visiting at his brother's, Ralph Nelson, this week.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder visited with relatives at Hampton last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Greenfield, of Belmond spent Thursday at the F. I. Greenfield home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Reed left last week for Illinois where they will visit with relatives.

Mr and Mrs. Charles [illegible] visited at the George Yaw home at Iowa Falls Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clark and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield, and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Larsen and two sons attended the North Iowa Fair at Mason City last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schulte and Mr. and Mrs. John Blau autoed to Buffalo Center last Saturday to spend a few days with friends and relatives at that place.

Will Foughty and W. P. Aldinger were callers at Kanawha last Sunday.

George Christenson, of Manly was calling on friends in town the last of the week.

Miss Nettie Benson, of Belmond spent several days last week at the Will Foughty home.

B. K. Kinseth, of Belmond was a business caller in town one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hall and children have been visiting relatives at Braham, Minnesota.

Miss Zana DeMaris, of Minneapolis, Minnesota is visiting at the Will Foughty home.

Mrs. George Messelheiser, of Long Beach, California, has been visiting at the George Dunn home the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Pals are the happy parents of a fine baby girl, born last Wednesday, August 17th.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens were business callers at Belmond Friday.

Miss Alice Peters was a Hampton caller one day last week.

Henry Peters and family were visitors at Mason City last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arends and children were visitors at Belmond Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stoffer and children visited at the Carl Greenfield home near Belmond Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen visited with friends at Kanawha last Sunday.

John and Arthur Peters left last Sunday for Big Lake, Minnesota, where they will spend a few days fishing.

J. C. Arends and family visited with relatives at Austinville last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohlen and two daughters were callers in Belmond last Saturday.

Fred Greenfield was a Belmond caller last Wednesday afternoon.

George Modderman was a caller in Latimer last Saturday.

Mrs. Ellen Peck returned home after a two weeks' visit with relatives at different points in Illinois.

Little Georgia Peters underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils at the Belmond hospital last Saturday.

Mrs. Ruth Schenebly, of Beeman, is a guest of her mother, Mrs. Butler this week.

Rev. M. O. Insko, of Lucknow, India, preached at the Methodist church last Sunday. His message was of interest to all who heard him. Mr. Insko has just returned to America after five years of missionary work in India.

ROWAN DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page three)

out with well filled baskets for a big time as all kinds of sports are planned for the day. Keep the date in mind and all come.

The Rowan Congregational Church Notices for Week Ending August 28th

Sunday Morning Service, 11 a. m.

Sunday School, 12:00 a. m.

Union Services Sunday Evening at 8:00 p. m. Rev. Tmpkinson will deliver the sermon at the Rowan Congregational church. Be sure and hear him.

The Junior Christian Endeavors will meet on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. The Mid-week Meeting at the church at 8:00 p. m. "Let Us Come Together."

There will be a musical program given at the Rowan Congrgegational church the 30th of August. This musical program will be given by the pupils of our music teacher, Miss Charter. This is worth your time, so set this evening aside for this good treat. There will be a silver offering.

The Senior Christian Endeavors will meet next Sunday morning at 7:30 a. m. Leader, Miss Mildred Duffy. This will be the last meeting of the society during this summer in the mornings, so everybody turn out early and attend. The first Sunday in September we will meet at 7:00 p. m. in the evening. Let us go Sunday morning.

Be sure and hear Rev. Tompkinson, and Rev. Nye, at the Rowan Congregational church Sunday, August 28th. Come—bring your friends, as there will be good music, and an address that will fit the occasion and the needs of the present day.

Next Sunday morning, August 28 the Rev. Nye will give an address on "Thrones" at the 11:00 a. m. service. He will take up the Crowns that have been de-throned, and their causes, also on "The Everlasting Throne."

Be there Sunday morning, and bring your friends.

The Rev. H. Tompkinson will speak in the Methodist church next Sunday morning on the striking subject, "What Is the Matter With Most of us." He thinks he knows—maybe he does, and it may be that he doesn't. Come and hear what he has to say. There was a large congregation present last Sunday morning, and everyone heard a helpful message. At the union service in the evening Rev. Nye, of the Congregational church, gave an address on "Taking Christ Out of the Bible." Special music was rendered by the choir.

